

Not state's responsibility but...

Governor signs 'Festival' bill

by Darlene Himmelpach

A bill providing for partial state funding of a cultural arts center in Federal Way was signed Thursday by Governor Dixy Lee Ray.

Ray also made it clear she doesn't believe "it should be the state's responsibility to finance local capital projects of any kind" and indicated she would not sign any more such bills.

In a cover letter to the House of Representatives, Ray noted that the Federal Way site was selected after a study of alternative sites because it would be accessible to the "maximum number" of state residents and tourists.

Other areas that have sought state seed money for cultural arts facilities include Lynnwood, Tacoma, the Tri-Cities and Olympia.

The $5 million state bond authorized by the bill will be used as matching money for $15 million being sought from the federal government to build the "Festival in the Forest" theater on 30 acres of Weyerhaeuser donated land near Panther Lake.

Although exuberant about getting the bill signed after a grueling campaign through two legislative sessions, local legislators expressed surprise at the cover letter. "I've never seen anything like this," Frank Warnke, D. Auburn, said.

Warnke, the chief sponsor of the bill in both the 1977 session and the current one, agreed with others who read the letter that it was an apparent "thumbs down" on state help for other cultural sites.

The sale of state bonds to finance the Federal Way site is dependent on federal approval of the $15 million grant. Congressman Norm Dicks, 6th District Democrat, has predicted that the money will eventually be approved although perhaps not in the current session of Congress.

The land was donated by the Weyerhaeuser Company as part of an open space dedication which was a condition of county approval of the West Campus plat.

In her letter to the legislators,

Ray said she understands that the increased state revenue the festival site is expected to generate through the Wagnerian Festival and other possible events "will provide an additional increment of state revenue sufficient to retire the bond debt."

John Kosko

Memorial Day:

World wars spark Kosko's Navy days

by Ann Hagen

When young John Kosko was just a skinny teenager back in the days of World War I, he used to hound the New York Navy recruiting office hoping for a chance to enlist.

"When I tried to get in, they'd say, 'go home and eat some bananas, you're too skinny,'" said Kosko, now 80 and chuckling over the still bright memories. "I had so many bananas. I've never liked them since."

But, they couldn't keep him out forever. When he hit his 17th birthday, "I had to lie a little," they signed him up and his next 30 years were spent in the Navy.

"My dad, a top-notch electrician for Ford Motors wanted me to be like him, but I always wanted to join the Navy. I don't know why."

John, who has since settled in Federal Way with his wife of 55 years spent most of his hitch as a recruiter. Sent to Minneapolis, Chicago, Cincinnati and Seattle, he took raw recruits and instructed them on Navy ways. "I never lied to them, not ever," said Kosko still wiry and spry. "I told them what to expect so they could help themselves. I helped them out all I could even though I didn't have to. I got so many letters from them appreciating what I did."

"If they didn't want to do it, they might as well not come in," he added in regard to the regimented military life. "It's no life for a quitter."

ON ONE OF HIS TOURS to Seattle, he met his wife-to-be, Elsie who was only 15 at the time. It was love at first sight and he married her. "How was I to know she was so young," said Kosko. The marriage was annulled by her mother but they remarried when she turned 18 and say they've never been sorry.

She traveled with him every chance she got, she said, and they had a glorious time on the Hawaiian Islands long before it became a popular tourist attraction. They have not been back since 1927 and have heard that it's "changed tremendously."

Honored for their years together, the couple is proud of their three congratulatory notes, each signed by a U.S. president and his wife. Framed together on the wall, they are signed by presidents Richard Nixon, Jimmy Carter and Rosalyn and Gerald Ford and Betty.

Kosko is also proud of a World War II commendation he received in 1947 from "the toughest admiral you'll ever see." Presented to him as a Chief Warrant Officer on his retirement, the admiral's personal note on the back refers to Kosko's duties as personnel officer at a California training school. "I don't know how you ever lived through it without going crazy."

Many of his "boys" aboard the ship USS New Mexico remembered him at the ship's 25th anniversary. They sent him an ashtray and lighter engraved with his name. Boldly stamped in the metal, it reads "USS New Mexico, 1918, May 20, 1943. Kosko was on the ship several times during his 30-year tour of duty."

After retiring in Seattle, Kosko became a security guard for the Bank of California. He and Elsie picked out a small cabin, one of 50 that circled Mirror Lake and made regular trips back and forth until he retired. They lived there for 24 years before moving to their mobile home park on 318th and 21st Avenue South eight years ago.

"When we first moved here, the deer used to run back and forth across the street," said Kosko. "There was a feed store where Rainier Bank is and Lundstrom's grocery store and a tavern. I used to know everybody in Federal Way and knew the area like a book. But, it's too big now."

Though the years have taken their toll and the couple do not move quite as fast as they once did, they still pack rocks to decorate their yard and Kosko wiles away the hours with crossword puzzles.

Satisfied with his life, Kosko said he's in Federal Way to stay. "I still have a lot of friends here."

Carpooling woes

Conserve? It's not that easy

by Nathalie Weber

As gas supplies evaporate, the voices that usually tell the public what to do in the face of a crisis are advising us to conserve. Ride

Metro. Carpool. Whatever you do, don't drive one to a car.

The Kliskeys agree, but for them the solution isn't that easy. They don't want to drive the car to and from work five days a week. They wouldn't mind taking Metro and they wouldn't mind carpooling. But they can't find a solution.

For George Kliskey, obtaining enough gas to drive the 20-mile round-trip jaunt from Federal Way to Kent every weekday has become a headache he'd rather live without. Last week alone, he waited in a gas line with his fuel gauge on empty only to see the "no gas" sign go up before he reached the pump.

He sought out another station, traveling mostly on fumes, and was fortunate enough to find an "acquaintance" servicing one station. He got gas right away, but that is a situation he doesn't want to repeat.

"The way the situation is now, you have to start looking for gas when you have a half tank left," George said. "I'd rather just take the bus."

BUT IN THE area around the Kliskey's Buena home, Metro buses are scarce. George, an aircraft engineer, said he wouldn't mind driving to South 320th Street and catching a bus heading north, but to reach his destination at the Kent Space Center, he would have to take three buses, a trek that would take more than an hour one way.

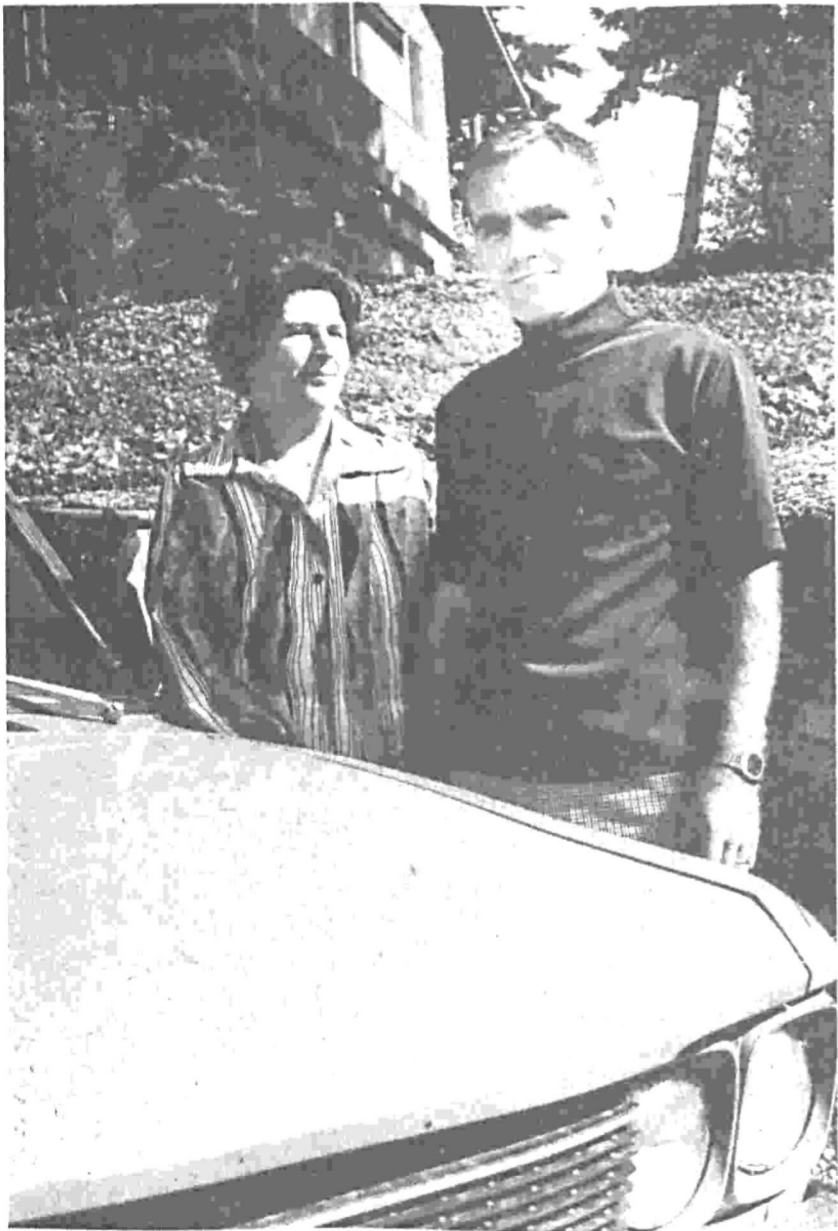

His next thought was to ride his bike to South 320th, take Metro to the Kent Park and Ride lot and ride his bike to the space center. "But there's no provisions for a 10-speed on a bus," George explained.

So the alternative is to carpool, but the Kliskeys don't know how to reach someone in the Federal Way area who works in the Kent area about the same hours as George and who's interested in pooling rides.

"I WAS CARPOOLING with a guy down the street but he transferred jobs a month ago," George said. Since then, he and his wife tried to find new driving partners, but with no success.

"Most of the people I know down there start work at 7:30 (a.m.)," he continued. "I start at 7 because in my type of work I need to be there to service planes that went down during the night...But I guess if things really get bad I'll have to look into getting my schedule changed."

To assist area residents with similar carpooling problems, the NEWS is initiating a public service wherein carpooling requests will be published each edition in the classified section of this newspaper. To use this service, see the coupon on A4.

GEORGE AND JUDY Kliskey are all for conserving gas, but they're having difficulties finding a way for George to get to his job in Kent without driving one to a car. Metro routes are not feasible and carpooling partners are scarce, but the couple hasn't given up looking for a solution.

Halloween comes early to Decatur High

Halloween came to the Decatur High School campus early Tuesday morning, arriving several months ahead of time in what King County Police believe was a pre-graduation prank.

An officer's report says that a band of kids sneaked onto the forested campus armed with soap, wax, toilet paper and about 50 or 60 "for sale" signs that may have been filched off surrounding houses.

The kids soaped "nearly all" the windows at the high school and covered just about everything with toilet paper, the report said.

They also placed the "for sale" signs in flower beds and at other sites around the campus.

School officials, not amused, estimated the cost of cleaning up the campus at $500.

Troopers aiming at boozers, speeders

A crackdown on drunken drivers and speeders began Friday evening and will continue throughout the Memorial Day holiday, Washington State Patrol sources said.

The patrol has bolstered its ranks by some 20 percent, a spokesman said, using troopers who are normally assigned to office and investigative duties. The extra personnel will put about 20 more patrol cars on the state highways and the interstate routes.

"We're going to emphasize getting the drunks off the road and stopping the speeders," the spokesman said. "We don't want to have another weekend like we had last year."

During the 1978 Memorial Day weekend, 20 motorists were killed on Washington highways in some 400 accidents.

"Analysis of those accidents," the spokesman said, "showed that excessive speed or alcohol were involved in half of them."

While the troopers were predicting that the gasoline shortage would reduce the number of motorists driving long distances, they believed that the highways would still be crowded with persons driving to local parks and picnic areas.

Good weather, they said, would also help hold down the accident total.

They just blew the last one. They look good, though. They've got the manpower, what it takes for a good team. And they have Freddy Brown.

Mark Morton

I think the boys will do it. If they wake up and play the way they did the last part of the first game, they should do all right. But it's a game. The breaks could go either way. I was a coach for many years, and when something went wrong, everybody said, "What the hell's the matter with you?"

Mack McLinton

I think they're gonna win. I think in six. They're a good ballclub. It's a five-man effort, they don't rely on a superstar.

Ron Schrift

They're gonna go all the way, because they're the best there is. They work the best as a team. There's no standout trying to take over the show. I think that's what's gonna take them through.

Jeanne Sweeney

Every once in awhile we give the television set a chance to prove that it should be a part of our lives. We turn the set on for a period of time and to be fair and to make the test a valid one, we give it our undivided attention.

Recently, the set has enjoyed some security. The Sonic's Suspense Theater, now assured of even a longer run, has been the reason. Had Howard Cosell been featured, the television set would not have been so secure.

Even so, the tube may not pass future tests. Not because of the programming, but because of the commercials.

Advertising commercials do not depict the real world, or even one that might be nice to visit.

In this world toilet paper does not talk.

Little men do not live in sinks, or in toilet tanks and big men do not dress up to look like fruit and then dance around a grandmother who sits in a rocking chair holding a pair of men's shorts.

In my world no one asks me to eat or cook anything that talks to me. Years ago I gave up a cereal because it snapped, crackled and popped.

Dogs and cats who dance, talk and sing in commercials worry me. Isn't it enough that the government and my creditors make demands on my purse? I have violent feelings to overcome when an animal insists on food by its brand name.

Television shows may come and go. If I want to watch I will, or I can apply pressure to the off button. But I feel trapped by crummy commercials that butt right in, there in the middle of a show I am watching. Butt right in, I say, but don't make me throw up.

I hate those questions put to wives regarding their husband's tastes. "Do you like stuffing or potatoes, honey? Yuck.

Or, "My husband never notices the laundry," and you know the woman is a fake. Of course the guy wants clean sox.

Just about the time I figure Mrs. Olson had everybody making good coffee, Dr. Welby comes along with his decaffeinated version of "good coffee."

After that ring around the collar commercial the television set was off for two weeks. I don't want stuff like that coming into my house.

Men wearing white suits or gold lame tights and hard hats are not your everyday run-of-the-mill neighbors, or local businessmen. But you see those two prancing about on the screen, like real people, selling their wares.

I don't think that I would let a man into my house who was dressed in gold lame tights and a hard hat no matter how many flowers he was bringing me.

As for the man in the white suit, well, he is far too pushy and apparently has a pass key to every house. My husband wouldn't tolerate him.

Many commercials use talking products to carry their message. Personally, I would faint if any of the items in my shopping cart began talking to me. Super market shopping is serious business.

Granted, there are a few commercials that simply state their message, describing their product, with some urging to buy as they inform. But even some of those have unrealistic twists. A handsome man talks about insurance. He is calm, assured and convincing. But all the while he is wearing his son's fireman's hat.

Energy crisis information is really serious. A mature man speaks out from behind the glass of your television set. He tells you about the crisis. He has convinced you of your need to conserve. He ends it all with a magical swish of his hand and there, before your very eyes, his outstretched hand contains a palm full of burning gas. If he can do that, why can't he put gas in my tank?

Will the Seattle Supersonics defeat the Bullets for the NBA title?

Allen Mitchell

I think they'll pull it out four to three. I think they've got the best all-around ballclub. They've got enough depth to pull them through.

Tony Richison

I think they'll win. It's tough to win two games in a row. The refs hurt them in the first game, which goes to show they don't know their job. I think it will go down to the wire.

Ron Goodrich

They're going all the way. They'll win the next four straight. They're just the superior ballclub - better balance, good defense. If the refs don't take it away, they've got it.

Jim Carlton

I think they'll have to be a little lucky. But I think they've got as much chance as anyone. They had one unlucky break in the first game.

Under the Capitol Dome

by Robert C. Cummings

Before the Legislature became deadlocked over the budget, it extended the Governor's emergency power to ration energy sources.

The authority was granted two years ago, to expire on June 30, next year. It has been extended another year to June 30, 1981.

The fact that the law had another full year to go without an extension is a clear indication that the lawmakers don't consider the new gasoline shortage a temporary situation.

But Gov. Dixy Lee Ray doesn't plan to use her authority in this area unless a panic situation develops.

And her advisors don't foresee such a development in the immediate future.

In fact, her new Director of Energy, Jack Wood, says service stations throughout the state are "doing a tremendous job" of allocating supplies.

It is feared mandatory action on the part of the state would only make things worse.

Some administration officials will tell you privately that they suspect imposition of mandatory controls helped create the present crisis in California.

Some Relief in Sight
Of equal importance to property owners, legislative action also was completed on some tax relief legislation before the stalemate became critical.

A measure extending the 106 percent levy lid to levies collected by the state and school districts finally passed the Senate after passing the House a second time last March 21.

It had reposed in the Senate Ways and Means Committee for weeks, because its prime sponsor, Republican Ellen Craswell of Silverdale, is in the same legislative district as Gordon Walgren, Bremerton Democrat and the Senate majority leader.

Pride of Authorship?
When Walgren let it be known he didn't object, the bill was reported out "do pass," and was in Rules Committee only a few days before it appeared on the calendar.

Before acting on the measure, however, the Senate approved an amendment, originally sponsored by Walgren and Ways and Means Chairman Hubert Donohue, which stripped everything after the enacting clause.

But the new wordage didn't change the purpose of the bill, so the House tossed pride of authorship aside and concurred, sending the measure on its way to the Governor.

Some Still Waiting
A measure increasing inheritance tax exemptions, including a $100,000 exemption for a surviving spouse, also has passed both houses.

But some amendments were adopted in the House, so the measure had to be sent back to the Senate, the house of origin, which was on one of its 72-hour recesses at the time.

Also awaiting action was a proposed constitutional amendment which had been on the Senate calendar since last Feb. 23.

It would permit additional property tax relief for the elderly and needy, but couldn't pass either house in its present form because some feared it would provide for a "negative income tax."

Solidarity Forever?
Meanwhile, the deadlock over the multi-billion-dollar budget has created the greatest display of political party solidarity that even the oldest old timer has ever seen.

Interparty squabbles have been common on both sides of the aisle as long as anybody can remember. But as this was being written, neither side had shown any sign of yielding.

Such a display of party loyalty, though great for the cause of unity, hasn't done much for the image of the Legislature, however.

The Last Word
Apparently it hasn't occurred to the leadership on either side to wonder what the public thinks of all this.

The independent voters are who decide the outcome of elections in this state, and they won't be heard from until a year from next November.

There may be an inkling in the coming elections this fall, however, when a couple of proposed constitutional amendments will be on the ballot.

Marathons on the Line
One of these proposals calls for annual legislative sessions, with 105-day sessions in the odd-numbered years, 60 days in the even-numbered, and a 30-day limit on special sessions.

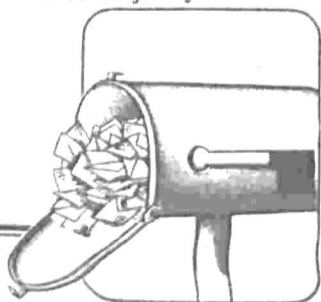

If the lawmakers had completed their work in 105 days this year, that 30-day limit on special sessions might have been alluring.

But the way things have turned out, the voters may well ask themselves if they want to go through this sort of thing every two years from now on.

Their answer may at least give a hint of what they think of the Legislature's actions—or lack of it—since last Jan. 8.

New trail a blessing

Editor:
After the rope was cut for the new interurban trail from Tukwila to Auburn last Saturday (May 19) we bicyclers tested and found it to be the beautiful, traffic-free route we had hoped for. It follows the old interurban track through the valley and hopefully will be extended in the near future...

designed with senior bicyclers like me in mind, but there are lots of us who also can now enjoy this peaceful, wide green expanse, mountain view ride. Thanks to the King County Recreation Department, Forward Thrust and the God who intended all this beauty to be preserved and enjoyed!

Sincerely yours,

The Gay Blade

by Henry Gay

There is currently a shortage of cheap gasoline, a shortage created by the oil companies. There will be no shortage of expensive gasoline when the oil companies, through the twin instruments of decontrol and fear, have hoisted the price to the maximum they consider traffic will bear.

All the rest - President Carter's preaching and scolding, Congressional press-release bravado, and the self-serving protestations of innocence by oil company spokesmen - is rhetoric designed to obscure the simple truth. The oil companies control the supply, the White House, the Congress and the distribution system. In a society where citizens will abandon their children before their wheels, there is no need to further describe the demand.

The oil companies want more money for their product. When they have squeezed every last cent of profit out of every last drop of oil in the earth, they will be satisfied that they have done their job.

They do have a problem, however, a problem they share with the kept officeholders of Washington, D.C. Both must accurately determine the tolerance level of consumers for this game of monopoly they are playing. One cent over the line, they realize, may cause citizens to throw out the rascals and elect candidates whose lone issue is nationalization of the oil companies.

If the reaction of the sheep to the shearing they took five years ago is any indication, the tolerance level is somewhere in the stratosphere.

Dragon in drama

Can a poetry-reading dragon and a town full of nervous people find happiness together? Of course they can in the comical presentation of the "Reluctant Dragon" soon on stage at Nautilus Elementary.

Eleven kindergartners with the help of ambitious moms who worked backstage with costuming, props and make-up brought the play to life during dress rehearsal recently. Occasionally stiffling giggles when the giant dragon stuffed with balloons whipped his tail through the scenery, they never muffed a line.

The older kids, fourth through sixth-graders, had their chance to shine when they presented a three-part oriental comedy. With lines like "A fool and his money now-a-days get invited just about everywhere" and "A Rose by any other name would probably not be recognized," how could they miss.

The students are involved in a PTA sponsored school end fun night designed to introduce youngsters to the arts. Organizer Karen McElroy, PTA vice president said she and Patty Boydston recently visited a Seattle Junior League Arts and Education forum that suggested programs that would promote "getting arts into the school and more community involvement."

The program, presented on June 1 will be combined with a dinner, art show and raffle supported by local businessmen. "We're hoping it's something that will be continued every year," said Ms. McElroy.

In addition, the play will be presented to residents at Wesley Gardens and possibly at Wesley Terrace in Des Moines. "They (the residents) are pretty excited about it," said Ms. McElroy. "They're planning to have a party and everything. They like to have the kids come by."

Volunteers McElroy and Boydston directed the oriental comedy and Liz Jacobson and Nancy Nyce worked with the "Reluctant Dragon."

The scenery, designed for a quick switch on two sheets strung over wire hung across the back of the stage was taken care of by Julie Stohl and Kelly Zembruski.

United back to the skies

United Airlines will resume flights out of Seattle-Tacoma International Airport and other airports across the country tomorrow morning following the ratification Wednesday of a new contract with the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers.

The first United flight out of Sea-Tac since the IAMAW went on strike April 1 will be to Portland shortly after 6 a.m., a spokesman for the airline said.

"There will be a whole bank of flights between 6 and 7 a.m." as limited service resumes, the spokesman said.

The airline expects to return to full service within 10 days, he added.

By a 3-1 margin nationwide, the union members voted to accept the contract agreed to tentatively last weekend and to return to their jobs after spending 55 days on strike.

Voting among local union members was similar to the trend in the rest of the country, according to a union spokesman.

Sealey attends conference

Boost of confidence in schools sought

by Brad Broberg

Good news is often no news and bad news is always big news.

Consequently, confidence in the nation's public schools is eroding.

That was one of the theories advanced at a recent Washington D.C. conference on education attended by Highline Superintendent Robert Sealey as well as Seattle Superintendent David Moberly and the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Frank Brouillette.

They were among 250 representatives of education, industry and parent groups invited by Ernest Boyer, education commissioner in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, to a nationwide conference on "Restoring Confidence in American Education."

BACK in his Highline office, Sealey recalled what a Detroit student had to say about public opinion.

She said, "The national attitude is a product of mass media. And mass media is playing up the problems because they make the news."

Sealey said a national pollster told the conference that the best source of school news is the students themselves.

But he also said three out of every four American families do not have any children in school and this vast majority has a lower opinion of the educational system than those people who do have children in school.

"The greatest confidence in the schools comes from those who have a direct contact with the schools—the parents. We need to get more people involved directly in the schools rather than by hearsay," Sealey said.

"They (non-student parents) don't have direct first-hand information about what's going on. The vast majority of people get their information elsewhere.

"What kind of information do they get from the mass media? Information is often coming to them in a negative light."

THE NOTION that increased awareness would result in greater confidence was fostered by a poll ranking school employees according to the public's perception of their job effectiveness.

Labor leader Dave Beck will speak at Green River Community College on June 5 at 8 p.m. The event is free to the public.

Beck is being hosted by GRCC's history and transportation departments. Dr. Nigel Adams, history instructor at the college, said Beck will speak on the subject of "regulation versus deregulation of the transportation industry."

Adams said "Beck is an important man in the history of our nation. It was through his diligence that the transportation industry became regulated," he explained. "As a result of the current proposals to deregulate the industry, he should have some very interesting comments to make on the subject."

The history instructor said that Beck was responsible, back in the early 30's, for perceiving that the problems of labor and management were a national concern, rather than a local one, and he was able to lead labor into a new era.

"Not always in peace and harmony, though," Adams added.

He said Beck should be looked upon as a prominent, Northwest historical figure.

"We are not looking at his personal life (Beck served time in prison for income tax evasion), but rather we're interested in his contributions, as a public figure, to the good of the economy and the history of the U.S.," Adams said.

Teachers may train at Montessori school

Two teacher-training courses in the Montessori Method of Education will be offered at Spring Valley School, 36605 Pacific Highway S. beginning in September and concluding in May.

The courses are offered in conjunction with the University of Puget Sound and Montessori Training and Developmental Center of Tacoma.

Each course when successfully completed will result in three units or 15 quarter hours graduate credit and a Montessori Diploma.

A class which will meet each Tuesday and Wednesday from 6 to 9 p.m. will deal primarily with teaching children age two and one-half through 7 years. Lectures and workshops will be conducted by Mrs. George Justus, director of Spring Valley School.

Classes held every second and fourth Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. will focus on teaching children age 6 through 12. It will supply ideas and skills and demonstrate techniques for building a Montessori Curriculum. It will be taught by Mrs. Justus, Mrs. Anne Johnson and Mrs. Pamela Robinson.

Purpose of both courses is to acquaint teachers with the materials, techniques and the philosophy that comprise the Montessori Method of Education.

Group to study Boeing HQ sewer

by Carolyn Logan

Des Moines Sewer District commissioners on Wednesday briefly discussed a Port of Seattle proposal for the district to serve Boeing headquarters, planned for west of Sea-Tac Airport.

Then they referred the question of who should serve Boeing to a joint group, to include representatives of the district, the Port and Southwest Suburban Sewer District (SSSD). The SSSD manager, along with the Des Moines manager, had proposed to the Port on May 1 that SSSD serve the site.

The question of sewer service assumes greater importance because sewers would also serve a 14.2-acre general-aviation site (including 2.3 acres for a proposed Weyerhaeuser aircraft hangar), immediately south of the 30-acre Boeing site. A zoning examiner recommendation on the reclassifications sought for Boeing is pending; the Port has leased the 2.3 acres to Weyerhaeuser.

On May 11, Richard Petit, Port assistant chief engineer, wrote SSSD that:

"WE HAVE further investigated this proposal with input from our Real Estate Department. The Port intends to develop the area between the proposed Weyerhaeuser and Boeing sites ... As with Weyerhaeuser and Boeing, we will be committed to provide utilities for the future sites. As you can see, the Port's proposed line will serve not only Boeing, but the GA-CA (general aviation - corporate aviation) sites, Weyerhaeuser, and additional developments to the south as well.

It would also be necessary to construct a major portion of the line, north of Weyerhaeuser, even if we consented to your proposed Developer Extension Plan.

"We therefore feel that it will be most cost effective to serve the proposed Boeing site from the south as our proposed alignment indicates."

That alignment means a route along 16th Avenue South, jogging around the Port's Industrial Waste Treatment Plant, then parallel to the proposed Taxiway C extension to the eastern (air-port side) boundary of the Boeing and general-aviation sites.

Connecting to Des Moines lines at South 188th South would mean running a line under the street, financed by the Port, according to Bill Beattie, Des Moines Sewer District manager.

By contrast, the suggested SSSD line's access point would be on South 166th Place.

The dividing line between the two districts is at South 188th Street.

The Boeing-Port side of any arrangement would pay for sewer lines on Port property, Beattie said.

TREATMENT PLANTS and trunk lines enter into the question.

Carol Berwald, a Westside Hilltop leader, told commissioners that the original Sea-Tac Communities Plan envisioned Westside development being served by SSSD, thus encouraging SSSD to make facilities to accommodate that use. "Lines were built to support this; they put a lot of money into it," she said.

John O. Mutton, a Westsider, added, "If Southwest took it, more people could be served by it." It's more feasible to serve a greater number of people than one or two, like Boeing." Some of the Westside lacks sewers.

Des Moines Sewer District will expand its 1200 S. 216th St. treatment plant at a cost of about $10 million, with financing borne 75 percent by the federal government, 15 percent by the state government and 10 percent by customers, according to Beattie. "It might necessitate an increase in rates; it depends on how new construction (revenue) takes up the slack," he said.

Adding about four million gallons daily capacity to a current capacity of slightly over two million gallons daily should accommodate projected growth for the next 10-15 years, according to Beattie. He expects the expansion to be completed in about two years.

If the Boeing plan proceeds, Boeing would generate about 2,700 gallons of sewage daily into the Des Moines line, according to the Environmental Impact Statement, released in March 1978.

STICK 'EM UP! Lillian Holmes of Seattle was only one of dozens of visitors who participated in the carnival at Homewood Terrace, 30030 38th Ave. S., last weekend, a day of fun organized by the housing cooperative to bring its residents and friends together and to emphasize the need for safety to the children participating. The day also included a poster contest with a safety theme for the children, potluck dinner and a street dance. Bike safety checks also were given to those interested as young and old alike joined in the festivities.

Valley View shows art

An arts and crafts fair sponsored by the Valley View P.T.S.A. will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. tomorrow in the Valley View Elementary School. Items for sale will include tote painting, stained glass, wood carving, jewelry, photography and white elephants.

Seminar wages war on shoplifters

Neighborhood May Watch program is sponsoring a shoplifting seminar on May 30 at the SeaTac Six Theatres in the mall.

Co-sponsored by the Federal Way Chamber of Commerce and the King County Police, third precinct, the seminar is open to all Federal Way retailers and their employees.

There will be a sign-up sheet at the entrance. The seminar will cover shoplifting prevention methods, how to detail a suspect and the legal rights of management and personnel.

Shaun Wilcox,

watch program volunteer coordinator is organizing the seminar. She said she hopes to have an exchange to present shoplifting techniques. Already signed up to speak are Chuck Winters, head of the Crime Prevention Unit from the King County Police, third precinct; and Phil Shave, crime prevention specialist from the attorney general's office in Seattle.

The seminar will be presented from 10 to 11:30 a.m. and again from 1:30 to 3 p.m. A question and answer period will follow.

For information, call 941-4500.

Unity has new children's class

Reverend Richard C. Everts, pastor of Unity Church of Christianity, 17874 Des Moines Way S. (located at the Highline YMCA), announces a new Sunday School Youth program, to be held at 11 a.m. on Sundays, for all ages from toddlers to teens.

The program has been developed to help a child discover the beautiful person he or she was created to be, focusing on the teachings of Jesus Christ and how they are applied in today's family, school and social environments. Unity is a nondenominational and welcomes all children to be a part of today's expanding awareness of themselves.

Everts said "Unity teaches that every person has within him that divine potential for good and perfection which is forever seeking to express in all our thoughts and activities. Through a positive orientation toward life and an understanding of one's inner potential, the children learn to respond successfully to the many challenges of today."

For further information please call the church office 243-6510.

Health Fair focuses on physical fitness

Just about everything there is to know regarding physical fitness and a healthy body will be on display May 31 through June 2 at SeaTac Mall shopping center.

There will be 32 exhibits manned by members of country-wide health organizations. Activities planned for the Health Fair range from dental screenings for children to blood pressure checks.

The Federal Way High School gymnasts will perform in addition to demonstrations of muscle testing and balancing by Washington Touch for Health.

The health agencies, located in booths throughout the mall, will provide reading materials, speakers, slide shows and movies.

The Multi-Service Center in conjunction with the shopping center is sponsoring the annual fair.

Evangelist at church

Evangelist Johnny Larring and his family, the Johnny Larring Team, will be singing and ministering at 10:45 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday in the Angle Lake Neighborhood Church.

The public is invited to attend.

Center to have classes

The Highline-West Seattle Mental Health Center is offering two classes.

A course on stress management will introduce relaxation techniques and stress facts. It will be held at 3 p.m. Wednesdays May 30 through June 27 in the center. There is a $25 fee.

Assertive training for women will be at 6:30 p.m. Thursdays June 7 to 28 in the center.

Additional information on registration is available through the center.

Apply for PAC membership

The Zone 3 Steering Committee, a group of airport area residents, has established criteria for selecting representatives to serve on the Sea-Tac Airport Policy Advisory Committee (PAC).

PAC is a committee of officials and citizens who advise King County and the Port of Seattle on implementation of the Sea-Tac Communities Plan.

PAC members voted this spring to allow the Zone 3 group one seat on the committee, but Zone 3 is expected to ask for one more.

Therefore, Zone 3 leaders are asking for applications from residents to fill two seats on PAC, one representative from the area directly south of the airport, and one from the area north.

The criteria for selecting representatives follow:

Applicants should live in Zone 3, defined as the area bounded by the Seattle city limits on the north, South 250th Street on the south, 32nd Avenue South on the east, and Eighth Avenue South on the west.

Applicants should have a working knowledge of the Sea-Tac Communities Plan.

Representatives are expected to attend quarterly meetings from 2 - 5 p.m. on the first Tuesday of the month for a two-year period.

Representatives should be willing to acquire a working knowledge of port and county procedures.

Persons interested in applying for positions should by June 30 send their name, address and phone number to: Zone 3, P.O. Box 98046, Des Moines, Wa., 98188. Applicants should write down why they are interested in serving on PAC, and how long they have lived in Zone 3.

Applicants will be expected to meet with a Zone 3 committee for a personal interview.

The Modern Mom

by Betty Woolley

Offsprings eternal

1979 has been designated the "Year Of The Child." What's new and different about that? Every mother worth her weight in baby aspirin knows that every year is the year of the child. Children are the uncrowned rulers of the world.

To begin with, it makes no difference what date your doctor specifies as the proposed birthdate of a child, or what date you secretly believe the event will occur. This is inconsequential. That child will arrive when he gets darn good and ready. It's his decision, not yours or the doctors.

From the point of birth on, you know that the child is in charge. He decides whether or not he wants to be housebroken and when. He informs you of his food likes and dislikes as he spews pureed peas all over your face and dumps his cream of wheat on the cat.

Talking is an arbitrary decision. A child will give you comprehending looks that bear promise of an ability to recite the alphabet backwards and translate it into French, but all the time he refuses to utter one single word. His motor and mental responses are good; it's just that he has not yet decided to waste his time talking to you.

Then there's the child who declines to walk. He sits in the middle of the floor working jig saw puzzles which have been turned upside down so there are no pictures or patterns to follow, and you know he is an intelligent, thinking piece of humanity. However, he refuses to stand up and put one foot in front of the other. And why? After orthopedic examinations, neurological tests and a battery of x-rays you reach the obvious conclusion. The kid doesn't want to walk. He happens to be lazy.

A child who refuses to learn to swim, though he has been enrolled by his mother in every aquatic course from "Wee Water Babies" to the "Sixth Grade Splashers," and whom she has bribed, beaten and begged to participate, is the same child who, one day, dives off the roof of the boat house into 30 feet of water and can't understand why his mother fainted at the sight. To him it was a logical move, for it was at that particular moment that he decided he wanted to swim.

After suffering through the agonies of teaching a teenager to drive the car, a parent is rewarded by having his immaculate, polished, vacuumed automobile turned into a dented, dusty vehicle decorated with empty coke bottles, crushed potato chips and dirty gym socks. Not until the young man decides his current date is worth the effort, will that car be restored to its original condition.

A college diploma, earned at great expense to the parent, is tossed casually into a dresser drawer, while the young man goes about getting a job bartending or frying onion rings at the local fast food stand. Only at some dim point in future time, known only to the youth, will his educational accumulation be put to an appropriate use.

"Won't you ever grow up?" I once asked a child, with considerable desperation in my voice.

"Were you never a child?" he quizzed in reply. "Were you born an adult - full grown?" That stopped me. As one whale said to the other, "It's only when you're spouting that you get harpooned."

The Sum Also Rises.

If you're totally in the dark when it comes to saving, United States Savings Bonds can help you see the light.

Just join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. That way a small part of each paycheck will be set aside, automatically, to buy Bonds.

Then one fine morning you'll wake up to find that not only do those Bonds add up, but that the sum also rises.

At the rate of 6% when held to maturity of five years (4 1/2% the first year).

And that, to sum up, is a great way to save for anything. From a college education to a special vacation.

So buy United States Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.

You'll be surprised how bright your future looks, with that sum always rising.

* Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Waskowitz work party forming

Volunteers are needed at Camp Waskowitz, the Highline School District's 360-acre outdoor facility near North Bend, for a work party involving a variety of outdoor maintenance projects.

Rain or shine, the work party will be held from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday, June 2, according to Walt Carsten, chairman of the school district committee which supervises the camp.

Volunteers are asked to bring their own lunches and tools. Paint brushes will be needed for painting trim on several buildings. Other projects include trail and campsite improvement, completing a wood shed, replacing a bell stand, trimming limbs and laying shakes.

Hammers, shovels, small chain saws and gunny sacks are among items needed to do the work.

Supervising the work party will be Carsten; Bill Weppler, Camp Waskowitz site director; Rick Sullivan, director of the Highline School District's outdoor education program; and members of the Camp Waskowitz Program Evaluation Committee.

"We not only want to accomplish a lot of work that day, but we want to give volunteers from the community a chance to see what a tremendous educational facility we have at Camp Waskowitz," Carsten explained.

The Highline educator said Camp Waskowitz provides the most memorable of school experiences, according to polls conducted among former students of the Highline School District.

He suggested that the June 2 work party would be a good time for "friends of Camp Waskowitz" to renew acquaintances with those who have shared the Waskowitz experience.

School district staff and former Waskowitz camp counselors were extended a special invitation by Carsten to join the work party.

To reach Camp Waskowitz, travel three miles east of North Bend on Interstate 90 and take exit 34, Edgewick Road. Turn right on Edgewick Road, then turn at the first right onto 150th Southeast. Continue on 150th Southeast to the camp.

Since 1958, Camp Waskowitz has provided sixth graders in the Highline School District a week-long outdoor education experience. The facility was acquired at no cost to the taxpayers and it is self-sustaining through volunteer labor and rental revenues from other school districts and organizations.

Post receives scholarship

Jennifer Post, a music major at Western Washington University's College of Fine and Performing Arts, has been awarded a $430 Mildred Hurd Music Scholarship.

Post, who is studying piano is the daughter of Gerald E. Post of 30638 Fourth Ave. S.

Y invites children to spend the night

The Highline YMCA will sponsor a children's overnight session the weekend of June 1.

Youngsters in kindergarten through the sixth grade are invited to the YMCA for an evening of swimming at the Mt. Rainier Pool, snacks, late night movies, and breakfast.

The overnight will begin 7 p.m. Friday, June 1 and last until 9 the next morning. The cost is $10 per child. Family rates are available.

Proceeds from the overnight will go toward National World Service Goals, serving the needy people of the 90 YMCAs in the world.

The Highline YMCA is located at 17874 Des Moines Way S. More information is available by calling 244-5880.

YMCA will teach junior high students varied outdoor skills

The Highline YMCA is offering a summer outdoors program called Trailblazers for junior high school students.

Participants will be taught outdoor cooking, camping, hiking and canoeing skills and then use those skills on overnight camping trips to Camp Long in West Seattle, Camp Miller-Sylvania near Olympia and on a tour of the Olympic Peninsula, including Kalaloch Beach and the rain forest. A special canoe trip on Lake Ozette is also planned.

In addition to overnights, the Trailblazers will participate in activities around weekly themes such as a tour of the International District in cooperation with International Awareness Week and an underground Seattle for Historical Week and exploration of a solar house during Ecology Week.

The program runs from June 18 through Aug. 31. Weekly camp fee is $30. A $4 non-refundable deposit per one-week session is required upon registration. Space cannot be guaranteed after June 1.

More information is available by calling the Highline Y at 244-5880. The Y is at 17884 Des Moines Way S.

Valley Highway signal planned

Installation of a light, which indicates traffic signal amber for traffic on the highway and red for vehicles on South Highway and South 277th Street. Pedestrian crosswalks at the intersection also will be installed, Kammenga said. Because of a procurement period for signal components, no work at the site visible to the public will be done until this fall.

Porter nominated as alternate

Robert Roy Porter was recently notified of the Congressional Alternate Nomination to the United States Air Force Academy by Senator Warren Magnuson's office in Washington, D.C.

Porter is a senior at Thomas Jefferson High School with a grade point average of 3.87. He has received all his schooling in the Federal Way District and has attended Sunnycrest Elementary, Totem Junior High School and Thomas Jefferson. He was active in Little League Baseball, Federal Way Football and Cub Scouts. Robert was picked as a delegate to Boys State the summer of 1978, is a German Aide, a member of Ski Club and German Club, has lettered in track and swimming and was captain of the Swim Team in 1978-79. He has worked every summer and is now a lifeguard at Auburn Pool. He has also participated in Washington Brittany Club, showing his own Brittany Spaniels and won the Dual Award from the club in Junior Achievement. He will enter the University of Washington in the fall.

Mears elected Vice Commander

Robert Mears, of 17612 42nd Ave. S., was elected last week as District Vice Commander of District 11 American Legion at the spring conference of the District at Auburn. He will be installed as Vice Commander at the State Convention of the American Legion on July 21 in Spokane.

SPEED READING TO BE TAUGHT IN GREATER TACOMA

Arrangements have been made for Washington Rapid Reading Centers of Seattle to conduct their famous speed reading and study technique course to a limited number of qualified people here in Greater Tacoma.

This course can train the average person to read five to ten times faster and with better comprehension, concentration, and improved retention.

The course guarantees to triple a persons reading speed or 1,000 words per minute, whichever is greater, and with better comprehension. The guarantee, however, is a bare minimum, as the average graduate will end the course in excess of 2,000 words per minute.

For those who would like more information, a series of FREE lectures have been scheduled. These one & one half hour meetings are open to the public above age 14 and the course will be explained in complete detail, including a special "one time" only introductory tuition that is less than half the cost of similar courses.

You only have to attend one of these free lectures for complete details on entrance requirements, class schedules and classroom procedures. There is no obligation to enroll by attending one of these free meetings and many valuable tips on how to improve your own reading speed at home will be given. Students, businessmen and businesswomen alike will benefit from this valuable lecture.

These free meetings will be conducted as follows: Lectures in Tacoma and Fort Lewis will be held in the V.I.P. Room of the Banbury Restaurant, at the Roweway Inn, 6802 S. Sprague (I-5 at 72nd) in Tacoma at the following time:

Tuesday, May 29 at 7:15 p.m. (sharp).
 Lectures for North Tacoma, Auburn and Puyallup will be held in the Admiral Room at Holiday Inn, 3518 Pacific Highway East, in Tacoma on Wednesday, May 30 at 7:15 p.m. (sharp)

The lecture in Central Tacoma will be held in the Evergreen Room at the Doric Tacoma Motor Hotel at 242 St. Helens in downtown Tacoma on Thursday May 31 at 7:15 p.m. (sharp).

The course requires that you attend class one night per week for just three short weeks. At the end of the course an in depth advanced homestudy course on cassette will be given each student as a reinforcement tool and will allow the student to attain his maximum ability.

The lecturer for this series of orientations will be Mr. W.D. Scott. Mr. Scott has been involved in teaching Speed Reading for the last 15 years. He has taught every major speed reading course and has lectured on many, many college and university campuses throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico. He is the author of the famous "Excella Read" method of Speed Reading. Be sure to attend one of these most informative meetings.

Grass Roots Gardening

by Ginna Koontz

The azalea color wave is now striking. Azaleas, rhododendron cousins, usually take a back seat to the bold rhodies. But like so many garden treasures, they grow on the gardener and offer some plus factors of fragrance and autumn foliage hues.

Azaleas, part of the heath family, are grown under the same conditions as rhodies. Purchase plants at least two years old and eight to 16 inches tall. It takes azaleas a couple years to recover from transplant shock. Plant in full sun or light shade but not where it is constantly windy. The soil must be porous, well drained and acidic, 5.5 to 6

pH. Azaleas grow well planted in pure peat moss, if you can afford it! To determine soil acidity have the County Extension Service run a soil test ($8.50) or measure the pH yourself using the inexpensive soil test kits sold in garden centers. They are not as accurate as a scientific run but adequate.

Set plants no deeper than they were in the nursery. Space in accordance with mature size, preferably placing at least three plants to a group. Five plants give an even more spectacular display.

Water well after planting and be sure plants get the equivalent of one inch rainfall every 10 days. Don't cultivate under shallow rooted azaleas. Apply a bark mulch to discourage weeds and maintain soil moisture.

Azaleas are classed as evergreen, deciduous and semi-evergreen. Semi-evergreen means that although hardy some evergreens shed most foliage in winter. Evergreen azalea colors range from white through pink, red, coral, salmon, brick, lavender, purple and rose. Most reach from two to three feet in height although there are some taller growing evergreen azaleas.

In the early 1960's the introduction of many Knap Hill and Exbury hybrids into the Northwest stimulated interest in all the deciduous azalea varieties. They offer an exciting color range from pure white, ivory, the yellows and oranges, pale pink to red.

There are over 100 named deciduous azalea varieties in the Pacific Northwest. Many unnamed seedlings are superior plants. The key is to purchase while in bloom to assure color choices.

Some of the most showy deciduous azaleas are among the species. It may take some browsing to find them but look for R. molle (Chinese Azalea), to six feet, upright, two- and one-half-inch yellow to golden-orange blooms in April; R. Schlippenbachii (Royal Azalea), six to eight feet high and wide, large two- to four-inch pale pink flowers in clusters, late April; R. Vaseyi, shell pink, upright irregular to 15 feet, late May.

There are some outstanding named hybrids to also look for. Home Bush, semi-double rose pink ball shaped trusses; Brazil, intense red orange; Cecile, deep pink buds open to clear salmon, the extremely large flower has a yellow flare; Gibraltar, brilliant orange, flushed red, compact; Klondyke, vivid orange and yellow bud opening deep golden tangerine; Oxydol, snowy white, yellow freckles and Strawberry Ice, luscious peach-pink.

Insect control, including the pesky root weevil that cuts fanciful notches in the leaves and chews up roots is readily controlled with Orthene. Apply strictly in accordance with label directions.

Some azalea diseases do exist but excellent soil drainage, good air circulation and garden sanitation should prevent disease. If flowers spot and wilt, stalk tips die back, leaves look scorched or leaf galls (whitish, fleshy nodules) occur immediately consult a local horticultural authority for the proper pesticide to use for each ailment.

An excursion to the UW Arboretum or Pt. Defiance Park will allow you to view azaleas in all their majestic beauty. Take along a pen and pad to record your choices. Also touring nurseries in this area will provide you with a long list, your pocket book and garden space providing the only limitations in growing azaleas.

Robinson Newspapers consolidate : Communications

More than 300 newspaper employees once under five separate corporate banners now have a single flag to wave—Robinson Communications.

The new name incorporates the five Robinson Newspapers between Seattle and Tacoma—Federal Way News, Des Moines News, Highline Times, White Center News and West Seattle Herald—and a large commercial printing division and sales organization.

The commercial printing division had been jointly owned with the Seattle Today papers, at one time an 11-member group now published as six community papers in north Seattle. Robinson Communications now prings those as well as many other community papers and newspaper inserts at its Tukwila plant.

Robinson Communications President Gerald S. Robinson, who started the company in 1951 with the weekly White Center News, said the consolidation move will bring all facets of the operation closer together and permit the expanded company to move ahead with plans for further growth.

"We've had phenomenal growth in the last five years," Robinson said, "particularly in Federal Way where we recently went to publishing three times a week. Our plans to move to daily frequency are right on line. This consolidation will permit us to smooth the transition to more days a week as the growth demands it."

"We're very proud of the fact that we pioneered the newspaper in Federal Way and that it's been so well accepted in the community." Robinson also announced plans to move ahead on a new central operations facility in Federal Way, while retaining separate news and advertising offices in each of the five communities where they presently publish.

"Our formula for success has been to give people a newspaper with information about things going on in their area; to give them the best possible paper in both news and advertising content. I think the success we've had proves that we've done this."

Along with the consolidation moves, Robinson also announced key staff changes. Donald Glockner has been named finance director; Mike Daigle is now marketing director, and Ken Robinson takes the role of operations director for the consolidated companies.

Robinson Newspapers are delivered to more than 90,000 homes between West Seattle and Tacoma. The Federal Way News and Des Moines News are published three times a week; the Highline Times is published Wednesday and Sunday; and the White Center News and West Seattle Herald are issued each Wednesday.

Rosco, the Robinson Communications commercial printing sales wing, is a region leader in the manufacture of pre-printed newspaper inserts.

Beauty products create that glamorous feeling

by Sandra Thew
Behind that look and sweet smell of success, lies hard-driving women bound to make their careers in cosmetics prove they can make-it in the business world.

What spurs these dedicated beauty consultants onto glory and high profits? The business teachings and personal treatment of Mary Kay Ash, founder of the Dallas, Tex. company that produces Mary Kay skin products.

"Mary Kay has taught me that women can have an alternative; they can switch careers or discover new ones. They don't have to stay with the same job," said Phyllis Hoover, a Mary Kay beauty consultant who switched from a successful nursing career to selling the cosmetic line.

"I'll always be a nurse, but I wanted something different, something where I could manage myself and be responsible for my success."

Becoming involved with the direct-sell in customer's homes has provided Ms. Hoover with the opportunity to manage her own business. She takes the responsibility for ordering the products from the factory, selling them at home shows and figuring the bookkeeping.

The perky businesswoman also joined the Federal Way Chamber of Commerce, "to get involved with the community and local affairs as a businessperson."

Unlike many typical pyramid structured companies, Mary Kay has a dual system that allows the saleswoman to be independent of the main company. Each of the 40,000 beauty consultants purchase the products directly from the company at standard wholesale rates and sell them directly to their customers.

Advancement to a management level requires a woman's initiative. She can acquire a management position by scouting for additional recruits to join the company. In turn, she becomes a director over her own unit.

"This way each person progresses up the ladder according to her skills and willingness to work," Ms. Hoover said.

There are no franchises or assigned territories, each person carves out her own distribution area and clientele.

As a beginner in the business area, Ms. Hoover discovered many pitfalls, but the company's director had the answers. The company provides seminars for setting up the business and techniques for selling and applying cosmetics.

The beauty consultants learn about keeping an organized business with the help of a small box-like file that contains profiles on each customer and contains reminders for updating and recalling them for new orders.

However, there is another side to the company that helps put women in touch with their own potential.

"Mary Kay has us look at ourselves as a person rather than a role," Ms. Hoover said.

"A woman fills so many roles in her life, as wife, mother, worker and volunteer. But Mary Kay teaches us that we can be so much more."

With a Baptist background, Mary Kay tells her consultants they can be successful with organization. However, there is an order in the scheme of things, and Mary Kay teaches, "God first, then family and finally business."

The hours spent giving the beauty shows, making deliveries and telephoning can be scheduled around the family needs.

"A woman can throw the laundry into the washing machine while making phone calls or make deliveries while taking the children to doctor appointments," Ms. Hoover said.

She believes the direct-sales system is perfect for the woman who suddenly discovers her children are gone, or she is widowed.

"For the wife left with the empty nest syndrome, the training and first-time experience can give her confidence and let her discover untapped abilities."

Husbands also become an important element in the business venture. They are included in the training sessions and later on in the honor ceremonies. However, the wives are advised to come out from behind her husband's shadow and form her own financially successful business.

After all the skin care training and the energetic pitch talks, women are also given built-in incentives to compliment their work. At the yearly company seminars, the "Queens" are awarded everything from pink Cadillacs and mink coats to diamond rings.

With the money earned in profits, (one woman earned a $80,000) many have paid off home mortgages, purchased furniture or taken trips.

Sitting in her pink office, located in the home, Ms. Hoover plans her next May seminar.

Kay show with a customer over the telephone. She is busily building up her business, which she hopes will some day make her a top saleswoman at a Mary Kay honor seminar.

PIONEER BUSINESS FORM of Tacoma is expanding to the West Campus with four printing presses located across from the Bulk Mailing Facility. The one-story building is constructed of slab and tilt-up concrete.

Tacoma printers build plant in West Campus

Pioneer Business Form of Tacoma will be breaking ground within a week with a new satellite printing plant in the West Campus development. The printing plant will service customers in Seattle and King County.

The $912,000 plant will be located at 34100 Ninth Ave. S., across from the Federal Way Bulk Mail Facility. Designed as a one-story slab and tilt-up concrete structure, the 38,000-square-foot building will house four printing presses that will accommodate the company's large volume of business forms. Two more presses are included in expansion plans.

Rue and Butler of Tacoma is the architect; Paul Akiyama is project architect. The Rushforth Construction Co. of Tacoma is the builder.

Building completion is slated for Nov. 1.

Located on 5.2 acres, the plant will have parking for 60 cars which will accommodate the expected 20 to 30 employees and company trucks. In the future, employment will total between 50 and 60.

Pioneer is a division of the Graphic Arts Group of American Standard. The company joins 100 existing businesses in the West Campus development.

On their own Women learning to cope without mates

by Pat Jenkins

They are of different ages, have different interests, come from different walks of life.

But the group of women who meet weekly at Highline Community College also have a common tie: after years of dependence upon a man, they are adjusting to being alone in the world and are preparing themselves to go out and make it on their own.

"Displaced homemakers" is what they can be called, as in Pre-Vocational Program for Displaced Homemakers, the title of a 12-week course of instruction designed to rid the women of anxieties and fears brought on by divorce, separation, and the death of their husbands.

The women are given remedial instruction on skills they'll need for day-to-day living, like mathematics for handling personal finances. They receive guidance in determining their vocational interests, and finally, they spend a few trial days on a job they believe is their calling.

IS IT ALL worth it? Listen to Karen Johnson, a 28-year-old mother separated from her husband.

"This program is great. I love it," she said. "I know I can make it now, and that's the important thing."

That, Jan Reha is happy to say, is a common attitude among the participants after only two weeks in the course.

"They've become close and are pulling for each other," said Reha, the program's director.

Reha, who has developed the program at other community colleges, also, said a kind of team spirit is essential to the women's success.

"I tell them, if you think this course is the answer to your life, you're wrong," she said. "What I'm offering is a choice of processes to begin their life again. It's not my program, it's our program. We're all doing this together."

Reha said there are three stages a woman goes through when she suddenly has no man in her life:

—NUMBED-OUT, or in shock.

—Bleeding, meaning her feelings on her situation are beginning to emerge.

—And acceptance, when she realizes, Reha said, "I don't like it, but that's the way it is and I have to live with it."

The latter stage is what Reha's work is all about.

"I get women to accept themselves for what they are and the experience (divorce, loss) they've had," she noted. "It's the fabric of life. Ultimately, I want them to start laughing at their foibles. Humor is one of the best ways they can deal with their situation."

Two-thirds of the women in the HCC program are 48 or older, and the rest are in their 20s, 30s, and early 40s. But while they differ in years, they are all at "ground zero" when the course begins.

"They don't know what they want to do. They haven't been in the classroom for years and years, and just coming onto a community college campus is a big step. Many never dreamed of going to college," Reha observed.

IT WAS doubly difficult for Alice Plummer.

"I'm 50. When you're 50 and going back into the world again, that's difficult," she emphasized.

Plummer had been married for 31 years when she and her husband separated. She reacted by shifting her life into neutral.

"I knew I had to get out and do something, but the longer you're married, the more difficult it is," she said. "I have no children at home, and some women who still have kids are more motivated. I wasn't. I had a complete lack of motivation."

But since entering the displaced homemakers program, she has come out of her "cocoon."

"The big thing I've learned is that it's not all loss for a 50-year-old."

Nor does the world end when you're the mother of two daughters and awaiting your divorce to become final in August, as Johnson is.

SHE AND her husband reconciled for one month, "but I realized I was starting to develop a lot of independence."

"The attitude of society has always been man does this and woman does this. But roles are changing. Now I want to get a good job and be independent."

Being on her own can still be "scary," Johnson admitted.

"Sometimes when you go home, it's like a slap in the face," she said. "You go, 'Oh, no, it's still the same old thing.' There are definitely up days and down days."

"But I don't find myself nearly as depressed as I used to be. I'm very active now. The busier you are, the better your health is mentally and physically."

"This program has really helped me get going."

(Karen Johnson wants to enter a field that will involve direct contact with people. Alice Plummer's career interests are similar. The TIMES will follow Karen and Alice as the displaced homemakers program draws closer to placing them in the business world as independent women.)

TEACHERS FROM THE Federal Way School District recently took the Federal Way Fire District Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) course to enable them to assist in teaching the CPR techniques to their students. The high school and junior high teachers, now certified in CPR, will join in a program beginning next fall to train students in emergency situations. Here Sally Johnson and Steve Shireman work on a dummy while the others wait their turn. Assisting is paramedic Doug Wiegand (left).

Police report

Blockhouse restaurant has almost robbery

A man recently walked into the Blockhouse Restaurant and placed a sawed-off shotgun on the counter. Before getting any money, the man was surprised and fled the scene, Des Moines Police said.

About 15 minutes later, police believe the same man and a companion forced their way into a local motel. A woman in the room they had entered fled, and the men soon left.

There were no reports of damage or theft. A juvenile and an adult were stopped for driving a stolen car at S. 228th St. and 30th Ave. S. The two fled, but were stopped by police. They each have been charged with one count of possession of stolen property, second degree.

A 22-year-old Des Moines man will soon be tried in Superior Court on two counts of statutory rape of a 14-year-old girl.

In other police news, Marine View Drug was broken into, again, on Monday and drugs and money taken. A 66-year-old man took inebriated liberties with an 8-year-old female. The man is being detained on possible rape charges, a police spokesman said.

A S. 222nd and Seventh Ave. S. resident brought home a lost dog, only to have it stolen the next day, police said. They are investigating to see what happened to the white Maltese puppy.

The door of a S. 216th and Third Ave. S. residence was kicked in May 19 and the house ransacked. The only item missing was a clock, police said.

A dare-devil youth spinning "brodies" in his pickup truck in the north-end of the Des Moines Marina found that trucks like to sink, not swim. Police received a call on May 19 saying that the youth had tipped his truck on two wheels and went sailing out of the Marina parking lot.

The driver was cold and wet, but in good condition. Police said the dog in the passenger seat was in even better condition.

Learning disabilities s topic

"The Learning Connection," a conference for those living and working with learning disabled children will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, June 9, at Crestview Conference Center, 16200 42nd Ave. S.

Registration for those who did not receive advance registration forms will be held from 8:30 to 9 a.m. Those who register at this time are asked to bring their own sack lunch since their registration does not include lunch. The conference fee, payable at that time is $12.

The keynote address on "Parent-School Cooperation - Making It Work" will be given by Dr. Carl Plonsky, chief of pediatric outpatient services and director of Learning and Behavior Disabilities Clinic at Madigan Hospital in Tacoma.

"The Kid In Limbo" will be the topic of Dr. Beverly Ehlinger, educational diagnostician-advocate of Associates in Behavior and Child Development, Seattle. Dr. Ehlinger will discuss LD children who are not in programs and what are the best alternatives. Participants will be offered a choice of two morning workshops, "Appropriate Summer Recreation for LD Kids" by Donna Lovell, therapeutic recreation specialist, or "How Parents Can Personally Prepare to Face the School Situation" by Dr. Richard Reinking, clinical psychologist.

"What Are The Causes of Problem Behaviors" will be the topic of Dr. Virginia Simmons, a member of the clinical faculty of the department of psychiatry and behavioral sciences at the University of Washington, during her lecture after lunch.

A choice of three afternoon workshops will be offered: "What Happens When LD Kids Stumble Into the Juvenile Justice System" or "Hearing Loss, the Missing Diagnostic Link" or "Vision Loss." The concluding lecture by Dr. Katherine Day, staff member of the department of behavioral sciences at Children's Orthopedic Hospital, will be on "How Adults Get Hooked Into Kids Behavior."

Kennedy places third with victory over TJ

The Kennedy Lancers got two quick goals from winger Al Gagner and fullback Joe Castaldo as they posted a 2-1 state soccer championship consolation final victory over the Thomas Jefferson Raiders Friday night at Memorial Stadium.

The win, for the Lancers, clinched the third place trophy, one notch better than last year's fourth place finish, while the Raiders took home a fourth place finish.

Gagner, the North Puget Sound League's leading scorer, put Kennedy on top for good with a break-away shot past Raider goalie Keith Paulsen with only 5:33 gone in the opening half.

It was not long after Gagner's initial tally that Castaldo booted in the final Lancer goal of the evening only six minutes later at 11:33.

According to Lancer Coach Mike Warme, his club simply caught the raiders off-guard.

"We caught them on their heels," said Warme. "They were sluggish at the start of the game, and were probably disappointed with losing in the semi-final on Thursday."

TJ Coach John Cameron agreed with Warme about the reason for his teams slow start Friday.

"They got two quick goals because our defense was asleep," he said. "We didn't have any mid-field play either, which took our whole game away from us. When we lose our midfield we really have our problems.

The Raiders, however, did not despair too long over their sudden deficit as Forward Tom Beler rifled a shot past Lancer net minder Colin Powers at 18:04 of the first half. But the Federal Way school was could not muster another scoring effort the rest of the evening.

The two clubs had earned their way into the championship finals with wins in quarterfinal action last Monday at Federal Way.

Kennedy defeated W.W. Miller of Olympia 2-0, getting goals from Gagner, and Tom Castagna, while Powers was perfect in the goal.

The Raiders tok on Peninsula High School that same day, coming out with a 2-1 win to advance to the final four at Memorial Stadium.

Both clubs, however, met with defeat in semi-final action Thursday night as the Sammamish Totems scored a 3-1 win over the Raiders, and the O'Dea Irish squeaked by the Lancers with a 1-0 win.

But even despite missing the finals by a single game, the two coaches had only praise for their player's efforts throughout the season.

"I would have liked to be first, of course," said Cameron, "but fourth place is not bad. We played very well, and had a very good season."

Warme was equally pleased with his team's efforts, particularly his senior players. "Our seniors inspired the team," he said. "They wanted to perform well tonight. They had a very high desire for victory tonight, and throughout the season."

Warme reserved special praise for goalie Poweres, who took over mid-way through the season for four-year letterman Dan Feist who was out with a broken foot.

"Colin has shown to everyone that he will be our goalie next season," said Warme. "He put out a terrific performance after Feist broke his foot."

Rosters for the two clubs included:

Kennedy: Joe Castaldo, fullback, Tim Still, Fullback, Dave McMullen, Halfback, Larry Sherwin, fullback, Jack Vinson, Wing, Jeff Savage, halfba Jim Keller, halfback, Tim Castagna, halfback, Al Gagner, wing, Joe Daigle, halfback, Bill Heeney, halfback, Ron Eley, fullback, Mike Donohue, fullback, Vince Pizzuto, fullback, Dan Howard, fullback, and Tom Ambroic, wing.

Valley Run to aid local wrestlers

The Kent Valley 10,000 Meter Run, with proceeds going to send local wrestlers to Europe, will be held Saturday June 9 in Kent.

Wayne Sencenbaugh, wrestling coach at Federal Way High School, and his brother Mark, a Kent-area mat coach, are sponsoring the event in hopes of raising $3,750 to send three local grapplers to Europe as part of a cultural exchange program.

Mike Hogaboam, a two-time state champion for the Eagles, recently pinned his way through qualifying matches in Cheney for the Washington State Cultural Exchange team in y. Pete and Phil Ogan, ninth-graders from Kent, also qualified for the team.

The 6.2-mile run is open to all amateur athletes who register on the official entry form by 9:30 a.m. on June 9. Entry rms are available at Federal Way High School, and can be mailed, along with the $4 entry fee, to Mark Sencenbaugh at 1517 Riverview Dr. NE in Auburn. The fee will be $5 after June 6.

Racers are asked to check in at the race's starting point, Russell Road Park in Kent, at 8 a.m. Last chance for check-in is 9:30. The race is set for the starting gun at 10.

Runners will have a chance to win a drawing for a 1979 yellow Marina coupe, plus other prizes.

Athletes under 18 must have a statement of release signed by parent or guardian.

Twin Lakes announces golf tourney winners

Sunny skies and good golf scores highlighted the recent Twin Lakes Invitational at the Twin Lakes Golf and Country Club.

Lloyd Gibson, tournament co-director along with John Sheridan, said golfers from as far away as Minnesota, Texas and Southern California participated in the event, which was inaugurated in 1973.

The low gross trophy went to the foursome of A. Lakes, J. Potter, J. Frankenhof and J. Curran. The same quartet took low net honors.

In second place in low net scoring was the foursome of J.

Davis, E. McClane, B. Lauer and E. Davenport. In third place was A. Sannes, R. Trisler, H. Eftey and J. Burbank.

D. Smith, J. Reynolds, A. Forsythe and J. McNeese earned fourth low net honors, and B. Hill, J. Ewing, B. Tagmyer and R. Stedman came in fifth.

Sixth low net scorers were H. Sieler, W. Day, B. Hopkins and B. Watson. Seventh was the foursome of D. Pagano, D. Stuetsman, L. Galano and D. Hornbeck. Eighth place went to W. Henley, B. Adams, W. Stenberg and W. Seifert.

The individual low gross winner was Art Lakes.

For the women, low net for a Twin Lakes member went to Nyla Gibson. Low net for a guest was won by Sue Wells.

Low gross for a member was turned in by Mrs. Gibson, and low gross, guest, was Dee McIntosh.

The winning team was Gibson, C. Forsythe and J. McNeese. Second place went to B. Queal, J. Barrett, B. Hyde and J. Whitehouse.

In third place was the foursome of F. Christian, E. Avedisian, J. Howard and B. Bettsworth. Fourth place honors went to R. O'Neill, L. Holley and F. Wells.

The club recently held a women's tennis tourney. Susie Renz came up the winner, with Joanne Burbank second.

Bendorf absorbs loss with one-hitter

Silent bats end FW's baseball season

by Harry Brooks
A throwing error that let a run in followed by a two-out triple in the sixth inning put a sour end to Federal Way's baseball season in Friday night opening round of the Region 3 Tournament.

The Stadium Tigers, riding the four-hit pitching performance of Danny Hopper, used their sixth-inning output to post a 2-0 win in the loser-out contest.

The outcome also was a dismal note in the stellar pitching performance of Federal Way senior Jim Bendorf. The Eagle right-hander mixed a zipping fastball with an assortment of breaking deliveries to keep the Tiger bats silent for five and two-thirds innings. An RBI triple by Mike Anderson, who came into the game with a .128 batting average, was the only Tiger hit of the night. Bendorf ended the game with nine strikeouts and only allowed three balls to get out of infield range while going the distance. However, Stadium touched him for six walks. The last of those proved decisive.

Greg Osterhage took ball four with one out in the top of sixth. Bendorf attempted a pickoff throw to first, but the ball bounded in the dirt and bounced to the screen along the first-base line. Osterhage took second on the miscue.

Gordon Proo followed with a grounder to Dave Greening at second base. Greening whipped the ball and whipped a sidearm throw to first. The ball sailed wide of Doug Tisdell's reach at first. Osterhage rounded third and scored on the errant toss.

An out later, Williams drove Proo home with his lined three-bagger to right-center.

"That was a hell of a hit," beamed Stadium coach George Quigly after the contest ended. "That's what we've done all year — come up with the key hit when we needed it. That's how we got here."

RANDY SCHOLL (13), of Federal Way, finishes a slap tag on Stadium's Gordon Proo to foil a first-inning steal attempt. Catcher Todd McGrady supplied the peg that cut Proo's theft bid short. Stadium took a 2-0 win over but we didn't hit the ball well." The Eagle mentor praised Bendorf's mound effort: "You couldn't ask for a better game from Jimmy. He did a super job. I think he pitched a better game in this one than he did when he pitched his no-hitter against Washington (during the SPSL season)." Stewart also had kind words for Dave Greening while discussing the second baseman's fielding mishap: "He's played a lot of good ball for us. He usually comes up with the play. He just made a mistake at a bad time."

Federal Way in this Friday Region 3 Tournament contest.

If Federal Way's league-leading offense would have been rolling in normal fashion' Greening's error probably would have been insignificant. But the Eagles' attack was dormant almost the entire way. Doug Tisdell was the only Eagle to advance past second base. He reached first when his sharp grounder bounded off the chest of first baseman Jeff Woodworth. Randy Scholl moved Tis to second with a sacrifice bunt. Tisdell sprinted to third on Bill Shaw's ground-out to second, but he was left stranded when Todd McGrady struck out to end the inning. The only time the Eagles again had a runner in scoring position was when Shaw popped a two-out double to right field in the seventh inning. Hopper immediately ended the game by gloving McGrady's grounder to the mound and flipping to first for the final out.

McConnaughey to quit track post

Don McConnaughey, head track coach at Highline Community College since 1962, will resign that post, he said this week.

McConnaughey will retain his position as athletic director at the school.

Chuck Czubin, for seven years head track coach at Highline High School, will take over the college job on a part-time basis, McConnaughey said. He will remain at Highline High as a teacher.

In a related development, Bob Maplestone, assistant track coach in charge of distance runners and head cross country coach at the college, has resigned.

McConnaughey said he is quitting as coach to allow more time for his teaching and administrative duties.

I've been coaching, teaching and being an administrato," he said Friday. "I just can't do all three.

"I told myself that I would quit coaching after my 25th year. This is it."

McConnaughey has been the only track coach at Highline College. He took over the program, the first athletic team of any kind at HCC, in 1962 while still employed as a teacher by Highline High School. His 1979 Thunderbirds finished third in the recent Athletic Association of Community Colleges conference meet in Bremerton.

Before coming to the Northwest, McConnaughey was a high school track and football coach in Arkansas and Texas.

Czubin compiled a winning percentage of better than .700 in his stint as Pirate head coach. Over the years he coached some 20 participants in the state track meet, including the 1973 100 and 220 champion, Dennis Bort.

Czubin said he has already begun recruiting efforts for next season's Thunderbird team.

Maplestone has been assistant track coach for five years and head cross country coach for three. He will stay on at the college as an engineering technology instructor.

"I felt I couldn't work under the new changes," Maplestone said in explanation for his resignation.

Diamond Jim's beats Hobby

Last Wednesday at North Lake, a 6-1 Diamond Jim's, with a 6-1 record, faced Hobby Headquarters, 7-0, in the battle for first place in the American Charter. The Raiders were quick to draw first blood with a home run by Bradley Kolbo in the first inning. In the second, Ken Myers hit his fifth home run with two on, to give Diamond Jim's a four-run lead.

Hobby Headquarters continued to press hard with strong hitting by Drue Caney, Joe Hill and Kelly Rake. The real story of the game, however, was the outstanding performance given by the entire Raider outfield. Tracy Parkinson made three excellent catches, along with two by Matt Easton and a spectacular catch by Dylan Ruark that severely limited Hobby Headquarters' hitting threat. Center fielder Byron Penor turned in a starring role by nailing two Headquarters' runners, who attempted to score against Raider catcher Ken Myers.

The lead had been narrowed to three runs by the sixth inning. Then, with bases loaded, Raider Travis Sims blasted a 2-2 pitch into deep center for a grand slam homer to end Hobby Headquarters hopes.

Rogstad pins down 6th place

1979 major hunting seasons announced

Final season dates for the 1979 hunting season were adopted by the Washington State Game Commission.

The final dates approved closely followed the pattern presented by the Game Department's Wildlife Management Division. Minor changes included an earlier closing date for three areas in Spokane and Whitman counties during the general buck deer season, an earlier opening date for several archery areas and elimination of either-sex elk permit hunting in the Tucannon unit.

The commission adopted the area-tag elk season, calling for hunters to buy one of five supplemental tags: a blue tag for the Blue Mountains area, a gray tag for the Colockum elk area, a green tag for all westside areas, a salmon-colored tag for the early Yakima area elk season and a yellow tag for the late Yakima elk season.

The general bull elk seasons are: (Blue) Nov. 7 to Nov. 18; (Gray) Oct. 29 to Nov. 7, EXCEPT Oct. 29 to Nov. 2 in Elk Area No. 33, the West Bar area; (Green) Nov. 11 to Nov. 25; (Salmon) Nov. 4 to Nov. 18; (Yellow) Nov. 10 to Nov. 18.

Dates adopted by the Game Commission for the general buck deer seasons are Oct. 13 to Nov. 8 and Nov. 24 to 28 in westside counties, plus Klickitat County; Oct. 13 to Nov. 11 in Chelan County and Okanogan County except that part in Game Management Unit 100, and that part of Ferry County in GMU's 200 and 206; Oct. 13 to 27 in Adams, Douglas, Franklin and Grant counties and several areas in Kittitas County; Oct. 13 to Nov. 2 in Benton, Yakima and Kittitas counties, excluding Units 324, 328 and 332 in Kittitas; Oct. 13 to Nov. 4 in Ferry County outside Units 200 and 206, also Asotin, Columbia, Garfield, Lincoln, Pend Oreille, Spokane, Stevens, Walla Walla and Whitman counties, except closing Oct. 28 in Units 127, 130 and 139.

Whopper

CHRIS FISHER, 10, a fourth-grader at Lakeland Elementary, landed this 20-inch, 4 1/2-pound trout at Five Mile Lake one week after opening day of trout season. Pictured with Chris is Five Mile Lake Park manager Ron Lewallen, who said Chris' catch was one of the largest ever taken from Five Mile Lake. Chris, the son of Bruce and Judy Fisher, used eggs and bobber to catch the giant.

Ask Wendy

by Wendy Morgan

Dear Wendy,
I am a homemaker trying to make ends meet. Do you have any suggestions?

Inflation has made us all more aware of our dollars and the search for bargains is on throughout the country. In our local area there are some resources which you may wish to use. A paperback book called the $ Shopper was printed two years ago for use in the Puget Sound area. It is available in local book stores and was organized by Merle Dowd among others to help sharpen our shopping sense. The Cooperative Extension Service provides a Dial Extension telephone number which can give you information on a number of household problems. If you are able to solve some of your own concerns without hiring others, you will save budget expenses.

Local community colleges offer classes in personal finance and simple investment. These are geared for the novice. More advanced classes are also available. The Y.W.C.A. has also scheduled classes to deal with budgeting in inflationary times.

There are many local manufacturers, primarily bakeries and clothing outlets which have thrift stores or outlets throughout the City where items may be purchased at considerably lower prices than those in retail outlets. For instance, day-old baked goods which freeze well are reduced in price. Local jacket manufacturers in South Seattle, Pioneer Square and Tukwila have outlet stores.

With summer coming, the local markets of farmers in surrounding towns will be open. Kent's Saturday market opened this past weekend. For used items for the home, there is always a local Swap Meet or garage sales. Thrift stores have used clothing of high quality.

Dear Wendy,
I have been hearing the term "Displaced Homemaker" lately. What does it mean?

A "Displaced Homemaker" is a person who has devoted substantial number of years to work in the home (usually ten years) and who finds herself or himself without her or his primary means of support. This means that the "Displaced Homemaker" must seek paid employment to replace the lost support. "Displaced Homemakers" are usually widowed or divorced women, although they have been women whose husbands are imprisoned, disabled, or who have lost government support because their children are no longer minors. Although it is most infrequent, there have been some men "Displaced Homemakers" reported. The term comes from the co-founders of the first center for these women in Oakland, California. Tish Sommers and Laurie Shields recognized the need for special services for Displaced Homemakers, and proceeded to get funding from the California State Legislature to begin their work. Our own state recently passed such a bill, and the Department of Labor has now defined this population as a target group for CETA funding. We are shortly going to announce a "Displaced Homemaker Project" in your area in this paper.

If you have questions about concerns facing women in King County, or would like to know where services are available, write to Wendy Morgan, King County Women's Programs, 420 Smith Tower, Seattle, 98104.

Whitman students honored

Two students from this area were honored at the recent Academic Recognition Banquet at Whitman College, Walla Walla for having received a grade point average of 3.5 or better. Fiedler, 36612 8th Ave. S and David M. Horn, son of Elmer R. Horn, 20704 9th Ave. S. Horn was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary.

Swim classes offered

Mt. Rainier Pool, a King County Department of Parks and Recreation facility, will sponsor a "Swimming Aide Course" to begin at 6 p.m. June 4 and continue through June 13 at the pool.

The class will help persons 11 years of age or older who have a good swimming ability. The cost is $15.

Additional information is available by telephoning the pool.

Telephone company helps deaf customers hear

Pacific Northwest Bell's Seattle bureau has installed a teletypewriter (TTY) that enables customers with hearing and speech disabilities to communicate more easily with the company's customer service department.

With the TTY hook-up attached to their telephones, customers can call for assistance on matters concerning telephone services. The new toll free number, (206) 624-9912, has a specially trained service representative at the keyboard who can type out answers to customer's questions or requests.

The customer assistance department can help those with speech and hearing impairments with such services as directory assistance, installation and repair requests.

Students plan trips to Japan

Four local high school students will spend their summer vacations learning new customs and visiting foreign cities in Japan and Australia, as participants of the Federal Way Lions Club foreign youth exchange program.

Deadline for beard contest

Beards, a sign of individuality, strength and virility are back. Styled by their masters or left to fly in the wind, they come in a multitude of shapes and colors.

They add a sense of mystery and charm. Can you picture Rip Van Winkle without his white lengthy train? Where would Santa have been with a closely shaved face?

Now's your chance. The Federal Way News is sponsoring a Beautiful Beard contest and is offering a prize of dinner for two to the Keg in Federal Way.

Drop by the News at 1634 S. 312th and get your picture taken. It will appear as part of a full page of bountiful beards on a Sunday photo page scheduled for June 3. The deadline for pictures has been extended to May 31.

Household Hints

Find a corner for a box for charity. Fill it with the outgrown, the no longer used, the closet clutter. When the box is full donate it to a worthy cause and start another.

Remember dish detergent for automatic dishwashers is strong and caustic. If it can't be locked out of children's reach at least keep it well away and never let a child use it. Just a grain or two in the mouth can cause terrible sores.

Store wood supplies away from the house to keep termites from transferring their affections from the logs to the walls.

MEMORIAL DAY

The eternal flame...
 A glowing tribute to the countrymen we hold dear.

Let it burn brightly in our hearts this Memorial Day and throughout the years as we recall the sacrifices and bravery of our servicemen in their fight to preserve our freedom.
