

Coupon ripoff

United deal could be a steal for real

by Nathalie Weber

If you're planning to cut some costs on an upcoming trip by purchasing one of United Airlines' half fare coupons, you may wind up paying more than you bargained for.

Counterfeit half fare coupons recently have been surfacing among the authentic price reducers and, although United contends not many counterfeits are in circulation, one local company's encounter with the fraud last week could have left its 30-member group all but grounded.

That company, which asked to remain anonymous, purchased eight counterfeit coupons out of the 30. At $50 a crack, it stood to lose $400 — but luck reigned. The company was able to return the useless tickets for an authentic set.

Others may not be so fortunate, especially if they purchase coupons from the vendors that frequent the airport terminal. By the time the buyer realizes the fraud, the seller likely will be gone.

THOSE STUCK WITH the counterfeit tickets either have to buy another half fare coupon, pay for a full fare ticket, or stay home. United has no sympathy for those caught in the sham.

"If an individual buys a counterfeit coupon, that's his problem, not ours," Jack Gamble, spokesman for United, said. "Anybody who buys a coupon does so at his own risk."

He explained that although the United is not responsible for that transferring. "The only way you can be 100 percent sure of what you've got is if you received it as a passenger. Otherwise, you're taking a chance," Gamble said.

How much of a chance? Well, local residents have been deceived, an arrest was made two weeks ago in Pierce County for the counterfeiting, but United said it's not a large scale problem.

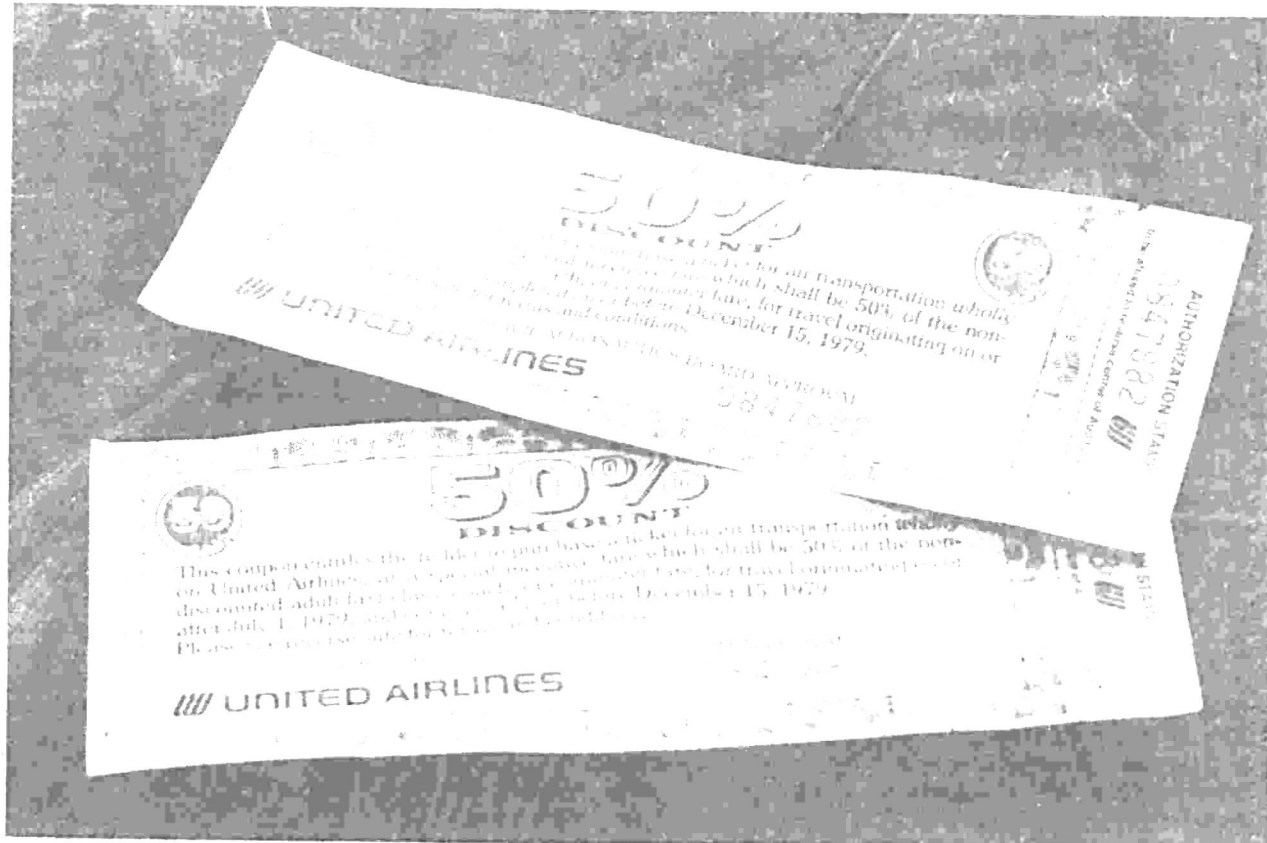

"Between May 28 and June 17 United distributed 1,200,000 coupons and I'd say the number of counterfeits is relatively small—about a couple hundred," Gamble said.

HAVING SEEN SOME of the counterfeit coupons, Gamble said a few were "well done." There's no absolute method of spotting the fake ones unless it's an obviously sloppy printing job, he said.

The authentic coupons are grey and green, each one labeled with a number, the United logo and legal language that explains the use of the ticket. They also come with a detachable tab on one end. "If that tab's gone, don't even consider buying it. It's no good," Gamble warns.

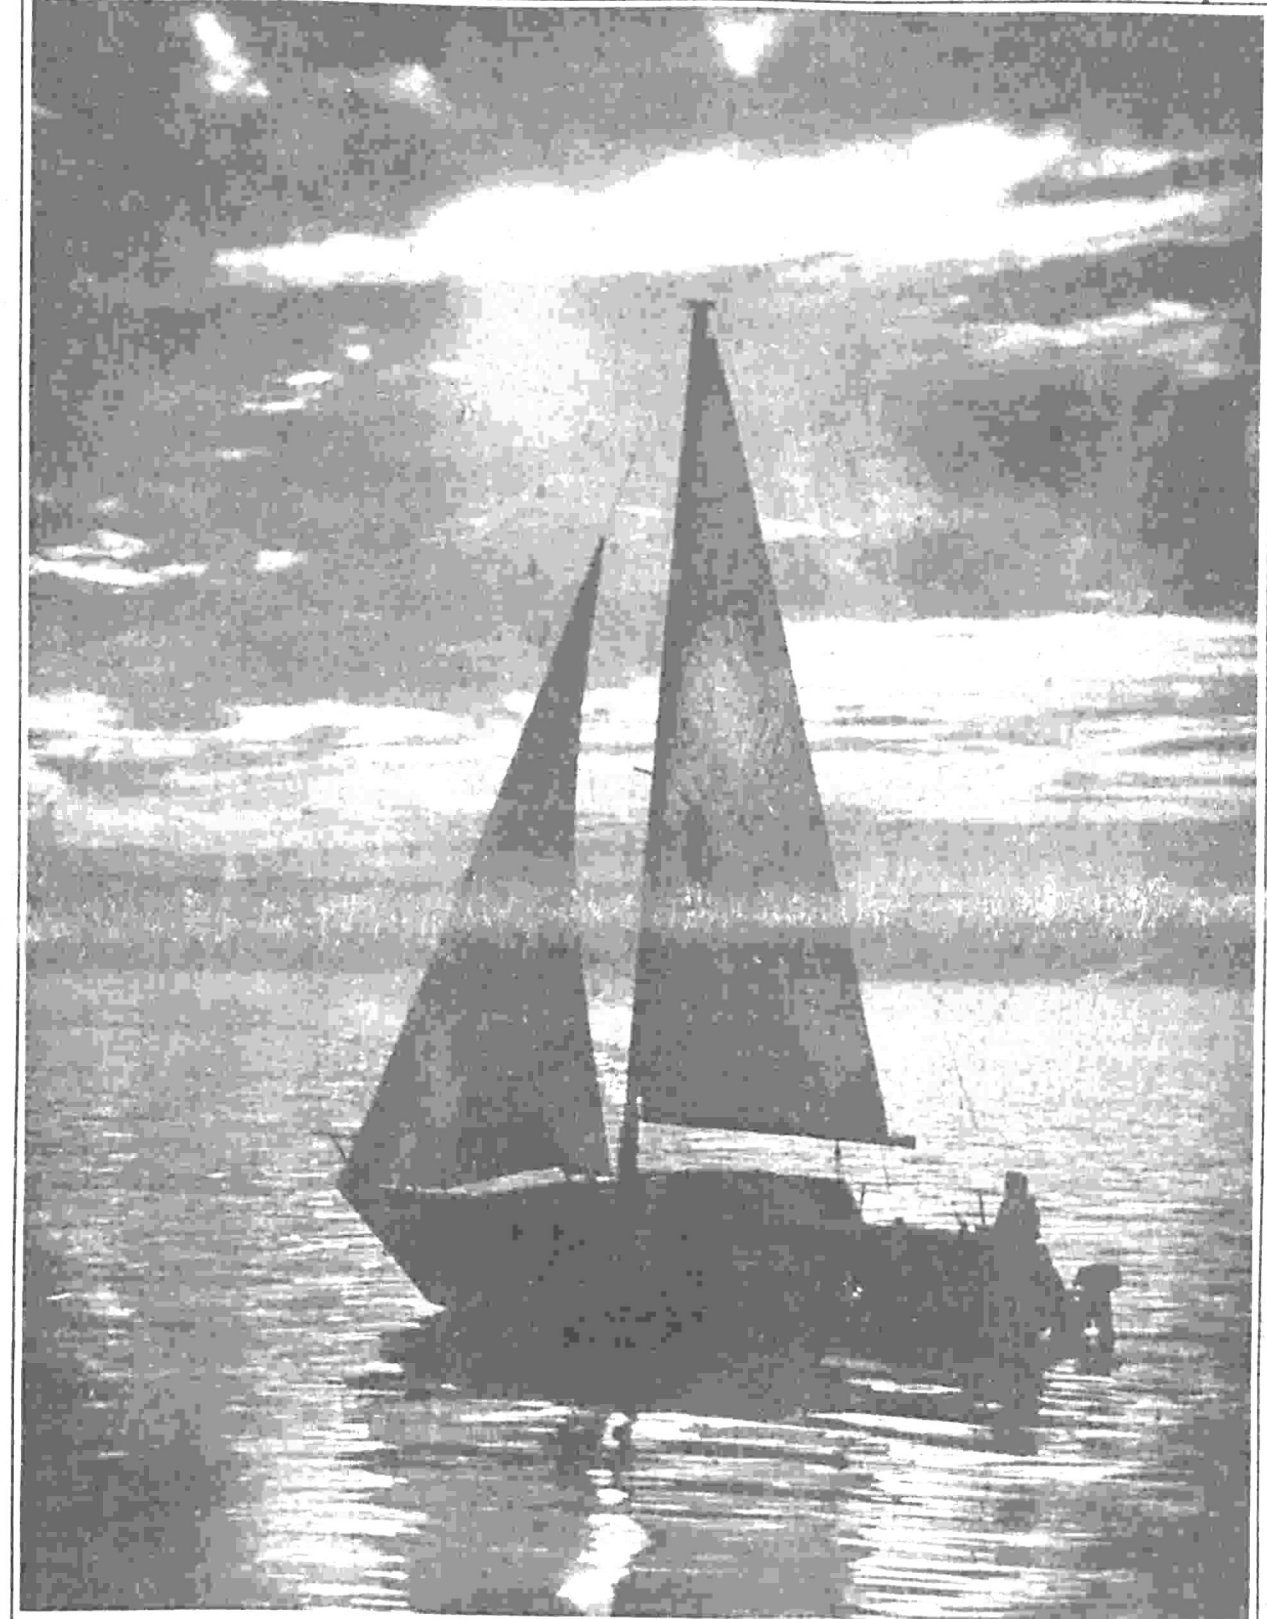

United has no idea where the counterfeit coupons are manufactured, and indications are it isn't interested in finding out.

But those interested in trying their luck can do so through Dec. 15, when the whole fiasco expires.

THESE ARE THE real thing, but imposters of the half fare coupon distributed by United Airlines earlier this summer are difficult to differentiate from the authentic coupons. United takes no responsibility for circulation of the counterfeits and recommends that coupon buyers look carefully before they purchase the tickets that are now going for about $45.

District going for full accreditation

In what school superintendent Milton Snyder called "a significant step toward where we're going in this district," the Federal Way School Board Monday night adopted a resolution aimed at full accreditation for the districts three high schools.

The board approved the approvement of Decatur, Federal Way and Thomas Jefferson High Schools for membership in the Northwest Association of Schools and Colleges. The standards of this organization are said to be even more stringent than those of the state, and are accepted by the State Board of Education.

Snyder said that applications for the junior highs will be presented to the board just as soon as the administration can prepare them.

Accreditation of the district's secondary schools has been an issue since the district began failing school levies more than five years ago. At the time the state placed a moratorium on the accreditation process, the junior highs had lost accreditation and the senior highs were on the brink of losing theirs.

MEMBERSHIP IN the Northwest Association is readily accepted by college and university admissions offices. School administrators said that about two-thirds of the states high schools are members, with the schools in the smaller districts often unable to meet the rigid standards.

Federal Way voluntarily dropped out of the association when it became apparent that levy cut-backs would make it impossible to meet the standards.

The district is able to achieve the accreditation status because of the full funding of basic education by the state this year.

Snyder also reported to the board that as of Monday the district's enrollment was 15,131 and "on target" of the budget projections of 15,445 by Oct. 1. The opening of school, including the re-opening of Panther Lake, went smoothly, Snyder reported.

Final OK in sight for Hillis Hills

The proposed plat of Hillis Hills, a controversial 295 lot subdivision in the Meredith Hills area, cleared a hurdle Monday on its way to final adoption by the county council.

The 80 acre tract south of South 296th Street and east of 51st Avenue South, was stalled for over a year pending the recommendations of the Federal Way Community Plan revision committee to the county council.

Monday the council voted to adopt findings and conclusions stemming from public hearings on the proposed plat rather than wait for final action on the revision committee suggestions.

Mickey Gendler, attorney for a group of Meredith Hills residents who oppose the intensity of the development, challenged the council action and said he would "like to know if they reviewed the record" before voting on the matter. Gendler told the council approval for the Hillis Hills plat would mean it would develop at a different, higher density than other developments in the area.

Recent county council committee action on the proposed plan revisions suggested that Hillis Hills be approved.

Ed Heavey, attorney for developer Hillis Homes, said the council action Monday will make an upcoming court case involving Hillis Hills easier. He said the adoption of findings and conclusions regarding the proposed plat was necessary because of a recent Supreme Court decision that, without findings of a quasi-judicial hearing, "it can be out the window with your case."

Lightfoot, he said, placed conditions on the plat but made no findings.

According to the county zoning examiner's office, Lightfoot recommended that the council recommend the application to him for further recommendations and consideration after the Federal Way Community Plan revision and that a specific traffic study of the South 296th Street corridor be undertaken.

Meredith Hills residents oppose the rapid growth in the area and cite lack of roads and other facilities to accommodate the new development.

The Superior Court case is preassigned to Superior Court Judge T. Patrick Corbett for Sept. 17 trial.

School activist dies in mishap

Harry Wirth, a 42-year-old Federal Way resident well known for his involvement with area schools, was killed Saturday in a tree cutting accident.

Mr. Wirth was cutting an alder in some woods by his home at 2618 S.W. 308th St. when the tree split, partially falling on the Boeing supervisor.

When Medic One units arrived, Jeanne, the wife of Mr. Wirth, was attempting to revive him. Medics transported Mr. Wirth to Harborview Medical Center. He was dead on arrival.

Born on March 20, 1937, in St. Louis, Mo., Mr. Wirth is best remembered for his activities in the Federal Way School District. He was an active member of the scholarship committee and a leader in the crusade to save the district athletic program a few years ago.

He is survived by his wife, son Jeffrey, daughter Kristen all of Federal Way; by father Otto Wirth of St. Louis, and by brother Carl Wirth of Houston, Texas.

A memorial scholarship fund has been established in his name at the Federal Way branch of the Pacific National Bank.

Services for Mr. Wirth will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Yahn and Son in Auburn. A private family interment service at Mountain View in Auburn will follow.

Medic One tax OK for ballot

by Darlene Himmelspach

A tax to fund Medic One services in King County for the coming six years will be up for voter approval in November.

The Seattle City Council signaled its intent Monday to authorize the county council to place the special tax levy before the voters. In a continued session of the county council meeting, the council then voted 5-2 to approve the ballot issue.

Councilman Paul Barden voiced strong opposition to the new tax calling it a "poorly thought out proposition." He accused the council of "holding for ransom what the voters want most to get another tax out of them."

Each year, Barden said, emergency medical services are among the highest priorities listed by those voters who return county council budget questionnaires. "If we can't spend one percent of our revenue on this, I think that is bad representation," Barden said.

Also opposing the six-year levy was Councilman Tracy Owen who said the county should fund Medic One with the fund balance remaining at the end of the year. At the end of 1980, the carry forward is expected to be $16 million, according to Owen.

The legislation authorizing

King County to ask voters for a special tax for emergency medical services called for agreement from both Seattle and Bellevue before the measure could be placed on the ballot. Bellevue consented but Seattle balked at the idea because it already has a very successful and fully funded Medic One program.

The tax will probably be returned to the Seattle taxpayers, City Councilman Tim Hill said Monday by reducing the normal tax levy in October when the city budget is adopted. "The City of Seattle will be well protected with this resolution," Hill promised. He said there was "firm assurance" that there would be no double taxation for Seattle homeowners.

City Council President John Miller voted against the resolution and said he would also oppose the ordinance next Monday giving official authority to King County to hold the election. He said it was a "convoluted scheme" and warned that Seattle residents could be the big losers if "the county should renege (on an agreement to return all revenues collected in the city to the city coffers) or if one of the suburban cities in the county should sue the county over the Medic One tax."

Miller noted that Tukwila Mayor Edgar Bauch has threatened such a lawsuit because he doesn't believe Tukwila will be getting as much service from the county Medic One Program as it will be paying for.

The ballot measure "on its face is deceptive," Miller argued. "They (the county) already have emergency medical services." He said the county was trying to collect taxes "under false pretenses" that, without the tax revenue the existing program would be cut back or discontinued.

The county program, funded for only nine months during last year's budget session, was awarded another $440,680 Monday to continue the program for the last quarter of the year.

In voting against the ballot issue, Barden said he was not voting against Medic One. He said if the county had had such a program in the early 1950's, his father may not have died of a heart attack. "I feel very strongly that we need the program but we are going about it in a backwards fashion," the Highline Republican said. He said the county should fund Medic One and other high priorities first before giving money to other projects. He did not say what items might be cut to give the money to the EMS program.

Save the farmlands

The time was when a person owned a piece of land he owned it from property line to property line, from the center of the earth to the highest point in the sky. He could farm it or mine it or do anything else he wanted to do with it.

Then came front, back and side yard setbacks, mineral rights and air rights, utility easements, public rights-of-way, zoning laws, architectural controls, green belt requirements, height limitations, environmental impact statements, building codes, fire codes, governmental rights to condemnation, and a myriad of other legislative restrictions as to what a property owner could and could not do with his land.

Seldom has the property owner been compensated for his losses due to these restrictions — its all part of the price you pay for owning land.

The industrialization and urbanization of the Puget Sound area, coupled with spiraling property taxes, has placed a premium on the land and pressure on the owner to sell it to the developer.

The result is that agricultural land has been converted to industrial complexes, asphalt parking lots or residential subdivisions at an alarming rate.

Proposition One, the so-called agricultural bond issue, is an innovative attempt to salvage what little farm land remains.

Its opponents, mainly the developers, are saying that the $50 million bond issue is a subsidy for the farmer, using public tax dollars. It's no such thing. It's simply a bond issue to purchase the development rights to less than three percent of the land in King County. For once what we are saying to the property owner is: "We don't want you to develop your property and we're willing to pay for it."

Its unique. The usual method of blocking development is with zoning and through the courts. Meanwhile the property owner goes broke paying taxes based on highest-and-best-use on property he can neither sell nor develop.

It's fair. There will be no windfall profits from this. Nor will anybody be forced to sell. The program is voluntary. It's a simple free enterprise transaction. The property owner has something to sell and the county has something it wants to purchase.

It makes sense. Zoning laws are restrictive, an economic burden on the property owner and just don't work. In the Green River Valley, farm land has been lost to industrial development through annexation to small cities. If an industrial rezoning is denied by King County the property owner has annexed to a smaller city. That city, in need of an expanded industrial tax base, historically was eager to grant a rezoning. The result is Tukwila.

The issue, because it is a bond, requires the 60 percent super majority. A year ago the same proposal fell short with 59.7 percent in favor.

In a year's time the property values have escalated. We feel that $50 million is little enough to invest in the preservation of a life style and we urge a "yes" vote on Proposition One.

Stiff penalty for sign vandals? Yes

Many times it takes a mishap or tragedy to correct a potentially dangerous situation.

Such is the case with an ordinance before the King County Council to stiffen penalties for vandalism affecting traffic signs and signals.

The ordinance, introduced by Councilman Paul Barden, came immediately following the death of a county employee who drove through an intersection in Woodinville where a stop sign should have been.

The stop sign was apparently torn down by vandals, and the victim was broadsided as he drove through the intersection without stopping.

The proposed ordinance would subject a traffic sign or signal vandal to a fine of up to $500 and/or a jail sentence of up to six months.

The recent tragedy in Woodinville points out the need for such a stiff sentence. And we hope the council will move quickly to get the ordinance on the books.

After all, a little hindsight is better than no sight at all.

We'll take the rain

Hurricane David unleashes its fury on Florida.

A tornado touches down in Texas and turns mobile home parks to splinters.

A blizzard hits Buffalo with 60 mile-per-hour winds and sub-freezing temperatures, trapping families in their homes.

An earthquake in Southern California brings down buildings, causes millions of dollars in damage.

Sound familiar? We only have to read about these natural calamities as we sit back and enjoy the cozy Pacific Northwest. Sure, we become bothered when it rains for three months straight, when I-5 gets icy, or when the thermometer pushes 90.

But when you look at what can happen in other parts of the country, you've got to admit we've got it pretty darned good.

They can have their hurricanes, tornadoes and earthquakes. We'll take the rain.

News Item: State Patrol Gets Tough on Truck Regulations

The Gay Blade FLOG to the rescue

by Henry Gay

It is apparent that the coddling of inmates in Washington's prison system has gone far enough.

When formerly responsible state officials begin talking about spending large sums of money to turn adequate facilities into county clubs, it is time to sound the alarm of fiscal responsibility.

Fortunately, help has arrived for beleaguered taxpayers. A visitor to the state this week is Chuck D. Keezaway, known nationally as the Howard Jarvis of prison reform.

Keezaway is the president of the Fundamental Law and Order Group, an organization formed to resist the bleedingheart sentiment that followed the riot at Attica prison in New York State.

The main purpose of FLOG, says Keezaway, is to constantly remind taxpayers that prisons are full of criminals, not citizens.

"Attica was a plus, not a minus," he points out. "The lesson to be learned from Attica is that it's possible to get rid of several dozen criminals without spending a lot of money in the courts. At a time when law-abiding Americans are finding it hard to make ends meet, this sort of action should be encouraged, not criticized."

Keezaway says he understands why most people, gentle by nature, become agitated when violence occurs. But he reminds them that there are differing forms of violence. There is bad violence and there is also good violence.

"Many people mistakenly put zoos and prisons in the same category," he says, "because society puts animals in cages and humans in cages. But they are not the same. The animals have committed no crime, whereas the humans have sinned against society."

Keezaway claims this should answer the doubts of those who worry about all prisoners being punished when one prisoner commits an infraction in the penitentiary.

"Naturally," he says, "when a lion mauls a zookeeper, the other zoo attendants do not beat the hell out of the other animals. Society would not put up with such irresponsible cruelty. But you must remember that the animals are not in cages of their own volition. The criminals are, of course, because they knew they would go to prison if they were caught."

Keezaway makes a strong case for benign neglect of Washington's prisons. State officials and the general public are overreacting, he says, to a situation that the members of FLOG insist should be considered normal.

"You were not concerned about the rapes, assaults, crowding and lack of medical attention in the prisons until the media blew a small, to-be-expected problem out of proportion," Keezaway points out.

As for the argument that the state may have trouble finding personnel to staff the prisons in their current, dangerous condition: Keezaway's reply is short and telling.

"The guard, like the criminals, know what they are getting into when they take the job," he says. "If they don't want to crack heads, they should find work as missionaries. With a recession approaching, there will be plenty of persons seeking the jobs they find dangerous and underpaid. Prison work is a delightful occupation for those who are not afraid to die in service to their fellow-men. Who needs crybabies?"

Washington's taxpayers will pay through the nose, he warns, if they allow themselves to be stampeded into financing institutions that treat criminals like human beings and guards like pampered children.

You will find, he concludes, that you will not have enough money to build and staff zoos and other necessities of a civilized society.

Under the Capitol Dome

by Robert C. Cummings

Like everything else, the cost of overnight camping will probably go up next season.

Owners of private parks have complained that the state rates are so low they can't compete. Some have been forced to go out of business.

They found sympathetic ears in the House Parks and Recreation Committee; also among members of the State Parks and Recreation Commission which sets state park policies.

Two classes As tentatively agreed, camping rates in those with complete utilities, including sewage disposal, will go up $1, from $4.50 to $5.50.

Those without utility hookups will be boosted 50 cents, from $3.50 to $4.

Private park owners still are better in this state than in some others. Washington doesn't permit overnight parking in its highway rest stops, but Oregon and California do.

Some motorists owning self-contained trailers or campers have made the trip from Southern California to Seattle with their only cost being what they pay for gasoline.

Making the best of it

Though an all out effort is underway to prevent the Milwaukee Road from abandoning all of its trackage in this state, there is a plan afoot to salvage something if the rail service is lost.

The House Parks and Recreation Committee is considering acquiring the right-of-way from North Bend eastward through Snoqualmie Pass, for conversion into bicycle and hiking trails.

The lawmakers are impressed with Seattle's Burke-Gilman Trail, from Ballard along the west shore of Lake Washington, which was converted from abandoned trackage.

A nostalgic past This route has an extensive history.

First known as the Seattle, Lake Shore and Eastern, it originally had been built to connect with the Great Northern's terminal at Everett.

Later acquired by the Northern Pacific, it operated until after the end of World War II, and carried a heavy volume of freight during the latter period.

During the days when the mails traveled by rail, it also ran one passenger train daily. Old timers will recall how it used to haul flat cars equipped with bleachers for spectators to watch the crew races back in the days when they were conducted north of Sand Point.

Bottle battle in the bag

Opponents of Initiative 61, the so-called bottle refund bill, have won a round from the measure's supporters before the Public Disclosure Commission.

Supporters of the initiative had appealed a decision by a PDC representative that opponents didn't have to report as a campaign contribution the $10,000 worth of shopping bags donated by grocery stores.

Printed on the bags was the wording, "Recycle Your Aluminum, Steel, Tin, Glasses & Paper."

Supporters of the initiative contended this was part of the campaign against the measure.

But the commission agreed with its representative that the $10,000 cost is what the grocers normally would be paying for the bags. The ruling was based on earlier PDC decisions.

To save the farm

Meanwhile, the PDC is informing King County officials that presentation of factual information about a farmlands preservation referendum is to be construed as part of the "normal and regular" conduct of public employees.

Its administrator said there have been indications that some public officials have been over interpreting the provision of the law prohibiting use of public facilities in campaigns.

He noted that the courts have consistently held that presentation of a "fair representation of the facts" doesn't constitute governmental interference in an election.

Tax dodge costs go up Business registration fees soared from $1 to $25 last Saturday, but only potential tax dodgers should be concerned.

It is aimed at persons who register a fictitious business in order to get a sales tax exemption on the pretense that the goods they buy are for purpose of resale.

If the annual gross income of the "business" is less than $600, the registrant doesn't have to pay any B & O tax, and the savings on sales taxes can be substantial.

But the registration cost is a one-time-only fee, so only new businesses will have to pay. And if they are legitimate, the cost will be negligible, as it can be credited against the amount of B & O tax owed.

Lawmakers keep busy Though no full weekend of meetings is scheduled, some 49 sessions will be held by individual legislative committees and sub-committees this month.

As usual, most of the activity is on the House side of the Legislature, but there will also be nine meetings by Senate committees, some of them joint sessions with their counterparts in the House.

Additionally, some of the half dozen select committees created by the Senate during the closing days of the 1979 session, to delve into specific problems, will be going into action for the first time.

Heard a hot tip? Seen something unusual? Don't keep the news to yourself!

The Federal Way and Des Moines News will award $15 for the best news tip of the month. That could buy 13 gallons of gas, a couple of nice lunches or maybe even pay the phone bill for the month.

So, if you know of a news maker, call the Federal Way News at 839-0700 between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Best news tip will be awarded on the first of each month.

Commissioners of Water District 75 and of Des Moines Sewer District meet twice a month to render decisions on matters pending before each utility. Those commissioners have final determination on all matters pertaining to the district and each earn $25 a meeting for services rendered. Primary election of the following candidates will be 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday at usual polling places.

Des Moines Sewer District

Joseph R. Stockdale

J.R. Stockdale has been a Commissioner of the Des Moines Sewer District for 20 years. He has been retired from the Des Moines Texaco Service for about a year. He is president of the Washington State Association of Sewer Districts for the second time, is past president of the Rotary Club, past master of the Des Moines Masonic Lodge, and has been a volunteer firefighter for 24 years.

"I would like to keep on with the position especially now with the new plant expansion and new improvements," he said. "I've been in it so long, I'd like to stay and see its completion."

Stockdale lists his past experience as one qualification and has a goal to keep up the District's mode of operation.

Peggy Judd

Peggy Judd is a career aide at Pacific Junior High School and also owns and operates a men's barber shop in her home.

She has owned her own business for several years and was previously co-owner of the Normandy Park Barber Shop. She is a member of King County Search and Rescue.

Ms. Judd previously ran for the Sewer District in 1977.

"I believe my qualifications are a deep interest in representing the community. In my previous experience, I discovered that knowledge of the technicalities is not necessary, she said, noting the District hires person to fulfil those responsibilities.

"In my opinion, Commissioners are representatives of the community and it is their responsibility to see their interests are followed.

"I'm running because of my own interest in becoming involved in a public job and to represent the interests of the community. I think I could make a significant contribution in that job."

Thomas E. Powell

Thomas Powell is a research analyst for the Boeing Company.

Powell, who has a "reasonable technical background" from his position at Boeing's, has been monitoring the operations of the sewer district for several years, he said.

A resident of the north end of the district, he said his primary interest in running is that there is no representation from that end of the district.

He would like to see some changes in the day-to-day operation of the District, he said.

"I think there needs to be some improvement in the acquisition and condemnation phases of the District's operation."

Jerry P. Harris

Jerry Harris is the general manager of Water District 75 and has 20 years experience in the utility business. Harris also worked for the government for three years on the Nike missile site and has been a Commissioner of Fire District 26 for almost six years.

"I've been in the utility business for years," he said. "I've dealt with the Sewer District on a personal basis a great deal through my job at the Water District. I think I have some good information I could contribute to the administration of the Sewer District. I wouldn't go into a position like that unless I knew about it, otherwise I would be of no value to the District. With two meetings a month, you can't get the knowledge and experience necessary without putting in quite a few years."

Harris said one of his goals would be to try to keep rates down.

Dan Caldwell

Dan Caldwell is a small business organization advisor. He has been involved in democratic politics, working on various campaigns, and ran unsuccessfully for state representative in 1976.

His qualifications include a master's degree in administrative management and almost 30 years experience in organization with the superior court, Boeing, the Washington State Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), the municipal league and the American Bar Association. He was previously the planner for the first planning organization in a juvenile court environment in the United States.

Caldwell gave several reasons for running.

"I want to get my feet a little deeper into politics, I think I can do something for the District and I feel if a person complains about something, he should do something about it."

"We have a growing county and there seems to be very little activity being done to prepare for shortages," he said.

Caldwell expressed two primary goals he would like to accomplish, if elected.

"I like the idea of senior citizen discounts," he said. "They're affected by inflation, but they have no way to increase their incomes."

He said he would also like to see a leveling of the water rates. Currently the lowest rates go to businesses who are the heaviest users, while the homeowner, who is the primary reason for a water district, pays a higher rate, he said.

Sharon R. Mason

The News contacted Sharon R. Mason, but she was unavailable for an interview.

Bruce Retynski

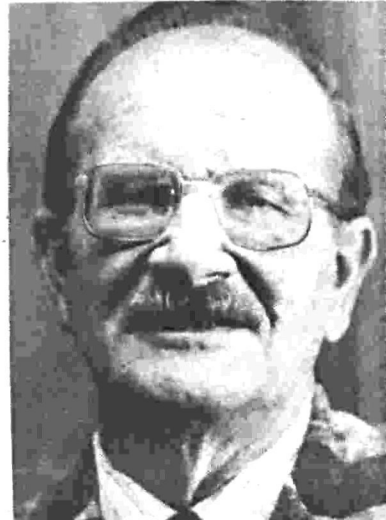

Bruce Retynski is the general manager of the printing division of Robinson Newspapers.

Retynski, who is looking toward a second term of office, has served on the Commission for six years. In addition to his experience on the Commission, he has a background in business and has been a resident of the area since 1945.

"There should be some community involvement by every individual and this is my small contribution in that direction," he said.

His goal is to cooperate with the other Commissioners in running an efficient District for the people and to see that they have quality and quantity of service, he said.

public for most of my working life," he said. I have been a home owner in Water District 75 for over 25 years. In the past two years I have canvassed hundreds of residents in most of the neighborhoods of the District. Such experience gives me a broad insight of their needs, and qualifies me to represent them as their Commissioner. There have been attempts to increase the rates and make unnecessary expenditures in Water District 75, without consideration of the financial need. I will fight this fiscal irresponsibility. My retirement next March will provide me with time to serve the consumers of Water District 75. The autonomy of the water districts is imperative to avoid the costs of county-wide regulations that in most cases would have little or no influence in the maintenance of quality, service or economy to the consumer.

Joseph Sienko

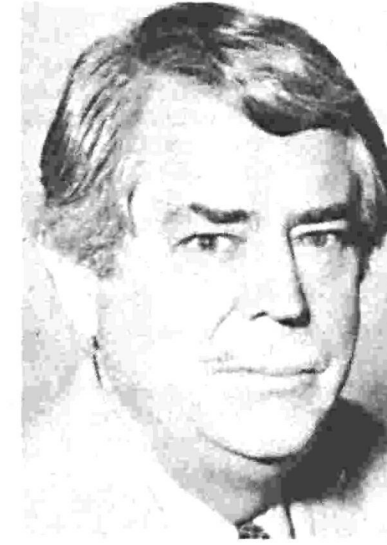

Joseph Sienko, who has been with the Federal Way School District for 17 years, is currently the Director of the Physical Plant. He has previous experience in environmental law, energy conservation, personnel management and all utilities.

Sienko is a member of the Elks and Lions and is a Deacon at Marcus Whitman Presbyterian Church. He was also associated with the Boy Scouts in the past.

"Water Districts 4, 56 and 75 need to cooperate to solve the ever increasing need to serve the communities," Sienko said. "Yet being too large can be a handicap if not handled and solved so that the customers are the winners.

"Water rates have risen and it's my intention to give customers the lowest rates possible."

"I have lived in the South King County area for 17 years and am aware of its growing pains," he said, "therefore I am qualified and experienced to fill this position."

John D. Kessler

John Kessler is the state-wide coordinator for Medicare in the King County department of King County Medical-Blue Shield.

"In sales management and public relations, I have been listening to and working with the

Another election coming

Other local fire, water and sewer districts also have open commissioner seats, but due to the number of candidates that filled for those positions they are not subject to the primary election.

Running from Water District 124 in the general election will be incumbent Loyd Sutherland. In Water District 56, Scott Thomasson is running unopposed.

Incumbent Dean Gullikson also is running unopposed for Fire District 39. In Fire District 30, incumbent Billy Alimant is the sole candidate for his seat and James Osborne is running for the four-year unexpired FD 30 term previously served by David Faris.

The only candidate for Lakehaven Sewer District is Leonard Tripp.

The general election will be Nov. 6.

Council control on line with upcoming elections

by Darlene Himmelspach
There will probably be nearly as much speculation about the future "face" of the King County Council after the Sept. 1 primary election as before the ballots are cast.

With four positions on the ballot, a Democrat and a Republican each retiring and a small field of mixed challengers vying for the jobs, only one seat is a shoe-in for either party. Councilman Bob Greive will be re-turning for a second term with no opposition from a Republican candidate and no fellow Democratic challengers in the primary election.

In the 6th Council District, considered by many to be the "swing" district for deciding which party will control the council next year, two Republicans are locked in a primary runoff before one of them faces incumbent Democrat Pat Thorpe.

Bruce Laing, who resigned last month as county zoning and subdivision examiner, will square off in the primary against conservative ex-Boeing employee Bill Johnson. Laing, late in getting into the race which Johnson began in May, will have to rely heavily on his reputation as a fair and honest work-horse during ten years as the zoning examiner. His low key style contrasts with Johnson's who is more a gladiatorial politician than Laing.

Laing will have to work exceptionally hard in the Renton-Issaquah-Mercer Island district to make his face and name known to the voters and overcome the tremendous headstart made by Johnson.

Johnson is a member of the Renton school board and active in the community. His name may also be more familiar to residents of the district because he served as an aide to former Congressman Jack Cunningham. Like Cunningham, Johnson is a conservative Republican. Laing is a progressive Republican with special interest in and experience with land use issues.

The winner of that primary race will face the young former Highline School District teacher who has spent nearly a year on the council since being named to replace Mike Lowry when he was elected to Congress.

Pat Thorpe has been an articulate spokesperson on the council for social and health programs and land use reform issues debated by the council this year. She also feels that she outweighs her Republican opponents in political experience with time served as a community activist and then as a Renton City Councilwoman.

Thorpe has strong support within the Democratic Party and is conducting a large doorbell campaign in her district and will be tough to unseat. It could be especially difficult for Laing, should he outdistance Johnson in the primary, because the two are not sharply divided on such major issues as growth management or Interstate 90 completion.

ACROSS TOWN, the 4th District race is the only other council primary battle where two Democrats are duking it out for the right to face off in November against Republican State Senator Lois North. The winner in November will replace Democrat Bernice Stern who announced her intention not to seek another term earlier this year.

Democrats Art Skolnik and Dave Wood may give the voters of the Queen Anne-Ballard-Magnolia district a choice of a community activist or a political veteran who has worked within the Democratic Party for years as a behind-the-scenes man until an unsuccessful step into the limelight three years ago when he ran against Congressman Joel Pritchard.

Wood hopes for better luck this time and may need all he can get since his base of support from key Democratic backers has been eroded by the endorsement of the county party chief for Skolnik. Neither will it help the former aide to former Seattle Mayor Wes Uhlman that the Municipal League ratings judged him merely "good" while Skolnik rated a "very good" from the League.

Wood is unique among council candidates this year. He seems to be the only one who is advocating more fiscal cooperation between King County and the city of Seattle to effect cost reductions in such things as social service delivery.

Skolnik is an architect who has been active in conservation and growth management issues and served as the first conservator for the state and for Seattle. If elected, Skolnik would be the first architect ever to serve on the council. Skolnik has been critical of Stern and Councilman Bob Dunn who is also retiring this year, because they have not adequately represented the interests of Seattle while on the county council. (Both have served since 1969 in all-city districts.)

The winner of that primary race will have a formidable opponent in November in Lois North. The Republican state senator has a reputation as a politically astute, hard-working member of the upper House. She is the only candidate for the county council to come away with an "outstanding" rating from the Municipal League. That and good name familiarity in the district could carry the general election for Sen. North who is more like the incumbent, Bernice Stern, politically than are the two Democrats.

Over in the 2nd District there is a single candidate from each party trying to replace Dunn on the council. State Rep. Scott Blair will meet former Seattle Deputy Mayor Dick Kelley in both the primary and general elections.

Kelley sought the office four years ago when he was just 25 years old and missed unseating Dunn by only 134 votes in the district that includes the University area, Laurelhurst, Mathews Beach and other high rent neighborhoods.

Kelley, who has been a diligent campaigner for any number of Democratic candidates for several years, has strong party support in this race with campaign direction coming from old friend Congressman Mike Lowry.

Blair can claim legislative experience that Kelley lacks and, while both candidates favor growth management for the county, developers will likely support Blair because he favors control without unfair economic burdens on small segments of the public.

Blair will be fighting the "doorbell machine" that proved successful in launching Seattle Mayor Charles Royer into office two years ago. Kelley was part of that machine and is likely to overwhelm the district with campaign attention. Blair does not have a reputation as an aggressive campaigner which could mean the district will have its first Democrat council member since Charter government came into being 10 years ago.

THE ONLY UNCHALLENGED candidate is 8th District incumbent Democrat Bob Greive. Greive, who has gained power and status as chairman of the council finance and audit committees, was briefly opposed by Republican Harold Scoones. But the 70-year old Scoones declared Greive "unbeatable" and withdrew from the race in a bit of a huff because he got no attention from the party he wanted to represent.

Buses are beautiful

"BUSES ARE BEAUTIFUL" was the message from a group of parents last week when they presented Federal Way School District bus driver Betty Markwith with three white carnations. Markwith, who has driven buses for the district for 10 years, was assigned to a new route, taking students to Thomas Jefferson High School. The parents were so pleased with the new service that they offered the driver the flowers with message attached.

Arson determined in fire last week

Arson was determined in the Thursday morning fire in the laundry room of the Chateau LeClare apartments, Federal Way Fire District reported this week.

The blaze caused approximately $250 in smoke damage to the room and to clothes being washed. It apparently started when a poster on a wall of the laundry room was ignited.

According to the King County Police, two white male juveniles were seen by one of the residents running from the laundry room just prior to the break out of the fire.

A hospital and treated for injuries he suffered in a two-car mishap Sunday morning.

A patrol report said Hinkle turned left into a car approaching from the other direction on South 154th Street near Pacific Highway South. The driver of the other vehicle, Daniel B. Baker, 22, of Seattle, was not injured.

Crime report:

Bank in mall hit by lone robber

A lone caucasian male robbed the SeaTac Mall branch of Peoples National Bank on Thursday, getting away on foot as King County Police searched the area.

Police said that the robber, who at first pretended to want to exchange some Canadian currency, told a teller to hurry "or someone is going to get shot."

The bandit's escape was aided, police said, by a faulty description that was later corrected.

Persons with information leading to the arrest and indictment of the robber are eligible for a $1,000 reward.

Informants should contact the Seattle office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation at 622-0460, or contact the King County Police at 433-2057.

VANDALS WHO should contact Rachel BenShmuel at 447-6387. Prospective CTAC members should contact Susie Tull Saporta at 447-6761. Write Metro at 821 Second Ave., Seattle, Wash. 98104 for application forms and additional information on the committee and the selection process.

The deadline for returning completed applications to Metro is Oct. 26. Selection of new committee members will occur in December or January.

Metro seeks volunteers

Metro is seeking volunteers to serve on two citizens' committees that advise the Metro Council on water quality and public transit issues.

The Citizens' Water Quality Advisory Committee (CWQAC) and the Citizens' Transit Advisory Committee (CTAC) make citizen recommendations to Metro and provide opportunities for Seattle and King County residents to express opinions about water quality programs and public transit service.

CWQAC, with 27 members, has been active this year in several areas. It considered the federal Environmental Protection Agency's proposed public participation regulations and King County's General Sewerage Plan. A CWQAC task force made several recommendations in an attempt to further refine Metro's public involvement process.

CTAC, with 54 members, advised Metro this year on transit in the I-90 corridor, long-term regional transit plans and format for presentation of the transit budget. The committee also supported improved passenger data collection efforts and expansion of the trolley system.

Prospective members can be nominated by local community groups, or they can nominate themselves. The Metro Council selects committee members to provide balanced representation of geographical areas and interest groups, including minorities, senior citizens, students, environmentalists, business people, unions and civic organizations.

Anyone interested in joining CWQAC

Energy code imposes burdens, not needed

by Darlene Himmelspach
A proposed King County building code revision that would mandate energy conservation "imposes enormous burdens" on developers and are not necessary in Seattle's mild climate, a developer said last Wednesday.

Don McDonald criticized the county proposal which is the mirror image of one adopted recently by the City of Seattle. "It's a bad solution to a so-called problem," McDonald said. He said the notion that walls should be insulated with six-inch batting is "ridiculous" because it causes condensation. It would be better, he said, to line the inner walls with aluminum foil and leave air space. "The air acts as insulation without causing the house to sweat," he said.

The best place to insulate as far as cost recovery is concerned, he said, is the ceiling. At a cost of about $.12 a square foot, a house can gain several points in resistance to heat transfer, according to McDonald. But wall insulation gains only two points for about $4 a square foot.

McDonald, who said he was speaking for the Seattle Master Builders said some of the costs to the developer for the energy conservation ideas were approaching the $2,000 mark wholesale. He said those costs would be passed on to the consumer "160 fold."

In this "most favorable climate in the U.S., a lot of the requirements would be wasted money." Glazing, putting twin panes in windows and doors, is not cost-effective, McDonald said. "You can't even amortize the interest on glazing." He suggested that homeowners install draperies after they purchase the home rather than developers glazing the windows before they

buy. The "code as written creates double the standard of energy conservation for single family houses as it does for highrises," McDonald said.

Mike Bull, Energy Officer for King County, said he disagrees with McDonald's analysis of the proposals but said he needs to "see something in writing" before he can make a judgement. The proposal is being considered by the King County Council. Bull said the proposed ordinance meets with state codes and "we cannot do less."

Hoppe withheld info, candidate charges

Hank McGuire, candidate for King County Assessor, has charged Assessor Harley Hoppe with withholding vital information from county taxpayers.

In a letter to Charles W. Hodde, director of the state department of revenue, McGuire said the tax revaluation notices sent to taxpayers earlier this year by Hoppe "do not state land and structure values separately." That is required by state law, McGuire said and he told Hodde "the violation...is directly within your purview."

McGuire has requested a general inquiry by Hodde's department into the public disclosure policies of the county department of assessments. He said "the preponderance of evidence indicates systematic violations" of state law by Hoppe. "The people need that information," McGuire said. "They can't begin to figure out if they are being treated fairly without it." He said the information is no longer stored on the micro fiche in the assessor's office. McGuire said county taxpayers are "faced with a government official who doesn't want people to know what the government is doing."

McGuire, who sued Hoppe three years ago to obtain the data base used in an equity study published by the assessor's office, cited other examples of Hoppe's alleged refusal to cooperate with local newspapers, the Board of Equalization, the county executive, and McGuire in providing tax information upon request.

DAVID SOUTH, avid skater, recently passed through Federal Way on the first phase of his 12,500 mile adventure through the United States.

Skater's spirits undampened by rain

For Canadian David South, the publicity stunt is more than promoting outdoor skates. It may give him enough exposure to attract a coach who will give him a chance to compete in the 1980 Olympics as a speed skater. "I'm fast, but I need some help in starting and stopping and I need an arena to do it in," he said.

South passed through Federal Way recently on the first leg of his journey that should take him 7,800 miles through the United States and Canada. A Federal Way News photographer happened to catch him waiting to cross the intersection after reaching the top of the hill at 304th and Highway 99.

He was gasping for breath and dared not stop, but he said he'd call after he stopped at a motel for the night. He didn't know where he'd be...it would be as far as he could go before it became so dark he could no longer see.

Exhausted, he called from the Parks Motel in Centralia. He was broke, five days behind schedule because of the torrents of rain flooding Washington highways and hungry. But, he was optimistic about his success. He'd finally reached his sponsors, outdoor skate distributors, Highrollers Sports Stores and Great Canadian Outdoor Wilderness (G-CORP.) and money would be waiting at his next city.

South, a recently laid off chef who has 19 years of skating experience was asked by his sponsors to break the existing Guinness Book of Records record for continuous skating. At the same time, he would be promoting their new brand of skates at distributors throughout the route. The record is 4,700 miles in six months or 107 miles in a day.

"I've already broken one record," said South who went 140 miles one day when he was blessed him with sunshine. "I know I can do it, no problem." South skates eight to 14 hours a day. "If it's nice, I just keep going 'til I'm really tired and ready to drop."

SOUTH LEFT WINNIPEG, B.C. on Aug. 8. From there he went through Vancouver and Federal Way. Plans call for travelling through Santa Barbara, Cal; east to Louisiana, north to Illinois and back to Winnipeg. He said he expects to be home by his Nov. 8 deadline.

To get in shape for the trip, South said he practiced eight weeks, four to 11 hours a day up and down the main streets of Winnipeg. "People used to go by me and say 'are you nuts...' or 'we're not ready for you, yet', but I didn't let it bother me. I knew what I wanted to do."

In Canada, South said he was bothered occasionally by drivers who called him "faggot," or "wierdo," but he commented that people in Washington have been especially friendly and nice, even going so far as to offer him free food and lodging.

However, he did run into a problem in the states. Allowed to skate on the highways in Canada, he was issued a ticket for doing so in the Washington. I-5 is off limits until he reaches the Oregon border.

"It was fine on Highway 99 until I reached Tacoma. After skat that I didn't know what to do. At a gas station, I was referred to a guy at Fort Lewis who arranged a route for me."

PEOPLE EVERYWHERE are curious, said South. In restaurants or motels, he always attracts attention because he wears his skates every where he goes. They're the only pair of shoes he has with him. "When they find out I'm from Canada, they really flip. They ask questions like 'don't your feet hurt after doing it so long?'. But, it's like putting on your pants in the morning. It gets to be routine."

When questioned about getting uphill on skates, South said he merely zig-zags back and forth. However, it pours down rain, skating becomes a real effort.

"It's like skating on wet glass. They all think I flew past and didn't stop, but I was stuck holed up somewhere because of the rain."

When asked about his parent's reaction, South said his whole family, including his seven brothers and sisters are excited about his progress.

"My mother shows the clippings to all her friends and say 'look, this is my son.' She's really proud."

What happens after he returns home if there are Olympic trainers in the picture South said he's looking forward to a good rest and maybe looking for sponsors who would finance a similar trip through Europe.

'The County Group' rates candidates

by Carolyn Logan
"The County Group," a citizen political force, gave its highest marks to State Sen. Lois North and former Seattle Deputy Mayor Dick Kelley, each running in separate County Council races.

Both received 81 points out of 100 in action taken at a Wednesday meeting. The scale was weighted pro-growth management, since the fledgling reformers oppose urban sprawl. Experience was also heavily weighted. A maximum of only 10 points each were given for a position on human services, organization (Metro merger, redistricting), and on policy-making and spending.

Councilman Bob Greive, a Democrat running unopposed for his second term, received 68 points. A lawyer, Greive was a longtime leader in the Legislature. His District 8 encompasses West Seattle, White Center and part of Highline.

The lowest number of points — 60 — went to Bill Johnson, a Renton Republican who was district office manager for former U.S. Rep. Jack Cunningham. Johnson and Republican Bruce Laing, former county zoning examiner, hope to unseat Councilwoman Pat Thorpe. Her district includes Renton, Bellevue and Issaquah areas.

Ms. Thorpe garnered 75 points, the highest in the race. She is a former Highline School District teacher and Renton City Councilwoman. A Democrat, she was appointed in December 1978 to succeed Mike Lowry, following his win over Cunningham in the 7th Congressional District race.

County Group gave 70 points to the third candidate, e Laing, Bellevue, who recently resigned as examiner after pioneering the system here for the past 10 years.

KELLEY not only captured a top County Group mark, but he also almost captured Councilman Bob Dunn's seat in 1975. He lost to Dunn by 134 votes. Dunn, a Republican, won't seek reelection from the northeast Seattle district.

A Democrat, Kelley earlier served as an aide to former U.S. Rep. Brock Adams when Adams was 7th District congressman.

The County Group gave 75 points to Kelley's opponent, State Rep. Scott Blair, R-46th District, a Boeing engineer.

THE OTHER top scorer, Ms. North, R-44th District, outdistanced her two Democratic opponents. They will scramble for the northwest Seattle seat to be vacated by Councilwoman Bernice Stern, a Democrat who will retire from the council.

County experience of Ms. North includes serving as a county freeholder and, until recently, as administrative assistant to the director of the county's Department of Budget and Program Development.

Trailing Ms. North's 81 points were 77 achieved by Art Skolnik, an activist architect, and 66 given Dave Wood, deputy mayor under former Mayor Wes Uhlman. Wood is a public affairs consultant. DEVELOPER Frank Ruano challenged the lower score given Wood. Ruano defended Wood at a Wednesday meeting-of-the-whole of County Group, called to review and possibly modify County Group Rating Committee and Board recommendations.

But Ruano's motion to re-examine ratings died for lack of a second. Yet there were developers sprinkled in the crowd of 63.

The committee rating report was accepted in total.

So was the endorsement of the farmlands development-bond issue on the Sept. 18 ballot, despite questioning by some who opposed it.

Rating those 'raters'

by Carolyn Logan
When it comes to "rating" this fledgling citizen reform group, "The County Group" gets mixed marks.

Members of the group's Candidate Rating Committee give high praise to the embryo effort.

But developers, who almost scuttled the group's March 24 Burien meeting, persist in trying to gain control, claiming that the group doesn't represent them. Steve Tangen, a lawyer representing a developer, has asked for membership lists. He wants to poll members, perhaps adding plaintiffs to his class-action suit against The County Group. A King County Superior Court judge earlier ruled against his client, finding he didn't represent the group. Tangen's request has been referred to the board, according to John Boles, board member.

THE RATING committee drew praise from members.

Judy Turpin, Federal Way, state president of the American Association of University Women, called the committee "quite moderate."

"It was representative of liberal and conservative, old and young views," concurred Ron Ritz, a West Seattle health insurance man and developer who is president of the Alki Community Council.

The only thing "that disturbs me" is that a couple of candidates said they favored orderly growth — and developing freeways and sewers, he said. "That's inconsistent," he retorted.

Doing the Puyallup

Kathy Splain cleans the joints of the ferris wheel with a degreasing solution.

KEEPING THE BARN clean, Craig Marquez sweeps hay outside to be placed in a container.

To fair goers, the chance to visit the Western Washington Fair in Puyallup is the opportunity to see what makes this country tick at its grass-roots level.

There are rides guaranteed to thrill even the stout hearted and brave; crafts that make you wonder how they were ever completed; farm animals, groomed and trained to perfection; and junk food guaranteed to make even a natural foods advocate drool.

But, it's the behind-the-scenes employees that bring the whole thing to life.

Long before the doors are opened, they work to pave the way for participants and viewers. The mechanics, many hired by Fantastic Rides grease hinges and joints, replacing brilliantly lit bulbs when necessary.

Ranchers, 4-Her's and hobbyists bring their animals in for display. Many bring their sleeping bags, folding chairs and luggage, prepared to stay for the duration. They are responsible for seeing that their livestock is comfortably bedded down and that the area remains spotlessly clean.

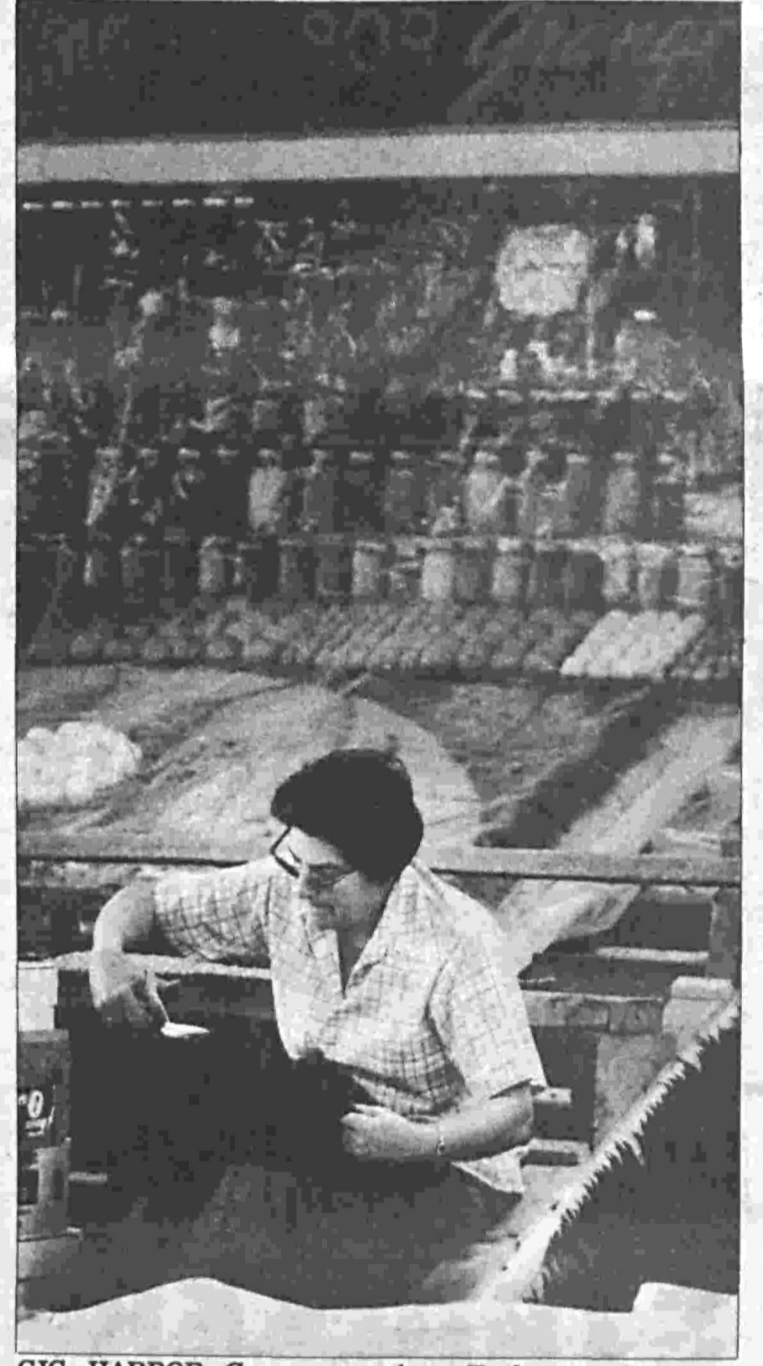

For restrauteurs, it's time to stock the larder with stacks of hamburger buns, tons of hamburger meat and 50-pound bags of onions. For, hardly anyone visits the fair without trying the burgers famous for their generous serving of fried onions.

Feet propped up on a bucket, Gwynne Hackler peeled an onion and dropped it in the bucket, her 21st since starting work that morning. An employee for Louie's, she peeled 500 pounds of onions yesterday in preparation for the call for thousands of burgers.

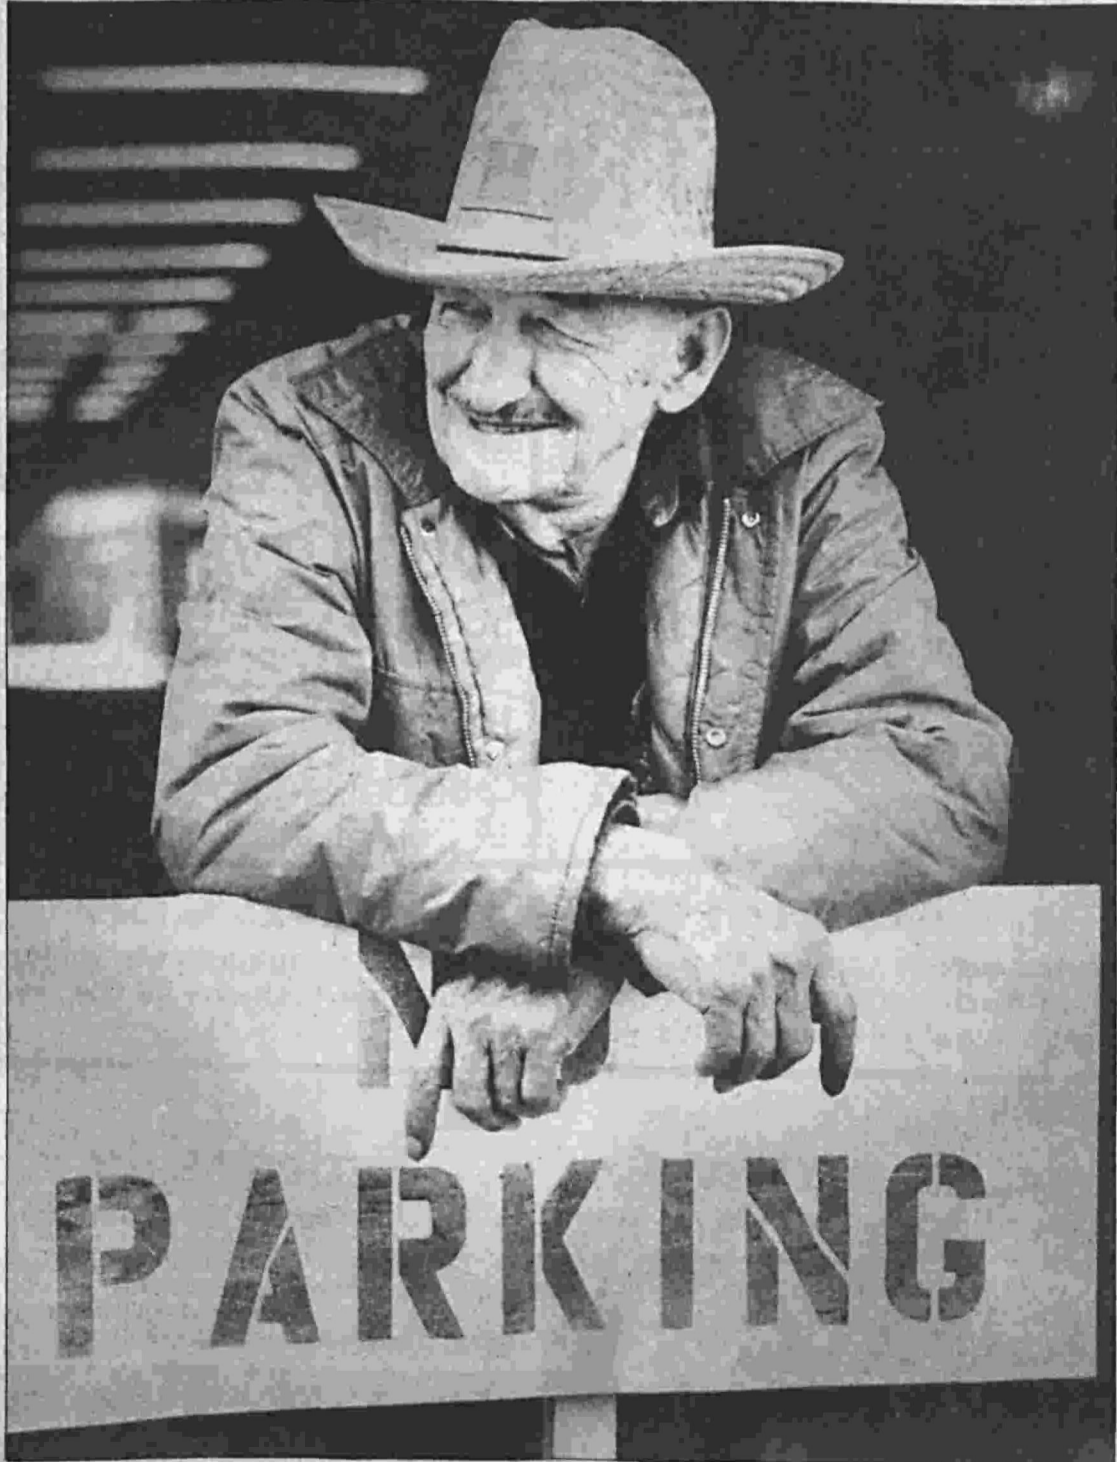

In the agricultural center, members from granges from 11 counties bring in their vegetables, flowers, fruits, and eggs. The best of each category is selected for displays that are colorful and educational.

At the entrances, guards well trained in patrolling Mere the grounds keep an eye on their gate. In his second year, a retired 72-year-old welder said he hoped they'd keep everything under control. "At least, I'm going to do my best to see that nobody gets away with anything," he chuckled.

Everybody does their part and when the show begins, it's like a well-oiled piece of machinery without flaws. Everything falls into place.

GIG HARBOR Grange member, Earleen Anderson who now lives in Federal Way relaxes after helping to set up the display.

AN ELDERLY GUARD parks himself near a no parking sign while he keeps an eye on the gate.

Sewing, decorating offered at GRCC

Newest techniques and bright ideas for sewing and decorating with fabric will be featured in a number of courses, seminars and workshops through the Continuing Education department at Green River Community College this fall.

A special seminar on men's slacks construction is scheduled for Sept. 18 at Renton Discount Fabrics. Sessions will be at 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. or 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at a cost of $3.75. Instructor Judy Tredo will cover speedy techniques with fly zippers and slot pockets along with tips on fitting. Pre-registration may be made by phoning the college at 833-9111, 464-6133 (from Seattle) or 924-0180 (from Tacoma), ext. 231, or the fabric store itself.

Regular courses at Green River, beginning during the week of Sept. 24, will cover every aspect of construction and fitting as well as creative sewing. Eleven-week courses scheduled this fall are: Beginning Sewing, Couture Sewing and Tailoring, Supervised sewing time and demonstration and discussion are part of the courses which cost $10.20 per credit. Locations of classes include Renton Discount Fabrics, Kent Fabricland, Kent Meridian High School, Cascade and Olympic

Decorating with fabric seminar

One of the new contemporary looks in home decorating is fabric. The reason: it can be draped, shaped, padded, stiffened, stapled and starched into a variety of creative decorator fashions.

To learn the hows and whys of fabric decorating, Pacific Iron's Fabric World is presenting a three hour class, "Decorating Your Home With Fabric," from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Sept. 12 at the Sea-Tac Village store.

The demonstrations will include a slide presentation showing room setting ideas with before and after pictures that employ the attractive fabrics. There will be discussions on the use of fabrics and demonstrations of 30 projects.

Karen Dillon, home economist, will lead the seminar. She has traveled through the United States and Canada teaching consumer courses on home sewing and decorating. Preregistration for the $13 seminar can be made by calling or visiting the local Pacific Iron store.

Junior Highs in Auburn and Enumclaw High School.

Short courses, at the same locations, also include instructor demonstration and discussion of specific problems. Courses will include the following: Fitting the Figure, Rainwear, Work it With Wool, Velvet Blazers, Men's Pants, New Look in Dresses, Pants Fitting, Jeans, Beginning Crochet and Knitting, Patchwork and Quilting.

Also focusing on fabric are eight courses in interior decorating which include instruction in the popular new trend of fabric wallcoverings. Basics are given in Interior Decorating I while specific skills are developed in American Women in Radio and Television will have their western area regional conference in Seattle at the Washington Plaza Hotel, September 21, 22 and 23. The conference includes seminars in an industrial workshop at North Seattle Community College, a career workshop for students and career-changers, a tour of Boeing's 747 plant and a banquet. Open to non-members, registration information on the conference may be obtained by phoning 324-2000.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Larsen

Schuur-Larsen

Gayle Lynn Schuur and Mark Duane Larsen were united in marriage at an evening ceremony Aug. 24 at the Twin Lakes Golf and Country Club. Bishop Dale Collette officiated the rites which took place on a outdoor deck decorated with fresh greenery and pink and yellow flower bunches.

The bride, a graduate of Stadium High School in Tacoma, is the daughter of John and Elizabeth Schuur of Tacoma. Larsen, son of James and Maxine Larsen of Seattle, is a graduate of Mt. Rainier High School and South Seattle Community College.

For her wedding, the bride chose a full-length gown of off-white lace, styled off the shoulder with a tiered skirt. She wore a halo of fresh flowers with veil attached.

The bridal bouquet was of pink and yellow roses, daisies and baby's breath.

Sonja Civanich attended the bride as matron of honor, and Carolyn Schuur, sister of the bride, was a bridesmaid. Both women wore floor-length gowns of pink and yellow floral print and accented with roses and baby's breath in their hair.

Doug Saxton attended the groom in a yellow tux and the brother of the bride, Mark Schuur, served as usher. Soloists at the ceremony were Kevin Goodfellow and Kathy Gale, accompanied by organist Karen Gale.

Following a reception at the Country Club, the bridal couple departed for a week-long honeymoon in Bermuda. Upon returning, they will make their home in Seattle.

Breast cancer classes

ENCORE, the YWCA program for women who have had mastectomies, will begin a new series of classes Sept. 12. The program is designed to help women regain their physical and emotional strength following surgery for breast cancer. Classes are divided into three parts: floor exercises, pool exercises and class discussions.

A woman must be at least three weeks post operative and have her doctor's signed permission to participate. For a complete schedule and more information, call Sharon Wilkins at 447-4851.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Barrett

LaLonde-Barrett

Beth Anne LaLonde and Martin Andrew Barrett were recently united in marriage in a candlelight ceremony at the John Knox Presbyterian Church. The Rev. John W. Kopp of Seattle officiated, assisted by Rev. Alton W. Peterson of Salem, Oregon.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John W. LaLonde of Normandy Park and Mr. and Mrs. Iral Barrett of Salem, Oregon.

The bride chose a gown of white organza with a scoop neckline and empire waist and trimmed with a double eyellet ruffle edged in Venice lace. Her chapel length train was encircled by an eyellet ruffle flounce and her fingertip veil had a scalloped lace trim. She carried a cascading bouquet of pink roses, white stephanotis and baby's breath.

Bridal attendants were Jeanine Rosser, matron of honor, and bridesmaids Tina LaLonde, Ruthann Barrett, Lisa Clayton, Jill Perrine and Inger Horne. Shelley Collins

Local scout sails at camp

A Federal Way teenager representing the South Sound Council of the Girl Scouts was one of 84 young women to participate in the Finger Lakes Sailing Festival in upstate New York recently.

Barbara Kay Olson, 16612 53rd Ave. S., and other novice and experienced female sailors from 24 states and countries, including Austria, Canada, Iceland, India and Norway, learned sailing skills and competed in a variety of craft while spending 17 days at Girl Scout Camp Yaewano on Owasco Lake.

The group also pursued individual interests such as stained glass art, kayaking, synchronized swimming, painting, photography, and dancing. A local raconteur taught legends of the Finger Lakes and folklore of the Iroquois Confederacy.

Hawaiian fashions presented

A preview of fall fashions spiced with outfits from the Hawaiian islands, authentic Hawaiian dancing and music will be featured at a dinner show at the Federal Way Elk's Club tomorrow evening. Dinner is scheduled for 6 p.m. with the fashions, presented by the Fig Leaf Women's Apparel, and entertainment following at 7. The event is part of activities leading up to the Elk's luau next week.

The commented fashion show will feature five professional models and an Elk's Club trustee's wife. Clothing may be purchased following.

the presentation at a 20 percent discount.

A drawing for gifts from Sea-Tac Flowers, Adam and Eve Hair Design and The Fig Leaf will take place during the dinner. Information and reservations for dinner may be obtained by calling the club at 839-7770.

AARP schedules rally luncheon

Local chapters of the American Association of Retired Persons and the National Retired Teachers Association are planning a Founder's Day Rally luncheon at noon, Sept. 19 at the SeaTac Airport Hilton Inn. Renton Chapter #414 will host the event, honoring AARP founder Dr. Ethel Percy Andrus.

Cyril F. Brickfield will travel from Washington D.C. to be keynote speaker, discussing topics of concern to members of the AARP and NRTA and legislative priorities for both groups. Presiding at the luncheon will be J.P. Lynes, vice president of AARP in the area including the Western states, Alaska and Hawaii. A Founder's Day tribute will be given by William J. Miller, an area vice president of NRTA. A barbershop quartet from Tacoma, Esprit de Four, will provide musical entertainment. Honored guests at the luncheon will include Lt. Governor John Cherberg and King County Executive John Spellman. Reservations are being arranged by Fran Mathews, 789-1295 or 634-3838.

Deanna Marie Colby and Donald Kirk Hamlin

Colby-Hamlin

Deanna Marie Colby and Donald Kirk Hamlin will be married Sept. 21 in an evening ceremony at the Calvary Temple in Auburn. Miss Colby is the daughter of Dale A. Colby and Judy M. Riha of Federal Way and Hamlin is the son of Donald J. and Phyllis T. Hamlin of Kent.

Debra Lambert will serve as maid of honor and bridesmaids will be Barbara Ames and Tracy Sutton. Mindee Hamlin is to be flowergirl.

The groom will be attended by Rick Dalton, best man, and Larry Berreman and Jeff Ames. Quinn Hamlin will be ringbearer.

University women set meeting

Federal Way Branch of the American Association of University Women has scheduled a program meeting for 7:30 p.m., September 13 at the Federal Way Educational Services Building at 31455 28th Ave. S. Featured will be presentation, Life Cycle Planning, based on Gail Sheehy's book Passages. The group's 15th anniversary will also be highlighted.

The group is open to anyone who has a university degree from a qualified institution. Meetings are on the second (program meeting) and fourth (business meeting) Thursdays of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the Educational Services Building.

Sisters announce fall weddings

Two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Wallace of Auburn have announced their intent to wed. Barbara and Mary Wallace, both graduates of Thomas Jefferson High School and now living in Wenatchee, are engaged to be married this fall.

Mary, a 1971 graduate of TJ and 1978 graduate of Central Washington University with a bachelor's degree in music, is engaged to marry Larry Duren on September 21. Duren is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Duren of Leavenworth. He is currently employed by the Chelan County Medical Service Corp. The bride-to-be is a teacher at Bethesda Christian Grade School.

Barbara, a 1977 TJ grad, plans to marry

George Schmidt of Wenatchee. Schmidt, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rod Schmidt of Mt. Vernon, is a 1976 graduate of Mt. Vernon High School and is attending Bethesda Christian College. Miss Wallace and Schmidt have set their wedding date for October 13.

Car wash benefits Medic One

Delta Rho chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha has scheduled a car wash from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. this Saturday at the fire station on S.W. 312th St. near Lakota Junior High School. Proceeds will benefit the Auburn-Federal Way and Highline Medic One programs.

Plant sale Sept. 26 & 27

The Modern Mom

by Betty Woolley

School Daze

SEPTEMBER ALWAYS means school. I have an ancient hang-up within me, left over from younger days, that demands when summer ends that I go to school.

"What are you taking this fall?" asks my resident professor. "How to raise your own bean sprouts or belly dancing?"

"Maybe I'll take Norwegian." "You've taken it three times. If it had taken your parents as long to master English as it's taken you to learn Norwegian, they'd still be in Oslo pickling herring."

I TURNED MY back on him and left the room. He has no feeling for cultures other than his own. I have a pure Nordic background while his is of the Heinz 57 variety. Still, he does pose astute questions.

What would I take at school? Some of my classes have been too costly as successes. My winter cooking instructions earned praise from my well-fed friends, but cost me ten dollars a pound to recover my figure at the local weight loss clinic.

AS A CONSEQUENCE of that situation I enrolled in a session called "Changing Self-Image," designed for people who have lost weight and want to change their old overweight self-image to one consistent with the weight loss. The upshot of all that led to a course in "Changing Your Food Habits," which put me back to square one, cut off from the lobster bisque of my culinary achievement and set adrift in a sea of yogurt.

I consulted a brochure that had recently arrived in the mail, flipping through it to see what courses were offered. There was "Reconciling Your Bank Account." I didn't need that. I was perfectly content with the balance I came up with at the end of the month. Any reconciliation would have to be on the part of the bank.

"ADULT SWIMMING" was out. The trouble with that is that I'd have to be seen in a bathing suit. "Physical Fitness for Adults," was not my cup of tea. One session of that and my joints would be out of orderly sequence for the rest of the term.

"Career Change Workshop," caught my eye and provoked my interest until I read the words "bring a brown bag lunch." That ended that. If I'm going to change my career for something more glamorous I'll carry my cheese sandwich in a briefcase, thank you, and not in a crumpled brown bag.

AH, THERE IT WAS, a career course with an entirely new twist, called "Burnout and Motivation." The brief description read "How to reduce personal burnout in your job through an economic use of energy."

That answered my question. This fall I'm saving my strength and playing hookey.

Kuehne-Snyder

Des Moines United Methodist Church was the scene of the recent wedding of Barbara Kuehne and John Snyder with the Rev. Taylor officiating at the afternoon ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Donald and Irene

Kuehne of Kent, is a 1977 graduate of Mt. Rainier High School and attended Renton Vocational Technical School and Green River Community College, majoring in music. Snyder, son of Fred and Pearl Snyder of Federal Way, is a 1974 graduate of Thomas Jefferson High School and also attended Highline Community College majoring in Physical Education.

For her wedding, the bride chose a full length gown in mint green accented with daisy appliques at the empire waist, puff sleeves and scoop neckline and carried a bouquet of yellow roses, yellow and white daisies and baby's breath. Bridesmaids Liz Grim, Sue Kuehne, Sue Maresh and Cherie Bosworth wore yellow gowns and carried nosegays of yellow and white daisies and baby's breath. Cathy Bruce was flower girl and Jeanne and Cece Carbonetti lit the church candles.

The groom was attended by best man Fred Snyder IV and Russel Grim, Douglas Kuehne, Craig Howell and Watson Taylor. Wally Bruce served as ringbearer.

Special guest of honor at the wedding was the bride's grandmother, Sarah Kuehne of Cleveland, Ohio. Out of town guests included Ruth Vidra, Helen and Emery Olah and Chuck Yelksy, all of Los Angeles, Cal.; Virginia, Cathy and Wally Bruce, of Honolulu, Hawaii and Isabel Mendenhall of Vancouver, British Columbia.

Following a honeymoon trip to Harrison Hot Springs and Canada, the couple will make their home in Federal Way.

Karr's Korral Ko'ed by gas crunch

by Brad Broberg
It's a sign of the times. George Karr, who claimed he is a victim of the gasoline supply and demand game, is going out of business, announces the billboard above his Pacific Highway South recreational vehicle "Korral."

He's peddled campers, trailers and motor homes in the Puget Sound area for 22 years, including 19 at his South End location, 21011 Pacific Highway S.

But as the supply of gas has dwindled while the price has zoomed, the demand for recreational vehicles has plummeted. He figures it's time to get out. "I just got tired of fighting it," said Karr, whose headquarters is in Everett. His South End lot closed at the end of August, he said last week. But his three-block long Everett dealership will remain open for the next six weeks while Karr clears his inventory.

KARR MAKES no bones about it. He blames the oil companies for rigging the gas game in their own favor. He said he can't understand why when the government audits the oil companies, it uses figures they furnish.

"It's a rip-off. I just got tired of the oil companies doing it every three years. I look for gasoline to go up to a buck-and-half a gallon."

With so much uncertainty in the air about the fuel supply, fewer people were willing to invest their money in gas-guzzling recreational vehicles this year. In addition, a tighter money market also crippled Karr's business.

He said his sales dropped 50 percent.

Ironically, now that he's going out of business, sales have perked up.

"It's moving pretty good. Of course, we're giving it away at cost, some a little above, some a little less," Karr said.

"Right now, it's a buyer's market."

ALTHOUGH he said he expects other dealers to fold for the same reasons he is, Karr is not convinced that recreational vehicles will become freeway fossils.

"I think we'll always have recreation, especially in this state. I look for next year to be a good year. A lot of people waited. They'll be buying next year."

However, the trend will be toward lighter, more economical units, such as trailers with fold up tents, he said.

When the last motor home lumbers off his lot in Everett, Karr said, "We'll be putting in something else. I'm not sure what. We'll keep our parts department, though."

Karr said he'll probably lease his South Seattle location to another business.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony L. Varney

Connan-Varney

Geralyn Marie Connan and Tony L. Varney were married recently at the St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church by Father Joseph Stocking. The bride, a 1978 graduate of Federal Way High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Connan of Federal Way. Varney, a 1973 Federal Way grad, is the son of Arlie and JoeAnn Varney of Orting.
 For her wedding, the bride chose a full length gown of white lace styled with an empire waist, lace ruffle at the bodice and wrists and Victorian neckline. Tiers of lace accented the chapel length train and her three-tiered chapel length veil was edged in matching lace and attached to a headpiece of lace and pearls. She carried a cascade of peach and white silk roses, gardenias, lillie of the valley, stephanotis, baby's breath and english ivy.

Shirley Saylor served as maid of honor and Susan Connan and Pan Johnson were bridesmaids. Each wore a matching gown of rust colored crepe with pleated skirts attached to sweetheart bodice. They were accented with sheer waist length shawls and each girl carried a bouquet of peach and yellow silk roses, carnations, daisies and baby's breath. Heather Varney was flowergirl.
 The groom was attended by Eric Mathies, best man, and groomsmen Russell Varney and Lloyd Steiger. Donald Varney was the ringbearer.
 Guests of honor at the wedding included the couple's grandparents, Lester and Loretta Mueller of St. Louis, Missouri; Margaret and Charles Connan of Wareham, Mass. and Harry and Mary Amell of Puyallup. Other guests were Jim and Port Orchard. Following a honey-moon trip to California, the couple will make their home in Sue Clements, all of Federal Way.

Peterbilt loses in national fastpitch play

by Harry Brooks
MIDLAND, Mich. — Peterbilt Western's chances of an American Softball Association title took a severe blow here Monday night as the host team, McArdle Pontiac-Cadillac of Midland, overcame an early Trucker lead to take a 4-3 win.

Peterbilt manager Tom Wagner held his composure after the frustrating contest and lauded the Midlanders' comeback effort.

"We had the opportunity to win. (Pitcher Oren) Walford did the job right when he had to."

Walford, a New Zealand native, entered the game in the third inning after Peterbilt McArdle starter John Ryan with three runs in the first three innings. The righthanded Walford struck out six Truckers while allowing only one hit and two baserunners the rest of the way.

Three of Walford's strikeouts came at a critical time. In the sixth, Peterbilt, down by what turned out to be the final score, stationed runners at third and second with no one out. But Walford faced the situation by striking out the next three Truckers.

After running the count to three balls and one strike against hard-hitting Jeff Borrer, Walford started his strike-three turkey by catching Jeff swinging on the next two pitches. After sending Jim Nokes back to the dugout, Walford got out of the inning when catcher Oren Mieske controlled Larry Seabaugh's foul tip on a full count pitch.

"I had the ball movin' very well," a nervous but exhilarated Walford said moments after the contest ended. "So, when they had me down, I wasn't worried. I've been in these kinds of situations before and been able to get out of 'em."

PETERBILT'S downfall came in the bottom of the third frame when McArdle erupted for its four runs. The hometowners sent nine men to the plate in that binge.

Number nine hitter Jack Starling started things off by taking ball four. He moved to second when second baseman Larry Seabaugh bobbled Terry Collins' grounder. Barry VanZoren loaded the bases with a well-placed smash bunt over the pitcher's mound. Jeff Peck drove in Starling and Collins with a looping single to left. A sliding Collins touched the plate just before Jim Nokes' throw arrived from the outfield. VanZoren and Peck moved to third and second respectively on Bruce Miller's sacrifice bunt.

Nels Cronkright brought both runners home with a single to center.

"I was still confident after they went ahead," Wagner said. "I just had the feeling we could at least tie it up and win it in extra innings if we had to."

But Peterbilt's chances for a comeback ended in its sixth frame.

"I'm disappointed; I felt we were the stronger club and deserved to win the game," Wagner said. "But one thing for damn sure, we're not going to give up."

Peterbilt attempted to regroup yesterday against the Raybestos Cardinals, a proven national tournament team from Stratford, Conn. (results unavailable at press time.) Should the Truckers have won that contest, they would face four remaining loser-out games.

THE TRUCKERS, indeed, showed enough ability to make a national title for the Seattle-based team a reality. In two outings, Peterbilt has the best two-game hitting (17 hits) of any of the 22 teams involved in the national tourney.

Peterbilt showed its offensive potency Sunday by striking down Rochester's Zenith, the New York State champion, in a 7-0 breeze. In that contest, every Trucker player but two pitchers saw duty with the bat.

Bill Stewart put Peterbilt ahead 3-0 in the third with a line home run over the 250-foot center-field fence at Currie Stadium. Mike Bishop, who had bunted his way to base, and George Nokes, who poked an off-field double to left, came in on Stewart's blast.

Stewart, the centerfielder, ended up with two hits in four trips to the plate, scored twice and drove in five runs. Bishop notched two bunt singles in two trips and touched home twice. George Nokes was 3-4 and scored twice. Brother Joey Nokes struck an RBI single in his first national tourney at-bat.

Graham Arnold allowed just four hits while striking out seven.

McArdle joins defending national champion York Barbell of Redding, Penn., Wilson Powell Monarchs of Washington, D.C., Peter's Bombers of Des Moines, Iowa, O'Byrne Electric of Springfield, Mo. and the Southern Truck Raiders as the only undefeated teams after Monday's action. Six squads took an eliminating second loss during play Sunday and Monday.

Eagles seek victory number two at Sumner

THE FACES tell the tale of Thursday's opening night success for the Federal Way Eagles. Head coach Doug Adkins (left) and an unidentified player are pleased near the end of the Eagles' 26-7 win over Lakes.

by Bart Potter
The Federal Way Eagles will be seeking win number two of the young football season Friday as they travel to Sumner to take on the Spartans in an 8 p.m. contest.

The Eagles opened the South Puget Sound League season last Thursday with a convincing 26-7 win over Lakes at Federal Way Stadium. The Spartans did not fare as well, falling 15-7 to Clover Park.

"We've got to be ready for a more diversified offense this year," Federal Way coach Doug Adkins said of the 1979 Spartans. "I don't know if they'll be as physical as last year."

Sumner coach John Anderson said his team will operate from a multiple-formation offense that utilizes four different sets. On hand to run the show is senior quarterback Jeff Shumake, who got his varsity baptism last week against Clover Park. Shumake had one TD pass dropped in the end zone.

At running back are Chris Weber, an all-league defensive back last season who scored the only Spartan touchdown with a 86-yard interception against Clover Park, and Tom Carter.

Renton Cache McCaughey (6-0, 215) at tackle.

Joining Weber in the defensive secondary is returning starter Ralph VanDyk. Two returning starters, Dougall Agan and Stu Clifford, man the linebacking posts in the Spartans 5-2 monster defense.

On the defensive front are returning starters Willie Ausburn and Stacey Miller. The Sumner defense limited Clover Park to 87 yards on the ground.

Anderson said his team has lost no enthusiasm with the opening game loss. He pointed out that the year the Spartans won the state AAA title (1977) they lost twice in SPSL play.

"There's always a shot in this league," he said.

Anderson, who scouted the Eagles Thursday, he praised the Eagles defense, pointed out the need to contain running quarterback Butch Cratsenberg and noted that Blaine Wilson is "without question the best kicker in the league."

Cratsenberg led the Federal Way rushing attack, which rolled up 158 yards, with 55 yards on 10 carries. He hit on 7-18 passes for 55 yards, including 6-10 in the second half.

Fullback Brian Beringer carried 12 times for 51 yards, and tailback Todd McGrady toted the ball 11 times for 32 yards and three touchdowns.

The Eag defense limited Lakes to minus 15 yards on the ground. Key men in the stop squad were Howie Hansen, Tom Raines, Dean Youngblood, Tom Podoll, Mike Bruner and Mike Bourbonnie.

Adkins said everyone is healthy for the Sumner game, and added that his team is keeping a level-headed attitude about the contest.

"We think everyone of them is important," he said. "And we think we can get after anybody."

Featuring

MIKE BOURBONNIE, Federal Way defensive lineman, spearheaded an Eagle defensive effort that held Lakes to negative yards rushing in a 26-7 win over the Lancers Thursday.

Bourbonnie was responsible for three of the Eagles five sacks of Lancer quarterbacks, good for a total setback of 47 yards. The 185-pound senior also plays a tight end on offense.

OTHER TOP performances:
VAL BLEVINS of Mt. Rainier was a key man on defense for the Rams in a 3-0 loss to Highline Friday. The 5-11, 185-pound senior had three quarterback sacks from his linebacker position, and was credited with 12 tackles and one pass deflection. Blevins plays fullback on the offense.

Highline coach Sam Moyle said of Blevins: "Number 44 was real tough. I hope I don't see him again."

JAY GARD, Thomas Jefferson quarterback, completed 10 of 29

Mike Bourbonnie

passes for 70 yards and scored the Raiders' only touchdown on a one-yard run after an 80-yard drive he engineered.

Women's hoop ref class set

A women's basketball officiating class will start Sept. 19 at Cascade Junior High in White Center.

The class meets on Wednesday nights, from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., for eight weeks. Participants will qualify to officiate through the Seattle Officials - Women's Sports Association. Local recreation departments also hire officials.

The class is sponsored by King County Parks and Seattle Officials - Women's Sports Association. For further information, contact Dee Ingram, King County Parks, at 242-3360.

Wooden at UW

John Wooden, who won 10 NCAA basketball titles while head coach at UCLA, will be the featured speaker at the University of Washington Athletic Hall of Fame banquet Nov. 9 at the Olympic Hotel.

Wooden headed the Bruins' basketball program from 1949 through 1975.

Flyers prep for Pierce County with win over Edmonds

The Burien Flyers hit paydirt for over 50 points again Saturday with a 56-2 drubbing of the Edmonds Chargers.

Following a 51-10 win over the Kitsap County Chiefs in Highline Memorial Stadium one week earlier, the Flyers again pounded the local turf for a victory which puts their league mark at 2-2, 3-2 overall.

Unlike the last two contests, points will be at a premium when the Flyers take on the undefeated Pierce County Bengals at Sumner High School Field this Saturday; game time is 7:30 p.m.

"Pierce County is going to be a problem," Flyer General Manager Phil Pompeo said. "The weather conditions are going to mean a lot; we need a fast track to keep up with them."

"We need a dry surface, and Sumner High School Field wasn't at this time last year. They're so much physically larger than us that we just can't move them if it's slippery. We need a dry, fast track; they know we're going outside."

THE FLYERS didn't need any help from the elements to down Edmonds. A Skip Markham interception on the game's second play put the Flyers in scoring position on the Charger 25-yard line.

Burien capitalized on the situation with 12:55 remaining in the initial quarter, as Lonnie Sloan capped a five-play drive with a one-yard plunge into the end zone.

Garth Savage kicked the first of seven straight PATs to put the Flyers up by seven.

Quarterback Duane Akina put the Flyers in the money again with a five-yard pass to Randy Kramer with 9:13 left in the quarter. Jim Williams came on for Akina to start the second half; his first score, however, was tallied to the Edmonds side of the board, as the new Flyer signal-caller ran out of bounds in his own end zone.

"He was chased out of bounds; he was just scrambling, and the next thing you know he's off the AstroTurf and about three yards onto the pavement. All of a sudden he looks down at his feet and sees he's on the pavement,"

Pompeo explained.

Randy Jacobson, the game's leading rusher for the Flyers (55 yards on nine carries), ended the half with a six-yard run to the Charger goal with two minutes left.

Second half TD runs by Sloan (following a 73-yard half-opening drive), Mark Lovett and Williams preceded two scoring passes by Williams. The second string quarterback tossed to Marques Bailey for 10 yards and six points, and dumped off a short pass to Keith Lovett to end the game.

Keith had other things in mind, though, and set out on a 63-yard trip which ended in the Charger end zone, closing the game out on a high note. The Flyers will need to sustain that pitch for the Bengal match Saturday.

"They (Pierce County) have to be at least a two touchdown favorite; they beat Spokane, but they didn't move the ball that well," Pompeo said. Spokane downed the Flyers, 16-14, earlier this season. Part of Pierce County's success has come on the Bengal defense's ability to knock offspring quarterbacks out of the game early, a fact which will be on the minds of Akina and his offensive line.

"These guys are really wrecking quarterbacks, so obviously we'll be protecting Duane," Pompeo noted.

"Normally we don't ask the guys to play with pain, but the rivalry is so great with Pierce County that the injured guys want to go in and get shots so they can play," he added.

"We've now played with the same guys for the last two weeks, which is good for us. We're getting the unity back, showing togetherness. We're just about ready to get rolling."

The Flyers will meet again with Pierce County at Highline Stadium Oct. 6. Defeating the Bengals is important to Burien's post-season hopes, according to Pompeo. The Flyers are in playoff position right now, but passing Spokane (3-1) in the standings will prevent a first-round meeting between Burien and the powerful Bengals.

FW junior gridgers open with five wins over Burien

Kicking off the regular season with enthusiasm and team spirit, the Federal Way Junior Football Association met the Burien Bearcats at Memorial Stadium Saturday.

With a team comprised of only four returnees, the FW 89ers started the competition in what would prove to be the most suspense packed game of the day.

Burien received the kickoff and retained possession for most of the first quarter but was unable to capitalize and the score remained 0-0 when the clock wound down.

It was almost an instant replay in the second quarter until a Bearcat drive drew first blood at the 6:30 mark. The point after attempt failed.

Undaunted, the Hawks returned the kickoff 25 yards and with only five ticks remaining in the half swept over the goal line. A successful conversion put Federal Way on top 7-6.

But the razzle-dazzle wasn't over as the Bearcats almost broke the kickoff. Only an exciting last effort tackle by the deep left end man saved the TD as time ran out.

Burien's second touchdown came late in the third quarter putting them on top, 12-7, but once again the point after was stopped.

By holding the Bearcats to minus yardage in the fourth and performing some offensive fancywork the Hawks scored their final touchdown with 1:18 remaining. The point after failed.

The Federal Way defense capped the 13-12 victory by dominating play after the kickoff until time ran out.

The combination of a swarming defense that would allow only one first down in four quarters, and an aggressive offensive unit awarded the Federal Way Hawks a victory in Sweetpea action.

The Hawks kicked off and gained possession of the ball four plays later. After receiving the fourth down punt at their own 43, Federal Way executed several long gainers to the Burien 9. A sweep on the next play earned six, the conversion was good and FW led 7-0. Two exchanges later the first quarter ended.

After a series of time consuming turnovers in the second quarter, the Hawks found paydirt once again on a punch out the middle from the Burien four, converted and led, 14-0. The defense held the remaining 1:41 to the halfway mark.

The local gridgers

found the end zone again late in the third but were unable to convert the point after.

The Hawks went on to score another touchdown and conversion in the fourth to win 27-0.

In the shadow of the first two Burien losses, the visiting Bantam squad hit the field with a tough, aggressive attitude. But with a penalty-riddled first quarter neither team could gain momentum and the score remained 0-0 at the buzzer.

A quick pass for five and a second for 15 setup a 53 yard sweep for the game's first score. The kick attempt was foiled.

With 1:17 remaining in the half Burien was unable to move the ball and the 6-0 score held.

Federal Way set up shop on their own 39 after receiving the second half kickoff and proceeded to the Bearcat 47 on a pass play. Pinned to a fourth and three the orange and black countered with a pitch out for 30 more. The Hawks extended their lead to 12-0 two plays later on an aerial. The kick attempt was blocked.

Burien came back with a good mixture of plays, driving to the FW 11, but a powerful goal line defense would force the ball over on downs. The Bearcats countered with their own superb defensive effort, sacked the FW quarterback and forced the punt as the quarter ended.

Covering the punt at the FW 15, an inspired Bearcat offense surged through the middle for six. The point after run was foiled.

Later in the quarter Burien let opportunity slip away when they could not capitalize on either a Federal Way fumble or a roughing the kicker call, Hawks went on to win 12-6.

It looked to be another defensive duel as the FW Midgets took to the field against Burien.

With five minutes elapsed in the first quarter the Hawks held a threatening Burien squad at the three. On the first play after gaining possession, the Hawks broke an off tackle sweep for 97 yards and the touchdown. Two attempts at the conversion, due to a penalty went unrewarded but Federal Way held the edge 6-0 as the quarter ended.

Proving that they were neither down nor out, Burien struck back. Using less than two minutes in the second quarter the Bearcats sustained a well-planned drive and plunged the ball in from the FW three.

The point after was thwarted but the score was tied, 6-6.

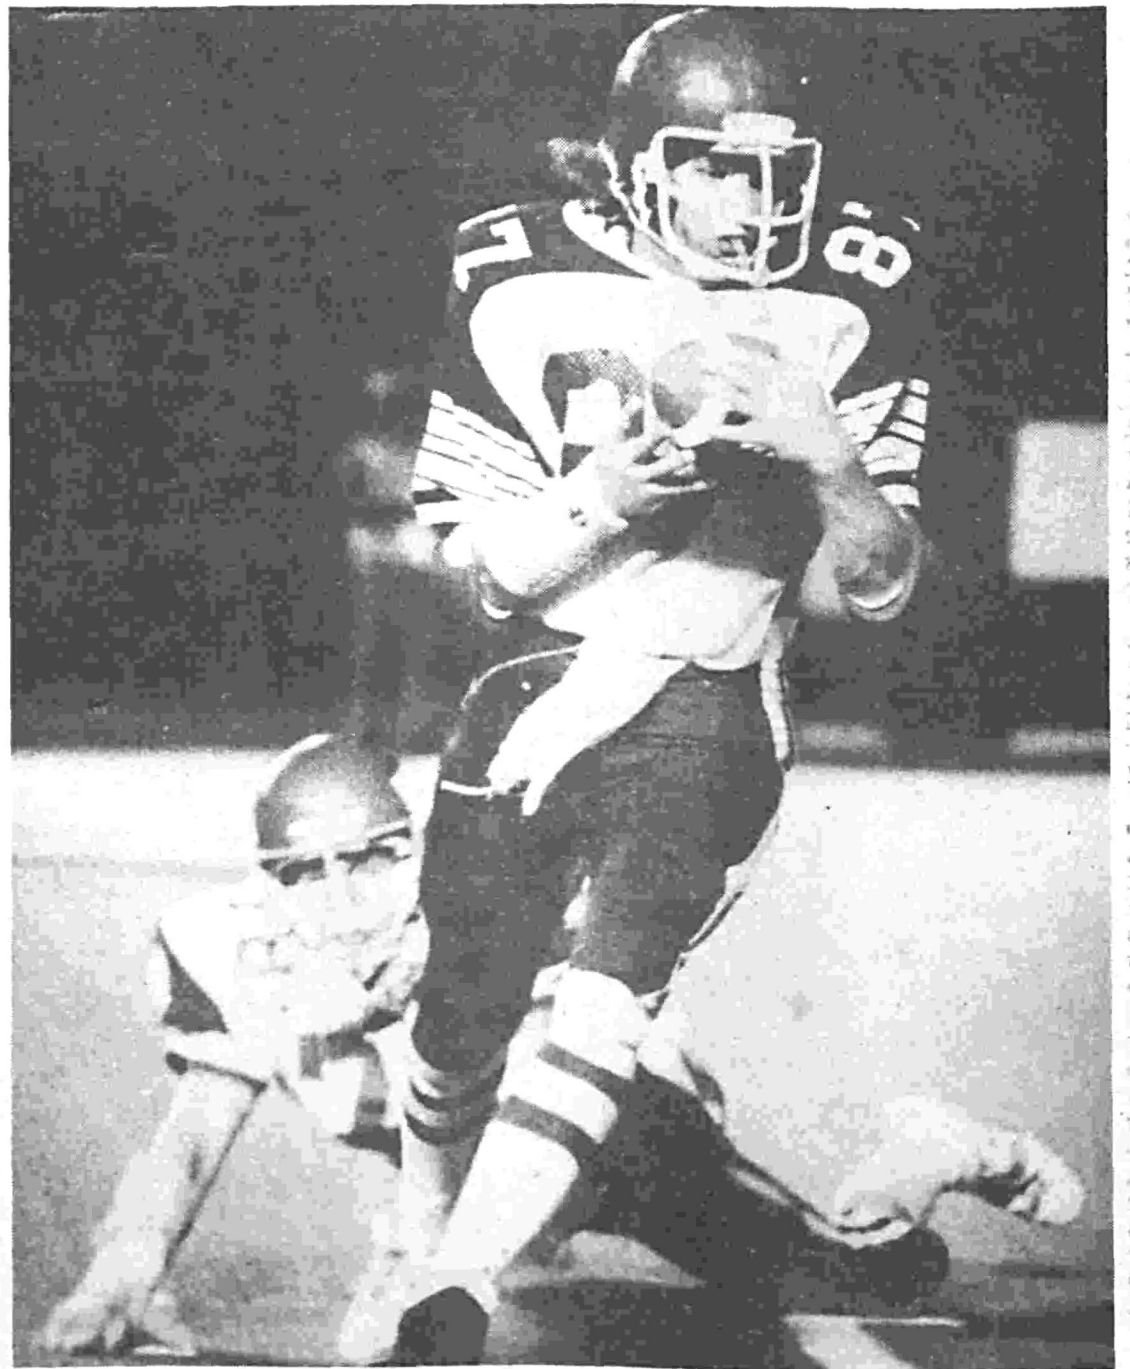

Unable to move the kickoff return past their own 47 the Hawk's punter boomed an amazing 45 yard strike to hole up Burien deep in their own territory.

Plagued by penalties the Bearcats were forced to turn the ball over on their own five yard line. Taking advantage of the situation Federal Way scored on their first play from scrimmage then frosted the cake with a two point kick upping the score to 14-6 which would hold at half-time.

Although Burien would have possession during most of the torrential rain and hail-laden second half neither team would find the endzone. Final FW 14, Burien 6.

The Peewee Hawks would not fair so well as they lost to Burien 12-0. Four fumbles, two blocked punts and a pass interception proved fatal to Federal Way as the Bearcats scored on a pass in the first quarter and a 35 yard score in the third.

Rounding out a victorious day of competition for Federal Way, the Junior Hawks defeated Burien, 6-0, in a hard fought defensive effort.

Comin' through

JOE DOUGHERTY of Decatur lugs the ball goalward after taking a pass from quarterback Greg Andal. Dougherty carried inside the five-yard line of Curtis, where the Gator drive stalled. Curtis won the Friday night contest, 28-0.

TY RUTHERFORD of the Federal Way Junior Football Bantams couldn't quite get the handle on this pass in action against Burien Saturday, and took an ungainly spill into the bargain. The Bantams took a 12-6 win over the Bearcats. Rutherford and his Bantam teammates will play in a preliminary game to the Seattle Seahawks - Oakland Raiders game Sept. 16 in the Kingdome.

Gators seeking win against veteran Rams

by Bart Potter
The Decatur Gators will be seeking to get on the winning track Friday as they visit Rogers for an 8 p.m. game.

The Gators played tough football for the bulk of last week's contest against Curtis. But a disastrous third quarter, in which the Vikings scored 22 points, sealed Decatur's fate.

Rogers, meanwhile, was holding down Bethel's quarterback sensation, John Durocher, in a 16-6 victory.

Ram coach Pat Hoonan was pleased with his defense and displeased with his inconsistent offense in the victory. The go squad never got anything consistent going, he said, and was further hampered by five humbles, three of which were lost.

But Hoonan has veterans throughout his offensive lineup, and he expects improvement to come soon. Senior Wes Haines spearheads the attack at quarterback. Hoonan said the 5-9, 175-pounder is a good runner, but still needs work on his passing.

The Rams are well-set at running back, where Scott Stolzenburg and Leon Scott (both 6-1, 195) return.

On the offensive line, Rogers boasts an all-veteran, all-senior setup. Center John Haak, guards Don Martin and Randy Buchanan, and tackles Terry Graham and Al Phillips were starters last season.

At tight end in the Rams' double tight end offense will be senior Mark Clark and junior Dan Heins. Senior Ken McGlaufflin is the flanker.

Hoonan knew exactly where the first-game offensive problems lay.

"It's real simple," he said. "We didn't mesh."

The defense, on the other hand, was tough.

"Any time you hold Durocher down to six points," he said, "you have to be pleased." We did a good job pass rushing, and a good job in the secondary."

Gary Bradley keyed the defensive effort with a 70-yard interception return for a touchdown. The junior junior Durocher was able to manage only 93 yards through the air.

Joining Bradley in the defense are monster man McGlaufflin, safety Eric Richburg and cornerback Dean Tomlinson.

Stolzenburg and Scott hold down the linebacker positions. Nose guard Don Martin is a returning starter. He is joined up front by tackles Graham and Phillips, and ends Tony Cables and Buchanan.

Hoonan was clear on what the Rams would be drilling on in practice this week.

"We've got to improve by leaps and bounds offensively."

THE YOUNG Gators performed well for most of their AAA baptism Friday. Coach Greg Flynn's team threatened seriously to score twice but could not punch it through.

Quarterback Jim Townsend started the game for Decatur, but sophomore Greg An-dal, the quarterback of the future for the Gators, may be the QB of the present on the basis of his first-game performance.

He hit Joe Dougherty three times for 46 yards, and had the Gators inside the three-yard line of Curtis when first-half time expired.

Dougherty had an interception to set up one scoring opportunity.

Flynn said of his team after that game, "Our aim is to do the best we can. It was a closer game than 28; I thought it was a 14-0 game."

Sport fishing at Neah

Sport salmon fishing between the Sekiu River and Kaitlah Point at Neah Bay will resume immediately as the result of conflicting regulations leading to confusion at the western portion of the Strait of Juan de Fuca, a spokesman from the Washington Department of Fisheries announced recently.

The sport salmon fishing closure, as originally announced, closed all sport salmon fishing Monday night at midnight in all Washington waters west of the Sekiu River, excluding pink salmon, due to low populations of returning coastal coho salmon.

Public meetings held on forest practices

The first of a series of three statewide public hearings on special forest practices was held Aug. 30 in Everett.

By direction of the Forest Practices Board, the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is making a factual review of those forest practices which could potentially harm the environment by conducting the public meetings and soliciting written comments.

Two members of the Forest Practices Board were present to hear oral testimony from representatives of local governments and environmental groups present.

Areas of concern to those who spoke included the uniqueness of island environments and impacts of forest practices conducted there. Additionally, participants asked that those practices adjacent to parks, the effects of slash burning on air pollution and pesticides be addressed as Class IV - Special Forest Practices. They also suggested that the cumulative effects of forest practices in one area be considered.

Testimony presented will be considered by a special subcommittee of the Forest Practices Board as they seek to identify those forest practices with the potential for significant impact on the environment.

Additional public hearings are scheduled on Sept. 6 at the Longview Library, 1600 Louisiana, Longview; and Sept. 13 in the Lyceum at the Media Center, Wenatchee Valley College, Wenatchee. Both meetings begin at 7 p.m.

Anyone unable to attend any of the meetings is encouraged to send written comments to the DNR, Forest Practices Comments, Olympia, Wash. 98504.

Further information is available from Glen Hawley, DNR Private Forestry Division, 120 E. Union Ave. Bldg., Room 108, Olympia, Wash. 98504, telephone (206) 753-5315.

The new law directs the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to promulgate rules and regulations requiring the felling of snags representing a substantial deterrent to effective fire control action. Temporary rules go into effect Sept. 1 and will be followed by the formal adoption of permanent rules later this fall.

The DNR and the Department of Game were instrumental in writing the law. Legislators, representatives from state agencies, forestland owners, loggers and wildlife organizations cooperated in writing the law, which affects forestlands protected by the DNR.

Additional information is available from Don Pless, DNR Division of Fire Control, Public Lands Building, Olympia, Wash. 98504, telephone (206) 753-5350.

The intent of the new law is to ensure continued existence of those wildlife species dependent on snags for homes, while minimizing the risk of fire. Any snags which are not required to be removed for fire control may be left standing, at the landowner's option, as wildlife habitat for cavity nesting birds

Wildlife Fed warns

The National Wildlife Federation has sounded a warning that the nation's Endangered Species Act is again in danger. Unless the U.S. Senate takes a firm stand against politically-inspired exemptions to the act when Congress reconvenes in September the 1973 law protecting endangered wildlife "will be so weakened that it will be practically worthless," according to Thomas L. Kimball, executive vice-president of the NWF.

The fate of the endangered species program will be in the balance, Kimball said, when the Senate votes on a House-passed appropriations bill that would exempt from the act Tennessee Valley Authority's Tellico Dam on the Little Tennessee River.

The U.S. Supreme Court stopped construction of Tellico in June, 1978, on grounds that it would destroy the only known habitat of the snail darter, an endangered minnow-sized fish.

Meet Dr. Alan MacKenzie on duty in the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association's new dental trailer located near the barn gate on the Longacres shed row. He is there three days a week, giving up time from his regular practice which he has established in Renton. A Seattle native, Dr. Mac is a well-trained and experienced dentist. He was granted his dental degree from the University of Washington in 1972. After graduation he spent the next five years with the U.S. Army Dental Corps in Ft. Jackson, South Carolina.

At the University of Washington he had time to row on the Husky Varsity and has participated as a singles sculler. He has been affiliated with several rowing clubs in the Midwest and East and is presently an active member of the Lake Washington Rowing Club.

His Renton community interest is in rowing and he is pushing the establishment of a rowing center. He feels "that Renton has a perfect spot for a much needed rowing facility." The Renton city fathers are interested since Dr. Mac has offered his supervision services for the design and construction of the center.

The Dr. regularly works with his two sons on rowing in a specially rigged wherry. He also finds time to participate in marathons and regularly runs the five miles from his home to his office.

The Dr. is very proud of his dental trailer

State Patrol plans benefit relay team

The Washington State Patrol is readying an 18-man team of runners for participation in the 5,000-mile Doreen Grace "Brain Run" which began in Phoenix, Ariz. on Sept. 1 and will terminate in Cape Cod, Mass. on Nov. 1, 1979.

Some 1,200 police and highway patrolmen from 20 states are volunteering their time to participate in this nationwide marathon fund raiser for the purpose of establishing a central brain research facility in New Seabury on Cape Cod. The fund is named in honor of Doreen Grace, who died in 1976 at the age of 21 of an incurable brain disease.

Washington State Patrol Captain Jim Pennington, who heads up our state's Patrol running team, said, "Like myself, many of our officers are distance runners during their free time. They were quick to respond when they became aware of the "Brain Run."

Oregon State Troopers picked up the "baton" from California on Sept. 8 and members of their relay team will arrive at Biggs Junction south of Goldendale on Highway 97 at approximately 4 p.m., Sept. 12.

Washington State Troopers will begin their 340-mile daylight run on the morning of the 13th, terminating at Newport on the Idaho border on Sept. 16.

The "Brain Run" route in Washington will be along the Columbia River on Highway No. 14 through Kennewick and Pasco, then on to Waitsburg via Highway No. 124. From there the trooper relay team, with each man running five miles on and five miles off for a total of 10 miles each, will head for Colfax on Highways No. 12 and No. 127, and then north to Spokane on No. 195.

The runners will travel north on Highway No. 12 to Newport where they will pass the baton to their brother troopers from Idaho. From there, teams of relay runners will continue across Idaho, Montana, and on to Cape Cod.

State Patrol relay runners will arrive in the Tri Cities about 8 a.m. on the 14th. They will be in Colfax in the afternoon of the 15th, and in Spokane on the 16th about noon. The baton will be handed off to Idaho participants the evening of the 16th.

The Doreen Grace fund is a non-profit organization incorporated in Massachusetts. It is staffed entirely by volunteers. All contributions are tax deductible and should be sent to the Doreen Grace Fund, Box 47, Acton, Mass. 01720.

Hundreds in soccer kickoff

The Highline Soccer Association opened the 1979 campaign, last weekend, with a jamboree at Valley Ridge Field.

More than 150 teams from South King County took part in the two day jamboree which saw more than 2,800 boys and girls participate.

The jamboree signals the start of more than four months of junior soccer which will result in the state championships in January.

Here is a run down of last weekend's results:

Outdoor tips and tales

One of the most enjoyable of all fall trips is a three-day outing of river drifting, fishing and chukar hunting.

Chukars are found on the arid side of the mountains, where the daytime weather is often the shirtsleeve type in early fall. These birds like the steep, rocky hillsides which lead down to water, which often is flowing water of a major river.

Thus, you can use a rubber raft or a Mackenzie-type boat and work your way slowly down a river system, fishing some of the time, getting off to hunt some of the time, and simply enjoying the great outdoors in that setting all of the time.

Chukar hunting is strenuous, for you're either walking up or down those steep hills. Chukars like to walk uphill and fly down. You seldom have much luck hunting on the way up for you can never keep up with them. So most chukar hunters work to the top of a draw or break in the bank and then hunt down. Do that all day and you can be foot-sore and weary come night.

But if you have your boat at the bottom, you can switch off for some fishing part of the day and rest up for the next jaunt up the bank for the birds.

Some of the time you'll find these birds in the high levels along the edges of wheat fields, or in fields with cheat grass. If these high plateaus have low bushes or shrubs in the vicinity where the birds can rest or escape, you usually have good chukar country.

Keep in mind that chukars don't like to flush twice. They tend to walk or sit tight after the first flight. Not always, of course, but it's a tendency. That's why a good dog is of such value in chukar hunting.

You can hunt them without dogs, especially in the uphill, downhill method, but even there, a dog is great for retrieving.

Fall is a prime time for kokanee, since these landlocked sockeye salmon are nearing spawning time and are at their largest.

At the same time, steadily cooling waters in the deep lakes where they thrive means that the depth at which you find them can change every day, getting closer to the surface. Kokanee are highly sensitive to temperature and since they are a schooling fish you're either into them or you're not.

In the spring when the surface temperature reaches around 48 degrees fahrenheit (9 Celsius) they can be almost on the surface. When it rises to 50 (10 Celsius) they start going down, sticking with the temperature they prefer. In the fall they reverse this, moving back up as the surface temperatures cool. Finding the level each day is one of the most important things for kokanee success.

FW in jr grid clash

The Burien Bearcat PeeWees were the only victorious Burien unit as its Bearcat Junior Football League clashed with Federal Way teams this weekend.

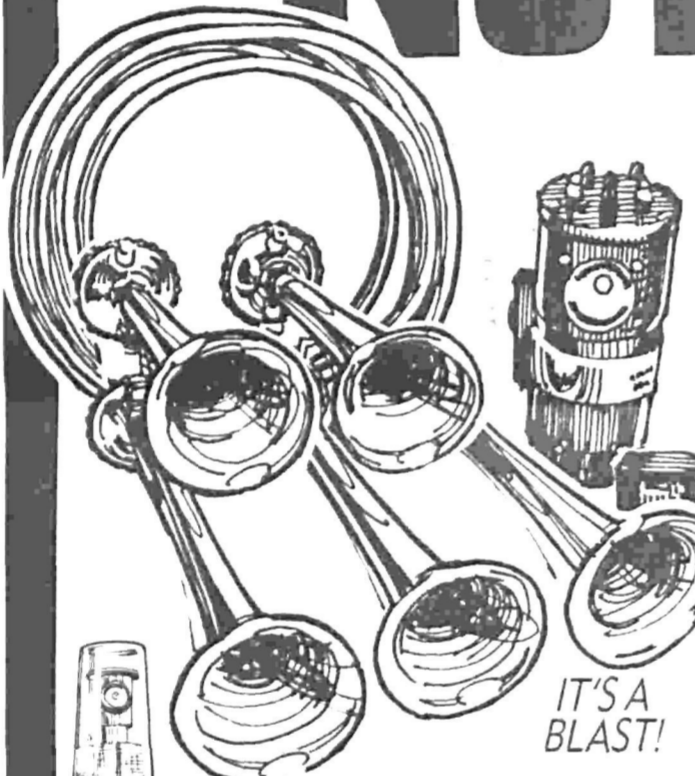

The PeeWees from Burien took a 12-6 win over Federal Way, while the Midgets fell to their FW counterparts, 14-6, and the Bantams dropped a 12-6 game.

A late Federal Way attack proved fateful to the Burien 89ers, who took a 13-12 defeat in the last two minutes of the game.

Rogers and West please the crowd

by Ann Hagen
In an instant, the darkened stage became alive with the pulsating sound of a slick and professional seven-piece band. Cowbells bonked, drums beat and lights flashed.

The combination spelled excitement to a full house of fans who came to the Western Washington Fair in Puyallup to hear the hoarsely rich tones of country-western award winner, Kenny Rogers.

Starting his program with heavy disco-rock numbers, he warmed up with "You Turned the Lights On." The audience clapped their approval but were obviously waiting to hear those songs that catapulted him to fame and made him Male Vocalist of the Year for the Academy of Country Music last year.

Before continuing, he tossed four tambourines into the crowd explaining that he'd like those catching them "to play along with the beat." However, he cautioned them to please put them down and "don't play them during the slow numbers."

"We always get somebody who gets so wound up they become a real character, usually right in the middle of a ballad," he said warmly gathering the audience into the palm of his hand.

Dressed in a pale blue velvet suit that accentuated his greying hair, he introduced and effectively presented ballad, "I Decorated My Life" that may well be his next big hit.

AS IS TRUE OF MOST of his hits, the song sensitively explored a basic human experience giving him the opportunity to capitalize on effective phrasing and his dramatically hoarse voice.

Interchanging slow and fast music with excellent programming, he jumped into the final section of his program with his most popular country-western hits

The audience went virtually wild clapping along with the beat when he went into his recent hits, "Gambler" and "Lucille". Inviting the audience to sing along with "Lucille", he must have known there wasn't a bored person in the auditorium.

After an encore of "Ruby, Don't Take Your Love From Me," another of his bigtime recordings, he left to a standing ovation and cheers from a crowd who obviously felt they'd gotten their money's worth and possibly a bit more.

Warming up the audience during the first half of the show, Dottie West presented a lively warm-hearted program. She is possibly best known for her country-western tune, "Raised in Country Sunshine" that she wrote as well as performed.

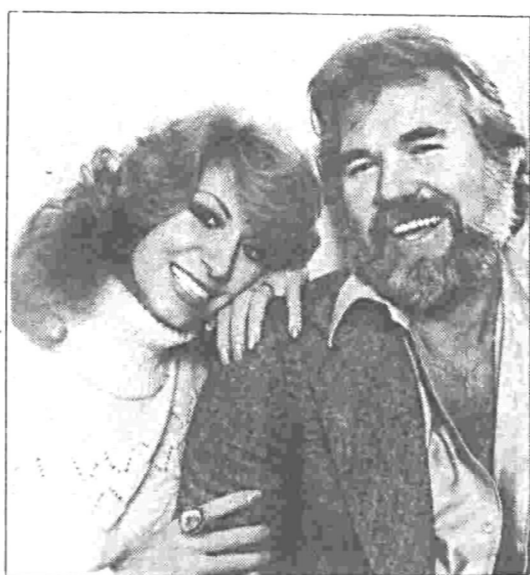

In a briskly moving half hour, she showed a developed style and nerve as she presented her top numbers such as "Broken Lady", Bob Seger tune, "We've Got Tonight and snappy "Rocky Mountain Music."

But, her best, she saved until last. As a finale, she left the audience with Elvis Presley song "American Trilogy" that is bound to be impressive with its full sound and mounting tension. She effectively used drawn-out phrasing where she was supported with close three-part harmony from the band.

West and Rogers, during a section of Roger's performance, also proved that they could sing as well together as they can apart. In a number made famous by Cher and Sonny Bono, "All I Ever Need Is You", their similarly ranged voice blended with a controlled richness.

Comfortable with each other, they've recorded several hit numbers and have toured together occasionally for several years and it shows.

Unlike many outdoor performances, the entire program reached the ears of listeners with the proper balance, a rich but not "loud" sound and the quality of skilled musicians. In the business for many years, both performers know how to set up a show and make it work without a hitch.

Galaxy concert coming up

Tickets are still available for the Seattle Symphony Orchestra's 1979-1980 Musical Galaxy concert series.

Henry Holt, director of education for the symphony and the Seattle Opera, as well as music director of the opera, will be the conductor and commentator for the series.

The programs will take place on Sept. 29, Nov. 17, Feb. 23 and May 31 at 10:30 a.m. in the Opera House.

The Saturday morning concerts are designed for persons of all ages, according to a spokesman for the symphony. Each program will offer a sampling of symphonic music, opera excerpts presented by singers from the Seattle Opera and ballet excerpts presented by dancers from Pacific Northwest Ballet.

The participating organizations include the Woodland Park Zoo, the Seattle Aquarium, the Pacific Science Center, Seattle Art Museum, Seattle Junior Theater, Museum of History and Industry and the Seattle Public Library.

Tickets for the series are $15 for adults and $10 for students and senior citizens. They may be purchased at the symphony ticket office on the fourth floor of the Center House.

For more information, call 447-4736.

Television course explores universe

Seattle Central Community College is offering television viewers an opportunity to tune in to an educational experience and to explore the universe of the comfort of the living room.

Project: Universe will be broadcast on Channels 9 and 13 beginning Sept. 31. Students can register for the class and receive three credits.

The course's emphasis will be on the solar system, including the astronomer's universe; the history of astronomy; the nature of light; a description of the sun, earth, moon and other planets, as well as comets and meteoroids; and the origin and evolution of the solar system.

Two half-hour television classes per week will be accompanied by reading assignments. An instructor, Dave Jenner, will be available to answer questions in person or by telephone.

An orientation is scheduled for students prior to beginning the course. Registration for this class can be done in person or by mail.

A course description, call 587-3800.

tion and mail-in registration instructions are included in the Seattle Central Community College fall quarter schedule.

Tryouts called

Valley Community Players has invited the public to participate in open auditions for the play, "Bus Stop," a drama by William Inge.

Auditions will be held at the Renton First United Methodist Church at 2201 N.E. Fourth (room 102) on Thursday, Sept. 13, at 7:30 p.m. and on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 15 and 16, at 1 p.m.

The play will be directed by Ron Stanek (226-0522 or 725-3670).

Three female and five male roles are available.

The play will be produced at Renton's Carco Theater Nov. 9 to Dec. 1.

For additional information and directions, call 852-2903.

Scheduled to appear

The Seattle Opera House will host three well-known singers this month: Lou Rawls, Cleo Laine and Johnny Mathis.

Rawls will appear in concert on Thursday, Sept. 20.

Born in Chicago, he began singing in a church choir with the late Sam Cooke, and was personally influenced by Duke Ellington and Louis Armstrong.

Nat King Cole gave him one of his first professional breaks when Cole used his influence to have an album by Rawls released.

An international performer, Rawls has earned many honors, including the Playboy Award for best jazz vocalist of 1977, gold albums for "Tobacco Road," "Dead End Street" and "Natural Man," and Grammy awards for best male performance ("Natural Man") and best rhythm and blues single ("Dead End Street").

"Let Me Be Good to You," his latest single, is currently doing well on the pop-music charts.

Following Rawls on Sunday, Sept. 23, will be British singer Cleo Laine.

Heralded as "the finest all-around singer in the world" by the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner, Laine has received Grammy Award nominations in three different categories — popular, jazz and classical.

Some of her albums include "Born on a Friday," "A Beautiful Thing" and "Cleo Laine, Live at Carnegie Hall."

Then on Sept. 30, Johnny Mathis, one of America's most popular purveyors of the romantic ballad, will return to Seattle for a concert at the Opera House.

Talent sought

The Auburn Avenue Theater is looking for talent, particularly local dancers that can adapt to a variety of entertainment.

Extensive experience and background is not necessary, according to a theater spokesman, but the ability to learn quickly and to move well is essential.

There is also a need for volunteer personnel to build and to construct paint sets and for seamstresses for costumes.

Review:

'No More Vietnams, But...'

by Barbara Butts
Many Americans sat glued to their television sets when "No More Vietnams, But..." a disturbing documentary, an NBC "White Paper" report, sponsored by the Weyerhaeuser Company, was aired last week.

About 19 million viewers tuned in to watch the two-hour program about power and the Middle East, according to the company's vice president of communications, Ted Van Dyk.

That is an unusually high viewer rating for public affairs programs. Even better was the fact that the audience increased during the presentation, rather than falling off at the end as generally happens.

Van Dyk said his company was pleased not only with the number of persons who tuned in and stayed there, but also with the quality of the special.

It is, of course, impossible to know if those who watched were pleased with what they saw.

What they observed, on one hand, was an intriguing study of the exotic, veiled lands of the Middle East: Saudi Arabia, Iran, North and South Yemen, Oman and Egypt, as well as Israel.

Especially fascinating was the segment on mysterious Saudi Arabia, which among other things has 1/3, maybe even more of the world's supply of oil and is the this country's major source of imported oil. It showed how this nation of tribes in the heart of Islam, still ruled by an absolute monarchy, is dealing with the influx of Western ways that has come with their oil riches.

How they are coping with the stress is important to the United States, as one of the program's commentators said, because the new "threatens the stability of a nation that we need so much."

The Saudis are dealing with the crisis by accepting some Western things — the work ethic, ambition and drive — and rejecting others, severe competition, for example said one Saudi.

"We still have free rides and free lunches in Saudi Arabia and we hope to keep it that way," he said.

But the NBC White Paper report did more than give an interesting sociological look at countries about which most Americans are unbelievably ignorant.

It gave a clear, concise presentation of the tangled relationships in the Fertile Crescent and our begrudging reliance on the oil-producing countries there.

And those complex relationships boil down to one proposition, said one reporter in the program: "We need Saudi Arabia's oil, and they need our military support."

But as the program revealed, "America's friends: North Yemen, Oman and Saudi Arabia" are concerned that the United States will not be there when needed.

The major reason it won't, according to a spokesman from pro-Western Oman, is its hesitancy to use force because of lingering guilt feelings about Vietnam.

"The United States is a superpower and must fulfill that responsibility," the official from Oman said. "(Americans) must forget Vietnam. Vietnam was just one battle. You can't expect to win all battles."

"No More Vietnams, But..." was a shocking experience for those who have hoped that the "but" would never be heard.

The viewers were not directly given a solution to America's problems in this area of the world. The program did not aim at advocating solutions, said Weyerhaeuser's Van Dyk.

About the only conclusion that was presented was that given by Garrick Utley in summary, when he said, "The cutoff of oil is something that, as we have seen in this program, the United States cannot tolerate."

But by adding the "but" to "No More Vietnams," it looked squarely and in practical terms of power at the possibility of the United States using military might to ensure the supply of oil from these countries, especially Saudi Arabia.

It was the juxtaposition of images such as Americans waiting angrily in gas lines with those of military weapons, airplanes and troops that was chilling.

It was the question that was introduced, although not advocated — "Why don't we take it?" — that was disturbing.

But then, the messenger cannot be blamed for the bad news.

As the show's producer, Anthony Potter, said in June, "Americans again seem to want to project their power."

How they project it will be the crucial question, of course.

And by directly confronting the realities of power in the Middle East, NBC, which had editorial control, and Weyerhaeuser by its sponsorship, have done a public service.

The company invested $1 million in "No More Vietnams, But..." in order that extremely serious problems faced by this nation could be explored in depth, said Van Dyk.

The program fulfilled that goal, the vice president added, and the company will sponsor another "White Paper" in December.

MAGGIE LAIRD and Jean Kruse will be singing and dancing with the Floating Theater Company when it presents "America's Theater" at Decatur High School on Wednesday, Sept. 19.

Decatur High School hosting family revue

"America's Theater," a lively family revue which spotlights our country's theater history and traditions, will be at Decatur High School auditorium on Wednesday, Sept. 19.

The revue, performed by the Floating Theater Company, will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Dramatic and comic material, scenes from plays representative of different eras and styles, mime, music and vaudeville are part of the fare included in this company's second tour of the area.

The Floating Theater Company was previously seen here in the turn-of-the-century melodrama "Rip Van Winkle." Additional performances of "America's Theater" will be given by the company in nine other cities. The performances are sponsored by the King County Arts Commission.

Children's films set by Seattle Art Museum

The Seattle Art Museum will sponsor a series of children's films in its Volunteer Park auditorium beginning on Saturday, Sept. 15, at 2 p.m.

The first offering will be Reginald Mill's 1971 film, "Peter Rabbit and the Tales of Beatrix Potter." Admission to the program is free upon paying the museum entrance fee.

Each month a different film will be shown, with special Halloween and Christmas matinees.

On Oct. 13, "Treasure Island" by Byron Haskin (1950) will be the selection. "The Horror of Dracula," a 1958 production by Hammer Films, will follow on Oct. 27.

A Walt Disney Productions film made in 1949, "Ichabod and Mr. Toad" will be shown on Nov. 17. The Christmas matinee will be announced later.

Chamber ensemble at DM Library

Tonight at 7:30, Trio Divertimento, a professional chamber ensemble, will perform at the Des Moines Library.

The trio, made up of Karen Gozinsky on flute, Cheryl Smith-Ecke on violin and Marjorie Parkington on cello, will play (among other selections) a work written for the ensemble by Rene Fabre, a Northwest composer who formerly taught at Green River Community College.

The musicians, artists-in-residence at Highline Community Center, will perform at the White Center Library on Thursday, Sept. 20, and at the Burien Library on Monday, Sept. 24.

The Des Moines Library is located at 22815 24th S.

HCC takes registration at Sea-Tac

Federal Way residents will have the opportunity to register for Highline Community College evening and day classes at the Sea-Tac Mall. The Highline College registration information area will be located at the northwest main entrance from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday from September 10 through 15.

Registration open for art classes

Registration for fall art classes at Steward Park Art Studio is open now until Monday, Sept. 24, when classes begin.

This session the studio is offering classes in photography; stone and ceramic sculpture; pottery; painting, drawing; and printmaking, including silkscreening and children's art classes. Cost of classes varies from $20 to $50. The studio, a facility of the Seattle Department of Parks and Recreation, offers discounts for seniors and provides scholarships for qualified students. Registration will take place at the art studio, located at 5900 Lake Washington Blvd. S. in Seattle. A listing and brochure may be obtained by calling 723-5780.

British newsman kicks off series

John de St. Jorre, a London Observer foreign correspondent, will open the 13th season of the Tacoma Town Hall lecture series on Monday, Sept. 24.

Others scheduled to appear are Kitty Carlisle, actress and television panelist; Marni Nixon, Seattle singing star; Jack Reynolds, NBC newsman; and the Countess of Romanones — the American girl who married a Spanish Count. These hour-long lectures will be held at 11 a.m. at the Tacoma Elks Lodge at 19th and South Union. Subscriptions for the series, sponsored by the Women of St. Mary's Episcopal Church in Lakewood, may be obtained by writing the Tacoma Town Hall, Box 99756, Tacoma 98499. Cost for the series-only tickets is $20.

Buses shuttle fair visitors

Federal Way residents can now take a bus to the Western Washington Fair in Puyallup and leave the problems of where to park and find gas to Metro.

Throughout Sept. 8-23, shuttle buses will meet the regularly scheduled route 174 bus at 348th and Pacific Highway S. Three scheduled trips leave that point between 11 a.m. and 1:15 p.m. The time varies according to weekday, or Saturday and Sunday schedules. Call Metro information at 447-4800 for the exact times.

The shuttle will leave the fairgrounds six times per day, beginning at 1:45 p.m. The last bus leaves at 9:55.

Fare on the shuttle is 50 cents each way or 10 cents for disabled or elderly riders who have a Reduced Fair Permit. Regular fares, 60 cents from Seattle and 40 cents from outside Seattle's city limits, apply to the connecting 174 route.

Transfers and passes will not be issued or honored on shuttle.

Sewer district fights for Port nod on Boeing service

by Carolyn Logan

The Port of Seattle is re-examining its tentative plan favoring Des Moines Sewer District service for the proposed Boeing Headquarters, Port Assistant Chief Engineer Richard Petit announced Friday.

Both Des Moines and Southwest Suburban sewer districts (SSSD) call for SSSD service to the headquarters, planned for west of Sea-Tac Airport.

The Port has retained a consultant, Systems Architects and Engineers of Seattle, to find which district would be most cost effective, according to Petit.

Consultants will take into account that the sewer line will also serve the 14.2-acre general-aviation site, including 2.3 acres for the approved Weyerhaeuser aircraft hangar, adjacent to the Boeing site.

"If it comes to Southwest Suburban, that's a windfall (for the district). If it goes to Des Moines, that's a windfall for that district," observed Jerry Gleaves, SSSD general manager.

GLEAVES FEELS the case for SSSD extends to a larger issue. He vows to fight for SSSD service.

So does the SSSD lawyer, Mike Hunsinger.

They feel exclusion is not right because: Past district comprehensive plans called for SSSD Westside service and cleared county and state hurdles. And because SSSD in 1972 spent a quarter of a million dollars expanding the treatment plant, trunk and outfall lines to serve future Westside development.

(Des Moines' plan doesn't show Westside service.)

Besides, they argue, SSSD can do it cheaper. A joint sewer district report indicated it would cost Boeing-Weyerhaeuser $349,241 more for Des Moines service.

It would take 3,500 less feet of pipe for a SSSD hook-up to a South 170th Street connection, Gleaves pointed out.

Moreover, the SSSD line would run through a residential area, inviting hook-ups and payback agreements, according to the joint report. "If a Utility Local Improvement District were formed, further cost sharing would be realized," the report stated.

By contrast, "If the line is constructed to Des Moines, there would be no payback possibility to offset the initial capital outlay."

Gleaves reminds that a SSSD line would "benefit the community."

IN ADDITION to running afoul of SSSD's comprehensive plan, Des Moines service fails to meet State Department of Ecology (DOE) policy for gravity service, according to the report.

Des Moines would use a pump station; SSSD would use gravity, Gleaves said. Basis for DOE policy is to avert additional expense, mechanical failure and sewage overflows.

Engineers, who made the report, disputed the "Port scheme" of hooking up to Des Moines at South 188th Street: "Surcharging and basement backups will occur during peak flow conditions," the engineers warned, citing capacity figures.

"THIS IS new to us and needs to be reviewed," Petit responded.

He expects the consultants will complete their task in about two weeks.

However, Petit noted, "No formal request (regarding service) has come from either district. We're not going to initiate action on our own." Petit said the districts did not send him the joint report, but that he obtained it from another source.

Hunsinger sounds as though he'll initiate some action on another front.

What's happening is that the Westside Hilltop Survival Committee and the "Westside Residential Community" have appealed the County Zoning Examiner's recommendation in favor of the Boeing reclassifications. A hearing before the County Council's Appeals Committee has yet to be set.

"We didn't appeal because we didn't know about it until it was too late," Hunsinger said. "We will attempt to present at the hearing why making SSSD the service district should be a condition of the reclassifications."

"Assuming the County Council upholds the examiner's decision, we could appeal to the County Superior Court."

"When Boeing applies for a building permit, we'll make input. If a permit is issued, we hope one condition will be SSSD service. The building-permit stage is the primary stage for sewer decisions."

"If the Port won't cooperate, we'll work with the county."

Does SSSD have recourse from non-compliance with DOE policy? "I don't know," Hunsinger replied. "We're taking this one step at a time." Gleaves pledges to ask DOE to assist in the fight.

One turning point seems to be money. If economics dictate Des Moines is more cost effective, "We would relinquish service," Gleaves explained.

If the Port elects to go with Des Moines, however, consideration should be given to reimbursing SSSD about $300,000 for previously expanded facilities, according to the report. District commissioners have not taken a position on reimbursement.

And, "Should the Port elect to come this way, we will accept it," affirmed Jim Henry, Des Moines District assistant manager.

Metro merger issue remains on ballot

Voters of King County will be asked to decide in November if Metro should be merged with county government. A move by three members of the county council to replace the ballot issue with a mere advisory issue was defeated Monday 5-2.

The ordinance proposed by Bill

Reams, Bob Dunn and Bernice Stern did not even have the support of a recently formed citizen's committee to oppose Metro merger. Hanford Choate, spokesman for the Citizens Against the County Takeover of Metro, said he opposed removing the issue from the ballot. "I think we can settle this issue once and for all. Amending it now would confuse the issue" he said.

Reams, speaking for the advisory ballot, said he is concerned that "a lot of things are going to be settled once and for all in the next few years" if the Metro merger issue is defeated in November. The existing makeup of the 37-member Metro Council is "acceptable to those who enjoy disproportionate representation on the council," according to Councilman Gary Grant who favors merging the two governmental agencies.

Long hunt ends

Coloradan is new NP chief

by Pat Jenkins

Jeffrey Libby, an eight-year veteran of law enforcement in Colorado, has been named chief of police for Normandy Park.

City Manager Doug Schmitz said Monday the 32-year-old Boulder (Colo.) Police Department lieutenant is expected to begin his new job in mid-October.

The selection of Libby climaxed an eight-month search for a replacement for William McSeveney, who retired as Normandy Park police chief in January.

Seventy-seven candidates were sifted in the hunt, including 56 in a hiring process that began in mid-

May following an abortive first attempt to find a chief.

Libby agreed to take the job last Wednesday, but wasn't officially hired until Monday. Certain details of his employment were worked out by last Saturday after Schmitz and Mayor Tom Dawson went to Boulder to meet with Libby.

LIBBY, who reportedly will fly here this weekend to begin looking for a home for his wife, Jill, and their son, has been with the Boulder police since March, 1973.

He began his career in 1971 as a deputy sheriff in Boulder County. In May of the following year, the Northwestern University graduate joined the Vail (Colo.) Police Department, where he stayed until moving to Boulder.

A lieutenant the last two years, Libby's duties in Boulder have included being administrative assistant to the chief and grant project director for the selective enforcement program.

Schmitz said Libby also has been "instrumental" in the development of Boulder's police academy and has had 12 articles published in police publications.

Libby's salary will be $21,000 annually. Schmitz said Libby was not required to sign a contract, but did ink a "working agreement" that was part of the final negotiations between himself and the city.

Libby was one of two men preferred for the job by an oral review board and five city council members in interviews with four finalists four weeks ago.

"HE IS articulate both professionally and personally, he has an excellent background, I'm impressed with his personality, and he is what we need for our city," Schmitz said of Libby, who was unavailable for comment Monday.

Three city council members who met informally with Libby last month here are equally impressed with him.

"He looks like the kind of guy who can do an excellent job and instill pride in his force," Jack Bender said.

"I'm very happy with him," Vincent Yeager said. "I had a difficult time deciding between the top two candidates, but I'm happy to hear (Libby) is the one."

Noted Robin Little, "He was very definitely a top candidate. I'm very pleased."

Yeager said he is "glad we didn't have to make another go-round" in the dragnet for a chief.

The first attempt to find one drew 21 applicants but was abandoned when none of the finalists met Schmitz' requirements for the post.

THE SECOND hunt attracted a much stronger group of candidates, according to Schmitz, who made the final decision on hiring Libby.

All city officials are glad to finally have a permanent replacement for McSeveney. Garnett Arcand, a Bellevue Police Department officer, has been acting chief.

"The police department needs some stability," Yeager said. "It has had some turnovers in men because it had no one permanent at the top. I don't wish to take anything away from Garnett. He's done a fine job."

"But having a new chief is something we need," Yeager said. "I think some good things are ahead for our police department."

May the best cooks win!

Every cook has that one special dish which is out of this world. Could it win a cooking contest?

Now is the time to find out. Robinson Newspapers is sponsoring a contest to find the best cooks in West Seattle and all of Southwest King County.

The contest begins on Sept. 19. Various prizes include a microwave oven, a shopping spree and a one-quarter beef or the cost equivalent in pork.

The competition will be broken down into six categories: 1. main dishes, 2. casseroles, 3. desserts, 4. breads and pastries, 5. salads and vegetables, 6. an open category listed as miscellaneous.

To enter the contest, you must send us the recipe along with an entry blank which will appear in this paper and area stores beginning Sept. 19.

A panel of judges from various area food establishments will choose three winners in each category. There will be 18 finalists from each of the three Robinson Newspaper circulation areas (West Seattle Herald - White Center News, Highline Times, and Federal Way and Des Moines News).

The judges will determine winners only by studying the recipes; they will not test them.

The 54 final contestants will participate in a final taste-off contest on Nov. 3 at the Airport Hilton. Contestants will prepare the dish at home and bring it to the tasteoff where judges will determine the winners.

The winning recipes, as well as those from the other finalists, will appear in a special section, "Cookbook Contest," to be published in all Robinson newspapers on Nov. 14.

Watch for the entry blanks. They will be accepted Sept. 19 through Oct. 19.

Good luck and let the best cooks win!

Your Money

by John Weaver, Jr.
Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc.

If you have ever wanted to become involved in investing but didn't have enough money or incentive to enter the market on your own; then a possibility for you to consider would definitely be an investment club.

An investment club is simply a group of friends with similar investment objectives who pool their resources. Although the average club has 14 members, some clubs have as few as 10 or as many as 25. Meetings are usually scheduled once a month at the home of a member. The members discuss, select and invest in securities collectively.

The initial meetings should be spent organizing and finding objectives and goals. Then some time should be invested in selecting a stock broker most suitable for handling the club's account. Once this has been accomplished, the club is ready to function.

At the monthly meeting, each member's contribution is collected. Dues usually range between $5 - $25 per month. Each member takes a turn discussing his or her investment ideas. In making a presentation to the group, a member should have researched the company or industry thoroughly. Then a good comparison can be made and a decision by majority vote as to which security to purchase that month. Some investment groups enjoy having an occasional speaker.

At the same monthly meetings, the members review existing holdings and determine any changes by majority vote. When a decision has been made, members order a purchase of sale through the club's broker who should also provide monthly statement of the account. In addition, the individual members might request the broker to recommend investments for their own consideration.

The key to a successful club is participation by each member. Each person shares equally in the responsibility and each enjoys his or her share of the profit when the club succeeds. Procedure for dealing with the withdrawal of a member should be worked out in the initial organization of the club. A member, in this instance, is usually allowed his or her share of the assets held by the club.

Participating in an investment club enables a person to gain a good working knowledge of investing. It also enables members to learn how best to put their own money to work, and prepares them for the day when their personal investment program will play a more significant role.

An investment club can be a fun and rewarding experience. More information regarding how to organize a club is available free by writing to: John W. Weaver Jr., Associate Vice President, Investments - Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc., 1113 S. 299th Place, Federal Way, Wash. 98003.

PUBLIC NOTICE
NOTICE OF THE ADOPTION BY THE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS OF LAKEHAVEN SEWER DISTRICT, KING COUNTY, WASHINGTON, OF A RESOLUTION OF INTENTION TO FORM UTILITY LOCAL IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT NO. 41A AND SETTING TIME AND PLACE FOR PUBLIC HEARING THEREON.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on the 3rd day of May, 1979, the Board of Commissioners of Lakehaven Sewer District, King County, Washington, did adopt Resolution No. 79-674 setting forth the Board's intention to form Utility Local Improvement District No. 41A. The nature of the proposed improvement being as is set forth on Exhibit "A" attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the total estimated cost of said proposed improvement is the sum of $1,817,700.00, of which approximately $1,667,700.00 of said cost shall be borne by assessments.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that a public hearing on the formation of the proposed Utility Local Improvement District shall be held before the Board of Sewer Commissioners, at 7:00 p.m., on September 27th, 1979, at the sewer district office, 31627-1st Avenue South, Federal Way, Washington. All persons desiring to object to the formation of the proposed District must file written protests with the Secretary of the Board of Commissioners, ROBERT D. GREEN, at the sewer district office, address as above, before the time fixed for said public hearing.

If owners of at least forty percent (40%) of the area of land within the proposed district file written protests with the Secretary of the Board, the power of the sewer Commissioners to proceed with the creation of the proposed district shall be divested.

The names and addresses of property owners within the proposed ULID are available for public perusal at the sewer district office, address as above, and may be inspected Monday through Friday between the hours of 8:00 a.m., and 5:00 p.m.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that said Resolution No. 79-674 is available for public inspection at Lakehaven Sewer District, address as above.

Do you want Junior to be just like you?

You've got a good start. Right from the beginning he's imitated your speech, actions, and values. You've got a big responsibility on your hands, almost too big. We'd like to help. We've got a Sunday school class just for him. It'll help you train him for a life of good values.

And we've got a Sunday school class for you, too. Because we've found that meeting with other parents who have similar problems and responsibilities makes life a whole lot easier. Why not visit us this Sunday and find out for yourself.

REAL ESTATE NORTHWEST

Pacific West Properties in new location

Pacific West Properties will celebrate its move to a new location in Federal Way with a champagne open house on Thursday, Sept. 13, from 4 to 8 p.m. Ron Anderson, president, will be welcoming guests at 1033 S. 320th St.

Judy Jakaub, broker, is particularly pleased with the new building. She likes the way Federal Way has handled its growth, keeping its trees and somewhat rural character despite its fantastic development.

"Look at 320th Street and Highway 99," she says. "The new businesses are attractive, the remodeling of the old ones is fantastic. West Campus is delightful. The people in Federal Way are friendly, and it's a growing area. Therefore the real estate opportunities are tremendous. I've taken five years to travel to every state except Alaska and Hawaii, and I wouldn't trade the Northwest for a million dollars."

Jakaub said she enjoys working with people. Her particular love in real estate is helping young couples get into their first home. She describes them as being like kids with a new toy.

Moving into management as a broker has meant leaving some of that excitement behind, but there are other pleasures. Right now Jakaub is looking for sales people, either licensed or thinking of a new career in real estate.

Ron Anderson, president of Pacific West Properties of Federal Way, expects to see the office grow rapidly now that it is in its new location. "With Federal Way offering the best of both country and city living, people are going to find this the area of choice for both residential and commercial real estate sales," he says.

Plan to stop in tomorrow to see the new office in the Citizens Federal Bank Building, and to congratulate Anderson on the new location.

RON ANDERSON, president of Pacific West Properties, holds the door open for Judy Jakaub, broker, and for his wife, Pat Anderson, who runs the office.

Real Estate
By Bob Del Bianco REALTOR
EQUITY GROWS WITH AGE
What is equity? Quite simply, it's the portion of your home you own - the part that isn't mortgaged. To start with, it's your down payment. Then it grows each month by the amount of principal you repay on your mortgage.
For example, let's assume you're in the first year of paying off a $25,000 mortgage you got at 9% for 25 years. Your monthly payments for principal and interest are $210.00, of which about $24 is principal, the rest interest. At the end of the year you own about $280 more of your home than when you started - sort of a forced savings account. (And you've got a hefty $2,268 in interest charges to deduct from your taxable income.)
The further along you get in each month by your mortgage payments, the faster your equity grows. In the tenth year, your $210 buys equity at $53 per month rate and in your 20th year it's up to about $130 per month.
If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate please phone or drop in at your local DEL BIANCO REALTY INC., offices. We're here to help!

Food for thought: Milk is not for every body

by Pat Jenkins

Rare is the person who wasn't told as a child and remembered as an adult that milk is healthful and everyone should drink it.

But a book authored by a physician says just the opposite is true for a lot of people.

And a Highline-area allergist agrees with what Dr. Frank Oski has written in "Don't Drink Your Milk" — in short, milk can ruin a person's health.

"There are documented cases of people who were mentally and physically ill, and who returned to normalcy when they quit drinking milk," said Dr. Gordon Baker, who treats patients for an almost infinite variety of allergies and food-related illnesses.

Adverse reactions to milk are one problem he prescribes for. The majority of people suffering from bad effects of the liquid are blacks and Asians, he said.

"IT'S BEEN SHOWN that 82 percent of the world's Asians and 76 percent of the world's blacks can't drink it because of reactions to lactose, which milk contains," Baker said. "They can become extremely ill physically and mentally despondent from drinking milk."

While Caucasians are not known to have the same violent reaction, they aren't necessarily cut out for milk consumption, another Oski contention that Baker accepts.

"Milk is a major cause of ulcers," Baker said. "Ulcers have gone on for years in people who kept pouring milk on them because they thought it was good for them."

Heart disease, stemming from fat deposits from milk, can also be traced to milk, Baker said.

As soon as a person is out of infancy, it's time to cut back or eliminate milk-drinking, the Normandy Park resident asserted.

"There is not one earthly reason to drink milk after your teeth come in," he said. "Humans are the only animal that continues to drink milk after infancy."

"SOME POOR families think as long as they are giving their children milk, they at least are doing that much for their children's nutrition. But we just don't need to drink milk, and some people shouldn't."

"Personally, I won't give it to my kids, and I won't have it in the house. And I don't have some axe to grind. It's just not a good food."

But, Baker added, if you drink milk and have no medical problems — physically or mentally — don't worry that your health may be endangered by the white stuff you're guzzling.

"I'm just saying milk could be a source of a problem one might have," he said.

Baker says the same thing about virtually every kind of food in his allergy treatments, which he practices in his Burien office.

"If someone is continually ill, has been to a good doctor, and nothing can be shown and his illness can't be labeled, then he should consider what he eats and drinks as a possible cause of the illness," he said.

BAKER, WHO PREFERS to call reactions to food "food intolerance," said "a quarter of the population is allergic to something. You can't name a food I don't have someone allergic to."

The most violent allergic reactions are to seafood, nuts, and eggs, according to Baker, who said the reactions are either immediate or delayed.

"People with chronic stomach aches are allergic to some kinds of food. And there are many things food can do that aren't obvious," he said.

As an example, Baker recalled "my prize patient."

"He had been in mental institutions, was suicidal, and was sick and depressed all the time. Finally, I put him on a diet. It turned out he was allergic to wheat, and he eliminated that from his diet and soon was healthy and vibrant again."

Baker emphasized the curing of that patient's psychological problems was one of the few times getting an allergy under control can dissolve emotional illness.

ALLERGENS sometimes present themselves in unlikely sources, Baker noted.

"Red wine contains a lot of histamine, and histamine leads to nose congestion and eye irritation," he said.

People who dine on Chinese food can also find themselves an allergy victim. "It's called the Chinese restaurant syndrome. There is an additive called MSG that is used in Chinese food, and it has been the cause of allergies," Baker said.

The bulk of a person's allergies — whether they be reactions to food, animals, or synthetics — develop before the age of 25, Baker observed.

"But it's also very possible to develop an allergy to some food after you've been eating it all your life," he said.

Baker said you should start thinking you might have an allergy if you suffer from symptoms including eczema and hives on the skin, a continually stuffy nose, respiratory disorders like asthma, sinusitis, and bronchitis, and gastrointestinal ailments such as diarrhea, vomiting, abdominal pain, constipation, and loss of appetite.

Nervous symptoms from an allergy include headache, tension-fatigue, listlessness, and a feeling of always being unhappy.

Those aren't always signs of an allergy, but are an indication that shouldn't be ignored, Baker said.

Metro seeks council volunteers

Metro is seeking volunteers to serve on two citizens' committees that advise the Metro Council on water quality and public transit issues.

The Citizens' Water Quality Advisory Committee (CWQAC) and the Citizens' Transit Advisory Committee (CTAC) make citizen recommendations to Metro and provide opportunities for Seattle and King County

CWQAC, with 27 members, has been active this year in several areas. It considered the federal Environmental Protection Agency's proposed public participation regulations and King County's General Sewerage Plan. A CWQAC task force made several recommendations in an attempt to further refine Metro's public involvement process. CWQAC has also been involved in an ongoing review of Metro's areawide water quality management plan.

CTAC, with 54 members, advised Metro this year on transit in the I-90 corridor, long-term regional transit plans and format for presentation of the transit budget. The committee also supported improved passenger data collection efforts and expansion of the trolley system.

In a letter to King County community groups, Metro Council Chairman C. Carey

Donworth said that activities of both committees require much time and firm commitments from their members. Members appointed for two-year terms should expect to spend "four to 10 hours per month on committee work," he said.

Prospective members can be nominated by local community groups, or they can nominate themselves. The Metro Council selects committee members to provide balanced representation of geographical areas and interest groups, including minorities, senior citizens, students, environmentalists, business people, unions and civic organizations.

Members serve as individual citizens, however, and not as representatives of any organization or area.

Anyone interested in joining CWQAC should contact Rachel BenShmuel at 447-6387. Prospective CTAC members should contact Susie Tull Saporta at 447-6761. Write Metro at 821 Second Ave., Seattle, Wash. 98104 for application forms and additional information on the committee and the selection process.

The deadline for returning completed applications to Metro is Oct. 26. Selection of new committee members will occur in December or January.

Eat your hearts out, Laverne and Shirley

by Barbara Butts
 Susan Knapp had it all planned out.

She had studied the Twin Lakes Safeway store, marked out her route and had a game plan.

First, she would race for the frozen food department, then the coffee and tea section and go for cheese if she had time.

But she was nervous.

Friends had told her about Laverne and Shirley's fiasco. Although she hadn't seen the television show about their timed shopping spree, she knew that all their scheming had gone awry.

Their jogging outfits, crammed with food, had become so heavy that they had to crawl for the check-out counter.

And all they came home with were the box of Scooter-pies and a package of frozen fish sticks that they had in their hands — thrust over the line at the last minute.

Could it happen to her?

As the 7:45 a.m. Saturday shopping spree she had won in a Lions' club drawing approached, Mrs. Knapp decided that it would be better if her husband, Carson, was behind the cart.

"I figured he could get more because he's faster and stronger than I am," she said.

But the rules of the Federal Way Knights Lions Drawing excluded that possibility. They also eliminated her happy vision of carts loaded down with succulent steaks, roasts and hams.

No meats or taxable items, such as wine, beer or tobacco, could be hoarded during the three-minute limit.

Mrs. Knapp lives in Federal Way with her husband; 3-year-old daughter, Lyndsey; and 11-year-old son, Gary. And she regularly shops at the Safeway store in the Twin Lakes Plaza.

She knew how big it was.

It looked even bigger as she stood waiting for the countdown because the store was not yet open for business.

Then the Lions' club official started counting: "Five, four, three, two, one . . . go."

And off she went to the sound of her family cheering her on.

As planned, she dashed to the frozen foods, and loaded her cart as fast as she could. But her husband was yelling out the minutes as they vanished. She grabbed her cart and headed for the next target — coffee and tea.

On your mark, Get set...

...GO!

Then, catastrophe struck.

"I was trying to run with the cart, but a box had fallen under the cart, wedged under it," she said. "I couldn't move."

As she wrestled with the box, her husband — not knowing that she was stuck — shouted, "Leave it; go!"

The pressure was great, but Mrs. Knapp managed to remove the obstacle and sprinted to the cheeses.

When she had finished grabbing groceries and was safely at the check-out counter, speedy shopper had two carts of frozen entrees and vegetables, coffee and tea enough for a year, a variety of cheeses and $50 worth of meat that was part of the prize.

She had shamed Laverne and Shirley and was $344.28 richer.

"That was the fastest three minutes I've ever known," Mrs. Knapp said. "It was nice to take home the groceries."

"But I was glad when it was over."

College sponsors women's program

A free program to acquaint women with the variety of classes and services offered at Highline Community College will be held Wednesday, Sept. 12, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The program, entitled "It's Not Too Late," will be presented at the Lecture Hall at the Highline campus at 240th and Pacific Highway South.

Several instructors will conduct different programs of study, including classes for personal enrichment or vocational skills.

The program will include a tour of the campus and an explanation of the registration procedure.

Coffee and tea will be provided, but participants should bring a sack lunch.

For information, call the Women's Resource Center, 878-3710, ext. 365, between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Good Shepherd to offer seminar

The Church of the Good Shepherd, Episcopal, in Federal Way is sponsoring a "Walk Through the Bible" seminar Saturday, Sept. 29 in the performing arts auditorium at Decatur High School, 2800 S.W. 320th.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m. with the seminar from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This seminar will feature the Old Testament with the New Testament scheduled for Feb. 23, 1980.

Registration forms, preregistration discount information and further general seminar information may be obtained by phoning Stephen Perry at 839-6100 or by writing to the church, 345 S. 312th or P.O. Box 3108, Federal Way, 98003.

Kenneth W. White Marine Pfc. Kenneth W. White, son of William E. and Vera M. White of 31706 Fifth Ave. S., and whose wife, Nancy, is the daughter of Milton C. and Carolyn B. Scheerer of 29300 11th Place S., all of Federal Way, has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego.

During the 10 and one-half weeks training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

He joined the Marine Corps in May 1979.

I'd do anything to get away from my sisters. So I'm saving up with my paper route and Met One to go to summer camp.

My dad told me I could save more with a Met One Savings Account. It's better than a bank 'cause my money earns 5 1/2% interest all the time. And it's got all kinds of services that will help me when I'm a little older.

I like the Met One Account 'cause I get a statement that shows all the extra money I earn in interest. And it shows the money I put in from my paycheck, too.

I'm glad I changed to a Met One Savings Account. You can bank on Metropolitan to help you save, too. Summer camp, here I come!

Catholics expand service program

Catholic Children's Services of Seattle have initiated an "outreach program" to the South King County area.

Through the use of office space at St. Anthony's Parish (Renton), St. Vincent de Paul Parish (Federal Way) and Holy Family Parish (West Seattle), professional counseling and referral services based on a Catholic value system will be made more accessible to South King County residents. Services are available to persons of any race or religion.

Services offered directly through the Parish offices will include:

Counseling: individual, parent-child, marital and family counseling by a trained professional on a sliding scale fee basis.

Referral Services: This program will ensure that clients needing specific assistance such as day care and housing, will be referred to appropriate service resources in the community; and consultation services.

Existing programs at Catholic Children's Services include:

1. Single Parent Services (Unmarried Parents): This program provides counseling and tangible assistance to the unmarried mother with personal, social, medical and financial needs. Unmarried fathers are involved in counseling relative to their needs and responsibilities.

2. Foster Care: This program provides substitute living situations in private licensed homes to children from infancy through 18 years of age.

3. Adoption:

Through this program adoptive parents are selected for children of all ages and races.

4. Diagnostic Center Services: This group home facility is established to develop a comprehensive diagnosis of children ages 2 to 17 about whose background little is known and who are exhibiting symptoms of socially unacceptable behavior.

5. Specialized Programs: This service includes: Family Life Education workshops or lectures tailored to the concerns of special-needs groups (e.g., Effective Parenting, Sexuality for Teens, Single Parent Groups); Crisis Intervention Services which involves the availability of trained staff of therapists to respond to crisis situations in families after their referral to the agency by the Department of Social and Health Services.

Jack Fischer, ACSW, a marriage and family therapist for Catholic Children's Services, will be available 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. one day each week in these assigned areas. Fischer is a graduate of the Columbia University School of Social Work and has worked extensively with couples and families in crisis.

On Monday, Fischer will be at St. Anthony's Parish in Renton, 314 S. Fourth, Renton and can be reached for appointments by calling 323-6336.

The Tuesday location will be the St. Vincent de Paul Willenborg Center, 30525 Eighth Ave. S. (839-4333).

On Wednesdays,

Fischer will be in Holy Family Parish in White Center, 9641 20th S.W., Seattle and can be reached by calling 323-6336.

People wanting to make use of any of the services available are invited to contact Fischer during working hours at the most convenient location. Fischer can also be contacted by calling Catholic Children's Services' 24-hour number, 323-6336.

A group of 20 local high school students and their advisors recently toured seven European countries on a month's tour to expand their understanding of the world.

The tour was part of an educational foreign study program developed by the California-based Pacific American Institute. Formed six years ago, the organization has satellite programs throughout the world.

The organization coordinates the student's tours, selecting activities that are educational. In each country, where students stay in hotels or school dorms, a local representative is available to assist the group.

Decatur students were Lisa Antonelli, Joy DiRito, Linda Markland, Julie Schiehtle and Cary Wolfcamp. From Federal Way High School were Fred Bahr, Byron Hiller, Mariane Metcalf, Leslie Newman, Virginia Sabado and Jennifer Wright. Attending from Thomas Jefferson were Sandy Brannan, Lorrie Dempke, Julie Kempf, Shelly Logan, Sharleen Osman, Renee and Rhonda Pace, Jeff Smith and Robert Torrey.

"Our goal is to help students broaden their feeling of other countries and their relationship to them," said Barbara Holden wh, graphics instructor for Thomas Jefferson High School who helped coordinate the trip.

She said that in some instances you have to live through an experience to actually realize what's happening, especially in Communist controlled countries.

When the group passed through Russian borders, they were detained at checkpoints and examined by armed guards who checked their bus with mirrors.

"You really realize that they are a captive people," she said, referring to the Russians.

IN ADDITION, THE TOUR included

seeing London highlights such as Buckingham Palace and the Windsor Castle; a trip aboard Russian cruise ship, the "Baltica"; tours of Denmark, Copenhagen, and Finland.

In Leningrad, after touring the city, they visited St. Isaac's Cathedral, now a museum and Hermitage Museum, housed in the Winter Palace.

A special evening where students could exchange views with Russian students was also included. It ended with American disco dancing.

Before they were through, students had visited Moscow's 1980 Olympic Stadium, the Polish city of Warsaw that was nearly destroyed during the war and rebuilt, the Eiffel Tower in Paris and the "white cliffs of Dover" in France.

The trip was coordinated by administrators Don and Janet Swanson. Students are responsible for paying all their own expenses.

Grass Roots Gardening

by Ginna Koontz

AUTUMN IS considered an ideal time to plant a new lawn. Cool fall weather promotes strong root development, the foundation of a healthy and luxurious lawn. Plant as soon as possible but unless weather turns unseasonably cold seed can be planted up to Oct. 15.

Whether a new lawn is seeded or sod laid it is important to do a thorough job of soil and site preparation. Gently slope the lawn away from house and buildings, correct any drainage problems and decide the lawn usage. Some homes actually have two types of lawns. The verdant "front" yard, a showcase for the home and a tough "play" lawn in the back yard where children, pets and adults frolic and play games. After determining how much use the lawn will receive, select the correct types of seed, usually a mixture of creeping red fescues, bent grasses and a smaller amount of blue grasses for a rich lawn. New varieties of perennial rye grasses for playground areas are being introduced. Clover, zoysia and all bluegrass do not fare well in the marine Northwest climate. Consult a local nursery man or the Cooperative Extension Service for seed recommendations. If laying sod, the grass variety mixtures must be the same as seed. Buy the best seed you can afford because you are planting a lifetime lawn.

AFTER PURCHASING costly seed or even more expensive sod, it must be backed by time and labor. There is no short cut to planting a new lawn if you envision turf as a lifetime investment reflecting a lush, velvety outdoor carpet.

Just follow these step-by-step procedures to establish the lawn of your dreams. 1. It is wise to take a soil test so soil fertility and mineral content are known. Contact the Cooperative Extension Service or a Master Gardener Clinic for a soil test kit and instructions. The soil test fee is $8. The results also recommend needed amendments. 2. Pick up debris, sticks and stones and large clumps of weeds and grass. 3. Rototill at least eight inches deep, running the tiller in two directions. 4. Rake to eliminate stones and debris exposed by tilling. 5. If soil is clay, hardpan or mostly sand, add sawdust, weed free composts and manures. When using sawdust add six pounds actual nitrogen per square yard of sawdust. If addingtopsoil, look before you buy. There is topsoil and not-so-topsoil. Do not just spread it four to six inches deep on soil surface. After spreading rototill topsoil into the soil. Also spread 40 pounds per 1500 square feet of a new lawn-type fertilizer. 6. After the second rototilling rake again with a steel rake discarding any debris or stones that surface. 7. To establish the lawn contours and drainage patterns, drag a weighted ladder or a frame constructed of four-by-fours over the area. Be sure there are no low spots. You may have to hand shovel from high spots to fill low cavities. Then drag again until smooth and gently sloping. 8. Fill a lawn roller with water and roll over the area. Rollers and spreaders are usually loaned to customers who purchase seed and fertilizer. 9. Rake again, very lightly by holding the rake upright. This light raking creates the final contours. Pick up medium-sized rocks that surface. 10. If desired, you can spread another light application of fertilizer on the surface of the soil. 40 pounds per five thousand square feet of seed bed. 11. Now spread seed using a lawn seed-fertilizer spreader. Divide seed in halves. Spread one half in one direction and the remaining half the opposite way. Cover seeds lightly with no more than one-sixteenth inch of peat moss. 12. If sodding, roll out over the remaining area, staggering the end seams as in brick laying. Butt the seams tightly but do not overlap. Run a roller, half full of water over the sod after laying. 13. In the seeded lawn roll over the peat covered seed with roller half full also. 14. Set out stakes and string around lawn perimeters to keep people and animals from trampling the area. 15. Keep the entire area constantly moist until seeds germinate. Be sure it never dries out. Apply water slowly and softly so it does not erode the seed bed. Sodded lawns should be well watered daily for the first two weeks. 16. Sod generally needs mowing about ten days after installation with mower set about two inches from ground level. 17. After mowing a seeded lawn a couple of times it may need another fertilizer application using a fertilizer formulated for new lawns, applied according to the rate stated on the bag. 18. Don't be alarmed if there are also weeds germinating in the lawn. They are mostly annual weeds and die out after the first few mowings. Do not use weed killer on a new lawn until it has been mowed at least five times.

Say Cheese!

No matter how it's sliced, cheese makes a delicious snack, dessert or meal enhancer.

It can be incorporated into meals as creamy sauces fillings and toppings. For example, Breast of Chicken Cordon Bleu is made with Swiss cheese for a creamy filling.

When cooking with cheese let your imagination go wild and if you're looking for ideas, try these from the Wisconsin Cheese Festival:

Breast of Chicken Cordon Bleu

- (Yield: 4 servings)
 2 whole chicken breasts (about 1 pound each)
 Salt
 White pepper
 1/2 cup milk
 1 egg, slightly beaten
 2 slices (1 1/2 ounces each) ham
 2 thick slices (2 1/2 ounces each) medium aged Swiss cheese
 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
 2 cups finely ground dried bread crumbs
 1/2 cup butter
 While chicken is ice cold, remove all bones from each whole breast. Do not sever skin at any point. (You may wish to have your butcher do this for you.) Sprinkle both sides of chicken lightly with salt and pepper.
 Combine milk and egg to make an egg wash. Brush each side of breasts completely with egg wash. Lay each whole breast, skin side down, on waxed paper. Lay one slice each of ham and cheese on half of each breast. Brush ham and cheese liberally with egg wash and fold the halves together, wrapping skin around all white meat.

Place flour, remaining egg wash and bread crumbs in three separate shallow dishes. Dip raw breasts in each one. To assure heavy and uniform coating, be sure crumbs are solidly packed. Wrap the coated breasts in foil and refrigerate for 6 hours overnight to "firm up".

Remove from refrigerator and brown in butter. Place browned breasts in baking pan. Pour remaining butter over breasts. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 35 to 40 minutes or until tender.

Seafood En Coquille

- (Yield: 4 servings)
 2 pounds shrimp or scallops
 Salted water
 2 tablespoons butter
 1 onion, thinly sliced
 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
 1 teaspoon minced parsley
 Salt and pepper to taste
 1 egg yolk
 1 teaspoon lemon juice
 1 cup (1/4 pound) shredded cheddar cheese
 Simmer seafood in salted water 5 to 6 minutes. Drain, set aside seafood and reserve 1 cup stock. Melt butter in top of double boiler, add onion and cook for about 3 minutes. Stir in flour and, when well blended, add seafood stock and cook until sauce thickens, stirring constantly. Add parsley, salt and pepper. Beat egg yolk; pour a little of the hot sauce over it, mixing well.

Return to double boiler and cook for 2 minutes. Stir in cooked seafood and lemon juice.

Divide into 4 casserole or coquille dishes. Sprinkle shredded cheese on top and bake in the oven about 15 minutes or until cheese melts. Serve immediately.

Baked Eggplant With Cheese

- (Yield: 8 servings)
 6 or 7 small eggplants, sliced in 2-inch rounds
 1 egg, beaten
 1 cup bread crumbs
 2 tablespoons olive oil
 Salt and pepper to taste
 1 tablespoon dried parsley
 1 can (5 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained
 1 can (15 ounces) tomato sauce with bits
 6 thin slices tomato
 8 slices (1 ounce each) scamorze or mozzarella cheese
 1 teaspoon grated onion
 Dip eggplant slices in egg and then in breadcrumbs. Heat olive oil in skillet; brown eggplant lightly on both sides. Arrange in buttered baking dish. Season to taste and sprinkle with parsley and sliced mushrooms.

Pour tomato sauce over casserole. Top with tomato slices and then cheese slices. Sprinkle grated onion over cheese. Bake in preheated 375-degree oven for 30 minutes or until cheese slices are melted. Serve with Italian bread and a lettuce salad for a meatless main dish.

Cheddar Apple Pie

- (Yield: 6 servings)
 1 package pie crust mix
 1 cup (4 ounces) cheddar, shredded
 3 pounds cooking apples, sliced
 2 tablespoons flour
 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
 Topping:
 1/2 cup granulated sugar
 1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 3 tablespoons butter
 1 cup (4 ounces) cheddar, shredded
 Prepare one pie crust (1/2 package) according to package directions. Work 1 cup cheddar into crust. Roll dough and line pie plate. Place apples in pastry lined plate, sprinkling flour and nutmeg evenly throughout.
 To prepare topping, combine remaining package of pie crust mix, sugar and cinnamon. Cut in, thoroughly, 3 tablespoons butter.
 Cover apples with half of topping. Sprinkle with 1 cup cheddar and top with remaining topping. Bake in preheated 375-degree oven for about 40 minutes or until apples are tender.

cooking and high temperatures can ruin the consistency of the cheese. One suggestion is for cooking the cheese in a double boiler. This keeps it away from direct heat.

Older cheese will have a stronger flavor, therefore, it is perfect for souffles which need to be light and airy.

Wine and cheese served together create an instant party.

"It can be so simple, just buy setting out several different bottles of wine and cheese," she said. "Let the guests cut their own cheeses and experiment."

A sample of wines may include Beaujolais, Cabernets, Zinfandels for the reds or a nice Chardonnay for the white.

"However, there are no set rules, she added. "The important thing is that a person should enjoy it. Any wine can go with the various cheeses."

As for the nutritional side of cheese, producers report there are 7.1 grams of protein in an ounce of cheese.

"Gruyere, for example, has as much protein in one-quarter pound as that found in a T-bone steak," Mrs. Davis said.

Proper care and treatment of cheese will help avoid waste and ensure freshness. The food product should be wrapped tightly in plastic wrap and stored in a cool place in the refrigerator. Mrs. Davis also holds casual classes in her home, where she instructs neophyte connoisseurs in the world-wide varieties, culinary uses and delicious samplings of cheeses. The next three-session class begins Sept. 26; sign-ups for the class can be made at the shop.

Cheddar Apple Pie

*Tomatoes-
The love apples*

Tomatoes were first called "love apples." By cultivation and use they are a vegetable, but botanically tomatoes are a fruit.

Tomatoes are low in calories, and contain vitamin C and vitamin A. One medium-sized tomato, raw, provides almost half of the vitamin C for the day, plus about one-third of the vitamin A.

Vine-ripened tomatoes have better flavor than those picked green, but you may not always find them on the market because they bruise easily in shipment. Look for tomatoes that are firm but not overripe, fairly well formed, plump, smooth, have a good red color, and free from blemishes.

Sort and use the ripest tomatoes first. Store fully ripe tomatoes in the refrigerator. Putting underripe tomatoes in the refrigerator stops ripening and makes tomatoes watery. Spread underripe tomatoes in a dry place light or dark, at a temperature of from 55 to 70 degrees. A sunny window sill causes uneven ripening and soft tomatoes.

When canning or freezing it's a good idea to peel the tomatoes for better looking products when using later. To peel tomatoes dip the tomato in boiling water for one minute, then cool at once in cold water. Canning tomatoes can be done safely in a water bath canner if acid is added to insure against botulism poisoning. Add one-half teaspoon of citric acid to quarts and one-fourth teaspoon to pints of tomatoes. Or use two tablespoons of lemon juice and one teaspoon of salt to quarts, one tablespoon of lemon juice and one-half teaspoon of salt to pints.

The USDA does not recommend processing tomatoes in a pressure canner because they lose all consistency. There are also no USDA times for processing.

When drying tomatoes, slice lengthwise and dry in an oven or dehydrator at 140 to 160 degrees until crisp. These make great chips for dips or can be crumbled and used in soups and stews.

Triple Delight Pie

TRIPLE LAYER PIE
1 package (four-serving size) chocolate flavor instant pudding and pie filling

1-3/4 cups cold milk
1 baked 9-inch pie shell, cooled
1 package (four-serving size) vanilla or coconut cream flavor instant pudding and pie filling
1-3/4 cups cold milk
1 tablespoon chocolate syrup or cocoa
1 cup prepared whipped topping

Prepare chocolate pie filling mix as directed on package for pie, reducing the milk to one and three-fourths cups. Pour into pie shell. Prepare vanilla pie filling mix as directed on package for pie, reducing the milk to one and three-fourths cups. Carefully pour over the chocolate layer. Fold syrup into whipped topping; spread over the vanilla layer. Chill three hours.

Cheese helps make temping party dippers

Cheese dips, dunks, spreads and toppings make creative hors d'oeuvres. Select a spicy spread combining cheese with herbs and other seasonings.

Blend leftover cheeses with wine, sour cream or mayonnaise. Try your favorites on plain, toasted or seasoned breads. Dip with radishes, green peppers, cauliflower buds or crisp celery.

Tangy Cheddar Dip
3 cups (12 ounces) shredded sharp cheddar cheese

1/2 cup (2 ounces) crumbled blue cheese
1/4 cup beer (measured without foam)
1 tablespoon butter, softened
1/4 teaspoons grated

onion
1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 drops Tabasco sauce

Blend cheeses together, adding beer gradually stir constantly until smooth. Blend in remaining ingredients. Cover and chill thoroughly before serving.

Hot Crab Dip
1 quart casserole
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
1 1/2 cups canned crabmeat
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
3 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1/2 teaspoon cream horseradish

1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Combine cream cheese and milk in blender. Add remaining ingredients and blend until pecans are chopped. Chill well; serve with whole-wheat toast.

Swiss Cheese Spread
2 cups (1/2 pound) shredded Swiss cheese
3 tablespoons sour cream
2 tablespoons minced onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
4 slices crisply fried bacon, crumbled
Combine all ingredients and beat until smooth and of a spreading consistency. Chill and serve.

Anyone can fondue tonight

Fondues are flexible and fun; versatile enough to serve as an appetizer, elegant enough for a party main dish.

Cheese fondue, known as the national dish of Switzerland, is a simple mixture served directly from a communal pot. Each diner, using a long fondue fork, spears a crusty cube of bread and dips deeply into the bubbling mix.

A True Swiss Fondue
Heavy saucepan and 2 quart fondue
Clove of garlic
2 cups dry white wine
3 tablespoons cornstarch

3 tablespoons Kirschwasser (cherry brandy)
4 cups (1 pound) shredded aged Swiss cheese
Nutmeg, white pepper or paprika
Loaf French or Italian bread, cut in chunks with crust on each

Rub a heavy saucepan with garlic. Heat wine in pan, uncovered. In separate dish, dissolve cornstarch in Kirschwasser; set aside.

When foamy bubbles cover surface of heated wine, add cheese gradually, stirring constantly. Heat slowly not allowing fondue to boil. Cook and stir just until you feel a slight resistance to the spoon, then add Kirschwasser-cornstarch mixture. Stir until fondue thickens. Add seasonings to taste.

Transfer to fondue pot; serve immediately with bread and fondue forks.

Italian Fondue (Yield: 6 servings)

Fondue pot
1/2 pound ground beef
1 can (15 ounces) tomato paste
1 tablespoon cornstarch
4 cups (1 pound) shredded natural mozzarella or scamorza cheese

1 small container (8 ounces) creamed cottage cheese
1/2 cup dry white wine
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
1 loaf French or Italian bread cut in chunks with crust on each

In a small skillet brown ground beef. Stir in tomato paste and cornstarch; heat until warmed. Transfer to fondue pot; place over low heat.

Stir in cheeses, a little at a time, until they begin to melt. Stir in wine and continue to stir until cheese is fully melted and wine is blended into mixture.

Stir in seasonings. Keep over low heat. Dip bread chunks into mixture using a fondue fork.

Seafood Fondue (Yield: 4 servings)

Fondue pot
1 can (13 ounces) lobster, crab or shrimp bisque

2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon chopped fresh dill, or 1/2 teaspoon dill seed

2 cups (1/2 pound) shredded aged Swiss cheese
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard

1/4 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
1 loaf French or Italian bread cut in chunks with crust on each cooked, cleaned shrimp

Heat bisque with butter and dill in fondue pot over medium heat. When thoroughly heated, but not boiling, stir in cheese a handful at a time, stirring after each addition until cheese is melted. Stir in seasonings.

Serve over low heat. Dunk chunks of bread and shrimp in hot fondue. If mixture thickens during serving, stir in a little milk.

Combine pate with cheeses. Beat until smooth, moistening with brandy. Serve slightly chilled.

Pecan-Bacon Cheese Spread

1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
3 tablespoons milk
4 slices crisply fried bacon, crumbled
2 tablespoons pecan nuts

1 teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon onion salt
Combine cream cheese and milk in blender. Add remaining ingredients and blend until pecans are chopped. Chill well; serve with whole-wheat toast.

Blue-Butter Spread
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter, softened
1/4 cup (1 ounce) crumbled blue cheese
1/2 cup (4 ounces) cream cheese, softened

4 tablespoons brandy
Combine pate with cheeses. Beat until smooth, moistening with brandy. Serve slightly chilled.

Basic Cottage Cheese Dip

1 1/2 cups creamed cottage cheese (large curd)
1/2 teaspoon onion powder

Thoroughly blend the cottage cheese and seasonings. Regulate thickness by adding cream or evaporated milk, a little at a time.

Variations: Devised Ham Dip:
Add one 4 1/2-ounce can deviled ham, 2 teaspoons drained pickled relish and 1 teaspoon drained horseradish.

Party Dip: Blend in one 5-ounce jar of process cheese spread, such as cheddar, smokey or blue cheese.

Allow cheese to soften at room temperature for one hour. Combine remaining ingredients with softened cheese. Stir until well blended. Chill. Serve with assorted crackers.

Garlic Cheese Log
2 cups (1/2 pound) shredded cheddar cheese
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
1 small clove garlic, minced
1/2 teaspoon salt
Poppy seed

Combine cheeses until smooth, using a mixer or blender. Add garlic and salt; mix thoroughly. Divide into two parts; shape and roll in enough poppy seed to coat. Chill and serve.

Cheese Wafers
1/2 cup butter, softened
4 cups (1 pound) shredded cheddar cheese
1/4 teaspoon paprika
2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups chopped nuts

Cream butter and cheese, add paprika. Sift flour and salt into mixture. Combine well; stir in nuts. Shape dough into rolls about 1 1/4 inches in diameter and chill.

When dough is thoroughly chilled, slice rolls into pieces about 1/4-inch thick. Arrange on a greased baking sheet and bake in preheated 350-degree oven until lightly browned.

Easy brunch ideas

Sunday brunch after weekly tennis doubles. Stuffing mix makes flavorful base for bacon and eggs.

A Sausage and Apple Casserole can also be a winning combination for brunch idea.

Eggs Brendan

1 package (6 ounces) chicken flavor stuffing mix
1 1/2 cups hot water
1/4 cup butter or margarine, cut into pieces

12 slices Canadian bacon
6 eggs
1 cup Hollandaise or cheese sauce

In shallow 2-quart baking dish combine the stuffing mix's vegetable-seasoning packet with hot water and butter. Stir just to blend and partially melt butter. Stir in stuffing crumbs.

Spread mixture evenly in greased baking dish and mark 6 equal squares.

Top each square with 2 slices of Canadian bacon. Make ke a depression in centers of bacon slices and drop an egg in each. Bake in preheated 425-degree oven for 10 minutes, or until eggs are set. Serve with Hollandaise sauce or your favorite cheese sauce.

Sausage and Apple Casserole (Yield: 4 servings)

1 package (7 ounces) cornbread stuffing mix
1/2 pound link sausage (6 or 7 links)
1 medium apple
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon ground

cinnamon

Prepare stuffing mix as directed on package. Meanwhile, brown sausages in skillet and drain on absorbent paper. Cut 3 of the links in half lengthwise; coarsely chop the remainder. Peel and core apple. Then cut half the apple into wedges and chop the other half.

Add chopped sausage and chopped apple to stuffing and spoon into lightly greased 1-quart casserole. Arrange apple wedges and sausage halves in spoke-fashion on top.

Combine melted butter, brown sugar, and cinnamon; pour over apples and sausages. Bake in preheated 375-degree oven for 30 minutes.

Brandied dessert ends meal on elegant note

Creamy and appealing brandied desserts end a meal on a note of sheer elegance. Enhanced with the fragrant bouquet of California brandy, these sweet creations proudly decorate any dessert table.

Mini-Cheesecakes are a new version of a traditional favorite, laced with brandy and each separate cheesecake topped with a dollop of whipped cream and a strawberry. The use of a pastry mix for the individual tarts makes Mini-Cheesecakes a breeze to prepare and a fashionable treat served in their individual pastry shells.

One brandied parfait that lives up to the literal translation of the word, which means "perfect," is Brandy Cream and Crunch. It combines a candied walnut crunch mixture with lightly layered mounds of a brandy cream blend. The creamy custard has a gelatin base with egg whites and freshly whipped cream carefully folded into the fragrant mixture. The layer of nut crunch features chopped walnuts that have been sweetened with a light syrup mixture and baked to a brittle, candy-coated crispness.

Another sweetly whipped dessert is Brandied Peach Freeze. Thin chocolate mint candies and cookies are a perfect accompaniment to this delicate creation which is light enough to grace the most extended meal.

The Brandied Peach Freeze features a rich texture of vanilla ice cream blended with the sweetness of peaches, tart lemon juice, a spicy hint of ginger and the gentle spirit of California brandy. It can be served as a frozen dessert or as a dessert drink. Either way, it is simple to serve and a superbly elegant dessert to place before guests in gleaming stemmed goblets.

Brandied Peach Freeze

4 ounces (1/2 cup) brandy
1 pkg (12 ozs) frozen sliced peaches in syrup
2 tbsps lemon juice
1/2 tsp ground ginger
1/4 tsp salt
1 pint vanilla ice cream

Combine brandy, peaches lemon juice, ginger and salt in blender jar. Blend smooth. Add ice cream and blend until mixed. Turn into small pan and place in freezer an hour or longer to firm up. Spoon into chilled serving dishes or glasses. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Note: To serve as a sipping beverage, pour mixture into chilled glasses immediately after blending.

Brandy Cream and Crunch

Nut Crunch
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup brandy
4 cup sugar
1/4 tsp salt
2 eggs, separated

1 cup whipping cream

Make and set aside Nut Crunch. Soften gelatin in milk in small saucepan. Set over very low heat and stir until gelatin dissolves. Add brandy, sugar and salt. Heat just to boiling. Beat egg yolks lightly. Quickly stir hot mixture into yolks, the return to low heat. Cook, stirring constantly, one minute. Do not allow to boil. Cool until mixture begins to thicken. Beat egg whites to soft peaks. With same beater, beat cream to soft peaks. Fold egg whites into cream. Gently fold in cooled custard. Spoon into serving dishes, making alternate layers of brandy cream and Nut Crunch. Chill until serving time. Makes 6 servings.

Nut Crunch: Combine 1/2 cup sugar, 1/3 cup butter, 2 tablespoons light corn syrup and 1 tablespoon water in small heavy saucepan. Cook over moderate heat, stirring until sugar dissolves, to brittle stage (290 degrees F. on candy thermometer,) or until a few drops of mixture dropped into cold water form a brittle ball. Stir in 1/2 teaspoon soda and 1/3 cup, chopped walnuts. Quickly turn out onto lightly greased baking sheet spreading lightly to a 10 x 5-inch rectangle. When cold, crush to coarse crumbs. Store in airtight container if not used at once. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

Fresh corn—don't keep it eat it, it spoils quickly

"Don't keep it — eat it" is the best motto for fresh sweet corn.

Twenty minutes after picking, corn begins to deteriorate and the sugar turns to starch. Refrigerate or process as soon as possible.

High in carbohydrates and fiber, with some vitamin A and C, corn also contains various other minerals. One small ear equals 70 calories. Corn kernels should be firm, plump, juicy-looking and large enough to leave no space between rows. Medium kernels are preferred. Stems should not be discolored or dried out. Avoid soft, tired looking ears with spots, signs of decay or worm damage. Tiny kernels mean immature ears. Large mean overmature and tough. Husk fresh corn just before using. Leave on the cob or remove with a sharp knife. To prepare corn-on-the-cob, place in boiling water to which sugar (one tablespoon sugar per quart of water) has been added. Salt will toughen the corn while sugar will help to preserve the sweet taste. When boiling resumes, cover and cook from three to five minutes. Do not over cook. Drain and serve. To grill corn, pull back the outer husk, remove the silk, brush with butter or a mayonnaise herb sauce, smooth the husk back into place and tie with a string. Grill for 10 to 15 minutes. Can corn only by pressure processing. Be sure to leave 1 to 1½-inch headspace when packing. Pack only in pints as corn in quarts is too dense for the heat to penetrate.

Home canned corn also needs to be boiled in a saucepan 20 minutes, with the lid off before eating. This is added insurance against botulism poisoning. Husk, remove silk and trim ears when freezing corn. Blanch in boiling water; cut corn four minutes; on the cob eight to ten minutes. Cool quickly. If corn is not properly blanched, it may develop cobby or off flavors and change to poor color.

Trailer camping across the country in national parks or tenting at the old camp ground in the wilds for two weeks places a big job in the hands of the trail cook. What to cook for supper when everyone's as hungry as a bear? Fix a surprisingly easy campsite dish that will please even the tenderfoots!

(Yields: 6 cups)
1 pound ground beef
1 medium onion, chopped
1 can (10-¾ ounces) tomato soup

pepper
1 can (10-¾ ounces) tomato soup
1-½ cups whole kernel corn
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon oregano leaves, crushed
Generous dash pepper
In skillet, brown beef and cook onion until tender (use shortening if necessary). Stir to separate meat; pour off fat. Add remaining ingredients. Heat, stir occasionally.

HIGH SIERRA SKILLET
(Yield: 4 cups)
1 pound ground beef
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green

SARON Yield: 7 cups)
½ pound bacon (about 10 slices)
1 cup chopped green pepper
1 cup sliced onion
2 cans (28 ounces each) pork and beans with tomato sauce
3 cups cooked elbow macaroni
In saucepan, cook bacon until crisp; remove and crumble. Pour off all but one-fourth cup drippings. Cook green pepper and onion in drippings until tender. Add beans and macaroni. Heat; stir occasionally. Stir in bacon.

Easy campsite meals

Have a trail lunch

Come rain or shine, cycling's back in fashion, and a fun bike hike wouldn't be complete without a few relaxing moments beside the trail with a hearty lunch.

Cycler's Cup
(Yield: 2 to 3 servings)
1 can onion soup
1 soup can water
Chopped parsley, optional
In saucepan, combine soup and water. Heat; stir now and then. Garnish with parsley, if desired. Tote to in vacuum bottle.

Zippy Snax
Take two gingersnaps; spread with cream cheese. Put together in a sandwich. Easy as easy — but they do snap up a tote-meal.

Banquet-In-A-Basket
Make your own sandwich by carrying along Swiss or Gruyere cheese, salami, and loaves of sour dough or French bread. Wrap these tightly to retain freshness. For an added treat, take along fresh fruit.

Brownies
A dish of ice cream...a plate of rich, moist brownies...who could ask for anything more?

CHOCOLATE CHEESECAKE BROWNIES
(Yields: 16 squares)
Cheesecake Batter:
2 tablespoons butter
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¾ cup cottage cheese, sieved
1 egg
½ teaspoon lemon juice
Chocolate Batter:
3 ounces unsweetened chocolate
¼ cup (one-half stick) butter
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
½ cup unsifted flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon almond extract

To prepare cheesecake batter: Cream butter and sugar together; beat in vanilla. Add cornstarch, cottage cheese, egg and lemon juice; beat well. Set aside.

To prepare chocolate batter: Melt chocolate and butter over hot water; let cool. Beat eggs until thick. Gradually beat in sugar. Stir in chocolate mixture, flour, baking powder and salt. Add nuts, vanilla and almond extract; mix well.

Spread half of chocolate batter in buttered 9-inch square baking pan. Pour cheesecake batter over top. Distribute remaining chocolate batter on top of cheesecake batter (do not attempt to cover cheesecake batter completely). With spoon, swirl two mixtures together. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven for 35 to 40 minutes. Cut into 16 squares while still warm.

Cooking meats the micro way

Cooking meat in the microwave oven can be quick and easy, but there are a few tricks to remember for sure-fire delicious

Meat and other protein foods get tough when cooked too quickly. However, the more tender cuts of meat, such as rib and T-bone steaks or rib roasts, can still be prepared quite successfully with fast microwave cooking. Brown steaks in skillet, broiler or on a grill before microwave cooking, or in a browning dish during the cooking time in the microwave oven.

Glazes, such as honey-soy glaze or a barbecue sauce, will also add a brown color. Or, start the meat in the microwave and finish it in a conventional oven.

The less tender cuts of meat need long, slow simmering in the microwave oven. Use a lower power setting or turn off the oven at intervals and let the meat stand.

When cooking the less tender meats on low power, the cooktime will be similar to conventional methods. Adding sauces or other liquids to meat also helps it cook more slowly without drying out.

Also rotate meat a quarter of a turn two to three times during cooking so the roast will cook more evenly.

Meat will continue to cook in the microwave after it is turned off, so remember to turn off the oven before the meat is completely done. Turn it off about ten minutes early for chicken and meat loaf, one to three minutes for bacon and about 15 minutes for large roasts, turkeys or hams.

Pre-cooked meats such as weiners and sausages cook easily in the microwave because they only need heating. Bacon is quick to fix in the microwave, particularly if you cover it with a paper towel while it's cooking. Then there is no grease to clean out of the oven later.

Sparkling waters inspire elegant drinks

Whether you're celebrating a holiday or a cozy evening for two, sparkling waters combined with fresh fruit and juices can create refreshing and tantalizing aperitifs.

Triple Orange Delight
2 tablespoons frozen orange concentrate
1 tablespoon orange marmalade
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
¼ teaspoon orange flower water
6½ ounces bottle sparkling water
Slice of fresh orange for garnish

Combine ingredients, except sparkling water and garnish. Blend to a fine puree. Chill thoroughly, put into an attractive stemmed glass and stir in the icy cold water. Add garnish.

Spanish Fizz
4 tablespoons canned tomato puree
1 scallion bulb with a little of the green left on ¼ medium stalk celery, roughly chopped

1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon celery seed
6½-ounce bottle sparkling mineral water stick, leafy stalk of celery heart, trimmed scallion for garnish.

Combine ingredients, except sparkling water and garnish, in a blender. Blend to a fine puree. Chill thoroughly, put into a decorative glass, stir in chilled sparkling water and add garnish.

Almond Joy
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
3 generous tablespoons plain yogurt
1 tablespoon honey
¼ teaspoon almond extract
3 ounces pear nectar
6½-ounce bottle sparkling water
Slice of fresh pear for garnish

Combine all ingredients except sparkling water and garnish in a blender. Blend to a fine puree. Chill completely, put into attractive glass. Stir in chilled sparkling water and decorate with garnish.

Colonial Punch
2 ounces Concord grape juice
2 ounces cranberry juice cocktail
4 ounces sparkling mineral water
Combine and serve with a lemon twist over sparkling water ice cubes.

Pineapple Cooler
2 tablespoons canned coconut cream
½ cup fresh pineapple cubes
4 ounces unsweetened pineapple juice
1 teaspoon lemon juice
6½-ounce bottle ice cold sparkling water
Whirl first four ingredients in a blender. Divide between two chilled glasses and top each with half a 6½ bottle of sparkling water. Stir and serve. Garnish, with a fresh pineapple stick or two.

Yankee Clipper (Yield: 4 servings)
2 cups apple juice
2 cinnamon sticks
4 cloves
2 slices seeded lemon cut into halves
2 to 4 tablespoons pure maple syrup (according to taste)

Chilled sparkling water
Pierce each of the four lemon segments with a whole clove. Break cinnamon sticks in half. Simmer together all but the water for 5 to 10 minutes. Chill completely. Pour equal amounts into four glasses, each with a cinnamon stick and lemon segment. Stir in 4 ounces of ice cold sparkling water into each glass.

Arabian Nights
½ cup quick frozen raspberries
½ cup quick frozen sliced peaches

2 teaspoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons red currant syrup

6½-ounce chilled sparkling water
Combine 2 ounces grapes and all the other ingredients. Pour into a glass and stir in remaining blender until a soft water. Garnish with a few whole frozen raspberries.

Freeze seedless grapes and chill the grape juice. Then combine the two thoroughly in a blender until a soft sherbet-like texture is reached.
Pour this puree into a chilled over-sized wine glass and stir in the chilled sparkling water. Garnish with some of the grapes.

All Supermarkets are not the same...

No matter how we cut it Lucky Meat Prices are Lower!

Independent price survey proves that Lucky's price on almost every cut of meat is lower!

Other stores may talk low price, but an independent price survey of meat prices in the Seattle-Tacoma area proves that Lucky gives you lower prices...on almost every cut of beef, pork, lamb, fish and poultry! How much lower? As much as 90¢ per pound on some cuts!

How does Lucky do it? By maintaining a lower profit margin and spending less on advertising than other stores...then passing the savings on to you in the form of lower prices. And Lucky's low discount prices are in effect every day of the week...not just some days.

Comparing meat prices at the 3 major super-market chains, a weekly independent price survey proves that day after day, week after week, Lucky's meat prices are lower. Compared to Chain A, Lucky's meat prices were lower on 74 of the 89 items found in both stores. Compared to Chain B, Lucky's meat prices were lower on 80 of the 91 meat items found in both stores.

When it comes to giving you more meat for your dollar - LUCKY HAS IT!

Oven adds color to microwave meals

Are you hesitant about trying some of your family's favorite recipes in the microwave because they turn out pale? To ease the transition here are two recipes using the microwave for fast cooking and the broiler for browning.

Lemon Meringue Pie, so popular in the summertime, is made when the pie crust and lemon filling are prepared in the microwave. Spoon the meringue onto warm filling and pop the pie under the broiler to turn its soft white peaks to golden brown.

If you're ready for a change of pace try Fresh Mushroom Frittata, an unfolded omelet that's perfect as an appetizer, hot or cold. The final cooking step calls for a quick stop under the broiler before serving.

Lemon Meringue Pie (Yield: 6 to 8 servings)
1 9-inch deep dish pie shell
1½ cups water
1½ cups sugar
¾ cup cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup lemon juice
5 eggs, separated
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Prepare pastry shell in 9-inch glass pie plate. Prick to prevent bubbling. Cook 4 minutes on full power. Set aside.
In glass measuring cup heat water 3 minutes on full power. In medium glass bowl, combine 1½ cups sugar, cornstarch and salt. Gradually stir in hot water and lemon juice until smooth.

In glass custard cup, melt butter 45 seconds on full power. Stir into lemon mixture. Beat egg yolks and stir gradually into hot lemon mixture. Cook, uncovered, 4½ minutes on full power, stirring at 1 minute intervals until thick and smooth. Pour hot filling into prepared pie shell.

In large glass bowl, beat egg whites and cream of tartar until foamy. Add remaining 1 2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, beating constantly until sugar is dissolved and whites are glossy and stand in soft peaks. Beat in vanilla.

Spread meringue over filling, starting with small amounts at edges and sealing to crust all around. Place under broiler 2 minutes or until peaks are lightly browned. Cool at room temperature.

Fresh Mushroom Frittata (Yield: 4 servings)
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup sliced mushrooms
2 green onions, chopped
4 eggs
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
¼ teaspoon tarragon
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
2 to 3 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

In 9-inch glass pie plate, melt butter 45 seconds on full power. Add mushrooms and green onion and cook, uncovered, 1½ to 2 minutes on full power. In medium bowl, beat eggs together with salt, pepper, tarragon and parsley. Pour egg mixture into pie plate and cook, uncovered, 6 minutes on simmer-defrost.

At 2 minute intervals, stir mixture, moving cooked portion away from sides and towards at the center, stirring twice during cooking time. Remove from microwave; top will be moist. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Place under broiler 2 minutes or until top is browned. Serve hot.

Note: A simmer-defrost setting is equal to 50 percent power. Cooking times given are based on the use of a 650 watt oven. For use in ovens of different wattages, consult your cookbook.

There are some sensational desserts that are so simple to make as to be deceptive, and the proof is in this Strawberry Pastel Pie, a dessert for any occasion.

Keeping a supply of versatile ingredients on hand pays off for the homemaker who can reach for this-and-that, put them together and create something lovely.

This cool and creamy pie is a combination of gelatin and ice cream spooned into a pastry or crumb crust pie shell, chilled and garnished with non-dairy whipped topping. It's practically a one-two-three method and is ready to serve in about two hours. The basic formula can be repeated again and again, using different flavors of gelatin and ice cream.

Mexican turkey salad treats a noble bird royally

A noble bird is the turkey, if you automatically think mashed potatoes, dressing and big family dinner when someone mentions our friend, you need a bright suggestion — such as Mexican Turkey Salad.

The red Tomato Dressing that accompanies the salad is zesty and hearty and the color combination, red and green, is reminiscent of the Mexican flag itself. And, as if this weren't a nearly perfect combination, you add buttery crescents of avocado and the full flavor and snap of sunny corn chips.

Mexican Turkey Salad
(Yield: 6 servings)
1 head lettuce
2 cups cooked turkey strips
1 medium-sized

avocado, cut in crescents
2 cups corn chips or miniature tacos
½ pitted ripe olives
Tomato Dressing
Shortly before serving, remove a few outer leaves of the lettuce and line chilled salad platter or bowl.

Coarsely shred remaining lettuce to make about 1½ quarts and turn onto platter or bowl. Arrange turkey strips, avocado, corn chips and ripe olives on lettuce. Serve with Tomato Dressing.

Tomato Dressing:
Combine 1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce with tomato bits, ¼ cup each wine vinegar and salad oil, ¼ cup ½ teaspoon pepper and 3 drops liquid red pepper seasoning in a jar. Cover and shake thoroughly to blend.

Shake again just before using. Yield: 1¼ cups dressing.

tablespoons chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon each salt, chili powder and brown sugar, ¼ teaspoon finely minced garlic,

Foolproof meals

No reason to stick to tradition when you serve this delicious Chicken Rice Salad. It's tender, fluffy rice combined with chicken and fruit for lots of good tastes and textures, and a substantial seasonal entree. Made with pre-cooked rice, the method is quick, easy and virtually foolproof; it can be prepared early in the day and chilled until ready to eat. Serve with Orange Crunch Muffins for a tasty accompaniment.

CHICKEN RICE SALAD
(Yield: 4 to 6 servings)

1-½ cup water
2 teaspoons salt
Dash of pepper
1-½ cups pre-cooked rice
1 cup mayonnaise
1-½ cups diced red apples
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 cups diced cooked chicken

1 cup diced celery
1 cup seedless green grapes
Bring water, salt and pepper to a boil in saucepan. Stir in rice. Cover; remove from heat and let stand five minutes.
Blend in mayonnaise. Mix apples with lemon juice. Stir into rice mixture with remaining ingredients.

ORANGE CRUNCH MUFFINS
(Yield: 12 medium muffins)
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
¼ teaspoon (about) water
One and one-third cups unsifted all-purpose flour
3 tablespoons sugar
3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons butter

or other shortening, milk; add to flour mixture with shortening. Mix only enough to moisten flour. Fold in cereal. Fill greased muffin pans about two-thirds full. Sprinkle with sugar mixture. Bake in preheated 400-degree oven for 15 to 20 minutes, or until golden brown.

Autumn signals hearty meals

Autumn signals more hearty meals, and you'll be in step with serving the family Bountiful Pork and Vegetable Medley. It is double delicious since both cubes of pork and pieces of smoked sausage combine with a bevy of fresh vegetables. Corn meal offers the perfect accompaniment, this time as Country Cheese 'N Chive Spoon Bread, a delightful adaption of a traditional American creation.

For still another variation of the popular pork and corn meal theme, prepare Savory Sausage Scrapple, ideal for an autumn breakfast, brunch or supper. A bit of forethought can make this a last-minute meal as the corn meal and sausage mixture can be chilled overnight before cutting into wedges and browning for a quick delicious meal.

Pork Loin Roast
4 to 6 pound pork loin roast
Spiced Crab Apple Sauce and Garnish
Place roast, fat side up, on rack in open roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer so the bulb is centered in the thickest part. Make certain bulb does not rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water; do not cover. Roast in a preheated 325-degree oven until the thermometer registers 170-degrees. Allow 30 to 35 minutes per pound for a center loin roast; 35 to 40 minutes per pound for a half loin; 40 to 45 minutes per pound for a smaller blade or sirloin roast.

Note: Have the meat retailer loosen the chine (back) bone by sawing across the rib bones. When roasting is finished, the back bone can be removed easily by running the carving knife along the edge of the roast before the meat is placed on the platter to be carved.

Spiced Crab Apple Sauce and Garnish (Yield: 2 cups)

2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon ground cardamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 jar (16 ounces) spiced crab apples
1 cup orange juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind, if desired
1/4 cup golden raisins, plumped

Combine cornstarch, sugar, cardamon and salt in saucepan. Drain crab apples; stir syrup into cornstarch mixture. Add orange juice, lemon juice and orange rind (if desired); cook, stirring constantly until 2 to 3 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in raisins. Garnish platter with crab apples and serve sauce with pork.

Double Corn 'N Bacon Dressing
Yield: 2 1/2

1 pan corn bread, cooled and crumbled
6 cups soft 1/2-inch bread cubes
1 can (16 ounces) whole kernel corn, drained
2 teaspoons sage
1 teaspoon crushed thyme leaves
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 bouillon cube
1 1/2 cups boiling water
6 slices bacon, cut in 2-inch pieces
2 cups sliced celery
1 cup sliced green onions
3 eggs, beaten
1/4 cups butter or margarine, melted

Combine corn bread, bread cubes, corn, sage, thyme, salt, and pepper in large bowl; mix well. Dissolve bouillon in boiling water. Cook bacon in large frying pan until crisp; remove to absorbent paper. Cook celery and onion in bacon drippings 2 to 3 minutes. Add vegetables and bouillon to corn bread mixture; toss lightly. Add eggs, butter and bacon; toss lightly to combine. Place in 3-quart casserole, cover tightly and bake in preheated 325-degree oven for 1 hour.

Corn Bread
1 cup enriched corn meal
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 egg
1/4 cup cooking oil
Combine corn meal, flour, baking powder and salt. Stir in milk, egg and oil. Pour into greased 8-inch square baking pan; bake in preheated 425-degree oven 20 to 25 minutes.

Apple-Walnut Harvest Cake

1 1/2 cups firmly packed brown sugar
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs
2 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 cup enriched corn meal
1 tablespoon baking powder
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 cup dairy sour cream
1 1/4 cups firmly packed shredded peeled apple
1/4 cup finely chopped walnuts
Browned Buttered Icing

Beat together brown sugar, Fold in apple and nuts. Spoon into well-greased 9-cup Bundt pan; bake in preheated 350-degree oven about 1 hour or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan. Cool on wire rack.

Browned Buttered Icing
1 tablespoons butter
1 cup powdered sugar
4 to 6 teaspoons milk
Chopped walnuts, if desired
Heat butter in 1 quart saucepan over medium heat until melted and lightly browned, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat; add powdered sugar and milk, mixing until smooth. Drizzle over cooled cake. Sprinkle top with chopped walnuts, if desired.
Bountiful Pork and Vegetable Medley

2 pounds boneless pork shoulder, cut into 1 1/4 to 1 1/2-inch cubes.
1 pound smoked pork link sausage, cut into 2-inch diagonal pieces
1/4 cup flour
2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 large onion, sliced
1 tablespoon paprika
1/2 cup water
4 to 5 medium carrots, cut into 1-inch diagonal slices
1 pound fresh green beans, broken into 2-inch pieces
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce

2 red peppers, cut into 1/4-inch strips
Combine flour, salt, and pepper; dredge pork cubes and reserve excess flour. Brown pork cubes in lard or drippings in Dutch oven; stir in onion and cook slowly 2 minutes. Pour off drippings. Combine reserved flour and paprika; sprinkle over meat and onion and toss lightly to combine. Add water, cover tightly and cook slowly 1 hour. Stir in carrots and green beans and continue cooking, covered 30 minutes. Stir in tomato sauce and red peppers; place sausage on top of meat and vegetables and continue cooking, covered, 15 minutes or until done.

Country Cheese 'N Chive Spoon Bread
3 cups milk
1 cup enriched corn meal
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Swiss cheese
3 eggs, separated
2 tablespoons chopped chives
1 teaspoon baking powder

Dash pepper
Combine milk, corn meal and salt in heavy 3-quart saucepan; bring to a boil over medium-high heat, stirring occasionally. Reduce heat; cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, about 1 minute or until thickened. Remove from heat; add cheese, mixing until well blended. Stir in egg yolks, chives, baking powder and pepper. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form; fold into corn meal mixture. Pour into lightly oiled 1 1/2-quart casserole; bake in preheated 350-degree oven for 1 hour. Serve immediately.

Savory Sausage Scrapple
(Yield: 6 servings)
1 pound fresh pork sausage
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 can (5 1/2 ounces) evaporated milk
1 1/2 cups water
1 cup enriched corn meal
2 to 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
Syrup, if desired
Brown sausage in large frying pan, separating into pieces. Pour off drippings. Sprinkle salt and pepper over meat. Combine milk and water; add to sausage. Heat mixture to boiling; slowly stir in corn meal and cook 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Place corn meal mixture in a greased 8-inch round cake pan; cover and chill until firm (overnight, if desired). Unmold and cut into 6 to 12 wedges. Brown wedges on both sides in lard or drippings. Serve hot with syrup, if desired.
