Auburn annexation move hits county legal snag

by Loren Bliss

Auburn attempts to annex part of Federal Way — the land in question also lies within the boundaries proposed by local incorporation advocates — has hit a momentary legal snag.

The difficulty, said Brice Martin, the executive secretary of the King County Boundary Review Board, is that the board doesn't know which of the two proposals to handle first.

He said Monday that the matter has been turned over to the boundary board's lawyer to resolve. An answer is anticipated at the group's next meeting, on Nov. 8.

"It's a procedural issue," Martin said. "Federal Way gave its notice of intention (to incorporate) and then this (the Auburn proposal) came in."

But legal technicalities make it unclear whether the Auburn request or the petition assembled by the Federal Way City Committee was actually filed first, he said.

"WE MIGHT be able to consider the two cases simultaneously, and it would make a certain amount of sense to do that," Martin said. "But the proposed annexation is relatively small, and it's not particularly desirable to hold up a similar proposal."

Auburn decided some time ago to go ahead with the attempted annexation, though it has been fiercely opposed by many residents of the area.

The method by which Auburn annexes, however, allows those who own the most property to have the final say, whether they represent an actual majority or not.

Lynn Rued, senior planner in the Auburn city planning office, said that the owners of 80.45 percent of the property favor the proposal.

Opponents of the annexation fear that Auburn will disregard the current and revised versions of the Federal Way Community Plan and allow high-density housing to be built in the area. The plan and its revision both call for low density housing.

IN THIS instance, high density would mean that developers could build as many as four houses per acre on the land. Low density limits the number of dwellings to one or two per acre.

Rued said that the property belonging to the opponents had been dropped from the area covered by the annexation proposal. He said it is bordered on the west by the 60th Avenue South right-of-way and on the north by South 296th Street.

The area is commonly called Meredith Hill.

During a meeting in Auburn on the question last spring, residents said they also feared that the city, if the annexation were successful, could force them to tie into sewerage lines, thereby greatly increasing their expenses.

At the end of the meeting, it was clear that opponents outnumbered advocates by 2 to 1.

Construction picketed

TRUDY HERIOT, left, and Becky Kozak were two of about 15 pickets who walked the street in front of Tall Firs Saturday morning in protest of poorly constructed facilities. The picketers were from phase two of the project, many of them living at the condominium complex for less than two months. They were protesting lack of sound insulation, poorly sized laundry rooms and other deficiencies they contend were misrepresented when the phase two condos on the northeast corner of Southwest 320th Street and 21st Avenue Southwest were sold. The owners say they have approached the developer, but were not satisfied with the reaction they received. Now they plan to take the issue to court.

Park 'n Ride opens Nov. 15

Nov. 5 will be the first day for operation of the new Federal Way park and ride lot south of South 320th Street just west of I-5.

The largest facility of its kind in the Seattle area, the new lot features 798 parking spaces for public transit patrons, including 17 reserved stalls for the handicapped, the Washington State Department of Transportation reports.

The lot, built at a cost of more than $1 million, will have an official opening ceremony at 10 a.m., but will already have begun its function during the commuter rush period earlier the same morning.

According to Les Kammenga, project engineer for the state, the park and ride facility will not be fully completed at the time of the opening. However, construction to finish all elements of the lot, including landscaping, will not interfere with its use by the public and by Metro buses.

The asphalt-surfaced lot has sidewalks and curbs, signs indicating entrance and exit routes, passenger boarding areas and illumination.

The 5.62-acre parcel was donated by H.E. McMillin, a Federal Way area businessman. Prime construction contractor for the new lot was Scocco Construction, Inc., of Burien.

Council stalls merit pay plan

by Darlene Himmelspach

About 1,000 King County employees will have to wait two more weeks to learn if they will get a merit pay increase from the county this year.

The county council, split over the worth of the merit system, voted to consider the question Nov. 12 but not to include it as part of budget discussions where the issue might be used as "trading stock," according to Councilman Bob Greive.

The pay plan is opposed by Mike Waske, labor representative for the professional and technical employees union which includes many county employees. Waske told the council Monday his union doesn't "oppose merit if only we could find out what the definition of merit is."

He said when the city was considering a merit pay plan, "we offered a $200 reward for a definition and we didn't have to pay off." Waske said he does not believe merit pay is justified. "If a county employee is not performing satisfactorily, he should be terminated. If they are satisfactory, they should be passed on to the next step. There is no concrete delineation of how merit is going to be determined," he said and warned of possible abuse of the plan.

"It will run into a system of favoritism," Waske said.

That is not the case, according to the King County Administrative Officer, Don Phelps. "It is highly improbable that using the evaluation as it is would perpetuate misuse. I have never seen a performance evaluation or report card more structured than this."

Under the proposed system, employee superiors evaluate the work of about 1,400 eligible employees to determine which ones will share in a pot of about $300,000 this year.

That money has already been committed to employees, according to County Personnel Director Al Ross. The ordinance before the county council is "merely to free up funds so we can play out our commitment in 1979."

Ross said problems would result if the council balks at the merit payment this year. "Many employees are relying on this and some collective bargaining agreements have the merit system as part of the agreement. We can't change that." Ross also predicted a "moral problem" if the merit system is killed by the council. "It would be very difficult to explain to those demoralized employees."

Under the proposed update of an existing merit pay system, one-half of the merit award would be continued as a permanent part of the employee's salary. Most of the eligible employees are clerical, in the assessor's office or other jobs.

One opponent of the system is Councilman Gary Grant. He said "the majority of employees, even those eligible for it, think it is a lousy system. I asked them (the executive department) a year ago to change it and this ordinance is the result. There is nothing revised in this."

Grant, a labor negotiator before joining the county council, said "those getting the awards think it is based on how well they get along with their supervisor." He said he is "dissatisfied with the county executive" for submitting the "same old warmed-over program" to the council for adoption and called for substantial changes in the system.

Of about 4,000 county employees, only 1,400 are eligible to receive merit pay this year and about 75 percent of those will actually get the money, Ross said. County Council staff are among those excluded from the program and Grant suggested Monday that they be included while employees with a labor contract with the county be bumped from the program.

That suggestion is not expected to go far and met with opposition from, among others, Councilman Paul Barden who snapped "what kind of a merit plan is that?"

King County Executive John Spellman chastized the council for the delay and said "it is sad to see out employees being held ho stage in this philosophical debate' You either believe in rewarding people based on meritorious performance or you don't. Clearly these are delaying tactics." Spellman said of the council Postponement.

Mattress too close to chimney ignites house

An estimated $35,000 damage was caused to the Federal Way home occupied by the George Zachow family early Saturday morning when a mattress placed too close to a chimney ignited.

According to the Federal Way Fire Department, George Zachow discovered the fire at his home at 3229 S. 296th Pl. just before 3 a.m. Apparently the seven-member family used the fireplace to heat the home and when Zachow opened the garage door to stoke the fire, the garage was ablaze. When the Federal Way Fire Department arrived, aided by Fire District 30, the garage was fully engulfed in flame. The living room, dining room and kitchen also were on fire.

A 15-year-old son of Zachow was injured while climbing out of the house through a broken window, the fire department reports. The injuries were not serious.

Four engines and Medic One responded to the blaze, bringing it under control in 15 minutes, fire department officials said.

Back to jellybeans

Halloween may be fun and games for children, but it can be a frustrating experience for adults. My wife and I know.

Consider this. One year we bought six dozen Hershey bars to pass out on Halloween night — we remembered how we loved to get something good like that when we were out there knocking on doors — and no one showed up.

The next year we expected the same — no one — but we bought a small bag of jellybeans just in case. Just like someone was plotting against us, every kid in the neighborhood was at our door Halloween night wanting a Hershey bar.

And oh, those sweet little angels can give the most devilish looks when they see one black jellybean being dropped into their sacks.

Last year we decided to try something new — give the kiddies tricks instead of treats. I figured my juggling act would knock 'em dead.

For variety, I learned a few simple card tricks and practiced my favorite Halloween joke on friends.

We were ready for the big night. I even fixed the front porch light and put a few pumpkins on the porch step to attract the trick-or-treaters.

Finally, our first Halloween guests were at the door. "Trick or treat," Batman and Cinderella sang out in unison.

"OK. How about a trick?" I asked.

"We don't know any tricks," Batman answered.

"No, I mean how about if I give you a trick?"

The two youngsters were a bit skeptical, but agreed. So I brought out my three tennis balls and commenced my juggling act while my wife hummed circus music. I did fine — I only dropped the balls once.

My wife applauded, I bowed, and the pair just stood there.

The look on their faces seemed to ask, "Is that it?" "Well, that's your trick," I announced.

They left in a huff. The doorbell rang again and I invited a group of six trick-or-treaters into the living room. I sat them in a half circle on the floor and pulled out my deck of cards.

The first trick went off without a hitch, but the next one was more difficult. When it came time for me to guess which card Frankenstein held, I guessed wrong.

"Here, let me try it," Frankenstein said. The little monster took the cards and performed the same trick perfectly.

Meanwhile, the other kids were looking around for the usual bowl of goodies.

"Psst, Cathy," I whispered to my wife. "Go find some oranges or bananas in the kitchen. Anything!" Obviously, my tricks weren't doing the trick.

Neither did the oranges we handed out, but I couldn't blame them. I remembered how I felt when someone gave me fruit on Halloween. For kids, it must be like opening a present on Christmas morning and finding underwear instead of a toy.

My juggling and card tricks had both bombed, so I was down to my favorite Halloween joke.

"What's a hot dog without any meat?" I asked the next group of trick-or-treaters.

"A Halloweenie!" a cowboy fired back. "That's old."

"Mister, do you have any candy?" an impatient witch asked.

"No, but I can juggle. Wanna see?"

"That's OK. My brother juggles too."

I thought I heard the word "creep" mentioned as that group left our yard.

"That does it. You'd better go to the store and get some Hershey bars," I told my wife. She did, but for some reason we only got a few more knocks on the door.

Perhaps the word got out there was some weirdo in that house who didn't have any candy. So there we were once again, stuck with six dozen Hershey bars.

Tonight we're back to jellybeans. You see, kids can have amazing memories — especially at Halloween.

Position 2	Henry Simonson <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> King Lysen <input type="checkbox"/>

Here's some reasons why...

Initiative 61
The so-called "Bottle Bill Initiative" would require a minimum five cent refund on beverage containers—bottles and cans. The proposal is inflationary and a down right nuisance to the great majority of people who don't litter.

The bill will require supermarkets to handle thousands of cans and bottles every day. And, who is going to pay for the handling? The consumer, of course.

The bill would also prohibit detachable pull tabs on metal containers — an item already rapidly disappearing from grocery shelves.

Initiative 62
This measure would tie state tax revenue to growth of personal income. Spiraling taxes in states such as California have resulted in taxpayer revolt which have slashed taxes to the point where government can hardly function. Initiative 62 seems to us to be a rational, responsible approach to putting a lid on taxes.

SJR 110
This resolution would amend the state constitution to allow the legislature to hold annual sessions with specific time limitations.

We reluctantly endorse this proposal. While we tend to agree with the adage that no one is safe while the legislature is in session, we feel that the state has become too big and too complex for the present biennial session.

The state is a multi-billion dollar operation and shorter annual sessions seem more efficient than the marathon, five month sessions every two years.

If the annual sessions begin to drag out, month after month, we will not hesitate to support repeal of this amendment.

Proposition 1
This is the so-called Metro merger bill — not to be confused with Proposition 3, the farmlands bill. The King County Council, in a slight-of-hand move, switched the two issues.

It's nothing more than a political power grab by King County and would destroy a successful federation of county jurisdictions.

Proposition 2
This would levy a six-year property tax of $.21 per $1,000 assessed valuation to support the life-saving Medic 1 program. The program is a trend setter for the nation and deserves taxpayer support.

Proposition 3
This is the third, and probably final vote, on a measure to save less than three percent of the land in King County from office buildings, subdivisions and asphalt. It's a $50 million bond issue to purchase development rights to the farm lands on a voluntary basis. It'll mean a lot in a few years.

King County Assessor
We feel it's time for a change in this office. Hank McGuire has the qualifications and will be able to pull the office out of the shroud of controversy that has embroiled it for years.

Seattle Port Commission District 1

Jack Block gets our vote in this race mainly because he is a resident of this area (Normandy Park) and has represented local interests on the Port Commission during his term as a commissioner. We need at least one commissioner to represent concerns of airport area residents, and Jack Block has proven he can do that.

District 4
King Lysen is also a Highline area resident and could well represent the local residents, but we feel the job of state senator is enough for one person. Therefore we'll go with Henry Simonson.

Federal Way School District District 3

William Miller, the incumbent, deserves another term. He has a knack for sifting through the rhetoric to the meat of the issue, and his decisions are usually correct.

District 5
Two good incumbents puts the district in a no-lose position. The race came about because Larry Van Sickle moved into John Hickman's district. Hickman gets our nod because he has an edge in experience, has served during the rough years, and, besides, it's his district.

Highline School Board District 4

We'll go with experience over youth in this race. Glen Rose, the incumbent, has performed his duties well as school board member.

Des Moines City Council Position No. 2

Both candidates in this race are concerned with retaining the residential atmosphere in Des Moines, however Bill Whisler's experience and knowledge of the problems of land use and zoning give him the edge over Bruce Hall.

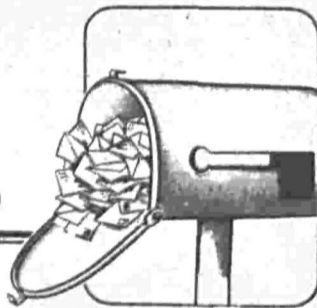

Position No. 3
While challenger Charles Overman has many good ideas for improvements in the community, he has an unrealistic view of what the City of Des Moines can accomplish. Many of the things he would like to see done come under State jurisdiction, such as social services. Frank Clement, who has served in city government in various capacities for several years, knows the problems the City faces. Clement is the better candidate.

Water District 54

Both candidates want to keep water rates down, but Frank Jovanovich appears to be more forward-thinking. Jovanovich has stated he would be open to a City takeover of WD 54 under certain circumstances. Martha Simmons would not comment on the issue.

Trick or Treat

Though it's been said that ghosts and goblins haunt the darkened paths during Halloween, kids know better. On that special day, thousands of children flock through the misty night knocking on doors and ringing doorbells. "Trick-or-treat" they holler in unison as they arrive at the door. Eagerly they await their chance to reach into a basket heaped with candy, gum, licorice sticks and apples. Dipping into the offered mass of sweets, they come up with their choice that is dropped carefully in their plastic pumpkin or paper bag. On they go until at last they reach the last home and the end of their trip. Back they trek, tired and foot-worn. At home at last, they dump their candy on the living room floor in a mass. Sorting, eating and sharing, they look through their loot knowing that if they eat too much, tomorrow will be a sorry day.

WHEN YOU'VE GOT a tempermental flashlight, it takes a little work to see where you're going. Kari Moreland seems to be having a problem.

Int. 62; are tax restrictions wanted?

by Nathalie Weber
 Shall state tax revenues be limited so that increases do not exceed the growth rate of total state personal income?

Those supporting Initiative 62 say it's time the public clamped down on state spending with some definite outlines.

Those opposing the initiative say limiting the budget to the growth rate of total state personal income is not the answer.

The yes votes
 Those supporting the initiative to limit the state taxing ability call it the public's "insurance" that its taxes won't grow faster than its pocketbook.

The initiative is designed to curb spending, supporters say, and, in fact, would have cut some $278 million from 1979-80 budget allocations.

Bob Eberle, R-30th District, one of the majority of the state representatives supporting Initiative 62, labels the restrictions that would result from the initiative as only "moderate."

"But it's a start," Eberle said. "Right now there is no tax increase control. Taxes are limited only by the threat of voters who threaten an office holder with his seat if he doesn't cut spending." Eberle said that if the $278 million had been cut from last year's appropriations, it would have constituted a decrease of only five percent of the budget. "A five percent cut is small potatoes, easily absorbed by any legislature," he said.

The reason the initiative has not been introduced before is because the pressure in Olympia is to spend, Eberle said. "Now we need the voters to say 'save' and we need it and we need because those often are the people who pay taxes and are not represented in Olympia," he said.

The no votes
 On the other side are those who contend that in "bare-bone" terms the proposed law appears effective, but that in-depth analysis indicates the initiative could increase, instead of limit, taxes.

Phil Talmage, D-34th District, has joined the minority of representatives opposing Initiative 62 because "it's not going to work to encourage the legislature to do something it's supposed to do anyway."

Talmage said there are two factors that could work against the effectiveness of the initiative:

The first is that projects earmarked for funds other than general funds are not subject to the limitation, and legislators have expansive power to earmark projects.

The second is that if the initiative is designed to keep spending down, it will create notable inflexibility in the legislature. "The problem is if we have an emergency situation, such as full state funding of schools was last year, it compes the legislature to be non-responsive because the money is not readily available,"

Talmage said.
 In direct conflict with pro-62, the No on 62 Committee claims that if the initiative were in effect in 1981 taxes would increase by $141 million. Supporters counter that this figure is a result of a $410 million surplus from the previous biennium.

Talmage said the only way to cut taxes is from direct public pressure. "We could devise a lot of artificial mechanisms to cut funding but they won't work. The only answer is to have the public on the back of the legislature."

Referendum would aid the disabled

Backers of a bill that would give disabled people in this state a $25 million shot in the arm are hoping history repeats itself.

Referendum 37, a $25 million bond issue for facilities to train, rehabilitate and care for handicapped persons in Washington, is on the Nov. 6 general election ballot.

In 1972, voters passed a similar referendum for the same amount. Considering that was in the middle of the Boeing slump, backers of the current measure are "fairly confident the voters will support it," said Dennis Healy, who is in charge of two facilities in South King County for disabled people.

"The problem we're looking at is voter apathy."

There appears to be little or no active opposition to the bill. It passed the state House 89-0 and the Senate 25-9. No legislator who voted against Referendum 37 or other individual opposing the measure consented to write an argument against the measure for the voters' pamphlet.

If approved, the money would be distributed throughout the state on the basis of each county's population.

The 1972 bill attracted more than $70 million in matching funds from other sources, according to Healy.

He said matching money was awarded piecemeal to individual projects funded out of the '72 referendum. But if this year's bill is approved, he said the goal is to attract a lump sum of $75 million in matching funds based on the entire $25 million referendum.

The act calls for the establishment of a system of regional and community facilities for the care, training and rehabilitation of persons with sensory, physical or mental handicaps.

The types of facilities covered by the act include non-profit group training homes, community centers, close-to-home living units, sheltered workshops, vocational rehabilitation shelters, developmentally disabled training centers and community homes for the mentally ill.

The bill would be funded through general obligation bonds that would result in the average person spending about 50 cents a year more on sales tax during the early years of the bonds and about 19 cents later on, said Healy.

He explained that if the bill passes, a plan outlining the expenditure of the money would be submitted to the Legislature for approval.

Healy administers the Crestview Center in Highline and the South King County Activities Center in Kent.

He pointed to the population growth in Federal Way as an example of the need for more services in other parts of King County not presently being served.

Referendum 37 requires a simple majority for passage.

Preserving farmland up to voters, again

by Darlene Himmelspach
 The issue could not be clearer.

As the proposed farmlands preservation issue heads for the third ballot in one year, the question remains, should King County taxpayers assess themselves to buy the development rights of up to 15,000 acres of prime agriculture land in the county?

In both previous trips to the polls, the question has gotten an overwhelming yes vote but failed to validate because of low voter turnout.

If the vote is successful Tuesday the county will spend $50 million in general obligation bonds to purchase the development rights to dairy, vegetable and other crop-producing lands. The development rights would be held in permanent public trust and would guarantee that agriculturally productive lands would continue to produce food for local markets and tables, proponents claim.

"It is imperative that we save these lands," James Ellis, chairman of the campaign to get the bond issue approved, said. The property would not only be a good resource for food but provide the county with some open space that will remain undeveloped with factories and housing developments, Ellis said.

Opponents of the bond issue have challenged the county's right to buy development rights, called it a "ripoff" and a "total farce" and claim the county could preserve the land as open space and prevent development through existing zoning laws.

Farmland supporters claim taking development rights without just compensation amounts to theft.

Voters will find the issue on the ballot as Proposition 3.

OFFICIAL NOTICE: The following proposed constitutional amendments are to be submitted to the voters at the state general election to be held on November 6, 1979. The ballot and explanatory statements were prepared by the office of the Attorney General. This is a legal publication as required by law from the office of the Attorney General.

Senate Joint Resolution 110
 PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
Official Ballot Title:
 Shall the legislature meet in regular annual sessions, and shall special legislative sessions be authorized each with specific time limitations?
Vote cast by the members of the 1979 Legislature on final passage: HOUSE (98 members): Yes, 98; No, 7; Absent or not voting, 2. SENATE (49 members): Yes, 40; No, 4; Absent or not voting, 5.
The law as it now exists:
 At the present time the Constitution provides that the legislature shall hold regular sessions, commencing in January of each odd-numbered year. In addition, special sessions may be convened by the governor for any purpose, or by a two-thirds affirmative vote of both houses of the legislature for the purpose of covering government's debts. Regular sessions may not last more than 60 days, but there is no time limit on the length of any special session called by the governor. Legislative committees may not conduct official business when the legislature is not in session.
The effect of SJR 110, if approved into law:
 The amendment would require that a regular session of the legislature be convened each year. The regular session during each odd-numbered year may not last longer than 120 consecutive days and, in even-numbered years, not more than any consecutive days. The amendment would also allow for special legislative sessions. The governor, by proclamation, would not be allowed to convene a special legislative session which would be limited to three consecutive days. The governor could qualify a petition for covering the special session, but this specification would not be binding on the legislature. Special sessions may also be convened by legislative resolution upon a two-thirds affirmative vote by each house. Any special session

Senate Joint Resolution 112
 PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
Official Ballot Title:
 Shall legislators be allowed to assume other civil offices without receiving any increases in compensation passed during their legislative terms?
Vote cast by the members of the 1979 Legislature on final passage: HOUSE (98 members): Yes, 98; No, 0; Absent or not voting, 0. SENATE (49 members): Yes, 45; No, 0; Absent or not voting, 4.
The law as it now exists:
 At the present time the constitution prohibits a legislator, during the term for which he or she is elected, from being elected or appointed to any civil office the compensation for which was increased during the term for which he or she was elected.
The effect of SJR 112, if approved into law:
 The amendment would remove the prohibition against appointment or election of a legislator to any civil office of the compensation for that office had been increased during his or her term of office as a legislator. The legislature shall be compensated for the total term of the civil office at the level which existed prior to the increase in compensation.

Senate Joint Resolution 120

Financial assistance would include the use of funds or credits, such as loans or guarantees of funds. 'Bottle Bill' hot, emotional issue

by Sandra Thew

It's a hot July afternoon along a litter-free Oregon beach, two vacationers — one from Washington the other from Portland, Ore. They're drinking soda pop. Two people walking up the beach are carrying bags filled with old can and bottles. They ask the Washington resident if she would give them her jar, "Sure have them." However, the Oregon resident grabs the can and says, "Don't give it to them give it instead to me; the cans are worth money."

This is just one of the reactions to the Oregon bottle bill which was passed on in 1971. On Nov. 6 Washington residents will have a second chance to vote on Initiative 61 or "The Bottle Bill". The bill simply requires beverage containers such as soda pop, beer, ale, mineral water and a variety of liquids with the exception of dairy products, fruit juices and wine to be placed in returnable bottle or can containers. Every container will have a refund value of five cents. These containers will be returned to the vender a grocery store or pop machine vender. The bill also allows the dealer to be reimbursed with one cent per returned container. Also pull-tabs would be prohibited on cans.

The main focus of the bill, says Philip Morley or Citizens for Returnable Beverage Containers, the bills proponent, is to help control solid waste management and promote recycling.

However, several big interest groups oppose the returnable container bill. One group backed by the beverage, container and grocery industries, the Committee for Litter Control and Recycling has blitzed the media with information and studies promoting their side of the issue. Another group opposed to the bill are the Washington State Recyclers Assoc..

Behind the bill lies many emotional issues: energy, recycling, litter control, jobs, consumer costs and effectiveness of the bill.

Each side can point to a variety of facts and figures to confirm their position.

On litter control, the bill's proponents cite Oregon's bottle bill legislation which has reduced the litter on the state's roadside. Referring to two studies made in Oregon, Morley, said that Oregon Highway Department's research found that in the first year, Oregon's litter was in a range from 66 percent to 83 percent in two years after the law went into effect. However, the data was not conclusive because of other waste which included, paper items.

On the other hand opponents to bill say that bottles and cans only represent a small fraction of the litter problem. They quote that only 20 to 30 percent of the litter problems is caused by containers and only 5 percent are glass.

The Committee for Litter Control and Recycling say that Washington's existing litter program works better than the returnable bottle method. The present law requires all food and beverage associated with litter to be assessed $150 per $1 million in gross sales. This money is used then for promoting an anti-litter campaign in the state, require litter bags in boats and cars, provide litter receptacles throughout the state, provide litter details and promote recycling. This program has helped reduce Washington's litter problem by 66 percent, according to Albert Barr, publications director of the Glass Packaging Institute in Washington.

If the initiative passed, both the model litter law and the returnable container would work together to combat litter, said Morley

Because the switch from the throw-away containers would mean changes for the beverage industry, they forecast rising costs of beverages to compensate for the time and energy spent on returning bottles to the distributors.

Quoting a Washington Public Interest Research Group study, Morley said the sales of beverages in Oregon did not fall after the deposit law passed. He also said that consumers would save because they were not paying for the cost of the container each time. The Environmental Protection Agency reports the returnables are 30 to 40 percent cheaper than throwaways.

In many local grocery stores, green and red stickers have been appearing on beverage cans showing consumers how much more their pop or beer will cost if the initiative passes. Some backed by the Committee for Litter Control and Recycling, these stickers say the price may go up 25 cents for higher costs in addition to 30 cents for the deposit.

Opponents to the bill say these higher costs would be incurred through handling and transportation costs.

For the local grocer, the bottle bill would mean, "a mess," says Gene Mayfield, manager of Holiday Foods in Federal Way. He said the store would have to build additional room to handle the returned bottles and hire extra employees to sort the containers according to the brands. He also cites the mess the bottles would contain, "Many come in and they still have some liquid in them, or if the bottles have been found along the roadside they may have bugs." He says that to provide adequate store and space for the bottles will cost the grocer and will in turn increase prices in the stores.

"I don't think that with rising prices people will want to pay more," he said.

Another group to attack the proposed bill are recyclers, according to Don Kneass president of the Washington State Recyclers Assoc., state recyclers would be hurt by bill, much of their income is based on the containers that are taken to them. He states that 90 percent of their revenue would be taken away and says that many of the recyclers in Oregon have had to close because they were not making enough money once the law went into effect.

He also says the consumer would lose money on returnable containers. Under the present system of buy back at the recycler the consumer can receive as much as 50 cents for return a case of beer for example.

One other major concern of the bill is the trade-off of jobs between skilled and unskilled labor. Opponents say, skilled laborers will be removed from many positions because there will not be the demand for the large number of new containers

The bill would threaten 1,500 skilled union jobs and 3,500 semi-skilled positions, said Bernard J. Schaffer, speaking for the bill's opponents. Whereas show figures that a net of 365 jobs were gained in Oregon after the first year of the program.

The container legislation is a nationwide concern, there are now seven existing states with returnable beverage laws and eight states with litter/ recycling laws. The outcome of Washington's election may affect many other states' move towards litter control.

Banquet honors 'Women of Year'

Mrs. Flo Hammond, a past president of Highline Business and Professional Women's Club, was honored as her club's Woman of the Year at the annual BPW Canadian-American Friendship and Women of the Year Banquet held Saturday evening in the Spanish Ballroom of the Olympic Hotel.

In addition to serving as president, Mrs. Hammond has held other club offices and served on many committees, most recently chairing the membership and ways and means committees. She is currently serving as program chairman for District 8.

The banquet, which also honored women from 10 other clubs in the area and accented friendship with BPW members across the border, was sponsored by the King County Chapter of BPW Clubs and chaired by Nola Overby of Mt. Si, with Mrs. Sandra Howes of Bellevue as mistress of ceremonies. Approximately 125 women attended, including 32 from Canada.

Also on the program were Mrs. Jeanette Williams, Seattle City Council member, Mrs. Jeanne Hansen, president of the Washington State BPW Federation, and Mrs. Frances North, state representative from the 47th District. Entertainment was by Hazen Swing Choir directed by Jerry McManus.

Smashup on 320th

TWO LUCKY Linn County Police officers escaped serious injury Friday in this 4 p.m. mishap on South 320th Street near Fifth Avenue South. Officials said the cruiser was being driven by Frank Kinney and was making a u-turn — with its blue lights flashing — when it collided with another car driven by Eugene H. Haller, of 2707 S. W. 323rd St., Federal Way. Kinney was briefly pinned in the wreck but managed to get free with the help of Edward E. Sexton, his partner. The two officers were on their way to investigate another accident nearby. No charges were filed in connection with the incident.

Auxiliary board meeting planned

Mrs. Wayne Gaughran will host the Des Moines-Zenith Orthopedic Auxiliary luncheon meeting at her Des Moines home on Thursday, Nov. 1. Assisting her will be Mrs. Peggy Henry and Mrs. Bruce Norr. Mrs. Johnston Pero will preside at the after-luncheon business meeting. Mrs. Trafford Burnett and Mrs. J.C. Graves will report on the recent money-making card parties held in four homes, and Mrs. W. O. Ramsey and Mrs. Cyrus Varnum will give a report on the club's part in the Orthopedic Project Parades to be held in November. Other reports will be given by Mrs. Robert Stambaugh, on the sale of Christmas calendars, and Mrs. Gaughran, on the sales of Christmas cards. Plans will be announced for the Christmas tea to be held Dec. 13 at the Ramsey home in Zenith, and the general luncheon in November, which will feature Luncheon is Served. Tickets are $4 and may be purchased now from members. Mrs. Ralph Shook will discuss plans for the annual spring luncheon and fashion show to be held in March.

FW crime report:

20 mushrooms pickers cited for trespassing

Twenty psychedelic mushroom seekers were cited by King County Police on trespassing charges during the weekend, 3rd Precinct records showed Monday.

All of the 20, about half of whom were nabbed on Saturday, are accused of illegally entering a pasture in the 5800 block of South 277th Street. The pasture belongs to a local dairy farm.

Officers were called to the property by its owners at about 10:30 a.m. Saturday and again about 7:30 a.m. Sunday.

The suspects, who were cited into King County Justice Court in Federal Way, are residents of South King County, Tacoma, Auburn, Gig Harbor and a variety of other communities.

Police said that had any of the 20 been caught with the mushrooms in their possession, they could have also been charged under a state law that makes the offense a felony.

Trespassing is a misdemeanor.

TWO 16-YEAR old boys, one of them bleeding from a pair of severe throat wounds, told police that they kicked in the window of a South 320th Street business Sunday in an attempt to get the attention of passing motorists.

The injured boy, a 23rd Avenue Southwest resident, said he was cut during a scuffle with unidentified teenagers at SeaTac Mall.

He and his companion, a Tacoma resident, said they then went to seek medical help but got their truck stuck in soft sand near the scene of the window-breaking.

The boy's wounds were treated at a local medical facility. Police indicated they are continuing to investigate the incident.

Both boys said they were finally able to wave down a passing motorist.

CAPTURED AS he was crawling around inside a parked car at a Pacific Highway South entertainment and amusement complex, a 12-year-old 10th Avenue Southwest boy first gave officers a phony name and address but finally admitted his real identity.

When police called his parents, his mother said the boy was home in bed. Nothing was stolen in the incident, which occurred just after midnight Saturday, and the boy was later released for referral to juvenile authorities.

FELONY FLIGHT charges are being filed against an 18-year-old 13th Avenue South motorcyclist following a high speed chase through a residential neighborhood Wednesday.

Police said they spotted the suspect at the intersection of South 304th Street and Pacific Highway South and attempted to pull him over so they could write him a traffic ticket.

But the youth roared away at high speed. At one point, officers said, officers had to drive into a ditch to avoid a collision with the cyclist, who had doubled back during the chase.

The suspect is also accused of colliding with the police car during the incident.

A new law passed earlier this year by the Legislature makes it a felony to use a vehicle to attempt to flee law enforcement officers.

VANDALS WERE particularly busy during the weekend, prompting police to issue a stern warning that officers are on the lookout for Halloween lawbreakers.

In all, six separate cases were reported, all but two of them involving broken glass. Car windows were smashed on Pacific Highway South, at Redondo Beach and on 51st Avenue South.

One of the victims reported that the vandals first drove in and out of a driveway, blowing their horn and shouting before hurling a rock through the windshield of a parked car.

Another of the victims was a King County Police officer who had parked his car in the lot of a Pacific Highway South restaurant.

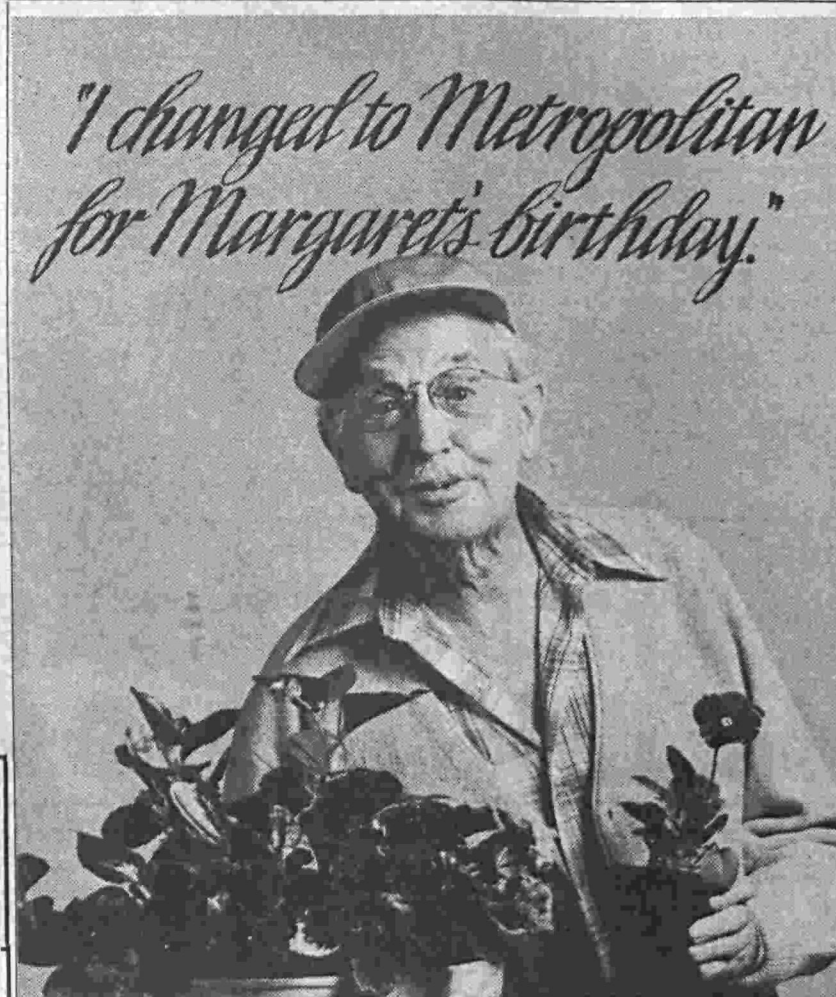

Someone apparently used a .22 caliber firearm to shoot a hole in the window of a First Place South residence, while vandals also sprayed black paint on an automobile parked at a Southwest 325th Street house.

The other reported incident involved the use of a vehicle to tear up part of the lawn in front of a 30th Avenue South residence.

Truck flips

STATE TROOPERS reported that no one was injured when this logging truck rolled out of control at the interchange between State Route 18 and Interstate 5 Saturday about 9 a.m. The driver, a Gig Harbor man, told Washington State Patrol officers that "the logs were loaded on wrong" and said he was not exceeding the speed limit.

Halloween had hallowed origins

by Susan Coles
 "Trick-or-treat!"
 In just a few hours little costumed goblins and gremlins will be greeting you with this familiar cry, as once again it's Halloween.
 But Halloween hasn't always been a frivolous holiday of costumes, candy and jack-o-lanterns.
 The origin of Halloween can be traced back to ancient Britain and the Druids. At that time, Halloween was a Celtic festival honoring Samhain, the lord of the dead. It was also an acknowledgement of the coming of winter, as well as being the Celtic version of New Year's Eve.
 The ceremonies were eerie and definitely no fun. Horse and human sacrifices (criminals rounded up for this purpose) were offered to Samhain to appease him and protect crops, flocks and herds from the demonic influences abundant at the start of the new year. November added a sinister significance to the proceedings by being the beginning of the darkest, most barren part of the year.
 Bonfires were lit on the hillsides to ward off evil spirits and welcome winter. Cook fires were extinguished and reignited for the new year. More importantly, the souls of the past year's dead were believed to revisit their former homes on this night.

 Our Halloween traditions stem mainly from the Scottish and Irish customs of the medieval times. There were still no trick-or-treaters, but things were definitely looking up.
 By then Halloween was known as All Hallows Eve, the night before All Hallows Day, a church feast honoring all saints, known or unknown. Festivities, on the secular side, included divinations concerning marriage, luck, health and death. It was the only time the devil was called upon for assistance.

 In Scotland, the young folk would play games to determine who would marry during the next year and in what order. Bobbing for apples became a popular way of discovering who would have a lucky year ahead. And the original jack-o-lanterns were turnips.
 Today's Halloween is predominantly a child's celebration, far removed from the ominous proceedings of the Celts. Little children will be out in force tonight, some timid, some bold, but all costumed and all with the same cry:
 "Trick-or-treat!"

Initiative 61 will raise beverage prices in Washington grocery stores. *

The reasons are obvious. Your grocer will have to collect all the empty bottles and cans his customers bring back. That will mean more storage space. More handling. More overhead costs that will have to be made up by higher prices. You can expect an increase of 25¢ per six-pack for beer, 20¢ for soft drinks. Plus the minimum 30¢ deposit you'll also pay on the containers. Grocery stores simply aren't set up to take back large quantities of used bottles and cans the way recycling centers are. As your grocer's costs go up, so do the prices you pay.

Four top chefs to select winners of Cookbook Contest

Four of the top chefs in the areas covered by the Robinson newspapers will make the final decisions on recipes submitted by readers in our Cookbook Contest, which closed Oct. 19.

Preliminary screening of all entries has been completed, and now final judges from each circulation area are preparing for a "Taste-Off" which will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. Nov. 3 in the Olympic and Cascade Rooms of the Airport Hilton Inn, where the judges will pick the winners in each category to be sent to district-wide finals.

The district judges include Chef John McGarry of Weyerhaeuser, Chef Takeyuki Suetsugu, owner-chef of Satsuma Japanese Restaurant in Burien, Chef Evelyn Enslow, chef consultant for Kronos Foods, and Chef Joe Sir of Rainier Golf and Country Club.

John McGarry, who devotes his skills to feeding important guests and employees at the Weyerhaeuser Company, was born in Ireland and came to this country in 1961 at the invitation of President John F. Kennedy, who met him while attending a meeting between the President and England's Prime Minister Harold McMillan at the world-famous Royal Mid-Ocean Bermuda, where McGarry was the executive chef.

He first worked at the Kennedy Compound in Massachusetts, cooking for the Kennedy families. He went on to the White House with the Kennedys, serving as White House chef for 13 years for Presidents Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon.

He became acquainted with Washington State while visiting his son, Richard, who was stationed with the Air Force at McChord AFB, and moved to Washington at the urging of the state's former First Lady, Nancy Evans.

Now a director of food operations for Weyerhaeuser, he is in charge of four kitchens that serve 3,000 people a day and employ a staff of 35 to 40. In addition, he is in charge of preparing dinners and luncheons for visiting dignitaries from all over the world.

McGarry, who took his five-year apprenticeship at the famed

Savoy Hotel in London and later served as Prime Minister Churchill's chef at No. 10 Downing St. and at his country home, says of his profession: "Being a chef, aside from a professional actor, is the only career in which you are constantly on stage."

Tak Suetsugu, chef-owner of the Satsuma Japanese Restaurant in Burien, served as a chef at the Mikado Restaurant for five years before coming to Burien three years ago. He started a world-famous cooking school, the Tsuji Cooking School in Japan, at the age of 18 and has catered parties in Europe and all over the United States.

He sums up his cooking philosophy in these words: "I like to show Japanese culture through Japanese cooking. Take great care in the preparations. It's just as important how you served and present the meal as how you cook it."

What makes him a good cook? — "There's no secret. It's just determination and practice, practice and practice. And, lots of hard work."

Area judges ready for task

Finals judges from the Federal Way and Des Moines area who will make the decisions on the recipes submitted in their area include Kelly Gunderson, owner-chef at Cafe Patisserie in Federal Way; Dave Stiles, chef at the 13 Coins Restaurant on Pacific Highway S., and Van Atkins, executive chef of the Red Lion Inn.

Van Atkins As executive chef at the Red Lion Inn at Sea-Tac, Van Atkins is in charge of food service in the hotel's three restaurants, and 700 guests rooms and numerous banquet facilities.

He is an honor graduate of the Culinary Institute of America at Hyde Park New York, but attributes success in his career mainly to "hard work and long hours."

The Federal Way resident has been an executive chef for five years and has worked in various kitchens for 17 years, starting in the field when he was 13 years old. "If I have a specialty," he says, "it would be ice carvings, management and teaching."

As one of the area chefs who are involved in the apprenticeship program in Washington, Atkins says "it's really a pleasure to see young people learn and succeed. The employment field for young chefs is wide open."

Kelly Gunderson Kelly Gunderson who grew up in Federal Way and opened Cafe Patisserie in Federal Way in 1977, started his career approximately 20 years ago, choosing to apprentice with Swiss chefs in this country, including Joseph Sir and pastry chef Marcelle Forester of Seattle. He also worked as pastry chef at the Olympic Hotel, and has won innumerable gold medals in cooking competitions, earning them in "every classic corner of the kitchen."

However, he says, "I am even more proud of the medals won by my crew of apprentices. Cafe Patisserie can only be as good as my staff. A staunch supporter of the apprentice program, Gunderson currently has four of them on his staff.

He was the 10th chef in the United States to graduate in the original apprentice program and continues to share his skills and knowledge with others and to promote gourmet dining as opposed to "convenience food" cooking.

The third final judge is Chef Dave Stiles, head chef at the 13 Coins restaurant at 18000 Pacific Highway S.

Puget Power reports decreased net income

Puget Sound Power and Light Company last week reported lower net income on increased operating revenues for the 12-month period ended Sept. 30.

Net income for the period was $45,158,000 on operating revenues of $279,294,000 compared with net income of $47,146,000 on operating revenues of $243,769,000 for the same 12-month period a year ago.

Net income for the quarter ended Sept. 30 was $6,912,000 on operating revenues of $58,717,000 compared with net income of $9,693,000 on operating revenues of $59,071,000 for the third quarter of 1978. Earnings per common share slipped from 46 cents per share for the third quarter a year ago to 20 cents per share for the same quarter this year.

John W. Ellis, Puget Power president, said the company's third quarter results were anticipated. "Below average hydro conditions required us to discontinue sales of surplus power to other utilities this summer. The loss of these sales, plus the rapidly escalating costs of doing business, have contributed heavily to our poor third quarter financial performance."

Ellis also pointed to the utility's growing exposure to costs for expensive oil-fired generation and purchased power due to delays in new plant construction. As a result, Puget Power has recently filed a request with the Washington Utilities and Transportation Commission for expedient approval of a power cost adjustment clause. "This action would enable us to pass extraordinary costs for power on to our customers in the form of an additional charge and to credit them with sales of surplus energy," he said. Puget Sound Power and Light Company is the largest investor-owned electric utility in Washington State, servicing more than one-half million customers located mainly in the Puget Sound Region of Western Washington.

Lainier leaves Eastern for Highline baskets

by Harry Brooks

Stan Lainier is "taking a step down" for peace of mind.

The former All-Everything basketball player at Federal Way High has switched courts from Eastern Washington State University to Highline Community College.

He cited his dislike of Eastern's partying social atmosphere and the school's failure to come through on recruiting promises as the major reasons for his transfer to Highline.

"I was under a lot of pressure at Eastern," a "happier" Lainier noted. "Some people think I'm a fool for leaving, but they'd have to be there to know what's going on."

THE 6-5 guard-forward accepted a basketball scholarship to Eastern after being named the South Puget Sound League's Player of the Year for the 1977-78 season. During that hoop campaign, he averaged 18 points-per-game while leading Federal Way to the SPSL title and seventh place in the State AAA Tournament. Lainier also was the Eagle leader when Federal Way finished eighth in the 1977 state tourney.

Stan quickly made his mark at Eastern last year. He became a starting "fast forward" late in the season as the Screaming Eagles attempted to upgrade their basketball program by battling the likes of Weber State and New Mexico State. Stan ended the campaign averaging five points a game.

"But I wasn't very happy over there," he muttered. "The attitude of the school wasn't what I thought it would be. Everybody was gettin' into partying all the time — booze and dope — I've seen it all."

"For me, the social life was boring. I didn't go along with it, so I just sat in my room. It got to the point that I was asking myself — 'what am I doing here?'"

Also according to Lainier, Eastern basketball coach Jerry

Krause led him astray while luring him to the Cheney campus.

"He told me that I'd have to pay $300 to $500 my first year and it would be free from then on," Stan recalled. "He said I'd have to work my first quarter there, but I ended up having to work all year long. I was working in the administration office doing odd jobs and putting out brochures, but it got to the point where they had nothing for me to do. So, the job dried up and I quit."

"I had to pay $900 my first year, and I didn't want my dad to pay for any more school. My parents think I'm old enough to make my own decisions, so, when I decided to quit, they supported the change."

Stan Lainier

COACH KRAUSE definitely wasn't supportive of Lainier's move.

"He said it was a cheap shot when I first told him," Stan said bitterly. "I really don't have anything against the program. It's just that the coach said if you didn't want to be there you didn't belong in the program, and I didn't want to be there."

Apparently, a lot of people didn't want to be there. Eastern suffered well-publicized racial troubles on its basketball team, resulting in a mass exit. The Screaming Eagles struggled through a 12-16 record, and last season's top scorer Roger Boessel, who averaged 15 a game, has decided not to come back to the EWSU court for his junior year.

"Everybody was goin' out for themselves," Stan sadly remembered. "There was a lot of cocky talk on the floor — 'hey, in your face' — and I started doin' it too."

He pointed out that the team attitude at Highline is much healthier:

"WE'LL BE tough. We have a pretty good team. It's a real big step down from what I played last year, but coach (Fred) Harrison works me just as hard as they did, but the practices are shorter and the season isn't as long."

However, Stan is optimistic that his decision to switch to a lesser caliber of basketball may eventually lead to major college offers.

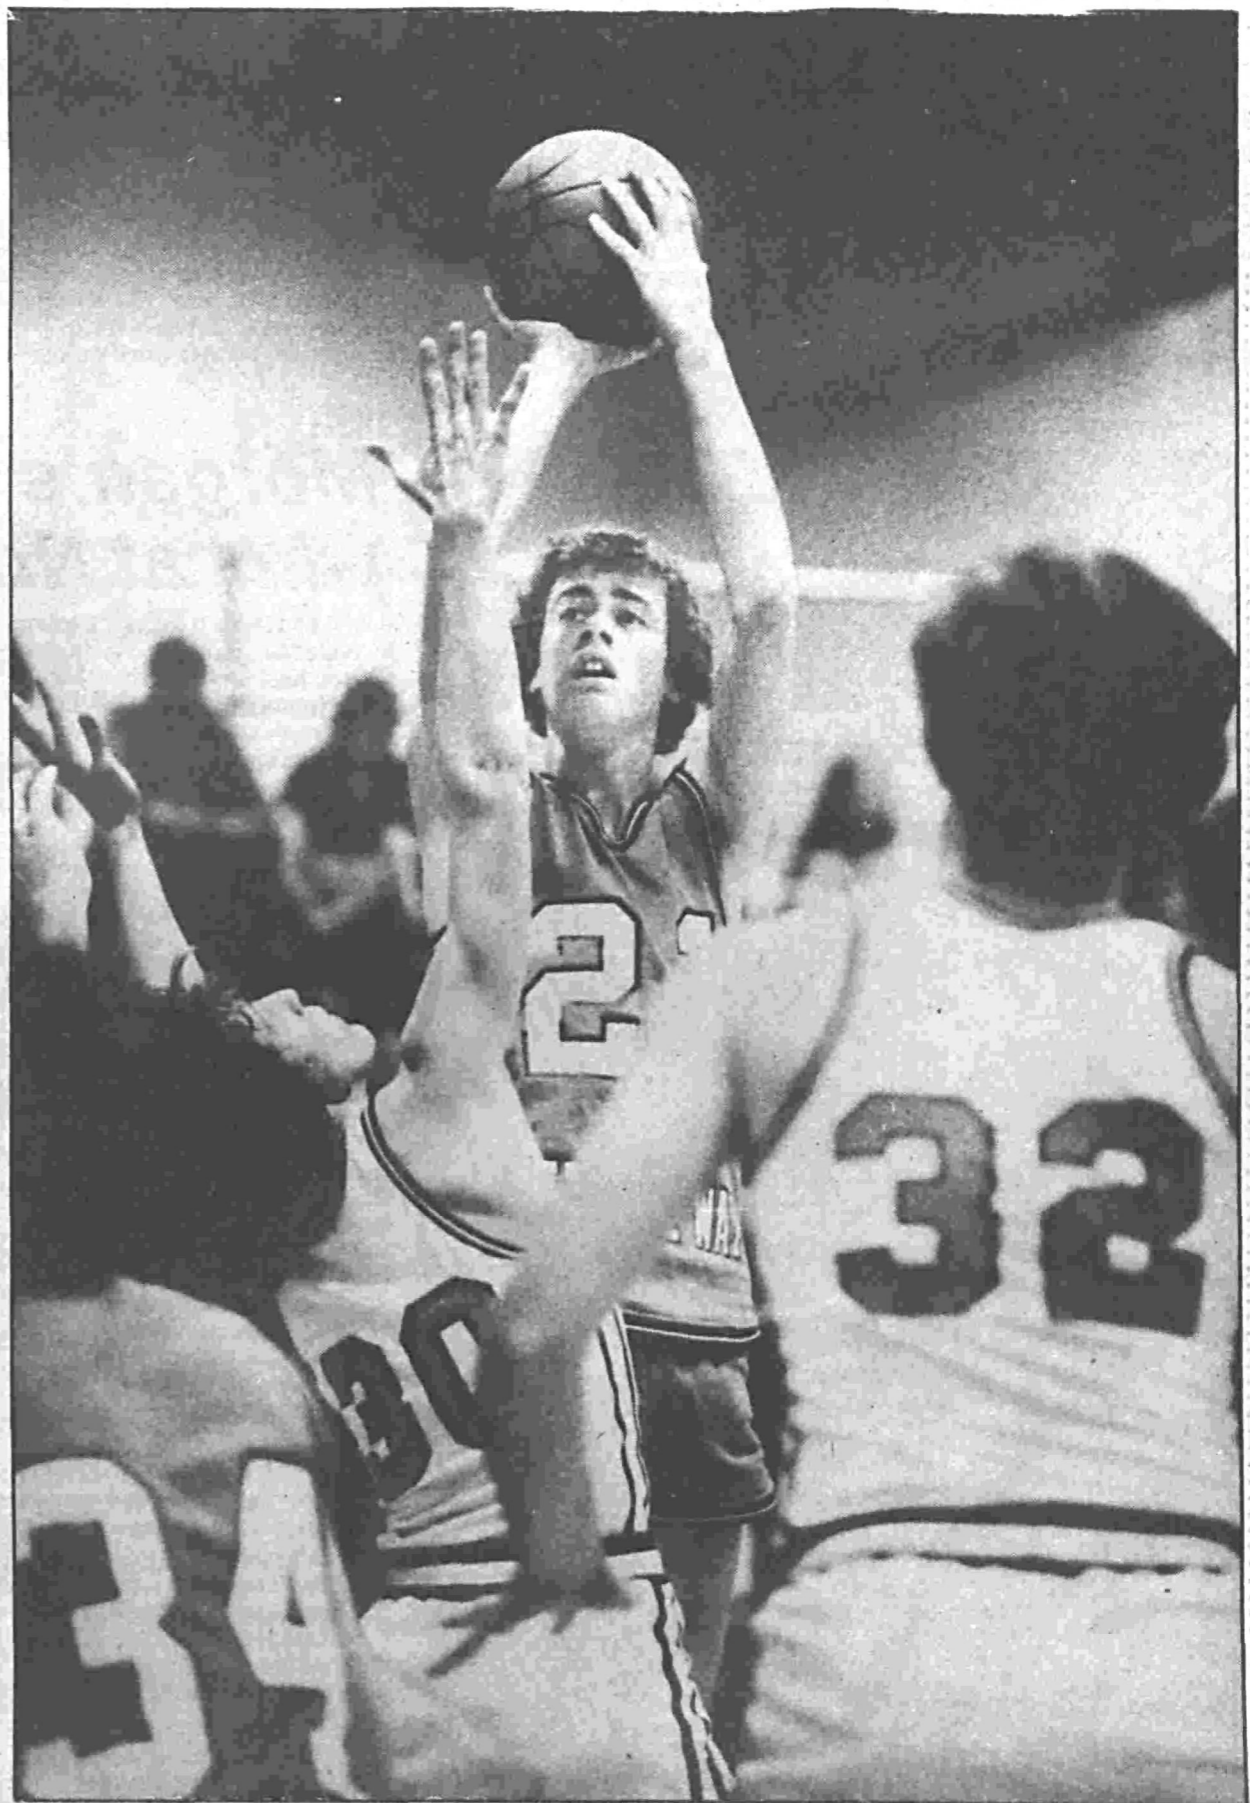

"I'd like to play at the U. (of Washington)," he flatly stated, adding that he's had conversations with coach Marv Harshman. "I think I could go to Colorado. Coach (Dave) Cook says he wants me."

"But the thing I have to do is have a good year at Highline and stay healthy. I think we're going to win a lot of games and be a threat for the state title."

STAN IS NOW working out with the Thunderbird team and pumping weights to add pounds to his willowy frame, which presently carries 180 pounds.

"I'm kinda at an in-between size," he admitted. "I'm not big enough to play inside with some guys and not fast enough to stick with others, but I've played with some of the UW players and can do all right against them."

"If I get recruited by some four-year colleges after this season, I'll know what to expect because I've been there before."

STAN LANIER rises for a jumper against the Decatur Gators during his senior season for the Federal Way Eagles. The 6-5 cager won numerous honors while starring in the SPSL. He recently transferred from Eastern Washington State University to Highline College, and will be a key element in the Thunderbird attack this winter.

Gator gridders get last shot at 1st win

The Decatur Gators will try to score their first South Puget Sound League football win tomorrow night against the Sumner Spartans at Federal Way Stadium. The contest will kickoff at 7:30 p.m.

Sumner also has suffered a dismal campaign record-wise. The defending SPSL champions have a 3-5 slate and have lost three via opponents scoring on fumble recoveries with time running out.

Last week, Sumner lost to undefeated at state-ranked Rogers 20-15 in overtime when the Rams pounced on a spartan bobble. But Decatur also had a discouraging outing last week.

The Gators knocked on victory's door with by receiving numerous Clover Park turnovers in CP territory, but Decatur's owned miscues in crucial situations dooped them to a 14-7 loss.

Judging from last week's performance, "I think we can hold their offense down," Decatur coach Greg Flynn said. "But it's a matter of putting points on the board ourselves that has me worried."

Flynn, who scouted the Sumner-Rogers game, pointed out that Sumner has a tough defense.

"It's hard to come up with a game plan against them," he noted.

"On offense, they like to use a lot of misdirection from their full-house backfield," Flynn continued. "We've got to stay at home; we can't fly around. That's a problem for us because we're small and we have to attack the ball."

The first-year Gator coach would enjoy a win and believes his team deserves one, but pointed out that "one win doesn't make a season."

"We've had a successful season," he flatly stated. "It would have been nice to win two or three, but wins are byproducts of other things. We've established a foundation now; we're competitive, and we have something to build on."

Decatur will enter the game with a healthy roster. In fact, nary a Gator has been lost for the season because of injury. The return of three starters who missed last week's game — tight end Valtyr Jonsson, defensive end Mike Mitchell and defensive tackle Tor Hagen — puts the Gators at full strength.

"To finish at full strength in incredible," Flynn said. "It's very important to me that none of our kids gets seriously hurt out there. It's one of a coach's major concerns."

Tate, Fohn net District tennis qualifying spots

by Brien Lautman

Brenda Tate, Federal Way's top tennis prospect, battled her way to the finals of the South Puget Sound League District qualifying tennis tournament last week at Sprinker Athletic Complex in Spanaway.

Tate chewed her way through earlier qualifying matches, beating Thomas Jefferson's Bonnie Nygren in first round play, 6-1, 6-2 and then battling teammate Deanna Dailly in a tough quarter-final round confrontation. Tate posted a 6-2, 6-0 win in that match.

The Federal Way senior then met Clover Park's Penny Miller, the tournament's number one seed, and proceeded to destroy her confidence and ranking. Tate posted a hotly-contested 6-3, 5-7, 6-3 win in the semi-final encounter, boosting her into the finals. Tate, however, ran into some difficulty in the championship match, as Lakes' Leanne

Hutchison walked away with an easy 6-1, 6-0 win.

"Brenda was just not mentally and emotionally ready to play

Federal Way Eagle harriers run to District berth

by Brien Lautman
The Federal Way Eagle boys' and girls' cross-country squads granted themselves an extension on their 1979 season as both breezed to West Central District team qualifying places in last week's South Puget Sound League sub-district meet at Fort Steilacoom.

Darin McKeown was the Eagle inspirational leader as he set a 15:30 first place example, beating his nearest challenger, Zane Pruitt of Curtis by nearly thirty yards.

"Darin and Pruitt and two Clover Park kids ran together for the first mile-and-a-half, but the last mile, from the top of the hills on down, he just pulled, said Eagle Coach Bill Harris. "It seemed like forever until the next guy appeared after Darin finished."

McKeown was backed in his powerful performance by Kevin Syrstad who finished in tenth at 16:31, while Jim Konop toured the course in 16:42, fifteenth place showing. Because of the Eagles fourth place team finish, the entire boys unit will move on to this Saturday's West Central meet at Evergreen High School in White Center. The Federal Way boys finished with a 90 point total, deadlocking with Lakes for the final qualifying spot.

"I figured we would be fourth," Harris said. "I was proud of the guys for tying Lakes because Lakes beat us in our season opener."

Michelle Ballentine led the FW girls' contingent to a respectable second-place showing, as she finished third behind Decatur's Kerry Johnson, who took the runner-up spot and Lakes' Sheila Caskey, who out ran everyone with a fast 12:16.1 clocking.

The Eagle girls were runner-up to Lakes in the team standings with 77 points, while the Tacoma club found itself virtually untouched with a low 16 point accumulation.

Kristeen Calhoun followed Ballentine in ninth place to head the strong Eagle showing. All Federal Way girls advance to this weekend's district meet also.

The Decatur Gators received another sparkling performance from Kerry Johnson as the sophomore runner carried the Gator flag to a second place, 12:57 effort. Johnson will advance to the District meet as she led a strong Gator team performance that notched a fourth place finish with 118 points.

Lori Morgan ran a surprisingly fast race to compliment Johnson's second place showing as she pounded home in 13:35, good for a fifth place mark and a District qualifying berth.

"I was wondering if she would make the top five and she did," an elated Coach Joe Anderson said. "It's really neat to see her up that high."

The Gator boys, however, did not fare as well as the female portion of the squad, finishing near the bottom of the team standings with a 235 point total.

Richard McMonigal was the Gator leader with a 17:34 fortieth place showing, with Eric Vanderwouden finishing forty-first in 17:38.

"I am pleased with our effort," Anderson said of his boys' finish. "We improved on our record from last year, and we are losing only one senior."

Tracey Honsiger will be the lone Thomas Jefferson Raider to advance to District as she turned in a strong 13:20, fourth place run. Linnea Puaa was runner-up for TJ with a twelfth place showing in 14:00, while senior Robin Pallett was twentieth in 14:20.

Jefferson Coach Bill Hansen was pleased with his girls' performance at the league meet, and is optimistic about his top runner, Honsiger's, chances at the West Central meet.

"Tracey has got a real good chance to go on to state," he said. "I'm really happy with her performance and I thought the other girls ran well too."

Senior Bob Plummer led the Jefferson boys' contingent last Friday with an eleventh place 16:36 effort, while Doug Cox and Albert Frank finished twenty and twenty-third respectively with times of 17:00 and 17:06.

The boys finished fifth in the team standings with a 116 total, while the girls were sixth at 136.

WALT MORGAN watches his putt from off the green on No. 14 take the break for the hole. This effort barely missed the cup, but Morgan sank his next attempt for a par. The Ft. Lewis golfer eventually won the 18th annual North Shore Shotgun Tournament low gross title with four-under-par 140 score over 36 holes.

Morgan's clutch putt wins at North Shore

by Harry Brooks
Walt Morgan sank a clutch putt on the 18th hole Sunday to win the low gross title in the 18th annual North Shore Shotgun Tournament with a four-under-par 140 score over 36 holes.

Morgan, a career soldier based at Fort Lewis, blitzed North Shore's 18-hole layout with a three-under-par 69 Saturday to take a one stroke lead over Orly Sorrell and a two-shot edge over Jim Everham. Sorrell faded to an 80 on Sunday, but Everham birdied the 9th and 10th holes and continued to play par golf the rest of the way. Meanwhile, Morgan took two shots to get out of a sand trap on the 12th and had to settle for a bogey that shrank his lead to a single stroke.

After catching a iron shot fat on the 18th fairway, Morgan had to scramble for the needed par to capture the tourney. He chipped to within 10 feet, and his putter did the rest.

"I really didn't know that I needed the putt at the time," Morgan said, "but I had an idea that I had to make it."

The 19-year Army vet who will retire next June has a long line of tourney successes. He took the Tacoma Amateur Championship Tournament last July. Morgan also won the United States Inter-Service Tournament in 1976 and 1977.

After retiring from the service at 37 years of age, Morgan hopes to qualify for the PGA tour.

Following Morgan in the loss gross portion of the tourney were Jim Everham, 141; Scott MacPherson, 143; John Tuft, 144, and Jed Jennings, 145. Doug Gullikson, a former Federal Way High links star who now plays out of Twin Lakes, shot a 149 (74-75) for ninth place.

Pat Welch, a 10 handicapper, took low net honors with a 131 score. Jennings won the 1st division low net with 137. Hal Perantie came in first in the 2nd division low net with 138. The 3rd division winner was Dick Painter with a 134. Jack Harney and Clyde Hale tied for the 4th division crown with 136 scores, and Jerry Blanchard took the 5th division with a 139.

Morgan was tied by MacPherson and Jennings for the tournament's lowest round, 69.

With the addition of the new back nine holes, a record field of 256 competed in the event.

"I felt it was a very good tournament," Morgan said. "It was set up pretty well, and I really enjoyed the back nine. It's not long, but you have to use your head or you'll really get in trouble. trouble."

Local volleyball teams face must-win games

The Decatur Gators, Jefferson Raiders and Federal Way Eagles enter the stretch run for post-season playoff berths this week.

The South Puget Sound League will enter its top three teams directly into the West Central District AAA Tournament, which is scheduled for Nov. 9 and 10 at Kent-Meridian High School. The SPSL's fourth-place squad must win a playoff game to gain a seeding into the tourney.

Decatur had 4-2 records when the two teams met Monday to decide a protested match (results unavailable at press time). Federal Way, now 3-4, must beat playoff-contending Clover Park today at 3:30 p.m. in the FW gym and Jefferson tomorrow in a 6:30 p.m. match at the TJ gym to have a chance for a West Central spot.

Undefeated Curtis is on its way to the SPSL title but the rest of the upper division will be decided this week. Decatur hosts contending Puyallup in an important match today at 3:30 p.m. Jefferson travels to Rogers for a 3:30 p.m. contest. Decatur will finish its regular season play at Rogers Friday at 3:30 p.m.

Volleyball fortunes changed for the local teams last Friday. Jefferson ended a two-match lapse with a 15-5, 15-8 win over Lakes. Federal Way's string of three straight losses ended with a 16-14, 15-5 victory over Bethel, but Decatur's streak of three wins in a row was halted when the Clover Park Warriors bounced the Gators 15-11, 15-8.

FEDERAL WAY coach Kathy Harris was pleased and relieved that her squad's below-par play ended Friday.

"We looked like a completely different team," she said. "I don't know what made the change. Our attitude was much better, and we never let up." The Eagles came from behind three times to take the first game. Bethel jumped from a 3-3 tie to take a 9-5 edge, but Federal Way surged to knot the score at 9-9. Bethel again charged to take a 12-9 edge, but the Eagles, using the service talent of Tina Mahar, pulled even at 14-14 and scored the next two deciding points.

Mahar, a senior setter, served seven FW points, including the game-winner. The Eagles tallied seven ace serves during the first-game victory.

Federal Way's lethal serving punch was too much for Bethel in the second game. With Jamie Nix at the offering line, the Eagles jumped to a 3-0 lead, and, with Dani Hunter supplying line-drive serves, increased the margin to 11-0. Patty Davidson mopped Bethel up with the last two serves of the match.

The Eagles suffered from a lack of team coordination in the three previous games to Friday's but rallied to the ball and moved into spiking position against Bethel. The setups resulted in 12 successful spikes in

Friday's match. JEFFERSON, using the spiking talents of Dawna Carnegay, Marcy Smith and Peggy Halwachs, ended its slump Friday. A strong setting game aided numerous kills in the first game. Jefferson took a 4-0 lead, watched Lakes counter to tie the contest at 4-4 and then re-assumed control to post a 10-4 advantage. Six Raider service errors allowed Lakes to stay even in the second game, but, Jefferson broke an 8-8 deadlock with the match's final seven points.

WITH MORE than half its players sidelined by illness, the Decatur Gators suffered a 15-11, 15-8 loss to Clover Park Friday in the "slopiest match we've played all season," Decatur coach Toshiki Kamakura said.

Lake Washington salmon increased

Thousands of spawning sockeye salmon in the Cedar River near Renton are being trapped and their eggs taken for controlled incubation in hopes of building the Lake Washington sockeye run, a spokesman from the Washington Department of Fisheries said recently.

River, where a salmon hatchery is scheduled for construction soon near Landsburg Dam. The hatchery, as proposed, would contribute about 120,000 adult sockeye salmon into the Washington sport and commercial catch each year from an expected return of approximately 500,000 mature sockeye.

Washington Chapter of the Northwest Salmon and Steelhead Council and nearly 500,000 eggs to the Lake Washington Demonstration Program for their salmon enhancement projects on Lake Washington tributaries. The Lake Washington Demonstration Program is a cooperative project with METRO, King County, and the cities of Seattle and Bellevue, to reintroduce salmon into urban streams.

This is the fourth year, in the five-year pilot program, for the egg-take in the Cedar

The department will also contribute two million sockeye eggs to the South Lake

TJ, FW and Decatur find links to the future

The three local SPSL golf teams — Jefferson, Decatur and Federal Way — have bright futures ahead.

With a split last week, Federal Way ended its league slate with a 7-6 record, a fourth-place tie in the league standings. The Eagles opened last week with a 65-62 victory over traditional power Clover Park at North but fell to league champion Lakes 78-66 in Thursday's finale at Oakbrook. "The win over Clover Park was very important to us," Federal Way links skipper Dick Ternes said, "and we even had a showing against Lakes."

John Tate and Bart Turchin led Federal Way past Clover Park

by scoring 13 each. Gavin Savage and Bill Eichholtz had 12 apiece. John Venta scored 10, and David Schoon came in with 5. John Venta's nine-hole stroke total of 38 scored 16 against Lakes. Tate added 14, Savage 11, Turchin 10, Eichholtz 8 and Rick Hollingsworth 7.

The Eagles have "a lot of power" returning for next season,

Ternes noted.

The team's top three golfers will be back for the 1980 season. The top trio, in order of scoring, are Turchin, Savage and Eichholtz. John Venta, who turned out late in the season, had the top average this season and will return next fall. Venta's efforts were highlighted by a two-under-par 34 on North Shore's front nine in a match against Decatur. Ternes also pointed to talented junior varsity, sophomore golfers Matt Mangio and Mike Seitz while expressing optimism about next season.

THE DECATUR Gators missed a chance at securing a playoff spot for the SPSL's second seeding in the State AAA Tournament by playing to a 69-69 tie with the Bethel Braves in their season-ender two Mondays ago.

Decatur and Bethel ended in a second-place tie with 9-3-1 records. Second place was decided in the SPSL Medalist Tournament last Monday (results printed in connected, boxed story). Junior Rich Price tied for match medalist honors against Bethel with a 39 score and 15 points. Mike O'Donnell came in with 14 points, Dave Edwards and Mark Scuderi 13 each, Mike Anderson 10 and Dave Utz 4.

Decatur will be strong again next year with the top Gator golfer of 1979, Price, returning along with Mike Anderson and Mark Scuderi.

Coach Terry O'Donnell also looks for able support from a strong JV program. JEFFERSON suffered a 39-31 loss to Curtis Thursday in a driving rain storm at Fircrest.

Mark Nygren scored more than half of the TJ total by shooting a two-over 38 for 16 points. Brian Myers scored 7, Terry Cash 6, Layne DeBriac 2, and Tim Griffith and Pat Garland were shut out.

Jefferson coach Ed Erikson noted that the entire Raider team will return next season.

"We expect to be a lot tougher next year," Erikson said. "We should have a lot of double-figure scoring from our players next year."

Tyee swims past TJ Eagles take second;

The Federal Way Eagles secured second place in the SPSL girls' swimming race by swamping Sumner 105-65 Wednesday.

Jefferson had its SPSL swim mark drop to 1-6 with a 112-57 loss to Curtis Wednesday, and the Raiders fell to Tyee 86-82 Thursday.

Jefferson and Federal Way will end their season against each other in a meet today at the Federal Way District Pool at 3:30 p.m.

Federal Way is a much stronger team, so the two coaches, Al Hoppenrath of Federal Way and Jennifer von Doehren of Jefferson, will position their swimmers to increase competition.

Hoppenrath was pleased with Wednesday's victory.

"Our girls were up," he said. "They knew it was either the them or us for second place. We haven't had too many meets we had to press for, but we were certainly ready for this one."

Federal Way took six first places in the 11-event meet. Donna Deighton took the 200 freestyle in 2:25.5. Vicki Chovil was a double winner, touching first in the 100 butterfly at 1:08.2 and the 200 individual medley at 2:28.6. Lisa Call took the diving event with 177.15 points, and the Eagle 200 medley relay quartet of Deighton, Shannon Blakeley, Chovil and Tracy Thomas combined for a first-place 2:02.9 time. Thomas also won the 100 freestyle in 1:08.2.

Hoppenrath pointed to point sweeps in the 100 butterfly and 100 freestyle events as the major contributors to the FW cause. Against TJ, he is looking for his 200 medley relay team to make state qualifying standards.

JEFFERSON coach von Doehren expects her diver, Karen Owen, to eclipse the state qualifying point total of 135 in diving. Owen scored 131.65 while taking first place against Curtis Wednesday. Deanna Crabtree took TJ's only first place in that meet by taking the 100 individual medley in 2:31.25.

Crabtree took first place in two individual events Thursday and contributed to TJ's winning effort in the 400 free relay. Her times were 27.64 in the 50 free and 1:08.63 in the 100 backstroke. The 400 free relay team, which also included Linda Kerl, Jeri Walker and Kathy Jones, had a time of 4:56.29.

Kerl also won the 100 freestyle in 1:12.99.

"Our girls were really excited (against Tyee)," von Doehren recalled. "The outcome came right down to the last relay."

Unfortunately for Jefferson, Tyee offset a Raider win with second and third-place finishes in the 400 free relay.

Featuring

Darin McKeown, a Federal Way High School sophomore, won the South Puget Sound League Cross-Country Championship last week with a fast 15:30 time. McKeown outdistanced next-nearest rival Zane Pruitt of Lakes by thirty yards. The Eagle front-runner will take his classy act to the West Central District meet this Saturday to qualify for the State AAA meet.

Brenda Tate, A Federal Way senior, stroked her way to the finals of the SPSL Girls' Tennis Championship finals last weekend at Sprinker Athletic Complex. Tate swept to three consecutive victories in the tourney before falling to Lakes' Leanne Hutchison, 6-0, 6-1.

Other top performances: Deanna Crabtree, a Thomas Jefferson swimmer, won the 50-yard freestyle (27.64) and 100-yard backstroke (1:08.63) in last week's win over the Tyee Totems. Crabtree also contributed to the Raiders' winning 400-yard freestyle relay. Vicki Chovil of Federal Way

Darin McKeown

High, won the 100-fly (1:08.2) and 200 IM (2:28.6) to help the Eagle girls clinch second place in the league standings, while she was a member of the victorious 200-medley relay team also.

Jeff Nygren of Thomas Jefferson shot a 2 over par 38 during heavy rains two weeks ago at Fircrest Golf Course. Nygren accounted for 16 of Jefferson's 32 points in the match.

Placement beats Kent

The Placement Saints won their first game Wednesday night with hustle and a full team effort.

The teams coaches are Bob Knutson and Joe Beymer. The players are Brett Knutson, Jeff Knutson, James Beymer, Scott Elston, Danny Haegle, Mark Leamer, Brian O'Donnell, Chris Ray, Jeff Salazar, Raleigh Salazar, Aaron Sroka, Terry Tice, Doug Woods, Robert Boyd, Todd Eaton and Dave Cornish.

The Kent Panthers played a very good game, but the Placements Saints team effort was too strong.

Your Money

by John Weaver, Jr.
Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc.

As we explored the Great Stock Market Crash of 1929 in last week's article, we came to the conclusion that the Dow Jones Industrial Averages would have to decline a total of 274 points within a three day period to have the same impact on today's market as occurred in 1929. It is hardly possible that this could happen.

However, the stock market has not been without some casualties. The most widely held stock of all, American Telephone and Telegraph ($51 per share), is currently selling at its lowest price since 1976. The relative market statistics are truly remarkable. At 6.4 times 12 months through Aug. 31, 1979, A.T. and T. is now available at the lowest earnings valuation since early in the century. Also, the 9.8 percent dividend ($5 per share per year) represents a current yield that hasn't been exceeded since before 1920. These statistics could become even more extreme since the full year 1979 earnings should approximate $8 per share and another dividend increase is possible before the end of the year.

What is the cause of this? Too much inflation; too much government regulation, government deficit spending and incipient recession. But, what would happen if Paul Volcker, the Federal Reserve Board chairman were to change his stringent monetary policy? Time could run out for those bargain hunters looking for a blue chip, AAA rated investment paying close to 10 percent per year.

Looking for a job doesn't have to be a frightening or depressing experience, if you know where to look?

That was the advice given to a group of people enrolled in a five-day job finding workshop taught by Interaction Inc. in cooperation with the Washington State Department of Employment Security at the Multi-Service Center.

The job hunter can uncover more job leads in the unadvertised job market than he or she thought possible. These discoveries start with one name, said Lynne Davenport, class instructor. "It can be a mutual friend, acquaintance or a referral," she said. The one name will help the person gain access to many offices.

Describing a horizontal process, the advisor said men and women in decision-making positions who have hiring power are the contacts a job hunter should talk with. The personnel office should be avoided.

"The decision-makers know decision makers and if they do not have a position available, they can refer your name to someone else," she said.

"After an interview it is always important to ask the question, 'Is there someone else I can also talk with?'" she said. They can give you the names of other employers who can also offer additional Looking back the job hunter will see that after obtaining one name it has led to many.

Employing this process is how 80 percent of the working population gains access to the job market.

However, finding that first name may be difficult if a person is new in town. There are a number of ways to acquire the information. Libraries have books and catalogs of companies, which can yield a wealth of information. Joining an organization or church group may lead to names and job possibilities.

Volunteering can give work experience and some leads to other opportunities. "Let everyone you know that you are looking for a job, you never know who is in the position to help you find one," Ms. Davenport said.

Although there might be a few "no's", she recommends job seekers should keep looking and keep talking with employers, just that one contact in a few weeks or months may come up with a job.

Ms. Davenport said people have to understand that employers want to help and are willing to talk about jobs and careers.

For those who are unsure of the type of job that they would be interested in, an information interview is ideal for scouting out a career and the employment possibilities. The information interview is non-threatening, since the employer does not have to make a hiring decision, nor does the job hunter have to be put on the spot.

This technique has proven a successful learning experience for many, one man had lunch with the president of Sea-First Bank.

Obtaining an interview can be achieved in three ways: telephoning, letter writing or cold calling. "When making the appointment, make sure you address employers by their names and not by positions or titles. That is very impersonal and shows you do not know the company very well," Ms. Davenport said.

She stressed that when setting up the interview, the job hunter should inform the employer that the meeting is for information only on a career, or about job opportunities, but that you are not asking for a job at this time.

During the information interview the job hunter can ask for advice and criticism about his or her resume, campaign strategy, job skills that fit the career field and other people to see.

The job hunter should prepare adequately for the meeting, by learning about the company before hand and by presenting a good picture of his or her qualifications - not limitations.

Ms. Davenport also said that it is impor-they might have an opening in the future or know of a job possibility.

Often times, during the information interview, the employer might offer a job,

"Many people find it hard to believe that employers are willing to talk with them," Ms. Davenport said. But it is this time spent that proves beneficial to both tant to get the employer talking and interested in the conversation. One out of five contacts will be interested in helping the job seeker. On such a basis, it is important to report back to them and visit occasionally, because

"Never turn down a job, but never accept a job," Ms. Davenport said. "Instead, tell the employer you want to think about it, after all time is on your side. There may be other considerations to look at before taking the job."

employer and applicant, when a job comes along in the future.

Small business workshop

A free one-day workshop for people interested in starting or operating a successful business of their own will be conducted by the Small Business Administration in cooperation with the Seattle Public Library, Nov. 14 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The workshop will be held at the New Federal Office Building, 915 Second Ave., North Auditorium.

Registration will be handled at the door. For further information, contact the Small Business Administration, 442-4436.

Finishing Touch to open

The Finishing Touch, a photo-finishing lab which offers custom do-it-yourself framing, is opening for business in November.

Located in the West Campus Quad Shopping Center, 32925 First Ave. S., the shop's floor plan allows customers to view complete film processing operation through special windows dividing the lab and frame shop.

The Finishing Touch will offer same day service on most developing and printing of film. Other services include: custom or machine enlarging of prints and special help with picture taking or film problems.

With 12 years experience, store manager Robert Barentine and his staff can explain the lab operation and work with customers on the framing of photographs, paintings, needlepoint, diplomas and other framable items. Owner of the unusual photo-finishing shop is Richard Mosley.

Grand opening specials will be held during the five day celebration, Nov. 8 - 12.

Seminar to focus on management roles

Newly-appointed supervisors in offices and retail businesses will get an opportunity to explore their new role, Nov. 8 and 9, in a seminar offered at the University of Puget Sound's Seattle campus in Pioneer Square.

The seminar, "Your Supervisory Role," will examine the special problems encountered in moving into a supervisory position. These problems may include managing former peers, handling authority, getting the boss to delegate authority, communicating with workers and customers, and motivating employees despite budget cuts, increased workloads, dead-end positions, or other adverse conditions.

L.B. Day, a professional trainer based in Oregon, will lead the seminar. Day is specializing in a partner in Day-Henry Associates, a Portland consulting firm specializing in organizational development and information systems.

Fee for the seminar is $165, which also covers catered lunches. The University of Puget Sound's office of Continuing Professional Education is sponsoring the seminar. For more information, call 682-0210.

BOB WRAY

THE SIGNS outside tell what's inside the Angle Lake Flea Market — antiques, jewelry, beer signs, clocks, and more.

CAROLINE KERR, surrounded by her displays of pocket knives, glassware, decorations, and various other trinkets, is one of the equally assorted people renting booths at the Angle Lake Flea Market.

Where 'fleas' are marketed

There are probably few things that haven't been collected, displayed, and either swapped or sold at the Angle Lake Flea Market.

But remember, to qualify for a flea market, an item must be old, quaint, off-beat, or funky. Preferably all four.

In the big quonset-style building a mile south of Sea-Tac International Airport on Pacific Highway South are collections of pocket knives, pocket watches, buttons (political and otherwise), comic books, beer advertising, and souvenir pencils.

There are also white elephants for sale, including a hot fudge container from an ice cream parlor ($35) and a yellowing, framed group photograph of men who attended the "First annual convention, Washington Funeral Directors Association, Seattle, 1919." The price for this bit of state history is $9.50.

And there are more practical artifacts, if an early 1900s box radio for $110 is practical. If you're interested, the reception is fine.

THE FLEA MARKET is as much of a people place as it is a house of curios.

"I love this place so much," said Ruth Morlend, a Pacific woman who sells glassware, dishes, carvings from the Far East, and afghans and shawls she knits while killing the hours she spends in her booth.

"It's a fascinating place," she added. "We get people in here from the airport who are waiting for planes. They buy things to take home with them. It's interesting to meet them."

Debbie Raynor of Goldbar ("It's near Monroe") talked as her eight-week-old boy snoozed. "I always bring him along," she said.

In the booth she and her mother rent, Debbie sells antique dishes and other fancy dishes and platters, some for as much as $25. "People seem to like them. I enjoy being here, too," she said.

Hilda Hopper has a varied display of "nostalgic Americana," her description of what she collects.

ONCE INSIDE, people can virtually get lost browsing among the displays of collections and white elephants.

THERE IS ALWAYS something unusual just around the corner. How about a matching set of Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy dolls?

BUSINESSMEN can start young at the flea market. Albert Hughes, 11, operates Albert's Corner. His dad rents the booth, but Albert buys and sells his wares.

NAR urges FHA-VA ceiling raised

WASHINGTON (October 24, 1979) - An immediate increase in the maximum Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration mortgage interest ceiling rates was urged today by Donald I. Hovde, president of the National Association of Realtors, to avert a crippling blow to the housing industry.

charge equal to 1 percent of the mortgage.) He pledged the support of the association to an immediate increase in FHA and VA ceiling rates to keep pace with the rapidly escalating mortgage interest rates, which he said are the result of recent actions by the Federal Reserve Board.

"Clearly," Hovde said, "an increase from 10 1/2 to 12 percent is fully justified and appropriate and should be enacted this week. Delays are causing disruption to Americans who want to buy and sell homes and potential bankruptcy for builders and financial institutions."

"Points are ranging between 10 and 16," Hovde noted, "and are crippling the housing industry." (A point is a one-time service

Soccer season - mildew season

by Kay Crane
Those neat scrubbed children who appear in team pictures on top of pianos are obviously cared for by someone besides me, for at our home soccer season and mildew season overlap with all the honors going to the mildew.

It's not so much the uniform that suffers, because the children seem sufficiently proud of their uniforms by keeping them reasonably well. It's the practice outfits, especially the socks, that come home wet and for care get ball-ed up under a bed or in a corner of the bathroom. Any self-respecting mildew spore can spot and settle on such socks in a trice, set up housekeeping and raise a large smelly family long before the child will think of washing his socks.

If you've ever stepped out of the shower or tub and dried yourself, including your hair, on a towel you didn't know was mildew until you stank of mildew - well, you have soccer season treats coming to you yet!

Is mildew inevitable? Must November pumpkin pie smells merge with the filthy odor or greyish mildew stains on the tablecloths? According to the experts, the time to cure mildew is before you've got it. (That's always so helpful, isn't it?) They say to make sure wet things are dried promptly, even if they are dirty, so that the spores of mildew won't find food for growth in the moisture. Mildew can grow on cotton and other fabrics, on leather, wood or paper, and even on a film of grease or moisture on surfaces like metal which normally will not support mildew.

Then they say to keep your home clean, dry and well-ventilated, also a neat trick if you have even a modest number of children playing soccer. Take the "clean" first. Their cleated shoes are made to be worn in the mud, not left under a chair in the dining room but it's a rare child who will leave his cleats consistently on the mud-proof linoleum you've so carefully provided. The child certainly doesn't have time to vacuum, because he has practice this afternoon, so that leaves the parent doing the "clean" again.

Next point: "dry." In Seattle? In November? Don't be silly, I say, but they tell me I can leave the windows open if it's drier out than in, and use a fan if the breeze won't do the trick. Or I can get an electric dehumidifier or some silica gel from the hardware store.

I'll be delighted to try for "well-ventilated," especially in the children's bedrooms and in the locker room odor is not my favorite at best, and at worst it's pretty awful.

To make sure all the wet things from the field are dried promptly, even if I'm not ready to take the big step of washing them, I've tried to teach the children to throw their equipment and clothes over the basement lines as soon as they change after practice. This can create unfortunate rumors in the family grape-vine that I don't know how to wash clothes, but you can't win 'em all.

Since mildew will weaken or rot material, it is necessary to deal with it if you've got it. Take the things outside and brush off what you can - if you do that job inside, the spores will spread again. Then "sun and air well" they tell me - always so easy in our climate.

Next, wash in plenty of sudsy water, rinse well and dry in the sun. Would you believe the color-fastness of the dye.

If I need more information, they say I can write to Dial Extension, 312 Smith Tower, Seattle, Washington 98104, for pamphlet HG 68. Do you think it will tell me how to get the mildew stains off three small boys before it's time for their soccer pictures?

Tate, Fohn net District victories

Continued from B1 match," her Coach Gary Brines said. "She got behind, then started pressing a bit and lost it. This was the first time we've ever had a girl in the finals."

Deanna Dailly tried to follow the large footsteps of Tate as she stroked to a 6-1, 6-0 first round win but dropped her three final matches, eliminating her from District play this spring. Dailly lost to Tate in second round action and dropped her deciding consolation round encounter to Renee Fohn of Decatur.

"We were really hoping Deanna might make it to District," Brines said. "She just didn't have it against Renee, though."

In doubles action Debra Lawson and Lola Ralph grabbed an eighth place finish in the tourney, getting to the semi-finals of the consolation round. Curtis's doubles pair put the Eagle duo out of tournament action in that consolation match with a 6-3, 6-0 win.

Federal Way completed their season with a 6-3 league mark, good for fourth in the loop standings.

Tate will continue to the District meet this spring as the number two seed.

Fohn, Decatur girls' number one player, put on a gutsy performance following a car accident last Thursday night that left her with a slight concussion.

Fohn had to abandon her first round match after the first set because of dizziness, but was allowed to return to the court later. The Gator girl then proceeded to power her way to consecutive set wins to climax a 1-6, 6-2, 6-3 match victory, scooting her into quarterfinal play.

Fohn again encountered physical problems resulting from the auto mishap and had to retire from her quarterfinal match with the tournament's top player Miller. She then returned for her consolation match with with Federal Way's Dailly, defeating her 6-2, 6-2. Renee dropped her second consolation match to Clover Park's Nina Schulyer, 6-4, 6-4, setting up another confrontation with a sinking Miller from Clover Park. Fohn eventually won the match, 6-1, 6-0 for fifth place in the tournament, while also clinching a District berth.

"Everyone was so impressed with her at the tournament," said her coach Barbara McGavick. "I'm really pleased Renee went all the way. She's so gutsy."

The Gator doubles portion, however, did not weather the competitive storms as well as teammate Fohn as Melinda Rasmussen and Sandy Leverette dropped their first round match 6-1, 6-0, and Michelle Dye and Diane Monzelowsky lost their Thursday night contest, 6-1, 6-0.

Thomas Jefferson was the only area team not to advance a player to the District matches, but the Raiders did come up with some strong performances.

Cathy Tonta and Gina Beckel turned in what Coach Jack Shepard called "our best showing in the tournament." The Raider pair dropped a tough 6-0, 3-6, 7-6 match that was lost on a tiebreaker in the final set.

The Raiders' top player, Bonnie Nygren, dropped her opening match to Tate of Federal Way and was forced out of the tourney early.

Jefferson completed their regular season matches Tuesday with a 3-2 loss to Federal Way. The Raiders received good games from Mary Louwdes and Tracy Andre as the pair swept to straight-set singles wins. Thomas Jefferson dropped both doubles matches to the Eagles, though, and saw the match slip away.

Winners for Federal Way were

Brenda Tate in singles action, and Dailly and Nancy Savage and Ralph and Lawson in doubles play.

Cancer 'hotline' is much used service

More than 3500 persons have called the Cancer Information Service (CIS) at the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center since the program began in February of 1979.

CIS is a toll-free telephone inquiry system which provides information about cancer and cancer-related resources to the general public, cancer patients and their families, and health professionals. It is one of 25 "cancer hotlines" nationwide supported by the National Cancer Institute. "The CIS provides a much needed service to the residents of Washington state," Caron Arnold, CIS supervisor, says. "Every day cancer is in the news. As a result, people have many questions and fears about what they have heard or read. Now, they can call us for answers and information."

According to Ms. Arnold, women callers utilize the information service 75 percent of the time. Their most frequently asked questions are about breast and gynecologic cancers. Recent news announcements about menopausal estrogens, breast cancer treatment recommendations and breast reconstruction have many women especially concerned and confused about what they should do. CIS provides women with accurate information about the early warning signs of breast cancer and the proper techniques for breast self-examination. It also refers women callers to physicians and community clinics specializing in breast or gynecological examinations. Women call CIS not only about problems that affect them, but also about cancer-related problems affecting their family and friends. Washington residents may use the toll-free cancer information and referral service from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday by dialing 1-800-552-7212.

Women can trade hours for conference fees

In return for one hour of volunteer work, women interested in attending the conference for housewives to be held

Nov. 17 at Seattle Central Community College will be given free admission.

The all-day conference is aimed at recognition of the contribution to society made by women who work in the home.

For more information, or to volunteer, call Leslie Cossit, director of Women's Programs, SCCC, 587-3852.

Help is needed with childcare, selling T-shirts and general chores the day of the conference. A one-hour contribution will enable the contributor to attend at least four workshops during the rest of the day.

BPW board meeting

The monthly board meeting of the Highline Business and Professional Women's Club will be held Wednesday, Nov. 7, in the home of Mrs. Mary Jane Peterson in Burien. Mrs. Naomi King will conduct the business meeting which will include reports on: BPW Week, the pecan sale, Christmas tags and the Military Lounge. Plans for the annual Christmas party, to be held Dec. 12 at the Black Angus, will be announced.

Glendale Lutheran scene of wedding

Glendale Lutheran Church was decorated with gladioli, mums and blue carnations for the recent wedding of Vicky Lynn Shuler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill M. Shuler of 2035 S. 223rd St., and Jim Dean Polhamus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim A. Polhamus of 516 S. 212th St.

The bride's southern style lace gown was designed with a scoop neckline, high collar, hoop skirt and long sleeves with French cuffs. The attached train featured six tiers of lace, and her three-tiered veil was accented with matching lace. She carried a bouquet of white roses, blue carnations, snowflake mums, baby's breath and stephanotis. The bridal attendants, Nancy Waterman, maid of honor, and Linda Kindem, Vickie Haverberg and Ginger McElroy, bridesmaids, wore floor-length, sleeveless gowns in a blue and peach floral print, matched with light blue hats. Their flowers were blue carnations, snowflake mums and baby's breath tied with peach and blue ribbons.

Ted Steffen attended the bridegroom as best man, and Dave Mataffin, Vic Pennington and Brian Loeppky were the ushers.

Hostess assistants at the church reception which followed the ceremony were Karen Cooper, Jennifer Watts, Leona Irwin, Julie Thomas, Gail Peterson, Pat Walberg, Valerie Schweers and Delores Huso. A second reception was held in the Des Moines Masonic Temple.

The bride, a 1975 graduate of Mt. Rainier High School, attended Hong Kong International School and studied at Highline College. Her husband graduated from Mt. Rainier in 1974.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Polhamus

The newlyweds Mt. Hood and are at honeymooned at home in the Des Timberline Lodge on Moines area.

Local dancers winners

Local girls were winners in the first of a series of six Scottish dance competitions held recently at University Christian Church in Seattle.

Katherine Zorich, Aaron Weeks and Teresa Ball of Federal Way took top honors in their classes. Elizabeth Aspinall, Liza Tewell and Emily Drevecky, all of Burien, were top winners in their class, and Lisanne Brown of Renton and Robjn Sanders of Kent were also winners.

seven Scottish dance teachers in the area who have students competing each month at the church.

Wedding planned

Mr. and Mrs. John Gorbet of Escondido, Calif., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Melody May, to John Michael Mayner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Mayner of 29118 43rd Ave' S.

Miss Gorbet graduated from Escondido High School in 1973 and from Multnomah School of the Bible in Portland, Ore., in 1977. Mayner graduated from Thomas Jefferson High School in 1977 and is currently stationed with the US Army at Fort Lewis having returned from Germany this month. The couple will be married Nov. 17 in Escondido.

ON THEIR way aloft are Carol Benton and Ruth Strong of Federal Way, co-chairmen of Beta Sigma Phi's 'Around the World' antique and collectibles show and sale. The annual event will be held at the Seattle Police Pavillion Nov. 3 and 4.

Antiques around the world

"Around the World" is the theme of the 1979 Antique Show-Benefit that will feature hundreds of collectibles from all corners of the world this weekend. Sponsored by Chapter 2054 of the Evergreen Council of Beta Sigma Phi, the show will be located in the Seattle Police Pavillion at 11030 East

Marginal Way S. and will run from noon to 9 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 3, and from noon to 6 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 4. The chapter has sponsored the show for the last 10 years, and over that period, has donated in excess of $23,000 from the proceeds to the Northwest Kidney Foundation to offset patient costs at the Kidney Center in Seattle. The event features collectibles from every point on the globe and includes dolls, Indian artifacts, books, lead glass, brass, jewelry and a variety of other items from antiquity. Co-chairmen are Carol Benton and Ruth Strong from Federal Way.

Bev Rogers, owner of the House of Dried Flowers, adds finishing touches to a dried arrangement typical of those she will demonstrate at the Federal Way Christian Women's Club luncheon on Nov. 8.

Dried flowers topic at womens luncheon

All area women are invited to attend the Federal Way Christian Women's Club pre-holiday luncheon to be held at 12:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 8, at the Royal Fork Buffet restaurant, 31845 Pacific Highway S. Bev Roberts of the House of Dried Flowers, who has been active in garden clubs throughout Alaska and who is a former chairman of Federal Way Garden Club, will give instructions on preparing fresh, dried and silk materials for centerpiece. She will show how to create arrangements for holiday entertaining and how to redesign a centerpiece or wreath for Thanksgiving or Christmas. Special music will be provided by Carolyn Nelson. Betty McIrvin of Twin Lakes will speak on a life-changing experience. Complimentary child care is provided by reservation. Call Pauline Long, 941-2616, or Pat Bloodworth, 839-7564, for reservations for lunch or child care. Tickets for the luncheon are $3.75, including tax and tip.

TINY PUMPKIN-EATER, Joshua Eldredge, 20 months, donned his bumblebee costume during a dress rehearsal for tonight's Halloween debut.

Bewitching treats for tricksters

In one large cauldron, combine dark clouds, howling winds, small bed-sheeted ghosts, black-crepe witches and tempting treats. Mix thoroughly with one witch's broomstick for a haunting recipe of Halloween fun.

Tonight small specters sporting disguises from vampire attire to Darth Vader clones will tour neighborhood homes seeking treats, not tricks.

Although commercialism has changed the look of the autumn holiday with mass produced, costumes, cards, candy and decorations, the ancient custom stems from the old Celts of the British Islands. They believed souls of the dead and evil creatures walked the earth the night of Oct. 31. Farmers would build huge bonfires to light the countryside and dance around the beacons in costumes to scare off the demons.

In later years, the Catholic and Anglican churches celebrated the day after with All Saint's Day. The night before became known as All Hallows Eve.

In the 20th century where science and science fiction replaced legend, youngsters still enjoy dressing up in costumes and go "trick or treating" with friends.

For mothers with a protective eye, neighborhood parties are substitutes for trick or treating. Here amid skeleton and spider web decorations, youngsters can compete in pumpkin carving contests, dunking for apples or presenting magic shows.

Before the witching hour strikes, serve the mischievous guests satisfying favorites such as hamburgers, hot dogs, pizzas or tacos. For desserts the traditional apple cider and doughnuts will make a big hit with the freaky crowd.

For additional Halloween treat ideas try these recipes that are sure to conjure up "thank-yous" at your party.

Microwave meals mean sizable savings

Take advantage of the versatility of your microwave oven and prepare complete meals easily and economically. Most menus are planned around the meat selection and many pork cuts cook to perfection in a microwave oven.

Pork gives you a chance to economize two ways. First, pork is in plentiful supply right now, making it a good red meat buy with plenty of variety to choose from. Pork offers nutritional values too—it's leaner, lower in calories and higher in protein than ever before, and is an excellent source of B vitamins and minerals. Secondly, cooking pork meals in a microwave oven saves energy and time.

Microwaving complete meals in nylon oven cooking bags offers a number of benefits too. Meat stays juicy, tender and flavorful inside the bag, and bastes itself as it cooks. The oven bag helps meat retain heat during standing time while you are preparing the rest of the meal. Vegetables cook well in oven bags too, maintaining their natural color, flavor and texture. And afterwards, there's an extra bonus - no oven spatter or messy cooking dishes to clean.

What a shame to limit the use of your microwave oven to defrosting frozen foods and reheating leftovers. Use it to its full capacity and you'll save energy while you serve up delicious dishes.

Try these two dinner ideas...a boneless pork loin roast, stuffed with layers of dried fruit and glazed with a spicy, apricot jam sauce, served with vegetable side dishes - Tangerine Sweet Potato Casserole and Cashew Topped Broccoli! Or another red letter dinner can feature pork shoulder blade steaks topped with a tangy horseradish-mustard spread, nestled on a bed of sauerkraut and chopped apples. Serve an always popular vegetable - acorn squash - sliced in rings and topped with cranberry sauce. Top off the meal with a microwaved carrot cake frosted with cream cheese icing to satisfy everyone's sweet tooth.

If you don't already own a microwave oven, perhaps the combination of cooking economy and convenience will bring you to consider buying one. But in the meantime, you'll want to enjoy these delicious menus, so conventional cooking times have been included in the recipes, too.

APRICOT PRUNE PORK ROAST

(Yield: 6 to 8 servings)

1 tablespoon flour
1 jar (10 ounces)

apricot jam
½ teaspoon savory
½ teaspoon whole thyme
4 to 5 pound boneless pork loin roast (double loin, rolled, tied)
½ cup dried apricots
½ cup dried prunes

Shake flour in large size (14 inch by 20 inch) oven cooking bag; place in 13-by-9-by-2-inch baking dish. Combine jam and spices; micro-cook on 100 watt power, two and one-half minutes or until mixture boils. Untie roast, remove top half. Layer with apricots and prunes. Replace top half. Secure with string. Place roast in bag; spoon apricot glaze over pork roast. Close bag with nylon tie, rubber band, string or one-half-inch strip cut from open end of bag; make six half-inch slits in top. Insert microwave meat thermometer into center of thickest part of roast. Micro-cook on 80 percent power 10 minutes. Reduce to 50 percent power; micro-cook 35 to 40 minutes or until thermometer reaches 160 degrees F., turning dish periodically. Remove; let stand 10 minutes or until thermometer reaches 170 degrees F.

Conventional Oven
Follow directions above except preheat oven to 325 degrees F. In small saucepan, heat jam mixture over medium heat until it boils. Use conventional meat thermometer. Close bag with tie provided. It is easy to make this fruit filled bread

If the high cost of bakery rolls and coffee cakes has led you to join the rapidly-rising numbers of yeast dough bakers, news that you can now buy bread flour in your food store should be welcome.

Commercial bakers have always been able to get the high protein flour with the strong gluten that is essential for the best yeast doughs, but few home bakers have had access to it. For many years, all purpose flour, which is best for quick bread and pastries, has been the only choice for most consumers.

People who have always used all purpose flour will have to make a few adjustments in baking techniques with bread flour. Kneading the dough for 10 minutes is necessary to develop the gluten, which will give the finished product its fine texture and high volume. This is true whether you are making a basic white bread or a richer sweet dough. Too little kneading will produce a coarse, low volume product.

This basic sweet dough recipe would be a good one to try first. You can use it for any of your favorite sweet rolls or for Easy Fruit-Filled Braid.

BASIC SWEET DOUGH RECIPE (Yield: 36 rolls)

- 6 to 7 cups bread flour
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 packages active dry yeast
- 1 cup water
- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 cup margarine or butter
- 1 egg

In large bowl, combine two cups flour, sugar, salt and yeast; blend well. In small saucepan, heat water, milk and margarine until very warm (120 degrees to 130 degrees). Add warm liquid and egg to flour mixture. Blend at low speed until moistened; beat three minutes at medium speed.

By hand, stir in three to four cups flour until dough pulls cleanly away from sides of bowl. On floured surface, knead in one to two cups flour until dough is smooth and elastic with blisters under the surface, about 10 minutes. Place dough in greased bowl; cover loosely with plastic wrap and cloth towel. Let rise in warm place until light and doubled in size, about one hour.

Punch down dough several times to remove all air bubbles. Allow dough to rest on counter, covered with inverted bowl, for 15 minutes. Shape dough according to variation desired. Most rolls bake in 20 to 25 minutes at 350 to 357 degrees.

EASY FRUIT-FILLED BRAID (Yield: 2 braids)

- 1/2 recipe Basic Sweet Dough
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 to 1/2 cup chopped nuts
- 3/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 tablespoon margarine or butter, softened
- One-third cup apricot or peach preserves

Glaze
1/2 cup powdered sugar
3 to 4 teaspoons milk
Grease two cookie sheets. In small bowl, combine sugar, nuts and cinnamon; set aside. After allowing dough to rest, prepare one-half as follows: Divide dough in half. On lightly floured surface, roll each half into a 12-by-6-inch rectangle; place on cookie sheet. Spread half margarine, half preserves and half cinnamon-sugar mixture lengthwise down center third of rectangle.

Cut one-inch wide strips along both sides of filling. Fold strips at an angle across filling, alternating from side to side. Repeat with second half. Cover; let rise in warm place until doubled in size, about 45 minutes. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes or until deep golden brown. Remove from baking sheet immediately; cool. In small bowl, blend Glaze ingredients until smooth; drizzle over braids.

A twist of magic

Just a little twist and like magic appears a sweet cinnamon bow to tempt all ages.

CINNAMON SUGAR BOWKNOTS
(Yield: 20 pastries)

¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 can (10-ounce) refrigerated flaky biscuits
¼ cup margarine or butter, melted
2 teaspoons honey

Combine first three ingredients. Separate biscuit dough into 10 biscuits; separate each biscuit into two layers. Press or pull each piece to a 3-inch oval; pinch in center and twist once, making a bowkno. Dip one side in margarine, then in sugar mixture; reserve remaining margarine. Place sugar side up 1-inch apart on ungreased cookie sheets.

Bake in preheated 400-degree oven for five to eight minutes or until golden brown. Blend honey with remaining margarine; brush over warm rolls. Remove from pan while warm.

Chocolate Surprise Doughnuts

October conjures up thoughts of Halloween and that means time for apple cider and donuts. Chocolate Surprise Doughnuts have a hidden semi-sweet chocolate treat inside a sparkling coat of granulated sugar topping. These little yeast doughnut balls will make a great family favorite.

CHOCOLATE SURPRISE DOUGHNUTS

4-½ cups all-purpose flour
2 packages dry yeast
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 cup milk
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
¼ cup oil
2 eggs
¼ cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces
Fat for deep frying
Sugar or cinnamon sugar

Stir together two cups flour, yeast and lemon rind. Heat milk, sugar, salt and oil over low heat until warm, stirring to blend.

Add liquid ingredients to flour-yeast mixture and beat until smooth. Blend in eggs. Add one cup flour and beat one minute on medium speed of electric mixer or 150 strokes by hand.

Stir in more flour to make a moderately stiff dough. Turn onto lightly floured surface and knead until smooth and satiny, about eight to 10 minutes.

Shape into ball and place in lightly greased bowl, turning to grease all sides. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about one and one-half hours. Punch down.

Let rest 10 minutes. Divide dough into 36 equal pieces. Flatten and place six chocolate pieces in center of each; seal edges securely.

Let rise, sealed side down, in warm place until doubled, about 30 minutes.

Deep fry doughnut balls in fat preheated to 375 degrees six to eight minutes, or until golden brown. Drain. Coat with sugar or cinnamon-sugar.

stand and watch it. And I don't need to tell anyone how happy a batch of fresh bread or rolls can make a husband or children. SOMETHING ELSE I feel evangelical about is trying to persuade people to cut down on coffee enough that we can bring the price down. Restraint on the part of the purchasing public brought down the price of sugar a few years ago, and we can do the same with coffee. I'm not recommending total abstinence. Heavens no, just a little restraint, such as serving a fruit punch or hot chocolate after an evening meeting when many people would prefer it to coffee anyway.

If I seem hipped on licking the high cost of eating, I am, and one thing that can help is expanding our tastes to include some foods that may not be as expensive as some of our old favorites. For example, Bakalar, which is traditionally made with dried Norwegian cod, which is difficult to find and costs at least $6 per pound if you can find it. I tried pollock, and we loved it.

POLLOCK, I'm sure, can be baked, friend or broiled, but here's how to make bakalar. If you like garlic, you may want to try it.

Bakalar
2 or 3 pollock
4 medium sized potatoes
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon black pepper
1 button garlic
1/4 cup olive oil
1/4 cup chopped parsley

Clean pollock and remove heads, fins and tails. Lay fish in a large saucepan or dutch oven with 2 or 3 tablespoons olive oil. Cover pan, and cook over very low heat 15 to 20 minutes. Turn fish over gently, and cook very slowly 15 to 20 minutes on second side. Meat should now separate from the bone in large flakes. Carefully lift out spines and as many other bones as you can. Peel, cook and dice potatoes. Peel and finely slice the garlic. Add both to fish along with salt, pepper, olive oil and parsley, adding more of any seasonings to taste. Stir lightly so as not to break up fish or potatoes. Let stand, covered, over very low heat at least a half hour to blend flavors.

by Ruth Jurich
I'm always pleased when I run across somebody who reads this column. The other day I met a nice lady in the grocery store, and she said, "I've always wanted to try your recipe for homemade bread, but I'm afraid to tackle it."

I tried to persuade her that there was nothing to it, that once you get started making yeast breads that it's a cinch, and you can move with ease from one recipe to another and that it's one of the most rewarding phases of cookery.

I'm always telling people that, and I sometimes wonder where this great fear of tackling yeast breads comes from. I think it's because many recipes are unnecessarily intricate, using methods that haven't been changed since the turn of the century, such as scalding and cooling milk, which dates back to the days of the family cow and the use of raw milk.

WE'RE OFTEN TOLD to dissolve the yeast separately in an small amount of water and to melt solid shortening. I bypass all this by using instant powdered milk, lukewarm tap water and vegetable oil poured right from the bottle. The yeast is added to the lukewarm water right in the mixing bowl; so the whole thing is done with one bowl, one mixing spoon and one set of measuring devices.

In discussing it here in the office, one of the girls said, "Yes, but it's so messy."

To which I replied, "That's because most recipes will tell you to transfer the dough to a floured board to knead it," something most of us can't do without getting flour all over the place. It's so much easier to knead the dough right in the bowl and neater too, and you can sit down comfortably while you do it.

Steady the bowl with your left hand and knead with your right. Reverse the order if you're left handed. Even when the dough is at a sticky stage, you only have one hand in it. The other is free to pick up the phone, turn a switch or open a door if necessary.

When you get the dough in a neat little ball you don't need to grease it, because you're going to cover the bowl with any metal lid that fits instead of using a damp cloth which might stick if the dough raises too high.

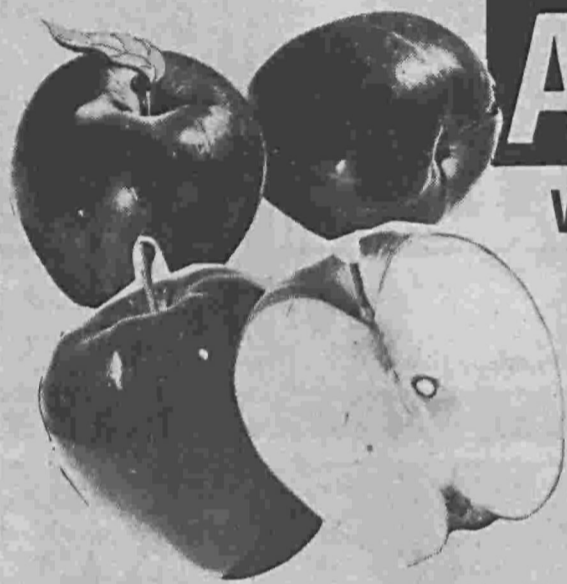

IF YOU'RE SERIOUS about making yeast breads and have read through a few recipes, all this will make sense to you. Practically any yeast bread recipe can be converted to use these shortcuts. If there's anybody out there in readership land who wants my basic bread recipe and doesn't have it, please say so, and we'll print it again. I hesitate to do so; because I've published it so many times I've been kidded about it.

Glazed pears perk up chops

Next time pork chops are planned for dinner, rely on fruit to make them truly special. Golden Pears and Pork Chops features tender meaty pork chops, succulent canned pears and sunny apricots glistening Prepared in a skillet, pork chops are fried to a rich golden brown, then simmered gently with dried apricots in pear syrup and white wine with an accent of cider vinegar and brown sugar. When the chops are nearly fork tender, the creamy white pears are added to heat through and glaze. A can of pears on the shelf offers plenty of inspiration to add a glamorous touch to main dishes. Their delicate sweet flavor makes them ideal for teaming with all types of meat, fish or poultry.

PEARS AND PORK CHOPS
(Yields: 6 servings)

1 can (29 ounces) pear halves
6 pork chops
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
½ cup white wine
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
2 tablespoons brown sugar
12 dried apricots
Drain pear halves,

reserving three-fourths cup syrup. Brown pork chops slowly on both sides in hot skillet, using a little fat trimmed from chops. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add pear syrup, wine, vinegar, brown sugar and apricots. Cover and simmer 45 minutes.

Arrange pear halves in skillet. Spoon glaze over pork chops and pear halves. Cover and simmer an additional 15 minutes or until chops are tender and pears are heated through, spooning glaze over pears and pork chops from time to time.

Celery saute adds a touch of the orient

If you are calorie conscious, but bored by a summer of salads, it is the time to acquaint yourself with the ancient art of stir-frying. For starters, try this Oriental Celery Saute. Quick and easy, it is guaranteed to elevate celery from its usual place in the vegetable bin as a salad-stretcher to a status spot as an exotic side dish on your dinner table.

Soy sauce and ginger are basics in this method, which aims to present foods as an artistic and harmonious blend of flavors. Quick cooking of fowl, fish and vegetables over a high heat seals in flavor, color and nutrients.

The use of corn oil margarine insures that the finished product will be low in saturated fat and cholesterol in keeping with today's health concerns. Celery, naturally low in calories, can stand alone or add crunch to many Oriental dishes.

If you are really feeling adventurous, try your hand at chopsticks. By eating more slowly and selectively, you will be surprised at how satisfying different textures and flavors can be. And slower eating aids in digestion, appetite and weight control. If you are watching your waistline, remember to balance calories with exercise. Make stir-frying a stop on the journey to good health and take your salad vegetables on a vacation.

Autumn is apple time

Apples, beets, broccoli, carrots, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, potatoes, pumpkins, winter squash, onions, turnips, rutabagas, and pears and prunes from Eastern Washington.

Washington state is the largest producer of apples in the U.S. Apples are purchased with some regularity by 93 percent of U.S. families.

Although apples are not noted for their high content of any one vitamin, they are rich in other healthful substances—pectin, fruit acids, dietary fiber and minerals. They are also helpful in removing food particles from teeth.

Choose firm, brightly colored fruit-free from skin breaks and decayed spots and relatively bruise free. Choose the size and variety according to desired use.

Apples are optimally stored at 32 degrees with moderate moisture. Keep small quantities in ventilated plastic bags in the refrigerator. Warm temperatures hasten the ripening process and cause rapid loss of crispness and tangy flavor. Root cellars provide good storage also. Apple sauce should be prepared as you like it, then packed hot into clean jars with one-half inch headspace, sealed, and processed for 10 minutes in a boiling bath canner.

Apple cider as opposed to apple juice is fresh crushed juice in season. Juice is pasturized and bottled for later consumption. Flavor depends greatly on the type and flavor of varieties used. To preserve, heat to 200 degrees (not quite boiling, but a good simmer) and pour into jars. Seal and process in a 190-degree water bath for 30 minutes.

Weekend wonders and snack ideas

This weekend, make breakfast a special treat prepared the fast and easy way. Country Breakfast is a hearty dish combining eggs, green pepper, onion and potato then topped with melted cheese. It's breakfast ... served with back-home flavor.

Turn a favorite sandwich idea into bite-size cookies with Peanut Butter 'N Jelly Cookies, a sure hit with the after school crowd. Best of all, a dozen cookies are in and out of the microwave in just three minutes.

C O U N T R Y B R E A K F A S T
 2 medium potatoes, in skins
 1/4 cup butter
 One-third cup chopped green pepper
 One-third cup chopped onion
 5 eggs
 1/4 cup milk
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 1/2 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese
 Pierce potatoes and bake nine minutes on Full Power or until cooked. Let stand five minutes. Peel and cut into cubes. In 9-inch glass pie plate, melt butter 30 seconds on Full Power. Add green pepper and onion and cook three to four minutes on Full Power. Add potatoes.

In medium bowl, combine eggs, milk, salt and pepper. Pour over potato mixture. Cook, uncovered, nine minutes on Simmer-Defrost, stirring every two minutes. Top with cheese. Cover and let set five minutes before serving.

PEANUT BUTTER 'N JELLY COOKIES
 (Yield: 3 dozen)
 1/4 cup butter
 1/4 cup creamy peanut butter
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
 2 eggs
 1-1/2 cups flour
 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
 1/2 teaspoon salt
Strawberry preserves
 In large bowl, cream butter and peanut butter together until smooth.

Add sugar and brown sugar and beat until fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add flour, baking soda and salt and beat until well combined. Shape dough into 36 balls. Arrange 12 balls on outside of wax paper covered glass plate. Space cookies two inches apart. Press each dough ball with a fork dipped in flour. Press again in center with measuring spoon or thumb.

Cook three minutes on Full Power or until no longer doughy. (If your microwave does not have a carousel, rotate one-half turn after one and one-half minutes.) Repeat cooking directions until batter is used. Fill center of cookie with one-half teaspoon strawberry preserves before cooling.

Note: A Simmer-Defrost setting is equivalent to 50 percent power.

Cooking times given are based on the use of a 650 watt oven. For use in ovens of different wattages, consult your cookbook.

New dehydrating appliances make fruit drying simple

Now that fresh apples are available the year around, why dry them? If you ask the International Apple Association they say "why not?" If you have a favorite variety and the season of availability is short, dry a supply for the months ahead.

New food dehydrating appliances have appeared on the market that make the job very easy. But directions for drying foods in a low temperature oven are also available from USDA and the Extension Service.

Preserving fresh fruit by removing moisture is perhaps the oldest method of food preservation. In arid climates it is achieved by exposing food to the sun. But in our country, where there are wide variables of temperature and humidity, the most practical method is either a low temperature oven or a food dehydrator.

The recommended temperature is 140 degrees F. For oven drying it is advisable to leave the oven door open, two to four inches to create circulation of air. Dehydrating appliances use a fan which also helps to reduce drying time. For drying, select mature, fully ripe apples. They may or may not be peeled, but wash thoroughly and remove blemishes. Core the apples and slice into rings or slices three-eighths thick. They should be dipped into a solution containing ascorbic acid. After draining, arrange the slices in a single layer on trays.

Drying time will depend on moisture content of the fruit and the size of the pieces. It varies from six to eight hours. The slices should be pliable or leathery, not brittle when dried.

Dried apples are easy to store, in plastic bags or airtight containers. They take much less space than frozen or canned apples. Another point that will interest many consumers, they require no sugar. They may be rehydrated in apple juice or cider to intensify the flavor.

An old-fashioned treat, called Apple Leather, offers a nutritious alternative to high calorie snack foods so readily available.

To make, pare, core and cut eight medium size apples in eight to 10 pieces and put half the amount in a blender or food processor. Add one-fourth cup honey, two tablespoons lime juice, a one-fourth teaspoon each of ground ginger and cinnamon. Add the remaining apples and blend again. This will make four to five cups of apple puree.

Line trays or jelly roll pans with waxed paper or plastic wrap, building up the sides to prevent spillage of the puree. Transfer the puree to the paper, tilting to spread evenly. (Don't use a spatula or knife as that might puncture the paper.)

When all spaces are covered, the puree is ready for drying. Set the oven control at the lowest setting (140 degrees F.). Place the trays in the oven and leave the oven door open slightly, about two to four inches.

Check the trays every two to three hours and reverse positions for uniform dehydration. When the leather has solidified, pick up the paper by the ends and flip it over onto the tray. Peel off the paper and continue drying until it feels leathery, but not brittle.

Properly dried fruit will be sticky to the touch, but it will peel away from the paper when adequately dried. For storing, roll it in the paper into loose rolls. It will keep up to 30 weeks at room temperature. For dehydrator drying, check the manufacturers use and care book for directions.

Food processor workshop to focus on use and selection

If you've considered buying a food processor, or if you already have one and aren't aware of all the ways it can help in the kitchen, a Food Processor Workshop sponsored by the Washington Home Economists in Business will provide answers to many questions concerning selection and use.

Christie Williams, local food processor expert and cookbook author, will be the featured speaker at the workshop to be held Nov. 14 from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Snoqualmie Room at the Seattle Center. In addition to Mrs. Williams, the program will include demonstrations by local distributors of 10 brands of food processors, highlighting the special features of each.

Mrs. Williams, a Federal Way homemaker, has taught many food processor classes in the area.

Among the techniques she will demonstrate are slicing, shredding, mincing, whipping, chopping, making bread dough, pastry and mayonnaise. She will also talk about machine selection, cookbooks that are available, common errors in using food processors, accessories, along with sharing some tips on recipes.

Registration fee for the workshop is $7.50 for pre-registrants and $10 at the door. To pre-register, send your name, address, phone number and check payable to Washington Home Economists in Business to Wheib Food Processor Workshop, Lela Bryan, 3830 Stone Way North, Seattle, Wash. 98103. Registration should be postmarked no later than Nov. 7.

For further information, contact Randi Freidig, 542-1200.
