Tourist executive sees gas crisis going on and on

by Loren Bliss

The executive vice president of the Seattle-King County Convention and Visitors Bureau predicted Monday that the current alleged gasoline shortage will last a long while and said "it could be with us for a helluva lot longer than the summer."

Hartly Kruger, the vice president, also said that he believes the shortage is real. And there's no doubt, he said, that the number of tourists who are visiting Seattle has declined because of the alleged shortage.

"But it's too early for us to get any kind of handle on the size of the decline," he said.

Kruger's remarks were in answer to questions asked of him after he spoke at a Federal Way Chamber of Commerce meeting. He told the chamber that tourism is the second largest industry in the area and that it employed some 50,000 persons in 1978.

"Tourism brought many hundreds of thousands of persons into the area last year," he said, "and contributed $650 million to the local economy."

THE INDUSTRY "has a gigantic impact here," he said, because the Pacific Northwest offers "a tremendous natural attraction."

Even with the gasoline crunch, Kruger said, "three-quarters of a million persons have already written to us for information this year, and that's up 20 percent from the same period last year."

The tourist industry is threatened from two quarters, one of them the gas crisis and the other the forces who oppose tourism, "what I call the flat earth society, the people who are against everything," he said.

"Oil is in short supply...but the biggest problem is communicating that to the public," Kruger said, adding that the entire country "needs to conserve."

"But people will still come to the Northwest. We have to develop some new marketing strategies. We can't destroy the base that has created so many jobs," he said.

KRUGER SAID after the meeting that he believes the American people "are not going to quit traveling — they'll just use other means to get here."

These means, he said, include airplanes, trains and buses.

He also said that he and other convention and visitors bureaus plan to meet with state and federal energy officials in the near future in an attempt to minimize the impact of the crisis.

Briefly mentioning the proposed Pacific Northwest Festival in the Forest, Kruger said its impact on the area would be "unbelievable," adding that "if people spend all that money to come here to hear the opera, they'll want to see the rest of the Northwest too."

The festival would be built on a 30-acre tract of land at Panther take in Federal Way's West Campus. The Weyerhaeuser Company has agreed to donate the land and Gov. Dixy Lee Ray has signed a bill granting the project $5 million in state funds.

An additional $15 million must be raised from federal sources if the project is to be completed.

Ceremonies scheduled for graduation daze

On June 8-9, nearly 1,000 ecstatic Federal Way seniors will be throwing their hats in the air and celebrating a new-found freedom following graduation ceremonies.

They will be congratulated, hugged and kissed by well-wishing parents, friends, and relatives. For this is it. They've made it through 12 long years of grueling assignments and lectures.

NORTHLAKE CONTINUATION HIGH will graduate 33 students. Graduation will be held on June 8 at 1:30 p.m. in the North Lake Continuation High Library.

DECATUR HIGH will have graduation services for 298 students and their friends and family on June 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the Decatur Fieldhouse. There is no limit on invitations. No tickets needed.

FEDERAL WAY HIGH graduation for 432 seniors will be held at the Federal Way Memorial Stadium on June 9 at 12:30 p.m. If it rains, the service will be moved to the Decatur Fieldhouse. If that is necessary, an announcement will be made over KTAC radio station by 10 a.m. the same day. Students will be allowed as many tickets as they would like for friends and relatives if the ceremony is held at the stadium, otherwise it will be five tickets per graduate. Tickets will not be given out until all fines have been paid.

THOMAS JEFFERSON HIGH will hold graduation services for their 334 seniors at the Federal Way Memorial Stadium on June 9 at 4 p.m. If it rains, the service will be moved to the Decatur Fieldhouse. An announcement will be made to that effect over radio station KJR if necessary. Students will be given 10 tickets for visitors, only five of which may be used at the Fieldhouse.

THE HEARING on Lakehaven Sewer District's expansion plans brought forth a storm of complaints about the foul odor at the Redondo Treatment Plant. And expressions of concern about the Indian artifacts, believed to be on the site. A 300-year-old skull discovered in the area attests to the need for careful excavation, some said.

Bringing recreation closer to home

by Ann Hagen

Mignonette Peterson, who lives with her family in a home overlooking Puget Sound at 1807 58th N.E. in Brown's Point said she "feels a real lack of recreational services" close to home.

The Pierce and King County Parks leave them alone because their house is within the Tacoma city limits and Tacoma gives them a low-density area. Their area, not considered low-income, does not qualify for federal funds needed for a pool or parks.

Consequently, area residents must drive many miles to take advantage of craft, sports, or educational classes for themselves and for their children.

"With the gas crunch, that's becoming a real problem," said Ms. Peterson who moved to her present location from Auburn three years ago where she worked part-time as a Headstart social service employee.

The area focus, she said, is toward Federal Way rather than Tacoma. Though to take advantage of classes, she's driven to Federal Way, Auburn, Spanaway Park and Tacoma Community College. "It limits what you can do so people in the area have to get busy and do their own thing," she said.

Though she said she sometimes feels like "a voice in the wilderness," she's gotten together with Northeast Tacoma Recreation Association (NETRA) recently organized to work with the problem.

They sent a survey to residents that queried their interest in particular crafts plus a willingness to teach. Though their initial class, scheduled for Monday and Wednesday nights was poorly publicized, attendance was good. "But, it was still a ways to drive. We need to alternate schools and get these things closer to home."

As another possibility, Ms. Peterson called the Tacoma YM-

CA to see if there was a chance of setting up a satellite program.

A representative will be conducting a meeting at the Methodist Church, 5339 Brown's Pt. Blvd. N.E. on June 7 to tell what services are available and "to get a feel for the interest in this area" said Ms. Peterson.

If people just get together and work, Ms. Peterson said she's sure these problems can be ironed out. "There are a lot of well-educated people who are willing to make a commitment here. They just need to organize."

However, communication is a problem. Some people read Seattle and Federal Way papers, others opt for a Tacoma newspaper. There is a $5 reader-board on Brown Point's only grocery store that could help, she said. "Other than that, we'll have to go word of mouth."

The area is unusual in that it combines three separate communities that have always considered themselves separate entitles in the past. There's Brown's Point, Dash Point and Northeast Tacoma, all located within a few miles of one another.

Though each community has formed an improvement club to handle immediate problems such as sewers and land development, little has been done as a whole.

Another problem, she said is that there are no facilities that can be used by the public at low cost. There is a Brown's Point Improvement Club building that houses a Pierce County Library service.

Though it is available to members at a slightly reduced rate for social functions, the rent is $150 per night. "They are thinking of dropping their charge and may open for more recreational activities as they see a need, but that hasn't happened so far," she said.

There are churches and schools nearby but those facilities are laden with problems that make their use impractical. Church social rooms are often too small and schools are not to be used for community functions. "What we need is a community hall," said Ms. Peterson, mother of two children, eight and nine, who attend Brown's Point Elementary.

For long range plans, Ms. Peterson said she'd like to see a pool built nearby. Because of their nearness to the Sound, it is said that "everyone has a pool in their back yard," she said. "But, have you ever seen many people swimming there?"

Angry with their lack of funded recreational facilities, she said "This is an affluent area. It's a cop-out. We pay city taxes and should enjoy the same services as the central area."

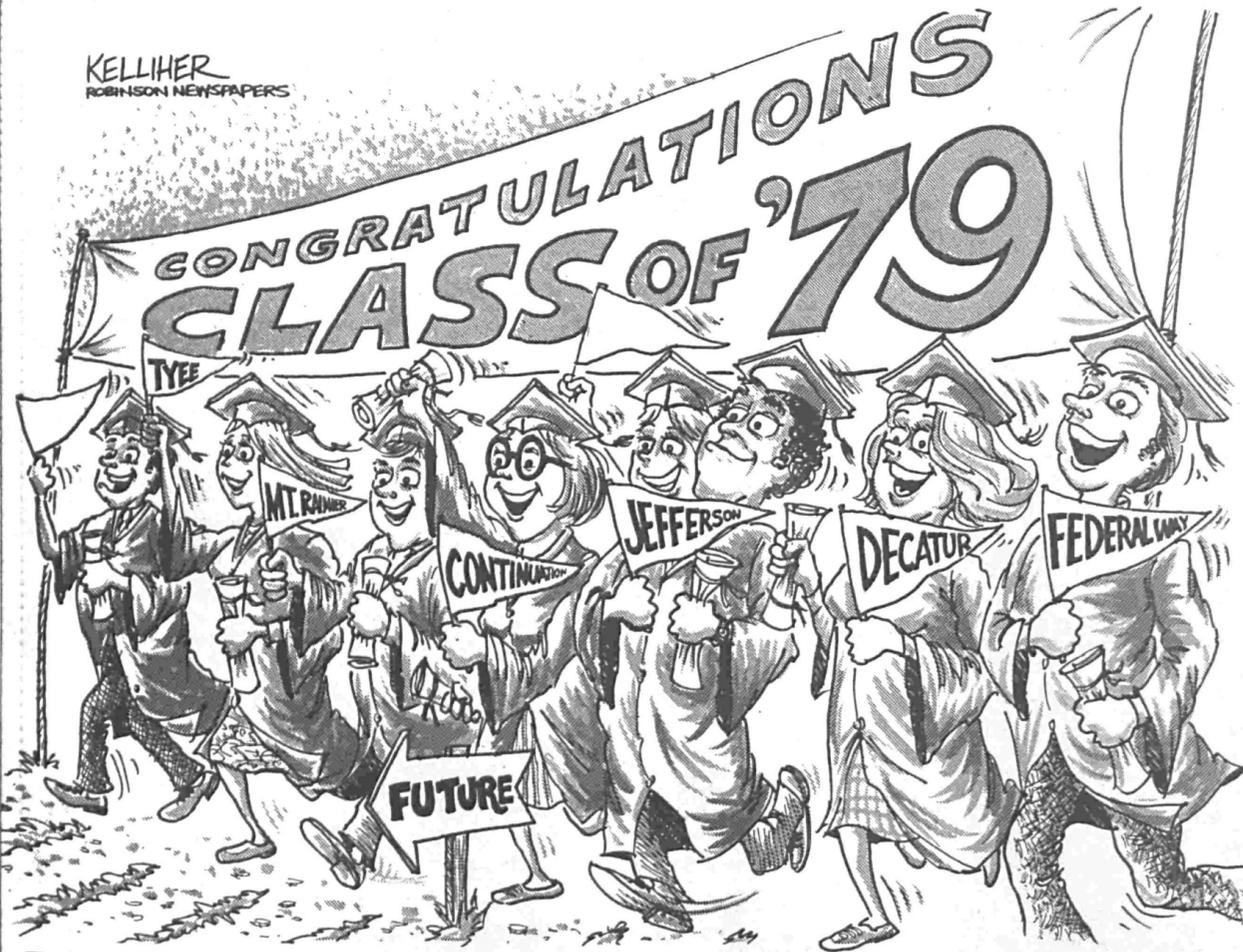

Now's the time, she said, to be thinking about getting something started because the area is growing so fast. Originally expected to be at population capacity by 1995, Northeast Tacoma will be filled to capacity by the early 80's, according to a city plan.

"People are not looking down the road to future services," she said. "Now's the time to think about it, before it's too late."

What's the answer? Ms. Peterson said she's just going to keep on the bandwagon and continually remind the Pierce and Tacoma parks people that there are people here who need services.

"With the problems with kids and drugs, if you don't offer them something, you'll pay for it through the courts later."

Times are tough, grads, but they could be worse

Every year at this time thousands of area young people pack up their books for the final time, frame their diplomas, and step into the future.

Graduation is a proud moment indeed for the students, their families, and the community. The young, vibrant faces of the graduates remind us all of the enthusiasm of youth.

The young men and women have paid their dues and look like they're more than ready for whatever lies ahead.

Some will continue their education at various community colleges and universities around the state and country. Others will go right into the job market. Very few will be sitting back doing nothing, unless they discovered a gold mine somewhere.

Perhaps this is what sets the Class of '79 apart from other graduating classes of the past decade. The cost of living is so high today, there's little choice but to go out and get a job or attend college to prepare for a working career.

It's kind of sad. Shouldn't there be a period in a young person's life when he or she can just relax and not worry about making ends meet?

Perhaps take a trip to Europe? Attend some classes just for the sake of learning? Or test a variety of jobs instead of blindly jumping into one specific vocation?

The pressure of inflation is taking away the options from the young graduates.

Times could be worse, though. At least there's no pressure of a military draft to dictate what a young man will do after graduation. The pressure on young women to immediately get married and raise a family is a thing of the past.

And for those who need to go out and get jobs, the jobs are available. Young people are more prepared to enter the job market immediately after graduation, thanks to the recent shift in emphasis in our public schools to vocational training.

We hope the graduates will recognize and be thankful for the fine education they received in our public schools. We hope many will stay here or return to our community and contribute to its well-being.

Class of '79: Congratulations. And good luck.

Bike laws similar to those for motorists

Many of us who drive at night have had the frightening experience of nearly colliding with some fool, usually a kid, who's pedaling a bicycle that's equipped neither with lights nor reflectors. What usually happens is that the cyclist darts out of a side street or suddenly looms up out of the darkness into the beams of your headlights, prompting a screech of breaks, heart palpitations and not infrequently a mouthfull of curses.

The benighted bike riders who figure in these close encounters almost invariably respond with an uplifted middle finger or some other equally obscene gesture and pedal off into the night, seemingly unmoved by the experience and obviously none the wiser for it.

We don't know how many accidents and near accidents are caused annually by unlighted and unreflectorized bikes because the Washington State Patrol doesn't categorize car-bike accidents by cause. But during 1978, 20 persons died in a total of 852 car-bike smashups statewide, and it's a good bet that at least a few of these were the fault of bicyclists operating without the proper lights and reflectors.

State law requires all bikes to be "equipped with a lamp on the front which shall emit a white light visible from a distance of at least 500 feet to the front and a red reflector on the rear....visible...to six hundred feet." In addition, the law says that bicyclists must obey all traffic regulations. This means that they're required to pedal on the right side of the road and stop at stop signs and red traffic lights.

Motorists, we believe, should courteously share the roadway with bikes. But we don't think that motorists or anyone else should have to put up with smart-aleck children and obnoxious adults who bike at night in flagrant disregard of the state laws. Night operated bikes should be legally equipped, and if they are not, the operators should be ticketed.

Under the Capitol Dome

by Robert C. Cummings

What effects the gasoline shortage may have on fuel tax revenues has been scheduled for thorough exploration by the bipartisan Legislative Transportation Committee.

As noted last week, the crunch doesn't seem to have materially curtailed driving. Motorists are merely taking shorter trips.

But nobody is sure where it will end. And the tax on motor vehicle fuels is the principal revenue source for financing highway construction and maintenance.

Gasohol, a mixture of gasoline and alcohol is hailed by its boosters as possibly a partial solution to the problem.

Using nine parts gasoline to one part alcohol, if widely used, it would result in a reduction in petroleum consumption from five to 10 percent.

Ironically, it originally was conceived as a means of reducing air pollution. Now it is also seen by its enthusiastic proponents as a means of conservation.

Cheap at Any Price

A tax break for the product, to permit it to be sold at a competitive price, was a subject of debate throughout the legislative session.

Proposals for a lower gallonage tax were discarded even before the gasoline crunch became recognized as crucial. B and O tax credits and other concessions were favored.

But as gasoline prices continued to soar skyward, it became obvious that if gasoline should become more scarce, and gasohol plentiful, motorists would buy the better fuel regardless of price.

No Curtailment in Planning

Meanwhile, the committee, which is composed of members from both houses of the Legislature, will continue planning for additional highway improvements and extensions during the interim.

Its subcommittee on highways has 20 projects on its agenda, including additional four-laning, rerouting of some stretches, new bridge construction and various other improvements.

The planning at least will be completed by the end of the 1979-81 biennium. How much of it is carried out will depend upon availability of revenue.

Ferry Problems, Too

In conjunction with the petroleum crunch, the joint committee also will be looking for alternate methods for financing the state ferry system.

None is in sight so far. But motor vehicle taxes pay 25 percent of the tab for ferry operation and maintenance. The balance comes from the fare box.

So under the present formula, if tax revenues fall off, the only alternate is a boost in fares, a procedure which is almost as painful as raising taxes.

"Mini" Policies Banned

Issuing automobile insurance policies for six months instead of for a full year has become common practice of numerous companies, presumably to ease the pain of rising premium costs.

But when some companies recently reduced their policy periods to three months, Insurance Commissioner Dick Marquardt stepped in. Now the three-month policies are on borrowed time.

Fearing that if the trend continued, policies might soon be issued on a month-to-month basis, Marquardt persuaded the Legislature to act.

As a result, there now is a new law on the books which requires that all policies issued on or after next Jan. 1, must be for at least six months.

College Board Cautious

As reported last week, the State Board for community College Education was in a dilemma when it met to consider 1979-80 allocations but still didn't know what the final budget would look like.

Though the board's staff recommended that the allocations be made on the basis of the Senate version of the budget, the board didn't want to risk having to cut them back at a later date.

So the board members voted to defer action on the allocation requests, and to call a special meeting after the actual budget figures become available.

Extra Time Unnecessary

The Legislature was in its 131st day when it finally passed the multi-billion-dollar budget for the next two years, but it's work wasn't finished.

There were still some bills on the calendars of both houses, which needed attention.

Normally, when the budget is passed, adjournment is on the way, and it could have been that way this year.

It wasn't the same this weekend. Saturday was okay, but Sunday... well, there was an awful void this Sunday.

When the World's basketball champs put the Bullets away Friday night hundreds of Sunday plans went awry. Parties to watch the Sonics battle the Bullets right here in our own city were changed to victory parties without TV. One friend had special banners prepared to decorate her lawn party scheduled for Sunday. She had acquired a large screen TV and was ready to cheer the team on. When the Sonics won on Friday night she didn't need the expensive rental, nor the banners that urged the team to win this one in Seattle.

We weren't the only ones to notice the void.

A neighbor wandered by, stopping to see what we were doing in our yard. "Boy, this is a funny day," he said. "Doesn't seem much like Sunday." He kicked a tiny rock with the edge of his shoe. "I suppose you heard that the Sonics won the championship..." We said we had. "Everybody has, I guess," said our friend. "It's old news."

We worked in our yard

most of the day. After neglecting the yard work to watch the Sonics, to talk about the Sonics and worry about the Sonics week days, and weekends, it seemed only fair.

About mid-day the gardening dust and the sun made me thirsty. Inside the house, someone turned the television set on. It played to an empty room. "Why did you turn on the set?" I asked. "Just habit" was the answer given.

Later, a group of kids, roared by in an open car. "We're number one," they yelled.

We know, we know. By evening, tired from the yard work, ready for a restful break, things seemed more normal. One of the children called, just to say "hello."

"That sure was a good game Friday, did you see it?" We said yes to both questions and explained that we felt a little lost today with no game to watch, no suspense, or the excitement the games always provided.

"I know," said our offspring. "It's like Christmas, after all the packages have been opened."

$132.50, given by Milton S. Kronheim, a wholesale liquor dealer and District of Columbia political figure.

Given the caliber of those chosen to serve on the court of last resort, it is obvious that Justice Brennan would not accept the free booze if he could afford to buy it.

It follows, therefore, that he cannot handle the cost of the liquor on his $72,500 judicial salary.

Since every American - and especially those who labor for their fellow citizens - is entitled to a sip at eventide, the salaries of Brennan and his associates, should be raised immediately.

A figure of $72,632.50 would be appropriate.

County barbers for expanded bus service

The King County Council has given tentative approval to a motion that calls for increased bus service to suburban areas as part of the 1980 Metro budget due to be adopted this week.

Council members agreed Monday to push for 100,000 additional hours of service to the suburbs and a better inter-suburb bus system. However, some council members who represent predominantly Seattle districts, voiced concern that it would mean reduced services to city dwellers including senior citizens and the handicapped.

Councilwoman Bernice Stern said she would support the motion conditioned on Metro finding the money for the additional service without cutting back other much-needed service.

Bob Dunn, whose 2nd Council District is completely within Seattle, voted against the motion. "This is a very impractical approach to running a transit system," he commented.

The move for better suburban scheduling was sponsored by Councilman Tracy Owen in an effort "to gain parity" with the City of Seattle in the ratio between amount of money paid for amount of service received.

The $76.1 million 1980 budget calls for 53.9 Percent of the bus service to be routed through Seattle while taxes collected for support of the system are 44.2 percent of the total collected. Suburban dwellers are paying 55.8 percent of the tax money to the transit system but receiving only 46.1 percent of the service.

Owen, whose Shoreline district is serving as a test area for suburban inter-community connector routes for Metro, said the routes to enable travel within the suburbs without going into Seattle to transfer should already be available countywide.

Councilwoman Pat Thorpe, whose 6th District is largely incorporated area outside Seattle, including Renton and Mercer Island, said the motion is "the council saying as a matter of policy that suburban needs are not being met and the Metro Council should address it in a reasonable way."

All county council members also serve on the 37-member Metro Council.

It is estimated that the 100,000 additional hours would cost between $1.865 million and $2.62 million depending on whether a larger share of the drivers were full-time or part-time.

LENNY brings home the hardware.

Hail the Champs!

Never in modern times had a major league professional sports team brought a championship to Seattle. Never, that is, until the Seattle Supersonics toppled the Washington Bullets to claim the National Basketball Association world title.

The Sonics, the premier defensive team in basketball, now have something altogether new to defend: the NBA championship trophy. Some 30,000 fans, including hundreds from the Federal Way-Des Moines-Burien area were on hand at Sea-Tac Airport Saturday to see the trophy and greet Lenny Wilkens and his happy heroes as they disembarked in triumph.

When Wilkens poked his head out of the plane and began the walk down the steps, hardware in hand, the decibel level of the already cacophonous crowd increased.

As the players emerged from the plane, the celebration grew in intensity. Yells were led by makeshift cheerleaders, new dances were invented on the spot and bubbly, that which was not drunk immediately after the sweet victory, was uncorked and spilled freely.

It was a day to savor.

Police auction 800 household items

by Carolyn Logan
When police nabbed a Federal Way thief red-handed, walking out of a Federal Way hardware store with a wheelbarrow last spring, they found a stash of hundreds of new hardware and household items.
That loot, almost 800 pieces, will be up for auction on June 16, 10 a.m., at the south side of the King County Courthouse, Third Avenue and James Street.
New cameras, toys, power lawn mowers, power tools, garage-door openers, ladders, clocks and other equipment will make the south loading dock at the courthouse resemble a department store bargain basement.
Items may be viewed at 9 a.m., an hour before bidding begins. Retail merchants are welcome to bid. Only cash will be accepted as payment.
Bidders will vie for property seized as evidence in a South King County theft and fencing operation, according to George Minnich of the county police.
Only the Federal Way store was identified as a victim, according to Pat Ferguson of the county police.
Since attempts by detectives to locate other victims were unsuccessful, the property, by law, must be disposed of through a public auction.

EQUIPMENT, like garbage cans, was apparently not of the type of inventory that retail and hardware stores keep close count on, according to police.
Yet the vast array of loot was such that the thief had to use a rental mini-storage facility for "safekeeping." A Midway mini-storage unit, located on Pacific Highway South, was used.
"Officers found truckloads of garbage cans, garage-door openers and other things" Ferguson recalled.
A six-month investigation commenced. Ultimately, investigators confirmed reports that the property was sold at the Midway Swap Meet, a drive-in theater, according to Ferguson.
Investigation revealed that 15,000 items were involved in the fencing operation.
Two men had been arrested at the Federal Way store. Charges against one were dismissed. The second was Randy E. Cloutier, 23, Federal Way, who was convicted of second-degree burglary, according to Ferguson.
Cloutier, sentenced to 10 years in the Washington State Penitentiary, is now serving time.

Bike laws similar to those for motorists

KELLNER

by Loren Bliss

The traffic officer is parked by a roadway, monitoring the flow of automobiles and trucks with a radar set.

Suddenly he notices a kid on a bicycle peddaling through a nearby intersection. The kid is moving fast, maybe 15 or 20 miles an hour, and he doesn't even slow down for the stop sign.

The traffic officer pulls out of his parking place and flips on his blue lights. A block later he pulls the bicyclist over and issues the culprit — he's a 13-year-old — a ticket for running a stop sign.

Is the officer being overzealous?

Not at all. State law, section 46.61.775 of the Revised Code of Washington, to be exact, says clearly that "Traffic laws apply to persons riding bicycles."

It continues that "Every person riding a bicycle upon a roadway shall be granted all of the rights and shall be subject to all of the duties applicable to the driver of a vehicle ...except as to those provisions of this chapter which by their nature can have no application."

WHAT THAT means is that bicyclists have to pedal on the right side of the road, stop at stop signs and traffic lights, yield right of way, signal for turns and stay within the posted speed limit.

Tickets to bicyclists, police say, are rare. But they are issued. And with more and more bikes on the road, they'll probably become a more frequent occurrence.

Other sections of the traffic laws that pertain directly to bikes and their operators include limits on carrying packages and requirements for lights, reflectors and brakes.

"No person operating a bicycle shall carry any package, bundle or article which prevents the driver from keeping at least one hand on the handlebars," the law says.

It also requires that all bikes operated at night be equipped with a headlamp visible from 500 feet in front and a rear reflector that can be seen from 600 feet "when directly in front of the lawful lower beams of headlamps on a motor vehicle."

BIKE SEATS and the number of persons who can ride on a bike are also regulated. The law says that "A person propelling a bicycle shall not ride other than upon or astride a permanent and regular seat attached thereto."

It also states that no bike can be used to carry more than the number of persons for whom it is intended. Doubling, the practice of carrying somebody on the handlebars or on the luggage rack, is forbidden.

So is "clinging," in which foolish kids sometimes latch on to the backs of buses and trucks to get a burst of speed. What sometimes happens — this is why "clinging" is illegal — is that the truck or bus stops suddenly and flings the hapless bicyclist under the rear wheels or out into oncoming traffic.

The riding of bikes more than two abreast is outlawed except on bike paths or bike lanes. So is the use of the roadway when a special path or lane has been set aside for the exclusive use of bicyclists.

Violation of any of these regulations, the law says, is a misdemeanor.

Community hearings receive high marks

by Carolyn Logan

King County's test of community land-use hearings was hailed by most participants as a successful experiment. Hearings are normally held in the downtown courthouse.

"We love 'em," said Mel Ferron, Redondo Community Club president, after the first reclassification hearing Thursday in Kent City Hall. The pilot project will continue for two months.

"We deserve to have a hearing at the scene of the crime," Ferron quipped. He had challenged a sewage-treatment plant expansion.

"Parking is easier here; parking downtown is almost nonexistent," said Stan Whitehead, Riverton, who protested the number of units per acre in a proposed Riverton rezoning.

Lakehaven Sewer District Commission President Byron Betts was equally enthusiastic.

"I can be here in 10 minutes," he said. The distance downtown "is one of the reasons that people in Federal Way are talking about incorporation." Betts advocated sewage-treatment plant expansion.

County Zoning Examiner Robert Eveleigh's response was, "It's nice to get away from the courthouse."

ONE DRAWBACK is diminished accessibility for bus riders who live near Seattle.

Gerald Marbett, a County Building and Land Development (BALD) supervisor said, "We're not getting 100 percent approval; we've gotten some calls from the elderly who can more easily take the bus downtown...I have no objections to hearings here."

Downtown hearings are "a little more convenient," said developer Gerald Plith, because he lives in West Seattle, some 10-12 minutes from the courthouse. Driving to Kent consumed about 17 minutes, he found.

Another drawback is loss of productivity for BALD staff, according to Marbett.

"This creates a lot of dead time. The staff could be more productive in the courthouse," he said. Dead time is created because various planners are assigned to different cases. A planner may testify at one case, then be off for the second and third cases, then testify at a fourth. In the interval, he would have dead time.

Yet, they all came at 2 p.m. in a county carpool. Staggered trips aren't taken primarily because of the county's mandate to save energy, according to Marbett. County staffers opt for a county car, rather than take private vehicles, he explained.

HOWEVER, the price can't be beat for facilities: Free hearing space was provided.

Initially, "we didn't think we would like it (community hearings)," Eveleigh said, fearing community facilities would change the examiner's quasi-judicial atmosphere.

Hearings conducted in the new Kent and Redmond city halls dispelled that notion: "I like the atmosphere," Eveleigh noted. North King County cases are heard in Redmond.

The Kent test produced some constructive criticism. One citizen hoped that county staff would be available pre-hearing to answer questions. Whitehead wanted to know how many units certain types of zoning allow per acre. At the courthouse, he drops into the BALD office pre-hearing.

Whitehead hoped this wrinkle will be ironed out.

Ferron observed that more residents attended community sessions. In a Redondo matter, "Some 200 turned out for a session in Redondo. We would have been lucky to get a half dozen downtown," he said.

Unlike courthouse hearings held during working hours, suburban hearings begin at 2 p.m. and continue for several hours.

"It's nice to have the morning off and work later," Marbett said. He objected to evening hearings, an idea which never cleared the county council.

The council marked another first. A new zoning examiner, James O'Connor, heard the Lakehaven Sewer District proposal.

If the project succeeds, the county may fund more community hearings next year. The county council allocated $11,000 for this pilot project rejecting Zoning Examiner Bruce Laing's request for $223,960 for a full-fledged community program this year.

Crime report:

Many incidents keep cops busy

King County Police were busy over the weekend dealing with a variety of complaints from the Federal Way area, including an armed robbery, two incidents of child neglect and a teenage shoplifting suspect who turned violent in an attempt to escape custody.

The robbery occurred on Sunday morning less than an hour after midnight, at a Pacific Highway South restaurant. The robber, described as a black male whose age is between 25 and 30, threatened a cashier with a 12-inch knife and a handgun and told her he would shoot her or cut off her head if she didn't empty the till.

An undetermined amount of cash was taken by the man, who was said to be of stocky build and about five feet, eight inches tall. He fled on foot.

The shoplifting suspect, a 17-year-old Federal Way boy, was caught by a store security agent as he was trying to steal a $13.95 set of wrenches from the automotive section of a South 320th Street discount store.

But he knocked the security agent down and fled. A King County Police Officer who had arrived to take the boy into custody, the security agent and a customer helped subdue the fleeing suspect.

The boy was charged with theft and resisting arrest and was subsequently released to his father.

A TOTAL OF 12 larceny cases were reported between Friday and Sunday night. Arrests were made in four of them, including the arrest of the boy, which occurred Saturday at about 8:45 p.m.

One of the child neglect cases was reported on Friday and the other on Saturday. In the Friday episode, which is still under investigation, a one-month-old child was left alone in a parked car in direct sunlight. The temperature during the incident was 87 degrees.

The parents were located in a shopping center some 20 minutes after a passer-by noted the child. Federal Way firemen, called to the scene to check on the baby's condition, said the child did not seem to have been injured by the incident.

In the second child neglect case, a 10-year-old 21st Avenue South boy and his 3-year-old brother were placed in a state receiving home after they were discovered playing alone. The 10-year-old had a Crossman air pistol.

A 14-YEAR-OLD Federal Way boy who was working his paper route at about 6 a.m. Saturday told police that a man in a yellow van drove up beside him and asked him to participate in a homosexual act.

The boy described the man as white, pimply-faced and of 20 to 30 years of age. The man was said to have stringy rather long black hair.

Six burglaries were reported during the period, two of them involving loot in excess of $500.

Furniture worth some $600 was stolen from the recreation room of an apartment complex on 9th Place South sometime between Friday and Saturday, while clothing and furniture worth $2,257 was stolen from a 14th Place South residence.

Five teenagers were cited on charges of illegally possessing and drinking alcoholic beverages during the period.

Legal package aims at growth

by Darlene Himmelsbach
Ordinances aimed at channeling the growth of King County during the next few years, preserving sensitive areas and regulating hazardous areas were adopted Monday by the county council. Councilman Paul Barden cast the lone vote against part of the growth package.

The growth laws create four new county zones, adds strength to the community planning process and flexibility to lot dimension requirements in residential short plots.

Aimed specifically at controlling growth in the rural areas of east King County, two of the laws limit the type of development and the density levels. The controversial G-5 zone which requires a minimum lot size of five acres is seen as a "tool for implementing" planning to preserve "area-wide rural character and a low residential density." This will prevent "premature urban development in areas without public facilities and services," in the words of the ordinance.

Barden said the net effect of the G-5 and the GR (growth reserve) ordinances would be to "deprive people from a return on an investment made years ago and deny people at the lower economic spectrum the right to purchase."

Barden expressed a "sense of outrage" at the council's action. He said it would "probably do more to prevent people from single family residential" ownership. "It is futile in the long run and in the short run, it will hurt the people who least deserve to be hurt."

That opinion was countered by several council members who also disagreed with Barden's estimation that the new zones would increase inflation in the housing market.

Councilwoman Pat Thorpe said taxes and housing costs have risen in Southern California "faster than anywhere" because "development has been allowed to take place in a random fashion" forcing government to meet the "high cost of providing services to growth spread all over the place."

The GR zone would reserve large tracts of land suitable for possible future urban or suburban growth by locating development near existing public utilities and services.

According to Susan Allen of the county planning staff, the owner of a five acre parcel in a GR2.5 zone could develop one dwelling unit for each two and one half acre portion if at least 65 percent of the site is reserved for open space and if the natural features of the property are conducive to future subdivision uses.

In the GR5 zone, parcels of 10 acres or more would be allowed to develop to one unit per five acres if 75 percent or more of the site is reserved for open space

Catch, toss and scoop

It's the easiest thing in the world. Anybody, no matter what age can learn to do it they said.

Sure' if you've got four hands, a catcher's mitt and a pooper scooper to scoop up the small rubber balls was the first dubious reaction.

They call it juggling, one of the most intriguing sports (hobbies?) now catching on in Federal Way.

Two teen-aged teachers were recently at the Federal Way Library to show the 40 people how it works.

Initially, it's a matter of throwing one ball in the air with a catch, scoop, toss action. Add another ball, then another and you've got it made. One-two-three, stop, shouted one instructor. "Count out loud, it helps."

Soon the room full of people were trying it and enjoying it though a few had strange ways of showing it. They scrunched up their mouths, squinted their eyes, and clenched their teeth, but they learned.

"This is great," said one youngster tossing two balls and attempting to get the third one into action. "I always knew I could do it."

"Try one more if you think it's so easy", yelled his older brother chasing a ball.

Juggling is catching on and the Juggling Institute in Seattle is doing their part to help it on its way. They give sessions at libraries and functions throughout King County. The program was funded by the Federal Way Library Board.

I got one in the air says Bob Mighell

There's a look of concentration in Ken Faler's eyes.

No problem, I caught that one, said Steve Kauer.

Instructor Sue Hunt shows the group how to juggle.

I got mine and I'm not letting go is in Phillip Jone's mind.

Elks ladies ready for sale

May ceremonies held in Spokane

Barbara Paul, daughter of Richard Paul of Spokane, was married to Keith F. Axberg of Vancouver, B.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Axberg of 2104 S.W. 317th Place, in May ceremonies held in All Saints Episcopal Church in Spokane. The bridegroom as best man, and John Schmidt and Doug Scott were the ushers. Two receptions followed the ceremony, one in the church undercroft and the other at the Spokane Police Guild Hall. The bride attended Joel E. Ferris High School and Spokane College. Her husband was graduated from Washington State University with a bachelor's degree in police science and administration. He was formerly employed with the Spokane Police Department and is currently attending Vancouver School of theology. The newlyweds honeymooned on the Oregon Coast. Mrs. Sampson Marsh of Vacaville, Calif., was the bride's only attendant. She wore a floor-length blue chiffon dress and carried roses and carnations. John Hoback served

Moreen Pike married in Eatonville

In a double-ring ceremony in the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Moreen Renee Pike, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Pike, former Federal Way residents now living in Eatonville, was married to Ronald Dale Staal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Staal of Sumas, Wash. The bride's colonial gown was styled with a scoop-neck bodice trimmed with seed pearls and a skirt of white lace applique on chiffon over taffeta. Her floor-length veil of French illusion was trimmed with lace and attached to a lace-accented Spanish tiara. For "something old," she wore the gold and ruby lavalier that was given to her grandmother on her 16th birthday. Her grandmother also fashioned the colonial bridal bouquet of white chrysanthemums, yellow roses and rosebuds and baby's breath tied with white ribbon streamers. As her sister's matron of honor, Mrs. Ray Asila wore a gown and wide-brimmed hat in pale green and carried a colonial bouquet of white mums, yellow carnations and baby's breath. The bridesmaids, Patricia and Heidi Pike, also sisters of the bride wore floral print gowns with yellow and blue rosebuds on a white background and white wide-brimmed hats. The carried candle bouquet of white mums, green carnations and baby's breath. Rachel Asila, Cori Pike and Shana Pike were the flower girls. Gene Stall served as his brother's best man, and Richard and Steven Pike were the ushers. Assisting at the reception which followed the ceremony were Mrs. Richard Adams, Mrs. Bob Holaday Cindy Lou Devore, Mishele Marshal, Mrs. Steve Pike and Traci and Ricky Pike. The hand-molded ceramic bride and groom that topped the wedding cake was made by the bride's grandmother almost 28 years ago and used on the cake at the wedding of her mother and father. For friends and family who were unable to attend the wedding, the bridegroom's family hosted a second reception a week later in Sumas. The bride graduated from Decatur High School in 1974. Her husband, a 1971 graduate of Lynden Christian High School, received his degree in law at Tulsa University in Oklahoma in 1978. They will make their home in Bellevue.

Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hill of Tacoma. The bride wore a lace gown with a chapel-length lace train. Her short veil was attached to a small lace crown, and she carried a bouquet of Easter lilies and daisies. The bridal attendants, Linda Odegard, maid of honor, and Sonja Kanda and Delinda Diefendorf, bridesmaids, wore light blue lace dresses. Each carried a single long-stemmed white rose. Steve Hill served as best man, and Stacy Kanda and Dennis Burkhead were the ushers. The bride graduated from Thomas Jefferson High School. He is a graduate of Lincoln High School in Tacoma. Under the direction of Zada Terzenbach, Alpha Upsilon was the hostess chapter for the "Fabulous Fifties" brunch on Sunday which concluded the weekend.

Dianne Ray, chapter educational director, accepted the "Gold Link" certificate for submitting six reports, and the Cowlitz Valley Council certificate for nine completed reports. "The Talents Within" was the theme of the chapter's educational program during the past year.

Intiman opens season

Irish playwright Brian Friel, whose fascination with America culminated in a residency with the Tyrone Guthrie Theatre and a Tony Award-winning play, is generally regarded as Ireland's most prominent living writer for the theatre.

Most Americans know him only through his New Yorker short stories or one play, "Philadelphia Here I Come." Intiman Theatre Company will open their seventh season of professional theatre on Thursday, June 14 at 8 p.m. with Friel's "The Loves of Cass McGuire" at the 2nd Stage in downtown Seattle.

The story of an eccentric Irishwoman returning from a life in America will be directed by Margaret Booker, Intiman founder and artistic director.

Featured in the cast are Seattle actors Marjorie Nelson, Zoanne LeRoy, John Gilbert, Brian Thompson, Glenn Mazen, and Jean Smart. Making their first appearance with the company are Marguerite Morrissey, Catherine O'Connell, Si Osborne and Shirley Robertson.

Lewis Rampino is designing costumes for "The Loves of Cass McGuire." Michael Miller is set designer. James D. Sale is lighting designer. Performances are Tuesday through Saturday at 8 p.m. to July 6. There are two Sunday performances at 8 p.m. on June 24 and July 1. Saturday matinees at 2 p.m. are scheduled for June 23 and 30.

Pink and white used as May wedding colors

Arrangements of pink and white flowers and candles were used in Fife Presbyterian Church for the May wedding of Jennifer Kimmerly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kimmerly of 3 Fife Heights Drive N.E., and Robert McLean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McLean of 1011 Fife Heights Drive E.

The bride wore her mother's bridal gown of white satin with an overskirt of tulle and lace. The long-sleeved bodice was fashioned of lace over satin. She wore a circlet of pink forget-me-nots, ivy and baby's breath in her hair and carried a bouquet of white mums and ivy.

Mollie Kimmerly, the bride's sister, was the mind of honor, and Mrs. Rex Sutherland, the bridegroom's sister, was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Antonette Grab and Julie Ochs, with Justin Murphy as flower girl. All wore long, pink flocked dresses of dotted swiss and carried pink flowers with baby's breath tied with pink ribbons.

James McLean served as his brother's best man, and Alfred Burton, Scott Jensen and Rex Sutherland were the ushers.

Assistants at the wedding reception, held in the church parlor, were Mrs. Joe Sander, Mrs. Ernie Manning, Mrs. Alfred Burton, Debbie Umsted, Mrs. Martin Murphy, Mrs. Frank Kimmerly, Mrs. John Murrey, Brenda Murphy and Dan Murphy.

Both the bride and groom are graduate of Fife High School. She attended Bates Vocational School and he attended Western Washington State University.

The newlyweds traveled aboard The Princess Marguerite to Victoria, B.C. for a one-week honeymoon and are now at home at Dash Point.

Among the honor guests at the ceremony were the bride's 91-year-old great-grandfather, George T. Pilant, and the bridegroom's 91-year-old great-grandmother, Mrs. Juanita Rutherford. Also attending were eight grandparents.

Attendants for the couple were Robin Bentley and Robert J. Hale, both of Seattle. Ushers were James and David Turner, brothers of the bride. A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

Neither of the students have definite plans for college, but both said they thought the training would be beneficial. "It's really going to be a good experience and will prepare me well for college," Knowlton said. Endicott said that he thought it would be "lots of work, but lots of fun too."

Knowlton, son of Glen and Janet Knowlton of 31931 36th Ave. S.W., said he will leave June 24 for the University of Colorado at Boulder and return to Washington Aug. 4. Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Wright

Miss Swieso wed to Olympia man

Yellow gladioli and bronze pom poms flanked by floral-trimmed candelabras were used in Christ Lutheran Church in Federal Way for the recent wedding of Janine Gayle Swieso, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Swieso of 3024 S.W. 300th Place, and Wayne Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Wright of Olympia.

The bride's lace gown was styled with a tiered lace skirt. Her short veil was edged in matching lace, and she carried a bouquet of yellow to bronze roses. She also wore the brooch and earrings that her parents brought back from Europe as a gift 35 years ago.

Bridal attendants were Anita Krause, maid of honor, and Karen Swieso, Cindy Anderson and Mary Swieso, bridesmaids. All wore floor-length gowns in light yellow. Peggy Annette Swieso, the bride's niece, was the flower girl, and candles were lighted by Susan Smith.

The bridegroom was attended by Jay Kapsandy as best man and John Mark and Arne Swieso as ushers.

Assistants at the wedding reception held at the Tacoma Yacht Club were Joan Schaded and the bride's four aunts, Oril Swieso, Mrs. Harry Rice, Mrs. Christian Rice Jr. and Mrs. Frank Rice. The wedding cake served at the reception was made by a cousin, Mrs. Thom Smith. Norwegian cookies and Lefse were made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Christian Rice.

The bride attended schools in Federal Way and graduated from Federal Way High School in 1976. Her husband is a 1970 graduate of Olympic High School. The couple is at home in Olympia.

Aunts and uncles of the bridegroom traveled from Spokane, Albany, Ore. and Pleasanton, Calif. to attend the ceremony.

"You're looking at three terrific energy savers. Two of them are free, from Puget Power."

"The terrific one in the middle is me. I may not look it but I'm 83. And I'm still at it. I sing, I dance, I'm an actor, and I'm a stand-up comedian. Of course if I hadn't conserved my energy, by now I'd be a sit-down comedian.

"Conserving energy; that's important. Because when you still got it, you should want to keep it. And to help you keep it, Puget Power is offering customers some free energy savers.

"One is a little gadget called a water restrictor. You put it in your showerhead to keep from getting into so much hot water.

"And if you have electric heat, you can get some free insulation gaskets to stop air leaks around your electric outlets. I'm getting some of those for myself. A man of my age can always use a couple of spare gaskets. A couple more outlets wouldn't hurt, either.

"Anyway, ask Puget Power for your energy savers. There's no charge. That's an electric joke; hope you get a charge out of it."

We've still got it. Let's conserve it.

High School sports year 1978-79 recently drew to a close.

Each of the four local high schools — Mt. Rainier, Federal Way, Decatur and Jefferson — had team and individual performer successes.

The Mt. Rainier girls' basketball team won the NPSL girls' basketball championship. Footballer Dennis Erickson and hoopster Cindy Breed were Player(s) of the Year in their respective sports.

Decatur's volleyball team, under the direction of first-year coach Kay Blocki, won a berth in the state AA tournament. Girl cross-country runner Kerry Johnson, only a frosh, trotted her way to the state AA meet.

Jefferson's soccer team took the SPSL title and placed fourth in state. The Raider basketball squad was the top SPSL AAA-class entry into the West Central Tournament and progressed to regionals.

Federal Way tied for the SPSL baseball title, a championship the Eagles have won or shared the past four years. The Federal Way girls won the SPSL cross-country and track titles. The Eagle girls have been undefeated in dual-meet action the past three seasons.

Many programs were under the direction of new coaches. The rookie skippers, who took over established programs, included Federal Way head football Doug Adkins and Mt. Rainier track coach Karl Cordes.

Basketball '79: Jefferson - Federal Way split spirited rivalry

Basketball season was highlighted by the rebirth of a local rivalry.

The Federal Way Eagles and the Jefferson Raiders fought through two emotional games to a series split. The outcome of the first contest had a direct effect on the future of both teams.

The two teams hit the floor at the Jefferson gym Friday, Jan. 12, with identical 2-2 records. The Eagles were the dominant force throughout most of the game.

They built a 24-17 lead with six seconds left in the first half and held a 48-44 lead with 59 seconds remaining to play. Federal Way attempted to wear the clock away with ball-control offense, but a frisky TJ defense didn't allow that to happen. The Raiders were whistled for numerous fouls in the late going, but the Eagles only converted one of five free throw chances during the game's final two minutes.

Jefferson tied the score at 48-48 with 23 seconds left, but Federal Way appeared to have the last chance to win the high-charged dual.

Before the contest, Federal Way coach Gary Brines predicted that the first team to 50 points would win. He was dead right, but things didn't go his way.

With 18 seconds remaining, referee Darold Alley called Eagle guard Dan Weedman for an over-and-back violation. He judged that Weedman had not established himself in backcourt before taking an inbounds pass.

Jefferson took over possession and knocked 17 clicks off the clock with three perimeter passes. With one second left, sophomore guard Jay Gard lofted a 23-footer that hit nothing but net just after the final buzzer sounded.

The final score was Jefferson's only lead of the night.

The initial win over Federal Way began a string of eight straight Jefferson victories. The streak put the Raiders in superior playoff contention. The loss turned out to be a major stumbling block in Federal Way's quest of a playoff berth.

But the Eagles got their revenge by snapping TJ's win streak Friday, Feb. 11.

Game No. 2 was a give-and-take affair until Federal Way moved ahead, 25-20, with 3:12 left in the first half. The Eagles slowly pulled away from the cold-shooting Raiders.

With 53 seconds left, the Eagles took their biggest lead of the game at 41-25, and, at that moment, a bag of flour broke loose above the Jefferson student body. The flour poured onto 10 rows of Raider rosters.

Two Federal Way students had rigged a pulley system from the Eagle rooting section, through the ceiling rafters, to a point above the unsuspecting TJ side. The prank may have been in retaliation to a fight, which interrupted game No. 1 and involved a number of students from both sides.

The Eagles took a 57-41 win which elated coach Brines. Jefferson regrouped to take its next two SPSL contest to gain the league's top berth into the West Central AAA Tournament. The Raiders guaranteed themselves a slot in the regional portion of the state tournament by beating Juanita then ranked the No. 5 team in the state polls. The Raiders were nipped, 47-45, by No. 3 ranked Sammamish in the West Central championship game.

However, Jefferson received recognition for its hoop efforts by being ranked No. 7 in state before entering the state tourney. The Raiders' stay at state was a short one. After leading most the way first-round match the Raiders fell, 59-55, season with a 16-8 in a single-elimination against Shorecrest, Jefferson ended their overall mark.

Featuring

Jack McCulloch recently was voted Federal Way High School's Coach of the Year by the school's athletes.

McCulloch has been the Eagles' head soccer coach for five winning seasons. He led this season's squad, which was dominated by sophomores and juniors, to a 11-1-2 record and second place in the South Puget Sound League. Last spring, his booters finished third in the state tournament.

McCulloch is an assistant football coach at Federal Way. After the first game of the 1977 season, a surprise resignation by head coach Steve Price put McCulloch in charge of the grid program for the remainder of the season. He coached the Eagles to five wins in the remaining eight outings.

Jack McCulloch

Other top performances: Evan Weaver of Star Lake, Jeff Daniels of Woodmont and Travis Sims of Lakeland were triple winners in the recently held Kiwanis Junior Olympics for elementary school youngsters.

Golf correction

Bobbe Hoffman won the Foster Women's Golf Club spring tournament recently. The name was incorrectly spelled Hossman in a recent issue.

The club is still encouraging interested women to join. For more information please call 242-4221. The club's next event will be a best-ball tournament later this month.

Football '78:

Decatur scores first SPSL win, Eagles almost upset number-one

Decatur's first South Puget Sound League victory and Federal Way's narrow miss of a major upset over Sumner highlighted the 1978 grid season.

The Decatur Gators suffered an 0-11 initiation to the SPSL gridiron in 1977. Head coach Keith Koehn vowed that the same thing wouldn't happen during the Gators' second go-around. Decatur started its 1978 slate with two losses, but the Gators showed an ability to keep scoring margins closer than the year before.

Finally, on Oct. 6, the Gators posted win number one in a 13-12 overtime thriller. The victim was district rival Jefferson, which never came closer to an opponent in a winless season.

In its previous two outings of the season, Decatur failed to wipe the "0" off its portion of the scoreboard. Jefferson appeared ready to continue the Gators' goose-eggitis.

The Raiders took a 6-0 lead in the third quarter when sophomore quarterback Jay Gard scampered eight yards into the Gator end zone. In the fourth quarter, the Decatur scoring drought came to an end when Ed Camden capped a gambling drive by spotting Steve Babcock with a three-yard touchdown pass; however, Jefferson end Brad Sanner broke through the Gator line to block Steve Babcock's ensuing extra-point attempt.

Sanner's effort put the game into Kansas-style overtime. Each team received a chance to score in four downs from the opponent's 10-yard line. The two teams would have continued exchanging possession until one outscored the other with an equal number of offensive chances, but the outcome was settled in just two series.

Decatur had first possession of the show-down, and Camden immediately hit Steve Huff with a 10-yard strike to give the Gators a 12-6 edge. Babcock booted an extra point that later proved critical. Jefferson retaliated by jamming the ball in the Decatur end zone in three plays. Dean DeMulling grounded out the last three yards.

Jefferson coach Jim Gard, knowing that Jefferson's kicking game had been shaken in earlier games, elected to go for a victory by calling for a two-point conversion attempt. His son Jay rolled to right with tailback Bob Bolam trailing as a potential pitch outlet. The Gator line stormed Gard before he could turn the corner. He made a desperate toss to Bolam, but the flip missed its mark ending J's victory hopes.

After the landmark win, coach Koehn predicted that Gator football may begin an upswing. He was right.

The next week, Decatur clipped Rogers by an identical 13-12 tally. Camden highlighted the Gator effort by hitting 12 passes in 21 attempts for 158 yards. However, Decatur football fortunes took a reverse in the next five outings.

The disenchantment, prompted a frustrated Koehn to criticize elements within Decatur High School which he felt hampered the football program. Koehn's comments, printed in the Federal Way News, were not well received by certain Decatur High and Federal Way District administrators. Although no formal steps were taken to remove Koehn from his head coaching position, he resigned the poss in April.

Federal Way High, under new head coach Doug Adkins, had a roller-coaster grid season. The Eagles were often their own worst enemies as fumbles and penalties continually stymied their performance.

Still, Federal Way was one of the most exciting football teams in the South Puget Sound League. The Eagles could move the ball against anybody, and, if they didn't stop themselves, they could ring up the scoreboard with gusto.

Possibly the point of the season which decided whether Federal Way would be a title threat or an also-ran came during the fifth game of the SPSL campaign.

On Oct. 5, the Eagles, then 2-2 in league, were matched against the powerful Sumner Spartans at Federal Way Stadium. The undefeated Sparts came into the contest ranked as the state's No. 1 AAA-class football team. Their lineup was dominated by starters from the 1977 state championship squad.

But the Eagles were primed for an upset.

The Spartans struck early in the first quarter after recovering a Federal Way fumble on the initial series of the game. Ron Arca cracked a 11-yard scoring run to a 37-yard drive.

Then Federal Way took control of the game. In the second quarter, Scott Theiss zipped a 53-yard touchdown pass. Garth Savage added the extra point to tie the score at 7-7.

The Eagles continued to move the ball. As the clock ticked down the final seconds before halftime, Federal Way had the ball inside the Sumner 10 but had no timeouts remaining. The Eagles attempted to surprise the Sparts with run up the middle, but Sumner stopped them cold. The clock ran out before Federal Way could get a field goal attempt set up.

As the Eagles jogged to the locker room after halftime, Adkins stood, hand on hips' staring with marked frustration at the spent clock.

The Eagles continued to move through the vaunted Sumner defense in the third period, but referees' flags continually hit them at crucial times.

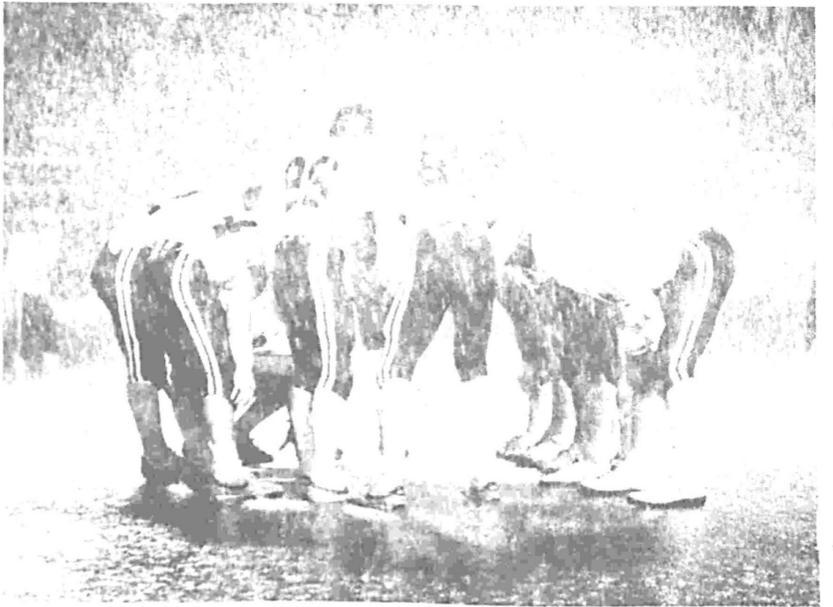

Fumble-itis struck Federal Way late in the third quarter. Sumner pounced on the ball at the FW 36, and the Sparts took full advantage of the miscue by hitting paydirt early in the fourth quarter. Arca who gained 120 yards during the game and later was recognized as an All-State fullback, rumbled the final 3.

On their next possession, Sumner drove 56 yards to put the game out of reach. Federal Way scored the contest's final touchdown on a 3-yard scamper.

The 20-14 defeat was a bitter one for Federal Way. The Eagles had outgained the Spartans in total yardage 347 to 162. Theiss completed 11 of 17 passes for 193 yards.

Adkins conceded that the loss took Federal Way out of the race for the title and casted the Eagles "in the spoiler role" for the remainder of the season. Federal Way began its spoiler act the next week by upending title-contending Puyallup, 7-0. The Eagles three of their last four contests to post a 5-4 season record.

THE FEDERAL WAY Eagles huddled during a monsoon storm during a game against Decatur. Federal Way posted a 5-4 record under new coach Doug Adkins. The Eagles had a strong offense, but fumbles and penalties vexed them throughout the season.

From the Dugout

by Carol Heath

Editor's note: It was a big night for National's midget team Standard Auto Parts last week as they faced the undefeated Danola team, coming up as the "winners" with a close 17-15 score.

Strong hitting in the first inning was evident as Jeff Perry hit a double hitting in two runs for Standard Auto, while Danola's Daniel Lee hit a home run and both teams ended up with seven runs each.

Midget ball features close but high scores

Good defensive play by Danola's Aaron Baczuk and Lance Johnson helped hold Standard Auto Parts to only one run, a homer slammed by Scot Clirehugh.

Clirehugh was responsible for a triple in the third while teammate, Preston Larson turned out a neat home run putting Standard Auto Parts ahead. The fifth was a crucial inning, but Danola just couldn't keep up and Standard Auto handed them their first loss of the season.

In another midget confrontation Overson Construction and the Cratsenberg Royals locked horns with the Royals squeaking out a one-run victory of 24-23.

Overson took first turn at bat and scored five runs, while Cratsenberg Royals' Gregg Landskov was responsible for the last two outs due to his excellent fielding on the mound as he fired the ball to 1st baseman, Jeff Berry.

Landskov also had a good day at the plate as he scored home runs in the first and third innings. Doubles were hit in the first by his teammates Shawn Huey and Chris Taylor, while Jamie Short blasted a nice double in the third.

Strong hitting was the order of the day as Berry pounded out another homer for Cratsenberg in the second. The Royals were retired in that inning by a fine catch by Overson's short stop as he went for a pop-up fly. Cratsenberg shortstop Joe Alexander dominated the defensive play in the fourth as he initiated all three outs with plays to first base.

In the fifth Overson scored four making it a must for the Royals to score three to win. Alexander hit a neat double followed by a base hit by Michele Scallon who both scored tying the game. Next Taylor got on with a hit and was batted in by Short for the winning run.

Extra effort and good hits by right fielder Kristi Grasser earned her the team's special award for that day.

The Gourmet Coffee Majors team racked up two victories last week with fine hitting leading the way to these big wins. Those players responsible for the strong offensive front were Nick Schichtle, 1 triple, 1 double, and 2 singles; Dan Reichl, 1 triple, 1 double, and 2 singles; Jerrod Hainline, 1 double and 1 single; John Barrows, 2 singles; Robby Wells, 2 singles; Doug Shorten, 1 double; Mike Reed, 1 double; and a triple turned home run by the fancy footwork of Troy Lewis.

A game is not all offense however, and pitchers Schichtle and Hainline each won a game by going the distance and keeping these games firmly under control.

The first win of the week, against Buddigs Bulls, was a close 6-5 victory with steady defensive plays by Gourmet Coffee helping to back up pitcher, Schichtle. Barrows and Hainline both made good catches in the field, while Jeff Heath executed a nice double play, helping to stop the bulls from busting loose. In game No. 2 against the Federal Way Elks, Wells made a pair of fine catches in center field in innings one and three, while teammate Lewis leaped high in the air in the crucial sixth to stop another one in center field bringing the crowd to their feet with applause and helping the Gourmet Coffee squad to brew a 12-10 win.

St. Vincent continues to be a Church League threat

Tyee's Boyce collects hoop shoot honors

A clutch performance, in the hoop shoot competition, by Brian Boyce carried the Tyee Totems to an early team lead in the Robinson Newspapers superstars competition.

The competition which got underway last Monday night at the Mount Rainier gym featured some fine shooting by both the boys and girls entered in the event.

Boyce went into the final round of competition trailing Kennedy's Brian DeFeo by nine points 48-39. But a string of four three pointers scored from the right baseline inside the final 20 seconds gave Boyce the victory with a total of 57 points. The victory was worth 30 points to Boyce and his teammates.

Mount Rainier's Gina Castagna won the girls competition with 51 points. Until Boyce's final attempt Castagna's total topped the entire field of 29 entries including the boys.

Castagna went into the final round of competition trailing Rosella Yates of Highline by eight points, 44-36, but a steady performance throughout the entire two minute drill provided Castagna with the victory.

Other finishers for the girls behind Castagna and Yates were Jamie Traynor of Foster, third place, Cathy Benitez of Kennedy, fourth place and Leisa Kerr of Tyee finished in fifth place.

Boyce's teammate Brad Gua finished in a tie for third place along with John Parker of Foster. The two finished the evening tied at 47 points. They were followed by Brian Vranizan of Glacier with 46 points.

Kennedy's Tom Castagna, who incidentally is the brother of Gina, finished in a tie for fifth place with Curt Cleaveland of Evergreen. Castagna entered the competition as the favorite to capture the individual title after his performance two years ago, which saw him place second.

Tonight the competition will resume with the boys and girls ice race scheduled for the Burien Ice Chalet beginning at 7.

Tomorrow evening, Highline Memorial Stadium will be the scene of round 1 team tug-of-war, the finals in the girls high jump and the finals in the boys weight lifting. Preliminaries in the boys and girls bike race and the preliminaries in the girls obstacle course will round out the evening.

Tickets for the competition can be purchased at all seven high schools along with the Athletic Department sporting goods store and Dick's Camera and Sound.

St. Vincent de Paul I showed why they have been a power in the Federal Way Recreation Church Softball League for so many years. Last week they remained unbeaten with victories over the two newest members of the league. First they frustrated Langdren Memorial II, 14-6, then beat Lutheran Church of the Cross, 24-12.

Against Langdren, St. Vincent had 21 hits, 20 of them singles with Jim Tinsley leading the way with four hits in four at bats. Against the Lutherans Russ Jensen and Jim Lewis led on extra base hit assault with home runs for St. Vincent. Ron Scott had a homer and a triple for the losers.

St. Vincent de Paul II pulled the upset of the week knocking off Evergreen Bible Chapel, 11-8. Jack Homans went three for four for the winners.

Harold Schleiffers' three hits and Red Heritage's eight strikeouts helped Langdren Memorial I remain undefeated in a tough 11-6 win over Midway Covenant. Langdren scored nine times in the fifth inning to pull out the win.

Bethel Chapel kept pace with the leaders with a 17-10 victory over Lutheran Church of the Cross. Don Coplin and Roy Miller were the hitting stars for Bethel.

Jerry Hainline threw five innings of no hit ball as St. Theresa capitalized on walks in beating Chris Lutheran 11-4.

Dwayne Heier pitched and hit Trinity Lutheran to a 17-3 win over Des Moines Gospel. Dwayne went the distance on the mound and contributed four hits to the Trinity attack.

The final game of the week saw Steel

Lake Presbyterian score six runs in the sixth inning to top All Saints Lutheran, 12-8.

Two showdown games are on the schedule as the season reaches the halfway mark. Tonight Langdren Memorial I, number one in the American Division, meets number two, St. Theresa at Kilo Junior High. Friday National Division leader St. Vincent I takes on second place Bethel Chapel at Sacajawea start at 7 p.m.

HOW TO BUY A LAWN MOWER.

VACUUM ACTION. Check to see if it has powerful vacuum action that cleans your lawn as it mows, an optional mulcherizer that mulches grass clippings and an optional Snapperizer that pulverizes leaves.

LARGE GRASS BAG. Look for a bag that needs emptying less often. One that's between the handles for easy maneuvering in tight spots.

TRACTION DRIVE. Be certain the self-propelled mower has rear-wheel drive for greater traction.

SIX SPEED. Check to see that it has a 6-speed transmission for easy handling.

CHECK LIST. Now, if it has everything we've mentioned, buy it. It's a Snapper.

FUGUA
All Snapper mowers meet A.N.S.I. safety specifications.

GOODYEAR WINNERS CIRCLE

Be A Winner . . . Go Goodyear!
Here's quality for much less than you might expect to pay.

There are a lot of low priced tires you could buy. But we don't think you can buy a better one than the Goodyear Power Streak. It's Goodyear's least expensive tire. And for many people it's our best value.

The Power Streak has a special six rib tread, designed specifically for good all-around traction and cornering ability. Its durable diagonal ply body is built with individual cross-plies of polyester cord. You get dependable strength as well as flexibility.

Instead of buying a cheap tire, get a good tire at a very good price. Check out the Power Streak tire.

Soccer '79: Raiders and Eagles battle to the wire

The most high school soccer interest in the state definitely is in Federal Way, and the Jefferson Raiders and the Federal Way Eagles did nothing to deter that situation this spring.

The two teams locked hooves twice during the season. The final dual decided the South Puget Sound League title and a state tourney berth.

The two rivals met in game No. 1 Thursday, April 19. Federal Way came into the contest with a 5-0-1 record, 11 points in the league's scoring format. Jefferson entered at 5-0 with 10 points.

Jefferson was figured as the favorite by the majority of local soccer enthusiasts. The Raiders, according to the experts, were more seasoned and played a more sophisticated brand of soccer. However, Federal Way coach Jack McCulloch took his chances by concentrating manpower on the offensive end. By using halfback pressure toward the forward line, the Eagles kept the pressure of the TJ net throughout the contest.

McCulloch's gamble paid off 12 minutes into the contest when Randy LaFleur controlled a loose ball in front of the TJ net and banged home a 10-yarder. Todd Zimberg set the play up by lofting a pass to forward Tim Sedlacek. But the Eagles retaliated with two goals in the final 20 minutes.

David Schoon charged the goal from his halfback area and side-kicked a 20-yard rebound into the left side of the TJ net. Mark Hildebrandt, who was a big factor in Federal Way's pressing offense throughout the game, hit the clincher with five minutes left in the contest. He zoomed an extreme right-angle shot in front of Paulson barely inside the goal's far post.

Most of those in the crowd, which number about 1,200, knew that final confrontation between the two district rivals probably would decide the title. The two coaches, McCulloch and TJ's John Cameron, also predicted a showdown for the championship in game No. 2. Neither felt his team would lose until the rematch, and that came true.

Jefferson reeled off six straight wins. The Eagles tallied five wins and a tie. Federal Way had 24 league points going into second match with TJ, the SPSL finale for the Eagles. The Raiders had 22 but had a makeup game against winless Rogers to look forward to. A Raider win would almost assure an SPSL crown for Jefferson. A tie probably would force a post-season playoff between the the Eagles and the Raiders for a state tourney berth. A Federal Way victory would lock up an Eagle championship.

The Raiders rose to the task Tuesday, May 15, by reversing the earlier 3-1 defeat. The more than 1,400 spectators saw Jefferson's smooth-passing offense take control of game No. 2.

Midway through the first half, John Knox gave Jefferson its first goal by hammering home a pass from Ken Fuegman. At the 13-minute mark of the second half, Fuegman gave the Raiders a 2-0 lead by powering a 30-yard liner into the right corner of the Federal Way goal.

Ron Pierce insured a Jefferson win with an 18-yard rebound with 20 minutes left. Federal Way finally connected with the Raider goal when Darin McKeown smacked in a penalty kick in the late minutes.

Jefferson went on to beat Rogers, 2-0, and post a 2-1 victory over Peninsula in the state quarterfinals. The Raiders dropped a 3-1 decision to eventual state-champion Sammamish in the state semi-finals. A 2-1 loss to Kennedy in the consolation contest made the Raiders settle for fourth in state.

Outdoor tips and tales

Time never moves slower in the outdoors than when you're laboring up a steep wooded hill toward a road or ridge. You see daylight through the tree tops, which promises level ground ahead, but you never seem to get there.

The real moment of truth is not in how fast you make it up that hill, but in how quickly you recover. If you're in good shape, you feel good after a brief rest. If you didn't bounce back quickly the last time out, now is the time to start getting in shape for next fall. You don't need to kill yourself with jogging, weights or other fads. One of the best hikers and climbers I know simply walks briskly for about half an hour. He keeps up with the best.

Park playground toys not budgeted

Last week's approval of the Senate budget severed hopes of state funding for new playground equipment at Saltwater State Park during the coming biennium, but area representatives may secure the funding elsewhere.

Eric Rohrbach, R-33rd District, said last week that although the allowance for the new equipment was cut from the state budget, he is planning to investigate "free-floating" funds in departments such as parks and recreation. "We're hopeful we can still find something," he said.

Complaints about the absence of playground equipment surfaced last month, shortly after the swingset—the sole piece of equipment remaining in the park—was removed. Throughout the past year, slides and teeter tots also were removed, leaving virtually no equipment on which the youngsters visiting the park may play.

Complaints were received by both the State Parks and Recreation Commission and by those who operate Saltwater State Park, but the park manager says the equipment is too unsafe to be used any longer in the park.

ACCORDING TO MANAGER Don Malley, the equipment was second hand when installed in Saltwater State Park. When it became too old to maintain, he removed it and placed it in storage at the park, where Malley says it will remain.

He also pointed out that the state incurred a $1,500 lawsuit after a young girl was injured last year when a swing broke in the park. The solution to preventing similar accidents is to acquire new equipment, he said.

But that equipment is estimated to cost $20,000, a sum that would purchase a new log-type climbing toy, and also the sum that was not included in the Senate budget.

With those hopes dashed, Rohrbach said he will meet with the head of the Parks and Recreation Commission sometime this month to see what's available in terms of funding. "There just may be some money we can use outside the budget," he said.

Sea-Tac traffic up

Total air passenger traffic for April through Sea-Tac International Airport was 734,438 according to the monthly operations report by Donald G. Shay, director of aviation, Port of Seattle.

This is 21.7 percent above April 1978 and is the 49th consecutive month of passenger traffic increases.

Air freight for April was 17,855 tons, an increase of 12.8 percent over April last year. Despite last month's United Airlines' strike which caused a 14 percent drop in commercial aircraft flight operations, passenger traffic maintained a strong increase of 21 percent.

This was due to two factors. First, the other airlines absorbed most of the overloads from United and the other airlines were able to handle the steady increase of passenger traffic at Sea-Tac. Second, Sea-Tac has recently added several new major airlines to its roster of airline tenants.

Single family home sales strong despite higher costs

The price of a single-family home continued to rise during the first few months of 1979, but the market remains strong and condominiums are showing signs of strength, according to the spring housing market survey of the National Association of Realtors.

By March the median price of a resale home was $53,800—15.7 percent higher than in March of 1978 and nearly one-third higher than the median price of just two years ago. The report also points out that new homes, which cost somewhat more than existing properties, also have been appreciating rapidly.

"The median price of new homes which sold in March was $60,400," the report said, "a jump of 13.5 percent over the same month last year and 30.7 percent more than March 1977."

Real estate experts predict that the prices of single-family properties will continue to climb and most indicated that the rate of increase will continue at a double-digit pace.

The actual rate of sales in March was at a seasonally-adjusted rate of 3,650,000 units and while this is a strong level, the report says, it is below the same period in 1978 when homes were moving at an annualized rate in excess of 4,000,000 units.

If single-family housing is slowing ever so slightly, the condominium market seems to be taking up some of the slack, according to survey results.

"One of the most interesting results of our survey was the extraordinary performance in the market for condominiums," Donald I. Hovde, president of the National Association of Realtors said.

"Most of the respondents in the survey stated that the demand for newly constructed and converted condos is greater than in the spring of last year.

"The increased level of consumer interest in condominiums has produced a good deal of developer enthusiasm for construction of new units as well as the conversion of rental units," Hovde continued. "Part of the appeal of condos is that in many areas they are the only available housing in a price range which is affordable to many first-time buyers."

Get ready for summer entertaining

Get out the barbecue grill, clear off the picnic table and put on the apron. It's time for summer cooking - the light and easy way.

With anticipated warm days approaching, elegant indoor entertaining changes to informal in the relaxing outdoors. This switch also means meals take on a summery coolness and flavor.

Judy Cozine, an avid cook who loves preparing foods because, "It lets me be creative," teaches cooking classes through several local cookware shops. For customers of the Panhandler, she recently took them through the preparation for a summer evening meal.

Focusing on foods that can be easily made ahead of time, Mrs. Cozine says, hostesses or hosts should prepare a meal that allows them time to relax with their guests, utilize fresh produce and foods that correspond with the weather.

"When entertaining, consider the changing weather and temperatures," she said. "You don't want to serve hot soup or a heavy meal on a terribly warm day. It may make your guests uncomfortable."

Instead, she recommends serving light and refreshing cold soups and salads.

"Since many of the days are frequently cool in this area, most people eat hot soups and seldom try the chilled. But on those occasional hot days, they make a nice treat for lunch or dinner," the former Philadelphian said.

She suggests a frothy avocado soup to begin a meal, followed by a salad that combines economical fresh produce.

"Summer is great for using the delicious in-season produce. Meals should be planned around the fruits and vegetables available at the market."

After moving from the East

Coast three years ago, Mrs. Cozine recalls, she and her family went crazy over the fresh seafood that was readily available here. She tries to incorporate the many varieties into her entertaining menus.

Although the major emphasis of a meal is the food, the presentation is just as important.

"You want your meal attractive so the guests will sit up and take notice. This is done by dressing the food dishes with color, texture and taste," Mrs. Cozine explained.

This can be accomplished by beginning the meal with a creamy chilled soup, followed by a crunchy salad, flakey fish and rich entree and concluded with fresh fruit or a sponge cake.

Fresh fruits added to the entree will brighten up the plate.

"Summer meals can be so exciting with the bright, vivid colors created by the produce," Mrs. Cozine said. "A wedge of watermelon, a lemon slice or a sprig of parsley can make the meal very eye-appealing."

For an added touch, the dishes used to serve the meal can also give an elegant look. For dessert, Mrs. Cozine suggests serving crushed strawberries with ice cream in champagne glasses.

"One thing about summer cooking, you can just about forget using the stove," the cook said. "Most of the cooking can be done on the grill."

After marinating the fish or meat, Mrs. Cozine cooks it on the grill and adds her vegetables wrapped in foil. However, some vegetables are best steamed or stir-fried on the stove.

"We need food to eat, but it's so much more fun to be creative and make the meals fun and entertaining," she said. "And that is the purpose behind light and easy entertaining."

JUDY COZINE loves creative cookery, especially when it is light and easy, during the summer season.

QUICK AND versatile food processors add ease to making a cool summer soup.

Judy Cozine's fast and easy recipes

AVOCADO SOUP

- 2 ripe avocados
- 1 1/2 cups chicken stock
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 cup light cream
- 1/4 cup sour cream
- Salt to taste
- Fresh ground pepper to taste
- Dash cayenne
- Lemon slices

1. In blender or food processor fitted with the blade, combine avocados, chicken stock and lemon juice. Blend until smooth.

2. Add cream, sour cream and seasonings. Mix well and put in refrigerator until well chilled. Garnish with the slices of lemon.

TERIYAKI MARINADE FOR FISH

- 1/4 cup soy sauce
- 1/4 cup sake or white wine
- 1 tablespoon orange juice
- Thin slices of lemon

1. Place fish slices in marinade for 30 minutes. Top each slice with lemon.

2. Grill fish four to five minutes each side, or until done. Baste once while cooking and again when the fish is done.

3. Marinade works well with white fish and salmon.

STRAWBERRY CREAM WITH RASPBERRIES

- 2 baskets strawberries
- 1/4 cup kirsch
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup whipping cream, not whipped
- 1 box raspberries

Sieve the strawberries. Add the kirsch, sugar and cream, gently mixing to combine. Chill well. Serve in champagne glasses and top with raspberries. Makes four servings.

A LEMON wedge and white fluted bowls can give soup an eye-appealing appearance.

Homemade ice cream one of America's popular desserts

Even with the introduction of frozen yogurts and frozen natural honey mixtures to the market, ice cream remains one of America's most popular desserts. Homemade ice cream, although often considered a delicacy today, is also one of summer's most popular foods.

Homemade ice cream is made by either the stirred or the still-frozen method. The stirred method uses a crank freezer surrounded by ice and salt and turned by hand or by an electric motor. Although the electric freezer is considered almost as good, the smoothest ice cream is commonly recognized as coming from the old-fashioned freezer cranked by hand.

When using a crank freezer always sterilize the lid, can and dasher (scraper). The lid should fit tightly and the inside can should be water tight to prevent melted ice from seeping into the ice cream mixture.

Crush the ice in a canvas bag with a mallet or buy crushed ice. Use coarse rock salt. Measure out the ice and salt before hand, ready to use, or measure it as you go along — about eight parts ice to one part salt.

PLACEMENT
PLACE THE CAN IN the tub and fit the dasher in place. Pour the chilled ice cream mixture into the can, filling it no more than two-thirds full to allow for expansion. Put on the cover and adjust the top and crank. Turn once or twice to be sure the equipment is in place.

Fill the tub one-third full of crushed ice. Put in the rest of the ice and salt in layers until slightly above the level of the mixture in the can. Pack the ice down solidly with a wooden spoon. Let stand five minutes and begin turning the crank. When the ice cream is frozen, the crank turns with difficulty. An electric freezer shuts off automatically.

In still-frozen ice cream making, rapid freezing and the use of a variety of materials that interfere with crystal formation are relied on to keep the crystals small. Rapid freezing is aided by setting the controls of the refrigerator at the lowest setting. The mixture can also be removed from the refrigerator occasionally and stirred to remove it from the sides of the container. Air can be added by folding in a fluffy beaten product such as whipped cream, or by taking the ice cream from the refrigerator and beating before freezing is completed.

Here's how to beat the heat

Pineapple Ice Cream
½ cup sugar
1 cup water
Dash of salt
About 1 to 1-¼ cups (one 9-oz. can) crushed pineapple
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Bring first three ingredients to boil and boil for 5 minutes. Cool. Add pineapple; pour into tray. Freeze in freezing compartment of refrigerator or in freezer until mushy. Fold in cream; freeze until firm. Makes 1 quart.

Almond Ice Cream
3 eggs
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup water
¼ cup fresh milk
1-¾ cups heavy cream or 1 can (14-½ oz.) un-diluted evaporated milk, partially frozen

¾ teaspoon almond extract
Beat eggs and sugar until light in top part of double boiler; stir in water and fresh milk. Cook, stirring constantly, over hot, not boiling, water until thick enough to coat a metal spoon. Chill. Whip partially frozen cream until stiff. Fold in egg mixture and almond extract. Freeze in refrigerator tray at coldest temperature until frozen 1 inch in from edge of tray. Turn into chilled bowl and beat with a rotary beater until creamy. Return to tray and chill until firm. Makes 6 servings.

More for the money during Dairy Month

A special supper for June Dairy Month is a real bargain any way you look at it. It's nutritious, economical, appetizing and attractive. When dairy products, fresh fruits and vegetables team up in recipes, the results are bound to be outstanding. Waste free dairy products are protein rich choices for satisfying entrees. And they're equally as versatile in wholesome desserts. No wonder so many consumers begin their shopping list at the dairy case.

A golden cheese casserole topped with bright tomato slices looks as good as it tastes. It has Washingtonians' favorite combination of Monterey Jack and Cheddar cheese with diced green chiles. A mixture of half and half, egg yolks and beaten egg whites poured over the cheese gives the dish a melt-in-the-mouth texture. As the casserole bakes, all the flavors blend deliciously.

For dessert, there's a flavorful apple custard baked in a buttery pastry crust. Spiced apple yogurt combined with eggs makes a super-quick and easy custard to spoon over fresh apple slices. Almonds are sprinkled over the top before baking. Let the dessert cool a bit before serving and garnish with whipped cream.

A fresh green salad and hot sour cream biscuits round out this home-style Dairy Month supper. Invite some guests and dine enjoyably outside.

Ice cold milk is the perfect beverage to serve with meals and in between. Besides its nutritional value, milk makes a refreshing thirst quencher during the warm weather months. In addition to regular homogenized milk, consumers may choose lowfat milk, nonfat milk, buttermilk and extra rich milk. Other fluid milk products include whipping cream, half and half and chocolate milk.

Two Cheese Chili Casserole
1 (4-oz) can diced green chiles
½ lb grated Monterey Jack cheese
½ lb grated Cheddar cheese
2 eggs, separated
½ cup half and half
1 tbslp flour

Few dashes pepper
1 medium tomato, sliced

Combine chiles and grated cheeses. Turn into buttered, shallow

1 ½-quart baking dish. Beat egg whites with electric mixer at high speed until stiff peaks form. Beat egg yolks with half and half, flour, salt and pepper. Fold in egg whites. Pour over cheese mixture in baking dish. Cut through cheese with fork to partially mix ingredients. Bake in 375 degree oven 20 minutes. Carefull place tomato slices on top. Bake about 25 minutes longer until light golden and set in center. Makes 4 servings.

Everyday Prices!

When you shop Lucky, you're likely to find prices lower by a few cents here and there. It may not seem dramatic, item by item, but it is! The fact that Lucky may not be lower than some stores on some items is due to the fact that we won't sell below cost. But we are lower on so many items, it really adds up. Lucky's low everyday discount prices apply to every item carried by Lucky (except those restricted by law).

Learning to make crepes

What do crepes blintzes, egg rolls and cannelloni all have in common? They are all very thin, delicate pancakes made with a batter of flour and eggs. Once you learn to prepare the pancakes, a change in filling will transform the specialty of one nation into that of another.

For an all-purpose crepe batter, combine three eggs, one-half cup milk, one-half cup water and three tablespoons melted butter in a mixing bowl. Beat until combined. Add three-fourth cup all-purpose flour and one-half teaspoon salt. Beat until smooth. Or, if you like, combine all the ingredients in a blender container and blend until smooth, about a minute or two. Refrigerate batter for one hour.

To bake crepes in the traditional manner, heat a well seasoned crepe or omelet pan over medium-high. Brush it lightly with melted butter and pour in only enough batter to thinly coat the bottom of the pan. Tipping and tilting the pan as you pour in the batter will help to produce an evenly thin pancake. You may need as little as two tablespoons or up to almost one-fourth cup of batter for each crepe, depending on the size of your pan. Any excess batter can be poured off. Holes can be "patched" with a drop or two of batter. In less than a minute, when the bottom is lightly browned and the top dry, the crepe can be removed from the pan or turned to brown the other side.

TO TRANSFORM FRENCH crepes into Jewish blintzes, fill them with cottage cheese, thickened with an egg or two, sweetened with sugar and flavored with either grated lemon peel, raisins or cinnamon. Place the filled and rolled blintzes seam-side down on a buttered baking pan. Brush with butter and brown in the oven or under the broiler. Offer dairy sour cream and preserves as blintz toppings.

If you'd like to turn your French crepes into Chinese egg rolls, fill them with a mixture of finely chopped or minced cooked shrimp and pork, celery, water chestnuts and bamboo shoots seasoned with wine, soy sauce and green onion. An egg will bind the filling mixture together. Roll the filled pancakes and seal them with a bit of uncooked batter. Brown the egg rolls in hot fat just before you serve them with a choice of hot mustard and sweet and sour fruit sauces.

It's easy to make Italian cannelloni with French crepes. Simply fill the crepes with seasoned chopped cooked meat or fish bound with egg yolks or gravy. Try veal and anchovies, or chicken and ham. Place the filled and rolled cannelloni on a buttered baking dish, glaze with olive oil and butter and sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake until the pancakes are warm and the cheese melted.

Meat loaves have a rare versatility over other meat dishes

Since colonial times, there have been as many meat loaf recipes as there are people who make them. Meat loaves have a versatility rare in other meat dishes. Depending on your imagination and the variation of seasonings and meats used, you can make any number of different-tasting dishes — all grouped under the title "meat loaf." The following recipe combines the traditional elements of meat loaf, ground meat, bread crumbs and celery, but introduces a unique flavor with the addition of corned beef, a colonial favorite.

DOUBLE BEEF LOAF AND POTATOES
2 cans (10- $\frac{1}{4}$ ounces each) beef gravy or 2 cans (10- $\frac{1}{2}$ ounces each) brown gravy with onions
1 pound ground beef

1 can (12 ounces) corned beef, crumbled
2 slices stale white bread, crumbled
1 egg, slightly beaten
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup finely chopped celery
2 tablespoons prepared horseradish

6 medium potatoes (about two pounds), cooked and cut in half
Melted butter or margarine
Salt
Pepper
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup applesauce
Mix thoroughly one-half cup gravy, ground beef, corned beef, bread, egg, celery and one tablespoon horseradish. Shape firmly into loaf; place in shallow baking pan (11x9x2 inches). Arrange potatoes around meat. Brush with butter; season with salt and pepper. Bake at 350 degrees F. for one hour and fifteen minutes or until done. Meanwhile, in saucepan, combine remaining gravy, applesauce and remaining one tablespoon horseradish. Heat; stir occasionally. Serve with meat and potatoes. Makes six servings, about two cups gravy.

Brandied Apricot Ring brings rave reviews

It's the memory of the dessert that lingers, and whatever the occasion, every hostess likes to have that one special creation that elicits rave reviews from her guests. And so much the better when her secret is the easy combination of kitchen-friendly ingredients that result in a simply spectacular dessert.

Brandied Apricot Ring comes to the table as a picture of understated elegance. It can be prepared with ease, and well in advance of company time. Using two packages of apricot flavor gelatin provides a warming mellowness and the refreshing taste of a tangy, cooling dessert. The striking two-layer mold is made with a mixture of the gelatin, canned apricots, brandy, water and whipped topping.

BRANDIED APRICOT RING

1 can (16 oz.) apricot halves
2 packages (3 oz. each) apricot flavor gelatin
2 cups boiling water
1 container (4-1/2 oz.)

frozen whipped topping, thawed
Drain apricots, reserving syrup. Add water to syrup to make one cup. Cut apricot halves in half. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add measured liquid and brandy. Chill until slightly thickened. Add apricots to half the gelatin and pour into six-cup ring mold. Chill until set but not firm. Fold one cup of the whipped topping into remaining gelatin. Spoon into mold over clear layer. Chill until firm, about four hours. Unmold.

Recipes for quick energy

"Do something nice for your body, start with your heart" is the theme of the Aug. 26 KJR-Pepsi Heart-a-thon to benefit the American Heart Association of Washington.

Nancy Buerger, R.D., chairman of the local Heart Association's nutrition committee suggests that Heart-a-thon participants take a "backpack" of extra snacks to supplement the complimentary refreshments which will be offered to them along Heart-a-thon routes at Lake Washington, Green Lake, Seward Park and Bellevue.

Fresh fruits and vegetables which are firm and pack well are among the snacks recommended by Buerger. They include: oranges, apples, dried apricots, raisins, carrot sticks, cauliflower florets and zucchini slices. Bicyclists, walkers and joggers also may want to pack a thermos of fruit juice, if the day is warm, or hot soup, if the weather turns cool.

Recipes for quick energy foods which will help Heart-a-thoners bicycle, walk or jog that extra mile include:

ORANGE WHEAT BREAD
 2 cups white flour
 1/2 cup whole wheat flour
 1/2 cup wheat germ
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 tbslp. baking powder
 1/2 tsp. baking soda
 1 cup orange juice
 One-third cup oil
 1 egg, beaten
 1/2 cup walnuts, chopped and dusted lightly with flour
 2 tbslp. grated orange rind

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Measure dry ingredients and mix together in a large bowl. Add remaining ingredients and stir until moist. Pour into a greased 9x5-inch loaf pan. Bake for 55 minutes, or until a wooden toothpick inserted in the center of the loaf comes out clean. Remove from pan immediately. To store, wrap securely in foil or plastic. Yield: One loaf (16 slices).

RAISIN OATMEAL COOKIES
 1-3/4 cups flour
 1/2 tsp. soda
 1 tsp. salt
 1/4 tsp. cinnamon
 1-1/2 cups oatmeal
 2 egg whites
 1 cup brown sugar
 1/2 cup vegetable oil
 1/2 cup skim milk
 1 tsp. vanilla
 1 cup raisins

Sift together all the dry ingredients. Add oatmeal. Slightly beat the egg whites and add remaining ingredients. Blend in dry ingredients, mix well. Drop by teaspoon on cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for eight to 12 minutes. Yield: three dozen cookies.

Crockery cooking means more time outdoors

Chocolate Fleck Custard Pie

Old-fashioned pie with a new twist

Do you have mouth-watering visions of old-fashioned custard pie the way Grandma made it, then suddenly the visions cease as you think of the work involved to prepare it?

Now you can take the contents of one package of golden egg custard mix and let it do the work for you.

Creamy and smooth egg custard mix is the basis for this Chocolate Fleck Custard Pie, and a perfect all-occasion dessert. Grated sweet cooking chocolate is sprinkled on the flaky pie crust before it is topped with custard. Then more grated chocolate is sprinkled on the top. It tastes as good as Grandma's and it's easier to make.

Chocolate Fleck Custard Pie
1 pkg (3 oz) egg custard mix
1 cup milk
1 cup light cream or half and half
1 tsp vanilla

¼ cup grated sweet cooking chocolate
1 baked 8-inch pie shell, cooled

Blend custard mix, milk and cream in a saucepan. Bring quickly to a boil, stirring constantly. (Mixture will be thin.) Add vanilla. Cool 15 minutes, stirring often. Meanwhile, sprinkle 3 tablespoons of the grated chocolate in bottom of pie shell. Spoon cooled custard into pie shell and sprinkle with remaining grated chocolate. Chill at least 2 hours. Refrigerate any leftover pie.

With spring arriving, lots of homemakers are spending lots of time in the yard and garden getting them ready for summer living.

So - to gain more time to devote to the outdoors and, at the same time, not to have to face dinner preparation when your tasks are done, why not bring out the crock-pot? Start your main meal in the morning, let it simmer through the day, and when meal time comes - dinner is ready.

The crockery slow cooker is also an ideal appliance for a hot summer day. Menus can be planned and preparation done during the cool of the morning, and the family can enjoy a hot meal without the house or kitchen getting overheated.

"You're looking at three terrific energy savers. Two of them are free, from Puget Power."

"The terrific one in the middle is me. I may not look it but I'm 83. And I'm still at it."

"I sing, I dance, I'm an actor, and I'm a stand-up comedian. Of course if I hadn't conserved my energy, by now I'd be a sit-down comedian."

"Conserving energy; that's important. Because when you still got it, you should want to keep it. And to help you keep it, Puget Power is offering customers some free energy savers."

"One is a little gadget, called a water restrictor. You put it in your showerhead to keep from getting into so much hot water."

"And if you have electric heat, you can get some free insulation gaskets to stop air leaks around your electric outlets. I'm getting some of those for myself. A man of my age can always use a couple of spare gaskets. A couple more outlets wouldn't hurt, either."

"Anyway, ask Puget Power for your energy savers. There's no charge. That's an electric joke; hope you get a charge out of it."

We've still got it. Let's conserve it.

Cooking outdoors...anytime, anywhere

Cooking outdoors has progressed since early cave man huddled over an open fire roasting the spoils from the day's hunt. Today, this scene has changed to the patio or backyard green, or venturing away from home to a mountain camp of sandy beach to "rough it" with nature.

Wherever you set up the covered kettle or the handy portable grill, the experience is fun and exciting and the atmosphere is relaxed and enjoyed by all.

Naturally, food is the focal point of the event, and luckily you can expand beyond the traditional hot dogs and hamburgers and prepare anything from hors d'oeuvres to dessert.

For a family and friends get-together on the patio, a juicy glazed ham is always a winner and so easy to prepare on a covered kettle grill. Alongside the ham, cook a Broccoli-Cauliflower bake, topped with a tangy bacon-cheese spread, in a foil bundle to keep it hot and flavorful. Try a new bread taste sensation with Sweet Potato Roll-Ups that can be prepared the day before and reheated in a foil packet. Even the Mini Peach Crisp dessert can be heating in individual foil bundles as the ham is carved and served.

But what if your outdoor plans take you beyond the backyard? Tote along a handy portable grill and you can eat just as well "under the pines" as you would at home. Include in your menu pita bread sandwiches with teriyaki beef filling easily cooked in a foil packet to keep the beef strips tender. Chive-Buttered Carrots, also wrapped in foil are a colorful vegetable accompaniment, and a lima bean salad can chill in the cooler until the meal is ready. A strawberry sauce to spoon over cake slices can be whipped up in minutes.

Baked Ham
(Indirect method, both gas and charcoal)
12 to 14-lb whole, bone-in fully cooked ham

Whole cloves
Brown Sugar Glaze
4 to 5 pineapple slices, drained and cut into wedges

Maraschino cherries
Remove rind from ham if necessary.

Score fat criss-cross fashion with sharp knife, making shallow cuts so juices will not escape. Insert meat thermometer into center of thickest part of ham, with point away from bone and fat. Center ham, fat side up, on the cooking grill directly above a foil drip pan. Cover kettle and cook until thermometer registers 140 degrees F. Fully-cooked hams need only to be heated to serving temperature (approximately 8 to 10 minutes per pound.)

Baste ham with Brown Sugar Glaze during last 30 minutes of cooking. Garnish with pineapple wedges and cherries 10 minutes before end of cooking time; brush with glaze and allow fruit to heat. Brown Sugar Glaze: Combine 1/2 cup firmly-packed brown sugar, 3 tablespoons water and 2 teaspoons prepared mustard in small saucepan; mix and heat until sugar melts.

Cheesy Broccoli Cauliflower Bake
1 pkg (10 oz) frozen broccoli flowerets, thawed
1 pkg (10 oz) frozen cauliflower, thawed
Preheat oven to 450 degrees F. Combine baking mix and sweet potatoes. Gently gather dough into ball; knead 5 times. Roll into 12-inch circle; brush on melted butter. Cut into 12 wedges. Roll up each wedge starting at rounded end. Place, with points under, on ungreased baking sheet. Bake 8 to 10 minutes.

To reheat on grill, place rolls in center of length of heavy duty foil large enough to permit adequate wrapping. Bring two foil side up over rolls; fold down loosely in a series of locked folds allowing for heat circulation and expansion. Fold short ends up and over again; crimp to seal. Cook under grill hood over medium hot coals 15 to 20 minutes, or until hot. Makes 12 rolls.

Mini Peach Crisp
Two-thirds cup crushed macaroon cookies
2 tbsps butter or margarine
1/4 tsp nutmeg
1/4 tsp cinnamon
1 can (4 oz) sliced mushrooms
1/4 tsp salt
2 tbsps butter or margarine
1 jar (5 oz) pasteruized process cheese spread with bacon
Place broccoli, cauliflower and mushrooms in center of 18-inch square of heavy duty aluminum foil. Sprinkle with salt. Dot with butter. Bring four corners of foil up together in pyramid shape. Fold the opening together loosely to allow for heat circulation and expansion. Seal by folding over ends and pressing to package. Cook under grill hood over medium hot coals 20 to 25 minutes. Carefully open bundle and spoon on cheese spread. Grill 5 minutes or until cheese melts and vegetables are tender. Makes 6 servings.

Teriyake Beef Filling

Add onion and green pepper; cook 1 minute. Remove from heat. Add beef; mix well. Pour into center of 18-inch square of heavy duty foil. Bring four corners of foil up together in pyramid shape. Fold the opening together loosely. Seal by folding over ends and pressing to package. Grill over medium hot coals 30 to 40 minutes, or until heated through. To serve, spoon mixture into open pita bread. Makes 3 cups filling.

Chive-Buttered Carrots
1 1/2 lbs carrots, cut in three-eighth-inch strips
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 tsp salt
1 tbsps chives
2 tbsps water
Place carrots in center of square of heavy duty foil, large enough to permit adequate wrapping. Dot with butter. Sprinkle with salt and chives. Add water. Bring two foil sides up over carrots; fold down loosely in series of locked foil. Fold short ends up and over again; crimp to seal. Grill over medium hot coals 30 to 40 minutes or until carrots are tender. Makes 6 servings.

Grilled Strawberry Sauce
2 1/2 tbsps cornstarch
2 tps almond extract
2 pkgs (10 oz each) frozen strawberries, thawed
Mold 18-inch square of heavy duty foil over large can or other object that will provide a saucerpan shape. Remove foil and crimp down edges to make a rim. On a small square of foil, mix cornstarch and extract to form a paste. Combine strawberries and cornstarch paste in foil-shaped pan. Grill over medium hot coals, 20 to 25 minutes, stirring occasionally until thickened. To serve, spoon over slices of angel food cake. Makes 2 cups sauce.

Cottage cheese an yogurt ideas

Every food group has a couple of "Plain Janes," and the dairy group isn't any different. So Jan Grant, King County Extension agent, suggests that you use your imagination to change foods like cottage cheese and yogurt into tempting dishes for your family.

National Dairy Month in June is a good time to start.

Try combining cottage cheese and a small amount of dry salad dressing mix in the blender. For instance, use Italian salad dressing mix. The flavor and texture of this dip adds low calorie zing to fresh vegetables.

A small amount of yogurt added to this combination makes a smoother dip. Onion soup mix is another seasoning idea.

The blender is also a good place to change plain yogurt into dessert topping. Blend fresh fruit with the yogurt, but don't be surprised if it never makes it to the top of a dessert. This topping is delicious as a dessert by itself.

Spices can do wonders for blended cottage cheese and yogurt. This topping, on your favorite molded salad, adds flavor and food value but not too many calories.

These foods are a dieter's delight because they do combine high food value with few calories. You aren't serving any "empty" calories when cottage cheese and yogurt are on the menu, Mrs. Grant says. More ideas? Crepes, or thin pancakes, make a cool meal. They're especially good filled with a cottage cheese, egg, cardamon, Cinnamon, salt and pepper mixture. Top them off with a dab of yogurt.

Baked potatoes don't have to be filled with sour cream. Try using blended cottage cheese and yogurt. This low-calorie filler has many other possible uses. Texture and flavor changes are what make meal and snack time interesting. You can do most anything when cottage cheese and yogurt are in your refrigerator.
