

Flap ends as board asks for formal busing measure

by Loren Bliss
 The local busing controversy ended quietly Monday night when the Federal Way School Board unanimously passed a motion that directs the administration to prepare a formal resolution setting up so-called safety bus routes.

To be presented at the next board meeting, the resolution will propose a busing scheme that would provide transport, starting with the first day of the 1979-80 academic year, to about 1,700 additional elementary school pupils.

A subsequent resolution, providing expanded bus service for secondary students and probably for additional elementary pupils as well, will be considered at a later date.

The proposed routes — the 1,700 pupil runs have already been drafted — are intended to protect children from traffic hazards and other potential dangers.

Because they would serve students who live less than two miles from where they attend school, the routes will also have to be approved by Olympia. But school officials and board members are confident that the state will give the district its okay.

ROGER TAYLOR, one of the parents who had been active in the campaign to compel the board to restore school bus service to pre-1976 limits, said the decision resulted in a victory for everyone, parents and board members alike.

"I think we all won tonight," said Taylor, one of about 200 parents who attended the meeting. "I had come with a prepared speech, but I didn't have to give it."

And in the halls of the district headquarters, where parents were chatting after the critical vote, similar expressions of satisfaction were to be heard on every hand.

The turning point as far as the parents were concerned seemed to be the pre-decision presentation by school officials, which showed that the safety runs would restore much of the bus service that had been discontinued in 1976.

Prior to that year, the district provided bus service to elementary pupils who lived a mile or more from where they attended school, and to secondary students who lived 1.5 or more miles distant.

BUT A succession of failed school tax levy proposals cut the district's budget, and since then bus service has been provided only to those who live two or more miles from where they go to school.

The controversy began several weeks ago, when the board voted against restoring the service. A board consensus to consider safety runs as an alternative was somehow overlooked in the ensuing debate.

State officials say that the safety run option is the only one open to the board. A $70 million limit on state busing funds, they say, demands that all runs within the two-mile limit be approved only for safety reasons.

After the decision, Board President John Hickman commented that what had happened during the past weeks "is maybe the way a school district and its citizens ought to work."

He also said that because of the state's position, "the rest of the districts in the state" may soon face the same sort of controversy.

The board members who voted on the resolution were Hickman, Larry Van Sickle, Dick Dick School and Bill Miller. Nancy Ise was absent.

FW 'edges' face downzone

THE EDGES OF Federal Way could be reduced in density of potential development if the recommendations of the community plan revision committee are adopted by the King County Council. Revision plans now before the council's planning and community development committee suggest a decrease from the existing development density in such places as the Meredith-Laguna Hills area from six or seven units per acre to between one and three units per acre. The committee is considering that area today at a hearing in Room 402, county courthouse. Aug. 22 the committee will zero in on Spring Valley, Jovita and the Dumas, Lakota areas.

WD 56 back to normal

Hydrants that were pumping water back into the depleted tanks of Water District 56 were turned off Monday and the water levels returned to normal after that district nearly ran out of water last week.

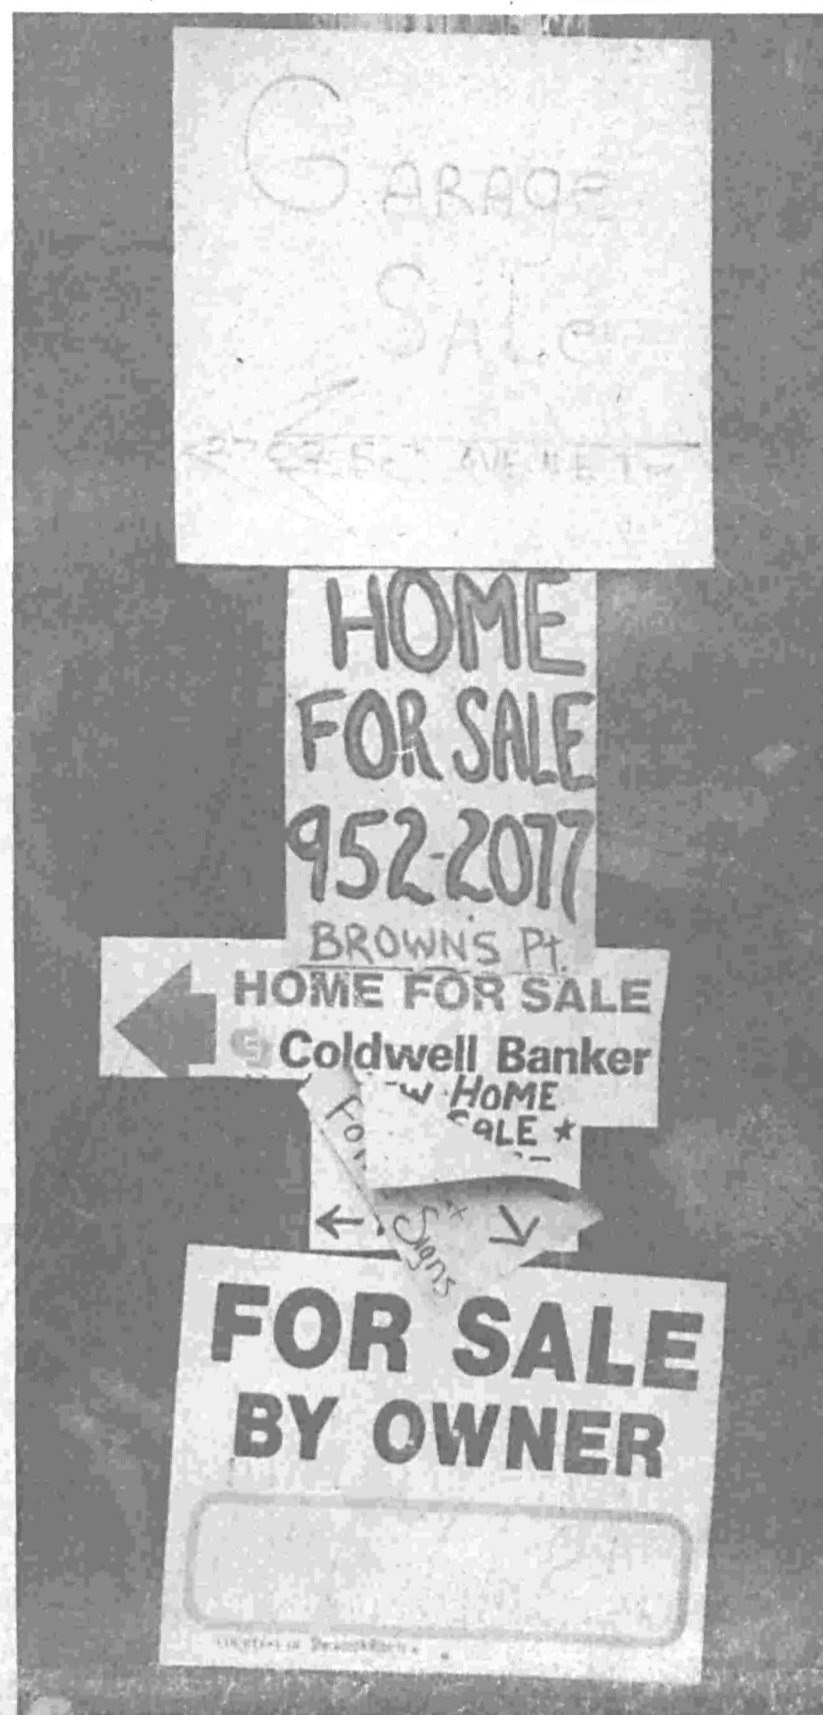

Water Districts 75, to the north of WD 56, and 124, to the south, reported Monday that together they had supplied the drought-threatened district with more than 1,200,000 gallons of water from Wednesday through Monday.

WD 56 began running out of water Wednesday afternoon after one of its pumps suffered a mechanical failure, preventing any water other than what already was in the tank to be available to the district customers. Although the failure was at a pump on the district's north-end tank, the low supply and high hot-weather demand on that tank also put pressure on the district's south-end tank, causing a district-wide shortage.

Customers living in the north end of WD 56 reported they noticed loss of water pressure Wednesday afternoon, some saying they were entirely without water for a short time.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON WD 56 contacted WD 75 for assistance in replacing the depleted supply, which was estimated to be within six inches from the bottom of the north tank. While WD 75 replenished the supply from the north end, WD 124 was called in the next morning to help supply the south end.

When the hydrants feeding those tanks were closed down Monday morning, WD 75 reported it had pumped more than 464,000 gallons into WD 56. WD 124 said it pumped about 820,000 gallons. The districts said that WD 56 will pay for the borrowed water.

CARDBOARD SIGNS have appeared tacked to area power poles this summer as garage sales became a seasonal pastime and more homes went up for sale. In addition to being unsightly, the posting of such signs on any King County or City of Des Moines right-of-way is illegal and can make the violator subject to fine or imprisonment. —photo by Nathalie Weber

Posting signs common, illegal

by Nathalie Weber
 If area power poles decorated with garage sale signs and road-sides lined with open house posters were any indication, use of public right-of-way for advertising would be legal in South King County.

Despite the countless violations, however, such posting of signs is illegal both in unincorporated King County and in incorporated Des Moines—and a violation could incur a fine.

"The only authorized signs on public right-of-way are directional signs and other signs officially posted by King County," Norm Peterson, superintendent of code enforcement for the county, said last week. The public right-of-way includes the sidewalk, or strip of concrete that lines the road, power poles and any other objects that are not privately owned. The same laws pertaining to sign posting are enforced by the City of Des Moines as are enforced in King County.

THE FINES, however, differ. While Des Moines imposes a general penalty of not more than $500 or a jail term not to exceed six months, King County leaves general violations up to the King County Prosecutor's discretion.

For violation with politically-oriented signs, a practice expected to increase as the primary election approaches, the county is more definitive: not more than $250 fine or a jail term not to exceed 90 days.

Despite the sometimes stiff citations, the signs more often are removed and discarded by the county or city. "I know people do hang signs, they're not legal and they shouldn't be there," Peterson said, "but we don't have the manpower to run around imposing citations." Des Moines officials agreed.

And sometimes the signs are not even removed, as evidenced by several area power poles camouflaged by cardboard. Peterson said the county used to fund a program through its Public Works Division wherein employees would spend most of their time driving around the county collecting the signs posted on public right-of-way.

"THEY REMOVED thousands of illegal signs," Peterson said, "but it's no longer included in the budget."

Now, he said, the general policy is to ignore the signs unless a complaint is received. "Then we usually take the signs down—but if it persists, we do have the authority to cite the violators."

Drunken teens loot, vandalize store

A film store on Southwest 320th Street was trashed and looted early Saturday morning in what King County Police believe was the aftermath of a rowdy teenage drinking party.

The culprits smashed all the windows in the store, scattered film and photographs and made off with an undetermined quantity of film, police said.

Two teenagers, both boys, were observed in the vicinity of the store shortly before the incident was reported.

Police said they had investigated a complaint of a number of drunken teenagers in the area at about 3 a.m., approximately an hour before the film store incident.

But the youths, who had apparently congregated near one of the holes at Twin Lakes Golf Course, scattered before police arrived.

Litter from the looting was scattered over a wide area, police said. They believe that one of the vandals fled by running onto the golf course and driving away in a golf cart.

Damage in the incident, one of three episodes of vandalism that occurred during the weekend, was estimated at about $300.

The other vandalisms occurred at a South 320th Street church sometime early Sunday morning and at a South 349th Street residence Saturday between midnight and 3 p.m.

At the church, vandals smashed six windows and hosed the interior with fire extinguishers, doing an estimated $1,500 in damage.

The owner of the residence reported that someone backed onto the lawn and accelerated away, digging large holes. Damage was set at about $150.

'I am a Wallenda'

Steve Wallenda is a man of incongruities. He is a highwire artist whose ears have rung with the cheers of thousands; yet his personal life is suffering from a divorce and legal problems. He claims to be the last of the performing Flying Wallendas; but other members of the famed family say he has never been with them on the wire, and some even go so far as to say he is the family's black sheep. And he claims his tightrope act on the suspension cables of the Tacoma Narrows Bridge last week was for personal reasons; at the same time, he wants to generate publicity for a performing career he plans to base in Washington, and his stunt 187 feet above Puget Sound did nothing to hurt that cause. Wallenda is not an easy man to figure out. But he doesn't ask to be understood. He asks only for a venue to do what he loves — walk the highwire. No one wants to see him refused an opportunity to do so. That explains at least partly why a Sumner contractor, who knew Wallenda only by reputation, posted a $465 bond to help release the daredevil from Pierce County jail, where he spent parts of four days after his jaunt on the Narrows Bridge. AND IT EXPLAINS why someone will eventually come to Wallenda's aid on another matter. "I need a backer now to help me build my rigging for my act," Wallenda said. Wallenda is not rolling in the green. Contrary to accounts in some newspapers, he is not a newscaster, he said. But neither is he living it up. "I'm going through a divorce, and my money is tied up," he said. He is saddened by the divorce from a woman he said he "loved very much," a statement he made to me as the two of us walked onto the Narrows for his afternoon stroll. That exhibition sent him to jail, as he became the victim of a ridiculous charge of reckless endangerment. Pierce County Sheriff's Deputies leveled that charge, saying he caused traffic to slow to a standstill as motorists gawked, and adding as further insult to injury with accusations his stunt led to several near-accidents.

NOTHING like that happened at all. Most motorists saw only a small band of newsmen gazing upward, and drove by unaware a man was treading above them. And the only near-accident was when an officer skidded to a stop in the middle of traffic so he could make a U-turn into a pull-off where Wallenda, newsmen, and other policemen had congregated at the end of the "show." Still, he went to jail for reckless endangerment (later amended to second-degree trespassing, to which he pleaded guilty) and four outstanding warrants for his arrest, including one for allegedly shoplifting at a White Center grocery store. The publicity accompanying his bridge walk and ensuing legal entanglements made Steve Wallenda a household name last week, yet during his exhibition, he was concerned mainly with making personal testimonials to world peace, dystrophy, and his daughter's birthday. His son was born with no bones in his right hand, thus his plea for contributions to muscular dystrophy. Therein is another perplexing Wallenda angle. Apparently a humanist, he is also accused of breaking a Renton city ordinance by tossing a glass bottle out the window of a vehicle and letting it shatter on a city street. AND, according to national news agencies, he is not on good terms with other Wallendas. His father has reportedly disputed Steve's claim of being the last of the highwire Wallendas, and one family member has described him as an outcast of the clan. Whatever Wallenda is, he is at least a master showman. He has been guilty of no serious offense that has been proven. The only offense I know of recently is trying to make a life for himself. He seems to be consistent with the Wallenda tradition; a second coming, if you will, of Karl Wallenda, the patriarch of the family who fell to his death from a highwire in Puerto Rico. John Hickman, Steve Wallenda's public defender in the Narrows case, said, "Steve never mentioned his family or father to me. He acknowledges he has never performed with the Wallendas themselves. "But he talked often about his Uncle Karl. He seems to have a close identity with him." Steve puts it simply: "I am a Wallenda."

Don't let inflation take our bridge

Inflation could be the new bogeyman in the West Seattle bridge project. Reports last week cited concern on the part of city officials that spiraling 17.3 percent inflation in the bridge construction field could seriously cut into available funds. The early estimate for the project was $176 million an amount that the city has available in federal, state and local funds. Project engineer Bruce Wasell says that only an 11 percent inflation rate was used in the original cost estimates and that doesn't appear to be enough. Additional funding sources have not been identified and probably aren't going to be found, according to some sources. Time seems to be the enemy of such projects. Mayor Royer said last week that he was concerned about the length of time needed to deal with governmental red tape, time that adds to the cost of the bridge and many other similar projects. Consultants are now developing basic design plans, one of which will be selected by the city council following a series of public meetings. Sounds like a pretty slow process, doesn't it? The present schedule calls for construction to begin sometime in the last quarter of 1980 with completion expected to come in mid 1983. Inflation and the danger the damaged roadway presents to the thousands of people who use the bridge each day are just two of the many important reasons that all efforts must be made to move ahead on this project as quickly as possible. It is a job that should have been "done yesterday."

Steve Botkin

'Fugitive' couldn't hide

"Do you realize you have a famous person sitting at the table next to you?" I was just taking my second bite of Oysters Rockefeller in a fancy restaurant north of Seattle when my brother, sitting across from me, asked that question. Nonchalantly, I turned my head and looked. There was a handsome, middle-aged man who looked a lot like David Janssen, the Hollywood star. Except he had a scraggly, gray beard. "You're right," I said to my brother. "That guy does look like David Janssen." Then I turned again and looked closer. "My God," I said, "that is David Janssen!" There was no doubt. Someone can look like someone else only so much. Immediately, everyone at our table turned and looked. We argued for a while whether or not it was really him. "He looks like David Janssen," my mother said, "but what about those people with him? I don't recognize any of them." Apparently she thinks movie stars travel in groups. "That's him," my brother said. "I read a story in the paper last night that said they're filming a movie in Darrington, and David Janssen's the main star." My brother went on to say the picture in the paper had Janssen sporting a beard, just like the man next to us. That convinced us all, except for my father, always the skeptic. "No way," he said. "That's not him, just a close look-a-like." Finally, the waitress came and I asked her, quietly, if that really was David Janssen. "Yes," she whispered. She said nothing more, and quickly turned and left. I think she was afraid we'd make a scene; do something stupid like ask him for his autograph. For the remainder of the dinner, we discussed how bad it must be to be famous. You can't go anywhere without being recognized. Even in Mukilteo, Washington, off in a dark corner of a little-known restaurant, you can't hide. For us, of course, it was a thrill. None of us had ever been so close to a celebrity. We could even hear him talking to his dining partners. And believe me, that deep, raspy voice of his left no doubt who he was. The question was, what should we do? My wife wanted his autograph. My brother's girl friend wanted to talk to him. My mother just wanted to look. My father and brother just wanted to leave the poor guy alone. Let him eat in peace, they insisted. The news-hound in me told me to jump up, run to his table, ask him if he ever heard of Buriem (you've got to localize, right?) and flash him in the face with my camera. Good thing I left the camera at home. Finally, we convinced ourselves to leave him alone. Surely, that's what he'd prefer...or so we thought. We had dessert, coffee, paid our bill and got up to leave. We had almost forgotten about David Janssen when we noticed, as we walked by his table, someone new, a woman, sitting next to him. They were talking, laughing, and just having a jolly old time. The woman had been sitting with her husband at another table near ours. He'd been recognized by a stranger, only this stranger had the nerve to walk up and say hello. Soon, a few more diners lined up at his table and waited for their turn. Janssen looked at them and smiled. We couldn't figure it out — he actually seemed to be enjoying it.

ED LABELLE'S 1920 Cadillac convertible had the crowd buzzing.

They don't make 'em like they used to

MICK CAPPONI (left) and Courtney Nelthropp peer admiringly into one of the many beauties at Five Mile Lake.

Without a word of prompting, Eve Krieder began reciting the story of the 1938 LaSalle's restoration.

"Why on earth have you brought that heap home..." Mrs. Krieder recalled asking her husband Ammon when the rusted hulk appeared in the garage.

"Well, sweetheart, would you rather I chase other women..." Mr. Krieder replied.

Now, two years later, there is still much painstaking work to be done on the Krieders' antique, but the engine purrs and the paint shines. And Mrs. Krieder has been completely won over.

"It's a great hobby," she says. "You meet the nicest people."

The occasion for Mrs. Krieder's musings was a gathering of the Pacific Northwest Cadillac-LaSalle Club recently at Five Mile Lake Park. Car lovers from all over the area came together to show off, admire, barter and hobnob about the classic, antique and vintage autos that turned the park into a scene from an old-time movie.

Mrs. Krieder spoke of the tremendous amount of time and money that go into reclaiming the beauty of the original car. But the Krieders would obviously not be interested if it all came easily.

ANY millionaire can buy a car and pay to have it restored," she said. "We have to piece ours together, bit by bit."

And part by part. The search for original parts for these old cars takes owners around the country to swap meets and shows like this one. Ads in auto publications are scoured.

"I've been looking for parts for this car going on 17 years," said Ed LaBelle of Bellevue, whose 1920 Cadillac convertible was the talk of the show for a time. "You scrounge, dig, beg and borrow."

"You don't often get away with stealing, but I just did," he said of a deal with Don Smith of Tacoma that netted him a radiator apron in exchange for a crank cap. "We just made a helluva bargain."

Mrs. Krieder listed the touches, large and small, that yet remain to be completed on the Bellevue couple's LaSalle. The wheels retain a coat of rust, the paint needs sanding in spots and the interior has been largely ignored so far. But it will come.

She pointed an admiring finger to the 1939 LaSalle sitting nearby. "Now there's a car."

No sooner had she spoken than she caught sight of a tiny dent and scratch on her neighbor's otherwise immaculate rear fender.

"On such a perfect car, whodunit..." she asked, horrified.

"I wish I knew," said the owner, Bill Burk of Ballard, with a rueful smile.

Burk said he had put two years of labor into his car.

"For the first year-and-a-half, if I wasn't eating, sleeping or at work, I was working on it," he said. "Everything -- EVERYTHING -- has been redone."

Burk figures the car would fetch up to $12,000 if he were to sell it. His own investment, including the price of the car, is about $5,000. He takes pride in that figure. Much of the cost-saving can be traced to learning the "tricks" of the hobby, he says.

"A LOT depends on how well you can B.S. the body shop man," Burk said. But mostly, for Burk, LaBelle and the Krieders, as well as for the rest of the people gathered at Five Mile Lake, making a success of the hobby requires more than tricks, time and capital. It takes a lot of love.

For Mrs. Krieder, that love is reflected in the last line of the song Edith and Archie Bunker sing to open "All in the Family." For many people, that last line is a puzzling jumble of syllables, she points out. She was happy to end the mystery.

"Gee, the old LaSalle ran great....those were the days."

THOSE were the days.

More water needed

Pipeline would impact FW

by Nathalie Weber
The water pipeline proposed to stretch from the Green River, across Auburn and Federal Way and into Tacoma still is in the planning and, despite rumors to the contrary, the King County Executive's office is maintaining it has no plans to block the project.

Federal Way's Water District 124 Commissioners last week reiterated their support of the project, stressing that this area will be worse off in the future without access to the additional water.

The plan for the pipeline was conceived by Tacoma Water nearly a decade ago when that supplier predicted growth in the Tacoma area would demand more water than currently was available in the late 1960's. The $55-million project was engineered so the water would be drawn from the Green River and piped into north Tacoma via a reservoir in Federal Way.

That plan could prove to offer some salvation to the Federal Way area because when the area's demand outgrows its supply, WD 124 also could hook into the new pipeline.

"IT'S GOING TO

hurt us years out if it doesn't go through," Commissioner John Sawyer said last week. Commissioner Leonard Tripp also observed that WD 124 would have to find an alternate supply if it couldn't tap the Tacoma line.

King County Executive John Spellman's office, accused of opposing the project, defended its position this week, contending that it can not approve the project because necessary documents have not been submitted to King County. The project, which requires King County approval because it would be constructed under that county's roads, is therefore in abeyance, the executive's office said.

"It's not true that Spellman does not favor the Tacoma pipeline," Mary Ellen McCaffree, chairman of the Environmental Impact Statement Committee, said. "But right now the ball's in Tacoma's court." She said that the county is waiting for both a comprehensive plan and an EIS, adding that such requests usually are granted if the requirements are met.

JOHN ROLLER, supervisor of the Tacoma Water division, said the project is slated to begin in about two years with completion in 1985. The reservoir, perhaps the most impacting factor of the project in Federal Way, will hold 50 million gallons of water and be situated on a 21-acre site northeast of Lake Dolloff.

For the past year, the Washington Energy Extension Service has been offering area residents the opportunity to learn the practical side of energy conservation and to participate in "hand-on" workshops.

Because of increasing demand, more than 40 classes, workshops and tours are being offered each month in King County. The program includes classes in renewable fuels (solar energy and wood,) home energy conservation, recycling and transportation alternatives. Classes and workshops will be held at area community colleges and libraries in an attempt to make energy conservation information available to people who want it. An energy mini-series, "BTUs and You," has been organized covering the basics of solar, recycling, home energy conservation and wood-burning. The information in the mini-series is geared to an audience with little or no knowledge of how they can save energy on their own. Information on these classes is available from Did Extension, 344-798.

PWP plans two events

South King County chapter of Parents Without Partners has two events planned for this weekend.

A family potluck featuring Zone awards and a baseball game will be held at the covered area in Saltwater State Park at 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 19.

A Hawaiian dance will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Friday, Aug. 17 at Normandy Cove, 1500 Shorebrook Drive. For information on the dance, call Gerry 248-1415; about the potluck, call Linda, 767-3256. Prospective members call 854-2780.

Preschool registering

Northpoint Cooperative Preschool at Dash Point Elementary School will begin its 21st year of classes for preschoolers and their parents Monday, Sept. 10.

In addition to classes for ages 2, 3, 4 and 5, Northpoint will be adding a "walk-about" class for children 12 to 24 months old. The class meets once a week and involved activities for both parents and children.

The preschool was created by parents who believe their child's growth is enhanced by the small group experience. Monthly parent-education meetings with guest speakers leading discussions on topic of interest to the parents are a highlight of the program.

Northpoint is affiliated with Bates Vocational-Technical Institute, which provides professional services, counseling, and hearing, vision and language screening, as well as the use of an extensive parent-education library.

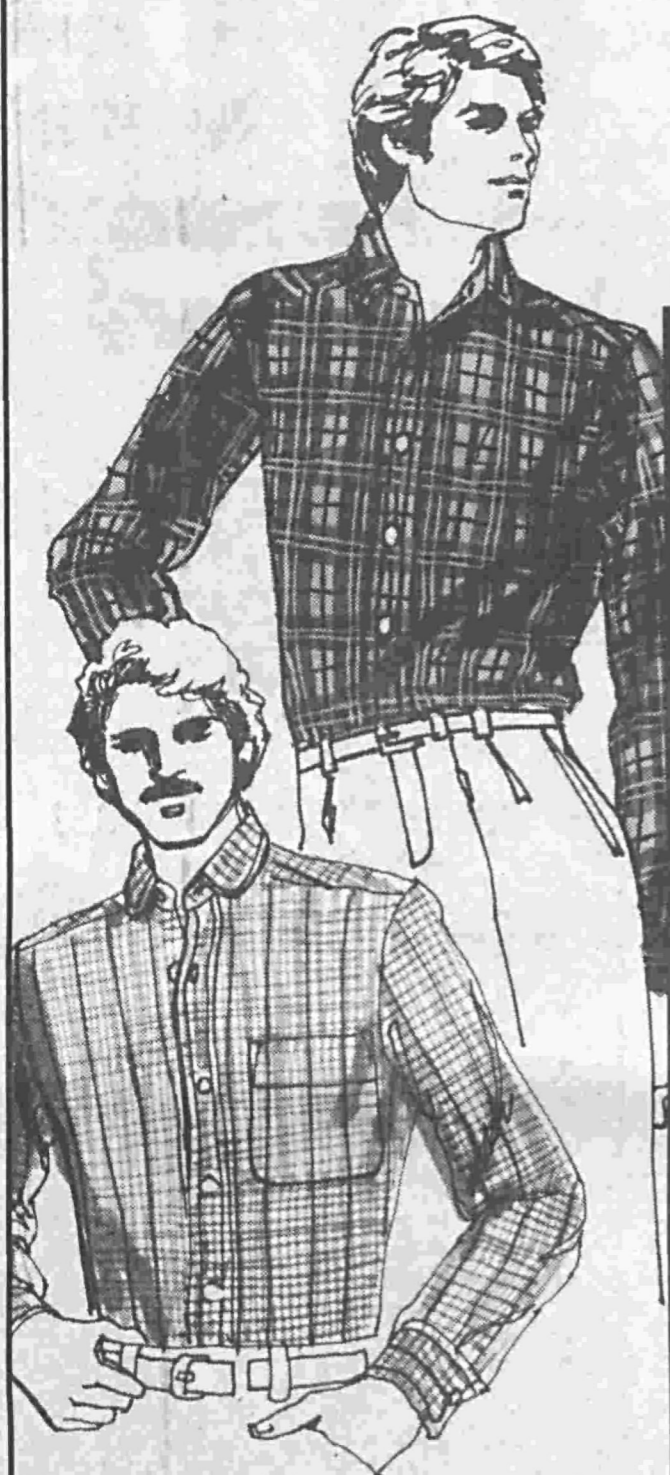

There are openings in the class for 2-year-olds and 4-5-year-olds.

For more information, contact Susan Inglis, 927-5004, or Margaret Wilson, 927-6942.

Traveling Library to debut at shopping malls

After years of watching Bookmobile usage dwindle and the cost of operating the vehicles climb, the board of the King County Library System voted in June to discontinue all Bookmobile routes by Sept. But those routes dependent on the mobile libraries will not go without service.

Books and other materials will be brought to suburban and rural areas of the county by a pair of smaller and more efficient vans known as Traveling Library Centers (TLC.)

The new vans will be introduced at two "Rolling Library Fairs" to be held at two South King County shopping malls. The fairs are planned at the Southcenter Shopping Center Wednesday, Aug. 29, and at SeaTac Mall Friday, Aug. 31.

They will feature displays, vehicle tours, free helium balloons and live music provided by Musicians Local 360.

"We decided it was time for a change, Kathleen Sullivan, director of the traveling library department, says, "not only a change in method of delivery, but in the overall image of the department. Maybe People who never knew what a 'Mobile Outreach' was will more easily understand what we mean by TLC."

The new vans, painted bright white with green and blue racing stripes, will continue on established nursing-retirement home routes while expanding into territories formerly covered by the Bookmobile.

The Seattle King County Health Department reports that two people have died in King County in association with the administration of coffee enemas.

Investigation by Dr. Donald Reay, chief medical examiner, indicates that this practice may be becoming frequent in self-treatment for a variety of diseases including cancer.

"Death is due to the severe electrolyte imbalance and dehydration that develops," Dr. Reay states.

Dr. Lawrence Bergner, health department director, urged those who insist on pursuing these practices to arrange for periodic laboratory tests of their blood chemistry.

Open house at Seahurst

Rodney Kovalenko-- a lesson in how to live

by Barbara Butts

When Death strikes down the innocent and young," Charles Dickens said, "for every fragile form from which he lets the painting spirit free, a hundred virtues rise, in shapes of mercy, charity, and love, to walk the world, and bless it."

When 19-year-old Rodney L. Kovalenko was freed of this earth's trials on July 28, he left behind such a legacy.

Before his life was taken by cancer, Rodney touched the lives around him with his faith, his courage and determination, his ability to face life's challenges with dignity.

To those who knew him the 1978 graduate of Thomas Jefferson High School was above all a winner.

His mother, Dorothy Cooper of 3217 West Valley Highway N. in Auburn, said Rodney always had a love of life and a competitive spirit.

He was always extremely small for his age too, she said. One morning when he was in the first grade at Panther Lake Elementary School, he announced that President (John F.) Kennedy's physical fitness program had begun and that there was going to be a contest at his school for first-through-sixth-graders.

"Rodney left home that day and said to me, 'I'm going to win today, mom,'" she said. "And do you know that he and a sixth grader ended up with the top two scores. The next year when he was in the second grade, he got the highest score of anyone in the Federal Way grade schools at that time."

It was an attitude that was carried throughout his life, she said, in athletics, which he loved, and in his contest with death, which he endured.

He was going to beat the malignant tumor that was discovered on his cheekbone in January 1977, his mother said. He was not afraid to fight.

Rodney Kovalenko

Rodney's struggle with cancer went on after an operation in which the tumor was removed through a year of chemotherapy treatment. Then a second inoperable tumor was discovered behind his left eye in May 1978.

"When the second cancer was discovered, he came home and said, 'Don't worry about me, mom,'" she said. "I don't want to die, and I will fight it, but I'm not afraid to die."

During his battle for life, which was filled with pain and even blindness for a time, Rodney became a symbol for many of the true spirit of a winner.

He was given a special inspirational award in 1978 by the faculty at Thomas Jefferson High School because he had "the many fine attributes of a true winner."

"This person possesses a maturity and wisdom beyond (his) young age;" the award read, "a maturity born in the face of adversity, a wisdom that can only come from having reached the upper limits of self-realization and acceptance."

"This individual's spirit is not dampened by personal crises and that's what makes him a winner."

This drive toward excellence was evident in the schoolroom and on the athletic field. He was a top student who often went to school sick, Mrs. Cooper said, and to games in pain.

On the soccer field, he is remembered for his courage by John Richards, his coach on the Federal Way Boys' Club Red Raiders soccer team. Rodney and Richards were on the same team from the time the boy was in second grade through high school and were especially close friends.

"In 25 years of coaching," Richards said, "I never saw a kid with more guts."

Rodney and his family had lived in Federal Way several blocks from Richards; his wife, Carol; and two sons, John and Robert, for years before moving to Auburn about a year and a half ago. He had a friendship with each one of them.

When Richards' son Robert was killed in a trailer fire in August of last year, Rodney was the first young person to come to comfort the family, he said.

"With all the trials and tribulations he was going through at the time, his concern was for us," he said. "If there is one word that I can use to describe him, it would have to be selfless."

But Rodney was not the only selfless one, according to his mother. Richards; his brother, Keith; his sisters, Lorrie and Roxanne (Mrs. Robert Boback of Black Diamond); his stepfather, Ken; and his girl friend, Lisa Harper, and others gave much of themselves also, she said.

"Lisa is an exceptional young woman," Mrs. Cooper said. "People have said that Rodney was brave and courageous and faced life with dignity. But those words describe her as well. She never left his side."

The attitude that inspired others to bravery in the face of what became a nightmare, Mrs. Cooper said, could never be separated from Rodney's faith in God. "The courage that carried him and us through these years of pain flowed from his faith," she said.

"And being a Christian, he still has that victory over death. He was the winner anyway."

The Seahurst Workshop Gallery will hold an open house Saturday, Aug. 11 for its current show, "A Summer Serenade," featuring watercolors by Arlene Vaughan and stained glass and acrylic paintings by Jean Iverson.

The show, which began Aug. 7, will run through Sept. 15 from 12-4 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays. The gallery is located in Olde Burien at 15210 10th Ave. S.W.

Ms. Vaughan, currently president of Seahurst Gallery, is a graduate of MacMurray College in Illinois and has studied commercial and fine arts in Chicago, Dallas and the Northwest, winning prizes with Artists United at Renton and Des Moines.

She operates a commercial art business from her home and teaches classes in watercolor and drawing at Moshier Park.

Ms. Iverson, one of the charter members of Artists United, has rejoined the art community through membership at Seahurst Gallery following a career with the Highline School District as a teacher and elementary consultant.

She holds a masters degree in creative education from Seattle Pacific University. She has exhibited at the Puyallup Fair and has won prizes with Artists United.

Some of her paintings are inspired by music, such as the piano sonatas composed by her son; Kristof Iverson, whose recorded original works will provide a background "serenade" for open house visitors.

During the open house, refreshments will be served outside in the yard adjacent to the gallery (weather permitting) with daughter-in-law.

JEAN IVERSON (left) and Arlene Vaughan will be the featured artists at the Seahurst Gallery through September. Ms. Iverson works with stained glass and acrylic paintings while Ms. Vaughan's specialty is watercolors.

YOUNGSTERS John Desimone and Rusty Riley race to the finish line while counselor, Becky Kellie shouts encouragement.

Camper's field day

DENNETTE KUDLO laughs joyfully when she finds herself discovered while trying to hide under an enormous red and white parachute.

A group of children and counselors sat in a circle stretching a brightly colored red and white parachute between them.

"Cover your eyes and no peeking," said their leader getting the game started. "Someone go under the parachute and then we'll guess who it is."

The game was all part of the fun at Federal Way's first day camp for disabled and handicapped children recently held at Sacajawea Junior High School.

With an emphasis on recreation and socialization, 35 children spent two weeks singing, swimming and learning new crafts and games.

"This group is often isolated and they have very few playmates," said Irene McPherson, recreation specialist with King County Parks Department. "They need the opportunity to have summer experiences like any other child."

The children, who ranged in age from seven through 18 were mildly to moderately retarded. Many had attended other King County sponsored camps held throughout the summer in other areas.

There were 10 staff members including volunteer students, teachers and parents. Many of them work throughout the summer at the five day-camps and four resident camps available for the county's disabled youngsters.

The Federal Way camp is the first effort in a campaign to have more programs for the disabled and handicapped in the South King County area.

"Next year, we're looking for several camps plus a resident camp," said McPherson who is setting up headquarters at the Highline Community Center.

A. Fiedler to receive tribute on television

Arthur Fiedler: Just Call Me Maestro, a tribute to the late "Mr. Pops," will air on Channel 9 television on Tuesday, Aug. 21 at 8 p.m.

throng of pint-sized autograph seekers that surrounds him after a Nutcracker Suite concert. Fiedler was an 84-year-old workaholic; his motto was: "He who rests rots." And for the past 50 years he was the magnet that drew capacity crowds into Pops concerts — many of whom became music lovers through Fiedler's style in presenting the classical experience.

all-consuming ego, the film will demonstrate, according to sponsors, that he took a great deal of pride in his work, that he really was honored by the many awards and tributes bestowed on him and that he was always trying to learn more about his profession and thereby enhance it.

The program is a joint production of WGBH-Boston and the Boston Symphony Orchestra and is made possible by a grant from Martin Marietta Corporation.

Looking on are Kiwanis members Don Miller (left) and Joseph J. McGoran, who is also on the club's board of directors. In the background is a model of the performing arts center, which is on display to the public. The association is in the middle of a fund-raising campaign aimed at obtaining federal funds for the center. The campaign will culminate in a fund-raiser on Wednesday, Aug. 22, at Enchanted Village.

About this time every year I slowly sag into my summer slump. By the beginning of August I have barbecued everything but the oven mitts, run through my repertoire of appealing salads and exhausted my ideas for innovative outdoor meals. I am weary of pulling weeds, of picking berries of various shapes and colors, of making jam and stocking the freezer. The petunias are beginning to droop and so am I.

But the editor, with a delicate sense of the right moment for the right pronouncement said, "How about doing a column on the subject of self improvement, on expanding your mind?"

Thanks to potato salad, corn on the cob and almond jamoca ice cream, my mind is the only part of me that hasn't expanded. It's a good thing the editor interrupted my downhill slide and my straining seams. Now the problem becomes how to shift gears and sally forth out of my seasonal slump.

What happens to me in summer? The bright, white days of intense heat provoke a spurge of activity that leaves me exhausted by the end of the day. The tempo of living speeds up when the sun bores down full full beam. It's as though someone were saying, "Hurry up! The weather won't last. Get everything done today."

Summer has captured me with enthusiasm, been a time for enthusiasm to be made. Over the years summer meant children diving into waves, roasted marshmallows, sun-burned backs and skinned knees, the whir of the lawnmower and the whiff of the barbecue. Summer always demanded all my attention. Busy with picnic lunches and constant cautions to children, I never had time to look at the view. Summer and I have never really had time to deepen our friendship. The days arrived without saying hello and slipped past without bidding goodbye. There were never enough moments for everything.

But now the children are gone and my tempo can change. I'm no longer pressured by forces around me; my pressure comes from within and only I can reduce it.

It's time for me to become acquainted with summer, to sit back and say, "Hello."

Alone I stretch out on the grass as I watch the soft clouds overhead drift by. In the quiet that settles around me I watch the butterfly hover and a bee buzzing near.

As Emerson said, "Go cherish your soul, expel companions... then will the faculties rise fair and full within."

Rash of fairs, rodeos coming up sack lunch. On the last Monday of each month, the ladies go to lunch at one of the restaurants in the neighborhood. Christmas decorations will be in the making.

The Travel Club at the center has several trips planned during August. The schedule includes the Skagit River Steam Railway Aug. 25; a Reno trip on Aug. 26, with a visit to the Falls City theater planned for Sept. 1. Olason, the bridegroom's niece, was the flower girl, and his nephew, Daniel Wylie, was the ringbearer. Candles were lighted by Tye-Ann Simonseth and Laura Minton. Michael Olason served as his brother's best man, and Stu Johnson, Reidar Tennesen and Ed Crafton of Seattle, brother of the bride, were the ushers.

The reception which followed the ceremony was held in the adjoining gardens of the Robert Crafton and George Dynes residences in Mt. Vernon.

The bride studied at Skagit Valley College and graduated from the University of Washington. Her husband, a graduate of Federal Way High School, also graduated from the University of Washington and is working towards a masters degree in architecture at the University of Colorado. At UW he was a member of Sigma Nu fraternity and Varsity Boat Club and was on the Varsity crew for two years.

The couple honeymooned in Hawaii and will make their home in Denver, Colo.

Tickets are still available for Seattle City Light's Skagit Tour one of the best "mini-vacations" available in this state, at a reasonable cost and without excessive travel.

The fully conducted, four-hour tour begins with a complete orientation at the Diablo Tour Center and includes a mountainside ride on one of America's few existing incline railways, a five-mile boat cruise across Diablo Lake, an informative walk through Ross powerhouse and a family-style dinner of chicken and spaghetti.

When it comes to catching Frisbees, leave it to Hershey

HERSHEY GETS all four feet off the ground for a two-point catch.

photos by Roy Musitelli text by Bart Potter

DAN PICKERING urges Hershey into a back flip.

When it comes to catching a Frisbee by mouth, it's a dog's world.

In that elite circle, none is better in the state of Washington than Hershey, a three-year old Labrador female, trained by Dan Pickering of Federal Way.

Hershey earned that status at the state Frisbee-catching championships recently at Franklin Park in Tacoma. At the same event, Hershey garnered fifth place in the regional championships, which attracted entrants from Utah, Idaho and Oregon.

Hershey's first-place finish in the state competition was a notch higher than she performed last year. The improvement is no accident, Pickering says.

"I've been working for this for a year," he said, holding up the plaque signifying his dog's preeminence.

"Top dog," he added, with a satisfied smile and a pat on Hershey's head. "Right, Hersh?"

Hershey responded with an anxious bark, and Pickering flung the scarred, saliva-coated disc into the sunny sky. Hershey gauged the Frisbee's fade perfectly, and with a four-footed leap snatched it out of the air.

Pickering, 30, is a professional dog handler at his Totem Line Kennels. In between Frisbee tosses, he explained the scoring process by which the judges pick a winner.

Hershey earned 33 points out of a possible 38, Pickering said. The dogs must first complete the compulsory exercises, which require scoring 14 points in two minutes. The quickest way to get there is by compiling two-point catches, which require all four feet to be off the ground at the time of the catch.

The compulsories eliminate quite a few dogs, Pickering said. Survivors next move on to the freestyle segment, where such stunts as back flips, rollers, jumpers and distance shots are attempted. Meanwhile judges are making style notations on agility, eye movement and speed of response in returning the Frisbee.

Honeybee, another Pickering protege, placed fifth in state and 14th in regionals. Neither she nor Hershey qualified for the nationals, which will be held in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena at the end of the month. Pickering has a strong hankering to get there some day.

"That's my dream," he said. Should Hershey or Honeybee fail to improve to that point, Pickering says he has the dog that will do it. A four-month old Labrador female puppy has already shown a precocious ability for fielding rollers and retrieving. A future national champ?

"Guaranteed," he promised.

Females are generally better as Frisbee-catchers, Pickering said. Males are apt to "wet the nearest bush, fight and carry on like crazy."

Females have no such problems.

"They don't give a damn who peed where," Pickering said. "They just want to play."

"Right, Hersh? One more time."

Hershey made the last catch of the morning a good one.

Laurel lifts spirits for the UW Huskies

by Harry Brooks

UW... Those are the only two symbols printed on the license plate of Laurel Lundberg's car. The two letters, of course, stand for the University of Washington and Laurel's unswerving allegiance to that institution.

Soon, she will have an outlet to exhibit her loyalty to the U-Dub. Laurel was one of 12 candidates selected for next school-year's Husky cheerleading contingent. The 21-year-old senior-to-be joins her old Federal Way High rah-rah-staff partner Paulette Guyton on the UW cheer team.

"I decided last year that I wanted to try out," Laurel recalled during a conversation at her parent's Marine Hills home. "I really didn't figure my chances of making it. I just wanted to do my best and hoped things would work out."

HER EFFORT overcame the odds.

After a day-long tryout session, Laurel and 11 others were selected from a group of 75. The judging was accomplished by a 30-member panel, which included alumni, athletes, athletic department personnel and representatives of various campus groups. The cheer-squad aspirants were put under immediate pressure as each had to perform to original routines. After that phase, the list of prospects was cut to 22.

Laurel Lundberg

Then, those who remained received 20 minutes to learn a set routine before going through its motions in front of the panel. The final cut followed.

Laurel pointed to two elements that contributed to her successful bid for a spot on the Husky cheer staff.

"I WAS A cheerleader during the (athletic) peak of everything at FW High," the 1976 Federal Way grad noted. "It made cheerleading so enjoyable, and there was so much school spirit that it became impossible to put that type of thing down."

"I've been connected with the athletic department since my freshman year. My father (David) began taking me to Husky football games when I was in grade school, so I became a fan early. The past two years, I've worked with the football secretaries and in Mike Lude's box at the stadium."

Laurel also was an active participant in the Husky football recruiting program the past three years. She was a member of a woman-student welcoming committee that was formed to show visiting football prospects the charms of the UW. Such committees at some colleges have been the subject of numerous reports pertaining to elicit and lusty practices but Laurel is quick to point out that the UW's operation conducts itself in a hands-off manner:

"AN ATHLETE comes in, and he's probably only 17 years old.

There's a lot of pressure on him. But, if a young girl his own age that pressure.

"It's a good way for the recruits to find out more about the college than college, and it gets their minds off football for a while. With some, it works well. With others — the quiet ones — it doesn't because they aren't used to talking with girls."

Laurel "gets very defensive" when people taint the practices of the Husky recruiting committee with illusions of intimate activity.

"I had one player that thought that's what I was there for," she recalled. "He made passes at me in front of the alumni and chased me around a coach's house. Apparently, he had been to two other campuses where that (intimate activity) was the case."

HE DIDN'T end up going to the UW."

"I've heard people say wrong things about us around the campus, but they usually do it in a teasing way," Laurel said, adding that a particular school (she chose not to name it) in the Pac-10 conference is known for wooing visiting football candidates through the extra-curricular activities of its female volunteers.

Should anyone get too fresh with Laurel, he may have to deal with her boyfriend, Pete Tormey, a two-year football letterman linebacker who "made the first hit in the (1978) Rose Bowl,"

Laurel noted with pride.

Cheerleading practice begins in earnest Sept. 4 when the Husky staff begins eight-hour, daily training sessions in preparation for the UW football home-opener against Wyoming. When classes start this fall, the Husky cheerleaders will hone routines six hours per day, all for a mere two credits.

When Laurel isn't flinging pom-poms, her attention will be turned toward a BA degree in education and communications. She intends to attain her Standard Teaching Certificate through a fifth year of academics and then turn her attention to specialized reading instruction.

But it's a good bet that her loyalty to Alma-Mater will never change. Neither will the two letters on her license plate.

Soccer referees

The Soccer Referee's Clinic is set for Monday through Thursday.

The clinic will be held at the Federal Way School Administration Building and will begin at 7 p.m. There will be four clinic sessions of two hours in length. The test will also be at the administration building, Monday, Aug. 20, at 7 p.m.

The clinic will be put on by a trainer from the Washington State Referee's Association and is geared to cover the needs of all who will be refereeing soccer games this year regardless of experience or ability level.

The cost for the clinic is $4 and the test cost is $2.

The Federal Way Referee's Association urges everyone, who is able and interested to be sure and attend this clinic. This will be the only referee clinic in Federal Way this year.

Local makes good at Longacres track

Keri Miller is an ambitious young lady. Most of the time she has more things cooking than a fast food chef on a busy Saturday night. In the process she has learned to be a quick change artist.

After her 6 a.m. stint as a trainer of her three Thoroughbreds she rushes over to the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association of offices and slips into her secretary's attire and is ready to finish out the day pounding her typewriter. The association represents 2,500-plus owners, trainers and their employees.

She claims she grew up on a horse in Normandy Park riding bridal trails that have since been replaced by housing developments.

Keri began at Longacres walking "hots" (for Sharon Baze) when she was

12. Later she progressed to groom's status for Ike Orr who gave her Sir Silver Scott in appreciation for her services. This definitely gave her "horse fever" or as she puts it, it was a bad case. The only family encouragement came from her mother Oona and her stepfather Paul Schumann.

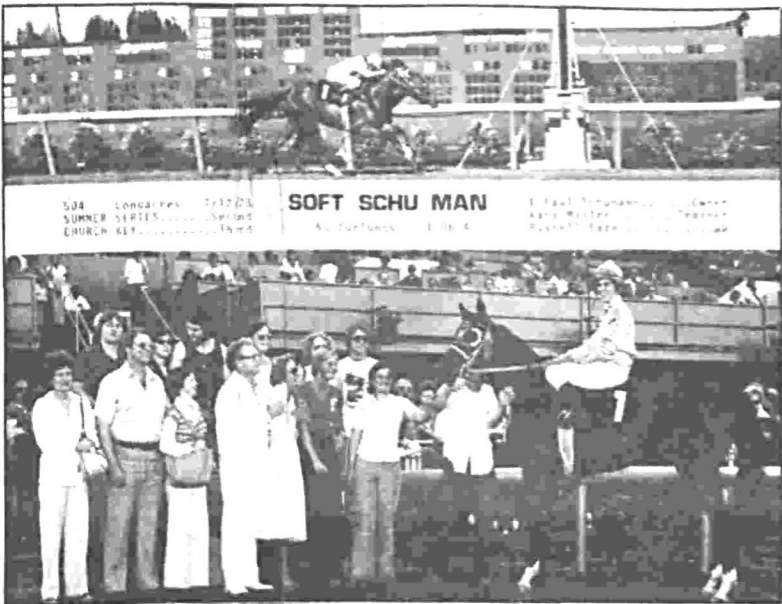

After high school graduation she sold "Scotty" and backpacked to Europe with a girl friend. Home again she enrolled at Green River College and worked part time as a dental assistant. She gave this up to go back to training her three thoroughbreds and working for H.B.P.A. More "horse fever."

She has won a few (see picture) and her horses consistently run in the money. In the future she would like to establish her own public training stable. The "horse fever" still prevails! She may just do that in the near future.

Columbia steelhead closed

State wildlife agents are receiving numerous complaints of illegal fishing activity along the Columbia River and especially at Drano Lake.

The mainstream Columbia from the Megler-Astoria Bridge upstream to the Highway No. 12 Bridge at Pasco is closed to the taking of mature steelhead over 20 inches in length. Drano Lake, at the mouth of the Little White Salmon River in Skamania

County, is included in the closure. Regional Wildlife Agent Dick Zimmerman of Vancouver says many anglers have complained of the closure, but once the necessity of preserving the spawning steelhead stocks is explained to them, they accept it.

"We're talking about 250 miles of recreational area," said Zimmerman, "and this is the time of year a lot of people go camping along the river." Zimmerman says that one of the difficulties facing agents trying to enforce the closure on steelhead is that other species can be taken legally and it's next to impossible to sort out the anglers going for steelhead.

The Columbia was closed to steelhead fishing the first of August, due to poor steelhead counts at Bonneville Dam. It now appears this will be the second-worst year on record at the dam for the upstream summer-run steelhead.

Work to begin soon on Steel Lake Park

A $790,000 construction contract was signed last week for work which is expected to begin soon on a Steel Lake Park addition at S. 312 Street and 28th Avenue South.

The contract, signed by King County and Spragues' Inc. of Lynnwood, calls for a 28.4-acre addition, featuring two softball fields, a lighted all-weather soccer field, comfort station, paths and parking. Construction of the soccer facility is expected to be completed by fall of 1980, according to Jim Webster of Federal Way, head of King County Parks and Recreation. The field will be composed of Cush-Turf, which is now used at Sacajawea Park's boot field.

The softball fields are expected to be completed by spring of 1981, if grass is fully established, Webster said.

Future plans at Steel Lake, Webster said, include another all-weather, lighted soccer field, and additional facilities.

Kent nips FW out of Div. 2, advances to state

by Harry Brooks
The Federal Way
American Legions zoomed into the Division 2 Tournament with six straightwins but stumbled to a season-ending two losses during a short stay at the tournament.

"We didn't get one break in either (tournament) game," FW skipper Jim Winebrenner said
with glint of frustration.

His summation was indeed an accurate
one. The Feds committed seven errors
while losing to Bremerton 7-4 in the opening round Friday.
A 2-1 loss to Kent
Saturday ended Federal Way's stay at the double-elimination event held at Bellevue's Hidden Valley Park.

Kent provided an exciting climax to the tournament. After losing a chance for an automatic entry into the State Legion Tournament by dropping a best-of-three series to Bellevue R.C. Winter, Kent entered the Division 2 Tournament as the favorite.

But Bellevue
Foster-Marshall, the
No. 3 seeded District
11 team, shocked
Kent, The District 11
Southern Division
champs and No. 1 entry, by taking a 5-3 decision in 10 innings.

KENT THEN had to win four straight for the Division 2 Tourney
title and a spot at State. The Valley boys rose to the occasion with four one-run wins. After nipping Federal Way, Kent got its revenge on Foster-Marshall by a 3-2 score and drove to the title with 7-6 and 5-4 victories over Bremerton. Kent won the title game in the bottom of the 10th.

Federal Way had a shot at dashing Kent's eventually successful quest of a trip to the State Tournament, which starts tomorrow in Yakima.

With left-hander Dennis Werth allowing Kent just two hits
in the first five innings, the Feds and Kent were locked in a scorelessduel. In the first, third and fourth innings Federal Way runners were left stranded at third base.

BUT KENT touched home first. Ed Burgi opened the sixth with a single into the shortstop hole. Jerry Stewart followed with a walk, but Werth forced Burgi at third after fielding Don Habenicht's bunt.
Then Stewart and Habenicht combined
on a successful
double-steal, and Stewart came in on Darren Swanson's lined hit to center. Kent added another run when Habenicht sprinted toward the dirt bounded toward the backstop. FW catcher Doug Springer
retrieved the ball and tossed to Werth,

covering home, before Habenicht reached the plate, but Werth dropped the ball while making the tag.

Werth made up for his miscue by not allowing Kent a hit the rest of the way. He gave up only four singles while striking out five during his eight-inning performance.

However, the Feds, who cranked eight hits, couldn't match
Kent's sixth-inning output. Federal Way struck for its only run in the seventh. Mark Hillis led off with a single through the middle. He moved to second on Springer's sacrifice bunt and took third on a wild pitch. A Kent first-base error brought Hillis in.

Federal Way challenged in the eighth with two out
as Jeff McCauley, who walked, and Pete Weymiller, who singled, stood at third and
second, respectively,

after a wild pitch. But the threat ended when Kent ace Howard
Hilde struck out Ed
Camden.

HILDE, WHO mastered Federal Way all season, showed his composure in the ninth. Hillis represented the potential tying run after beating out a roller to short, but Hilde negated any further-base advance by catching Brent Hoene and Bob Bolam looking at strike-three and initiating a fly to right to end the contest.

The win was Hilde's third over Federal Way this season and raised his record to 13-4. He previously beat shut out Federal Way on a one-hitter and scored a 4-1 win in the two teams' second meeting. Alas, Werth was the victimized hurler of each Hilde decision. The three losses to Kent were the only defeats Werth suffered while compiling a 63 record.

"We just couldn't get our hits together," Winebrenner picked
as the major reason for Federal Way demise against Kent.

THE GAME'S early action supported the coach's observation.
With two out in the first, Pat Buckholz banged a double to left-center, moved to third on a shortstop error but advanced no farther. In the next inning, Dave Greening received first when Mike Byquist pulled his foot while receiving a peg. Greening was thrown out on a steal attempt. Bendorf and Buckholz followed with singles and took third and second, respectively.
Again Kent got out of the inning unscathed.

Pete Weymiller, who stroked three hits
in four trips to the plate, banded a Butch Cratsenberg, doubledown the right will be back next field line and took year; however, third on a wild pitch Werth, after being Hilde left him strand contacted by Kent

Flyers open campaign on winning note

by Steve Weber

The Burien Flyers opened defense of their 1978 Northwest International Football League Championship in an impressive way last Saturday night as they defeated the Van-Port Thunderbirds 21-15 at Highline Stadium.

The Flyers, who credit the ground game for much of their success in past years, went to the air in Saturday's contest and the results were impressive.

Former Husky Duane Akina spearheaded the aerial attack for the Flyers as he went to the air 28 times, completing 18 for 196 yards and one touchdown. It was Akina's three yard pass to wide receiver Homer Martinez, late in the third quarter, that sealed the victory for the Flyers.

Although the passing game played a big factor in the Flyers victory, the running game, headed up by running back Randy Jacobson, continued to produce the yards when needed.

Jacobson, now in his second year with the Flyers out of Tye High School, picked up 40 yards on 11 carries and one touchdown. Jacobson opened the scoring for the Flyers, as he hit pay dirt from three yards out late in the first quarter. The extra point was good by Buddy Patnode extending the Flyer lead to 7-0.

The drive covered 62 yards in nine plays and was highlighted by a 17 yard pass from Akina to tight end Randy Kramer.

In the second quarter, the first of two interceptions suffered by Akina resulted in a Van-Port score as defensive back Bob Cecil picked off the errant pass at the Flyers 13 yard line and scooted into the endzone unscathed for the score. The point after touchdown was wide right allowing the Flyers to maintain a one point lead at 7-6.

The small lead quickly vanished however as a center snap eluded Flyer punter Jeff Savacool on the ensuing set of offensive downs and the Thunderbirds took over on the 19 yard line. A determined Flyer defense held the first year expansion club and forced them to settle for a 29 yard field goal. That made the score 9-7.

With less than one minute remaining in the first half, running back Mark Lovett scored from one yard out and the conversion was good sending the Flyers into the dressing room with a slim 14-9 lead.

Akina came out throwing in the third quarter and hit Martinez with what proved to be the winning touchdown on a three yard flare pass. Van-Port came back with a 65 yard touchdown on a pass reception from quarterback Mark Bisbing to wide receiver Gary Hobbs. Flyer head coach Mike Crotty expressed pleasure with the team's performance while offering praise to the opposition.

"I am pretty pleased with the win," Crotty said. "I think we played a pretty good ball club tonight. Their defense was strong and the offense will get stronger as the season progresses. The offense is always a problem especially for a first year club like Van-Port. I think they will be a contender in their division (Olympic) along with the Seattle Cavaliers."

Crotty attributed three mistakes by the Flyers which allowed Van-Port to score all their points.

"They had the interception of Akina for the score," Crotty said. "We had the high snap which they converted into a field goal and we had the miss tackle on the 65 yard pass. You take away those three mistakes and we played pretty well."

Linebacker Rob Gehring was married on Saturday night and his absences from the defensive lineup was definitely felt.

"Dan Payne and Gehring are our two best down linemen and anytime you lose one of them it hurts," Crotty said. "But I felt we did a good job even with his absence."

The Flyers will remain at home for one more week as they tangle with the Seattle Cavaliers this Saturday night with kickoff scheduled for 7:30.

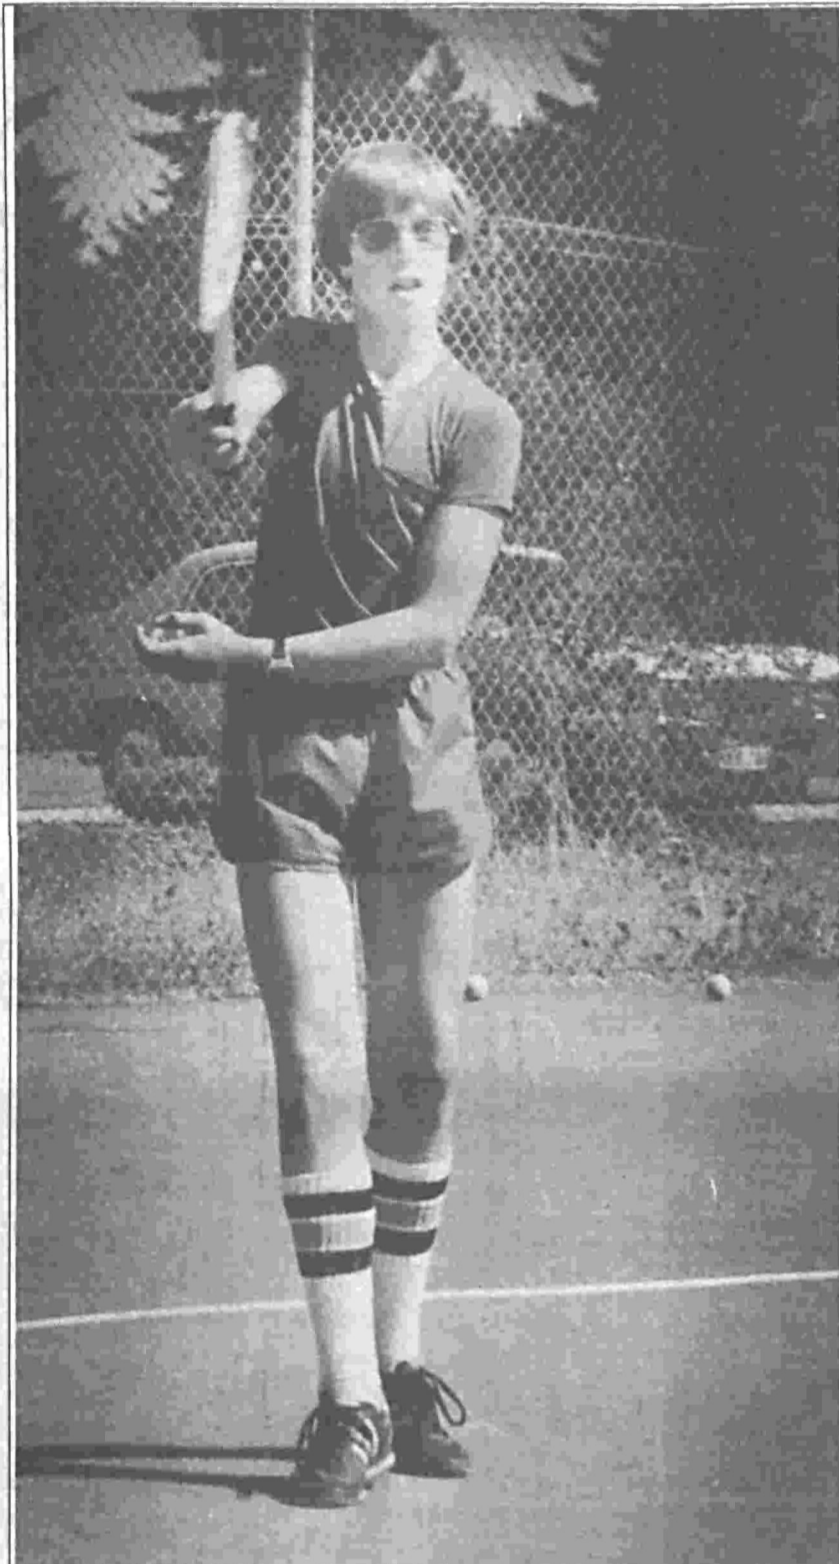

The Cavaliers are led by quarterback Bob Cason and wide receiver Ken Conley on offense and according to Crotty their defense is strong.

"If we can stop Cason, we will be in pretty good shape," Crotty said. "He is their entire offense along with Conley. Last year we shut them out twice."

In order for the Flyers to do the same this year, Crotty feels they will have to improve their kicking game and work on tackling during practices this week.

Tickets for the contest will go on sale at the Highline Stadium box office at 6 p.m. prior to the kickoff on Saturday. Prices for the game are $3 for adults, $1.50 for students and senior citizens with children under 12 admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

Karen Hosterman, a Federal Way resident, won the 200-meter race and placed third at 400 meters at the recent State Special Olympics competition. Her performance enabled her to qualify for the International Special Olympic Games in Brookspoint, New York. Karen, 14, is one of 3,400 athletes competing in the competition. 24 countries are represented in the event.

Other top performances:
Pete Weymiller of the Federal Way American Legion team stroked five hits in two games at the Division 2 Tournament last weekend.

Dennis Werth also of the FW Legion squad hurled a four-hitter in a losing cause against Kent Saturday. Federal Way dropped the contest by a 2-1 score.

Rick Nienaber of the Federal Way 13-year-old age-group All-Star team hurled a no-hitter against Richmond Beach in the State Tournament.

Karen Hosterman

Dennis Erickson, a Mt. Rainier High graduate, was named defensive co-captain of the North team in the recent State High School All-Star football game in Spokane.

Westside Federal heads to regionals

by Kevin Stauffer
Westside Federal is regional tournament-bound as the result of fastpitch softball play this weekend.

The Northwest League squad had its share of problems, dropping an 8-0 game to Woodinville Lumber in the first game of the Seattle Metro "knockout" tournament at White Center Park Saturday.

The Westsiders fought back with a 1-0 squeaker over the N.F. Hawks Sunday afternoon, thereby clinching a trip to regional AA major play in Olympia August 24.

The softball bankers also have a shot at depositing a city championship; after defeating Woodinville, 5-4, in a return bout Sunday, Westside earned the right to meet Woodinville again for the major title. The teams played Monday night, with results unavailable at press time.

Whether Westside travels to the regionals as the number one or number two Seattle entry makes no difference; the 16 teams involved are drawn from a hat to determine matchups.

A CITY TITLE was placed within a one-game grasp of the Feds Sunday evening. Four hits and three Woodinville errors keyed a four-run second inning for Westside.

Jerry Nokes led off the second with a single, but a hit-and-run failed with John Hanson at the plate leaving Nokes heading for second and the ball with Woodinville catcher Vaughn Jensen.

Jensen fired the ball over second, saving Nokes, who made the most of the play by scoring on an errant throw in from centerfield center-field. The score tied the game at 1-1.

Another hit-and-run situation led to a Westside tally as Hanson reached first on error and scored when Woodinville pitcher Hillard Vidydo misfired to first after handling Scott Tiroux's grounder. The inning's final runs came as Fred Witham tripled in Tiroux and scored himself on a wild pitch.

Westside tallied again in the third stanza as leadoff man Tim Sullivan singled to left, stole second, was sacrificed to third by Nokes and scored on Hanson's single to center. The run turned out to be the winning margin.

Fed hurler Jack Lee followed a disappointing day on the field with Woodinville Saturday. Westsider Lee gave up four home runs to powerful Woodinville bats while dropping the 8-0 decision.

A bout with the N.F.

Hawks earlier in the day carried Westside into city title contention. Lee fought a pitcher's duel with Hawk Bob Shaw; the former gave up three hits, while the latter relinquished four in a losing cause.

WESTSIDE VICTORIES Sunday followed a disappointing day on the field with Woodinville Saturday. Westsider

Lee gave up four home runs to powerful Woodinville bats while dropping the 8-0 decision.

Beyers refers to his unit as an underdog, but gives his men at least an outside chance in regional play.

"We've had adversity all year; we didn't have pitching at the beginning, we lost all those games in the league, and we've had to go with a few inexperienced players, but I'm happy," Beyers said.

Beyers will take a Westside team that recorded two wins in regional play last year to this season's battle. It may be an uphill climb, but Westside has scaled a few peaks this season as well as hitting the valleys.

Mariners to host Dodgers in Dome

The Seattle Mariners will host the Los Angeles Dodgers in a pair of spring exhibition games at the Kingdome on April 7 and 8, prior to the 1980 American League opener in Seattle.

The colorful Dodgers, National League Champions of 1977 and 1978, are led by manager Tommy Lasorda and a host of All-Stars like Steve Garvey, Davey Lopes, Don Sutton, Tacoma's Ron Cey and Reggie Smith. The games mark the first time ever that a National League club has played in the Kingdome, as well as the first baseball exhibition contests in Seattle.

The games are set for Monday and Tuesday, April 7 and 8, at 7:35 p.m., and will be the final pre-season tests for both clubs as they prepare for the regular season.

President Dan O'Brien of the Mariners said he felt it was a real plus to have a top National League team like the Dodgers come to Seattle.

"Next to the New York Yankees, the Dodgers seem to have more national appeal than any other team in baseball," O'Brien said. "This series should help develop interest in baseball in general, coming on the heels of an outstanding 1979 All-Star Game."

This is another first for the area, and would not have been possible without a facility such as the Kingdome. Previously, only warm weather teams like the Dodgers, Angels, Astros and Padres have been able to play spring games in their home parks.

Brush fires on the rise

FEDERAL WAY firefighters Monday battled one of several brush fire in the area within the past two weeks, this one at South 288th Street and Military Road. The fire department, which has extinguished some 18 brush fires in those two weeks, reports that most of the fires begin as a result of illegal burning or carelessness with cigarettes. Department officials remind residents that all open burning is illegal from June 15 to Sept. 15, and will resume then only if weather conditions permit. With the continuing dry spell, the risk of uncontrolled open burning increases dramatically, the officials said.

Shakespeare 'comedy' aired

One of the less frequently seen plays, the dark comedy "Measure for Measure" will be presented in "The Shakespeare Plays," airing on Sunday, Aug. 19, at 2:30 p.m. Channel 9 television.

Set in a corrupt and bawling Vienna, "Measure for Measure" tells the story of a peculiar attempt at moral reform undertaken by Duke Vincentio (Kenneth Colley), Vienna's ruler.

Pretending to leave Vienna on a journey, the Duke assumes a friar's habit and secretly remains in the city, first appointing a deputy to rule in his place: Angelo (Tim Pigott-Smith), a supposedly upright man "whose blood is very snow-broth."

Once in power, one of Angelo's first acts is to enforce the ancient law prohibiting premarital sex by condemning Claudio (Christopher Strauld) to death. Hearing of Claudio's death sentence, his chaste sister, Isabella (Kate Nelligan), about to enter the convent, returns to Vienna to Angelo falls in love with the beautiful Isabella and tries to strike an unholy bargain with her: if she will sleep with him, he will free her brother.

The Duke, meanwhile, discovers the plight of the brother and sister, and resolves the conflicts through an involved, secret plot, tricking and finally exposing Angelo for what he truly is.

"Measure for Measure" was directed by Desmond Davis, and also stars John McEnery as Claudio's friend, Lucio, a cynical man-about-town who manages, eventually, to talk his way into jail by slandering the Duke, unknowingly, to the Duke's face.

"The Shakespeare Plays" is a presentation of WNET-New York, co-produced by BBC Television and Time-Life Television. The series is made possible by grants from Exxon Corporation, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and Morgan Guaranty Trust Company.

Your Money

by John Weaver, Jr.
Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc.

In recent years there has been an increase in statisticians fooling around with sports statistics to seek market guidance for future market trends.

Past articles have dealt with the Super Bowl Predictor. To refresh your memories, this theory holds that when an AFL team wins the January Super Bowl, the stock market for the balance of the year is likely to decline. Conversely, when an NFL team wins the Super Bowl the stock market is strong for 11 months following.

An older idea has to do with the linkage between baseball and the Standard and Poor's Index of 500 stocks. Here's the theory: when batting averages go up, the stock market goes down. And not surprisingly, when batting averages go down, stock prices go up. At least this is indicated for 12 of the last 14 years. This performance almost matches the near perfect record of the Super Bowl Predictor.

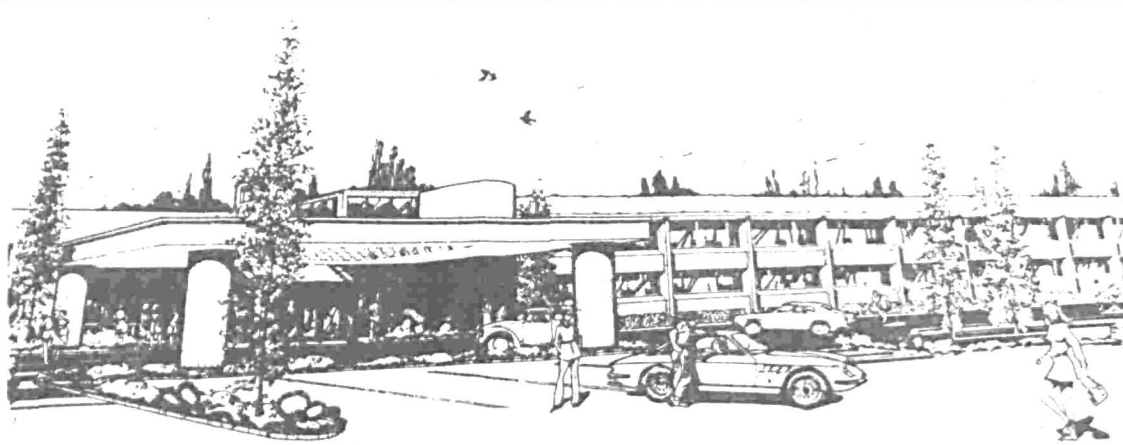

If you have read this far, perhaps you may be open-minded to a theory that assumes most baseball players have money invested. Major league athletes have earned so many dollars since the mid-1960's that they would be hard pressed to use all the many six-figure incomes in the major leagues without putting some money in the stock market.

Prior to the 1960's very few players earned more than $100,000. A fair assumption is that few players were interested in the stock market.

Today, with the free agent draft and highly flexible salaries, baseball players have new financial interests. When the market is good, the player feels more secure and doesn't try so hard when he gets to the plate. Or so the theory goes. Incidentally, our Mariner's must be an insecure bunch considering how well they've done lately.

By now you must realize the Batting Average Predictor is of more use in predicting how hard baseball hitters will work than which direction the market will take.

If the rationale is accurate, the market will do what it wants to and thus motivate the athlete, not the other way around. Sort of the old "which came first, the chicken or the egg?" story.

PLANS FOR a 152-unit Best Western Executive Inn motel/hotel are under way with a completion date scheduled for Fall 1980.

New physician joins medical center staff

The Federal Way Emergency Medical and Family Care Center (formerly the Federal Way Minor Emergency Center) has added ongoing family practice medical care to its spectrum of emergency care.

Dr. Harvey Glasser, chief of the center, said, "The medical goal of the center is to provide high quality general practice family medical care at convenient hours, to the community." That is why we have changed our name to the Federal Way Emergency Medical and Family Care Center and added services ranging from routine physical examinations to ongoing general medical care," he said. Emergency medical care will continue to be provided to the community.

Another addition to the center is Dr. Maureen Johnson who arrived last week from Providence Medical Center in Portland, Ore. Dr. Johnson, a native Northwesterner from Ballard, graduated from the University of Washington in 1970 and from medical school at Creighton University in Omaha, Neb., in 1975. She has spent the last three years in residency at Providence.

Dr. Johnson will be on duty four to five days per week, providing both emergency medical care and family health care services. Already she has seen a number of patients in both areas and is now accepting her own group of private patients for ongoing care.

Dr. Glasser said Dr. Johnson is a competent and experienced physician, a member of the American College of Physicians, and has undergone a training program at Providence ideally suited to the type of center here in Federal Way. She has specialized in internal medicine and the type of family care program.

While in Oregon, Dr. Johnson volunteered at a community clinic in Hoodland near Mt. Hood. It was a small walk-in clinic which provided both minor emergency services for recreational related accidents and continuing resident care for a community not having a hospital.

Hotel slated for 1980

Plans for constructing a $5,250,000 Best Western motel in the Federal Way area are pending a land lease agreement, according to the hotel general manager, Edward R. White.

Once the agreement has been confirmed, White estimates the new complex, located on the northwest corner of I-5 and Southwest 320th Street, will be completed by late Fall 1980.

Covering 6½ acres, the hotel will include, in the first phase, 152 units, a 750-seating capacity banquet room, dining room, coffee shop and cocktail lounge. Special display rooms for sales meetings are featured. A glass-covered courtyard houses a dining, dancing and swimming pool area. A small waterfall is a part of the landscaped interior.

The full-service hotel will also include an exercise room with a sauna, barber and styling salons, and a gift shop.

Architect is Veldon Simpson of Scottsdale, Ariz. The general contractor has not been announced.

The Hawaiian trip nobody wanted

It took several tries at the entrybox, before two winners were chosen for a Hawaiian vacation during Citizens Federal Savings and Loan Association's grand opening luau celebration on Aug. 2.

According to Ben Richardson, manager, the public attendance was so great, that savings and loan had decided to give away two trips instead of the one as advertised, but by the time it came around for the second drawing many of the guests had begun to leave and trying to find a winner that was present took five dips into the ticket box. At last two winners were named, Varrel Smith of Federal Way and Steven and Carole Aune of Tacoma.

When the bank says no... Creative financing - an alternative

by Kay Crane
With 19 years in the real estate business behind him, Doug Fields is ready to offer suggestions on innovative financing to both the public and newcomers to the real estate profession. Fields is the broker of South King Realty at 33100 Pacific Highway S. in Federal Way.

"Innovative financing," according to Fields' definition, "is what you do when the bank or mortgage company says no, either because the buyer's credit is not acceptable or because the down payment is not adequate. As money becomes tighter the qualifications rise, so that a buyer whose qualifications were fine last week may find his banker saying no this week, all through no fault of his own."

There are three routes to consider in the first instance. Can the purchaser assume the existing loan? This first route normally requires a larger front-end sum of money. If the buyer can come up with it this is often a good way to go because an older mortgage may have a lower interest rate than a new mortgage.

Will the seller accept a real estate contract? This is the second possibility and means no institution is involved. Usually the seller does not receive the total equity from the home and is liable for the underlying mortgage. He faces the risk of forfeiture. On the other hand, the seller receives possibly substantial tax advantages.

Here Fields wishes to remind the real estate broker that he is not a CPA and should suggest the seller consult one, preferably one skilled in real estate tax matters.

Fields' third suggested route is often used in tight money periods. It is a combination of the first two methods, or a mortgage assumption with a real estate contract for the balance. The mortgage, of course, must be assumable; the rate is probably advantageous. Again, Fields reminds real estate brokers that they are not attorneys and should send their sellers to an attorney to find out their alternatives in case of a default.

FLIP and bridge loans are other possibilities. The former is a flexible loan insurance program which uses an earmarked bank account of the buyer's own money to pay part of the loan payments for the first five years of the mortgage. The bridge loan is granted on the old house so the moving family can get their equity out to buy their new home before the old one sells.

If the buyer himself is in a weak financial spot, he may need a strong co-signer, usually a relative, who is willing to put himself in a position of responsibility in case of default.

"A parent who will co-sign is probably doing his child the single greatest favor possible since birth," Fields says. "It can prevent a whole generation from being renters for life."

Another possibility is a loan from parent to child for the down payment. "My first down payment came from my father-in-law, $5,000 so I could assume a G.I. mortgage, so I learned about assumptions early, long before I was in the business," Fields comments. "Let your pride take a holiday. Accept the loan from your parent, make that loan to your child."

Professionalism, to Fields, includes being aware of the dozens of ways to get into a house. There are varieties of conventional mortgages, 5 percent down and 10 percent down programs, all the government programs, even an FHA program for veterans who have used their VA benefit.

Fields will be glad to answer questions. His phone number is 838-0239. Since he remembers his father-in-law's loan so well he's got to have good suggestions.

GOING THE LIMIT
It's not unusual to find that the amount of money needed to finance the purchase of a home and the amount of cash in the bank account are too close for comfort. When does it make sense to pull back your horns and when would propriety say - "Go the limit?"
On the other hand, you might justify going the limit if you can make a big down payment; if the home is unlikely to need maintenance or repairs which are above and beyond your personal capability; if your outlook for financial advancement is bright, and if your family has proven that it can tighten belts if you really have to.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate please phone or drop in at your local DEL BIANCO REALTY INC., offices. We're here to help!

The Grapevine
by Albert B. Cribari

FACTS ABOUT WINES

The Art Of Wine Making
Almost everyone knows that wine is made from grapes through a process called fermentation. But there is much more to making wine, once the grapes have been selected, than just fermentation.

The process begins when the grapes start to get color in early fall; or early August in Fresno; and October in Mendocino County. Preparations are then made to harvest the grapes as soon as they are properly ripened. The ripeness is tested by taste and by instrument.

Once the grapes are determined to be ripe, they are taken to the winery where they are inspected, tested and crushed. At Cribari, this is done by a machine that separates the stems and most of the seeds from the juice and pulp of the grapes. While the stems and seeds are partially dried and returned as fertilizer to the vineyards, the juice, pulp and skins are put into large tanks. These tanks have either no top, or a very large opening, and I will explain why.

We fill the tank about two-thirds full and add pure yeast. The mixture is now called "must" and begins to ferment. This produces alcohol and carbon dioxide gas which is released. The reason the tanks are only partially filled and have large openings, is to give the "must" room to foam, the yeast enough air to breathe, and the carbon dioxide to escape.

When the fermentation process is completed, the "must" is clarified and decanted into newly washed and sterilized tanks, filled to capacity. The tank is then sealed. Samples of the wine are taken and examined chemically, as well as by taste and smell, which is called organoleptic analysis, to see how to blend the wines the following spring.

If you have any questions about wine making, write me at B. Cribari & Sons, Suite 615, 500 Sansome Street, San Francisco, California 94111.

Down on the farm—where the rewards are great

Getting back to basics is becoming a common cliché, but for 4-H member Patty Long and her family, their 1973 move from Seattle to the Green River Valley was more than a turn of words.

Since the move, Patty has helped raise the family's assorted livestock for food and hobby. Dressed in jeans and a plaid work shirt, Patty said the switch from city life to country was a good move. "I really like it out here."

"We moved away from the city's competition for material things," said Patty's mother, Marguerite, who was busy canning berries.

Instead of the young people vying for color television sets or motorbikes, they concentrate their time on the farm animals and compete with them in state and country fairs, Mrs. Long said.

Looking like "Old MacDonald's Farm," the Long's barnyard consists of an assorted collection of animals from chickens to pigs and including cows, goats and turkeys.

"When visitors come or it's feeding time, all the animals gather around to see what is going on," the 17-year old said. "They are very tame and friendly."

She said many of the animals have their own peculiarities and personalities. The family's regal 600 pound porker, Rose, the sow, will only cuddle up and seek affection from Mr. Long, however, Rose's offspring ask for attention from Patty and her brother, Mike.

"You know that old saying that turkeys are so dumb they won't get out of the rain," Patty asked. "It's all true. My turkeys just look up at the rain, they don't have the sense to get under cover."

There may be no guilt feelings when it comes to eating old "Tom" for Thanksgiving dinner, but the Long's had a hard time eating their first fresh egg.

"It took us one meal before we could eat the egg, and two meals before we could eat one of our chickens," Patty said. "We'd used to joke with Mom and ask if that was "Oscar" in the pot."

This year the Longs raised 50 fryers for home use. Peggy and her brother were given the baby chickens to raise for the next year.

The Longs raise their own cattle for beef. "We don't have to buy meat from the grocery store, because we have our own beef, pork and poultry," Patty said. "Our meat is all from grain fed animals and there are no chemical or steroids. We know what we are eating and nothing has been added."

"Butchering time is very dramatic around here," said Mrs. Long, describing the farmyard scene on this fateful day. "When the butcher comes, all the animals gather around quizzically watching. We have to lock them up, and then call each animal out one at a time. None of us likes to watch. I run for the barn and the kids stay in the house."

On a lighter note, the best part about raising animals, Patty said is showing them at the fairs. Despite the early feeding times (7 a.m.) and the hours spent cleaning the pens, the young farmer said she enjoys the blue ribbon payoffs when her animals compete in the fairs. Her prize Angora goat, has taken several ribbons.

"Training for the shows begins two months in advance," Patty said explaining that patience is needed when practicing.

"I work 15 minutes a day teaching the animal to stand still and follow commands. During the shows it may have to stand still in the ring for an hour without moving about."

However, she added, pigs are a little harder to train and have tempers.

Although many young people drop out of the 4-H clubs by the ages 16 and 17, Patty still finds satisfaction working with the animals. In the future she hopes to become a veterinarian or work with animal research.

A FRIENDLY lick from a small admirer. Patty Long, a 4-H member, knows where her next meal is coming from, since her family raises most of their meat in the backyard.

SQUEALS AND grunts of delight greeted Patty and her brother, Mike, when they fed pet porkers, Miss Piggy and Peggy Sue.

Salmon makes dinner a snap

A salmon feast

You'll find more time for good old-fashioned summer fun with the help of three easy secrets — canned salmon, fresh limes and icy cold tea. With these three great ingredients, you can prepare beautiful meals in no time and get out of the kitchen fast.

Canned salmon is always a summer favorite because it's light and so easy to serve. Brought to you from the icy waters of the North Pacific, salmon is quickly processed in modern facilities to insure fresh from the sea flavor all year long. Convenient, flavorful, tender chunks of salmon are an attractive addition to all kinds of salads, sandwiches and main dish meals. This delicately flavored fish has an extravagant aura about it, yet surprisingly, a very moderate price for such a valuable protein food.

For a delightful lunch or supper, try this Summer Salmon Platter of chilled canned salmon on a bed of crisp and crunchy

tomato and lettuce drizzled with a limey vinaigrette dressing. Call it a salad, an antipasto platter, main dish meal or meal-in-one. Anyway you say it, it tastes the same — delicious! For hot, heartier fare a Speedy Salmon Casserole is a quick entree that combines the best of convenience with great flavor.

Another great summer favorite is the juicy seedless lime. That's particularly true this year since Florida lime growers, who produce 90 percent of the limes grown in this country, are picking one of their biggest crops ever! That's good news for price-conscious consumers.

Right now is the best time to enjoy the tropical, sweet-tart flavor of lime in this Frosty Lime Mousse. Deceptively light and refreshing, this easy dessert can be kept — ready and waiting — in the freezer for up to two weeks. For extra appeal garnish the Mousse with grated lime and graceful lime wheels.

To complement the meal — before, during and after — serve a tall, icy cold pitcher of tea. Whether you make it by the overnight, traditional or instant way, tea is America's most popular sipping beverage of summer.

Make a pitcherful of tea the night before or early in the morning so you'll have thirst quenching, low calorie refreshment all day long. Or, try Orchard Tea, a tasty blend of tea, apple juice and spices. Be sure to garnish tall, frosty tea glasses with a juicy wedge of seedless lime for good looks and sprightly flavor. The beauty of this meal, beyond its visual appeal, is that everything can be made in advance — quickly and simply — leaving more time for fun in the summertime sun.

SUMMER SALMON SALAD PLATTER

(Yield: 6 servings)
1 can (15-1/2 ounces) salmon
1/4 cup olive oil
1/4 cup red wine vinegar
2 tablespoons lime juice
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 teaspoon dried basil, crushed
1/2 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground black pepper
1 medium white onion, sliced
Stuffed green olives

Chill salmon. Combine oil, vinegar, lime juice, garlic, basil, salt and pepper in shallow dish. Add onion slices, tomato and cucumber. Spoon oil mixture over vegetables to coat. Cover and refrigerate at least two hours.

Just before serving, line platter with salad greens. Drain vegetables, reserving marinade. Starting at outside edge of platter, arrange vegetables in concentric circles in the following order: onions, tomatoes and cucumber.

Drain salmon and break into chunks with a fork; arrange on salad greens in center of salad. Garnish with olives. Pass remaining marinade as dressing.

SPEEDY SALMON NOODLE CASSEROLE

(Yield: 4 servings)
1 can (7-3/4 ounces) salmon
1 tablespoon fresh lime juice
Milk

1-1/2 cups diced zucchini
1/4 cup chopped green onions
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 package (5-1/4 to 6 ounces) noodles
2 tablespoons tomato sauce
2 tablespoons stroganoff mix
1/2 cup cream-style cottage cheese
2 tablespoons grated parmesan cheese

Drain and flake salmon, reserving liquid. Sprinkle salmon with lime juice. Add milk to reserved salmon liquid to equal two-thirds cup. Saute zucchini and green onions in butter or margarine.

Prepare noodles by saucepan method as directed on package, omitting butter and using the two-thirds cup combined milk and salmon liquid. Add salmon, cottage cheese, sauteed zucchini and green onions. Turn into buttered one and one-half quart casserole. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 25 minutes.

FROSTY LIME MOUSSE

(Yield: 8 servings)

Crust:
1 package (6 ounces) zwieback, crushed
1/2 cup powdered sugar
1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
1 teaspoon nutmeg

Filling:
3 eggs, separated
1 cup honey, heated
1/2 cup fresh lime juice (about 4 limes)
2 tablespoons grated lime peel

Dash salt
1-1/2 cups whipping cream, whipped
Lime slices and grated peel for garnish

Mix crust ingredients together until well blended. Press onto bottom and up sides of 9-inch, springform pan; set aside.

Prepare filling: in saucepan, beat egg yolks until light, slowly stir in honey. Cook over medium low heat, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened, eight to 10 minutes. Stir in lime juice and peel; chill.

Beat egg whites with salt until stiff but not dry. Fold beaten whites and whipped cream into chilled honey-lime mixture. Pour into prepared crust; freeze six to eight hours or overnight. Mousse will resemble the consistency of soft ice cream.

To serve: garnish with lime slices and strawberries if desired.

ORCHARD TEA

(Yield: 1-1/2 quarts)
1 quart boiling water
2 cups apple juice
2 tablespoons fresh lime juice (about one lime)
3 rounded tablespoons instant tea
1/2 cup sugar
2 cinnamon sticks
1/2 teaspoon whole cloves

Lime wedges for garnish
Combine all ingredients in large pitcher or container; stir to dissolve sugar. Let stand at room temperature for at least an hour. Then place in refrigerator to chill. When ready to serve, strain to remove spices and serve over ice with a wedge of lime.

Variation: Use a quart of freshly brewed strong tea in place of boiling water and instant tea. Make tea using nine teabags or nine teaspoons loose tea and a quart of water.

Hot Roll Brioche cuts more than five hours off the minimum time needed to make these rich, top-knotted rolls. While warm brioche with butter, jam and big cup of cafe au lait means breakfast in France where the rolls originated, these deep golden rolls are also good for other meals. Brioche freezes well, so you can keep a supply on hand to serve warm.

True brioche is a bread that most French cooks buy from the bakery, rather than going through the laborious process of making it at home. But using hot roll mix is an easy way to get a surprisingly authentic version.

Greek Cheese Pie takes the ingredients in the traditional Greek main dish, Tyropita, but calls for refrigerated crescent dinner rolls instead of filo dough. The combination of three cheeses with spinach and egg makes such a hearty vegetarian main dish that no one will miss the meat.

In addition to ethnic recipes, economy and special occasion recipes also are eligible.

H O T R O L L B R I O C H E

(Yield: 12 rolls)
1 package hot roll mix
1/4 cup very warm water (105 degrees to 115 degrees F.)
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 cup buttermilk, room temperature
3 tablespoons margarine or butter, softened
1 egg
Melted margarine or butter

Using solid shortening (not oil), generously grease 12 medium muffin cups. In large bowl, dissolve yeast in water. Add about one-half of flour mixture from hot roll mix, sugar, baking powder, buttermilk, three tablespoons margarine and egg. Blend at low speed until moistened; beat two minutes at medium speed. Stir in remaining flour mixture until smooth, about 75 strokes. On well floured surface, toss dough lightly until no longer sticky.

Divide dough into 12 equal parts. Remove about one-fifth of dough from each part. Shape dough into smooth balls and place larger balls in center of muffin cups. Press large indentation in center of each large ball and place small ball firmly in center of indentation. Cover and let rise in warm place until light and doubled in size, about 45 minutes.

Bake brioche in preheated 350 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until light golden brown. Immediately remove from pan. Brush with melted margarine.

G R E E K C H E E S E P I E

(Yield: 8 servings)
2 (8 ounces) can refrigerated crescent dinner rolls
1-1/2 cups (12 ounces) cottage cheese
4 ounces feta cheese
1 (3-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
2 eggs, beaten
1 (10-ounce) package frozen chopped spinach, thawed, well-drained
2 tablespoons margarine or butter, melted

Separate one can of dough into two long rectangles. Place dough in ungreased 13x9-inch pan; press over bottom to form crust. Seal perforations. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 10 minutes.

Combine cheeses and eggs; mix well. Place half the spinach on the baked crust. Spoon cheese mixture over spinach. Top with remaining spinach.

On waxed paper, separate remaining can of dough into two long rectangles; press out and seal perforations. Place on top of spinach. Brush with melted margarine. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes or until crust is golden brown. Cut into wedges.

Note: Omit feta cheese if desired. Increase cottage cheese to two cups (16 ounces).

Salads dress up cool summer meals

Variety is the spice of life, so they say. If that holds true in the kitchen, then the most well-seasoned menus include salads. Since the days of the Caesars, salads have been crafted to please palates the world over. But whether it's an international bowl or just your garden variety, there's no end to the luscious combinations that a little creativity can fashion. All it takes is an imaginative mix of fruits, vegetables and salad dressings.

From juicy peaches to crunchy lettuce, from green avocados to white potatoes, produce comes fresh from Mother Nature in all shapes, colors and flavors. Combine a host of these harvested delectables for an eye-appealing salad that tastes as good as it looks.

Panhandle Potato Salad
1 quart cooked potato slices
2 cups cooked beef strips
1 cup mushroom slices

1 cup red onion rings
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1/2 cup salad dressing
1/2 cup dairy sour cream
1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Combine potatoes, beef, mushrooms, onion and parsley. Add salad dressing blended with sour cream and seasonings; toss lightly. Chill. Add additional salad dressing and garnish with onion rings and parsley, if desired. 4 to 6 servings.

Ensalada Gaspacho

1 cup chopped tomato
1/2 cup chopped cucumber
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons sliced green onion
1/2 cup French dressing
1 teaspoon lime juice
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/2 teaspoon cracked black pepper
2 avocados, peeled, halved
1 quart shredded lettuce

Combine tomato, cucumber, green pepper, green onion, dressing, lime juice and seasonings; mix lightly. Fill avocado halves with vegetable mixture. Serve on shredded lettuce. 4 servings.

Peach Souffle Salad

2 pkgs (3 oz each) orange flavored gelatin
2 cups boiling water
1 cup cold water
1 cup gingerale
1/2 cup mayonnaise
2 egg whites
2 cups finely chopped peaches

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water and gingerale. Gradually add gelatin to mayonnaise; mixing until blended. Chill until partially set. Wrap a 2-inch collar of aluminum foil around the tops of 6 sherbet dishes. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Fold peaches and egg white into gelatin mixture. Pour gelatin mixture into dishes. Chill until firm. Remove collar. Garnish with peach slices and mint, if desired. 6 servings.

Winning grange baked goods

The aroma of freshly baked breads, rolls and cakes always seem to signal the approach of fall and back-to-school. It's also the perfect time to share the goodness of old time favorites from this year's Grange Baking Contest.

Each year there are three main categories in the contest. They are Class A - yeast breads; Class B - sweet rolls, tea rings; and Class C - butter cakes. Each winning recipe is naturally delicious!

BACON SESAME BREAD

2 cups warm water
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons (2 packages) active dry yeast
3 teaspoons salt
6-12 cups flour
2 eggs
1/2 cup butter
3 tablespoons bacon bits

Combine warm water, sugar and active dry yeast. Stir until dissolved. Add salt and flour. Beat two minutes with electric mixer. Add eggs and butter and beat one minute with electric mixer. Stir in bacon bits and flour.

Let dough rest in bowl and place in preheated 150 degree oven for 20 minutes. Turn dough out onto a floured surface. Knead until smooth. Cut dough in half.

Roll out half of the dough into a rectangle so that the width will fit the width of a loaf pan. Roll dough up in jelly roll fashion and seal ends tightly. Place into a 9x5x3-inch greased loaf pan. Repeat the same as above to the other half of dough.

Place loaves in a preheated 150 degree oven for 40 to 45 minutes or until double in bulk.

Then bake loaves at 375 degrees for 30 minutes. Brush tops with Egg Wash (one egg white and two tablespoons water - beat until mixed thoroughly) and sprinkle sesame seeds on the crust. Return loaves to oven for five to 10 minutes or until loaves are done. Loaves should sound hollow when tapped. Take loaves immediately out of loaf pans and place on wire racks to cool.

O A T M E A L M O L A S S E S B R E A D

1 package yeast
2 cups warm water
1 cup uncooked rolled oats
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 cup brown sugar
6 cups white flour
1/4 cup molasses
1 egg
3 tablespoons butter (melted)

Dissolve yeast in warm water. Add oatmeal, salt, brown sugar and molasses. Mix enough flour in to make a batter. Beat in egg and butter. Add the remaining flour and knead on a floured board. Let rest five minutes and knead again.

Let rise in a greased bowl until double in size. Punch down two times and the third time shape into two loaves and place in well-greased loaf pans and let rise until double in size. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 35 to 40 minutes. Brush with butter.

Dilled Potato Salad

Looking for a new way to combine potatoes and mayonnaise for a pleasing salad? Add a hearty mixture of crisp vegetables with a distinctive spice. Dilled Potato Salad is the result.

Dill, a name derived from an old Norse word, at one time had the reputation for being a potent magic herb. It may not contain any magic powers these days, but teamed with cucumbers, carrots and green onion slices, it's sure to help conjure up a flavorful potato salad that's a seasoning ahead.

Dilled Potato Salad
 6 cups chopped cooked potatoes
 1 cup quartered cucumber slices
 1 cup shredded carrots
 2 tablespoons green onion slices
 2 teaspoons salt
 1/2 teaspoon dill weed
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 1 cup mayonnaise
 Lettuce

Combine potatoes, cucumbers, carrots, onion and seasonings. Add mayonnaise; mix lightly. Chill. Stir in additional serving, if desired. 8 servings.

Peerless Molded Salad

"It looks too good to eat," they say. But eat it they will, when you place Peerless Pink Mold on your table.

This recipe highlights one of the most popular small dessert fruits, raspberries. They are ripe throughout the summer months, depending on variety, but you can get them frozen all year round.

Peerless Pink Mold
 1 pkg (10 ozs) frozen raspberries, thawed
 1 pkg (3 oz) raspberry flavored gelatin
 1 cup boiling water
 1 pkg (3 oz) raspberry gelatin
 1 cup boiling water
 1/2 cup salad dressing
 1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Drain raspberries, reserving liquid. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; add reserved liquid and enough cold water to measure 3/4 cup. Chill until partially set; fold in fruit. Pour into lightly oiled 2-quart mold; chill until almost set.

dissolve second package of gelatin in boiling water. Cool. Gradually add to salad dressing, mixing until blended. Fold in whipped cream; pour over molded layer. Chill until firm. Unmold; garnish as desired. 8 to 10 servings.

Seating and tableware for an outdoor party should be casual, cozy and convenient. Large pillows on reed mats work for extra seating. Set a simple buffet table with a centerpiece of flowers from your own garden. Paper plates save on dish washing, but paper napkins blow easily in an outdoor breeze, so use wash 'n wear napkins instead.

Stay at home picnic treat

The energy crunch may be with us, but don't let that stop your entertaining instincts. Stay at home, but make it fun... ask the gang in for their favorite combination, chicken and ravioli! It's made particularly easy with a canned ravioli product which turns into a super casserole with a little creativity on your part.

CHICKEN RAVIOLI CASSEROLE
(Yield: 6 servings)
1/4 cup cooking oil
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 boiler-fryer

chickens, cut into serving parts 1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
2 cans (15 ounces) small ravioli in tomato and meat sauce
1 cup table cream
Dash hot pepper sauce
1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas
2 tablespoons toasted almonds
Combine cooking oil and butter; heat in large skillet. Drain chicken parts. Remove browned parts to warm platter. Sauté onion and pepper in remaining fat.

Add small ravioli, table cream, hot pepper sauce, and frozen peas; cover, simmer for five minutes.
Place layer of chicken on bottom of baking dish. Pour mini-ravioli mixture over. Arrange remaining chicken on top; cover. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 40 minutes. Garnish with toasted almonds.

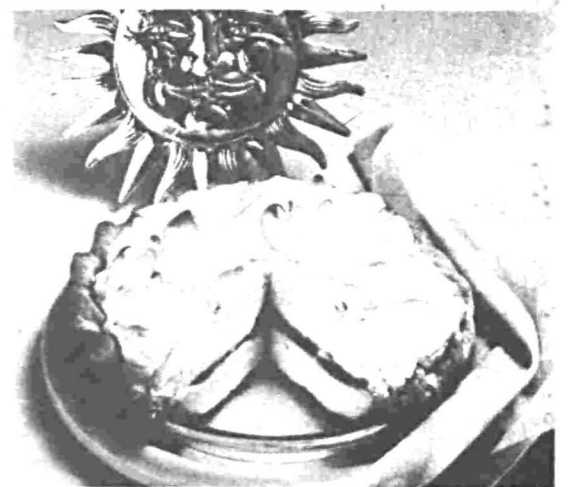

Beating the heat with a lemon pie

There couldn't be an easier or more delicious ending for a light summertime luncheon than luscious Raspberry Lemon Meringue Pie. The filling begins with a precooked base of sweetened condensed milk which thickens instantly when reconstituted lemon juice is added. The jewel-like layer of raspberry preserves adds a delightful surprise, too and proves that, as far as lemon pies go, there is something new under the sun!

RASPBERRY LEMON MERINGUE PIE
(Yields: one 8-inch pie)
2 eggs, separated
1 (14-ounce) can sweetened condensed milk
1/2 cup reconstituted lemon juice

1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 (8-inch) baked pastry shell, cooled
1/2 cup red raspberry preserves
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/4 cup sugar
In medium bowl beat egg yolks; stir in sweetened condensed milk, lemon juice and rind. Turn into shell. Spread preserves on surface to within one-half inch of shell. In small bowl, beat egg whites with cream of tartar until foamy; gradually add sugar, beating until stiff but not dry.

Spread meringue on top of pie, sealing carefully to edge of shell. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 15 minutes or until meringue is golden brown. Cool. Chill before serving. Refrigerate leftovers.

What's Cookin' in Ruth's Kitchen

by Ruth Jurich

by Ruth Jurich
Fly across our state sometime in a small commuter plane, from the tan and brown patchwork of wheat fields on the east to the brown and green squares, rectangles, circles and half circles of irrigated land and on home across the magnificent Cascade Mountains.

The flight will transport you from the State of Washington to a state of euphoria, and you'll feel like singing, "America the Beautiful".

I took this flight recently when an old friend, visiting from Lewiston, Idaho, suggested that I drive home with her. We took the long route, along the north bank of the Columbia River, stopping at every historical marker, lookout point and museum with a few stops for food.

It took us from early morning to late evening; so nothing much was cooking in Ruth's kitchen that weekend. But, I had a few reflections on snacks to take on a long drive on a hot day.

A PLASTIC FOAM lunchbox is almost a "must" especially if you're taking rich sandwiches or wrapped pieces of fried chicken. Whatever you're taking, it's safer and more refreshing to have it cold.

We filled a bottle of water the night before, froze it and put it in the lunch box. It served as refrigeration for our snack foods during a long, hot day and also gave us a drink of ice water if we wanted it. You could freeze your favorite juice as well as water and have ice cold juice if you want it.

Hot though it was, we also carried a thermos of coffee.

For finger foods we took a plastic carton of chilled, fresh-picked blueberries, some nectarines, bite-size tomatoes, hard cooked eggs, a plastic bag with pieces of cheese including kasseri and both sharp and mild cheddar and a bag filled with quarters of dill pickle and thick slices of cucumber. The pickles seasoned the cucumbers, but they were still neat to eat.

I would have put in a bag of fresh roasted nuts if I had had them on hand. They should not be heavily salted, because salty foods make you thirsty.

SWEETS ARE BETTER avoided while traveling, although we succumbed to the temptation of apple danish pastries

CHOCOLATE CAKE
6 cup butter
2 cups sugar
1-1/2 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs
3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
3 cups cake flour
1-1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1-1/2 cups cold water
Cream together butter, sugar and vanilla. Add eggs and beat until light and fluffy. Add the melted chocolate and mix well; set aside.
Sift together the cake flour, baking soda and salt. Add the dry ingredients to the creamed mixture alternately with the cold water. Place in two nine-inch waxpaper-lined cake pans. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven, 30 to 35 minutes. Cool.

with coffee mid forenoon in the beautifully landscaped little town of Camas.

Planned that way or not, the little Town of Bingen is a perfect tourist trap with its winery, antique and second hand store and delicatessen which served me the best Reuben sandwich I have ever tasted. It had very dark rye bread and lots of kraut and had been put in a microwave just long enough to melt the cheese and blend its flavor with corned beef and kraut.

It bore out my contention that a truly fine sandwich is one that's so thick and gooey it's difficult to eat.

The town of Bingen was bustling with preparations for its annual Huckleberry Festival. We picked up a newspaper that had a page of huckleberry recipes, and it occurred to me that any recipe that calls for huckleberries can be made with blueberries which are now plentiful on backyard bushes and in supermarkets.

A PIE RECIPE that appealed to me had a layer of fresh, uncooked berries in a baked pie shell, topped with a layer of cooked berry filling and then with whipped cream. This would go even better with blueberries than with huckleberries, because raw huckleberries are too sharp for most people's taste. Here's how to put it together:

- Blueberry Pie
- Baked 9 inch pie shell
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup water
- 4 cups blueberries
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt in a saucepan. Add water and 2 cups berries.

Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil and is thickened and clear. It will be quite thick.

Remove from heat, add butter and lemon juice, and let cool. Spread remaining 2 cups of berries in baked pie shell, and cover with cooked berry mixture. Chill and top with whipped cream or cream cheese softened with a bit of cream.

In making a regular huckleberry or blueberry pie, if you don't have quite enough berries, you can always pad out the quantity with chopped apple. The berry flavor will be dominant.

SPEAKING OF APPLES now is the time to enjoy green apple pie, and unless you freeze them, freeze the pies or the filling, they'll be gone. If you like tart pies, there's no flavor like green apples.

You may want to use a little more sugar and a little less flour or other thickening than you would for a pie made with ripe apples. A cup of sugar and 2 tablespoons flour is enough for 3 cups chopped green apples. Many people like a dash of nutmeg or cinnamon, but I prefer the pure fruit flavor.

Now is the time for fresh fruits and fruit pies of all kinds. Let's enjoy them while they're here. As Auntie Mayme said, "Life is a banquet."

Strawberry Rhubarb Pie

Top dinner off with a tempting pie

Strawberry Rhubarb Pie is a perfectly natural way to end a family meal during this time of year.

Baked in a flakey pastry shell, the tangy rhubarb and sweet to make a memorable flavor.

Dainty pastry petals top the pink fruit filling. These may be cut out and baked on a baking sheet while the pie is baking, then placed on the cooled pie. For best results, wait until the pie is cooled before adding the decoration, this will keep the crust crisp and flakey.

STRAWBERRY-RHUBARB PIE
1-1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
4 to 6 tablespoons cold water

Strawberry-Rhubarb filling (see recipe below)

Sift together flour and salt. Cut or rub in shortening until mixture is crumbly. Sprinkle with water, mixing lightly until dough begins to stick together.

Roll about two-thirds of dough to circle one-eighth inch thick, and fit into nine-inch pie pan. Using pastry wheel or knife, cut dough into long strip three-fourth-inch wide to use for pie edging.

Make flower petal cutouts from remaining dough.

Brush rim of pastry with water. Place strip around edge and press firmly.

Bake in preheated 425 degree oven for 35 to 40 minutes, or until rhubarb is tender and pastry is lightly browned. Bake sheet 10 to 12 minutes. Arrange petal cutouts on top of baked, cooled pie.

STRAWBERRY-RHUBARB FILLING
3/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup all-purpose flour

1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon salt
3 cups sliced fresh

rhubarb
2 cups sliced strawberries
Combine sugar, flour, cinnamon and salt. Add to rhubarb and strawberries and mix lightly. Turn into pastry-lined pie pan.

Note: Frozen strawberries and rhubarb which have been thawed and well-drained may be substituted for fresh fruit, if desired.

Micro magic

When you're short on time for breakfast, lunch or dinner, remember the time saving qualities of your microwave oven.

Eggs 'N Avocado makes breakfast extra special by combining avocado, chopped tomato and onion with protein rich eggs. Served on a warmed tortilla, these scrambled eggs are just the cure for those "Monday morning blues."

For dinner, try Teriyaki Chicken, a main dish that's in and out of the microwave in just 18 minutes. For best results, marinate chicken three to four hours before cooking, turning chicken once.

EGGS 'N AVOCADO
(Yield: 4 servings)
1 ripe avocado
1 tablespoon butter
5 eggs
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 small tomato, chopped
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
4 flour tortillas
Butter

Peel avocado, remove seed and cut into small pieces. In one and one-half quart glass casserole, heat one tablespoon butter 45 seconds on full power or until melted. In medium bowl, beat eggs with salt and pepper. Pour into buttered casserole.

Cover with plastic wrap and cook two minutes on full power, stirring mixture after one minute. Stir in avocado, tomato and onion. Cover and cook an additional three and one-half minutes on simmer / defrost or until eggs are just set, stirring at one minute intervals. Eggs will continue to cook after removal from oven. Let stand one to two minutes before serving.

To warm tortillas, place between two paper towels and heat 20 seconds on full power. Butter tortillas and serve eggs on top of tortillas.

T E R I Y A K I CHICKEN

(Yield: 8 servings)
1 (2-1/2-pound) broiler-fryer chicken, cut into 8 pieces
1/4 cup soy sauce
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 cup cooking sherry
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon MSG (optional)

1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 teaspoon grated fresh ginger root

In a large bowl, combine soy sauce, sugar, sherry, salt, MSG, vegetable oil and ginger root. Marinate chicken pieces three to four hours. Place chicken skin-side-down in 3-quart glass casserole. Cook, uncovered, 12 minutes on full power. (If your microwave does not have a carousel, rotate one-half turn after six minutes.)

Turn chicken skin-side-up and cook six to seven minutes on full power or until chicken is fork-tender. (If your microwave does not have a carousel, rotate one-half turn after three minutes.) Let stand five minutes before serving.

Another delectable Grange winner: Orange Rolls

ORANGE ROLLS
 1 package dry yeast
 1/4 cup warm water
 1 cup sugar
 1 teaspoon salt
 2 eggs
 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
 3-1/2 cups flour
 3/4 cup sugar
 2 tablespoons grated orange rind
 Glaze
 1/4 cup sugar
 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
 2 tablespoons frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
 1/4 cup butter
 Dissolve yeast in warm water in large mixing bowl. Beat in one-fourth cup sugar, salt, eggs, sour cream and six tablespoons melted butter.
 Gradually add two cups flour; beat until smooth. Knead remaining flour into dough. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk, about two hours.
 Punch dough down; knead on floured board about 15 times. Divide dough in half; roll in 12-inch circle. Combine three-fourths cup sugar and the orange rind. Brush dough with one tablespoon melted butter and sprinkle with half of the orange-sugar mixture. Cut into 12 wedges. Cut into 9x12-inch pan in three rows. Cover and let rise until doubled, about one hour. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 20 minutes. Place rolls, point side down, in buttered

The cold facts of freezing foods

The warm, lazy, hazy days of summer have a definite effect on the American palate — visions of meat, potatoes and heavy desserts give way to thoughts of crisp salads, fish, and garden-fresh fruits and vegetables.

To take full advantage of summer's bounties, it makes good sense to study the hard, "cold facts" on use of freezer space. Good use of freezer space can help hedge against food cost inflation and capture seasonal foods at their best.

How you decide what foods to store depends on your family's tastes. But remember these tips if you want to get the most out of summer food values:

The key to successful freezing is packaging. If food is wrapped tightly and is fairly waterproof, storage time can be increased. If food is not wrapped well, it will get "freezer burn" from loss of moisture.

If you plan to freeze fresh fruits and vegetables, keep in mind that nutritional losses can be minimized by freezing them within a few hours of gathering.

Be a savvy shopper this summer.

Keep an eye open for specials on foods that can be frozen. For example, if meats or fish are on sale, buy a large quantity and can be enjoyed next winter.

Paying attention to the "cold facts" of freezer space with a summer can mean big long-range plan. Cash dividends from your in on fresh fruit sum-freezer in the long mertime values — run.

Cool surprise for a hot day

Surprise summer guests with Curried Apple Supreme, a deliciously smooth yogurt soup made with canned condensed cream of chicken soup.

Swirled in a handy blender or food processor and served hot or frosty cold, this marvelous, slightly different apple-flavored soup will delight family and friends.

CURRIED APPLE SUPREME
(Yield: 4 servings)

1-1/2 cups diced apple
2 tablespoons each flaked coconut, and chopped onion
2 teaspoons curry powder
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (10-3/4 ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
1/2 cup plain yogurt
1/2 soup can milk

In saucepan, cook apple, coconut, onion and curry in butter until tender. Add soup. Pour into electric blender; blend until smooth.

Return mixture to saucepan; gradually stir in yogurt and milk. Heat; stir occasionally. Thin to desired consistency with milk. Garnish with toasted coconut. For chilled soup, chill six hours or more.

Summertime cheesecake

There are many different variations of cheesecake — rich and creamy, light and fluffy, graham cracker crusted, fruit-topped, baked and no-bake.

Here is an unusual, easy-to-make, refrigerator cheesecake that depends on crushed pineapple plus a new coconut rum liqueur for its wonderful tropical taste.

Popular as a base for cooling, colada-style drinks.

C O L A D A CHEESECAKE

(Yield: 12 servings)

1-1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
1/4 cup sugar
3 eggs
1 cup milk
2 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese, softened at room temperature
1/4 cup coconut rum liqueur
1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) crushed pineapple, drained, reserve one-third cup liquid

Toasted coconut (optional)

In medium bowl, combine cracker crumbs, sugar and butter. Press mixture into bottom and sides of buttered nine-inch springform pan. Crumb mixture should come within one inch from top of pan.

In medium saucepan, combine gelatine, sugar and salt. Beat eggs with milk; blend into gelatine mixture. Stir over low heat until gelatine is completely dissolved, about five to eight minutes. Remove from heat. Pour into prepared pan.

In a large bowl, beat cream cheese until smooth; gradually beat in liqueur, reserved pineapple liquid and gelatine mixture. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Gently fold in drained pineapple.

Chill three to four hours or until firm. To serve, remove sides from pan. Garnish with crushed pineapple and toasted coconut, if desired.

Picnic potluck rice

Romantics of the world may opt for a jug of wine, a loaf of bread and each other, but most of us require heartier sustenance to appease outdoor appetites.

Camping, picnics and pier parties have one feature in common — the food is eaten out-of-doors, with little or no help in the way of kitchen facilities. Foods must be hearty enough to satisfy all, yet easily prepared and portable. Ingredient lists are short — preparations simple, and those recipes which require a skillet as the only cooking utensil are very much in demand. Camper's Rice Special is tailor-made for the outdoor life.

In a 10-inch skillet, combine rice, soup, water and whole green beans.

Bring to a boil, then add Vienna sausage and simmer, uncovered, about five minutes or until rice is tender, stirring occasionally.

CAMPER'S RICE SPECIAL
1-1/2 cups instant rice
1 can (10-3/4 ounces) condensed onion soup
1/2 cup water
1 can (16-ounces) whole green beans
2 cans (4 ounces each) Vienna sausage

There's enough for four servings and, best of all, only one pan for cleanup!

BUTTER FROSTING
1 pound box powdered sugar

3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup cream

1 teaspoon vanilla
Beat all together until smooth and satiny. Spread between layers and frost cake. Sprinkle top with ground walnuts (optional).

GERMAN SWEET CHOCOLATE CAKE
1 package (four ounces) German sweet chocolate
1/2 cup boiling water

1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
4 egg yolks

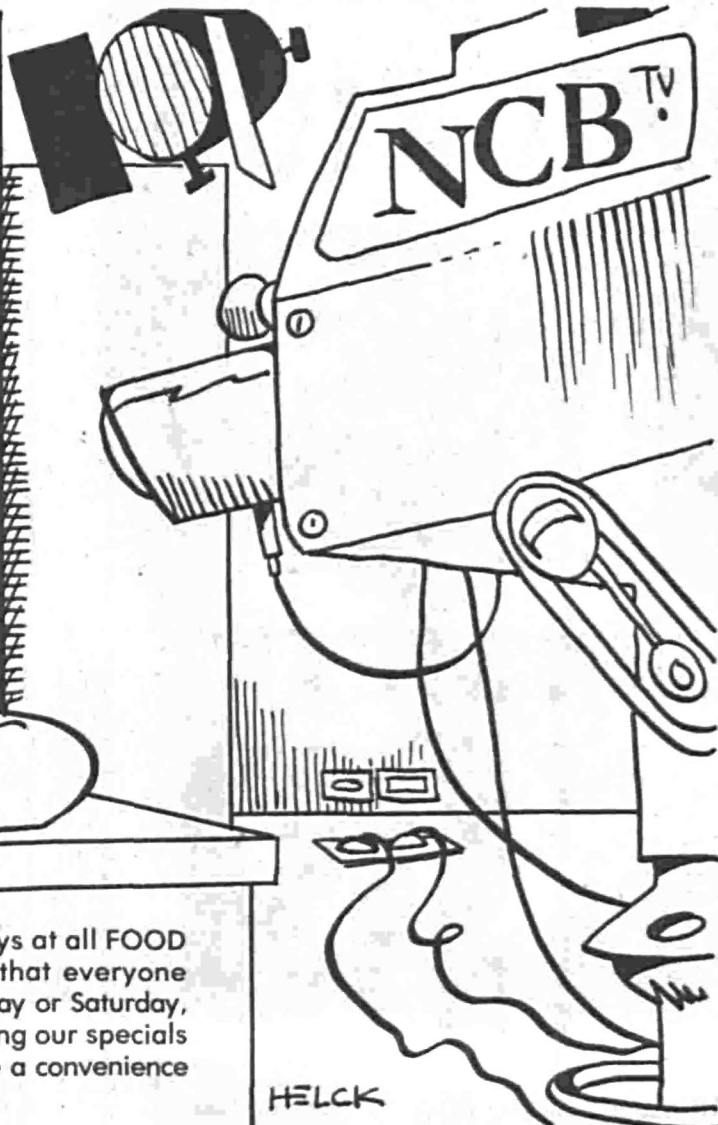

1 teaspoon vanilla
2-1/4 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda

1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup buttermilk
4 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Melt chocolate in boiling water. Cool. Cream butter and sugar until fluffy. Add egg yolks one at a time, beating well after each. Blend in vanilla and chocolate. Set aside.

Sift together flour, baking soda and salt. Add alternately with buttermilk to chocolate mixture, beating after each addition until smooth. Fold in beaten egg whites. Pour into three 9-inch layer cake pans. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes. Cool.

Food regulations not fully understood

Health, safety and environmental concerns have been reflected in food regulations proposed and promulgated in the nation's capital in recent years. Are consumers aware of their cost and the trade-offs involved when they are adopted? U.S. Department of Agriculture economists discussed these questions in the context of current regulatory issues. Their forum was the joint annual meeting of the Western and American Agricultural Economics Associations on the campus of Washington State University.

USDA economist William T. Boehm cited the potential economic consequence of a proposed ban on the use of nitrites due to their carcinogenic nature. Sodium nitrites, he explained, have been used since the 1920s in the meat curing process for color, flavor and for protection against botulism. Boehm explained the food additive is used in the curing ATID, of more than 55 percent of all pork on a carcass weight basis. In addition, 10 percent of all beef, 5 percent of all turkeys and a fractional percent of all chicken sold in the United States is nitrite cured.

In 1978, he said, U.S. consumers spent about a quarter of their meat budget — approximately $14.5 billion — on nitrite-cured products. With a decision concerning future nitrite use imminent, he added, USDA has attempted to analyze the impact of a possible total ban.

In the first year, one analysis shows, total meat supplies would decline by 5 percent, or about seven pounds per person because less meat from each carcass would be usable. Composite meat prices would go up by 3 percent, 7 percent for uncured meat, and expenditures for meat would decline about 2.5 percent. Gross revenue for livestock producers would decline 3.5 percent or about $1.2 billion. He said the analysis is based on a number of assumptions, including one that assumes consumers would attempt to substitute within the meat category for 80 percent of the $14.5 billion previously spent on nitrite-cured products.

Chicken salad brightens menu

Some new light has been shed on a new way to serve chicken salad. Add some sunshine fruits like pineapple and seedless grapes to give a burst of freshness and flavor.

Along with cubes of process cheese spread and plenty of mayonnaise to blend these savory ingredients together, Sunshine Chicken Salad sparks appetites for a main dish salad with something extra.

Sunshine Chicken Salad
 1 cup grape halves
 Mayonnaise
 Lettuce
 Combine process cheese spread, chicken, pineapple, celery, grapes and enough mayonnaise to moisten; mix. Makes 6 servings.

Analyzing the sugars in packaged cereals

New research methods can now tell exactly what kinds of sugar are in ready-to-cereals, says Jan Grant, King County Extension agent.

U.S. Department of Agriculture chemists found that, as expected, cereal manufacturers added far more table sugar (sucrose) than any other sugar. If lactose was present, it meant that milk, milk chocolate or milk powder was added during processing. Maltose indicated corn syrup.

Fructose and glucose occur naturally in raisins; cereals with raisins had these sugars at considerably higher level than cereals without raisins.

Sixty-two cereals were tested. Two contained more than 50 percent sugar — Sugar Smacks and Apple Jacks. Raisin Bran had 48 percent sugar, but less than one-third came from table sugar; naturalsugars in raisins accounted for most of the sweetness.

On the other end of the scale, three cereals contained no re detectable sugar except levels of sucrose that occur naturally in grain. These were Shredded Wheat, Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice.

Other cereals containing less than 10 percent total sugars included Concentrate, Total, Wheaties, Rice Krispies, Grape Nuts, Special K, Corn Flakes, Post Toasties, Kix, Rice Chex, Wheat Chex, Corn Chex, and Cheerios.

CINNAMON ROLLS
 3 3/4 to 5 1/2 cups flour (unsifted)
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 1/2 teaspoon salt
 2 packages dry yeast
 1/2 cup milk
 1/2 cup water
 1/2 cup butter
 2 eggs (at room temperature)
Filling
 1 1/2 cups sugar
 1/4 cup seedless raisins
 2 teaspoons cinnamon
Frosting
 6 cups powdered sugar
 1 tablespoon water
 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

In a large bowl thoroughly mix one and two-thirds cups flour, sugar, salt and undissolved yeast. Combine milk, water and butter in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are warm (butter need not melt).

Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat two minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add eggs and one-half cup flour or enough flour to make a thick batter. Beat at high speed two minutes — scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough.

Turn out on a lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic, about eight to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease the top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft until doubled in bulk, about one hour.

Punch dough down; turn out onto lightly floured board. Divide in half. Roll each half into an 18x9-inch rectangle. Brush with melted butter. Combine filling ingredients and sprinkle half of mixture over each piece of dough. Roll each up jelly roll fashion making an 18-inch roll. Seal edges firmly. Cut each roll in 12 pieces about one and one-half inches wide.

Place cut side up in two greased nine-inch round cake pans or two greased eight-inch square pans. Cover, let rise in warm place free from draft until doubled in bulk — about one hour.

Bake in preheated 350-degree oven about 25 minutes or until done. Remove from pans and cool on wire rack. Serve plain or frost with powdered sugar, water and vanilla. Beat until smooth.
