No questions asked at fair's photo I.D. booth

In five minutes, teen-agers at the Western Washington Fair in Puyallup can purchase fake identification that just may allow them to purchase liquor or beer illegally.

Two photo identification booths, licensed under one of the fair's major novelty contracts, Ace Novelty, sell plastic enclosed identification cards.

The cards are just slightly smaller than a driver's license and include a color photo, "Washington State, the Evergreen One," in large and small green letters and the owner's name, address, sex, birthday, eye color, height and weight. Cards that represent (not officially) Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Canada are available for $5.

In an experiment set up by Robinson Newspapers, it was found that the card was accepted for identification in the purchase of beer at one area 7-11.

It was rejected at Albertson's Food Center, 31020 14th S. and at a Secoma Grocery. Identification at another Federal Way 7-11 was not required.

The fair, according to manager Bob Carlson, checks out each of their 400 exhibitors to ensure a family-oriented atmosphere. However, they do not check each vendor listed by Ace Novelty unless they find a reason to do so.

"We check things out the first day the fair opens and if we see anything we don't like, we ask to have it removed," said Carlson. He mentioned one instance where pornographic tee-shirt stickers were eliminated at one stand. "If it's approaching something off-color, we don't want it in the fair," he said.

ACE NOVELTIES LISTS 45 booths that they license with the city of Puyallup under a maximum $300 fee. Their primary business, with the exception of the fair, is to sell novelty items to operators nationwide.

Ace Novelty lawyer, Ron Meltzer said that the company's main objective is to offer a product that people want to buy. "Photo shops sell this type of I.D. all over," said Meltzer. "It's never been determined that they're illegal."

However, the kids that mill around the stands, awaiting their turn to have their pictures and money taken, evidently think that there's a chance the plastic will work.

One girl who appeared to be in her mid-teens, purchased her card and pocketed it in her billfold. Talking in hushed tones to her boyfriend, she said "this may not work everywhere, but I'll bet we can sneak it past a few (clerks)."

Purchasers can put down any information they want. There are no questions asked.

The booths operate under the direction of Robert S. Hardegger who has been in the novelty business for the past three years. He works the fairs from May to September. He said he expects to make $40,000 this year since switching to the photo I.D. idea. Last year he operated a King-Kong exhibit outside the fairgrounds and made $15,000 during the season.

He admitted being hassled by police in a fair at Eugene, Ore. "They complained because I wasn't asking for I.D.," said Hardegger. He said he lost two fair jobs because of it.

THE POLICE SAY that, though they've received some complaints including a call from the Morton police chief, there is little that they can do about the problem.

"There are a lot of things we don't like," said Puyallup police lieutenant Ed White. "But, if the citizens don't make them illegal, our hands are tied."

He said that the responsibility rests with those who are accepting illegal I.D. Legal identification includes a birth certificate with a notarized seal, a driver's license or a Washington State identification card.

Recognizing that the cards may not be in accordance with the type of image the fair is trying to promote, Carlson said the booth would be up for review. "Whether it's morally right or wrong hasn't come up, but if we get a complaint from a fair goer, we're going to do something about it."

High enrollment marks Highline College start

by Bar Potter

Highline Community College opens its doors tomorrow for the first day of fall quarter classes to what could be a record number of students.

College Vice-President Ed Command said more than 7,000 students had registered by Thursday, and he predicted a first-week registration flurry will push final figures to a record 9,000 students.

"We do a pretty brisk business the first week of school," Command said. "We could have a record on-campus enrollment."

THOSE STUDENTS are finding the registration process easier this year as a result of last spring's move into the new student services building. The spacious building also houses admissions, the bookstore and just about every other student service on campus.

This fall's first full-scale use of the facility has College President Shirley Gordon beaming.

"It's really such an improvement," she said. "It's a dream come true."

Command said many prospective students still make their way to the old registration center before heading to the student services building. He pointed out that the new facility is situated right next to the east visitor's parking lot.

Command also announced four new appointments to the administrative staff:

Dr. Patricia Justice has been named the Associate Dean of Occupational Programs.

Keith Harker is the new head librarian for HCC's impressive facility, which was new last fall.

Michael Grubiak will serve as the Assistant Dean of Student Services.

James Sharpe is the new manager of business and finance.

Gordon was speaking from temporary offices while the administration building is being remodeled. Target date for completion of the renovation is Dec. 31, she said.

Other physical changes on campus, Gordon said, include new seats in the Little Theater and remodeling of the Lecture Hall.

Directional signs for several campus locations were scheduled to have been installed by the opening day of classes, but Gordon said indications point to mid-October for their arrival.

GORDON expressed excitement about several new programs and the enlargement of others.

The American Banking Institute will offer a program this fall, Gordon said, just one of several programs in the business area. This year will feature expansion of the college's small business program, in which faculty members go out into the community to work directly with small businessmen.

A new cooperative education program will seek to secure jobs for students in the community in fields related to their training.

All in all, 1979 looks to be a year for good things at Highline, if the thoughts of Gordon are an indicator.

"Am I ever," Gordon said when asked if she was looking forward to the academic year. "I just have a feeling we're going to have a good year."

Compromise sets farm bond vote

by Darlene Himmelspach

After an emotional and often stormy public hearing and some backroom politicking Friday, the King County Council agreed to place the farmland preservation bond issue on the November general election ballot.

The unanimous vote for the measure came after an amendment was adopted stripping the proposition of the number one it was known as in last week's primary election. The move was insisted upon by Councilman Paul Barden in exchange for his crucial vote for the ballot measure. Barden, a key backer of another ballot measure that would, if passed, allow a takeover of Metro by the county, refused to vote for farmland bond issue if Metro Merger did not go on the ballot as Proposition One.

Farmlands will receive third billing on the November ballot and be known as Proposition Three. James Ellis, chairman of the Save Our Local Farmlands Committee, said the move would cause problems for the farmland supporters because literature and yard signs would have to be changed. He also predicted that Metro Merger, which he opposes, would "gain some support because of the momentum we (Farmlands Committee) have built up."

In a related action, Frank Ruano, a longtime opponent of the bid to spend public funds to purchase the development rights to about 15,000 acres of prime farmland, announced he is suing the county for sending the issue to the ballot again.

Citing a paragraph of the state constitution, Ruano said the council action is illegal because the county may not place a levy or capital improvement bond on the ballot more than twice in one year. The first bond issue for $35 million was on the ballot last November and drew just a fraction less than the necessary 60 percent yes votes needed to pass.

The measure on the Sept. 18 ballot failed because the required 140,000 votes needed to ratify the election fell about 1,000 votes short despite the fact that the bond issue for $50 million garnered more than 77 percent of the votes in favor.

Ellis said "Mr. Ruano is wrong — and it won't be the first time. The law refers to a calendar year. This will be the second time in one calendar year for this Proposition."

The extraordinary meeting of the council Friday was delayed nearly two hours because Barden was out of the office and a seven vote majority was needed for action on the measure because it was being dealt with as an emergency. Two councilmembers are out of town on vacation.

Ruano alleged that the delay constituted "preferential treatment for farmlands." He also told the council "your minds are made up so why have a public hearing?" He said it is "unconstitutional to have three elections (on the same matter) in one year."

A West Seattle man launched into a bold, shouting opinion of the farmland preservation bond. Eugene Dennett said the matter was "Presented in the most fraudulent manner." He said it amounted to "some of the crooked politicians" promoting a "swindle on the people of King County. They are going to put control in the hands of some crooks and I tell you, they are crooks," Dennett shouted. He told the council "I hope you have the guts to stop it."

Another opponent of the measure called it a "ripoff" and a "total farce." Peter Bement charged that taxpayer dollars were spent to "brainwash the voters" into agreeing to purchase the farmland development rights.

After the public hearing was closed, Councilman Gary Grant said Dennett's remarks were "inflammatory, totally inaccurate" and a "low cut. It doesn't cost us anything to put this on the general election ballot because we are going to be voting anyway."

Dennett ran afoul of Council Chairwoman Ruby Chow when he rose out of order and challenged Grant's remarks. Pointing a finger at Grant, Dennett shouted "this man has slandered me and lied and misrepresented my remarks." After repeatedly being told by Chow to sit down, Dennett did.

During a brief recess before the final vote was taken, a compromise was pinned together by Councilman Bob Greive as an effort to placate both Barden and the pro-farmlands faction of the council. Greive was successful in gaining the needed four votes to amend the ballot title to change the numbering of the farmlands proposition from One to Three. Barden maintained he would not vote for the ballot issue without that change.

Earlier speculation that Barden would kill the ballot measure altogether by withholding his necessary vote was eliminated when the councilman announced at the end of the public hearing that he would support it if the number change was effected.

"I don't think this plan is going to work," the Normandy Park resident said. But he said he would support it because "I might be wrong" and because the two councilmembers (Tracy Owen and Bob Dunn) who are away on vacation support the measure and "I don't feel I should use the opportunity" to vote against something they would vote for if they were present.

In proposing his amendment to the ballot measure, Greive predicted that Metro merger "will be defeated overwhelmingly" but told his fellow councilmembers "we won't get anywhere by trying to embarrass each other and seeing both fail. I don't fault Councilman Barden. I think he is being honest." Finally, Greive admonished the council to "take what we can get," and yield to Barden's demand in exchange for his affirmative vote.

Barden apologized to the council for his stand. "I wouldn't care how you number this thing as long as it didn't do violence to something I support. I am sorry it came up."

When the vote on the amended ordinance was called, Barden managed only a silent assent (any council member present at the time of the vote is an automatic yes unless a no vote or abstention is spoken.)

WD 75

Commissioners may have violated Open Meetings Act

Two commissioners of Water District 75 may have violated a Washington State Open Public Meetings Act when they met a Water District 56 Commissioner for lunch sometime in early August.

WD 75 commission chairman Lyle Lyndelad and commissioner Bruce Retynski had lunch with WD 54 commission chairman Fred Thompson at Anthony's Home Port Restaurant prior to August 20.

The meeting between the two district commissioners may have been in violation of the act because they allegedly discussed matters which could affect the operation of WD 75 and thus, its customers.

The Open Meetings Act states that any time the majority of a governing body meets and discusses business within the body's jurisdiction, it is considered to be a meeting. Under the act, the luncheon was a special meeting. As such, the commissioners would have had to notify the news media 24 hours in advance of the meeting to be in compliance with the law.

Robinson Newspapers learned of the luncheon meeting in a letter dated August 20 from WD 56 commissioners to WD 75 commissioners.

The letter was written in reference to water service to Sports World and specifically requested a response to a proposal given to Retynski at the luncheon. The letter read in part "this proposal was discussed with Msrs. Lyndelad and Retynski at a recent meeting and we understood that this matter would be further discussed and a decision rendered by the entire Board at one of your regular meetings, in consultation with the Districts engineer. A written form of this proposal dated June 20, 1979 was presented at this recent meeting."

Both WD 75 commissioners said they had lunch with Thompson, but there was no meeting.

Lyndelad said he attended the luncheon at Thompson's request because Thompson was recently named as the new president of the WD 56 commission. The purpose of the luncheon was to acquaint Thompson with the whole field of water, he said.

Thompson, on the other hand, said the luncheon was meant to acquaint Lyndelad with the water business because he was recently made Commission Chairman.

Thompson had just received the final result of the election held in March as to whether Sports World could de-annex from WD 56 to get water from WD 75, Thompson said. He discussed the election with the Commissioners, he said, and also discussed a proposal presented them regarding water service to Sports World.

Lyndelad said he did not discuss the results of the election and did not discuss the proposal.

"I never saw the proposal. I never read it," he said.

Retynski said he did not remember talking about either the proposal or the election.

"We talked about WD 56, WD 75 and about a lot of things. We talked about 56's problems, the problems out there and what they wanted to do."

He said Retynski said Thompson gave him a proposal as he was leaving.

"I put it in my pocket and forgot about it," he said.

Thompson did show Retynski a court order but he didn't pay much attention to it, he said, because a court order is worthless unless it is served on the district.

"There was no decision, no nothing," Retynski said. "We made it very clear to Fred (Thompson) that we couldn't do anything. We were only there to have a friendly lunch."

"For the record, there was no meeting. We didn't put in for a per diem that day or for a meeting that day. If it had been a meeting, we would have put in for one," Retynski said.

It's time for more questions from readers. If your question is not used, it's probably because you used a white crayon.

Q — Is it true that Carmine Galante, the underworld boss who was recently perforated by rival mobsters in a Brooklyn restaurant, had planned to run for the presidency in 1980?

A — Your information is correct. Galante claimed he was the only legitimate candidate for the job. "We've had the Irish Mafia, the German Mafia and the Georgia Mafia in the White House," he said. "It's now time for the real thing, the Mafia Mafia."

Q — The daughter of a dear friend is getting married and I want to give her a present of money but she won't accept credit cards. What can I do?

A — Forget the little ingrate. She's obviously been in a cave for the past ten years. You may want to patch things up with your dear friend, but don't feel guilty. You have done nothing for which to apologize.

Q — I live in an all-white neighborhood and, until the past few weeks, there was not much concern shown for the boat people. Now everyone is screaming that something should be done about the poor boat people. Why the sudden concern?

A — You are understandably confused by words that sound alike. It is not the boat people of Vietnam your neighbors are concerned about, but non-Indian fishermen, the Boldt people of Ballard. Listen more carefully after this.

Q — What advice did Governor Ray give to President Carter at Camp David?

A — Are you kidding? Carter had barely evacuated the bosky dell when he canned a bunch of his cabinet members with the finesse of a Sherman tank flattening an outhouse. He listens good like a President should.

Q — My daughter is getting married and a dear friend of mine wants her to accept a credit card for a cash present. My daughter refuses and things are getting sticky. What can I do?

A — Tell her where she can stick her credit card. She'll probably come crawling around later to try to patch things up, but behavior such as this can't be excused with an apology.

Q — You wrote five years ago that when Senator Henry Jackson starts waving his arms, calls oil company representatives to hearings, and tells us he will save us from the oil barons, it is a sure sign that gasoline prices will rise. Do you still believe this?

A — Does night follow day? Does death follow birth? Take thee to the gas pumps, faithful reader.

Q — Why do we treat animals in our zoos better than we treat convicts in our prisons?

A — Because the general public visits the zoos.

Q — I'm getting married and my mother and a dear friend of hers are at each other's throats because I won't accept a credit card for a cash present from the friend. They're going to ruin my wedding. What can I do?

A — Accept the credit card and then elope. You owe nothing to two people who think more of their own petty problems than of making your wedding a success. Send 25 cents for my free booklet, "Bad Advice Is Better Than No Advice At All."

Q — All the columnists and commentators claim that John Connally may be elected President because, by God, he LOOKS like a President. Would Connally make a good President?

A — Precedent says he would. The last candidate the pundits all agreed LOOKED like a President, by God, was Warren G. Harding. When he wasn't busy copulating in White House broomclosets, Harding found time to make appointments that went unrivalled for sheer brilliance until Richard Nixon took over the office. There is nothing in Connally's record that suggests he would be less effective.

Q — I understand the Energy Department has put out a film, starring a 90-year-old with emphysema, that shows persons of all ages can learn to ride mopeds to save gasoline. What's the name of the movie?

A — Wheezy Rider.

Q — I am about to be married, and my prospective bride, her mother, and a friend of her mother are involved in a battle that may turn the church into a latter-day Alamo on our wedding day. What can I do?

A — For one thing, you can stop asking dumb questions. This space is too valuable to be used for petty personal matters. Would you be interested in a paid ad?

What do you like or dislike about being at Mirror Lake Elementary School this year?

Cheryl King

Other people from other classes come in to read with us, and I like that. I like the toys too, the monkey bars.

Shelby Spencer

I like recess, because it's fun. I like playing on the monkey bars and the swings, because it's fun. And I like to work in the class, because it's fun.

Dale Brouer

The girls are cuter and nicer this year. And I like art, spelling, reading, math and recesses. But this year the math is a lot harder.

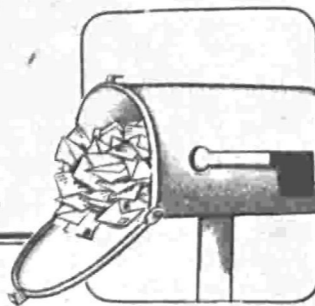

Andrea Harvey

I like drawing, because it's fun to write the pictures. I like reading too because it has so many fun words in it. And I like crossing the bars and meeting new friends.

County Council 'has no heart'

Editor:

As a homeowner in the Federal Way area, specifically the Twin Lakes-Dash Point area, I am beginning to feel like a second-class citizen. I feel rather powerless, having no real say in the matter of zoning or rezoning and land use management, even of land that borders directly on my property. Neither do my neighbors. These issues are decided upon by the members of the Federal Way Community Plan Revision Committee and finally determined by the King County Council members of the planning division.

As a matter of fact, fairly little information on the topic of zoning and land development is available to the homeowner, unless he spends several days researching — boning up on environmental impact statement reports, phoning a number of people, and asking an awful lot of questions. Oh, it's an informative little assignment, and perhaps, becoming just a bit more knowledgeable on the subject is in itself a type of reward for the homeowner's labors. But, that added bit of knowledge is probably the only reward he will receive. It is this homeowner's opinion that he will very unlikely reap any success from changing any Council members' minds by relaying his knowledge and concerns during a public hearing at the courthouse. Why? Because, the land use issues appear to be pretty well wrapped up.

There we sat, from 9:30 a.m. to noon, all nine of us all from the Twin Lakes Vista, in anguishing anticipation, waiting to be heard. But, we weren't heard until 1 p.m. after a break for lunch, and even then, I doubt if we were ever heard. I imagine the members of the King County Council listened, but they didn't hear us, apparently. For after all was said and done, we began to realize that none of our deepest concerns were valid. Concerns like—erosion and drainage problems, traffic congestion problems, safety of our children problems, inadequate community facilities. No, but "precedent" appears to be the deciding factor. Why, if our development is zoned at medium-high density of RS 7200, something we had no choice in determining, then lands adjacent to us are good for about the same, or a little less. It didn't seem to matter that we raised several points that even the findings of the EIS backed us up on. What matters is that the adjacent lands' zonings pretty well determine what the land in question's zoning will become.

I suppose that Washington state's King County has adopted California's Los Angeles County's same narrow-minded attitude that it is more important to fill up the land with houses and more houses, cars and more cars, and smog and more smog, than to consider alternatives like: (1) possible Dash Point Park expansion; (2) traffic congestion correction; (3) inadequate community needs like schools and police protection alleviated; and (4) retaining what is now one of the last natural forest settings in Federal Way, one that just happens to border Dash Point State Park. This purposeful ignoring of a piece of land which not only is beautiful, but one of very few places left for small forms of wildlife and birds, and trees like cedar and wild White Dogwood, is only leading the way for its ultimate destruction, as it too becomes a part of the past.

So, after all the homeowners' concerns are voiced and pleas for down-zoning made, the Council, sitting like a large group of tired eyelids, speaks—somehow like from Oz, "We could talk about this all afternoon, but..." But, we don't have to, right? Because, the whole thing was probably already decided before we got there?

Like the Tin-Man—the Council has no heart.

'Unfair,' says Royer, 'We are on schedule'

Dear Publisher,

Your editorial cartoonist did an superb job in the August 15 edition of your newspapers. I understand the need of the political cartoon to exaggerate. My nose, for example, is an example. However, the notion that we are wandering about in a maze of bridge plans is not a particularly fair one. The consultants are on board, and we are proceeding on schedule to a point at which we will have to make some extraordinarily difficult decisions.

You are absolutely right that time is the enemy of any project. Inflation such as we are experiencing now makes us almost helpless in trying to do something in a big way. The 11% inflation estimates we used were the best estimates at the time we were using them. There was considerable pressure from, among others, your newspapers not to unnecessarily inflate the estimates we were using so that the highlevel bridge could be fairly compared with other designs. We did just that. And, as you know, the Council chose, and I supported, the selection of a high-level alternative. As you know also, my support was tempered with the realities of time in mind.

I want to share with you some statistics that I received from the U.S. Department of Transportation last week. The figures indicate the kind of problem the administration and the people of West Seattle are facing in these truly extraordinary times. Over the past year, reinforcing steel costs have risen 32.6%; structural steel costs have risen 30.7%; structural concrete costs have risen 18.1%; and composite structures have risen 24.2%. The increased energy costs attributable to our friends at OPEC are now beginning to filter their way into the construction industry costs.

Against these enormous forces, we all have to pull together. If more money is required for the bridge, we will need some pretty substantial public support to get it. I want to assure you and your cartoonist that we are on time on our schedule, that I have no agenda of delaying just in order to buy a Chevrolet, and that every decent effort by a whole bunch of people in the city is being made to bring this bridge home as advertised.

Going, going ... gone!

"That's one hundred, one hundred; do I hear one fifty?"

"One fifty, one fifty for this beautiful oak wardrobe?" Let's go for one twenty; do I hear one twenty?"

If one isn't careful, Joe Welch's melodic, rhythmic voice can hypnotize.

The musky smell of fine furniture can cast a spell; the dazzling sheen of polished wood and the warm, close hum of Welch's antique auctions can intoxicate the senses.

And as the bidding climbs, the most determined may succumb to the greatest hazard of all — "the fever."

In the auctioneering world, the fever is a tingling, red-hot urge to bid that overcomes all restraint and that, afterwards, may leave one nauseous with the realization that the piece is over-priced and won't fit in the bedroom anyway.

Before giving up the sweet pleasures of an auction, however, the neophyte might listen to the prescriptions suggested by seasoned buyers.

"Get a copy of the list of items that are offered before the auction," said Joan Winward, owner of the Calico Palace, a retail antique store in Federal Way.

Winward, one of those who attended an auction at Welch's recently, said she always looks carefully at the list and determines what she is interested in.

"Then I inspect each piece and set a firm price for myself," she said, "so that I don't get the fever."

The genial proprietor of the auction house mails out the lists about one week before the auction to those who request them.

The roster, however, contains only a generic description without details as to date of manufacture or condition.

The auctioneers often supply that information as they take the bids in musical verbiage that builds in a crescendo of excitement until the audience's urges to possess have been exhausted.

Welch said he encourages prospective buyers to attend previews that are usually held on Sunday from noon to 6 p.m. and from 4 p.m. to selling time on Monday when the auctions are held.

"The items are right out there in the open and may be freely examined," he said. "We tell people to look them over good and to make a judgment, ahead of time, as to their value."

If the buyer is disciplined, he may take home an item at a price far below its retail value.

Winward said she had just bought for $250 a wardrobe that was worth twice that much and added that getting a bargain was not unusual at Welch's auctions, which she attends regularly.

The best buys at this or any auction, she said, are to be had during the summer months and in December before Christmas.

Welch said he is able to sell his goods at reasonable prices because he travels about 60 percent of the year and has "pickers" in the Midwest and on the East Coast who watch for local bargains and then resell to him.

And it no doubt is profitable to have a family that is willing to pitch in on auction nights, about once a month at Welch's.

His wife Margaret; daughters Carol Connell, Donna Grefthen and Sandra Lefler; and sons-in-law Dean Grefthen and Richard Lefler assist with the family enterprise.

Their next auction is planned for Monday, Oct. 1, in their barn-like quarters at 34300 Pacific Highway S.

One last word of advice for those who attend: keep the hands down.

The old custom of bidding with a blink of the eye, a twitch of the nose or a flip of the ear has been replaced for the most part by numbered placards that are held up during bidding.

But some dealers still use the old system so that others won't know that they are bidding.

And Welch, who has been trained to notice every movement in the crowd, said he has interpreted movements such as a scratch of the head as a bid.

"You sure shouldn't have your hands in the air at an auction," he said, "if you don't mean business."

JOE WELCH, auctioneer and owner of Welch's Antique Auctions, keeps the action going, as his daughter, Carol Connell, records the bids. Connell, also an auctioneer, relieves her father at times with a deep, husky voice that never misses a beat.

DEAN GREFTHEN is one of the "ring men" who take bids at Welch's Antique Auctions. Here he reaches out for bids, watching single-mindedly for an offer.

PLACING BIDS was serious business for many who attended a recent auction at Welch's. Geneva and R.J. Lundwall of North Bend Antiques intently scrutinized one of the pieces up for sale.

ALL EYES on the auction stage are fixed on a bidder, and the business at hand seems to stop for a moment. But it is only the briefest flicker of a reprieve; the bidding goes on in a furious pace.

Gang at work?

Police probe wave of cat burglaries in FW

by Loren Bliss
 For the past five months, Federal Way residents and their South King County neighbors have been plagued by burglars who like to strike while the victims are at home.
 So many such cases have been reported — the total for the period exceeds 60 — that King County Police officials have concluded that a gang of cat burglars is at work in the area.
 "The typical burglar," said Hal Logan, the 3rd Precinct's crime analysis officer, "waits until the occupants of the house are gone."
 But the cat burglar, he said, "gets a thrill" from working while the occupants are at home and sometimes even awake.
 And should householder and outlaw confront one another, the situation might quickly become "dangerous and deadly," particularly if one or both parties were armed.

cat burglaries, Logan said.
 "It's almost as if the burglars were hitting in different places at different times to avoid creating an obvious pattern," he said.
 But the pattern was detected by the police nevertheless, and officers now have a list of suspects they're checking out.
THE BEST defense against cat burglars, Logan said, is to lock your doors and windows.
 "That step alone," he said, "could probably reduce the current incident rate to a fraction of its present size."
 In the few instances in which there've been attempts to enter houses by prying open doors or windows, the burglars have usually given up and fled.

 And in the last few weeks, the burglaries seem to have mysteriously ceased — almost as if the gang were beginning to realize that its activities had been spotted.
 "What we may be dealing with," said Logan, "are persons under the influence of drugs or alcohol, people who gain excitement or gratification from such activity."
 "It may also be a group that uses cat burglary as a kind of initiation rite."
 Police believe the members of the gang probably live in the Federal Way area, and note that about half of their suspects are teenagers.

Final hearing on grad requirements

The final session in a series of public hearings on proposed new graduation requirements will be held at Federal Way High School on Tuesday starting at 7:30 p.m.
 School officials scheduled the hearings — two others have been held at Thomas Jefferson and Decatur high schools — to enable the public to comment on the new regulations.

A committee composed of principals, teachers, parents, administrators and a student drafted the new requirements last year, proposing that a 37-credit standard be hiked to 44.
 The new requirements stem from the lengthening of the school day from five to six hours, the result of an increase in state funding.

Saved by the divider

CEMENT LANE dividers installed last year on State Route 18 between Federal Way and Auburn kept this Tuesday accident from possibly becoming more serious, Washington State Patrol officers said. The driver of the vehicle, William Murray, 69, of East Grand Forks,

Minn., applied his breaks on an eastbound curve just before the trailer his car was towing jackknifed into the divider. Murray, alone in the car, was not injured. —photo by Mike Bainter

PRIDE plans fall potluck

The Federal Way Indian students (PRIDE) and their parents are planning a potluck dinner on Sept. 25 at 5:30 p.m. at the Federal Way High School cafeteria.

Enrollment forms are now going out to area schools. To join, the only requirement is that a member have a father, mother or grandparent that's a member of an American Indian or Alaskan Native tribe. For more information, call 941-0100 or 927-7420, ext. 236.

Family History and Genealogy is the title of a class offered this fall at Highline Community College for budding family researchers. Registration is under way and the first class meets Monday morning from 9 to 10. The evening course will meet September 25 at 7 p.m. for three hours. Both classes continue through Dec. 11, the morning session meeting Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and the evening one on Tuesdays. Both carry three credit hours. The course features easy-to-follow procedures to help trace family roots. Goals of the course are to show how to get started, where family records and how to interview family members in order to produce an oral or written legacy for descendants. For further information, contact HCC at 878-3710 or visit the campus for registration, 240th and Pacific Highway South.

Celebrity Series slated by Women's Network

The Women's Professional and Managerial Network will sponsor a Celebrity Series of dinner events featuring speakers whose topics are of special interest to working women. The series kicks off Thursday evening with Dr. Rosabeth Kanter, a Yale University sociologist, speaking on "Men and women of the corporation." She has pioneered the study of the impact of organizational structures on individuals and groups, including the implications of structure on the status of women and on male-female relationships in work situations.

Caroline Bird, author of the current best-seller, "The Two Paycheck Marriage," will speak on Nov. 29. Her topic is based on three years of research, including hundreds of interviews with working wives, and the impact of two careers on marriage and family life. She is widely recognized as an author on the economic problems and opportunities for women. The final speaker of the series will be Mary Scott Welch, a free lance writer base in New York. Her topic will be "Networking to Success". The Women's Network is a non-profit organization formed to provide a forum for professional women to exchange ideas, contacts, support and expertise. Another of its purposes is to sponsor appearances by women of outstanding achievement in areas of special interest to women. The Seattle-based group has been well received since its birth last fall. Several hundred women attended the first two dinner events sponsored by the network.

Reservations for the Sept. 27 dinner must be made no later than 5 p.m., Sept. 24. Cost is $18 for members and $20 for the general public. Reservations may be made for any of the dinners by phoning Mildred Hokanson, Celebrity Series coordinator, at 282-1674 mornings or 323-6490. The dinners take place at the Garden Court in the Seattle Trade Center, 2601 Elliott Ave., with no-host cocktails from 6 to 7 p.m. followed by dinner and the speaker's presentation.

Police charge suspect with assault on officer

A 27-year-old man was arrested for assaulting a police officer last Wednesday following an altercation at a restaurant and cocktail lounge on Pacific Highway South.

Des Moines Police Officers responded to a report of two men assaulting a woman. When they arrived, they saw the man leaving the restaurant. When the suspect saw the officers in pursuit, an officer found him hiding in some bushes and removed him. During the search for weapons, the man spun around and pushed the officer and a struggle ensued.

The incident apparently started when the man's companion was refused service. He allegedly began throwing glasses around the lounge and grabbed the front of a cocktail waitress's dress. When the man was told the police had been called, he kicked the bar stool out from under the owner and began throwing chairs around.

The second man involved in the incident is still being sought.

Earlier in the day, a used car and plant business reported the theft of a 8' by 24' fiberglass greenhouse, valued at $3,700 from the 22800 block of Pacific Highway South. The greenhouse contained 300 to 400 plants, and miscellaneous items, bringing the total loss to about $4,160.

Also on Wednesday, two cars parked in the 700 block of South 227th were prowled. Both cars were unlocked. Stolen was a Bowie knife, valued at $50, and a Hamilton gold pocket watch, valued at $150.

Police arrested a youth Tuesday for the theft of a $200 bicycle from South 219th Street and 30th Avenue South after the victim did a little investigative work on his own. After questioning several neighbors, he learned the youth had been seen with the bike. Further investigation by the police verified he had the bike. It was released to the owner and the youth was released to his father.

About $2,065 worth of items were reported stolen from a shed in the 22800 block of Pacific Highway

South on Monday. Unknown persons, who gained entry by prying a lock, took tools, nails, drills, saws, sanders, shovels and numerous other items.

Another theft reported Monday was of a 2 1/2 hp motor from a boat at the 22600 block of 6th Avenue South. The motor was valued at $300.

The same day, Des Moines police arrested a youth for possession of a dangerous weapon after they received a report the youth had stolen a spring-operated (switchblade) knife in his possession, was transported to the Youth Center.

FW crime report:

Police probing child abuse case

King County Police are investigating a reported incident of child abuse that three witnesses say occurred Thursday evening in a South 320th Street supermarket parking lot.

The witnesses told officers that a woman in her early 30s kicked and beat a boy of about 5 on two separate occasions.

They said the boy was first kicked and beaten as the woman put him in a parked car, and then subjected to more of the same after he climbed out of the car, apparently against the woman's wishes.

Learn to read faster

Teenagers and adults can invest $69 in a program that makes reading and homework go more quickly.

The Institute for Reading, Education and Development (I-READ), in co-operation with the Highline YMCA, is offering a seven session Speed Reading course beginning Tuesday, October 2.

Mark van Gelderen, one of the designers of the program, says teenagers usually enter the class reading about 200 words a minute. They often finish six weeks later reading 1,000 words a minute. And van Gelderen says the students progress from seventh grade levels to college reading and learning levels. Thousands of adults have shown similar gains.

In fact a recent study ordered by the Pierce County Commissioners showed that the average student taking the I-READ course improved the equivalent of four (4) years schooling in one month! van Gelderen pointed out that no commercial or public program can show equivalent results.

The class for teens, between 12 and 16 years old, will be offered weekly on Tuesdays from 4:00 to 6:00 PM. A similar program for adults over 16 is on the same days from 6:30 to 8:30 PM. The cost is $74 which includes all materials. However, the YMCA is allowing those who register before September 29, to receive a $5 discount. The Highline YMCA is located at 17674 Des Moines Way So.

For more information, call I-READ at 722-7335. The teenage program is a unique opportunity to supplement your child's education. Parents are encouraged to attend the first session. This program is so different and successful that the City of Seattle, King County, and Pierce County have been using it to improve the reading and educational skills of their Manpower program enrollees. The first lesson is free to those wanting to inspect the program.

I-READ's workshops are also given to the employees of many local organizations, including hospitals, government agencies, other colleges, and the military.

Call I-READ, day or night, at 722-7335 for more information and a free newsletter.

Wayside moves forward on building expansion

Sunday, Sept. 23, the members of Wayside United Church of Christ (Congregational) will have a Congregational Meeting at 6:30 p.m. preceded by a potluck dinner at 5:30 p.m. The purpose of the meeting, according to Rev.

Richard E. Arnold, pastor, will be the presentation of information regarding the progress of the Building Task Force and their recommended modifications for the building development. Last May the congregation voted to improve and enlarge the present facilities, and under the chairmanship of Dr. Donald Dederick, the Building Task Force has been meeting during the summer months. Members of the Task Force are Barbara Stocking, Sam

Stocking, Phil Wamba, Betty Duryee, Jerry Madland, Milt Laib and Harry Klatt.

Departments of the church: worship, church school, women's fellowship, adult education and office have been asked for their suggestions and needs, so all phases of Wayside will be included in the interior changes.

The original architectural building lay-out plans will be followed to ensure the continuity of design that is distinctive to Wayside. Also at the Congregation of the Church Council, Meeting, Phil Wamba, chairman of the Project Executive Committee will present a progress report on the building fund drive.

Under the direction of the Church Council, Wayside has contracted with the National Church to carry on a capital funds drive to raise the money for building additions and modifications.

Billy Smith killed

Ira William "Billy" Smith Jr., 18, died September 14 of injuries received in a car accident in Twisp, Washington. The former Federal Way resident was employed by Mack Lloyd Logging. He was born in San Diego, California June 29, 1961 and moved to the Methow Valley with his family in 1962 and later to Federal Way where he spent most of his life. Smith was involved in wrestling, boxing, swimming and fishing and played the guitar.

Helen Sewell of Twisp, Lee and Harvey of Seattle and Olga H. Lawrence of Winthrop; aunts and uncles Bill and Sophia Lawrence, Loren Sherwood, Don Wolfe, Sharon Herring, Sharlene and Paul DeAustra, Frank and Ann Smith and Bob and Marilyn Smith; a great-uncle Deke Smith of Carlton; brother-in-law Richard Scott Burtain of Twisp and a nephew, Jesse Lee Burtain.

Billy Smith
 There will be no funeral service but a memorial gathering is planned for relatives and friends.

He is survived by his parents, Ira W. (Bill) and Grace Smith Sr. of Twisp and Larry and Marlene Middleton of Federal Way; three brothers, Gary Clarke of Federal Way, Joe Casey Smith and Jake Smith of Twisp; four sisters, Bonnie Mae Burtain, Shari Lynn Smith, Diana Marie Smith and Brenda Lee Smith of Twisp; grandparents, Charles Smith and

Willard R. Thompson

Federal Way; four sons, Richard of Federal Way, George of Kent, Phillip of Auburn and John of Marcola, Oregon; three sisters, Dorothy LeFever, Selma Kykendall and Evelyn Miller, all of Illinois; 23 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren. In keeping with his wishes, cremation took place the direction of Bleitz Funeral Home in Seattle. Memorial services were yesterday at Covington Community Church of the Brethren. At the family's request, memorials may be made to the Washington Heart Association.

Willard Ralph Thompson, a Federal Way resident for more than 25 years, died September 19 at the Federal Way Convalescent Center at the age of 73. Mr. Thompson was born March 10, 1906 in Mahomet, Illinois and came to the Auburn-Federal Way area in 1951. He was employed as a bus driver and custodian with the Federal Way School District until his retirement in 1969. His wife of more than 50 years died in 1975.

Mr. Thompson is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Robert Sommers of Auburn and Mrs. Hubert Joesten of

Newspaper big on HCC campus

The news is good from Thunderword

by Pat Jenkins
The word from the Thunderword is, "We're number 1."
And the Highline Community College newspaper backs up its claim with a list of awards almost as long as an editor's arm.

(HCC's mascot is the Thunderbird, hence the play on words) has received eight All-American ratings from the Associated Collegiate Press, been named the country's top community college newspaper of 1977 by the American Newspaper Publishers Association, garnered the Columbia Scholastic Press Association's Medalist award — the highest honor bestowed by the New York organization, and bagged a stack of awards from state journalism fraternities.

objective newspaper. We won't do any cheerleading for the school," she said.

With a staff of 47 persons, the Thunderword's two-room office can get small in a hurry on deadline days. "We've had 20 people waiting to use five typewriters," Strehlau laughed.

journalism graduate, co-owner of a weekly newspaper, and owner of an advertising agency.

HER ONLY vocation now is with HCC, something she likes "very much. I work with a very exciting age of students."

high school senior for her program ("I've never had the time"), but she said she hasn't lacked quality students.

AMONG Strehlau's proteges are Associated Press (New York bureau) reporter John Nelson, former Thunderword editor; Tim Hilliard, once a Thunderword associate editor and now a reporter for Seattle television station KOMO; Seattle City Councilman Norm Rice, former talk-show host for KCTS-TV; and Robinson Newspaper workers Arden Gremmert, advertising manager of the Highline Times, and Terry Sell, sports editor of the West Seattle Herald.

She has never wearied of the task, partly because her teaching isn't confined to a newsroom and classroom. She also oversees two closed-circuit television studios on campus — one black-and-white, the other color. Every HCC journalism student participates in some phase of television production.

In addition, Strehlau's program publishes two sister publications of the Thunderword — a literary magazine and a newspaper for the school's night students.

Strehlau added, "Newspapers call us all the time looking for stringers (part-time reporters)." Which is further proof the word is out on the Thunderword.

Room assignments to take place Winter quarter

by Fred Strehlau
A number of room assignments made for the winter quarter (1979-80) have been approved by the "Hillside" (HCC's) Board of Trustees.

The Board of Trustees will meet on Oct. 15 to approve the assignments. The Board will also consider the assignments for the winter quarter (1979-80) which will be made in January.

Trustees waive staff tuition

by Sylvia Jones
The Board of Trustees of Highline Community College voted to waive tuition for staff members of their own college.

The Board of Trustees also voted to waive tuition for staff members of other colleges in the region.

All full-time employees, whether faculty or non-faculty, will be eligible for the waiver.

The Board of Trustees also voted to waive tuition for staff members of other colleges in the region.

Senate elects new officers for 1979-80 year

by George Eds
The Highline Community College Faculty Senate has elected its officers for the 1979-80 school year.

The Senate also elected a new president and vice president.

THIS IS THE front page of an edition of the Thunderword that helped earn the Highline Community College newspaper its eight All-American rating from the Associated Collegiate Press during the 1978-79 school year.

Published twice a week, the Thunderword is a student operation. Strehlau helps the aspiring journalists over rough spots with her well-heeled advice, but otherwise, it's the students' show.

"Our success has come from these kids taking great pride in doing a professional job," Strehlau said.

Her charges also attend Strehlau's various journalism classes three days a week to learn the ropes of the craft.

Lori Fox, first-semester editor this year, and the rest of the staff decide what stories to print and what editorial stands to take.

"We get some reaction to our editorials, but nothing out of the ordinary," she said.

"We're a pretty liberal paper," she continued, "but we don't feel we have to please the administration. We cover any story we feel is important to the students."

The conditions will improve dramatically this year when the Thunderword moves into new quarters that will include the first darkroom in the newspaper's 18-year history.

Strehlau has been the advisor all those years, distributing experience she gleaned as a two-degree University of Washington

LORI FOX (left), editor-in-chief of the Thunderword, and news editor Melodie Steiger brainstormed during production of the school year's first edition of the Highline Community College newspaper — a newspaper that is not a "cheerleader" for the college, Fox said.

TJ tops Decatur to end losing streak

by Harry Brooks
 "Thank God it's over!" boomed Jefferson football coach Jim Gard after his team ended an 11-game losing streak with a 28-7 win over Decatur Friday night.

The TJ skipper could hardly be heard over his Raiders' ear-piercing rendition of the Jefferson fight song, "Go Raiders Go", but "they've waited a long time for this," Gard noted.

The game proved to be a turnaround of sorts for both teams. Last season, the Decatur Gators ended a 14-game winless drought with a 13-12 overtime win over Jefferson. Last week, the Raiders outgained Bethel 304 yards to 194, but six Raider turnovers fueled a 16-7 loss. The Raiders didn't suffer an unplanned exchange Friday and turned three of five Decatur turnovers into touchdowns.

REFERRING TO his Gators' 298-161 total yardage advantage, Decatur coach Greg Flynn said, "I was pretty pleased by the way we played. It's typical of what's happened to us this year. We play the other team pretty evenly and then self-destruct by giving up the big play."

"But we're making our mistakes by being aggressive," he added and then reflected on Decatur's 0-3 record. "It's hard to convince the kids that they played a good game when we lost. I think everyone gets locked in on a Super Bowl outlook. It's kind of a general feeling these days that if you don't win you're a grunt."

Decatur will have a tough time turning its fortunes around next Friday as the Gators travel to Sparks Stadium in Puyallup to play the powerhouse Puyallup Vikings. Jefferson hosts dangerous Rogers Friday. Both games begin at 8 p.m.

Jefferson established a successful running attack in the first half of last Friday's contest and then turned to the talented arm of quarterback Jay Gard in the latter two quarters. Dean DeMulling, a 205-pound senior fullback, rumbled for 61 yards in 15 carries before halftime. His two plunges over the goal line from a yard out gave TJ a 14-0 lead at the half.

You Pick 'Em on pg. B3

"AFTER SEEING the scouting report, we felt we could run at the center of their line and get good yardage," coach Gard explained. "I was very happy to see we could control the ball and score from the fullback position."

Then the coach's son Jay took over by completing four of five passes in the third quarter. Those garnered 55 yards, including an eight-yard scoring strike to split end Steve McCauley. Jay ended the game with seven connections on 10 throws and 89 passing yards. Wingback Mike Brogan grabbed four aeriels for 64 yards.

Decatur displayed a potent veer running game. Senior Mike Hagen rushed for 113 of the Gators' 240-yard ground assault on 14 carries, but Decatur's veer-option offense requires split-second timing. When the Gators' coordination of attack broke down Friday, they paid dearly.

On Decatur's first play of its second possession, a late pitch from quarterback Greg Andral bounced off the shoulder pad of trailing back Hagen. TJ's Phil Earnfight recovered at the Decatur 11-yard line, and DeMulling found paydirt midway through the first quarter with successive runs of five, five and one yards.

After being held on fourth down at the Gator 6, Jefferson began a 55-yard drive on its next possession. DeMulling carried the ball five times during the 11-play surge, accumulating 27 yards and the TD.

EARNFIGHT again was in the right spot when Decatur suffered another errant pitch in the third quarter. This time, the senior defensive end scooped the ball on the run and scampered 62 yards to the end zone. Jefferson hit its final tally when Gard and McCauley teamed up on a scoring pass with 2:39 left in the third period. Todd Ringenbach hit on four straight extra-point kicks for TJ.

Decatur scored its first touchdown of the season on Andral's one-yard quarter sneak, which ended a five-play, 57-yard drive. Hagen's 23-yard run highlighted the effort.

Gators golf 2nd straight victory

The Decatur Gator golf team rode double-figure scoring by each of its six members to take a 74-56 victory over Rogers Monday at High Cedars Golf Course.

"I'm very happy to see all of our players score that well, especially away from our home course," Decatur golf mentor Terry O'Donnell said. "Everybody's playing a good solid game right now. We're hitting the ball well."

The Gator leader expects his team to score in the 80s as the season progresses.

Decatur will get a chance to reach that goal on its home course, Twin Lakes, tomorrow against Federal Way. The match will begin at 3:30 p.m.

Rich Price took match medalist honors against Rogers by covering High Cedars' front nine with a one-over 39, which amounted to 15 points. Mike O'Donnell followed with 14. Dave Edwards came in with 13, Mark Scuderi 12 and Mike Anderson and Dave Utz 10 each.

HOWIE HANSON, a Federal Way linebacker, won't let go of Curtis' Steve Ellis during Thursday's SPSL grid match. Aggressive defense, like that exhibited by Hanson, keyed Federal Way's 17-12 win over the

Conservatism pays off

Eagles win third straight

by Harry Brooks
Federal Way isn't wearing out any scoreboards during the present South Puget Sound League football campaign, but conservatism is paying big dividends.

The Eagles now share the SPSL lead with a 3-0 record after Thursday's 17-12 win over Curtis. In that contest and the previous outing, a 7-0 win over Sumner, Federal Way has given up more yardage than it's earned but has relied on "the big play" to come out on top.

Todd McGrady's touchdown runs of 29 and 31 yards made the difference Thursday, and Lauren Schlaeppl's fumble recovery in the end zone spelled victory over defending SPSL champ Sumner. In both contests, the Eagles were content to let the opposition churn up mid-field real estate but became less permissive near their goal line. Curtis outgained Federal Way 244 yards to 173, and Sumner had a 229-to-83 yardage advantage at game's end.

Federal Way coach Doug Adkins, who last season used a shotgun offense on occasion and assembled one of league's best moving attacks, is enjoying his team's recent success with close-to-the-vest strategy. It's no wonder. Last year, the Eagles consistently outgained opponents but saw a league-leading turnover output dupe them to a 5-4 record. This season, the other guys are making the mistakes, and Federal Way is cashing in.

DEFENSE IS Federal Way's strong point, and Adkins has changed his philosophy to mesh with that strength.

"I suppose it's not too entertaining from the spectators' standpoint, but we're not going to do anything spectacular," he conceded.

The Eagle leader isn't surprised that his squad stands undefeated after its first three games but is aware that his grid-ders will receive possibly their biggest tests the next two Fridays.

Federal Way travels to Clover Park to meet the explosive Warriors next Friday and host powerful Puyallup a week later. Both games kickoff at 8 p.m.

"I'd thought we'd be 3-and-0 all the way along; it's nice to come up against CP and Puyallup with good start behind us," Adkins said.

However, he admitted being "scared to death of Curtis," a team that has traditionally given Federal Way a tough battle, and Thursday's clash was no exception.

Curtis' inability to handle Eagle punts resulted in Federal Way's initial touchdown and following score. Blaine Wilson's 22-yard field goal that opened the fourth quarter. A pass interference penalty aided Federal Way's final TD march.

CURTIS' JOHNNY Davis, the SPSL's best ball carriers, fumbled a short punt at the Viking 32 early in the first quarter, and Federal Way's Dale Dorning pounced on the pigskin at the 30.

Three plays later, McGrady took a pitch from quarterback Butch Cratsenberg, cut over left tackle and zipp11 yards to paydirt.

Late in the second stanza, Curtis began a nine-play, 92-yard drive to the Eagle goal line. Davis gained 82 of his game-high 161 yards during that march. On the second play of the possession, Davis ripped over right guard at the Curtis 13 and broke free for a footrace. McGrady ran him down from behind at the FW 8. Four plays later, Davis converted a fourth-and-three situation with a four-yard burst to the 4.

With just 18 seconds left before halftime, quarterback Steve Ellis snuck over goal line from the 2. Curtis attempted to take the lead with a two-point conversion attempt, but Ellis' pass fell incomplete.

Davis suffered his second dropped punt in the third quarter. Federal Way took possession at the Curtis 34, drove to the 2 but had to settle for Wilson's three-point boot.

ON THEIR next possession, the Eagles tallied the game-clinching TD. Federal Way took over at the Curtis 40 and moved to the FW 46, where a pass interference call advanced the ball 15 yards further. On the next play, McGrady cracked over right tackle, broke two tackles in the secondary and veered to the right corner of the Curtis endzone.

With the game's outcome decided, Curtis, under the direction of new quarterback Chris Manteufel, drove 63 yards for its final score. Manteufel capped the march with a two-yard sneak with 2:34 left to play.

Fishing laws enforced

Southwestern Washington sports fishermen felt the impact of increased enforcement of state fishing laws last weekend as Washington Department of Fisheries patrol officers issued scores of citations to violators in Clark and Cowlitz counties.

Fisheries Patrol Chief Sandy Miller reported that his officers arrested violators as they stepped up their patrol activities on the Elokomin, Cowlitz, Toutle, Kalama, Washougal and Lewis rivers and Abernathy Creek.

"We caught fishermen snagging, gaffing, violating possession limits, using unlawful fishing gear, using expired licenses, having no licenses and other violations," said Miller.

Miller reminded Washington fishermen that, "It isn't necessary for a Washington Department of Fisheries patrol officer to be in uniform to issue a citation.

UW Huskies strive to remain undefeated in Pacific-10 play

The Washington Huskies open Pacific-10 Conference play against the Oregon Ducks at Eugene's Autzen Stadium this Saturday, Sept. 22 (1:30 p.m. PDT). The 73rd renewal of the Duck-Husky rivalry marks Oregon's first home game of the year and Washington's first road trip of 1979. The Huskies lead the series 42-25-5.

Husky coach Don James has never lost to Oregon--or any other Northwest rival for that matter--in four years at Washington. Previous James coached teams defeated the Ducks by scores of 27-17 (1975), 14-7 (1976), 54-0 (1977) and last year's narrow 20-14 margin. Washington fullback Toussaint Tyler rushed for a career high 151 yards versus the Ducks in Seattle a year ago.

Third-year Oregon coach Rich Brooks has a much-improved team, the fourth most improved team in the country last year according to Football News. The Ducks opened this season with an unexpected 33-19 upset win over Colorado on the road, ruining Buff coach Chuck Fairbanks' return debut to college football.

Two former athletes from Mt. Tahoma High School in Tacoma, Wash. lead Oregon's offensive and defensive rush. Fullback Vince Williams (6-0, 218, Jr.) ran for 842 yards last season, breaking the all-time Duck rushing mark.

Seahawks battle defending champs

The Seattle Seahawks travel to Denver to meet the two-time defending American Football Conference Western Division champion Broncos in a 1 p.m. (PDT) game at Mile High Stadium. The game will mark the 67th consecutive regular season sellout for the Broncos. Seattle enters the contest with a 1-2 record and are coming off a 27-10 victory over the Oakland Raiders after dropping its first two games to San Diego, 33-16, and Miami, 19-10. Denver is 2-1 on the season with wins over Atlanta, 20-17, in overtime last week and 10-0 over Cincinnati in the season opener. The Broncos' only loss came to Los Angeles, 13-9. Denver's defensive team ranks first in the NFL in rushing allowing only 82.3 yards per game on the ground and are ranked sixth overall in AFC defense. In three games, the defense has given up just two touchdowns — both coming against Atlanta last week. "They may be the best defensive team we'll face this year," says Seattle offensive coach Jerry Rhome. "They are very aggressive and quick with excellent talent. They swarm and take a lot of pride in their defense. "We'll have to play our best to move the ball," says Rhome. Denver is keeping people off the scoreboard without the help of turnovers. Through three games, the Broncos are the only team in the National Football League without an interception or fumble recovery.

Turnovers hampered the Seahawks in their first two games as six interceptions and four fumbles lost contributed to the defeats to San Diego and Miami. Seattle went through the Oakland game without a turnover. Seattle's offense ranks third in the AFC averaging 366.0 yards per game with 134.7 per game on the ground and 231.3 yards per game in the air. Seahawks wide receiver Steve Largent, who was held to three receptions in the first two games, had five catches for 139 yards and two touchdowns against Oakland. His 139 yards receiving broke his own club record of 134 set against Buffalo in 1977.

Eagle leader

TODD McGRADY, a Federal Way High running back, receives congratulations from Brian Asbury (left) after completing a 29-yard run that gave Federal Way a 7-0 lead over Curtis in the first quarter. McGrady, a 210-pound senior, later scored a second TD on a 31-yard gallop. He now leads the SPSSL in scoring with six touchdowns in three games.

SUNDAY WE RESERVE FOR OUR FAMILIES

Kentridge 67, Mt. Rainier 0

by Bart Potter
First, the facts: Kentridge defeated Mt. Rainier 67-0 Friday at French Field in Kent.

Kentridge set a North Puget Sound record for winning margin, eclipsing the 1970 mark set by Kent-Meridian in a 66-6 win over Glacier.

The Chargers gained 429 yards to 59 for Mt. Rainier.

Those are the numbers. They tell one story. There is another.

The second story involves the people, specifically the football players in the post-game Mt. Rainier locker room. It is a story of contrast, a picture of the ways human beings deal with athletic defeat.

The first glimpse of the Ram locker room revealed a team responding with typically youthful resilience. It's somehow easier, for some people, to shrug off a crushing loss than a narrow decision.

"Good news," one player shouted. "We only have six games left to play."

Up and down the debris-strewn aisles, the sounds were of laughter, self-ridicule and light horseplay. At a glance, it was not a subdued losers' locker room.

AT THE end of the room, around a corner, the scene changed abruptly. There, a senior player, a Ram leader, was slumped against a locker, unmoving and unseeing.

Beyond him could be seen the Ram coaches, talking quietly, faces drawn. The approach of a reporter at first drew a stare from the head coach. Then Jerry Dotson said, not unkindly, "No comment."

Dotson's eyes found the solitary athlete, and with a mute gesture, he said more than a coach ever says usually says in lengthy post-game interviews.

He pointed to the player, whose sobs shook his whole body and the pads that still rested on his shoulders. The whoops of his teammates in the background made an even more telling point.

Dotson finally spoke, echoing the words of one of his players. But his voice was grim: "We have six games left to play."

THIS GAME belonged to an excellent Kentridge team which Friday night was an awesome team. The Chargers will be a force to contend with for any team in the state.

And Kentridge can't be accused of trying to pile up points on the Rams. The Charger first team remained in the game until the score was 40-0, but that was still in the second quarter. The rest of the point total was accomplished by reserves.

Travis Eckert scored the first Charger touchdown early in the game on a 28-yard run. On KR's next possession, a potential drive-ending fumble by Eckert deep in Ram territory turned out well as a Charger fell on the ball in the end zone to up the score to 13-0.

The Chargers scored one more time in the first period as a bad snap on a Ram punt attempt sailed over the punter's head and ended up in the arms of a Charger in the end zone.

Kentridge struck again early in the second quarter after a fruitless Ram possession gave the Chargers the ball on Rainier's 41. Jon Wagner took a handoff on the first play and found himself in open field. He cut back across the grain and got two solid blocks to sail in for the score.

Eckert tallied again for KR with 9:26 left in the half on an 11-yard run. Quarterback Ed Gutierrez hooked up with John Kuolt with 5:49 left for a 10-yard TD pass.

Just before halftime, Kentridge scored again on a short run to make the halftime count 47-0.

An interception of a Craig Maley pass attempt set up the Chargers next score, a six-yard run by Nick Masterjohn. A fumble just after the ensuing kickoff gave the Chargers another shot, and Brad Ross carried it in from three yards out.

A recovery of a blocked punt in the end zone by Terry Gray handed the Chargers their final score.

Mt. Rainier plays Kent-Meridian at the same French Field next Friday.

Barbershop buffs to meet in Fife

The Tacoma Totemaires Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America will hold a get-acquainted "Open House" on Tuesday, Sept. 25, at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting will take place at the Fife Presbyterian Church at 6112 20th Ave. E.

During the evening the Totemaire Chorus will perform, and guests will be invited to join in the harmony and to learn a new song with the chorus. Part of the entertainment will be a slide-tape presentation explaining the society and its functions.

The local chapter, comprised of men from Puyallup, Fife, Lakewood, Gig Harbor, Federal Way, Sumner and Tacoma, is a member of the International Society, with more than 38,000 members in 780 chapters located throughout the United States and Canada.

It is affiliated with the Evergreen District of the society, which is made up of chapters located in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and the two Canadian provinces of British Columbia and Alberta.

Membership in the local chapter offers men who like to sing an opportunity to improve their singing ability and to participate in singing competitions and concerts as well. The society also offers a broad program of music education for men interested in furthering their appreciation and knowledge of music.

Guests attending the Sept. 25 Open House may bring friends, wives or sweethearts — all are welcome. Light refreshments will be served.

For additional information contact Don Eiland at 472-3333 or 845-4525.

Basie returning

COUNT BASIE and his orchestra will return to the Seattle Opera House for a concert on Saturday, Sept. 29, at 8 p.m. The jazzman began playing the piano as a youngster in New Jersey. And he continues to "lead" his band with the piano. Tickets are on sale at The Bon and other suburban outlets.

Lectures planned by arts foundation

On Sept. 24 and 25 Seattle's Music and Art Foundations will conduct a telethon publicizing its Northgate Forum Lecture Series. Proceeds will benefit the foundation's scholarship fund.

The series will be held at the Northgate Theatre at 11 a.m. All lectures are open to the public. Tickets for the series are $15, with single tickets available at the door for $6.

Virginia Graham — actress, author, and television personality — will speak on Oct. 24. Her topic will be "Women Today."

Frank Cappiello, economist, investment counselor, and regular panelist on television's "Wall Street Week," will speak on March 4 next year. His talk is entitled "Investment Dollars and Sense."

Then on April 17, John Peer Nugent, an expert on Africa, will speak on "African Crisis."

Series tickets may be purchased now by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Northgate Forum, Box 491, Northgate Station, Seattle, Wash. 98125.

For further information call the foundation office at 622-5152 on Monday to Wednesday, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Ethnic heritage festival planned at Seattle Center

Representatives of area ethnic communities will have an opportunity to learn how to document their local history in an ethnic heritage workshop scheduled for Sept. 28 to 30 in the Center House Conference Center at the Seattle Center.

Workshop sessions on how to document local ethnic history will be the focus on Friday and Saturday.

Additional events on Friday will include free performances of "Better Late," a musical comedy revue by the Phoenix Players, at 8 p.m. and of "Doc Maynard," a musical adaptation by the Poncho Theater at 9:45 p.m.

Doors will be open to ticket holders until 7:45 p.m., with general admission following. Tickets are available until Sept. 28 at all library branches.

Ethnic music and dance performances, representing a variety of cultures, will be held at the Center House on Sunday from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.

From 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. participatory international folk dancing to Serbo-Croatian and other ensembles will be featured.

At the Center House Court on Saturday from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. will be traditional American dancing with the Washington Old Time Fiddlers Association. From 9 p.m. to midnight, there will be Nordic folk- and old-time dancing with six Scandinavian musical ensembles.

All activities are jointly sponsored by the Seattle Center, the Ethnic Heritage Council of the Pacific Northwest, the Folklife Center of the Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. and by the Seattle Public Library.

Included will be instruction in selecting, recording and archiving equipment; making effective tape recordings; using form a l n o n - published records and documents; documenting everyday ethnic life; and selecting artifacts and heirlooms for display.

The workshop is limited to a registration of 250 persons who will be selected to represent the largest possible number of ethnic communities in the area.

To receive an application, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: m a l n o n - Juliana Kumasaka, published records and documents; document-

Conference spotlights Hawaii's arts, history

The Hui O Na Kumu Hula of Seattle will hold its Fifth Conference on the Performing Arts of Hawaii at the John F. Kennedy Memorial High School on Sunday, Oct. 14, from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

For the past 11 years, this organization of 40 teachers of Hawaiian dance, with representation in Western and Eastern Washington, Hawaii and Canada, have been engaged in the perpetuation and preservation of Hawaiian history, arts and the many facets making up the distinctive ethnic character of the 50th state.

The group's primary efforts are instruction in authentic island dances and a regular learning exchange with hula masters in Hawaii.

Classes at the conference will be geared for dancers, ages 8 to 80, with instruction of all levels, from beginner to professional.

A special class will be taught for a limited number of advanced students by George Lanakilakeahealii Naope, who is considered a master in hula by many.

The charge for this all-day conference is $8 per person and will include Hawaiian art and craft demonstrations.

An additional charge of $5 will be added for those who wish to take Naope's class.

Deadline for registration is Sunday, Sept. 30. The school is located at 140 S. 140th St. in the Burien area.

For additional information and registration, call 839-3927 in the evening or 244-4543.

Comedy staged

On the stage at Seattle's Bathhouse Theater is "Straight Up," a comedy by an Irish playwright, Syd Cheate.

Shows are Wednesday to Saturday at 8 p.m. and on Sunday at 7 p.m.

Ticket prices are $4 Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday and $5 on Friday and Saturday.

The theater is a facility of the Seattle Department of Parks and Recreation and is located at 7312 W. Green Lake Dr. N., on the northwest shore of Green Lake.

ACT to sponsor October dialogues

A Contemporary Theatre announces a series of four thought-provoking Monday evening dialogues to take place during October at the theatre as a benefit for ACT.

The series, entitled "The Perils of Paul and Pauline's World," will examine a broad range of social, environmental, and religious issues, with a guest speaker for each of the evenings.

The guest moderator will be the Very Rev. Cabell Tennis, dean of St. Mark's Cathedral in Seattle.

William D. Ruckelshaus, former acting director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and at one time deputy attorney general of the United States, will lead off the series on Oct. 8 with "Who's in Charge, Anyway?" an examination of power politics and personal power in the United States.

On Oct. 15, Thomas R. McCormick will speak about "A Right to Life and Death," a look at recent advances in modern medicine and medical technology, and their role in the qualitative versus quantitative struggle to extend and improve human life.

McCormick is a lecturer at the University of Washington Medical School on death and dying and on human sexuality. He is also a campus minister at the university.

"Heaven Can Wait...or Can It?" is the third dialogue topic, to be held on Oct. 22. The issues will be religion in the secular city and the process of secularization seen by some in our society.

To address this question, George Weigel, a Roman Catholic theologian, will be guest speaker. Weigel is now scholar-in-residence at the World Without War Council of Greater Seattle and was formerly assistant professor of theology at St. Thomas Seminary in Kenmore.

The final dialogue is entitled "Save the World for Whom?" and will take place on Oct. 29. The featured speaker is Donald B. Jacobs, vice president of Boeing's Science, Technology and Development organization.

All the dialogues will take place at A Contemporary Theatre, located at 709 First Ave. W., beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The cost of the entire series of four is $25, with an optional light box supper at 6:30 p.m. in the theatre lobby. All four suppers are available for one $15 charge. Coffee and wine will be on sale one hour before each program begins.

For reservations or information about the series, call Jane Baxter at 523-1118 or Louise Cummings at the ACT business office (285-3220).

Tax-deductible contributions through ticket purchases are encouraged by theater representatives.

Woops!

Sleepyheads who would not think of taking a jazz dancing class at 7 a.m. may want to reconsider.

The Federal Way Recreation class that was listed as a morning session in Wednesday's edition of The News, will be held from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Wednesday at Lakota Junior High School. Trish Berry will be the instructor. Call 941-0655 to register.

REDUCE TAXABLE SALE PROFIT
If you sell your home and make a profit, Uncle Sam will expect to get a share of that profit in the form of income taxes. That is, unless you reinvest your proceeds in another home or are over 65. Therefore, those who profit from a home sale, put the check in the bank and rent an apartment, should not overlook any legitimate expenses which would reduce the size of the taxable gain. Expenses such as the Realtor's commissions, deed preparation, legal and appraisal fees, and any escrow fees, can be taken off the top. So-called "fix-up" expenses also can lead to tax savings. This "fix-up" work must be done during the 90 day period before the sale and payment must be made no later than 30 days after the sale.

CLASSIFIEDS WORK! DIAL 839-9520

Every day we hear the same questions...

“Why shouldn't I vote for a 5¢ deposit?”

“What's the matter with Initiative 61?”

“Isn't it the least we can do for the environment?”

On November 6, you will be asked to decide whether or not Washington should have a mandatory deposit system on beverage cans and bottles. It seems like such a simple idea that it is hard to believe it could be as complicated and destructive as it actually is. You would make a very serious mistake to vote for Initiative 61 simply because it seems like “the least we can do for the environment.” Before election day, we hope you will give this issue very serious consideration. We want to be sure you understand the facts. You can have it either way. The decision will be up to you.

It will cause you to pay more at the store. Container deposits are inflationary because they raise prices.

The plain fact is that deposits on cans and bottles result in substantial increases in handling costs for grocery stores . . . in people, equipment and storage space. Because of their bottle bill, Oregonians pay more for beer and soft drinks than do consumers in Washington and California which do not have deposit laws. Tests prove that ALL BOTTLE BILL states charge higher beverage prices than do neighboring states. The new container deposit law in Michigan increased beverage prices an average of 25-50%.

It will waste energy - particularly gasoline. Deposits on cans and bottles make inefficiency mandatory.

Container deposit laws create mandatory inefficiency in manufacturing, distribution and retailing which adds the use of more energy at every step. Coca-Cola USA reports that it takes TWICE AS MUCH GASOLINE to handle a thousand cases of Coke in Oregon than it does in Washington. The difference is that returnable containers are heavier and it takes more trucks making more trips to handle containers going in both directions. Bottle washing procedures add to the expenditure of electricity, fuel oil, and water. Alleged energy savings in returnables are simply an illusion.

It will gut our state's Recycling Industry. Recycling is a thriving business in Washington, but shrinking in Oregon. Why?

Recycling is an $88 million business in Washington. According to a recent economic study, there are 393 recycling businesses in the state with 4,030 employees offering recycling service in 641 locations. These businesses derive 75-90% of their revenue from recycling beverage containers. Initiative 61 will force consumers to return cans and bottles to grocery stores, thereby destroying the recycling industry. Recycling is shrinking in Oregon as a result of their bottle bill. A September 14 news item in the Portland OREGONIAN referred to the “Dying Portland-area recycling movement” and said, “In the last nine months, 45 recycling centers have gone out of business in the tri-county area . . .”

It will eliminate jobs of up to 5,000 skilled, head-of-household employees. Who needs more families on welfare?

In addition to the threat to the recycling industry, it is estimated that Initiative 61 could cost the jobs of as many as 5,000 skilled workers including machinists in can manufacturing and at least 40% of the employees in the glass industry in Washington. More than 450 jobs were lost in the state of Washington as a result of the 1972 enactment of Oregon's bottle bill. No wonder the Washington State Labor Council and the Joint Council of Teamsters are actively opposing passage of Initiative 61.

It won't help make the environment any cleaner. Washington's litter law has already reduced litter 66%. The rest of the job can only be done by the public - not by more laws.

Experience in Oregon, which has the original bottle bill, proves that container deposits are not effective in controlling litter. In Oregon, the only “before and after” independent study done on the results of the deposit law reported that total litter was reduced about 11% after the first year. Washington's Model Litter Control and Recycling Act has reduced litter 66% in this state. Comparisons between Washington and Oregon by the Institute of Applied Research in 1977 showed Washington had 52% less urban litter and 17% less rural litter than Oregon. Laws similar to Washington's Model Litter Control and Recycling Act have now been passed in seven other states -- California, Colorado, Connecticut, Kentucky, Nebraska, South Carolina and Virginia.
