THIS IS what was left of the 1978 Datsun pickup after it collided with a full-size Chevrolet pickup at South 272nd Street and Pacific Highway South

Saturday morning. Three people in their mid-20's died from head and chest injuries. No memorial services had been scheduled as of Monday.

THE CHEVROLET pickup capsized after the collision and its driver was able to crawl from the truck. According to the State Patrol, no charges have been filed in the accident.

More than a statistic; three family members die

by Nathalie Weber

It was a dark Saturday morning, one of those that cuts visibility because the street lights glimmer on the rain-slicked asphalt.

The daylight was still hours away as we sat in Federal Way Medic One's headquarters. Already that evening I had watched Doug Wiegand and Hokey Overland, the paramedics on duty, work medical wonders on a pedestrian who crossed Pacific Highway too close to an oncoming Cadillac, and on a man whose blood pressure had dropped so low that it couldn't support his system.

But soon we were to face a condition that even the world's most proficient doctors couldn't remedy.

The call came over the monitor a little before 2 a.m. Car accident on Pacific Highway South at South 272nd Street. "That's a bad intersection," Overland commented.

IT SEEMED ONLY seconds later we were screaming, lights flashing. A voice crackled over the radio that there was at least one DOA — dead on arrival. My stomach knotted.

The rain had settled into a drizzle as we climbed out of the Medic rig on the northeast corner of Pacific Highway and South 272nd. The scene was confused by countless fire trucks and official cars flashing red and white. Passersby were milling near the intersection. But, despite the commotion, there was very little noise. The crowd was hushed and darkness seemed to stretch everywhere except on that small corner.

The paramedics had long since left the Medic unit as I held my position just outside the doors, trying to piece together the accident. Only 50 yards ahead, Wiegand popped the door of a Datsun pickup with a crowbar. Glass flew. "There may be a baby inside," someone yelled.

I ventured closer, camera in hand. There was no baby to be found, but those trapped in the metal entanglement precluded much picture taking. The pickup was twisted, as if made out of tin, and was evidence of an impact that would take a miracle to survive. There were no miracles here.

ACROSS THE lot of the one-time gas station a full-sized Chevrolet pickup sat motionlessly capsized on top of a Toyota. The hood and engine were mangled in accordion shape, the windshield was popped, but the driver had managed to crawl from wreckage, suffering head injuries. He was carried on a stretcher to the waiting Medic Unit.

Two additional cars collided while passing the accident scene. The State Patrol began questioning witnesses. It was soon learned that the small pickup had been attempting to cross eastbound on Pacific Highway when it collided with the full-size pickup northbound on the highway. The larger pickup glanced off the smaller truck following the collision and flipped over on the Toyota, already parked in the lot.

The State Patrol reports that the accident was fatal to the 1978 Datsun driver David Callecod, 27, of 925 S.W. 120th St., his wife Sandra, 25, and her brother Earl C. Tapp, 27, of Kent. The King County Medical Examiner's report indicates that all three died instantly.

The driver of the 1978 Chevrolet, Dennis Tinsman, was transported to Auburn General and released. Twenty-six-year-old Tinsman lives at 27912 Pacific Highway South, according to the State Patrol.

The facts were cold, and so was the night. Once the bodies were covered, I began taking pictures. Several of those on the scene asked what had happened. I told them I didn't know, and at that time I didn't.

But as I wandered across the lot, avoiding the spray of the fire hose that was washing away the remnants of the accident, I spoke to a few observers who, at 2 a.m., carried the smell of alcohol. I couldn't avoid thinking that they, too, would be driving down the roadway as soon as the scene was cleared.

District may fight Fife over territory shift

A proposed transfer of territory from the Federal Way to the Fife School District may meet with stiff opposition from Federal Way officials if the school board accepts a staff recommendation to improve transportation in the southeast corner of the district.

Approximately half of the 86 registered voters in a corner of the district have petitioned the King County School District Organization Committee — an arm of the Educational Service District 121 — to make the property switch.

A hearing was scheduled for Oct. 30, but was cancelled after the Federal Way District requested more time to respond. The hearing has now been tentatively set for Dec. 11.

The argument of the residents in the area is that Fife schools are more accessible than Federal Way schools. In a memo to Superintendent Milton Snyder, district director of finance and operations, Dan Clements, said he suspects the reason is a feeling that a better education has been available in Fife. With full funding, the Clements memo said, there is little justification for this argument and transportation problems can be resolved by adding a few bus stops.

Part of the problem, Clements indicated, is the board's policy of granting out-of-district transfer requests to anyone who makes one. The board deferred action until a more formal presentation is presented next month.

IN OTHER BUSINESS the administration reported that with an additional allocation of $20,000 in the district budget to the secondary library program that Sacajawea will probably meet full standard accreditation requirements and the district's other four junior highs will be very close. The budgetary shift amounts to an additional expenditure of $2.50 per junior high student in the junior high library program.

New light due by next month

The long awaited traffic control signal at the intersection of South 272nd and Pacific Highway South should be installed and in operation by the end of November, according to District Traffic Engineer Jim Cleary.

Cleary said the project is being held up pending delivery of the controller which is manufactured on the east coast. Design of the project is complete, he said, and can't be speeded up any more than it already has been.

The accident Saturday morning that left three persons dead and another injured has resulted in a new clamor among businesses and residents near the intersection for a traffic light.

The state advanced the timetable for the light by more than a year after a rash of fatality accidents in 1978, including one involving a four-year-old boy.

The new light will cost approximately $91,000 and will be a full traffic control with left turn channelization, the ability to be altered according to traffic demand, crosswalks and pedestrian signals.

Ghost haunts Des Moines area home

by Cathy Stone

(This is a factual account of a four-year experience as related by several members of a Des Moines family. Robinson Newspapers is using fictitious names for the family members at their request to protect them from the inevitable harassment which follows the revealing of stories such as this one. Names of the persons from the Tzaddi Church and School of Metaphysics who responded to the family's cry for help are real.)

Ruth Wiley awoke in the early morning hours for no apparent reason. As she became more conscious, she suddenly realized she couldn't move. She felt like something or someone was holding her down. She struggled against the pressure with such force that when she managed to free her left arm, it flung outward, the movement shaking the bed. Seconds later, she heard the sound of something jumping off the bed. She instinctively elbowed her husband to awaken him. Her husband, Bill, was already awake.

"I heard it," he said, as they both listened to the sounds of footsteps receding down the hallway.

When Ruth and Bill Wiley moved into their new home with their children, the idea of spirits and ghosts was a totally alien one — so alien that when they began hearing noises, they attributed them to other causes for a considerable length of time.

"Anytime you move into a new house, you hear different types of noises," Ruth said.

Later, when the noises increased from knocking in the walls to the sounds of doors opening and closing and walking, they suspected their older children were sneaking out of the house at night.

"We were determined to catch them," Ruth said. "We put tape over the door and placed matchboxes on the doorknobs, but when we checked, we found the doors had not been disturbed."

A terrifying incident experienced by their son before the walking sounds even started had been discounted as a young boy's imagination, perhaps aggravated by a shadow.

It occurred shortly after they had moved into their new home.

Raymond, then nine, had been sitting up in bed, reading.

"I got the feeling something was coming, so I looked at the door," he said.

He watched as a greyish-green mist came through the hole in his door where the doorknob would have been. It became an oval shape, he said, which reached to the floor without touching it. When he screamed, the mist dissipated.

"I believed him, yes," the boy's mother said. "I believed something frightened him because he was hysterical. He couldn't pretend something like that."

While she believed he had been badly frightened, neither parent believed he had just had the first visual contact with the other inhabitant of their house.

While the sounds continued for the first two years, there were no repeats of the type of incident Raymond experienced.

Eventually, the family members started to laugh about the noises, joking that their house was haunted. It was still, two years into the experience, a joke.

As time passed, however, it seemed the noise became worse.

"The person or persons were getting more aggressive, closer, louder and more often," Ruth said.

Coinciding with the increased noise were two incidents which occurred within a month of each other.

One winter evening, the children were home alone. Though the lights appeared to be on in all the neighboring homes, their electricity was out. The children were cooking hotdogs in the fireplace by candlelight.

In the quiet, they heard something fall and break. Upon investigating, they found a porcelain deer which had been on top of the bookcase.

A second item came off the same bookcase on New Year's Day, but this time several family members saw it. A 10-inch china doll, which had been accidentally broken into two pieces, was lying on the bookcase awaiting repair. As everyone watched in astonishment, half of the doll flew off the case as if someone had pushed it and shattered on the entryway floor below.

There were no vibrations that could have caused it to do that, Ruth said.

Those incidents and the increased noise "sort of got us wondering," she said.

That New Year's Day incident

Metro take-over is ill conceived

Proposition One (1) on the Nov. 6 general election ballot is the mislabeled "Metro Merger" issue. It's mislabeled because it is not a merger at all, but a proposed take-over of the Metro transit and sewer operations by King County.

Metro, as a government agency is unique in that it is a federation of Seattle, King County, smaller municipalities and unincorporated areas working together on regional functions.

The proponents of the county grab hang their entire campaign on the "one man, one vote" issue and Metro leadership has long recognized the need to do some re-structuring so that all areas of the county have equal representation.

Over the years Metro has established an outstanding record of accomplishment. It was formed 20 years ago by a group of farsighted civic leaders to clean up Lake Washington. Today the lake is probably the cleanest body of water within a metropolitan area in the nation.

In 1972 the voters authorized Metro to go into the public transit business and the electorate backed it up with an addition to the sales tax to support the new countywide bus agency. Metro promised 57 million riders by 1981. Again it delivered and is today the fastest growing transit system in the nation.

The proponents charge that the 37 person Metro council is not directly accountable to the voters and is often a "rubber stamp" for the staff. With the exception of the six appointees who represent unincorporated areas, all the council persons are elected officials from other jurisdictions. It's a politically diverse group, representing nearly every conceivable philosophy and extreme — hardly the type of group to rubber stamp anything. If anything, the "rubber stamp" charge is a compliment to the sophistication and expertise of the staff employed by the council.

Because of the federated structure Metro is often immune to the political gamesmanship often found in the King County Council Chambers. An example of that gamesmanship is the County Council's attempt to confuse the voters by numbering the merger issue as proposition one — the number assigned to the farmlands bond issue in the primary election. The farmlands issue garnered an overwhelming "yes" vote in September but failed to validate. The ploy is obvious — the merger proponents are hoping to siphon off some of those "yes" farmlands votes.

In the primary the farmlands backers had campaign buttons — an ear of corn and "vote yes on proposition one" slogan. Councilman Gary Grant, a leading merger proponent was wearing such a button last week. This is the type of mentality that wants to take over the operation of the Metro transit and sewer operation.

Metro is alive, well and functioning on all cylinders. There's no reason to tinker with it. The merger has been opposed by such prestigious groups as the Municipal League, the League of Women Voters and the Seattle Chamber of Commerce. To that list we add our opposition.

The Gay Blade Evening with Lisa

by Henry Gay

One of the rare pleasures of these affluent times is dining in one of the new steak houses that hire college students to wait on the customers.

No longer must diners put up with helpful, unobtrusive waiters and waitresses who have spent years learning their trade, a calling almost as old as indigestion. The new, minimum-wage waitpersons are all individuals, personalities who bring a freshness born of ignorance to the ancient occupation.

The following is a recollection of the dialogue during a recent enchanted evening spent with one of these scholars.

Good evening. Welcome to the Burnt Steer. Are we eating tonight or would we just like cocktails in the Dehorn Room?

Dinner, if you please.

Here we are. A nice table in the Bull Durham Corner, our smoking section, since I notice you are sucking on a filthy weed. Your grub hustler tonight will be Lisa, who is working toward a degree in advanced strut at Pompon University.

Hi there. I'm Lisa. I'll be your grub hustler tonight. If there's just any little old thing you want, just throw a lasso on me and I'll burn up the trail getting it for you.

I'll have a martini, up.

Would we like a cocktail before dinner?

We would. A martini, up. On the rocks or straight up?

Up.

You got it, cowboy.

Would we like another cocktail now or would we like to order?

We'll order. Bring us a green salad with Roquefort dressing, the small cut of prime rib rare, and a baked potato.

What kind of dressing on the salad?

Roquefort.

Do you want the Ponderosa fries or the Saddlebag baked potato?

The baked potato. Do you want the Buckaroo cut or the Top Hand cut of the prime rib?

The small cut. That's the Buckaroo.

I'll have the Buckaroo.

How would you like it cooked?

Rare.

What would you like on your potato?

Just butter.

We've got sour cream, bacon bits and chives.

Just butter.

We've also got a special cheese sauce made out of cheese.

Just butter.

You got it, cowboy.

There we are. Would we like a bottle of wine with our meal?

I'll have a glass of the house red.

We have Chablis, Burgundy and rose. Most people order the Chablis.

I'll have the Burgundy.

The Burgundy's not chilled.

I know.

It's warm.

I know. I'll have the Burgundy.

You got it, cowboy.

Well, now, did we enjoy the prime rib?

We did. It's the first three-ounce portion of prime rib we've ever been served, but, aside from the fatty part and the gristle, it was delicious.

Everybody loves the Buckaroo.

It's real popular with those who don't want to spend a whole lot of money. Poor people can eat out with their kids because the Buckaroo only costs seven dollars. Now, then, are we going to have dessert?

No dessert, thank you. Just bring me a cup of black coffee.

Will we need cream with the coffee?

No cream. Black.

If you need sugar, it's over there in that little plastic steer's head. What will we have for dessert?

Nothing, thanks. Just black coffee.

We have Cookhouse Cheesecake, Corral Cobbler, Barbwire Custard and our specialty, Cow Pie.

No thanks. Just bring me a black coffee.

The Cow Pie is just like mud pie but we call it Cow Pie to go with the theme. You probably noticed that everything in here looks just like a cow ranch. Most people order the Cow Pie. It's like, you know, an experience.

No thanks. Just black coffee.

You got it, cowboy.

And the check.

There we are. One black coffee with no cream. Would we like an after dinner drink?

No, just the check.

You got it, cowboy. Four and six is nine and carry the one and nine and seven is...how much is nine and seven, cowboy?

New jail needed now

The recent jailbreak at the King County Jail has spotlighted the conditions at the 50-year-old facility and has raised a question to be hotly debated in the months to come.

Should the taxpayers buy an expensive new jail in downtown Seattle to replace the antiquated current facility?

Some government officials are trying to get the ball rolling for a new jail. They have asked the King County Council to approve $8 million in councilmanic bonds to buy property and begin design for a new 12-story, 500-inmate jail in downtown Seattle.

The council has not made a decision on the bonding scheme yet, but may do so this fall.

We hope the council moves quickly on this matter.

The conditions at the jail are sickening, at least that's the word from a group of reporters and county officials who toured the facility last week.

There were reports of overcrowding to the extent that some inmates sleep on the floor. Poor lighting and air ventilation add to the dungeon-like atmosphere.

We feel the squalid conditions at the jail played a part in the recent jailbreak when seven prisoners risked their lives to get out. One died in the attempt and the rest are all back behind bars.

Besides pointing out poor conditions at the jail, the jailbreak also indicated a security problem. Are there too few guards for too many prisoners? Are the guards adequately trained? Do security policies need to be examined?

County councilmen should investigate these questions as they deliberate over whether to build a new jail.

The problems the county is facing with housing its prisoners will not go away. The jail is overcrowded now and will be overcrowded this time next year.

The county is obligated to house its prisoners in the most humane way possible. Now is the time to head toward fulfilling that obligation.

Under the Capitol Dome

by Robert C. Cummings

The law restricting the lights which school buses may carry probably will be changed the next time the Legislature meets.

Subcommittees of the Senate and House Transportation Committees currently are considering an amendment which would permit them to carry flashing amber lights as well as flashing red. The flashing amber would come on when a bus was preparing to stop to take on or discharge passengers.

Advance Warning

Because it is illegal to pass a school bus when its red lights are flashing, the flashing amber would give motorists advance warning.

Proponents point out such notice would be especially valuable during periods when streets and roads are slippery, either from ice or heavy rainfall. The system is used in several other states and has been popular with the motoring public.

Minimal Cost

All of the new buses come already equipped with the flashing amber lights.

But because this state prohibits use of any lights other than those specified in a 1971 law, the lights are disconnected on delivery. It would only be a matter of hooking them up again.

As for older vehicles still in service which aren't so equipped, the Superintendent of Public Instruction's office estimates installation of the lights would cost about $85 per bus.

A Long Way to Go

Proposals to limit campaign expenditures, and also to provide for partial public funding of campaigns, appear to have a long way to go before one can be drafted which could pass the Legislature.

Such an achievement doesn't appear likely within the foreseeable future, though the House Constitution and Elections Committee is making a stab at it. It is now considering two bills which have been in the committee ever since they were introduced last Feb. 7.

Governorship and the Legislature

One measure, HB 906, would apply solely to candidates for Governor. The other, HB 857, pertains only to candidates for legislative seats.

Each would provide space on ballots where a voter could designate a $1 contribution from the general fund to go into a special campaign fund in the State Treasury.

Each also would impose limits on campaign contributions and expenditures, but their provisions differ in many respects, and so do the formulas for public funding.

A $400,000 Ceiling

Campaign expenditures for the governorship would be limited by HB 906 for the combined primary and general election contests to $400,000.

Individual contributions to any one candidate would be limited to $250. The language pertaining to contributions by corporations, labor organizations and similar groups is confusing, if not ambiguous.

Public funding would be on a matching basis of $3 for each $1 contributed, but the formula for computing it is quite complex.

A Voluntary Proposal

Candidates for legislative seats would be limited to expenditures totaling $4,500.

Contributions would be limited to $250 each from individuals, $500 from groups or organizations, and to $5,000 from political parties.

But all limits would be voluntary, and would apply only to candidates signing a contract to qualify them for public funding on a dollar-for-dollar matching basis. Any candidate which didn't contract for public funding would be exempt from all limitations.

No Doubt About Problems

Both measures are supported by Common Cause, the so-called "citizens' lobby."

Their principles also are lauded by numerous others who are concerned about escalating campaign costs, and the possible influence of "special interests" which contribute huge sums to candidates.

But Gov. Dixy Lee Ray already has a campaign chest which exceeds the ceiling which would be imposed by HB 906.

And there have been some disturbing experiences with a law similar to HB 857.

Minnesota's Experience

Legislative candidates in Minnesota who have signed contracts in order to qualify for public funding, have been accused by their opponents of being "wards of the state."

They are asked whether they doubt their ability to win election on their own merits.

Aspersions are cast upon their qualifications.

As a result, some candidates are known to have shied away from public funding, and campaigned in the usual, orthodox manner.

But supporters of the plan contend that time and education will eventually lead to general public acceptance of public funding, which in turn will eliminate the problem.

 signaled the start of experience after experience for which the family could find no explanations.

One morning Ruth went down into the basement to awaken her children as was her daily custom. She knocked on the bedroom doors at one end of the hallway, then continued up the other end.

After knocking on the most distant door, she became extremely cold and "goose-pimply". She turned and saw something at the opposite end of the hallway which appeared to go from the bathroom to her husband's workroom. She described it as a greyish-white mist.

"It just floated across the hall."

She yelled at her daughter to faster. I yelled at him again. When he didn't come out, I raised up the side of the spread. The noise stopped."

She had just enough time to see that the dog was not under the bed, when the knocking sounds started in the closet, then went around through the walls, like it was between the inside and outside wall.

"It pounded and it pounded those terrible frightening knocks."

She ran out of the bedroom, and as the knocking continued, called up a nearby friend. The knocking continued until her friend got up to the door, Ruth said. Her friend went back outside and waited, but it never started again.

"If it had just been me," Ruth said, "I would have put myself in-

We were still trying to find out what it was."

And, she said, "you don't want to admit to the world that you've experienced something no one understands. It was hard, especially for my husband and I, to admit there was something here that we didn't understand and had no control over."

Another reason why the family never discussed moving is perhaps because they decided whatever was harassing them was essentially good. He had hurt no one and in one instance, he did something to gain their attention, but without breaking something which meant a great deal to Ruth.

When they heard the noise, Ruth knew it was an antique mirror she had hanging in the bathroom. She expected to find it they've heard and what they've seen because I've experienced it all myself," Ruth said. "I'll never doubt another person who tells me they've seen a ghost or had an ESP feeling."

The morning after Suzanne's experience, the family found a spot on the hallway wall. It was dark red, she said, and looked like dried blood.

Everyone tried to wipe it away, Ruth said, but it wouldn't come off.

Shortly after that, Ruth called a woman named Evelyn someone had told her might be able to help. The woman told Ruth she felt over the phone that the "vibes" were good and said they had no need to be afraid.

Someone later suggested she call the University of Washington. They put her in touch with their Experimental College and through them, she learned about the Tzaddi Church and School of Metaphysics which provides instructors for some of the College's courses.

She spoke with the Rev. Dr. Larry Iverson. He told her to call anytime anything happened, but it usually occurred in the middle of the night and by the time he could have arrived, it would have stopped, she said.

About two weeks ago, Iverson came to the house to try to help the Wileys with their problem.

When Iverson entered the Wiley home, he immediately felt the presence of the disembodied human being who had been occupying the home since the Wileys moved in.

He was accompanied by Dr. Julie Casebold, Rev. Kay Granberg and DyAnn Loboch. Like Iverson, they are all instructors of the Tzaddi School, an international organization with campuses in India, South America, Europe and the United States.

They had come to the Wiley residence to attempt to convince whoever was there to leave.

Iverson brought his fellow metaphysicians to assist him on the advice of a Tzaddi Church Bishop in Garden Grove, California, who told him the spirit was extremely energetic and he should not try to do it alone. In addition, although Iverson has exorcised persons, this was to be his first house exorcism.

Before entering the home, Iverson knew very little about the spirit, other than what Ruth and Suzanne Wiley had told him about his activities. However, when he entered the home, it felt very cold, he said, and he felt the spirit was depressed, frustrated, hurt and confused.

Iverson explained the spirit was existing on the astral plane, but for some reason was desperately holding onto the physical plane. Whatever his reason, it was powerfully important to the spirit because it takes a great deal of energy and effort to hold on to the physical plane once a person has passed on to a different dimension, Iverson said.

The exorcism began with meditation and the lighting of a pink candle, representing love, a white candle, representing purity or cleansing, and rose incense, which produces a calming effect, Iverson said.

The metaphysicians moved from room to room, each time following a ritual of meditation in an attempt to fill the room with love and harmony.

Their purpose was to make the atmosphere more peaceful, to calm the spirit down and to try and establish enough harmony so they might make contact with him, Iverson said.

"We wanted to let him know we are people interested in his well-being and not his demise."

As they went from room to room, they continually went in and out of meditative states. They began to develop an empathy with him and tried to help him understand what would be best for him and for the family, Iverson said.

They also began to pick up bits and pieces of information about the man who was haunting the Wiley home.

Each of the four metaphysicians independently came up with the same name: John Francis MacDougall.

He was a good-sized man with reddish hair, and was about 56 years old when he died about 35 years ago.

In one of the rooms in the home, three of the four metaphysicians experienced severe chest pains which lasted for several minutes. They were experiencing MacDougall's moment of death.

Medically, he died of a heart attack, but, Iverson said, "he literally died of a broken heart because he missed his wife so much."

His wife, Sarah, had died perhaps six months before him, but the time element is uncertain.

When they learned his cause of death, they also began to understand why he was at the Wiley home.

"He was holding onto the physical world because he so deeply regretted her loss, so much so that he was lost. He literally did not know what to do."

About halfway through the process when they had developed a greater rapport with him, they mentally told him, "Look, this is not the best place for you to be," Iverson said. "There are other places for you to go."

It was then they learned he had a deep fear of going to hell.

Iverson said they used logic on him, telling him mentally, "No, you're not dead. You're still alive (on a different plane). If you're not alive, how could you be communicating with us? How could you be doing the things you're doing around here?"

"One of the main things we we did," Ruth said.

Patrice, describing the night of the "exorcism" said it felt like a cold breeze passed and a good feeling came.

"I used to feel down and depressed, but I feel a lot better now," she said.

There was one other physical change which occurred that night. Ever since the family moved into the house, the red light which indicates the oven is on was always lit. When the metaphysicians left their home that night, the red light was off.

With the extinguishing of that light came the beginnings of a freedom from fear for the family and a belief that John Francis MacDougall never meant to hurt or scare them, but rather perhaps was seeking their help. What remains is curiosity about how all those things could have happened.

Iverson explained MacDougall accomplished the physical feats he did in a manner somewhat similar to the way famed psychic Uri Geller is able to mentally turn on the light, then checked, almost expecting to find someone in the bathroom or in the locked workroom.

Finding nothing, she had her daughter turn off the lights so she could go through the same motions in hopes that what she had seen was a reflection. She did not see it again.

"In the meantime, things were getting still worse," Ruth said, describing the walking sounds, creaking and knocking as getting louder.

Despite the noises and the experiences, the family had no thoughts of leaving their home.

"At first, it was a fun-type thing. We laughed it off because you don't want to believe," Ruth said.

While the family tried to laugh it off, there is no doubt they were living in a fearful situation.

Ruth was badly shaken by another incident, occurring again in the morning.

Bill and Ruth occasionally ate apples after going to bed. She had left hers untouched, so she nibbled on it as she was making up the bed. She took a bite of the apple and laid it on her nightstand while she made up her side of the bed. She took another bite, walked around to her husband's side, took another bite and laid it on her husband's nightstand.

She turned her back to the nightstand to make up his side when the apple suddenly flew past her head and crashed into the far wall.

"I became hysterical and jumped on the bed," Ruth said. "Thank heavens for my daughter, Suzanne. She got on the bed with me and rocked me like I was a baby. She calmed me down."

When she was more relaxed, she tried to laugh it off, she said. She tried to rationalize what happened, thinking perhaps her muu muu had caught the apple somehow and had caused it to flip through the air.

However, she was unable to rationalize another incident.

She had just returned home, she said, and everything seemed OK, but as soon as she walked into the bedroom, "I didn't believe I was even in this world".

"I heard a knocking on the floor," she said, but she thought it was the dog under the bed, scratching.

"He's not supposed to be under the bed, so I yelled at him to get out. He didn't come. Instead the noise became louder, harder and to a mental institution, but everyone in this house has had an experience."

The Wiley's young daughter, Patrice, related two experiences she had while sleeping in the bedroom which once belonged to Raymond.

She had just returned from a movie, she said. She was laying in bed, when she heard the door open and close.

"I just knew it was my Dad," she said, but when she looked, she saw a man dressed in a black cloak-type garment.

She tried to scream, she said, but she couldn't.

The apparition faded and she was just getting calmed down, when something caught her eye. She looked and saw a face in her mirror, which she thought was a friend of hers who had moved away. It had red hair.

"I closed my eyes because I was really scared and when I opened my eyes, it was gone."

Two weeks later, the mirror fell off the wall and broke. The wire and hook were both intact, so it was as if someone had lifted it off, Patrice said.

The second incident was perhaps less dramatic, but no less frightening to Patrice.

She was lying in bed one night shattered. When she went to look, she found the mirror had been moved from its place over the sink, but rather than being broken on the floor, it was propped up on the top of the toilet.

In recent months, the activity has increased, Ruth said.

She awoke one night to find her husband looking under the bed and in the closets. He told her "I heard something jump off the bed again."

He said he felt "it" on the bed between them and had even seen an indentation.

Another night the knocking kept Ruth awake, so she went out into the living room. She sat on the sofa and listened to the knocking on the window behind her for three hours.

"I refused to let it bother me. I ignored it."

Finally, it got bored with her, she said, and went down into the basement and crashed something.

Twice, the rocker refused to move when someone was sitting in it and both times, there was the scent of roses in the air.

"We started talking more about getting help in the past few months," she said, "but what really made us make the decision was an incident my 18-year-old daughter, Suzanne, experienced."

At 20 minutes to two in the morning, she came upstairs. It was as if she was in shock.

"She was pale, scared to death, but she wasn't screaming. She said something had gotten hold of the bottom of her bed and was shaking it, saying in a whisper, 'murder, murder, murder'."

Ruth stayed up all night with her daughter, calling radio and television stations to learn if there had been an earthquake. There wasn't.

"She left and hasn't come back since. She won't come back. She didn't know what was happening with this voice."

"I believe everything my children have said about what "We wanted him to know we are people interested in his well-being."

were trying to do was establish a rapport with him. Before you can talk to anyone, he has to develop some belief that you will tell him the truth."

They continued to try to communicate with him and gain his trust, a long process, Iverson said, because he had built a wall around himself of fear and doubt.

As they were beginning to establish a rapport with him, they started feeling a female presence around.

"We had the feeling the presence we felt was his wife," he said. "When she came into where he could sense her, he was at first nervous. Slowly, by her being lovbend spoons.

The activity increased, Iverson said, because of the family's reaction. By fearing it, worrying and wondering about it, they were feeding it. Though there was no literal energy transference, it was as if he picked up and used the energy they directed toward him.

The family could not have been aware of that and even if they had, it would be difficult at best to control that kind of fear.

Perhaps it was the absence of fear in the four metaphysicians which prevented MacDougall from physically harassing them. However, it is not as though he

Rev. Dr. Larry Iverson: "From the moment we sat down to meditate, we all felt his presence around us."

ing toward him, he allowed her to get closer so they could communicate."

His wife had come, Iverson said, to try to convince him to let go of the physical plane and to continue his life elsewhere.

The four metaphysicians continued throughout the rooms in the house, and by the time they were done, both John and Sarah MacDougall had left.

The absence of the spirit has brought a great change to the home, Ruth said.

The red spot, which the family members could not remove, was easily wiped away by one of the metaphysicians. The physical incidents, the noises and the visual experiences, have stopped, but there is an even greater change.

"We feel so much closer than didn't try.

At one point in the exorcism, MacDougall gave Iverson a jolt of electricity to his left hand. The reaction was one of surprise, certainly, but he did not respond with fear, and there were no further incidents.

Iverson spoke with Ruth Wiley recently and learned the family is feeling a much greater warmth toward each other, in short, they are much happier.

It can only be assumed that John Francis MacDougall is happier after leaving a 35-year prison of isolation, after 35 years of being in limbo between two worlds, neither one of which he could call his own.

"It pounded and pounded those terrible frightening knocks."

Dial the fire department

When it's life or death, the call for help counts

by Nathalie Weber

Last Friday night Federal Way's paramedics were called to aid a woman who had collapsed in her home. The request was received from a local ambulance service, the address was incorrect and no call-back phone number had been taken by the ambulance dispatcher.

The response was delayed more than 15 minutes until the woman's husband called the ambulance service a second time with the correct address. When the paramedics arrived, the heart patient could not be saved.

Earlier this month Federal Way Fire Department received a call to a house fire. The call came from a local ambulance service because those occupying the burning home had more ready access to the ambulance, not the fire department, phone number. The transferring of calls stalled the response time and by the time the fire department arrived, the home was fully engulfed in flame.

THE PROBLEM OF making the right connections in an emergency could be rooted in public carelessness or in what has become a battle of the emergency phone number stickers in Federal Way. But, whatever the cause, the result threatens both life and property, Bob Hash, Federal Way Fire Department's assistant chief said last week.

Public carelessness can only be conquered with education on the correct numbers to call in an emergency. The real problem in Federal Way, however, appears to be that most phones display too many emergency numbers — and not necessarily the vital ones.

This is not a new problem for the fire department. Some time ago two of the major ambulance services were distributing stickers promoting their respective businesses. "It was like a big game. They'd follow each other all over Federal Way, slapping their stickers over the competitors," Hash said.

THE RESULT was cluttered phones, confusing emergency numbers and frequently the pasting over of the fire department emergency numbers. Realizing the potential danger of confusing the public, Rescue Ambulance agreed not to distribute stickers promoting its service. But the other major ambulance service continued to print its stickers, its phone number in prominent red lettering at the top and spaces to pencil in the fire and police number below.

A check of phones at SeaTac Mall businesses displays some of the damage. The ambulance stickers, which are twice the size of the fire department's, were in several cases more prominently displayed than were the fire department's. While nearly every phone had an ambulance sticker, some were without any fire department numbers. At one business, fire department officials recently removed one of the ambulance stickers that had been pasted over a fire department sticker.

In a medical emergency, the fire department also should be called to dispatch aid units, and Medic units if needed. There are several reasons to call Medic One before contacting an ambulance, Hash said.

Although there is no way to determine if the response delay in last Friday's emergency contributed to the victim's death, it is a possibility that could have been avoided had the correct number been called. That correct number, Hash said, is the fire department.

Obviously, the only number to call in the event of fire is the fire department. To call in a panic situation, however, the number must be close at hand.

When Medic One is called, an ambulance also responds to the call and transports the patient if that patient's condition is not life-threatening. If, however, an ambulance is called and the patient's condition is serious enough to warrant Medic One, the paramedics must then be called. This may constitute a delay, Hash said. Not only are the paramedics more qualified to handle emergencies than are ambulance employees, the Medic One service also is paid for through tax dollars and therefore is offered without charge to the victim.

Hash said he can't overemphasize the importance of displaying the fire department number more than any other emergency number on or near the phone. Fire department stickers are fluorescent pink about two inches wide and one inch high. They are available at every elementary and secondary school within the district. Stickers also may be obtained at fire district headquarters, 31617 First Ave. S.

"The problem is more people are going to die because they have the wrong emergency numbers posted," Hash said. "As far as the fire department's concerned, we don't need more calls. But it's the public's safety that's at stake and if residents have the wrong numbers, they're the ones who are going to lose."

Jail guards vote no confidence in bosses

by Darlene Himmelspach

A unanimous vote of no confidence in the administration of the King County Jail was voiced Monday night by jail corrections officers in the wake of the escape Oct. 14 of seven inmates that left one prisoner dead and one Seattle police officer seriously wounded.

The vote came at a meeting of the union which represents the jail guards and staff amid predictions that future breakouts will occur if the county department of rehabilitative services, which runs the correction facility, does not take immediate action to change jail conditions.

Most commonly voiced among the grievances were the need for a standard operating procedure and more training for the officers. Officers have been working without an SOP for as long as six years, many agreed and one told of his initiation to the jail. "On my first day on deck, I was handed a set of keys and told to 'figure it out.' That has never changed."

Angry corrections officers predicted that existing jail conditions and the lack of proper training and guidelines for officers will result in "a riot pretty soon." One said "next time there could be more than one person dead and one gravely wounded."

The lack of confidence in the administration of Director James Coughlin stems from his lack of visibility in the jail, one-way dealings and "we don't believe anything they tell us." During the hour-and-a-half session in a steamy basement room of the King County Courthouse, guards rose to challenge the way the jail is run and their lack of recourse to change bad situations. "We have tried to go through the chain of command but we have found too many weak links in the chain."

They voted to form a taskforce, at the invitation of Director Coughlin, to work with jail officials to correct the problems now facing the officers and the jail. The list is to be voted on by next week and will include rank and file members of the union, Local 519 officers, staff and supervisors.

Before the group adjourned, one officer moved a strike vote if no action results from the meeting held Monday night.

Another officer called conditions in the jail a "crisis situation where we send men and women in to take unreasonable risks. No one has the right to ask anyone to do that. It is a situation where any officer in this room can be busted up bad and killed."

As about 90 officers and staff met, 11 floors below the jail felony unit, one officer reported that the approximately 500 prisoners upstairs and in the jail across the street were being guarded by only five officers.

The taskforce, although receiving unanimous approval as a concept, should not be used to placate officers who have legitimate grievances about the lack of sufficient personnel to cover shifts and duty at Harborview Hospital, one officer cautioned.

Another, a long-time veteran of the corrections department seemed to sum up the feelings of the group when he said "this city, this administration is damn lucky there haven't been more breakouts." And a recurrent demand was that the administration "get that damn SOP (standard operating procedure) done."

SINCE THE BREAKOUT: An investigation of the situation has been undertaken by the department of public safety, the FBI and the department of rehabilitative services.

King County Councilman Paul Barden led members of his operations, police and judiciary committee on a tour of the jail and questioned Coughlin about possible causes for the calamity. Barden also see. med critical of the corrections officer, John Duffy, who allowed Artie Ray Baker to march him out to the control room at gunpoint without yelling "jailbreak." Barden said "he decided to pass the risk on to these fellows out here" in the control room.

King County Executive John Spellman used the breakout as an example of how desperately the county needs a new corrections facility. The following day he urged the county council to approve $8 million councilmanic bonds to begin work on a high-rise jail two blocks from the courthouse.

Seattle City Council assails Metro merger

by Darlene Himmelspach

Calling it a county plan to takeover Metro, Seattle City Councilwoman Jeanette Williams denounced the proposed merger of Metro with county government Monday.

The issue, which is facing county and city voters Nov. 6, is not necessary and would, if passed, "take away the voices of cities and towns" included in the Metro service area, Williams charged. She said the transit and sewage agency is "going a good job" and asked "if it ain't broke, why fix it?"

At a press conference Monday Williams said she was speaking for all members of the Seattle City Council and "joining voices with other organizations which oppose Proposition 1" that asks the voters if the two governments should be consolidated. Williams also said she is "disturbed over the numbers game that is being played and the insistence that Prop. 1 (formerly the agriculture bond ballot designation) be put on the ballot as Proposition 3."

King County Councilman Paul Barden was responsible for the change in designation withholding his essential vote to replace the agricultural bond issue on the November ballot until other county council members agreed to give the Metro merger issue top ballot billing.

Barden and County Councilman Gary Grant have been the key sponsors of the proposed merger. Grant said Monday he would "disagree" with Williams' contention that the county is attempting a "takeover. There is assurance within the legislation which permitted the election that certain personnel will be retained," the 9th District Democrat said.

"The rationale for consolidation is to make it an accountable government with a directly elected legislative body," Grant said. He said cities and towns presently enjoy "an inordinate representation in the present Metro Council." Grant called cities "artificial government units that deal with these issues" (of water quality, transit and sewage.)

Grant also sought to refute comments made Monday by Seattle City Council President John Miller who said that any change of the existing Metro government structure should come through legislation "not just throw the whole thing out." Grant said "I don't think they have ever tried it" and called Miller's comments "a cop out, a delay—just fun and games being played with the issue."

In addition to his opposition to the merger, Miller also accused the county supporters of the measure of a "move to partisanize it (Metro)." He wanted that voters "should be very suspicious of attempts by political parties to extend their influence this way."

One county council member who does not favor the merger is West Seattle Democrat Bob Greive. Greive said the merger "will herald conflict between cities and the county. Instead of working as co-partners, they will be constantly bickering and fighting," Greive predicted.

Greive also agreed with Williams that Metro has done an excellent job on transit and "I don't think that should be scrapped." Also agreeing with Williams, Greive said he doesn't think King County can do as good a job running Metro as the current Metro government is doing. "Metro is functioning better than the county and is relatively free of politics and should be left to operate," Greive said.

Council positions open

Positions on the Federal Way Community Council currently are open for election in mid-November.

Positions, which are elected from elementary school districts, are available in every district, Jim Mawson, first vice chairman of the council, said this week.

The elections are slated for the evening of Nov. 13. Those interested in running must be 18 years old and reside within the elementary school service area from which they are running. Candidates need not be registered voters.

Already running for three of the positions are Todd Johnston from Nautilus, Ruth Koral from Twin Lakes and Pam Williamson from Mirror Lake.

Those interested in running may contact Mawson at 583-5572 weekdays, 927-6726 evenings and weekends.

Homecoming hopefuls

THESE FIVE Decatur High School students are vying for the title of homecoming queen. They are, left to right, Diana Dale, Katie Hallahan, Mary Grady, Lynn Waggoner and Kelly Flye. The queen will be announced at the homecoming assembly tomorrow afternoon at Decatur. Centered around the theme "I wonder what tomorrow has in mind for me," homecoming this year will be highlighted by the game against Clover Park to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Federal Way Memorial Stadium. A homecoming dance is slated for 9 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Friday at Decatur. Music will be provided by "Alley Cat," and tickets are on sale for $5 before the dance, $6 at the door.

S. K. C. road improvements anticipated

Six Southwest King County road projects are expected to be up for bid in 1980 and two are expected in 1981, according to County Councilman Paul Barden, a Normandy Park Republican. All are in the proposed six-year road program and all are expected to gain council approval for county funding this fall, according to Paul Hooper, a county engineer.

ting an existing roadway, providing four lanes and a continuous left-turn lane, at Southwest 320th Street, from First Avenue South to 21st Avenue Southwest. The proposed 1980 budget contains a request for $1.4 million for this phase two of the project. The previous two budget years contained an allocation of $932,871. The project is in the design stage.

Hooper described the projects as follows, beginning with the anticipated bid date.

- Spring 1980: Landscaping South 156th Street, Des Moines Way South to State Route 509. The proposed 1980 budget contains a request for $33,000.

- Summer 1980: Reconstructing an existing roadway on South 146th Street, between First and 8th avenues South. A bikeway is also planned. The 1980 budget plan proposes $408,000, in addition to $154,000 appropriated the previous year.

- Spring 1980: Installing a signal on Des Moines Way South at South 200th Street. Some $39,000 is requested in local funds.

- Fall 1981: Updating the signal at South 152nd Street and First Avenue South. Right-turn lane channelization is also planned. The proposed 1980 budget requests $17,000, in addition to $17,000 appropriated in the two previous years.

- Spring 1980: Constructing a 4th Avenue Southwest connector between Southwest 148th and 152nd streets. The proposed 1980 budget contains a request for $45,600, in addition to $855,337 appropriated in the two previous years.

- Fall 1981: Overlaying the existing South 188th Street roadway, from Highway 99 to 42nd Avenue South. Adding sidewalks, landscaping and illumination are also planned. The proposed 1980 budget contains a request for $310,500, in addition to $119,000 in the current budget.

- Spring 1980: Studying the feasibility of a Redondo Sea Wall, since a deteriorated sea wall may undermine get contains $20,000.

Matching funds are expected for most projects.

JULIE PETERSON, a 4 foot 11 inch junior at Thomas Jefferson High School gets measured to see if she qualifies for the "T.J. Shorts" by organizer Dave Sloan. The 80-member club was started to generate school spirit. —photo by Ann Hagen

T.J. Shorts are high on school spirit

by Ann Hagen

With 80 members strong, the T.J. Shorts more than make up for their size with clout.

The T.J. Shorts are a group of Thomas Jefferson High School students who have banned together for fun and service to their school. Girls cannot exceed 5 feet 4 inches and guys must be 5 foot 6 or less.

"We get a lot of jokes like 'short people have no reason to live' or 'why don't you stand up? Oh, I see you already are' from the kids but it's all in jest," said organizer Dave Sloan who tops the ruler at 5 feet 6 inches.

"Everybody likes to give us a bad time," he said laughingly admitting that they even get called "Raider Runt" from time to time by Jim Linker principal. "But, it's been great for school spirit."

Since organizing last spring, the group has been busy. They initiated an annual picnic, the first of which was held last year; are planning to coordinate a school wrestling tournament; and are putting together a "litter-bug ridicule" (BR) skit at the next pep assembly because they're "closer to the problem and probably notice it more."

But, Sloan said their main reason for existence is to have fun and create school spirit. Often excluded from activities because of their size, he said this gives short kids a chance to say "hey, I can belong to this and others can't."

WITH REQUIREMENTS THAT could be lower, Sloan said the purpose is not to exclude people but to give students a chance to identify with each other.

But, he couldn't refrain from a tall person jab when he said "If taller kids don't like it, they'll just have to get off their you-know-whats and form a club of their own."

When supporting their school, they do so with a many-numbered "small" show of force. They recently attended their T.J. homecoming football game dressed similarly in red and white tee-shirts with bold yellow letters stating "T.J. Shorts" on the front.

The club attracts many girls, though guys, less than 20 percent are in short demand. "Being in a short people's club is not real macho," said Sloan. "But, more boys are joining all the time as they see how much fun we're having."

When asked whether he felt short people were discriminated against, Sloan said he felt being short occasionally caused problems. Though he is 28, he said he is still asked for identification. "People assume that if you're small, you're also young. It's natural, but not necessarily a correct assumption."

However, Sloan, who grew up in Auburn and graduated from Central Washington University said that most kids are well adjusted. "If you're short, you have to live with it and most high school students have come to accept that."

Sloan said he developed the short people club last spring after finding himself among a group of kids who all seemed to be his height or shorter. He said he looked around and said to himself, "these people are sure short. We should form a club." He put the word out and found there was interest. A meeting was held and 30-40 kids showed up. The club was formed.

When asked what she felt about it, petite member Toni Hergert who measures up to whoppin' 4 feet 10 inches said she really enjoys it. "It sure beats being with all those tall people," she said emphatically.

Bicycle safety review

For children who ride their bikes to school regularly, it's time for a review of bike safety. Bicycles rank third, behind motor vehicles and stairsteps, as a cause of injuries. Six out of every 10 bike accidents involve youngsters between five and 14.

Margaret Movius, King County Extension agent, recommends that parents double check bikes to make sure the brakes, tires and handlebars are in good working order. Also take a look at the reflectors; after all, days are getting shorter again. All bikes should have pedal, wheel and front-back reflectors.

Good bike riding habits are the best defense against an accident. Children were probably taught good habits when they first started bicycling. Are they still practicing those same techniques?

How carefully do children drive? Do they know the basic rules of the road? Do they watch for cars suddenly pulling out from the curb? Do they ever allow friends to hitch a ride? Do they ride single file when they are biking with friends?

A review of these basic rules will help to prevent a biking accident happening to children.

Robbery trial begins

The trial of a Seattle man charged with robbing the Federal Way branch of Capital Savings and Loan June 29 started Monday in King County Superior Court.

Carl R. Garrison faces bank robbery charges and is also accused of auto theft in connection with the robbery. Another man pleaded guilty earlier to similar charges for the same robbery. Charles O. Willoughby, who was wounded while fleeing the bank, admitted his part in the crime.

John Odom, a West Campus area landscaper, testified Monday that he was working in the neighborhood of the bank at 33525 Pacific Hwy. S. when he heard someone yell "freeze" then heard shots. He said he looked toward the bank and "saw a guy standing at the door shooting at the car. It was all over real quick," and the car sped away. Odom said.

An off-duty county police detective who was in the bank at the time of the robbery reported that he saw Willoughby in the bank with a white knit cap over his face. He said the man informed tellers "This is no joke. It's a holdup. Give me all of it."

Det. Joseph Purcell reported after the robbery that he chased Willoughby from the bank yelling "Freeze. Police." Then he fired shots and drew return fire from Willoughby before the driver of the getaway car, alleged to have been Garrison, sped away.

No fees seen for bulk mail parking

Congressman Norm Dicks (D-6th) said that according to information he has received, no federal installations in the administration, in-sixth congressional district will be subject to parking fees proposed by the Carter

"Given our serious recruitment and retention problems in both military and civilian employment, it makes little sense to impose an additional burden on people whose compensation and benefits have already been eroding over the last several years," Dicks said.

Group to discuss security policies

"National Security and the Puget Sound Region" will be the first topic of four weekly local discussion groups concerned with security policies.

The groups will be held at First Unitarian Church of Seattle four consecutive Mondays beginning Oct. 29, at 7 p.m. Participants will discuss the issues after watching a pre-recorded program on the subject to be aired by KING-TV.

Pledges surpass half-way mark

The United Way pledges and contributions are rolling in and volunteers report that 56.8 percent of the goal, a total of $4,031,246 has been given.

The total was announced at the fourth of seven progress report meetings by John C. Day, senior vice president of Marsh and McLennan, and United Way associate general chairman.

Topper of the Week Award went to John Spellman's Local Government Division when they increased 19.4 percent in one week. The division total is $235,443 or 54.7 percent of the target.

Spellman is King County Executive. Herman Sarkowsky, Seahawks' managing partner, accepted the High Flyer Award when the Sport's Division reported 110.2

percent of their goal and a total contribution so far of $30,856. Goal of the 1979 appeal is $15,915,000 to benefit 101 human-service organizations. The appeal ends Nov. 13.

Haunted house horrors could scare you witless

by Ann Hagen
The chilling sounds of howling monsters and ghosts from the grave can now be heard throughout the area at haunted houses that have recently opened their doors for visitors. People looking for a thrill have a chance to visit horror chambers that are designed to curdle their blood and cause their stomachs to churn.

Spectacles have, in the past, caused young children to run from the horrors with their eyes covered, parents to flee breathlessly and teen-agers to run wide-eyed for cover.

The scarier the better. Somehow, the Halloween holiday gives people that one-day-in-a-year chance to face their worst fears for the fun of it.

Special effects including flashing lights, eerie music, guttural sounds and the promise of possible (but not likely) injury keep participants in suspense through their journey through darkened tunnels.

In Federal Way, students from the three local highschools have joined forces to set up a haunted house at SeaTac Village at 18th S. and 320th. Cost is $1.50 for children under 12 and $2 for adults.

It will be open for business from Oct. 22-30 from 6-10 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and from 6 p.m. to midnight on Friday and Saturday.

With 18 separate rooms, scenes will include an operating room that will involve a patient and three doctors poised for surgery, caged monsters banging at their steel bars and an executioner ready to pull the power switch.

THE PROCEEDS WILL BENEFIT the student body funds at each highschool. Duane Hammil, Federal Way High School coordinator recommends that youngsters, under eight be accompanied by an adult.

In Burien, the annual haunted house is open from Oct. 18 through Oct. 31 at 17646 Des Moines Way S. It is sponsored by the Burien Flyers Football Club and the Phantasy Players theatrical group.

The house of 20 rooms and a sound system provided by Speakerlab will feature such attractions as Dracula, Lizzie Borden, the Mad Scientist and other infamous and ghoulish creatures.

The "Countess" will be in attendance to welcome visitors between 7:30 and 10:30 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and from 7:30 to midnight on Fridays and Saturday. Admission is $2.

Not recommended for children under 12, the haunted house is planning a special children's matinee on Oct. 27 from 2-4 p.m.

Eleven KING Radio opened their doors to Dracula's Haunted Castle on Oct. 21 at the Seattle Center, Second and Mercer. This is the sixth year for KING's castle which benefits the Northwest Kidney Center.

It will be open each evening through Oct. 31 from 7-11 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and 7 p.m. to midnight on Friday and Saturday. Admission is $1.75. This year over 16,000 free discount coupons, worth 75 cents off will be available through Seattle area Kentucky Fried Chicken stores.

KING donates radio and television advertising spots. Radio personalities will be available each night to greet visitors and to hand out KING stickers. Disc jockey, "Murdock", on the air from 6-10 a.m. daily will be present on Tuesday evening.

Last year, with the help of Kidney Foundation volunteers, the castle drew over 25,000 visitors and grossed $33,000 for the kidney center.

THE 16TH ANNUAL VARIETY Club Haunted House opened for business on Oct. 19 at the Old King County Morgue at 100 Crockett Street in Seattle. It will run through Halloween night.

Produced by over 100 members of the Variety Club Young Adults, aged 15-25, it will be open from 7-10:30 p.m. Thursday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday; from 7 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. on Friday; from 6:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. on Saturday and from 7-10 p.m. on Halloween. Admission is $2 per person.

In the past 15 years the haunted house, sponsored by KJR Radio and the Pacific Coca-Cola Bottling Co. has raised close to $350,000 for handicapped and underprivileged children in the Pacific Northwest.

The KTAC Haunted House at 15th and Broadway in Tacoma will be open for business through Oct. 31 with the exception of Oct. 28.

Organized by several area high school clubs, week night hours are 7-10 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to midnight on Friday and Saturday. Admission is $2 per person.

Co-sponsored by KTAC Radio, the haunted house put $25,000 in the March of Dimes coffers last year.

Following safety tips ensures safe Halloween

On the last day of October, scores of miniature monsters and goblins will once again invade the streets seeking goodies to fill their bags.

For some of them, trick or treat could mean disaster unless parents, children, and motorists are aware of the potential dangers and know how to avoid them.

Parents are cautioned to instruct their children so that dangers can be minimized. Some helpful hints might include the following:

— Always carry a flashlight to avoid stepping into holes and ditches in unfamiliar territory. Avoid using candles that may either go out or ignite clothing.

— Wear clothing made of retro-reflective fabric whenever possible or tape clothing with reflective tape. If that's not possible, wear white clothing that can be more easily seen in the dark.

— Wear clothing that will not catch easily on branches and twigs.

— All treats should be inspected by parents before they are eaten.

— Treats that are not commercially packaged or sealed should be thrown away. This includes all packages that have rips or tears that could have been subject to tampering.

— Trick-or-treaters should begin at dusk and be home before 9 p.m. Start earlier for very young children.

— TRICK-OR-TREAT IN familiar neighborhoods, preferably your own.

— Stay away from houses that are dark.

— Wear masks that provide clear visibility or have your face made up with make-up.

— Whiskers, beards, floppy hats and wigs that are flammable or obstruct vision should not be used.

— The importance of crosswalks and traffic signals should not be overlooked in the excitement of rushing from one house to another.

— Trick-or-treat with the accompaniment of a parent or older brother or sister.

— Go in pairs or in small groups. Never go out alone.

To help make trick-or-treating a more satisfying event for youngsters, parents are encouraged to have their homes well lit. Paths to the door should be clear of any hoses or furniture that could entangle small feet.

A well-lit house also discourages vandals from creating havoc by soaping windows or egging, according to Michael Butschli crime prevention officer for King County Police.

"Pranksters usually try to remain as anonymous as possible," he said. "If they can be easily seen, they'll go onto something else."

Butschli said that most pranksters are between the ages 12-

18. Most of the pranks fall into the category of nuisance vandalism and involves throwing pumpkins from bridges, marking up business windows or harassing trick-or-treaters. BUTSCHLI SAID THAT, though they get few calls, the King County Police will have at least 10 cars in precinct three, with four of those scouting the Federal Way area during the second shift from 3 p.m. to midnight.

In order to do their part to promote safety motorists are advised to keep a keen eye out for obscure trick-or-treaters who may or may not be totally visible. They are cautioned to drive slowly at all times, especially while in populated neighborhoods.

Fife BPW hosting reception

Fife-Milton-Edgewood Business and Professional Women's Club is sponsoring a reception from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 25, at the Milton Community Center.

The reception is in recognition of National Business Women's Week. Any woman interested in joining BPW or learning more about the club is invited to attend.

SIMMONS uses a stroke sander to smooth the larger surfaces of the cabinet doors. Bisch's workshop is equipped with many different types of woodworking tools. A table is shown in photo above which Bisch crafted to match an existing set of furniture. He used a drill press for the larger details and handcarved the rest.

Woodworking

In Cliff Bisch's hands, an unlimited variety of woods can become an unlimited number of creations.

In his Des Moines shop, Bisch has designed and crafted an antique-style baby cradle, a table, many, many cabinets and an entertainment center. He can build anything the imagination allows.

However, all this creation isn't cheap in time and money.

"There isn't anything we do here that isn't time-consuming," he said.

Just how much time and money varies with each individual project, so when someone asks Bisch how much it will cost for a cabinet, he can't help but laugh.

"People don't realize that cabinets can range from Volkswagens to Cadillacs."

One "Cadillac" he just completed was the 19½ foot entertainment center which took about 200 hours to build. The custom-made design includes two window seats, eight separate cabinets and two large areas for television and stereo equipment. The tv-stereo areas may be concealed with a roll-top desk-style enclosure, each section of which was individually crafted.

Before opening his "Fine Woodworking" shop, Bisch built boats for four years, was a boat mechanic and taught engineering drafting at the college level.

He gravitated to woodworking partly because "it gave me the freedom to design" while making an income.

"It's sort of hard for a designer to find a trade where he can design things and make them too," he said.

In addition to woodworking's advantages to Bisch as a designer, his business offers "a lot of variety and it can be satisfying when all goes well."

"Anything you design yourself goes through almost a birth process from imagining the idea to its completion," he said.

"There is a certain amount of satisfaction from creating something and seeing your creation fulfilled."

Sometimes, though, woodworking can be disappointing, Bisch said, like when a creation is placed in an unsuitable environment.

No matter how good the craftsmanship, he said, if the environment is wrong, the woodworking piece is wrong — like a Cadillac parked in a garbage dump.

IT TOOK ABOUT 200 hours to complete the entertainment center in this Normandy Park home. It includes two window seats and eight separate cabinets.

AMONG THE various persons Bisch has made cabinets for is Federal Way dentist Barbara Billings. Bisch also made the cabinets for the remodeling of Dick Balch's home.

WITCHY-POO Percy will accompany KIRO-TV's Count Dracula to the Brigadoon Family Halloween party to be held at the school Oct. 26.

Brigadoon hosts ghouls

Brigadoon Elementary has brewed up the spookiest, silliest, best-ever Halloween party in all of Federal Way, and the whole community is invited to attend.

The fun begins at 3:15 p.m. and continues till 9 o'clock at the school at 3601 S.W. 336th St. and includes an in-person visit by KIRO-TV's Count Dracula escorted by "Witchy-Poo Percy." At 6:30 p.m., the count will rise from his coffin and appear on stage. He has agreed to handshakes and pictures, but has requested no crosses, wooden stakes or mirrors — thank you!

At 6 p.m., the Parade of Costumes will take place, with everyone from "Baby Frank" to "Grandpa Stein" welcome to join in.

"Witches' Brew" is guaranteed to cast spells of fun, especially if accompanied by "Frankenstein Fingers" and "Goey-oey Morsels"! There will also be a fortune teller, spook house and moon walk, along with make-up artists to transform the party-goers.

Sylvia Heron, professional storyteller, will be on hand to delight and entertain the whole family. Twenty local arts and crafts people will provide a wide selection of gifts for early Christmas shoppers.

Those who need directions to the school or who want more information may call Susan Joyce, 927-8220.

The cost of treating a serious illness or accidental injury most often is unanticipated and always unwanted. Often it is not included in the family financial plan, and often it presents an extra burden on top of an already tight budget.

Like all other living expenses, the price of medical treatment has risen in the last 20 years. But, there are still a number of ways in which you can stretch your medical dollar and at the same time get better protection for yourself and your family, according to the King County Medical Society.

1) Have a family doctor. He will keep a record of your medical history, which may save duplicating many expensive and time-consuming tests.

2) Don't wait too long. Many people try to save money on medical bills by not seeing the doctor until they are seriously ill. This not only defeats the purpose of preventive medicine, the only way to preserve your health, but is more expensive in the long run.

3) Have regular checkups. Not necessarily every year, but at regular intervals as your doctor suggests.

4) Go to the doctor's office. Few patients understand that house calls are not only more expensive, but less efficient.

5) Use the telephone. This not only save money but also often makes good medical sense. A family doctor who has examined you regularly can sometimes advise over the phone about minor health problems.

6) Follow your doctor's advice. If you refuse to follow the expert advice you solicit and pay for, you are throwing away your money.

7) Have good health insurance. Buy as much as you can afford, but especially protect against the catastrophic expenses of serious illness.

8) Take allowable tax deduction. Doctor bills, hospital bills and drug costs beyond a certain percentage of your income may be claimed as deductions for tax purposes.

Honor society for nurses holding national convention

One hundred and twenty colleges and universities will be represented at the 25th biennial convention of Sigma Theta Tau, national honor society of nursing, Nov. 7, 8 and 9 at the Washington Plaza in Seattle.

Leaders from 94 active chapters and 30 developing chapters will meet for the society's first national convention in the Northwest.

The convention theme, "Leadership in Action," will be addressed by many national nursing leaders. Program leaders for the Nov. 8 morning and luncheon sessions include Dr. Margretta Styles, dean, University of California at San Francisco; Sister Rosemary Donley, national president of Sigma Theta Tau; Dr. Lucie Kelly of Columbia University; Dr. Rhea de Tornay, dean, University of Washington; Dr. Patricia Ferris, dean, Seattle University, and Donna Schantz, associate dean, University of Oregon in Portland.

Leaders in the Nov. 8 afternoon session include Dr. Luther Christman, dean, Rush University in Chicago; Donna Diers, dean, Yale University, New Haven, Conn., and Dr. Susan Steckel, nurse researcher at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

In addition to program and business sessions, the convention will feature exhibits and elections and will set the society's course for the 1980s.

Host chapters for the convention are Psi, University of Washington; Alpha Sigma, Seattle University, and Beta Psi, University of Oregon. Registration is open to members and non-members.

Wearing their spookiest Halloween costumes, girls from South King County

Valley-Mountain Region of Campfire Girls, will be delivering 2,000 hand-decorated pumpkins to shut-ins at Children's Orthopedic Hospital, Valley General Hospital, Odessa Brown Children's Clinic and Valley Villa Care Center.

The pumpkins will be decorated by people visiting Southcenter on Pumpkin Pal Day, Oct. 27, between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. in the center of the mall.

When the decorated pumpkins are delivered, each will carry a card giving the name and address of its decorator and potential Pumpkin Pal.

A separate coloring area will be available for small children who want to be Pumpkin Pals.

The program, devised by junior and senior high school Camp Fire Girls, is funded by the girls, who conduct various projects to raise money to pay for the pumpkins and materials for decorating them. Mrs. is Camp Fire coordinator of Pumpkin Pals.

Tips on safe makeup and costuming will also be offered.

Candlelit rite unites couple

Six white candelabra marked each side of the center aisle and two smaller candelabra lighted the altar steps of Bethel Chapel for the September wedding of Leila Dodds and Joe Henkelman.

Rev. Floyd Earlywine officiated for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard L. Dodds of 857 S. 318th St. and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hendelman of Puyallup.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of white organza trimmed in embroidered silk venise lace on the bodice, skirt flounce and attached chapel train. Her two-tiered veil was bordered with lace on the longer tier and attached to a headpiece of organza and lace.

Bridal attendants were Linda Stallcop, matron of honor, Lynn Edwards, Mary Mann and Debbie and Shawn Dodds, sisters of the bride, bridesmaids. They wore floor-length gowns with pleated skirts in lavender and huckleberry hues. The matron of honor carried a bouquet of yellow roses and baby's breath. The bridesmaids flowers were lavender roses and baby's breath tied with lavender ribbons. Rachael Taylor was the flower girl, and the candles were lighted by Allison French and Brett Dodds.

Paul Edwards served as best man, and Paul Wekking, Dana Mann, Earl Kallas and Chris Markum were the ushers. Assistants at the reception held at the Elks Club in Puyallup were Mrs. Delores Cheney and Linda French, aunts of the bride, Karen Cheney, Sue Markum, Jenise French and Tamarah Sisson. The bride graduated from Decatur High School in 1976 and attended Highline College. Her husband is a 1973 graduate of Puyallup High School. The couple honeymooned in Port Angeles, Victoria and other areas in British Columbia and are now at home in Puyallup. Out-of-town guests included the bride's great-aunt, Gertha Bodley of Yakima, and Delores and Karen Cheney of San Francisco.

Matthew and John Bley

Eagle Scouts

Matthew and John Bley, sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Bley of 3322 S. 256th St., have both earned their Eagle Scout badges. Both are members of Troop 237, sponsored by the Star Lake PTA.

John, 15 and a student at Thomas Jefferson High School, is the troop's Senior Patrol Leader. Matt, 14 and a student at Totem Junior High School, is troop scribe.

Both have taken part in the 1977 National Boy Scout Jamboree, 1979 Dalajamb, 50-mile hike, 50-mile canoe trip, junior leadership training, Brownsea and have been day camp staff members.

Matt is on the student council at Totem and plays football. John is a sophomore class senator at TJ and plays soccer for the Federal Way Troopers. Both are members of St. Columba's Episcopal Church in Des Moines. John's Eagle project was redecorating the church nursery. He built a cabinet, painted, cleaned and collected toys. Matt built 20 birdfeeders and 20 suet feeders for two local retirement homes.

Sorority pledges listed

Sian M. Walford and Stephanie R. Thacker of Federal Way were among the 442 Oregon State University coeds pledged to sororities during the formal 1979 fall term rush

Miss Walford was pledged to Delta Gamma, and Miss Thacker to Kappa Alpha Theta.

Rush in the 14 participating sororities preceded the start of fall term classes.

Contract sewed up

Kincade's Sewing Machine Company was awarded a contract recently by the Highline School Board for the purchase of 21 sewing machines for $9,390.

GRCC workshop for volunteers in arts

The Interurban Center for the Arts, a regional entity organized under the Green River Community College Foundation, will sponsor a two-day, technical assistance workshop to be held at the college Oct. 25 and 26.

The subject of the workshop, which has been made possible by a grant from the King County Arts Commission, is "Volunteerism in Community Arts."

Ann Day of Salt Lake City will be the consultant. Her qualifications include being current curator of educational services at the Museum of Art at the University of Utah; vice-chairman of the Federal-State Partnership Panel of the National Endowment for the Arts from 1972 to 1977; and Utah Statewide Volunteerism Conference, 1979-80.

The workshop will be composed of three sessions: a day and evening session on Thursday, and a morning session on Friday. The evening session has been arranged to attract business and professional people. Friday morning's session is designed to meet the needs of community arts groups. The three major areas of this session will be: the recruitment of new volunteers into organization activities and how to sustain interest; the "seasoned volunteer" or person who has been active in an organization as a leader, and management of volunteers from a position of leadership; special sessions designed for community arts organizations requesting assistance.

Participation in each of the sessions will be limited. Pre-registration will be required. There will be a small charge to help defray expenses. Please contact Green River Foundation, 833-9111, ext. 360, for more information.

Welcome Wagon hears about schools, flowers

THIS YEAR'S officers of the Welcome Wagon Club of Federal Way are, from the left, Marlys Mangold, treasurer; Rose Bova, incoming recording secretary; Cathy DeMatteis, president; Joan Collins, retiring recording secretary, and Carolyn Gray, second vice-president. Not present for the picture were Janet Smith, first vice-president, and Julia Johnson, corresponding secretary.

The Federal school system is a better system than its image," Dr. Milton Snyder, school superintendent, told members of the Welcome Wagon Club of Federal Way at the club's luncheon meeting at Sebastian's restaurant in Redondo.

Despite the 'drought' — the five-year levy failure, the schools are better than people think, and they continue to improve," Dr. Snyder said. "We still have many fine teachers in the district. They make up the system - not just the school board and not just the administration. "The Federal Way schools has a good chance of being great as any I know." The superintendent advised his listeners that painting of buildings and other repairs were high on his list of priorities. The afternoon program consisted of a demonstration of floral arranging using silk flowers presented by Jan Rosengarten and Liz Jacobson from the Silk Tree in Parkway Center on S. 336th Street. According to Mrs.

Rosengarten, silk flowers are "becoming more popular and more realistic. Beside, they are practically everlasting."

The Welcome Wagon Club, an organization for newcomers to the community, meets for lunch at different area restaurants on the third Wednesday of each month. Get-acquainted coffee hours are held on the

Libraries starting filmmaking contest

"Movie Madness 79," the fourth annual statewide filmmaking contest for young adults, is now underway under the sponsorship of the County Library System and the Burien Library Guild.

Entry forms and instructions are available at any King County library. Deadline for entries is Dec. 15. The competition is open to any Washington resident between the ages of 13 and 20.

Films will be accepted on one-fourth-inch cassette tape if marked for synchronization. Cash prizes of $100, $50 and $25 will be awarded. Each entrant will receive a free Movie Madness t-shirt.

Arts, traditions at Greek bazaar

The Greek Orthodox Church of the Assumption will hold its annual Greek Dinner and Bazaar from noon to 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 3 and Sunday, Nov. 4, at the church, 1804 13th Ave.

Those who attend can taste and buy delectable Greek pastries made by the ladies of the church; shop for Greek handicrafts, clothing, jewelry, religious items, embroidery, Greek fisherman caps, records and paintings, and relax in an authentic Kafeneion (Coffee House) serving Greek pastries, snacks, sausage, soup and many other delights.

They can also buy a Greek cookbook and learn the art of Greek cooking for their own families. For entertainment, they can watch Greek Levendya Folk Dancers every hour on the hour, beginning at 4 p.m. and take a guided tour of the church with explanation on the new mosaics. Admission is free.

Mary Bridge workshops on handicapped

A series of four workshops at Mary Bridge Children's Health Center in Tacoma will address issues related to nutrition, feeding, dentistry and adaptive equipment for handicapped children.

Helen Hopper, OTR, from Green River Community College will talk on feeding techniques on Tuesday, Nov. 20. Dentistry will be the topic of George Brain, DDS, when he addresses a workshop on Tuesday, Nov. 27.

Gene Schwartz of Sound Medical Equipment Co. will show examples of a variety of adaptive equipment on Dec. 4. All workshops will be held in the board room of the health center, 311 South L St. There is no fee for these workshops, funding having been provided through a revenue sharing grant from the City of Tacoma. Though pre-registration is not required, those who plan to attend are requested to call Behavioral Sciences Service at Mary Bridge, 272-1281, ext. 277, so that adequate accommodations can be prepared.

'Harvest Time' themes luncheon

"Harvest Time" will theme the Nov. 14 luncheon of the Southwest Seattle Christian Women's Club at the Doubletree Inn in Southcenter.

The special program feature, "Baskets, Boxes and Brooms," will be presented by Ronda Buena and Suzy Johnstone of Federal Way. Don Crook, former school teacher and father of four, will be the speaker, and music will be provided by Myrna Rollogg, director of community fellowship at Camp Long Lodge.

Lunch will be served at 11:59 a.m. and will cost $5.25, including tax and tip. Luncheon reservations and cancellations may be made with Mrs. Russell Lowe, 243-3833.

Communication is topic of seminar for women

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Mjelde

A one-day seminar, "Communication for Women," will be presented Thursday, Nov. 1, by Soroptimist International of West Seattle at South Seattle Community College, 6000 16th Ave. S.W.

The seminar will begin at 8:30 a.m. and end at 4:30 p.m. and will be held in Room 79 of the Robert Smith Building on campus.

The session is designed expressly for women in managerial, supervisory and executive positions, and for women preparing themselves for such positions.

Susan Broz Ogden,

MBA, assistant professor of management in the Albers School of Business at Seattle University, is the seminar leader. She has a long list of credits qualifying her for presentation of management communication instructions, including serving as chairman of the Marketing Committee at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. The registration fee is $55 and includes all materials, lunch and coffee. It must be paid in advance to the sponsoring club. Send checks to Soroptimist International of West Seattle, 1941 47th Ave. S. W., Seattle 98116, Eloise Ross, chaired. By paying an additional $14.60 at the door, a participant may claim one college credit. This check should be made payable to South Seattle Community College as a separate remittance. Credit certificate and grade report will be provided.

Cancellations made less than three working days prior to the seminar are subject to a $15 cancellation fee. Substitutions are permitted. For additional information, call Ms. Ross at 937-4574 or 524-8510. Enrollment is limited and will be accepted as received until the seminar is filled.

Parks conducting workshops for kids

King County Parks will be conducting several sandpainting and Polish papercutting workshops for area youngsters ages nine and older (younger if accompanied by an adult) at various locations throughout the county during the months of November and December.

The workshops, which are free, are part of King County's celebration of the International Year of the Child. All of them will be conducted by Joan King.

Each workshop is limited to 30 children. Pre-registration is required. For information call 344-3982.

Sandpainting is a traditional art form of the Native Americans of the Southwest. In the workshops students will have an opportunity to make their own sandpaintings using paper, paint, glue and sand. Polish papercutting or "Wycinanki" is a traditional art form of Poland. Students in these workshops will be given a brief history of Wycinanki. Examples of finished Polish paper-cut designs will be available for the children to view, along with a selection of designs from which they can choose to create their own. Special holiday season designs will also be available.

Locations, dates and times for sandpainting workshops in this area are: Nov. 10, 10 a.m. Valley Ridge Community Center, 4644 S. 188th St.; Nov. 17, 1:30 p.m. Federal Way Boys' Club, 30815 Eighth Ave. S.; Nov. 24, 10 a.m., Highline Community Center, 425 S.W. 144th St. Polish papercutting workshops will be held at the following locations: Dec. 22, Federal Way Boys' Club, 1:30 p.m.; Dec. 27, Highline Community Center, 1:30 p.m.; Dec. 28, Valley Ridge Community Center.

Wed in Tacoma

First Lutheran Church in Tacoma was the scene of the recent wedding of Marilyn Larson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orris Larson of Tacoma, and Timothy Mjelde, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Mjelde of 20830 Eighth Ave. S. The bride wore her mother's slipper satin wedding gown. The square neckline was trimmed with orange blossoms and a panel of lace tiers accented the skirt. Her fingertip veil was attached to the head piece of pearl orange blossoms worn by her mother at her wedding, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

The bridegroom, a 1974 graduate of Mt. Rainier High School, also attended WSU, where he was a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. The newlyweds honeymooned in Hawaii and are now at home in Seattle. Out-of-town guests included Dennis Larson of St. Louis, Mo., Debbie Larson of Carpinteria, Calif., and Jean Trygstad of Mountain View, Calif.

Fashion sales techniques to be taught at GRCC

Fashion Retailing, a course in selling techniques designed to help individuals find Christmas employment, will begin Oct. 29 at Green River Community College.

The four-week course will be taught by Jeananne Kukes, owner of the Trianon Women's Apparel Shop in Seattle. Classes will run from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday. Tuition is $71.40 for the seven-credit program, which will conclude Nov. 21 in time for holiday employment.

Ms. Kukes, who began her retailing career with a "specialty" retail store in Dallas, said the program will be of "great benefit" to employers needing employees for the Christmas season. The class is also designed to help those already employed in the retail field. Persons interested in more information or desiring to enroll should call Green River at 464-6133.

OFFICIAL NOTICE: The following proposed constitutional amendments are to be submitted to the voters at the state general election to be held on November 6, 1979. The ballot titles and explanatory statements were prepared by the office of the Attorney General. This is a legal publication as required by law from the office of the secretary of state.

Senate Joint Resolution 110
PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
Official Ballot Title:
Shall the legislature meet in regular annual sessions, and shall special legislative sessions be authorized each with specific time limitations?
Vote cast by the members of the 1979 Legislature on final passage:
HOUSE (98 members): Yeas, 88; Nays, 7; Absent or not voting, 2
SENATE (49 members): Yeas, 45; Nays, 4; Absent or not voting, 3
The law as it now exists:
As the present law, the Constitution provides that the legislature shall hold regular biennial sessions, commencing in January of each numbered year. In addition, special sessions may be convened by the governor for any purpose, or by a two-thirds affirmative vote of both houses of the legislature for the purpose of overriding the governor's veto. Regular sessions may not exceed 90 days in length, but there is no time limit on the length of any special session called by the governor. Legislative committees may not conduct official business while the legislature is not in session.
The effect of SJR 110, if approved into law:
The amendment would require that a regular session of the legislature be convened each year. The regular session during each numbered year may not last longer than 100 consecutive days, and in even-numbered years, not more than 70 consecutive days. The amendment would also allow for special legislative sessions. The governor's proclamation would be allowed to convene a special legislative session, which would be limited to 90 days. The governor could specify a purpose for convening the special session, but the specifications would not be binding on the legislature. Special sessions may also be convened by legislative resolution upon a two-thirds affirmative vote by each house. Any special session

Senate Joint Resolution 112
PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
Official Ballot Title:
Should municipal utilities be permitted by the constitution to assume other civil offices without receiving any increases in compensation passed during their legislative terms?
Vote cast by the members of the 1979 Legislature on final passage:
HOUSE (98 members): Yeas, 98; Nays, 0; Absent or not voting, 0
SENATE (49 members): Yeas, 45; Nays, 0; Absent or not voting, 4
The law as it now exists:
As the present law, the Constitution prohibits a legislator, during the term for which he or she is elected, from being elected or appointed to any civil office, the compensation for which was increased during the term for which he or she was elected.
The effect of SJR 112, if approved into law:
The amendment would remove the prohibition against appointment of a legislator to any civil office if the compensation for that office had been increased during his or her term of office as a legislator. The legislator shall be compensated for the total term of the civil office at the level which existed prior to the increase in compensation.

Senate Joint Resolution 120
PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
Official Ballot Title:
Shall municipal utilities be permitted by the constitution to assume other civil offices without receiving any increases in financing energy conservation measures until 1990?
Vote cast by the members of the 1979 Legislature on final passage:
HOUSE (98 members): Yeas, 70; Nays, 23; Absent or not voting, 5
SENATE (49 members): Yeas, 30; Nays, 11; Absent or not voting, 8
The law as it now exists:
Under the state constitution, municipal corporations, such as counties, cities and public utility districts cannot give, lend, or be authorized by the state legislature to give or lend any of their funds, or credit to assist private homeowners, who are not poor or aged, in financing purchases or services, such as home insulation.
The effect of SJR 120, if approved into law:
If approved SJR 120 would permit the legislature to authorize counties, cities, public utility districts, and other municipal corporations and political subdivisions of the state, which call for distribution of funds to assist owners of residential structures to finance the acquisition and installation of materials and equipment, such as home insulation, for the conservation or more efficient use of energy in their residences. Financial assistance would include the use of funds or credit, such as loans or guarantees of funds. The source of funds available for such assistance would be limited to operating revenues derived from the sale of energy.
Pending other state and federal laws and regulations, the amendment would be automatically repealed January 1, 1990, unless it is contracts entered into before that date.

BPW conference held at Crestview

Delores Teutsch, representative for the 45th Legislative District, was the main speaker at the annual fall conference of District 8 Business and Professional Women's Clubs at Crestview Center.

Mrs. Teutsch, a member of the Kirkland BPW club, is a past member of the board of trustees of Bellevue Community College and president of the State Trustees Association. She serves on three legislative committees: Social and Health Services, Nursing Homes and chairs the Public Health Committee.

A second speaker on the program was Steve Washburn, lobbyist. Others on the program were Mrs. Carmen Affek, state membership chairman, and Beverlie Williamson, state vice president who served as servicing officer.

Mrs. Wendy Berinato, district director from West Seattle, was conference chairman. Approximately 50 women from five southend BPW clubs attended the conference.

Taking part in the business session which followed breakfast and registration were Mrs. Marguerite Boye of Southcenter-Tukwila who gave the invocation and Tressa Estes, president of the Enumclaw club who gave the welcoming address, with a response by Mrs. Hope Pieratt of the Sea-Tac club.

The report of the audit committee was made by Mrs. Colleen Ukena of Highline, Mrs. Barbara Mattoon, Southcenter-Tukwila, and Mrs. Lynda Osborn, Sea-Tac. The five club presidents reported, and committee reports were presented.

Past district directors who attended were Mrs. Charlotte Walker, Southcenter-Tukwila; Mrs. Mary Jones, Sea-Tac, current state corresponding secretary and Mrs. Loretta Sayre, Highline. The Travel Award went to the Enumclaw club.

Classical, contemporary works on program at Ft. Lewis concert

The first in a series of three cafe concerts will be held in the Chinook Theater at Fort Lewis on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 10 and 11, at 8 p.m. Doors at the theater, located on the North Fort (Bldg. 12-B-14), will open at 7:30 p.m. for bar service and bar snacks. For good seating, call 967-3044 for reservations. This first fall concert will have works that range from classical to contemporary works and features three musicians: pianists, Rose This and Eric Lee, and percussionist, Dan Adams. This began her career as a wind instrumentalist, winning numerous awards as a jazz saxophonist. She has been piano accompanist for the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera and orchestra pianist for Harlequin Productions in Olympia for the past five years. Lee is a former organist for the Garden St. Presbyterian Church in Bellingham and the First Methodist Church in Olympia. He is presently the elementary music specialist for the Yelm School District and is choir member and assistant organist for Christ Episcopal Church in Tacoma.

Dan Adams is performing this season with the Olympia and Tacoma symphonies and is currently director of percussion studies at Olympia High School. Tickets are now on sale at Fort Lewis at the Information, Tour and Travel Office, located in Bldg. 2164 (967-3085) and the Music and Theater Of-rice in Bldg. 2409 (967-3044). Tickets are $3 in advance or $3.50 at the door.

Little Theater staging 'Dial M for Murder'

"Dial M for Murder," a chiller by Frederick Knott, will be the next offering in the Tacoma Little Theater's 1979-80 season. The play is unlike most standard "who-done-its" as the author tells all early in the action and then weaves a spell of mystery by delving into that most mysterious source of suspense — character. Much like a carnival magician working the old shell game, Knott frequently lets the audience see the clue, then immediately provides distraction. Alex Murray and Mark Lewington will head the cast, with David O'Neill, Richard Storholt and Dick Jones in supporting roles. The play opens at the theater on Friday, Oct. 26, and will run through Nov. 10. Season tickets and general admission tickets may be purchased at the theater box office. General admission prices are $3.50 for adults and $3 for senior citizens and students. Children 11 years of age and under will be admitted for $2. Reservations may be made by calling 272-2481 from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

Auto Rama worth $1 million

The 11th international custom car show, the Pepsi Auto Rama, will be at the Seattle Center Coliseum from Nov. 9 to 11.

Custom cars, hot rods, motorcycles, boats, vans and trucks, valued at more than $1 million, will be on display during the three-day show.

Guest appearances will be made by Richard Hatch, who starred as Apollo in "Battlestar Galactica"; the 1979 Playmate of the Year, Monique St. Pierre; and music by the country-rock group, Wickline's Natural Music Show.

Show hours will be from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. on Friday, noon to 11 p.m. on Saturday and noon to 10 p.m. on Sunday.

Tickets will be sold at the door. Prices are $4.50 for adults and $1 for children 6 to 12. Children under 6 will not be charged admission. Adult discount coupon tickets (less

'Faust' in French, English coming up in Seattle Opera

Four performances in French of Gounod's demonic opera of love and devilish ambition, "Faust," are being staged at the Seattle Opera House on Nov. 1, 3, 7 and 10.

The opera will be performed in English on Nov. 9 and 11, with different principals.

Curtain time will be at 8 p.m.

The resulting musical work remains one of the most popular of all French operas.

Singing Faust in the French performances will be Leo Goeke, brother, Valentin; Archer Drake as part of Des Grieux in Seattle Opera's "Manon."

Goeke has sung extensively at both the New York City Opera and the Met.

Jeanette Pilou will bring her celebrated interpretation of Marguerite to the production. The Greek soprano has been on stage at the Met, Vienna Staatsoper, La Scala, Teatro Colon and Paris Opera.

In the pivotal role of Mephistopheles will be the well-known bass, Jacques Mars. Immediately after his debut at the Paris Opera he was in such constant demand for the major bass role under his contract with the French national theaters that he only rarely has received permission to perform abroad.

Thus Mars' career essentially developed in Paris, where he first appeared in the role of Mephisto at the Paris Opera in 1966. Since then he has become renowned as one of the world's great interpreters of the role.

Also appearing will be Charles Long as Marguerite's doomed brother, Valentin; Archer Drake as Wagner; and Geraldine Decker as Marthe.

The cast in the English version will include Karol Oakley as Marguerite, Richard Taylor as Faust and Archie Drake as Mephistopheles.

Henry Holt, Seattle Opera music director, will conduct all performances of "Faust." Lincoln Clark, resident director, will stage the opera and Tito Varisco has designed the sets.

Leo Goeke

Jeanette Pilou

Single tickets for the opera will range from $8.75 to $21.50 for the French series and from $3 to $8.75 for the English performances.

They may be purchased at the opera ticket office on the fourth floor of the Center House at Seattle Center. Box office hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on weekdays. Call 447-4711 for further information.

Area tickets outlets are Mt. Olympus Imports in Burien and The Bon in Tacoma.

Taproot productions to be offered in area

In November Taproot Theater Company will have performances at several locations in the area.

On Wednesday, Nov. 7, at 6:30 p.m. "Old Times, Hard Testament Revue and Non-prophet Show" will be at the Midway Community Covenant Church in Des Moines.

"It Should Happen to a Dog" and "What Men Live By" will be performed at the Central Baptist Church in Tacoma on Sunday, Nov. 11, at 6 p.m.

And the Burien Library will sponsor "The Light Princess" on Wednesday, Nov. 14, at 7 p.m. The Midway church is located at 22460 24th S.; Central Baptist is at 4113 Bridgeport Way W. and the library at 14700 Sixth S.W.

'Joan' opens at Seattle Rep.

Bernard Shaw's epic play, "Saint Joan," opens the Seattle Repertory Theater's 17th season tonight at the Seattle Center Playhouse.

Productions will run through Nov. 18.

"Saint Joan" chronicles the story of Joan of Arc and the series of events that lead to her final martyrdom.

The role of Joan will be played by Roberta Maxwell, who has won two Obies, the New York Drama Desk Award and the Tyrone Guthrie Award.

The Modern Mom

by Betty Woolley

I have two female friends who are my age but refuse to act it. For reasons unknown to me and kept secret by them they have joined the ranks of the joggers.

In the beginning they could barely make it to the end of the block, and once there, had to hang on to the street sign for a while to catch their breath. Some of the more proper neighbors hinted that these two might be indulging in Bloody Marys for breakfast. There were other concerned residents who, upon the sight of two women daily draped around the sign post were heard to remark, "Well, there goes the neighborhood!"

It was even suggested by some that these runners were a little "racy" in the more colorful sense of the word.

However, this duo of undaunted souls persisted and before long they were able to bypass the street sign and return home before collapsing. Eventually they began to lap the neighborhood and everyone's morning turned up at the sight of these two waving gaily while they trotted down the street in their terry cloth togs.

They are now running three miles a day. They run to the doughnut shop. While in the doughnut shop they consume countless calories of whatever looks lusciously tempting. Since I am not a disciple of Mr. Fixx I am not cognizant of the number of calories burned up getting to the doughnut shop, but I have a hunch that my foot-sore friends are not making much headway in the poundage loss department.

The first time they ran all the way to the doughnut shop they couldn't make it home; not even with the help of a jam-filled, sugar-frosted doughnut followed by a glazed maple bar. A husband had to be commandeered to bring a set of wheels and cart them back to home base.

However, they are stronger now and more firm of foot and are able to complete the round trip during the morning hours. They no longer need to stop for lunch at the local fast food stand, nor does a husband sit by the phone geared to function as Medic I.

They have become joggers, tried and true.

Their color coordinated jog-

ing suits, once the epitome of style and vogue, are becoming frayed around the collars and cuffs, their sneakers are looking sneakier every day and their hair has assumed a style that can best be described as a "studied carelessness coiffure." I suspect I'm jealous.

I attended school where a sports program was non-existent; trigonometry took precedence over tennis and Shakespeare won out over squash. As a result the most athletic thing I ever did was turn the handle of the pencil sharpener.

Like the tale of the Hare and the Tortoise I'm reluctant to be the slow one who's left behind, but since jogging is out of the question perhaps with a little luck in hitch-hiking I could be dunking my second doughnut by the time they stagger into the shop.

Metro's taxi scrip revised

Many people who could not previously qualify may now be eligible for a discount on taxicab fares. Metro's taxi scrip program offers a 40 percent discount for low income elderly or disabled people.

Eligible people registered for the program can purchase $10 books of taxi scrip for only $6. The scrip can be used to pay cab fares with most of the taxicab companies in Seattle and King County.

To qualify, a person must be at least 65 years of age or disabled. In addition, yearly household income must be at or below $7,356 for one person, $9,619 for two people or $11,882 for three or more people.

Metro's income eligibility requirements are based on Washington State median income figures, which were revised upward on Oct. 1.

Eligible people can register for the taxi scrip program at Metro's Customer Assistance Office, 821 Second Ave., Seattle; at the Mayor's Office for Senior Citizens, 1331 Third Ave., Seattle; or at the South King County Multi-Services Center, 2450 Star Lake Road, Federal Way. Anyone who does not already have a Metro reduced fare permit is charged a one-time registration fee of $1.

Metro's outreach program has also visited over 50 locations throughout King County to allow people to register in their own communities. For more information about the taxi scrip program call Metro at 447-4824 or the Mayor's Office for Senior Citizens at 625-4834.

A graduate of Thomas Jefferson High School, Pvt. Mathews is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Mathews of 4518 S. 297th Place.

"There's nothing to be afraid of."

Sometimes a dentist doesn't seem very reassuring. But when you stop to think about it, fear is not restricted to his office.

Life has a lot that makes us fearful. The future is full of uncertainties. Sometimes we're afraid of a job loss, sickness, or even death.

That's why we need each other. You'll find that life is a lot easier when you don't have to face the future alone.

Why not visit us this Sunday. We can introduce you to a personal God who really cares about you. He knows all about the future. A future that doesn't end with death. And He can be a lot more reassuring than your local dentist.

Libby getting feet wet in NP circles

by Pat Jenkins
After barely two weeks as chief of the Normandy Park police department, Jeff Libby is still feeling his way around: new community, new job, new everything. But it hasn't taken him long to get a handle on Washington's weather.

"I've never used my windshield wipers more in my life," grinned the transplanted Coloradoan. The raindrops are not clouding Libby's outlook on police work in Normandy Park, however.

"I'm very pleased with what I've encountered so far," he said. "There is a lot of potential for establishing a very modern, effective law enforcement agency here."

Libby has been orienting himself to the city, the surrounding area, and the men who work under him, and — one of the most important duties of his infant tenure — providing input from his department on the planning for the next city budget.

DISCUSSIONS about the police department's share of the budget have focused largely on what kind of automobiles — compacts or sub-compacts — will replace two tired patrol cars.

Sub-compacts, with their better gas mileage, have received considerable attention, but Libby has reservations about their longevity in the line of police duty.

At any rate, he hopes to receive bids from some auto dealers this week, and is also awaiting word from Chevrolet on a version of its Citation designed for use by police.

Budgetary matters head a list of items Libby wants to resolve before he starts putting his stamp on his new department.

"I have to get a feel, a sense, for this community before I can tailor a proactive law enforcement program. I can't come in with a blanket program and expect it to apply to the needs of Normandy Park," he said.

Besides getting to know the town, Libby wants to develop a system for managing police records, revise the evidence storage system ("We've been keeping things in there longer than we should. It looks like an antique shop"), write an operations manual, and see the remodeling of the police headquarters to completion, which will be followed by an open house for the public.

WHEN THOSE projects are finished, Libby will devote more time to bringing the department up to what he considers its potential.

"This is all preliminary," he said. "I haven't been here long enough to get a complete perception of what we have here, so it's a question with an open end."

"But the people are good. They care about doing a good job, and they want to learn. That's important. A cop never quits learning. When he does, the law enforcement branch suffers."

Libby's complement of inexperienced officers have a lot to learn, he admitted.

"They're in need of training, but that's not a criticism," he insisted. "I'm still learning, too."

Three of Libby's officers have been policemen for less than one year, while the fourth has been in the business for three years.

A FIFTH officer Libby hopes to hire by the end of this year will bring the department back to complete strength for the first time since a rash of departures from the ranks late last year.

Low morale within the force led to their defection, Libby understands.

"There were some severe management problems here, apparently, and the department had trouble keeping its officers," he said.

Libby is confident those days are over.

"The personnel are my most valuable resource, and I'm impressed by their high level of enthusiasm. Everyone, including the reserve officers and the clerks, is hard-working and dedicated," he said.

"With a new chief on the block, I believe the men of this department are anxiously looking forward to acquiring the job enrichment they deserve," he continued. "The men have a degree of ownership in this department, and I want them to realize that."

SPEAKING of ownership, Libby said his house in Boulder, Colo. has been sold, and he hopes to spend a couple weeks moving his wife and son to the Pacific Northwest, a region he already likes.

"I'm really pleased with the Seattle area," he said. "I like the Seattle culture. There is so much to see and do. That Pioneer Square is like an eastern city — it's great."

"And I went to the Seahawks' game Sunday. It was fun watching them win. And that Kingdome is a beautiful stadium."

FW girls take team title

by Brien Lautman
Kerry Johnson must be excused if she looked a little surprised last Friday afternoon following her stunning victory over Federal Way's Michelle Ballentine and Thomas Jefferson's Tracy Honsiger in the area high school's unofficial district cross-country championship.

"She's been looking for a long time for this one," a happy Gator Coach Joe Anderson said. "She had never beaten Michelle before. She has been running in her footsteps for a long time, so it was a really pleasing day for her. She just ran extremely well."

Anderson's girls, however, could not overcome Federal Way's depth as they dropped a decision to the Eagles, while squeezing by Jefferson's tough running attack 27-29. The Eagles took the unofficial team title by beating Jefferson 26-32.

Johnson, who led most of the race, finished with a 11:50 clocking, followed by Honsiger in 12:11 and Ballentine in 12:32. For Decatur, Lori Morgan performed ably to compliment Johnson's effort, turning in a 12:50, fourth place showing, while Mary Grady cruised to a 13:36 eleventh place time. The Gators experienced trouble in their middle runners, however, and lost a chance at beating Federal Way, who received strong support from their middle runners.

"We figured we had a chance to beat Federal Way, but they run very well. Their middle group of kids run very well."

That Eagle group of middle runners was led in particular by Tracy Calhoun who finished seventh overall in a 13:04 clocking.

"I thought we performed very well as a team," Coach Bill Harris said. But the Eagle mentor was a little surprised by his top runner Ballentine's third place showing.

"Michelle certainly was disappointed by the defeat, and it was a little surprising because she has beaten both girls (Honsiger and Johnson) before. It's always hard to lose like that, but it happens."

Roy Musitelli

Thomas Jefferson, although losers of both dual match-ups, managed to perform brilliantly anyway. With Honsiger guiding the the Raider girls over their 2.0 mile course in a fast fashion, it was apparent that she was not alone in her efforts. Linnea Puaa and Robin Pallett, who finished fifth and seventh respectively with 12:57 and 13:13 clockings, stuck close to the leaders, keeping the Jefferson team scores very tight.

"Tracy Honsiger ran a beautiful race and so did Linnea and Robin. You just can't ask for anything more than what they gave," Coach Joe Anderson said. Tracy has been gearing all year to beat Michelle and she did it, which was great."

Other outstanding efforts for TJ were turned in by Lynn Cox with a 13:59 fourteenth place showing and Carol Barron who finished seventeenth in 17:30.

The Federal Way area area harriers will travel to Fort Steilacoom Community College for the South Puget Sound League Sub-District Cross-country championships this Friday beginning at 2:30.

According to Decatur Coach Anderson his girls lack the depth needed to take the district title, but added that Johnson should do fine.

"Look for Kerry to do real well. She will move to West Central I'm sure and I think she will get to state."

Raider Coach Jim Dillon rates his girls chances of advancing to the West Central round as good, saying "we have to beat six teams, but I feel we're capable of it."

Eagle mentor Harris will take his harrier squad to Fort Steilacoom with the idea of knocking off both Clover Park and Lakes.

"From now on it's no more fun and games. Our plan is to beat Clover Park and Lakes. We will be in the top four for sure."

Johnson wins X-C title

KERRY JOHNSON (right) of Decatur gives Thomas Jefferson's Tracy Honsiger a congratulatory hug following last Friday's area cross-country showdown. Johnson took top individual honors for the meet with an 11:50 clocking, while Honsiger was second in 12:11.

McKeown leads FW to harrier title

by Brien Lautman
Darin McKeown led the Federal Way Eagle boys' cross-country team to the unofficial area high school harrier team championship last Friday as he breezed to a lightning-quick first place finish.

The Eagle boys swept to a 25-32 win over Thomas Jefferson while completely outdistancing the Decatur Gators, 15-49. Jefferson also posted a win over the Gators by a 15-49 score.

McKeown led the boys' race from start to finish and was never seriously challenged as he his next nearest rival, Bob Plummer by 26 seconds.

"Darin won very easily and ran very easily," Eagle Coach Bill Harris said. "He was without competition most of the race, but I think Plummer from Thomas Jefferson ran very well too."

McKeown was not without support from other teammates though as Kevin Syrstad and Jim Konop finished third and fourth respectively, while Barth Merrill finished ninth to bolster the Eagles championship effort. Harris was obviously pleased with the team effort calling his harriers' performance "an exceptionally good showing."

The Jefferson Raiders, led by Plummer's 15:41 runner-up effort, also produced a fine team showing, bunching four runners in the top ten places. Following Plummer for TJ was Peter Hauglum in fifth place with a 17:04 clocking, Doug Cox in sixth at 17:20, Albert Frank seventh at 17:22 and Jim Vaughn who was thirteenth with a 17:53 finish.

"We thought we ran extremely well," Jefferson Coach Jim Dillon quipped. "We had some good performances from our young group of runners."

The Decatur boys had a little tougher go of it Friday, dropping both meet scores to TJ and Federal Way, but the Golden Gators also came up with some fine individual performances.

"Sean Minehan did a good job," Coach Joe Anderson said. "He ran right up there with a couple of kids from Thomas Jefferson and Federal Way."

Minehan toured the 3.0 mile Jefferson course in a respectable 17:43 time to finish eleventh overall and lead a tightly packed group of Gator runners. Richard McMonigal, finishing in fifteenth in 18:06 followed Minehan closely, while Roger Johnson, sixteenth in 18:08, Keith Bragg seventeenth in 18:20 and Mark Allman who finished eighteenth with a 18:42 clocking kept the Gators in competitive standings throughout the race.

FEDERAL WAY area harriers will shed their dual meet schedules for good this season as they head to the South Puget Sound League Sub-District meet this Friday at Fort Steilacoom Community College.

"We finished fourth in the league standings, so we have to beat six teams to go on to West Central," said evaluating his Raiders' chances. "We've been coming along all season, so if we can perform well we should do alright."

Federal Way Coach Harris, however, sees things a little better than alright as he gives his club a clear shot at the meet title.

"It's possible we could be district champions. We're much better than we were the first week of the season. We have a good shot at the title, although our first concern is just to move on to West Central."

Gator Coach Anderson is realistic about his club's chances at the SPSSL showdown meet saying "we probably won't make it in the boys, but we're young and looking for improvement. They will do a good job I'm sure."

Starting time for the district meet is 2:30.

Nick Snider's 9 of 10 takes You Pick 'Em

Nick Snider, a 33-year-old Federal Way resident, claimed his family's football forecasting championship last weekend while winning the Federal Way NEWS You Pick 'Em grid prediction contest.

The victory was revenge of sorts for Nick, who two weeks ago lost a first-place showdown with his 12-year-old son Todd on the tie-breaker score of the Federal Way-Puyallup contest.

Last weekend, Nick prevented a tie-breaker verdict by again posting a nine-of-10 record to top a field of 75. Nick, a district sales representative of Matel Toys, only missed Pittsburgh's win over Washington. Tim Sedlacek of Federal Way took second place by tabbing eight right. He incorrectly picked Washington over Pittsburgh and Houston over the Seahawks.

The entire Snider family — Nick, his wife Nancy and sons Todd, Doug, 9, and Scott, 7 — enter the You Pick 'Em pool each week. "I knew going into Sunday, that Doug and I each had one wrong; so, I hoped that if I didn't win it, he would," Nick said. Doug missed the two Sunday outcomes, which tied him which had a good chance, but I was surprised at the score (34-14)."

Nick also enters the Seattle Times and PI football contests. He's qualified for the finals in those contests but claimed his first prediction victory last weekend.

This week, Nick forecasts that Mt. Rainier will win its first game because of the home-field advantage, the UW will beat UCLA "if Porras is on the bench" and Pittsburgh will defeat Dallas in a close one.

Nick received a $15 gift certificate from Scott's Athletic Supply in Federal Way for his contest victory. An entry blank for this week's contest is included into today's issue. Entries must be hand delivered to the NEWS office or postmarked by tomorrow to be eligible. The winner will receive a $15 gift certificate from Scott's Athletic Supply. The contest limit is one entry per person. Any person, who submits more than one entry for a single contest, will be disqualified.

DARIN MCKEOWN (far right) leads the pack out of the starting gate in last Friday's unofficial area cross-country championship at Thomas Jefferson. McKeown was nothing short of sensational as he toured the course in 5:15, outdistancing runner-up Bob Plummer of Jefferson by 26 seconds. The Eagle boys went on to win the team title, beating Decatur 15-49 and TJ 25-32.

Sandison elected

Volleyball Gators surge; TJ teeters; Eagles fall

by Harry Brooks
While the Jefferson Raiders and the Federal Way Eagles suffered setbacks last week, the Decatur Gators mounted an attack in the South Puget Sound League volleyball race. Decatur scored two match victories last week to up its SPSL record to 3-2. The Gators topped Lakes 15-11, 15-4 and overwhelmed Federal Way 15-2, 15-11.

Jefferson extended its undefeated string to 10 straight with a 15-2, 13-15, 15-13 victory over Sumner Wednesday but suffered its first loss of the season Friday in a 13-15, 15-3, 15-5 loss to Clover Park.

Federal Way slumped to a pair of defeats last week. The Eagles, now 2-3, fell to Puyallup 15-5, 15-7 Wednesday and Decatur Friday. The Jefferson Raiders, now 4-1 in SPSL action, host Curtis, 5-0, today in a match that no doubt will have an impact on the league's final standings and playoff seedings. The contest will begin at 3:30 p.m. in the TJ gym. Decatur will continue its quest for one of the league's four post-season playoff berths in a 3:30 p.m. match today at Bethel, and Federal Way will try to get back into the playoff race in a 3:30 p.m. outing against Rogers today.

DECATUR'S first-year coach Toshiki Kamakura praised his team's effort last week. "We're definitely challenging for the top now," he stated. "The team knows what they can do now. We're playing much better than at first, and it's a matter of team play."

The Gator skipper described Friday's win over Federal Way as "a matter of six six players getting together and playing as a team." Federal Way coach Kathy Harris classed her team's performance as "flat."

"We're forgetting to do our basics," she said. "And our teamwork wasn't there." With Rhonda Montgomery handling the service chores, Decatur rolled to a 10-0 advantage in game No. 1. Federal Way was its own worst enemy in that rally. On four occasions Decatur gained points when Eagle players converged but balked on the receiving end of Decatur hits. Two FW hit violations and two other net calls against the Eags aided Decatur's drive, and two out-of-bounds spikes added to Federal Way's woes.

A PATTY Davidson spike gave Federal Way its first point, but the Gators, aided by Federal Way's misguided hits and two hard spikes by Cindy Suss, cruised to an easy victory. The situation remained the same in the second game. Decatur, with consistent play, jumped to an 8-0 lead over the Eagles, who continued being dooped by violations and inaccurate hitting.

However, Patty Davidson came to the service line with Federal Way down 9-2 and almost singlehandedly changed the game's momentum with her booming offerings.

The Gators failed to return four of Davidson's bullet-like services, but her seventh serve whizzed over the end line with the Eagles trailing 9-8. Moments later, Dani Hunter powered a Federal Way point to again move the Eagles to within one at 10-9, but the referee's whistle ended the Federal Way bid. THE EAGLES were spotted for two bump violations and a net foul as Decatur moved to a 14-9 edge. Federal Way scored the next two points, but a FW hitting foul on a Suss spike gave the Gators a match win.

Although Decatur is exhibiting strong fundamental play, the squad's size, short by SPSL standards, has hindered its net game. Kamakura noted that his team is spiking "consistently well for its size" but pointed to the addition of 5-8 senior Lisa Dolezal as a needed plus to the Gator lineup. Dolezal, who turned out late this season, will be eligible for today's match.

JEFFERSON "didn't have everything together" in last week's matches, according to Raider coach Nancy Thompson.

The TJ mentor expected an easy win over Sumner but watched her Raiders struggle through a three-game decision. The Raiders zipped to a 15-2 victory in the first game against the Spartans but sea-sawed through the next two with Sumner taking the second and Jefferson the match-deciding third game.

"I think we started taking it easy after our easy win in the first game," Thompson said. The Raiders' 10-game win streak came to a halt Friday against Clover Park. In the crucial third game, CP used six ace points in its win as hesitation of the receiving end vexed the Raiders.

Thompson praised the performances of Peggy Halwachs and Torina Valavalla.

Halwachs pounded 13 ace spikes at Clover Park, and Valavalla, a sophomore setter, came through with solid backcourt play against Sumner and Clover Park. Thompson and her Raiders are looking forward to today's match with league-leading Curtis. "After taking our first loss of the season, we'll be ready for them," the coach confidently predicted.

Channel 9 hosts sports medicine

Bobby Orr's knee may be the most famous in the country. Hockey fans have followed the progress of Orr's disabling injury, agonizing with him through his many operations and comebacks; but at age 30, Orr's hockey career is over despite all the efforts of surgeons. Many other athletes have shared this fate, but a new branch of medicine promises to help prevent and cure injuries for professional and amateur athletes alike. NOVA explores the world of sports medicine in "All Part of the Game," Tuesday, Nov. 6, at 8 p.m. on Channel 9-TV. (Rebroadcast Wednesday, Nov. 7, at 12 p.m. and Saturday, Nov. 10, at 7 p.m.)

ELIMINATE WINTER TIRE CHANGEOVER

The Original All Season Radial...

TIEMPO $41.95

Tempo is the original all-season radial. And it's the only one we know of that's been proved (a) for over eighteen months, (b) in all kinds of weather (including the winter of 1977-78), and (c) from one end of this country to the other. So don't be fooled — there is no other tire just like Tempo. And there's no need for you to settle for anything less. Spring, summer, winter or fall, Tempo is one tire you can drive with confidence. Eagles drown Warriors; Lakes washes over TJ

The Federal Way Eagles ripped past Clover Park 111-65 in girls' swimming action Wednesday, while the Jefferson Raiders were cannon-balled by Lakes 125-50.

"I'd figured they'd give us more of a meet than they did," Federal Way coach Al Hoppenrath said after his team's thorough stomping of CP.

Shannon Blakeley highlighted the Eagles' effort by setting a new school record in the 100-yard breaststroke 1:11.4. The first-place clocking also qualified for the state meet.

Hoppenrath praised the performance of diver Lisa Call, who won the event with 194.25 points.

Vicki Chovil and Tracy Thomas each scored two wins in individual events.

Thomas took the 50 freestyle in 25.97 and the 100 freestyle in 59.06. Chovil won the 200 individual medley in 2:26.7 and 100 butterfly in 1:06.39.

Other Eagle winners were Donna Deighton in the 200 freestyle, 2:19.04; and the 200 medley and 400 free relay teams. The quartet of Deighton, Kippi Lundgren, Melanie Amberson and Thomas won the 200 MR in 2:06.0. The 400 free relay team, which included Chovil, Marcy DeSpain, Liz Bailey and Miran DeSpain, took first with a 4:22.78 clocking.

Federal Way will take its 5-1 SPSL record into a home meet with Sumner, also 5-1, today at the Federal Way District Pool. "We'll have to be up for that one," Hoppenrath said. "We're the stronger team and backstroke with a 1:10.4 time.

Second-place Raiders were Teresa Layton in diving,

143.45 points; Crabtree in the 100 butterfly, 1:13.2, and Kathy Jones in the 100 freestyle, 1:17.2

tis today at 3:30 p.m. The meet will be at the Federal Way District Pool. The Raiders will also host Tyee Friday in a 3:30 p.m. meet at the FW Pool.

"Cartis is another big power, so we don't have much of a chance there," TJ coach Jennifer von Doehren said. "Tyee is more in concert with our team ability, so that should be a good meet."

Divers warned of faulty regulators

U.S. Divers announced on Sept. 14, 1979, the total recall of all Calypso piston-type regulators.

The models on recall are 1083 and 1084. Factory technicians have discovered a potentially hazardous problem in the regulator that could cut off a Scuba diver's air supply without warning. U.S. Divers urges all Scuba divers owning one or more of these regulators to halt usage of them immediately until the problem can be corrected at an authorized re-fitting center. U.S. Divers has instituted a repair program beginning Sept. 21, 1979, and has designated Lighthouse Diving Center as an authorized re-fitting center serving Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and Alaska. U.S. Divers and the Lighthouse Diving Centers are offering this re-fitting service as a no-charge public service.

Scuba divers who own Calypso regulators may bring them in to Lighthouse Diving Center, 8215 Lake City Way N.E., Seattle, Wash. 98115, for re-fitting.

Out-of-town owners can mail their regulators in and Lighthouse Diving Center will re-fit them and ship them back for a nominal shipping and handling fee.

For additional information call the Lighthouse at (206) 524-1633. U.S. Divers and Lighthouse Diving Center stress the urgency of having these regulators re-fitted as soon as possible.

Pay N Save plants trout

Thanks to a unique joining of public and private resources, Seattle fishermen will have a better year-round fishing spot at Green Lake. The Pay 'n Save corporation has agreed to provide funds for a net pen rearing project in the lake that will provide up to 50,000 rainbow trout annually.

about a hundred yards offshore until next Spring when the fish are released into the lake. Seattle Regional Fish Biologist Ted Muller says about 15,000 trout are planted each year in Green Lake and this additional planting should greatly increase fishing success.

Game Department Director Ralph Larson says this agreement is something of a "landmark" in the department's efforts to obtain private funds for public projects. Since cutbacks in some programs had to be made last year, the department has been looking for new ways to provide money to support worthwhile projects.

Pay 'n Save's contribution will amount to about $10,000 the first year of the project, to pay for the equipment, food and labor. The agreement calls for the program to continue to be supported for at least five years at the rate of $5,000 a year.

Poaching is a big problem in Washington State

Around the state billboards carry the message: Help Stop Poaching.

Poaching? To the non-sportsman the word "poaching" may seem somehow archaic, a term from the Middle Ages. Even the sportsman may associate poaching with Robin Hood and his legendary Merry Men, who made their living by killing the King's deer.

But poaching is still with us, and it's a bigger problem than ever. A poacher is anyone who hunts game illegally, often by unsportsmanlike methods. He may kill animals without a hunting license, during the closed season, after legal hunting hours or in excess of the legal limit. In most cases, he doesn't poach because he needs the meat. The animals he kills aren't the Kings — they belong to Washington's citizens, and the poacher's crimes are committed against us all.

Most poaching incidents go unreported and unpunished. Recent studies in California, New Mexico and

Idaho show that illegal killing of big game animals by poachers may even exceed the legal yearly harvest by sportsmen. Wally Kramer, chief of the Game Department's wildlife enforcement division, estimates that poachers kill 6,000 elk and 34,000 deer each year in Washington.

"Our field force of 95 wildlife agents is only able to scratch the surface of the poaching problem," Kramer said, "For every arrest we're able to make for a major poaching offense, nine more go undetected or unreported."

Kramer attributes the magnitude of the poaching problem to the public's lack of awareness and understanding of the offense.

If more people are aware of the poaching problem, he said, more will recognize a poaching incident when they encounter one, and more will report such incidents to the Game Department.

"If someone sees a violation or has knowledge of one, they should report the information to the Game Department as soon as possible," he said. "If necessary, their information can be relayed to a wildlife agent through the State Patrol, sheriff's department or other law enforcement agency."

"Whenever possible," he continued, "it's helpful to have a description of the suspect, location of the violation, and a license number or vehicle description. The sooner we're aware of a violation, the quicker we can begin an investigation, and it isn't necessary that the informant testify in court."

In Washington poaching is a gross misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of up to $1,000 and up to a year in jail. In addition, violators automatically have their hunting privileges revoked for two years for poaching deer, elk, bear, mountain goat, antelope, sheep, moose or caribou.

"Studies have shown that areas with the highest public awareness of poaching, and the lowest tolerance for it, usually have very low levels of illegal hunting or fishing," Kramer explained. So the Department of Game and sportsmen's groups throughout the state are working together to bring the poaching problem to the public attention.

The most visible phase of the anti-poaching campaign is the placing of "Help Stop Poaching" billboards along the state's major highways. The department developed the idea with the help of the Northwest Sportsmen's Club of Longview, which designed the first billboard. Since then, according to hunter education coordinator Mike Bireley, other billboards have been appearing around Washington, each sponsored by a local sportsmen's club.

"Statistics currently available indicate that a series of six such billboards scheduled for the Everett-Seattle-Tacoma area will be seen over three million times during an average month," Bireley said. The department distributes brochures containing information about poaching, wallet-sized cards, on which phone numbers can be written for reporting poaching violations, and decals and bumper stickers to help focus attention on the poaching problem.

"Hopefully," Bireley said, "the end results of the program will be less tolerance and apathy by the public, leading to more arrests for violations, and ultimately, less poaching."

Razor clam season opens

Washington Department of Fisheries Director Gordon Sandison announced recently that the sport razor clam season will open on Oct. 1 on all Washington beaches. The season allows recreational clam diggers to dig razor clams daily for 24 hours through March 15. The digging times are restricted to the a.m. tides March 16 through June 30.

Diggers must keep the first 15 razor clams taken regardless of size or condition.

Sandison reminded that clam diggers that everyone digging razor clams must have a valid license displayed clearly visible on an outer garment.

Residents of Washington may purchase a license, good through June 30, 1980, for $2.50. The fee for non-residents is $10. Licenses for those 65 years of age and older and those under 16 are free. Agents selling or distributing these licenses may charge as much as 50 cents for handling each license transaction.

Physically disabled persons may have others dig their limits of razor clams for them. Those physically disabled must have a valid license in their possession, a physical disability permit authorized by the Director of the Washington Department of Fisheries, and be present on the digging site.

Digging areas where this disability waiver is in effect are: Long Beach from the Oysterville approach to the beach north for a distance of two miles; at Grayland Beach (Twin Harbors) from Cranberry Road (the Pacific-Grays Harbor County line) south to Midway Road (approximately two miles); Copalis Beach from the Copalis Beach Road (Heath Road) south to the mouth of Conner Creek (one and one-fourth miles); Mocrocks Beach (Pacific Beach area) from Analyde Road (known as the Trestle Approach) south to the mouth of Joe Creek (one and one-fourth miles).

Twin Lakes hosts tourney

Twin Lakes Golf and Country Club recently completed its Women's Singles Tournament. The event, which will be scheduled annually, was tabbed as a success by tourney sponsors.

The competition was split into three sections: Class A-Advanced Players, Class B-Intermediate Players and Class C-

Beginning Players. JoAnna Tate beat Karen Edwards 6-2, 1-6, 7-5 to take the Class A title. Aleda Thosett defeated Pat Johnson 3-6, 7-5, 6-1 to take the Class B championship. Judy Mentink won the Class C crown by stopping JoAnn Burbank 6-3, 6-1.

Other tournament results were as follows: Class A (Round 1):

Edwards over Judy Powell 7-5, 4-6, 6-1; Nancy Cordry over Linda Pearsall 6-4, 6-4; Tate over Sharon Folster 2-6, 7-6, 6-2. Joyce Ambrose over Joy Allan 6-3, 6-1; (Round 2) Edwards over Cordry 4-6, 6-0, 6-3; Tate over Ambrose 6-1, 6-3.

Class B (Round 1): Bunny Rogers over Susie Renz 6-1, 3-6, 6-3; Ruth Tallman over Gail McConnel 4-6, 6-4, 6-0; Sharon Hatt over Jolene Latham 6-2, 6-2; Pat Johnson over Candee McColley 5-7, 6-4, 6-2. Aleda Thosett drew a bye.

(Round 2) Tallman over Rogers 7-6, 6-1; Thosett over O'Dom 6-3, 4-6, 6-4. Pat Johnson and Sharon Hatt drew byes. (Round 3) Thosett over Tallman 6-4, 6-3;

Sery O'Dom Johnson over Hatt 7-5, 2-6, 6-4.

PAUL SEIBENALER, a Mt. Rainier running back, hurdles through the line in Saturday's North Puget Sound League contest against the Hazen Highlanders. Hazen spoiled Mt. Rainier's bid for a homecoming win. The Rams will host Auburn Friday at Highline Stadium at 7:30 p.m. — photo by Mike Bainier

Highlanders, Wroten wreck Rams' homecoming, 30-0

by Bart Potter

In the wake of a 30-0 Homecoming defeat, a football coach might be excused a bit of sarcasm.

"The kids really came to play today," Mt. Rainier head coach Jerry Dotson said after the Hazen Highlanders shut out the Rams Saturday at Highline Stadium. But he was not being sarcastic. In fact, he was beaming.

Dotson is a coach who looks beyond the final score for other little victories. And the Rams scored several.

More than the physical Highlanders, who played an excellent football game, the Rams were beaten by an old nemesis: the fumble. Rainier showed it knows how to move the ball, and faced with the field position Hazen was handed, the defense played the Highlanders straight up. Improvement was quite evident," Dotson said of the Rams, still winless after seven games. "We played as a team.

"But the old fumble thing caught up with us."

The Rams fumbled — and lost — the ball on each of their first three possessions in the first quarter.

The first fumble was not costly in terms of Hazen turning it into points, but it had to hurt Ram morale. Following a Larry Pruitt interception of a halfback pass by Hazen's Tony Wroten, Rainier took over at its own 32.

Val Blevins carried for nine yards, Paul Siebenaler for 13 and Blevins for 15 to give the Rams a first and 10 at the Scot 38. But that impressive ground work went for nothing as Hazen recovered a Ram fumble.

Mt. Rainier's defense forced a punt, and on the second play after the ball hit the Astroturf again and ended up in Hazen hands. This time the Highlanders turned it into a touchdown on a 20-yard, six-play drive. Wroten carried over from two yards for the score.

The Scots upped the margin to 9-0 on a 32-yard Scott Callen field goal midway through the second quarter.

Scott Miller returned the ensuing kickoff 30 yards to give the Rams good field position on their own 44. But a clip and motion penalty wasted Brian Forslof completions of 23 and 15 yards to Tom Love, and the half ended with Rainier still in contention at 9-0.

The Rams opened the second half with a ground explosion led by Scott Miller. The junior running back ripped off runs of 18, nine and four yards to pace Rainier to two consecutive first downs. But the result was familiar.

Hazen recovered Miller's fumble on the Ram 48, and with Wroten doing the heavy work, took 11 plays to score. Wroten carried seven times for 46 yards on the drive, including the final yard for the TD.

The Rams picked up two more first downs on their next series, but a fumble killed the drive at the Hazen 45. Kerry Bell scooped up the loose ball and returned it 52 yards to the Ram three-yard line. Wroten carried on the first play for the score to make it 23-0 Hazen.

The Mt. Rainier defense turned a strong effort in the game. Only in one sustained period did the Scot power assert itself.

The Highlanders took over at their own seven-yard line and marched 93 yards in 13 plays for the game's final touchdown. Wroten dragged blue jerseys into the end zone with him on a six-yard run for his fourth touchdown of the day.

Wroten carried 27 times on the afternoon for a total of 119 yards.

The Rams will be seeking to get win number one Friday at Highline Stadium as they host 1-6 Auburn in a 7:30 p.m. contest.

Rams swim past Renton

The Mt. Rainier Rams won six of 11 events and had "key second- and third-place support," according to MR coach Paula Stokke, in their 86-83 victory over Renton last Tuesday.

The Rams finished their regular season yesterday against the Lindbergh Eagles (results unavailable at press time). Mt. Rainier will enter the NPSL Championship Meet Nov. 2 and 3 a Lindbergh Pool. Friday's competition will begin at 2 p.m. and Staturday's at 1 p.m.

Erica Nordean, a frosh scored a double-win for Mt. Rainier. Karen Luschei took the 100 butterfly in 1:09.9. Deena Barrett topped diving with 157.2 points, and Leslie Fallon touched first in the 100 backstroke at 1:15.5. The Mt. Rainier 200 medley relay team also scored a victory in 2:04.8.

Three Game Department employees received awards for heroism recently at a Game Commission meeting in Wenatchee. Two of the recipients were given Distinguished Service Awards, while the third received the highest commendation presented by the department, the Award of Honor.

Game Department biologist Jon Gilstrom received the DSA for rescuing a father and son stranded on a rock in the Elwha River after their canoe capsized. Jon's brother — a park service employee, and several park rangers also took part in the rescue. Jon, an experienced mountain climber, fashioned a

"Tyrolian traverse" rescue line to help the stranded pair reach safety.

Tim D'Acci, a federal employment program coordinator with the department, was awarded the DSA for his fast action in administering cardiopulmonary resuscitation to a news reporter who had suffered an massive heart attack. The incident occurred during a new conference in Seattle last year.

Jeff Dill, manager of the Little Pend Oreille Wildlife Recreation Area, received the Award of Honor for diving into the Kettle River in northeast Washington to rescue an 8-year-old boy. The boy and his father had been dumped into the icy water when their canoe overturned. Both father and son were rescued unharmed.

Aerialists at Center

The 1980 Seattle International Ski and Winter Sports Show, presented by Budweiser, will be held in the Seattle Center Exhibition Hall, Oct. 19, 20 and 21. The three day show will feature former Can-Am ski racer, Walt Hiltner and 1978 World Cup Aerial Champion Kerri Ballard; in addition to numerous commercial ski displays and exhibits.

Walt Hiltner of Seattle, is currently a professional freestyle skiing coach.

The Seattle International Ski and Winter Sports show hours are Friday, 6 to 11 p.m., Saturday, 1 to 11 p.m. and Sunday 1 to 6 p.m. Tickets available at the door. Adults $3, students 6-11, 50 cents and children under 6 will be admitted free. $1 off adult discount tickets will be available at all Beau Brummel stores, Kit Camera stores and Melody TV and Appliance stores.

UW meets UCLA

The Washington Huskies will be out to avenge last year's season-opening loss to UCLA when they travel to Los Angeles for a Pacific-10 Conference game with the Bruins this Saturday, Oct. 27 at 1:30 p.m.

UCLA defeated the 1978 Rose Bowl champion Huskies a year ago (10-7) in a game that was hit by torrential rains. The Bruin win gave them a narrow 21-20-1 lead in the overall series which dates back to 1932.

Game scores have been almost as close as the series itself—only nine points or less have separated the two teams during Don James' five-year stint at Washington.

Wildlife agent finds fugitive

Wildlife agent Bob Ford of Bellingham thinks it was an unexpected side-benefit of the Game Department's "anti-poaching" campaign that led to the capture of a Seattle jailbreaker. Agent Ford caught David Warriner last Tuesday night near the U.S.-Canadian border east of Blaine. Warriner was the last of seven escapees to be killed or captured in the aftermath of a breakout from the King County Jail Sunday night.

Ford was contacted by the state patrol after they'd received an anonymous tip about a possible poaching incident.

Ford stalked out a suspiciously parked vehicle in the area and then spotted a flashlight probing through the brush several hundred feet down the road. As the man came closer, the agent saw a backpack, but no gun. Realizing the man probably wasn't a poacher and the chances of his hiking so late at night were also slim, Ford flashed a light on him and told him to stop. The suspect turned and ran, but gave up when Agent Ford called out the standard warning: "Stop or I'll shoot."

Upon questioning, the individual gave out an implausible story about being a Canadian citizen who'd slipped across the border illegally and was now trying to return to Canada.

After the arrival of a border patrol agent, the suspect was questioned further and tripped up in his cover story. Then, suspecting that their captive might be the missing escapee, the border patrol agent contacted Seattle Police and received further confirmation. Warriner was then transported to the King County Jail where he is awaiting further charges.

Ford points out that incidents involving wildlife agents working in support of other law enforcement agencies are not at all uncommon. "Too often," says Ford, "the public thinks we are only concerned with hunting and fishing violations. We're trained, professional enforcement people," he says, "and the very fact we're out there doing our job is of benefit to the overall safety of the community."

Gators drive toward state

Local golf teams begin final matches

The Decatur Gators continued their rally toward second place in the South Puget Sound League and at least a playoff for a spot in the State AAA Golf Tournament by edging Federal Way

79-73 Thursday at North Shore. The win upped Decatur's season record to 9-3, a win above Bethel's 8-3 mark. Decatur met Bethel Monday (results unavailable) by deadline). The Gators drew a bye for Thursday's play, while Bethel will finish its season against Clover Park, also a contender for second place with an 8-4 record after Monday's play. Should a tie for second place occur after Thursday's action, the spot would be decided in the SPSL Medalist Tournament, which will be held next Monday at Tumwater.

A second-place finish is no guarantee of automatic seeding at state. Should any SPSL team, which finished third through 10th in the regular season, outscore the first of second place finishers of the regular-season competition in the medalist tourney, it would force a playoff for the state spots.

But finishing second affords an automatic chance at gaining a spot at state, and that's what coach Terry O'Donnell and his Gators are shooting for.

"We had pretty good consistency against Federal Way," he said. "They had four good scores but a couple lapses."

Federal Way mentor Dick Ternes was satisfied with his team's outing.

"We had two excellent scores; two average ones, and two not-so-good; so, it all averages out," he said. John Venta had an excellent round of two-under 34 for North Shore's front nine. The stellar effort brought the Eagles 20 points. His teammate, Bart Turchin, shot an even-par 36 for 18 points. But, at that point, Federal Way's scoring took an immediate drop. Gavin Savage came in with 11, Bill Eichholtz 10, John Tate 8 and Rich Hollingsworth 6.

Decatur rode solid, double-figure scoring to take a match win. Mike O'Donnell's 38 strokes brought 16 points. Mike Anderson and Rich Price each came through with 14.

Dave Edwards and Dave Utz added 12 apiece, and Mark Scuderi scored 11.

Federal Way will travel to Oakbrook tomorrow for a 3:30 p.m. match against powerful Lakes.

THE JEFFERSON Raiders raised their SPSL mark to 4-9 with a 43-37 victory over Summer Thursday.

"We played very well," TJ coach Ed Erikson said, noting that the Raiders were missing their top golfer, Mark Nygren.

Brian Myers topped all players in match with a 42 score at North Shore. That gave Jefferson 12 points. Terry Cash stroked 8 points, Ken Feugman and Lane DeBriase 6 each, Tim Griffith 7 and Steve Olson 4.

The Raiders met Curtis in their last regular-season match Monday (results unavailable by deadline).

THE MT. Rainier Rams failed in an effort to post a winning golf season as they dropped an 85-51 decision to Kennedy Thursday at Tye Golf Club.

"We were trying to beat last season's 5-4 record, but we blew the first match of the season to K-M, and things didn't quite go our way after that," MR links coach Mel Command said.

"We won most of the close matches, but we didn't get together to post any high scores." Mark Fickes posted a score of 40 for 15 points Thursday. John Finigan had 12, Steve Fickes 9, Ron Averill 8, Jerry Unser 6 and Darren Kawabata 1.

Mark Fickes took ninth in the NPSL Medalist Tournament by shooting a 90 at High Cedars Friday. Ron Averill came in 16th with a 97.

Outdoor tips and tales

How long should luck decoy lines be? They should be about three times as long as the water's depth. This lets the lines extend at about a 45-degree angle from anchor to decoy.

If the line is too short, the anchor may not hold in swift water or a strong wind. If you're hunting salt water marshes or estuaries of rivers close to land, you have to contend with an incoming tide can lift anchors off the bottom and let your decoys drift away if your lines are too short.

If lines are too long, decoys will not give a good swimming action and they will tangle with each other. Tangled decoys look phony to ducks, and they can spot the unnatural look from a long distance. Ducks also get smarter as the season progresses. A poorly set-up bunch of decoys that might draw in some ducks early in the season will scare them away from mid-season on.

You can also call them in a lot more easily in the season. As the weeks pass, they get as cautious as a diplomat at a disarmament conference. It's common late in the season to see a flight of mallards circling a lake a dozen times, dipping down, then pulling back up, dipping a little lower on each pass around the lake before finally dropping in.

This is the time when blinds must be close to perfect and duck calling done with the skill of a symphony virtuoso and hunters well camouflaged and as still as statues.

The greatest spoiler of wild game after you shoot it is body heat.

This deep body heat of game should be released as quickly as possible for good-tasting game. Get the bird or animal opened up, emptied out, the body cavity swabbed. In some cases, the fur or feathers should come off as soon as possible.

This is true even in cool weather. One friend tells of wasting a prime Canada goose by not field stripping it. He thought that the cold December air would chill the bird. It didn't work that way. The big bird was wearing the finest insulated underwear in the world. This didn't let much of the 20-degree air temperature in or much of the 104-degree body temperatures out. Result, a soured goose.

Fire warning issued

As hunting season opens, Game Department director Ralph Larson is urging all outdoor recreationists to take extreme care in the use of fire. No open fires will be permitted on Game Department-controlled lands, amounting to about 800,000 acres statewide, for the duration of the high fire danger period.

Use of campstoves will be allowed, says Larson, as long as safety precautions are taken, but he is urging that those who have cooking facilities "inside," such as in tents or recreational vehicles, use them instead.

"Hunters have been among the more responsible outdoor recreationists in the care taken with fire, and I feel that if they are aware of the problem we can count on their cooperation," said Larson.

"We're also asking that all sportsmen who are using back roads or off-road vehicles use the main roads as much as possible," Larson added. Grass fires are often touched off by contact with hot exhaust systems, especially ones using catalytic converters.

Larson says that there will likely be some spot closures of land throughout the state due to the fire hazard, as private landowners may close their land to trespass by anyone, including hunters. In addition, some counties are considering road restrictions to prevent traffic into higher elevations where the fire hazard is greatest.

"We're asking the sportsmen to 'police themselves,'" said Larson, "and if they find others not complying with the fire regulations, the violators should be urged to comply or reported." Game Department personnel, as well as Department of Natural Resources personnel will be spread out across the state during the next few days, looking for those who ignore the burning restrictions.

Gators clash with CP

by Brien Lautman
The Decatur Gators will host the Clover Park Warriors tomorrow night in Federal Way Memorial Stadium at 7:30 p.m., in a game that features two South Puget Sound League teams on down the league's ladder.

Clover Park, following a fast 3-1 start has since dropped four contests in a row to plummet to 3-4. The Gators are in the same shape at present, minus a quick start, as their season leader drops 0-7.

According to Gator Coach Greg Flynn his club will have to concentrate on stopping the running attack of Clover Park's Chuck Dennis, who spearheads the Warrior offense.

"We have to hold him down. We must contain him and not give him the 30 or 40-yarder."

Flynn also cited pass coverage as critical if his Gators are to upset Clover Park. The Warriors run a "mix it up" offense that runs equal amounts of passing and running.

But Decatur will have one big plus in its favor tomorrow night. It's the Gator homecoming game and that may be a big lift to the winless club.

"The kids are really excited about homecoming," said Flynn. But the Gator mentor said the key to success tomorrow night will be the defense's ability to stop the big run.

"We'll be in pretty good shape if we don't give them the big gain. We have to make them go the length of the field."

Hunters aid in preventing hazardous forest fires

Should hunting season be postponed due to high fire danger?

Commissioner of Public Lands Bert L. Cole says no. Not yet, anyway.

"In the drought year of 1977, forest fire danger was extreme," says Cole. "We thought about closing the forest areas we protect to hunters. But instead we appealed to them to help prevent fires and they did."

In fact, Cole points out, hunters went out of their way to extinguish fires started by other people. "Hunters helped keep the fire incidence as low as it was that crucial year," he said.

Cole identifies with the thousands of men, women, old and young, businessmen and farmers who leave their routine behind during this time of year to renew their kinship with the woods.

"People who hunt know that the real value of the sport is in the feeling of oneness with nature that it provides and the peace of mind that comes with breaking away and getting into the woods for a few days of well deserved fresh air and relaxation. It's one of the most rewarding experiences available to large numbers of people and I prefer not to exercise my option of closing the woods unless I am left with no alternative."

"I have faith in the ability of hunters to accomplish the same thing they did in 1977," said Cole.

He reminds hunters and other recreationists that written landowners' permission and DNR burning permits are required before open fires will be permitted on DNR protected land east of the Cascades. Written landowners' permission is required west of the Cascades, and DNR burning rules must be observed.

Seahawk gridders join McDonald House fund

The McDonald's Operators of Western Washington and the Seattle Seahawks are joining together this fall to raise approximately $50,000 for the Seattle Ronald McDonald House.

Between Oct. 18 and Nov. 18, McDonald's restaurants will be selling "Seahawk Souvenir Glasses" for 29 cents with the purchase of a medium drink. The proceeds from the sale of the glasses will go toward establishing a Seattle Ronald McDonald House.

The house will be a home away from home where families can stay while their children are being treated for cancer and other serious illnesses at Children's Orthopedic Hospital and Medical Center in Seattle.

According to Fred Schultz, president of the McDonald's Operators of Western Washington, all 49 McDonald's restaurants in the Puget Sound region will be participating in the fund raising effort.

"We are committed to raising a total of $300,000 for the construction of a Seattle Ronald McDonald House and we hope the 'Seahawk Souvenir Glass' will raise $50,000," said Schultz.

During each of the four weeks of the fund raising program three Seahawk players will be featured on the souvenir glasses. They are as follows: Week No. 1 - quarterback Jim Zorn, wide receiver Steve Raible and wide receiver Sam McCullum; Week No. 2 - wide receiver Steve Largent, running back Sherman Smith and running back David Sims; Week No. 3 - defensive end Bill Gregory, defensive tackle Manu Tuiaosopo and defensive tackle Dennis Boyd; Week No. 4 - defensive end Carl Eller, defensive back Autry Beamon and middle linebacker Terry Beeson.

If you would like to help build Seattle's Ronald McDonald House, please mail your donation to Children's Oncology Services of Washington, Inc., Box 88724, Tukwila, Wash. 98188.

Jefferson prevails in rain-shortened week

by Brien Lautman
The Thomas Jefferson Raider girls' tennis squad highlighted a rain-shortened schedule of matches last week as they squeaked by Rogers High School of Puyallup 3-2 in a match played at Jefferson last Tuesday.

The TJ girls were rained out of their Thursday match with the Sumner Spartans, but played the make-up match on Monday.

The Raider netters got off to a 2-1 lead against Rogers behind the powerful play of Mary Loundes and Tracey Andre. Loundes took her No. 2 singles match with ease, defeating Sue Harris, 6-0, 6-1, while Andre blanked Sheila Zeiler, 6-0, 6-0. No. 1 singles player for Jefferson, Bonnie Nygren, dropped her mat match 6-0, 6-4.

But despite Nygren's setback Jef-erson was still up 2-1 entering the doubles competition. The Raiders, however, could not muster a victory out of the two games and fell 3-2. Kathy Tonta and Gina Beckel fell 6-2, 7-6 and Connie Howard and Hillary Garrett lost the deciding match 5-7, 6-1, 6-2.

"It was not a very good tennis match for us overall," Coach Jack Sheppard said. "We were not as sharp as we could have been."

Federal Way, however, was nothing but sharp in its Tuesday encounter with the Decatur Gators. The Eagles totally dominated the host Gators as they rolled to a 5-0 win.

Brenda Tate started things off for the Eagles, defeating Renee Fohn 6-2, 6-3, while Deanna Dally stormed past Lisa Fisher 6-2, 7-5. In the No. 3 singles match Nancy Savage scooted to a 6-2, 6-2 win.

The Gators could not remedy their situation in doubles play as the Eagle pair of Roxanne Lawson and Janet Young defeated Sandy Leverette and Melinda Rasmussen 7-6, 7-6, while Lola Ralph and Sherry Moreira stroked to a 6-2, 6-2 win over Diane Monzelowski and Michelle Dye.

Federal Way received permission to play their Thursday match with Lakes at the Puyallup Valley Tennis Club, inside, and out of the rain. But the Tacoma school responded better to the dry conditions and came away with a 3-2 decision.

The Federal Way girls jumped out on top with two singles victories, but could not hold that lead as they dropped both doubles matches in decisive fashion.

Nancy Savage and Dally stroked to easy singles wins with Savage defeating Tracy Mengert, 6-1, 6-2 and Dally overwhelming Kathy Hirtz, 6-1, 6-1.

"Nancy Savage played the best match of her high school career," Coach Gary Brines said. "She played brilliantly all through the match."

In doubles play Ralph and Moreira lost a 6-0, 6-1 decision and Lawson and Young fell 6-1, 6-1.

The Federal Way area high Schools will travel to Spanaway this weekend for the Sub-District tournament held at the Sprinker Athletic Complex. The tournament is a qualifying round for the district meet held in the spring.

Reading books up for approval

A parent-staff reading book selection committee will present its recommendations to the Highline School Board at the board's 7:30 p.m. meeting Wednesday, Oct. 24.

The meeting will be held at Sylvester Junior High School, 16222 Sylvester Road S.W.

The selection committee has been working on the textbook selections since January, according to Don Bell, language arts coordinator. Some 14 texts were submitted by publishers for examination.

The reading book committee—made up of seven parents, 15 teachers, four principals, one reading consultant and the language arts coordinator—will recommend three different series for adoption for grades one through six and one series for grades seven and eight.

If the board accepts the recommendations, individual elementary school staffs will select which of the three elementary series to adopt in a particular school.

The recommended reading series and their publishers for elementary schools are: Pathfinder Reading Program, Allyn and Bacon; Reading 720, Rainbow Edition, Ginn and Company; Bookmark Reading Program, Harcourt, Brace and Jovanovich.

The recommended text for the seventh grade is Exploring Paths, and for the eighth grade, Expanding Horizons, both published by Harcourt, Brace and Jovanovich.

Alderbrook zoning given partial OK

Conditional rezoning for a portion of a proposed major development near Lakota cleared the King County Council Monday.

Duplex and apartment zoning was approved for about 21 acres in the northwest corner of the proposed plat of Alderbrook Estates near 21st Avenue SW and SW 320th Street.

The original request for the parcel to change the zoning to permit neighborhood business was rejected by the county zoning examiner earlier because it was not believed to conform to the Federal Way Community Plan.

The rezone was sought by the Catholic Archdiocese of Seattle which plans to sell the property to Sea-Cal Properties, Inc. of Washington along with 161 acres of residentially zoned property that jogs around the smaller package. That land is being considered by the county council for approval as a 541-lot single family housing development.

The overall development is expected to bring several hundred new students into the area making more classrooms necessary along with additional street improvements. Although the entire development was slated for completion by 1983, delays in approval have set that timetable back.

The SJR 110 query

Change legislature, or leave as it is?

Depending on which argument is presented, Senate Joint Resolution 110 will (a) make the Washington State Legislature a more efficient body and save taxpayers' dollars, or (b) isolate the Legislature from the public and siphon additional tax booty.

As proposed on the Nov. 6 general election ballot, SJR 110, if approved by a simple majority of the voters, require the Legislature to meet in regular sessions each year, and would limit the length of special sessions.

The proposed state constitutional amendment would strike the law that states the House of Representatives and the Senate meet only in odd-numbered years, while placing no restriction on special sessions.

Dissatisfaction has been voiced over the present legislative format, which calls for a 60-day limit on regular sessions. Special sessions, which are called by the governor or by a two-thirds vote of both houses, can continue indefinitely.

POINTS MADE by groups supporting the resolution include:

— Their pet resolution would bring an end to marathon legislative sessions, since they could last no longer than 105 days during odd-numbered years and not more than 60 days in even-numbered years.

— Special sessions, while they would be convened by the same measures as now provided, would be limited to 30 consecutive days.

— The fewer days the Legislature is in session, the better it is for the taxpayers, as each legislative day costs more than $55,000 of tax revenue.

In addition, supporters claim more qualified citizens will be willing to serve in the Legislature if they can be sure the session will end at a certain date, thereby allowing them to return to private and business lives.

Opponents of SJR 110 argue the resolution will have the reverse effect of what its supporters promote.

ACCORDING TO opposition groups, the proposal:

— Will increase the number of days the Legislature is in session from 60 per biennium to 165, with more possible in a special session.

— Will lead to added tax money expenditures. The Legislature is free to use its budget now only once every two years, rather than every year, as the resolution would provide.

Opponents of the proposal also object to what they claim would be a legislature of full-time politicians, instead of every-day wage earners and small-businessmen who dominate both houses now.

Any majority of the vote favoring the resolution will make it an amendment to the constitution.

The resolution cleared the Legislature for the voters' consideration by favorable votes of 89-7 in the House and 40-4 in the Senate.

Rx Ask Your Pharmacist GARY HEFFNER R. Ph. Question? How slow is the F.D.A. in approving new drugs compared to other countries? Answer... The General Accounting Office auditors said F.D.A. approval of U.S. Drugs takes an average of 20 months, compared to 7-12 months in most other countries. One of the slowest cases of F.D.A. drug approval was a drug used for the treatment of high blood pressure. It took six months to reach the market in England and 40 months in America.

Lindbloom resigns GRCC presidency

Thirty years on a job that "has never been boring," is the way Dr. Melvin Lindbloom described his years as president of Green River Community College.

Lindbloom, one of the prime forces behind the creation of the college located in Auburn, has announced his plans to retire, effective June 30, 1980. The GRCC Board of Trustees officially accepted his resignation Thursday. He will leave his position to devote more time to other interests. "There are a number of things I've never really had time to do that I'd like to do for awhile," he said, although he declined to be more specific at this time.

Lindbloom, 54, said he is retiring because "30 years in education...is a sufficient amount of time. This has always been part of my long range plan. You have to be effective in this job, and you sure can't stay around for too long." The educator, who holds a Doctorate in Education from Washington State University, has been with the college since it was first conceived in 1963. He was named president of GRCC in October 1964, prior to the school's opening in September 1965.

Lindbloom began his educational career, after serving in the Navy during W.W. II, as a high school teacher and coach in Sultan. He then traveled to Quincy, where he served as principal and superintendent of schools for a combined total of seven years.

He came to Auburn in July 1962, as assistant superintendent of the Auburn Public Schools under Supt. Hayes Holman. He worked with Holman to convince the State Board of Education that a community college should be located in Auburn. In July, 1963, GRCC was selected as one of the state's three new community colleges, winning preference over 12 other proposed sites.

"There was no guarantee there would be a community college here at that time," he reflected. "My reason for coming here was to work with a group of people from the area to organize a campaign to get a community college started."

The college was built on then untouched acreage just east of the Auburn city limits and opened with one building, three administrative staff and 30 faculty members.

Today, the college boasts more than three times as many faculty members and 15 complexes. The vocational programs as well as the many degree programs have boosted the college's average enrollment to more than 4,000 full-time equivalent students per quarter.

MS. BEVERLY SCHOENFELD, chairperson of the Green River Community College Board of Trustees accepts a letter of resignation from Dr. Melvin Lindbloom, GRCC president.

The idea, and the subsequent product, have gotten just as big as he knew they could' he said.

"I've thoroughly enjoyed it," he commented with a broad smile. "It's a unique opportunity when you can help start a college. It was an exciting experience then, and it has never been boring."

Lindbloom is a past president of the Washington Association of Community Colleges and former member of the Council for Postsecondary Education. He is a member of the Auburn Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce, as well as Phi Delta Kappa, CAPRI and GRCC's Foundation.

Halloween party boomerangs at center

The Boomerang hour of singalong puppets in full Halloween regalia will perform on the Center House Stage on Oct. 27 at 1 p.m. at Seattle Center.

Guest star Betty Bender will lead the freewheeling half-hour of singalong songs, jokes, games and music. Rookie, Melinda, Norbert and Libby will be in costume for what is one of Seattle Center's biggest attractions.

Boomerang Saturday is a monthly event 11 a.m.) Women's Bible study, coffee, babysitting provided, at the church, 34030 21st Ave. S.W., for information call Pauline Parks at 941-0317.

cosponsored by Seattle Center and KOMO-TV. The Boomerang puppets are seen weekdays at 9 a.m. on Channel 4. Betty Bender, replacing Marni Nixon this month, has a Bachelor of Science in Music Education and has taught elementary levels in the public schools. She sings and performs professionally on a regular basis.

County expands work of district courts

District courts in King County picked up some additional duties and the possibility for more revenue Monday as the county council placed jurisdiction over the probation office and collection of misdemeanor warrants with the courts.

County administration through the department of rehabilitative services had previously run the probation office but district court judges "felt rehabilitative services didn't give enough money to provide adequate probation reports to the courts," according to Richard Roth, District Court Administrator.

Roth said the reports are "such an integral part of sentencing the judges felt the probation officers should be part of their jurisdiction. The courts wanted probation under their control for a long time," he said.

Warrants for unpaid traffic violations and other misdemeanors have been collected by the Department of Public Safety in the past, Roth said. But, he said, collection has not been up to capacity and warrants "haven't really been serviced adequately by public safety." He said the judges "feel there is revenue out there" and the establishment of the warrant unit within District Court jurisdiction should bring in about $1 to $1.5 million a year. That would more than pay for the $300,000 cost of the unit, Roth said.

It is also anticipated, he said, that the revenue will pay for expansion of the probation unit.

Public safety will continue to serve warrants against felons.

Bible studies start

The Des Moines Gospel Chapel, 703 S. 219th St., is holding fellowship coffee hours through the spring every Wednesday beginning at 10 a.m.

The Bible study sessions are for men and women of all ages and will take place in the chapel fireside room where tea, coffee and pastries will be provided.

George Matthews, a retired Boeing engineer who taught the class last year, is doing so again this year.

A nursery is being provided for young children.

Your Money

by John Weaver, Jr.
Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc.

As we approach the 50th anniversary of the Great Crash, it is useful to realize that in many respects the 1970's are a mirror image (meaning the situation is reversed) of the late 1920's. Here are a few examples of this:

1. In the 1920's the major foreign banks were asking the United States to inflate the dollar in order to support the pound, franc, lira and mark. However, today it has been the United States government asking foreign banks to support the dollar.
2. In the late 1920's more than 40 percent of all families lived on farms but about 4 percent today, and the world was burdened with agricultural surpluses.
3. In the industrial areas wages were low and unions were weak.
4. The middle class was small in comparison to today and just beginning to discover the wonders of installment debt.

Consequently, when the government made a costly error in 1927 by expanding credit to help our inflation trading partners, there was very little inflationary impact on consumer prices or the cost of living.

Instead, most of this excess credit flowed into the stock market or was used to finance costly capital expansion by industry. So, when the Federal Reserve Board reversed the excess credit policy on Aug. 8, 1929 by raising the discount rate, the United States found itself with a greatly overvalued stock market and a massive surplus of productive capacity. The result of that initial government sponsored credit expansion was the Great Depression. It took years for the economy to recover by liquidating this excess capacity. Primarily, it was World War II, not the socialism of the New Deal, that drained off our agricultural and industrial surpluses and ended the Depression.

Today, and for the last 35 years, the political and social organizations of the United States have been increasingly changing the economy to accommodate the consumer. The result, today, is that the surging money supply impacts wages and prices (inflation) as the excess purchasing power flows to the consumer rather than to capital investment or the stock market.

It is because of this massive diversion of funds to consumption that the stock market, which represents the ownership of productive assets, could be as greatly undervalued today as it was overvalued in 1929.

Translating the activity of the Dow Jones Industrial Averages into current figures, for the same damage to be done today, they would have to drop 56 points, 114 points, and 104 points respectively for three days in a row beginning Tuesday, Oct. 23. No Way!

Stores open in Center Plaza

Three new stores have led the way in opening the new $10.2 million Plaza Center located at South 320th Street and 20th Avenue South.

Stertevant Sports, specializing in ski equipment opened Sept. 28. The 4,200-square foot sports shop carries seven popular brands of skis and five brands of boots. In addition, the store also carries equipment for tennis players and joggers. Store manager Scott Brannon and his seven employees are knowledgeable when it comes to ski equipment. Many have experience ranging from ski instruction to competitive racing. The stores hours are 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturdays and noon to 5 p.m. Sundays.

Offering a wide selection and top-of-the-line lamps, The Lamplighter, owned by Bob and Linda Landon is a family business. Landon gave up a career as an executive to run the lighting business with his wife. The 1,400-square-foot store has more than 250 lamps from East and West coast manufacturers. The shop also carries a large selection of lampshades and figurines Landon also makes lamp repairs and sells extra lamp parts. Store hours for the month of October are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays and noon to 5 p.m. Sundays.

Specializing in items for the home, from furniture to dishware, Domus (which means "home" in Latin) opened last week. The 2,800-square-foot store is stocked with home furnishings, gift ideas and offers a bridal registry. Three couples own the business: Dale and George Johnson; Lin and Douglas Murray; George and Jane Woods. The idea for the store came about on a Colorado boat trip. The owners opened their first store in Bellevue in 1976. Upon seeing the growth of the Federal Way area, they decided to open a second store. Domus store hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays and noon to 5 p.m. Sundays.

Money is available say local R.E. firms

by Kay Crane
The local real estate companies are ready and willing to sell homes, and, most important, have lines of credit available for their buyers. Some of those lines of credit are not the ordinary ones, but go back to previous periods of high interest rates. Interviews with five established realtors indicate that there certainly is money available.

Dan DeSantis
In West Seattle, Dan DeSantis of Ron Turner Realty, Inc., called the lenders he usually deals with and found out that 34 of 48 lenders have money available now, for owner-occupied homes. The rate spread he found was from eleven and one-half percent down to eleven and seven-eighths percent with 10 percent down, for a conventional mortgage, over 30 years.

For young couples, DeSantis is suggesting either FHA or VA mortgages. FHA offers a low down payment (0 to 10 percent), and then 10 and one-half percent interest plus one-half percent insurance for a total rate of 11 percent for 30 years. The VA loan has a no down payment, and a 10 and one-half percent rate. The maximum which can be borrowed on the loans has gone up to a realistic level.

The only fly in this particular ointment is for the seller, who must pay right now seven and one-half "points" or percent of the loan amount, as a discount to the lender to compensate for the low interest rate the buyer will have. DeSantis finds more and more sellers prepared to pay that sum in order to sell.

Another way West Seattleites are selling recently, according to DeSantis, is on the real estate contract or deed of trust. With a real estate contract, the seller stays in an ownership position until the loan is paid. With a deed of trust, with the seller holding the contract, the deed is transferred to the buyer with the possibility that it is easier to foreclose in the case of default. Either of these methods gives the seller the advantage of an investment at greater than bank rate on a home they know is sound.

WITH AN ASSUMPTION, the buyer takes over the seller's old mortgage, usually at a very advantageous rate. To pay for the large down payment often demanded to complete such a deal, the seller may hold a real estate contract for part of the down payment. This increases the seller's yield. DeSantis suggests a two or three year close-out on such a deal, because he finds people's plans and needs may change quickly.

After the cash-out, if the seller wishes to invest in real estate, DeSantis will be happy to suggest ways to do so. After experience in a brokerage firm, he is sure that real estate is the best investment to make.

"I see people getting a better return on their savings in real estate than in anything else," he says. "Investors have terrific opportunities now because of the variety of instruments available. In two to five years you can plan to take out the equity and refinance, which is tax-free."

DeSantis is sure this is a good time to buy. "If someone is thinking of buying a home, tell them to do it now. If they wait for interest rates to go down, they are also waiting for prices to go up, so they will gain nothing."

Cliff Norton
Cliff Norton, senior vice president of John L. Scott, Inc., at the Burien office, has a slightly different point of view. "The market has slowed down," he says, "but it does every year at this time."

Norton thinks interest rates will go down after the first of the year. Right now his firm has a line of credit available at less than 11 percent for owner occupied housing on a conventional loan with 20 or more percent as a downpayment.

"I think the FHA will have to increase its rates," Norton says. "Right now the market will come down. It really won't." Norton reminds buyers that interest payments are deductible for IRS purposes, something young buyers often don't know. Especially in the two-income family, that deduction can be important.

FUNDS ARE AVAILABLE for investment properties, too. The knowledgeable investor will buy anyway, despite the high interest rates, because the tax write-offs and other benefits are worth it. Naturally, those high interest rates will be reflected in higher rents. This in turn is what will make homebuying an even better buy than ever compared to renting.

"It's an excellent time to purchase a property," Norton says. "There may have been better times, but they are few and far between, and of course there's no telling when there may be one in the future."

While some people think they can't afford the current high interest rates, others will seek an experienced real estate agent to discuss the choices. Salesmen who know about financing will seek the possible short-term contract, an assumption with a contract or deed of trust for the difference, short or long term depending on the seller's needs. In other words, Norton sees the same possibilities for buyers that DeSantis does. Flexibility from both buyers and sellers must be the keynote of the current market.

Another long-time Burien realtor, Kathleen L. Haggard, the broker for Marine View Properties, Inc., says to keep faith with real estate as an investment. "There is always a market for homes in the Burien area," she says. "We are close to downtown, to Boeing, to the industrial areas. We have fine freeway access, and, face it, Burien is a great place to live. People stay here for many years; it shows up in the listings. Maybe people sell if they're retiring, and maybe not - they may decide to stay here then, too."

Kathleen L. Haggard

Marine View Properties has commitments of money for mortgages coming in every day. "Our owners are taking contracts," Haggard says, "to the tune of maybe three or four a day. It's wonderful for our buyers because it's the cheapest way to buy a house. There is no chase around for financing with the owner helping that way."

Even if a mortgage is assumable, Haggard points out, the rate may be high, but there are no loan fees, fewer front-end costs. A buyer might save $800 on a $40,000 loan.

After 20 years in the real estate market locally, Haggard says there are always ups and downs in the business, and that typically business is slow at this time of year because of the coming holidays.

"The business community knew this problem with mortgages was coming," she says, "and prepared for it. We have money available for mortgages, and we are not unique."

The builders have their own financing and can offer permanent mortgages through their own banks for their buyers, Haggard says. These are conventional loans. Right now she has several new homes to offer in the Normandy Park area, with the financing available.

Haggard sees only disappointment ahead for the buyer who waits for the new house purchase, maybe until Spring, on the theory that the rates will come down. They may, but the prices will go up. Builder's costs continue to rise, and house values on older homes continue to rise, so that any lowering of interest rates will be more than offset by higher prices.

"This area is continuing to grow so you know houses are not going to come down in value. They are not going to get less expensive," Haggard says, "so don't wait - the longer you wait the less you save."

As the year draws to a close the tax deduction assumes a greater importance. Renters can cash in on that by buying now in time to start mortgage payments before the first of the year. Remember that the entire interest portion of the mortgage is deductible.

Haggard thinks the FHA and VA market are coming into their own. "It's an excellent opportunity for a young couple, especially a veteran, to get into a house," she says. "I always enjoy seeing a pair of youngsters find their first home. They're like kids with a new toy, and it's wonderful to be able to offer it to them now with the FHA and VA options. But for anyone, real estate remains the best investment there is, by far. So for us it's business as usual, I guess, with money available and perhaps a greater emphasis in the FHA and VA opportunities."

Further south, Ken Bartlett, the designated broker for Evergreen Realty in Federal Way, says that we're in the middle of a bomb shell. "What's happening now means buy, in a word," he says.

"The best spot in the country is the Puget Sound area, so you know our values are going to rise. The house you buy today will be worth more tomorrow. Realtors have been saying that for years, but it's still true now," Bartlett says. "My advice is to buy what you can afford or a little bit more, because incomes are rising too, but in any case, buy. The whole situation says buy."

Ken Bartlett

Evergreen Realty has found no problem in finding money for mortgages. Bartlett thinks the rates may go down a little but suggests not waiting for that to happen. He says the King County market will be strong on into the future, what with Boeing, Weyerhaeuser, the pipeline, and all the other employment opportunities here.

THEREFORE HIS OFFICE is tooling up for increased business. They have bought a microfiche reader-printer with the files of sales in the county on record so that determining a fair market price can be done easily. "It's partly a gas saving idea," Bartlett says. "What used to take hours in the car can perhaps be done in a few minutes in the office."

"With all the alternatives of conventional mortgages, FHA and VA, with sellers helping buyers with real estate contracts and deeds of trust, there's no reason not to buy now," Bartlett says. "My sales manager, Al Swanson, says we can offer mortgages right now at eleven and one-half percent, even eleven and one-fourth percent. And the FHA and VA are 10 and one-half percent now, with the FHA of course needing that extra half percent for insurance. But there's no time like the present to get into a home. It's a move you won't regret."

This is a market that cannot be stopped, Bartlett says. He has not had a bad month and doesn't expect to. "In fact, this month is better than we had a year ago," he says. "There is a mortgage money available and we can find it."

Jerry Michaelson

JERRY MICHAELSON IS president and broker of C. Ralph Fleming, one of the oldest real estate firms in the Federal Way area. The company has 32 years experience and has been through many recessions.

"We continue to serve our buyers and sellers anyway," Michaelson says. "We just find other ways of financing. But I don't think the situation is so bad right now. We are having no problem getting money through conventional sources right now, but I think in 60 days we may. That is why I am advising people to buy now and not wait."

The Oct. 15 bids from the big mortgage companies for big blocks of money were at 12.75 percent for conventional loans and 12.56 for FHA and VA loans. "They can't loan it out any lower than that and stay in business," Michaelson says, "so the rates must go up. Then they bump into the state usury law. If we're going to compete on the national market for funds needed by the local building industry, the state of Washington will have to raise the usury law, now set at 12 percent, to 14 percent, or 15, or 16, but a floating basis would be better. We tie wages into the cost of living, leases to taxes, everything to something. There was a time when 12 percent seemed to be beyond reason, but it's here and passed now, so it's time to raise the rate and tie it to something, some national guide.

Without such a change, Michaelson sees new construction coming to a halt locally. This in turn will result in a drop in income to the state Continued

SCARED STIFF?

If you have been scared stiff of the recent trends in the housing market, we have some good news for you! There are many ways to purchase a home, not just one!! We have a cute and clean three bedroom rambler in the close-in McMillen area and the owner considers Real Estate Contract terms. If you need a home NOW and can't wait for the market to ease, call us for information on how to beat the 'Credit Crunch'! Just $51,500!

THE MARKET HAS CHANGED!!!

NOW is the time for the Intelligent Investor to become familiar with some NEW terms:

- WRAP AROUND MORTGAGE
- REAL ESTATE CONTRACT
- ASSUMPTION + 2nd BACK
- GAP LOAN
- BRIDGE LOAN
- TRADE EQUITY

Historically, the individual who has the ability to adapt to changing conditions has been the one to profit! In recent years we have been involved in a market that was in the clutches of rampant inflation. We have seen the price on a home literally double in 2 to 3 years. We have seen Interest Rates skyrocket. With the recent moves by the Federal Bank Board to curb inflation, many people have adopted an attitude of sheer PANIC. The average Homebuyer is convinced that he will not be able to purchase a home. NOT TRUE! Not only can he purchase that home, but he will also be in a BETTER position than he was previously! Sellers are just now beginning to realize that the days of asking for, and GETTING, outrageous prices for their property are over! However, they will be in a position to realize compensating profits by using CREATIVE FINANCING. We at Unruh Realty, Inc. pride ourselves on our expertise in helping both the BUYER and SELLER PROFIT from the current market condition. If you would like to learn more about how to intelligently cope with today's market, call an UNRUH PROFESSIONAL TODAY!

THAT CHARMING COTTAGE...

that everyone wants has been found! It's located across the street from FIVE MILE LAKE! It has a Free Standing Fireplace, a Loft, French Doors to the Family Room and a built-in Bay Window breakfast nook! The lot is woody and secluded, the perfect place to spend a cozy Winter! Just $57,500! Ad #109

TAME YOUR TENSIONS!

If you have a growing family you know that being packed together in a TOO SMALL house can really be tense! Here's your chance to break away at an affordable price. We have just listed a super spacious home with both a Family Room and a Rec-room! There's also room downstairs for a fourth bedroom. The home has a fenced backyard, multiple baths, and it's just a few blocks to school! At just $74,500 FHA VA the payments won't make you tense either! Ad #196

MAKE A WISH!

Do you wish you could find a real bargain on a quality home? Your wish has come true! We have just listed a one year young home in the lovely Cambridge area. It's quality constructed by Finer Homes and still has nine years left on the Homeowners Warranty. The home features three bedrooms, multiple baths, spacious kitchen, Formal Dining and a price you can live with! Just $77,950 Ad #202

VIEW-$58,500!

When was the last time you heard of a view home with a price like that! This one has three bedrooms, huge kitchen, Formal Dining, multiple baths, and a partial view of the Sound and a good view of the Olympics and City Lights! It's in excellent condition, has a covered patio and the rest of the homes in the neighborhood are in the $100,000+ range! Call fast, it won't last!

BUY THIS HOME!

We can't understand it! Every now and then we have an exquisite home that we expect to sell in a matter of days, well it's been a matter of weeks! The owners are anxious! It has three bedrooms, multiple baths, lovely landscaping, Arched Fireplace, and spacious Rec-room. Now here's this it has a STUNNING VIEW OF PUGET SOUND! Just $78,500! Ad #50

SOAP!

Want to score the best buy on the market today? Then come on out and see this LARGE five bedroom home! Soap is cheap and so is the asking price on this home that features a Rec-room, Workshop wired for 220, TWO fireplaces, multiple baths and lots of R.V. parking. If you don't mind doing a little scrubbing and painting you will have a real prize at only $60,000! Ad #171 because the 1 percent state's own laws re-exercise tax collected by the state on the sale of all homes, new and old, will result in less money. The excise tax is sent by the state to the county where the property is located and is earmarked for the schools. As Michaelson says, "I hate to see the schools suffer because the ventional methods don't work. We did that in the last recession. This just shakes out from the business some of the people who don't understand the financing the way we do. People are moving out of older homes and will sell and carry their contract to make things easier for their buyers. It's better because the interest rate is lower than the bank," Michaelson says.

"There are always alternatives. Right now we are looking to the FHA and VA to put new money into this market until the state's usury law is changed upward. But there is money, and there are alternatives," Michaelson says. "People don't need to be afraid to buy now."

MICHAELSON HAS SEEN Federal Way grow from four or five business houses on the highway to the thriving area it is now. His graduating class at Federal Way High School has 28 members - now the schools graduate maybe 1,500 a year. "You know with growth like that the home values are going to go up," he says. "You don't have to worry about an investment in a home in the Federal Way area."

What does it all amount to? Five realtors, with a combined 69 years in the business locally, think this is a good time to buy. Mortgage money is available, if not at a low rate through conventional sources, then at an affordable rate through unconventional sources. The inventory of available homes is substantial now, so there are many choices.

All of these realtors are agreed that the investment opportunities are excellent now, but that rents will probably go on up. This in turn makes home buying a better investment than ever.

Is it perhaps time for you to stop paying rent and start building equity in a home and reaping the tax benefits of a mortgage at the same time? Any local real estate firm will be glad to discuss the possibilities with you. Remember that money is available, and that the house you buy today will be worth more tomorrow.

Watch for it!

STANDING AT THE TOP OF A LADDER, BRAVE Linda Eldredge picks rosy red apples off the tree while Allen Stohl watches skeptically.

Apple squeezin' time

Back in the early 1920's when apples were just $1 a box, Elmer Stohl and his family from Puyallup used to go out to the apple orchard and put the press into action.

Owners of a working orchard that had a variety of cooking and eating apples, they squeezed enough juice to last them through a frosty winter and well into spring.

To recapture a taste of that pioneer spirit, his son Allen Stohl and his family recently invited their neighbors to join them in a squeeze-your-own cider party.

Apples were provided. Friends were encouraged to come with plenty of muscle, endurance, a sense of humor and empty jugs.

Stohl and his wife, Julie, went out the night before and brought out the 250-pound hopper to scare away the spiders and shake off the dust.

By the time company arrived, there were 19 people including 11 children ranging in age from a year-and-a-half to 11 years-old. Most of the neighbors live at 8th Place South and 306th where they often share babysitting and each other's company.

Everybody pitched in gathering up apples from the two-acre field. The unpruned tress provided 10 kinds of apples including Baldwins, yellow delicious, winter banana and 20-ounce tip-pins.

SWEET AND TART apples were mixed for an "amazing taste" according to Julie. The golden delicious apples were processed by themselves and the resulting juice was slightly sweeter than the mixed variety.

Though Julie said their aim was not sexist, women soon took over jobs such as washing the bottles and cleansing the apples and men picked apples and hauled them to the press in wheel barrows.

The children pitched in wherever possible, generally having a great time running through the fields, having apple fights and tasting the juice, according to parents.

Once apples were ready, they were thrown in the hopper and chopped into small pieces. A flat plate was then lowered, squeezing the apples and causing the juice to be extracted.

After the juice was filtered twice, it was bottled in gallon jugs.

Finishing up with 25 gallons, each neighbor took home a few jugs. Some will be processed to prevent spoilage and some will be used to make apple wine which will also be shared.

When asked if they were ready to try again next year, Julie commented "What do you mean next year? We're thinking of trying it again next week we had so much fun."

USING A WATER COOLER for a container, Judy Powell and Chuck Ford strain the apple juice for the second time to remove seeds and skin.

THE NUMBER OF FILLED JUGS grows as Chuck Ford and Allen and Julie Stohl work over the antique apple press.

Alaska Snow Crab adds to elegant buffet fare

When it comes to seafood, frozen Alaska Snow Crab meat is preferred in more ways than one. Often used as an impressive appetizer, the seafood also can move into the hot entree course with elegance. Crab Puff Aux Champignons is a royal entree which calls for six ounces of crab and yields six servings. A package of stuffing mix with wild rice enhances and "stretches" the sweet, delicate flavor of the snow crab meat. The recipe is not only easy to prepare, but can be made ahead and refrigerated.

Other Alaska seafood delicacies available in the freezer section of food markets are six-ounce packages of tiny Alaska shrimp and a unique combination package of shrimp and snow crab meat.

CRAB PUFF
A U X C H A M-PIGNONS
(Yield: 6 servings)

1 package (6 ounces) Snow Crab with liquid
½ cup sliced mushrooms
¼ cup minced celery
¼ cup minced green onions and tops
¼ cup butter

1 package (6 ounces) chicken flavor stuffing mix with wild rice
¼ pound diced Swiss cheese
4 eggs
¼ teaspoon seasoned salt
2 cups milk

Thaw crab meat. Sauté mushrooms, celery and green onions in butter in small skillet about two to three minutes. Combine, in one and one-half quart casserole, with stuffing crumbs, wild rice and seasoning packet and diced cheese. Toss to mix well.

In bowl, beat eggs with seasoned salt to blend; add milk and liquid from thawed crab; mix thoroughly. Arrange crab over stuffing and cheese mixture. Pour egg and milk mixture carefully over all. Let stand 10 minutes. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven one hour until slightly puffed and set in the center.

M U S H R O O M S
F L O R E N T I N E

1 package (6 ounces) frozen Alaska Snow Crabmeat
24 to 32 mushrooms
1 cup chopped, frozen spinach (or two cups fresh, chopped spinach)
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 (3 ounce) cream cheese
2 tablespoons butter
¼ cup dry white wine

Parmesan cheese
Thaw and drain crabmeat. Clean mushrooms; remove stems and chop. Sauté mushroom stems and onion in butter until tender. Stir in cream cheese until melted. Add spinach and crabmeat. Stuff mushrooms with spinach mixture. Place mushrooms, stuffing side up in baking dish. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Pour wine into baking dish. Bake mushrooms in preheated 400-degree oven for 15 to 39 minutes.

(Yield: 4 servings)
1 package (6 ounces) Alaska King Crabmeat
¼ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup ketchup
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon capers
8 pitted ripe olives
8 cherry tomatoes
8 mushrooms

1 head lettuce
Thaw and drain crabmeat, reserving liquid - set aside eight chunks for kabobs. Combine mayonnaise, ketchup, lemon juice, capers and crab liquid. Fold in crabmeat. Shred lettuce and arrange on four plates. Top each lettuce bed with one-fourth of the dressing. Arrange crab chunks, olives, tomatoes, and mushrooms on four inch wooden skewers. Serve two kabobs on each plate.

Grape drinks for fall athletes

If your fall plans include a sporty future, remember to have a physical check-up, warm up before working out, don't overdo and drink plenty of fluids. Gearing up? Think grape! Mulled Grape Warm-up and Olympic Grape Refresher are two natural energy thirst quenchers for sportspersons and spectators.

MULLED GRAPE WARM-UP

1 quart grape juice
2 cinnamon sticks
4 slices lemon
2 slices orange Generous dash

allspice
Combine all ingredients in saucepan. Heat over medium heat. Serve hot.

OLYMPIC GRAPE REFRESHER
(Yield: 2 quarts)
1 quart grape juice
3 cups apple juice
1 can (6 ounces) frozen concentrate pineapple-orange, thawed and undiluted
Crushed ice
Lemon or lime slices

In a large pitcher, combine Welch's Grape Juice, apple juice. Fill pitcher with crushed ice. Serve in stemmed glass; garnish with lemon or lime slices.

Wholesome after school snack

When children invite the gang over for a study session after school, serve nutritious snacks that will replenish energy used up during school hours.

Grape Shakes, made with concentrated grape juice, milk, peanut butter and ice cream, furnish calcium, protein and food energy. They can be whipped up in a matter of seconds in an electric blender. All the ingredients are easily kept on hand and your kids can make Grape Shakes themselves.

While discussing the U.S. history or solving arithmetic problems, the children will enjoy munching Oatmeal Jam Cookies. These wholesome cookies are made with oatmeal, wheat germ, chopped walnuts and baked with a pocket of grape or strawberry jam.

GRAPE SHAKES
(Yield: 6 cups)
1 can (6-ounces) frozen concentrated grape juice, thawed and undiluted
3 cups milk
1-½ cups creamy peanut butter
1-½ cups vanilla ice cream

Combine all ingredients in blender container. Blend several seconds, until smooth and frothy.

OATMEAL JAM
(Yield: 5 dozen)

½ cup (one stick) butter or margarine, softened
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup white sugar
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup oatmeal
½ cup chopped walnuts
½ cup wheat germ
1 cup unsifted flour
½ teaspoon baking soda

¼ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup grape or strawberry jam

In mixer bowl, cream butter at high speed. Beat in sugar gradually until light and fluffy. Stir in egg, vanilla, oatmeal, walnuts and wheat germ. Sift flour with baking soda, baking powder and salt. Stir into batter until well blended.

Novel snack

Try this novel and appetizing approach to "Nuts and Bolts." Spread four cups small shredded wheat in a single layer on a large shallow baking pan. Drizzle with one-third cup melted butter or margarine. Sprinkle with seasoned salt. Stir in gently to mix one and one-

Drop by teaspoonfuls onto lightly greased cookie sheets. Make hole in center of each cookie using back of small spoon. Drop about one-half teaspoon grape or strawberry jam into center of each cookie.

Bake in preheated 350-degree oven until delicately browned, about eight to 10 minutes. Remove from cookie sheet while still warm and cool on racks.

Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 15 minutes. After baking stir in one-third cup dark seedless raisins or chopped dates. Serve hot or cold. Yields five and one-half cups.

Catch of the day - a San Francisco special

Nowhere in the world is seafood prepared in so many different ways as in San Francisco. Fisherman's Wharf boasts a multitude of fish, prepared to please everyone. They know how to prepare fish - and the secret's simple. Start with a good product, and cook it quickly. Simplicity and speed are important keys to good fish cookery. And even if you don't live close to the ocean or have access to a market like Fisherman's Wharf, with frozen fresh fish you can capture the taste of San Francisco-style fish 'n chips. Use quick frozen Cod, Haddock, Ocean Perch or Sole-Flounder from the icy waters of the North Atlantic and bake it the new no-thaw way. Serve with your favorite brand of crispy potato chips to recreate that San Francisco fish 'n chips flavor right in your own home. Add a bracing cup of hot tea and you've got a simple yet satisfying meal that takes only about 30 minutes to prepare. With its fresh, clean taste, hot tea is the natural accompaniment to almost any fish or seafood dish. Just be sure to make it properly to bring out its fine flavor and invigorating qualities.

CRISPY FISH 'N CHIPS

(Yield: 3 to 4 servings)

1 package (one pound) frozen Cod or Haddock fillets
 1/2 cup evaporated milk
 1 teaspoon lime juice
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup crushed potato chips
 1 tablespoon butter
 Potato chips
 Allow frozen fish to stand at room temperature 15 minutes. Cut fish into three or four equal portions. Combine milk, lime juice and salt. Dip fish in milk mixture; roll in chips to coat. Place on greased shallow pan; dot with butter. Bake in preheated 450 degree oven until fish flakes, about 25 minutes. Serve with chips.

SIZZLIN' FISH 'N CHIPS

(Yield: 4 servings)
 1 package (one pound) frozen Sole-Flounder fillets
 1/4 cup sour cream
 1 cup crushed potato chips
 1 tablespoon each butter or margarine and vegetable oil
 Lemon Butter Sauce
 Parsley
 Allow fish to stand at room temperature 30 minutes. To slice into eight thin diagonal portions, cut from end to end holding large knife with flat of blade almost parallel to fish. Spread fish fillets on both sides with sour cream; coat heavily with chips. In large skillet, heat butter and oil to sizzling. Add fish fillets. Lower heat. Saute about 10 minutes, turning once, until fish flakes easily. Transfer to heated serving platter; drizzle with hot Lemon Butter Sauce; garnish with parsley.

Lemon Butter Sauce
 In small saucepan, melt two tablespoons butter or margarine; stir in one tablespoon lemon juice, dash liquid hot pepper sauce and one green onion, sliced. Heat through.

Brewing that perfect cup of tea

Use a teapot, preheating it by rinsing it out with hot water. This keeps the tea hot during the brewing.

Bring fresh cold tap water to a full rolling boil. Water that has been reheated gives tea a flat taste...and only boiling water can extract the full flavor and benefit from the leaves.

Use enough tea - one teabag or one teaspoonful of tea per cup (about five ounces) of water. Pour the boiling water over the tea. Brew by the clock - 3 to 5 minutes. Don't judge the strength of tea by its color. It takes time for the leaves to unfold and release their flavor. If you like tea less strong, add hot water after the brewing period.

JAPANTOWN TEMPURA

1 package (one pound) frozen Haddock, Cod or Ocean Perch
 1 quart raw vegetables (sliced zucchini, mushrooms, snow peas, parsley sprigs)
 Tempura Batter (recipe below)
 2 cups crushed potato chips

Oil for deep frying
 Ginger Dipping Sauce (recipe below)

TEMPURA BATTER
 1 cup flour
 1/4 cup cornstarch
 1-1/4 cups water
 1 beaten egg white

GINGER DIPPING SAUCE

1 cup chicken bouillon
 3 tablespoons soy sauce
 3 tablespoons dry sherry
 1 teaspoon sugar
 2 teaspoons grated fresh ginger or one-fourth teaspoon ground ginger

For Japantown Tempura: Allow frozen fish to stand at room temperature 15 minutes. Cut fish into 2-inch squares. Dip fish and vegetable pieces in Tempura Batter. Drain, then coat lightly with chips. In deep saucepan, heat three inches oil to 350 degrees; deep fry fish and vegetables a few pieces at a time about three minutes until golden and crisp. Drain on paper towel. Serve hot with individual bowls of Ginger Dipping Sauce.

For Tempura Batter:

In bowl combine flour, cornstarch and water. Fold in one stiffly beaten egg white.

For Ginger Dipping Sauce: In bowl combine chicken bouillon, soy sauce, dry sherry, sugar and ginger.

CARDAMOM TEA

(Yield: 10 servings)
 2 quarts water
 12 teabags or one-fourth cup loose tea (see note below)
 1/2 teaspoon cardamom seeds (remove from white outer shells before measuring)
 1/2 teaspoon whole cloves
 1/2 cup sugar
 2 tablespoons lemon juice

Bring water to a full rolling boil. Pour over teabags or loose tea and spices. Cover, let stand for five minutes. Strain into chafing dish, teapot or serving container. Stir in sugar and lemon juice. Garnish with clove-studded lemon slices.

Note: Instead of loose tea use one-fourth cup instant tea. To prepare, steep spices in boiling water for five minutes, then add instant tea, sugar and lemon juice.

Don't be tricked by sugary treats

Halloween is almost here! And that means parties, jack-o-lanterns, and trick-or-treaters. But don't be fooled by high-calorie, sugary foods this Halloween. Here are some suggestions from the Consortium for what to offer those would-be tricksters: - P

- Peanuts or sunflower seeds, in the shell or in bags
- Individual bags of snack chips
- Individual packages of cheese and crackers
- Individual packages of peanut butter and crackers
- Cheese kisses
- Sugarless gums or mints

- Non-edible items, such as pencils, erasers, or balloon.
For those Halloween parties, the Consortium offers these recipe ideas that provide nutrition as well as taste good:

SUNNY SIPPER
Yield: 6 servings)

½ cup orange juice
¼ cup evaporated, whole, or lowfat milk
1½ cups or one 12-ounce can apricot nectar
Juice from one lemon, lemon peel
Combine all ingredients in blender; whirl to blend. Chill. Sprinkle lemon peel on top before serving.

PUMPKIN NOG
(Yield: 10 servings)
1 cup pumpkin puree
2 cups orange juice
Cinnamon and nutmeg to taste
Combine all ingredients in blender; whirl to blend. Chill.
CHEESE POPCORN
Sprinkle hot popcorn with grated parmesan or American cheese. Toss to coat well.

CHEESE PUFFS
(Yield: 20)
1 cup grated cheddar or Swiss cheese
½ cup flour
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Water
Mix lightly cheese, flour, butter, and enough water to form a stiff dough. Roll into three-fourths balls. Place on greased cookie sheet and bake in preheated 400-degree oven until lightly browned, about 10 to 15 minutes.

Harvesting garden herbs

Use fresh herbs from the garden - but also, save some to use this winter, says Jan Grant, King County Extension agent. Leaf herbs can be used as soon as the plant produces enough leaves. But the harvesting is a little different if herbs are to be stored over the winter.

Harvest the foliage when the plant is growing vigorously - just before flowering begins. This way, annuals won't go to seed - they'll keep on producing leaves. And, perennial herbs need time to grow back before cold weather. Cut off the branches so a few leaves remain at the base.

Get rid of any chemical residues by washing the herbs in cold water before drying. To dry, simply tie them loosely in a small bunch and hang them up. Or, spread them loosely on a frame of hardware cloth, screening or cheesecloth. Herbs dry most easily in a cool, clean, dry, dust-free room. Don't try to hurry the process by putting them out in the sun or under artificial heat. When the leaves are dry enough to crumble, put them in labeled jars - covered jars will keep out the dust - and preserve the aroma and flavor. If moisture condenses on the inside of the jar

- dry the herbs a little more. Mrs. Grant says that this drying process works quite well with most leafy herbs. But there are other kinds. Anise, dill, fennel, coriander and caraway are harvested for the seeds - so allow these herbs to ripen. But, harvest before the seeds start to drop. Let them dry. Get rid of the dirt and refuse, and then spread the clean seeds on a square of cheesecloth. Hang this cloth in a cool, dry place until the seeds are thoroughly cured. Again, put the seeds in labeled jars and keep in a cool, dry place away from the sunlight. Most herbs are easily dried - and easily stored. They'll keep their aroma and flavor for at least one year - providing you keep them cool, dry place away from the sunlight. The flavor of home-grown herbs is even better than the flavor of store brought.

Apple and pumpkin cakes celebrate harvest time

With so many of us trying our hands at gardening this past summer, we can feel a kinship with earlier Americans who looked forward to autumn as the time to store the harvest.

With the abundance of fall foods available now, the problem is trying to use it all while it is at peak quality.

Sour Cream Apple Streusel Swirl is a new way to enjoy the variety of cooking apples on the market now. An attractive change from the usual dark, spicy apple cake, it's made by blending chopped apples into cinnamon streusel cake mix, using water and sour cream as the liquid.

Sour cream helps keep the apple pieces distributed all through the cake, as well as adding rich flavor. A streusel mixture layered through the cake as well as sprinkled on top makes this look like a complicated dessert. But with the streusel cake mix and a one-bowl cake method, it is quick and easy.

Since this lightly-spiced cake is not too sweet, it is equally appropriate for a brunch dessert or morning coffee as for a family dessert or snack.

You probably turn pumpkins into jack-o-lanterns and use canned pumpkin for cooking. However, freshly-cooked and mashed pumpkin can also be used for Pumpkin Harvest Cake.

This pound cake adaptation uses the 24 three-fourth ounce package of pound cake mix, so you can bake Pumpkin Harvest Cake as a big, beautiful ring cake dessert.

For dinner the first night, top cake wedges with a warm Honey Cream Sauce, which uses the rest of the can of pumpkin. Since this rich, moist cake is good without frosting, slices of leftover cake will be welcome in lunchboxes or for snacks.

SOUR CREAM APPLE STREUSEL SWIRL

(Yield: 16 servings)
1 package cinnamon streusel cake mix
2 cups (2 medium) chopped peeled apples
½ cup water
½ cup dairy sour cream
One-third cup oil
3 eggs

Generously grease and lightly flour 10-inch tube (angel food) pan. In large bowl, blend large clear packet of cake mix, apples, water, dairy sour cream, oil and eggs until moistened. Beat two minutes at medium speed (portable mixer use highest speed).

Four three-fourths of batter (about 4 cups) evenly into prepared pan. Sprinkle with two-thirds of small clear packet (streusel mix). Spread with remaining batter and top with remainder of streusel mix. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven for 45 to 55 minutes or until toothpick inserted one inch in several places comes out clean. Cool upright until lukewarm (about 45 minutes). Remove cake from pan. Cake should be cool before glazing.

In small bowl, blend glaze packet and two teaspoons water until smooth. (If needed, add water by drops to make desired consistency.) Drizzle over cooled cake. Store loosely covered. P U M P K I N HARVEST CAKE (Yield: 16 servings) Cake

1 package pound ring cake mix
1 can (16 ounces) or two cups solid pack pumpkin, reserve half for sauce

1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon ginger
¼ cup water
¼ cup margarine or butter, softened
3 eggs

Honey Cream Sauce
Remaining solid pack pumpkin
¾ cup whipping cream or half and half

¼ cup honey
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
Grease and flour 12-cup ring pan. In large bowl, blend two clear packets of cake mix, one cup pumpkin, and remaining cake ingredients until moistened. Beat two minutes at medium speed (portable mixer use highest speed). Pour evenly into prepared pan. Bake in preheated 325-degree oven for 45 to 55 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool upright in pan on cooling rack about 45 minutes; invert onto serving plate. Sprinkle or sift topping packet over top of cake. In small saucepan, combine remaining pumpkin (about one cup) and remaining sauce ingredients; blend until smooth. Cook over medium heat until warm. To serve, top individual slices of cake with warm sauce. Store cake loosely covered. Tip: Two cups of cooked pumpkin may be substituted for two cups canned pumpkin.

Leftovers become party fare

Leftovers can become party fare when dressed properly. Entertaining Turkey Soup is a meal by itself, brimming with garden vegetables, potatoes and pasta. To save calories and give the festivities extra bubble, try Holiday Punch, a delightful blending of fruit juices and sparkling natural mineral water.

In vegetables and macaroni. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. Just before serving, add mineral water. If desired, add one and one-half cups diced turkey meat and one-fourth cup chopped parsley.

Serve with grilled garlic bread and tossed salad.

HOLIDAY PUNCH
(Yield: 12 to 14 servings)

ENTERTAINING TURKEY SOUP
(Yield: 8 to 10 servings)
6 cups chicken broth
1 cup onion, thinly sliced
1 ½ cups julienne carrots
1 ½ cups julienne celery
1 cup yellow turnip, cubed
1 cup cut green beans
1 cup peas
1 ½ cups cabbage, shredded
1 cup potatoes, diced
1 cup small macaroni shells
1 bottle sparkling natural mineral water
In large kettle, bring broth to boil. Stir

1 quart apricot nectar
2 cups orange juice
1 ½ cups grapefruit juice
½ cup lemon juice
½ cup lime juice
One-third cup superfine sugar
1 bottle sparkling natural mineral water
Ice mold
In punch bowl, just before serving, combine juices, sugar and mineral water. Serve in pitcher or punch bowl with ice mold.

Ice Mold: Pour one cup mineral water into four cup ring mold. Add lemon slices and cherries. Freeze. Add one cup mineral water. Refreeze.

If you are serving a variety of hors d'oeuvre, it is traditional to include something fresh, something meaty, something salty and something moist and smooth. The party food selection should also include hot and cold choices.

Quick autumn meal

Discover the versatility of your microwave in preparing hearty meals for fall menus. Tamale Pie, with just a touch of chile powder, is hard to beat on a brisk October evening.

Apples and cinnamon are a winning combination, especially when combined with raisins, in Apple Raisin Bread Pudding. Served warm with cream, or chilled, it's a nutritious snack that's appropriate with lunch, dinner, anytime!

TAMALE PIE (Yield: 6 servings)

- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 1 clove garlic, peeled and crushed
- 1 small onion, finely chopped
- 1 pound ground beef
- ¼ pound pork sausage
- 1 (16-ounce) can stewed tomatoes, undrained
- 1 (17-ounce) can whole kernel corn, drained
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1-½ teaspoons chili powder
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1 cup corn meal
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

In large glass bowl, combine vegetable oil, garlic and onion. Cook, uncovered, two minutes on Full Power. Add ground beef and sausage. Cook, uncovered, five to six minutes on Full Power, stirring twice. Drain. Add tomatoes, corn, salt and chili powder. Cook, uncovered, four minutes on Full Power, stirring halfway through cooking time.

In medium bowl, combine eggs, corn meal and milk. Set aside. Pour meat mixture into an 8-inch square glass casserole. Spoon corn meal mixture over meat. Cook, uncovered, nine minutes on Full Power. (If your microwave does not have a carousel, rotate one-third turn every three minutes.) Sprinkle cheese over top and cook an additional three minutes on Full Power. Let stand five minutes.

APPLE RAISIN BREAD PUDDING (Yield: 8 to 10 servings)

- 4 cups soft bread cubes (about 8 slices)
- ½ cup raisins
- 1 cup diced apples (about one medium apple)
- 5 eggs
- ½ cup brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg
- 3 cups half-and-half

Spread bread cubes in buttered 8½-by-11½-by-2-inch glass casserole. Top with raisins and diced apple. Set aside. In large glass bowl, beat eggs slightly. Beat in sugar, vanilla, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. In medium glass bowl, beat half-and-half five minutes on Full Power, stirring occasionally. Slowly stir small amount of hot half-and-half into egg mixture. Gradually stir in all of hot half-and-half. Pour over bread cubes. Cook, uncovered, 25 minutes on Simmer-Defrost, stirring twice during cooking time. Serve warm or chilled.

Note: A Simmer-Defrost setting is equivalent to 50 percent power. Cooking times given are based on the use of a 650 watt oven. For use in ovens of different wattages, consult your cookbook.

Appealing quick breads for hurried eaters

Even breakfast skippers admit that from a health standpoint, eating a morning meal is a good idea. Nutritionists agree wholeheartedly. According to one university study, only one child in five who goes to school without breakfast gets an adequate diet from the rest of the day's food.

Findings from a nutrition computer exhibit that has been used nationwide by thousands of people who punch in a day's diet for analysis confirm that it takes special planning even for adults to get their recommended daily allowance of key nutrients without eating breakfast.

But that doesn't mean everyone has to sit down to a traditional bacon and eggs meal. Since lack of time is one of the main excuses for not eating breakfast, it's good to know that even a mini-meal on the run can be nutritious, as long as the right foods are available.

Quick breads that contain fruit, nuts, whole grains and enriched flour and other good-for-you ingredients can be a breakfast staple. They are always popular and easy to have on hand. These moist loaves will keep well for several days in the refrigerator, or they can be made ahead and frozen.

For an on-the-go breakfast, cut hearty slices of quick bread. Set out a pitcher of milk and citrus fruit or juice. Cheese is delicious with quick bread, too, and easy to eat out of hand.

Even if your teenagers claim they can't eat a thing so early in the morning, they can carry a couple of pieces of the bread and some fruit to school and eat at their break with milk from the cafeteria or vending machine.

For a family members who want to relax with a real sit-down breakfast, all of these quick breads are special treats with cereal or an egg.

OATMEAL NUT

QUICK BREAD

(Yield: 12 slices)

- ½ cup quick cooking oatmeal
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 package nut quick bread mix
- ½ cup raisins
- ¼ cup brown sugar
- 1 egg
- Melted butter
- 1 tablespoon quick cooking oatmeal

Generously grease and lightly flour bottom only of 8-by-4 or 9-by-5 inch loaf pan.

In large bowl, combine oatmeal and water until oatmeal is completely moistened, about one minute. Add quick bread mix, raisins, brown sugar and egg. Stir 50 to 75 strokes or until dry particles are moistened. Pour into prepared pan.

Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 40 minutes. Leaving quick bread in oven, brush top of loaf with melted butter and sprinkle with one tablespoon oatmeal. Continue baking five to 10 minutes longer or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 15 minutes; remove from pan. Cool completely before slicing. Store remaining loaf tightly wrapped in refrigerator.

GOLD RUSH QUICK BREAD

(Yield: 12 slices)

- 1 package nut quick bread mix
- 1 cup coarsely grated carrots
- ½ teaspoon grated lemon peel
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ cup orange juice
- 1 egg

Generously grease and lightly flour bottom only of 8-by-4 or 9-by-5-inch loaf pan.

In large bowl, combine quick bread mix, carrots, lemon peel, cinnamon, orange juice and egg. Stir 50 to 75 strokes or until dry particles are moistened. Pour into prepared pan.

Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 45 to 55 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 15 minutes; remove from pan. Cool completely before slicing.

Store remaining loaf tightly wrapped in refrigerator.

CHEESE NUT QUICK BREAD

(Yield: 12 slices)

- 1 package nut quick bread mix
- 4 ounces (one cup) shredded cheddar cheese
- ¾ cup water
- 1 egg

Generously grease and lightly flour bottom only of 8-by-4 or 9-by-5-inch loaf pan.

In large bowl, combine quick bread mix, cheese, water and egg. Stir 50 to 75 strokes or until dry particles are moistened. Pour into prepared pan.

Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 45 to 55 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 15 minutes; remove from pan. Cool completely before slicing. Store remaining loaf tightly wrapped in refrigerator.

DAIRYLAND BLUEBERRY MUFFINS

(Yield: 12 to 15 muffins)

- 3-ounce package cream cheese
- 1 package blueberry nut quick bread mix
- ½ cup milk
- ½ cup dairy sour cream
- 1 egg
- 1 tablespoon grated lemon peel

Grease bottom of 12 to 15 muffin cups or line with paper liners. Cut cream cheese into 12 to 15 cubes; set aside. Combine quick bread mix, milk, sour cream, egg and lemon peel; stir 50 to 75 strokes until dry particles are moistened. Fold in contents of packet. Fill muffin cups three-fourths full; press cube of cream cheese into batter and spread batter to cover cream cheese.

Bake in preheated 400-degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Cool five minutes; loosen edges and remove from pan. Refrigerate leftovers.

CRANBERRY APPLE MUFFINS

(Yield: 18 muffins)

- 1 package cranberry quick bread mix
- 1 cup shredded apple
- ½ cup water
- 1 egg
- One-third cup margarine or butter, melted
- One-third cup sugar
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon

Generously grease bottom of 18 muffin cups or line with paper liners. In large bowl, combine quick bread mix, apple, water and egg; stir 50 to 75 strokes until dry particles are moistened. Fill muffin cups two-thirds full.

Bake in preheated 350-degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Combine sugar and cinnamon. Dip muffin tops in margarine, then in sugar-cinnamon mixture.

Chocolate favorite 'takes the cake'

When you're asked to bring a dessert, this Take-A-Cake is bound to "take the cake" in the raves and compliments department.

The secret of its chocolaty moistness is canned pudding - either chocolate or chocolate fudge flavors. Probably you've added dry pudding mix to cakes you've baked in the past. Besides the pudding, such recipes generally called for a large number of eggs, oil, and other extra ingredients. Using canned pudding simplifies cake making with results that our tasters thought were as good as or better than cakes with dry pudding.

- TAKE-A-CAKE CHOCOLATE CAKE
- 1 package chocolate or devil's food cake mix (two layer size)
 - 1 can (17-½ ounces) chocolate or chocolate fudge pudding
 - 2 eggs
 - ¼ cup water

In large mixer bowl, combine all ingredients and beat three to four minutes or until batter is smooth and fluffy. Bake in a greased and floured 9-by-13-by-2-inch pan in a preheated 350-degree oven for 40 to 50 minutes or until cake pulls away from edges of pan. (May also be baked in two 9-inch round pans for 25 to 30 minutes.) Cool, then frost with a favorite "white" or chocolate icing.

Versatile apples packed with nutrition

Although available the year around, apples, Washington's second biggest cash crop, are especially abundant in the fall. They are a nutritious addition to the diet and can be used in a variety of delicious ways, according to Jan Grant, King County extension agent.

Apples contain small amounts of some nutrients, Grant says, including iron and ascorbic acid. At the same time, however, apples contain relatively few calories. A medium sized apple, for example, boasts a meager 80 calories, Ms. Grant says, making apples an ideal snack for waistline watchers. But the nutritional value of apples doesn't stop there.

They supply valuable bulk. In addition, they are also a good source of pectin, a fruit acid which helps maintain the balance of body cholesterol levels. Apples also are frequently described as a detergent food. Why? Consumption of a fresh apple helps cleanse the teeth and exercise the gums. While a delightful snack eaten raw, consider the multitude of other ways they can be incorporated into your diet. Apple pies, baked apples, applesauce, and apple juice are a few of the most popular ways of using apples. Other favorite ways include apple rings, apple cake, and apple dumplings. Have you tried apple crisp recently? How about apple jelly, apple cookies and apple pudding? When purchasing apples, keep these guidelines in mind. About two pounds of apples are required for one 9-inch pie. Three medium apples equal a pound. Diced, one pound of apples fills three cups. To enjoy this nutritious fruit longer, keep apples chilled in your refrigerator.

Entertaining Oriental style

Take chopsticks in hand and entertain your guests with exotic delights from the Orient at your next buffet supper. Sherry, combined with the taste-tingling flavors of pineapple and soy sauce, insures Sherried Chicken with Pineapple will be a sure palate-pleaser. A delicate dressing laced with sherry and tossed over turkey, cucumber, bean sprouts and celery make Turkey Salad Oriental a most honorable dish.

SHERRIED CHICKEN WITH PINEAPPLE
(Yield: 4 servings)
3 medium chicken

breasts, split and boned and cut into strips
1/4 cup soy sauce
2 tablespoons peanut oil or salad oil
1/2 cup celery, diagonally sliced
1/2 cup green onion, cut in one-inch pieces
1 cup pineapple juice
1/2 cup dry sherry
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons sugar

1 package (7 ounces) frozen pea pods, thawed
1 cup pineapple chunks
1/2 cup whole almonds, toasted and blanched
Chinese noodles
In bowl, toss chicken with soy sauce and marinate at least 30 minutes. Heat oil in large skillet or wok. Add chicken and brown on all sides. Remove and keep warm. Add celery and green onion. Saute until just tender. Add to chicken. Combine pineapple juice, sherry, cornstarch and sugar in skillet. Cook, stirring until thickened and smooth. Add chicken and vegetables. Cook several minutes. Add pineapple and almonds. Heat through. Serve over noodles.

Armenian Thin Bread

Savvy home bakers are baking and eating more bread than ever. They are discovering the variety of grains, vegetables, nuts, dried fruits and other ingredients that make every batch of homemade bread distinctly different. Bread is, without a doubt, one of the most economical and palatable ways to add important nutrients to the diet. This recipe is just one of the numerous yeast breads that adds a sensible and economical approach for the modern snacker.

ARMENIAN THIN BREAD
(Yield: 4 thin breads)

1 cup warm water (105 degrees F. to 115 degrees F.)
1 package active dry yeast
1/4 cup (one-half stick) margarine, melted and cooled
1-1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
3-3/4 to 3-3/8 cups unsifted flour

Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add cooled margarine, salt, sugar, and two cups flour. Beat until smooth. Add enough additional flour to make a stiff dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about eight to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about one hour. Punch dough down; divide into four equal pieces. Roll and stretch each piece into a rectangle, 10-by-14-inches. Place on ungreased baking sheets. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven about 20 minutes, or until golden brown. Remove from baking sheet and cool on wire racks. If desired, bread may be softened by holding under running water. Serve with cheese or other appetizers.

If you like peanuts, you'll enjoy this dessert

The recipe for Crunchy Peanut Biscuit Ring comes from Georgia, the state famous for its peanuts. Serve this treat with pride knowing your family and guest will like it a lot. It's easy to make, as well.

peanuts
 3/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
 1/4 cup maple flavored syrup
 2 cans (10-ounces) refrigerated flaky biscuits with sweet, juicy apples. The dessert may be eaten with the fingers or a fork at any time of the day.

CRUNCHY PEANUT BISCUIT RING
 (Yield: 8 to 10 servings)

1/2 cup margarine or butter
 1/2 to 1 cup chopped edge, slightly overlapping around pan. Pour remaining sugar mixture over biscuits.

 Bake in preheated 350-degree oven for 20 to 30 minutes or until deep golden brown. Cool three minutes; turn onto serving plate. Serve warm or cool.

APPLE QUICKS
 (Yield: 16 pastries)

2 cups (2 medium) peeled, finely chopped apples
 One-third cup sugar
 2 tablespoons all purpose flour
 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

One-sixteenth teaspoon nutmeg, if desired
 2 cans (8 ounces) refrigerated crescent dinner rolls
 Glaze

1/2 cup powdered sugar
 2 to 3 teaspoons water
 Combine first five ingredients; stir until apples are well coated. Separate crescent dough into 16 triangles. Spoon about one rounded tablespoon apple mixture onto center of each triangle. Fold three points of dough over filling, overlapping like an envelope. Place one inch apart on ungreased cookie sheets.

 Bake in preheated 350-degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until deep golden brown. Remove from pan to cool. Blend Glaze ingredients until smooth; drizzle over warm rolls.

Many consumers may be wasting their money on vitamin pills and food supplement products they do not need. Most people do not need supplement vitamins at all so long as their diets include enough of the four basic food groups. These groups are milk, meat, vegetables and fruits and grain. Choosing foods from these groups ensures the individual of getting the necessary nutrients each day.

The Washington State Dairy Council has available a useful information sheet on "vitamins called 'Vitamin Facts,'" which give information about vitamins in general, food sources of vitamins, and their functions. For a copy, write the Washington State Dairy Council, 3830 Stone Way N., Seattle, Wash. 98103.
