

State funds launch two water parks

by Nathalie Weber

Two major parks planned for the Federal Way area received healthy funds from the state Thursday, but neither of the recreation areas is slated for immediate construction.

Proposed parks on Lake Geneva and Redondo waterfront were two of 35 state projects that received monies from the state. The Lake Geneva project, intended now as only land acquisition, was fully funded with $238,875.

The Redondo Marina project, which requested one of the largest sums from the state, was partially funded with $429,713.

According to Jim Webster, director for King County Parks, the county is ecstatic over the Lake Geneva funding. "All we need is the paperwork from the state and we can begin the proceedings to close the land acquisition," Webster said.

That land, a 12-acre site that formerly served as a resort on the shores of Lake Geneva, will not be developed until additional funding is secured. However, when it is developed, park plans call for picnic sites, a fishing dock and swimming facilities.

THE COUNTY is anticipating a few more problems with launching the Redondo project. Webster said that since the state allotted only about half of what the county requested, the project must now be reassessed.

"We've asked the county architects to get with the design and see what we can do with the money allotted," Webster said. "Until we get that input it's hard to analyze what's going to happen on the project."

The Redondo project called for demolition of the marina building currently standing at the Redondo water edge and installation of a boat launch and fishing pier. The cost of the project is estimated in excess of $1 million and the county was asking the state to provide 75 percent of those funds. It received about half of what it requested.

Webster said there is little hope that the remaining funds required could be found in the county. "There're none earmarked now," he said.

Despite the short funding, Webster said the county intends to go ahead with the project, most likely constructing whatever part of the park is feasible with current allocations.

THE FUNDS distributed Thursday, a combination of federal and state monies, totaled $5,620,000. Some 43 recreational projects throughout the state vied for the allocations, and only eight of those projects received no funding.

Among those that were not funded was a request for money to construct a swimming pool in Fife.

The money was distributed by the Interagency for Outdoor Recreation. Allocations were based on each project's access to local funding and the agency's determination of the worth of each project.

Gnawing away at crime:

Holmes, Watson add teeth to law

by Loren Bliss

His name is Watson. He weighs about 85 pounds, stands two feet tall, grins a lot and wears a King County Police badge.

Watson's boss is a guy named Holmes, who also wears a King County Police badge.

But Holmes stands a little better than six feet, weighs maybe 200 pounds, and doesn't smile quite as much.

Together they prowls the foggy moors and desolate buildings of unincorporated King County, intent on bringing nighttime evildoers to justice.

And most of the time — it's elementary, says Holmes — they get their man.

Holmes, whose first name is Doug, packs the usual assortment of police equipment: a revolver, spare ammunition, handcuffs, Mace, a portable radio, a flashlight, pens, pencils, a notebook and all the other odds and ends he ordinarily carries in his pockets.

WATSON DOESN'T bother with any of that stuff. Everything he needs is in his mouth: a glittering set of white ivories, courtesy of Mother Nature, that would chill the heart of the boldest bandit.

A 3-year-old German shepherd, one of six employed by the county police, Watson specializes in searching buildings for burglars and tracking them down when they attempt to flee.

He's also trained in sniffing out explosives, turning up stashes of dope and helping find lost kids, missing hikers and sundry bits of evidence less well-equipped humans might overlook.

What's more, Watson is a family man. When he's not on duty he's over at Holmes' place, looking after his human partner's wife and kids.

Away from the pressures of the job, he enjoys giving and receiving affection. He even groans with pleasure when you scratch his ears.

BUT WHEN Holmes says "find the bad guy," Watson is suddenly all business.

He stiffens, his entire being a portrait of acute alertness. Then he begins to move, circling, sniffing, checking doorways, peering under parked cars, at last satisfying himself that all is well.

And you can tell by the way he wags his tail, a furry plume held upright in the canine sign of aggression, that he loves his work.

Not too long ago, Watson solved what has come to be known as "The case of the missing drunk."

Two cars, both of them driven by men who had consumed several bottles too many, had collided at a South King County intersection.

One of the drivers, badly hurt, had wandered off in an alcoholic daze. But Watson found him passed out in a clump of bushes, and the man was taken to a local hospital before his injuries became even more complicated.

ANOTHER TIME a couple of burglars got caught in the act of trying to rip off a local head shop. The two hapless hoods hid inside — until the police let them know Watson was on his way in.

At that point, not wanting the law to put the bite on them, they surrendered.

Holmes figures that during the last year, Watson has tracked down as many as 26 suspects, searched two buildings, tagged three bad guys who tried to run, broken up two fights and encouraged at least two suspects to surrender without further resistance.

And there's no doubt Watson can be pretty persuasive. His bark sounds as if it comes out of the bowels of the earth, and his growl reminds you of a distant earthquake.

Like all good officers, Watson frowns on unnecessary force. Normally he'll grab a suspect and hang on just tight enough to discourage escape.

BUT IF THE bad guy puts up a fight, Watson is quite capable of meeting him half way.

He's also good at finding burglars' tools and other bits of significant evidence, a feat he's performed some six times this year.

And his testimony stands up in court.

Judges across the land, says Holmes, recognize that German shepherds have an uncanny sense of smell — so much so that a burglar is sometimes convicted merely because a police dog singled out the offender's tracks.

"Dogs have become an essential part of law enforcement here," he says, adding that one is on duty in the area every night.

"The dogs help us catch suspects right at the crime scene," he says. "And that's what good police work is all about."

Both dogs and handlers are intensively trained for about five months before they go out to work the streets.

"THE DOGS work on a love bond," says Holmes, explaining that praise and rewards, rather than punishment, are used in the training.

And the animals stay with their handlers night and day, on duty and off.

"My 2-year-old," says Holmes, "likes to kiss him on the nose."

When Watson reaches retirement age, he said, the dog will become a family pet.

But if Holmes retires first — he's been with the department for seven and one-half years — Watson will probably be retrained and assigned to work with another officer.

Holmes finds the idea of parting with Watson a bit saddening. "I've been with this dude 24 hours a day for a year and a half," he says, "and I've gotten pretty attached."

A LONG-BLADED CHAIN SAW over his shoulder, logger Dave Downey prepares for a day in the woods. He and six other loggers who work for the Austin Shepherd, Inc. are civilizing the woods for future development. For more, see p. A3.

Today's loggers chip off the old block

by Ann Hagen

A tough, rugged and able breed of men whose numbers are dwindling, loggers have found it necessary to adapt to stay in business.

"Years ago, you had to know how to cuss," said Austin Shepherd who learned how to log while bird-dogging his dad on a tree farm in Idaho 35 years ago. "Now, it doesn't do any good to talk to a machine."

Shepherd, who owns a Federal Way logging business, Austin Shepherd, Inc. has a six-man crew off clearing 330 acres of timber Weyerhaeuser property.

The land, located within the boundaries of 336th and 330th Street east and west and Sixth and 21st Street S.W. north and south will soon adjoin already developed properties with platted sites for schools, homes and businesses.

Using tried and true techniques, loggers now use long-blade chainsaws in place of two-man cross-cuts; depend on the maneuverability of a rubber-tired tractor in place of steel-crawling rigs and drive four-wheel drive vehicles to plow their way through mud-filled roads.

And yet, their appearance rings true of their pioneer forefathers. Often bearded, they are typically garbed in high-water blue jeans that bear no resemblance to disco-oriented Calvin Kleins; have on bright, striped suspenders over plaid flannel shirts and wear heavy spiked boots. The only change is their added protective hardhat.

Passed down through generations, skills often remain the same. The most dangerous job belongs to the faller who needs a sharp eye to avoid danger.

"You have to consider where the tree will fall and look for objects such as dead trees and limbs that can swing back and hit you," said Shepherd. Sometimes the woods are so dense, there's not much room to fall anything."

Once the tree is down, the faller analyzes the tree so that cuts will allow the "best grade of lumber for that particular tree."

"It's easier to find trees than it is to find people who know what they're doing," Shepherd said. "The old-timers don't want to be bothered. They used to throw away what we consider good logs today."

HOWEVER, SHEPHERD said accidents are few. There are scrapes and bruises, maybe an occasional stitch, but few serious injuries.

As recently as 30 years ago, hundreds of acres of property that required clearing could keep a crew employed for months on end.

Now, loggers need to go with the work. They're often juggling several projects at once to keep the flow of work continuous throughout the year.

For the past three or four years, Federal Way land development has kept local loggers close to their homes and their families.

"Before that, most of the work was in the high elevations in the Cascade range," said Shepherd who said most of the men "commute 100 miles each way if necessary. He said he expects the work to taper off within the next 45 days.

"Money is getting tight and there isn't much demand for the type of logs that are available," he said.

Loggers, many who work in the woods because of an appreciation for nature often find themselves destroying that which makes their job special.

"You can drive through here and spot grouse or coyotes early in the morning," said Shepherd scanning the latest clearing sight. "I always hate to see it change. But, there's not much you can do about progress."

Street Talk

Is the U.S. doing enough to obtain release of hostages in Iran? Phil Bews says no. "I think the U.S. needs to show a little bit of greatness at this time, to show that it won't stand for being pushed around." For more answers, see Street Talk on page A-2.

A collection of memories

This 1954 baseball card of Hank Aaron, during his rookie year, is one of 550,000 in Nick Snider's sports card collection. Snider's other memorabilia items include an autograph basketball of the World Champion Seattle SuperSonics and an autograph baseball of the 1931 Philadelphia Athletics. For more, see the sports section.

Street Talk:

Is the ULSL government doing enough to obtain release of hostages in Iran?

Hugh Wilson

There's only one other thing that they could do: tell them to turn the hostages loose and that if they don't we'll blast them into the ocean. I think that is what Carter is going to do. That's what I would do.

Martha Klevjer

As far as I know, I sure don't think this country should be blackmailed with oil. We have to conserve and develop our own.

Joan Gibson

I just hope it doesn't break into a war situation. I think it would be different from the Vietnam war where a lot of men were fighting who did not want to. I think they (the military) would want to and do it proudly.

John Scott

Being retired from the military U.S. Marine Corps, (intelligence branch), I would definitely say no. I believe that intelligence could obtain the release of these people held hostage with very little difficulty.

Chris Brandeburg

I don't think I know enough to answer that question intelligently. And I'm not sure that what I do know is true. But my gut feeling is that it is not.

Maxine Meadows

I think they're doing everything humanly possible. But I feel that only God can handle it now. The part I've loved is seeing the young people say that they really want to be Americans again.

Larry Willhite

I think we should engage in some saber rattling. We should at least talk about military action to protect U.S. citizens in a foreign embassy.

Robin Hoff

I'd say they're doing enough because there isn't much they can do right now. It's up to the Iranians.

KELLNER

You're driving along the interstate keeping an eye on traffic and listening to the radio and thinking about your job or your new lady friend or next month's hunting trip or the argument you just had with your wife, and suddenly you're being attacked by a roaring, bouncing semi-truck, a behemoth that threatens your bumper, fills your rearview mirror, charges you with adrenalin and scares your heart into 120 beats per minute.

The trucker was right behind me again, this time even closer.

You step on the gas, pulling away. But the truck closes again, and this time the driver is only a foot or so off your tail. So you switch lanes, and as the truck passes, often crowding as close as it can, you see the driver: he has the face of an overweight Gestapo officer, and by his sadistic grin you can see he's enjoying himself. Sometimes he'll even flip you the bird as he thunders into the distance.

So it didn't surprise me to read last month that even trucking industry spokesmen are admitting that a number of their drivers are hardly qualified to handle pushcarts, much less 18-wheelers that might carry gasoline, explosives or poison gas. Nor did I raise an eyebrow last July, when I learned that while trucks make up about 1 percent of the traffic on the interstate system, they are involved in 10 percent of the accidents.

These guys seem to especially like to pick on compacts, but you're not safe even in a full-sized car. All you need to do is drive on the interstate at something approaching legal speed. Sooner or later, you'll have one of these motoring maniacs trying to drive right up your exhaust pipe and laughing his head off as you try to get out of his way.

Part of the problem is undoubtedly defective equipment. But even if the equipment were the best in the world, it would still not protect the rest of us against the trucking terrorists, those mobile morons with defective brains.

MAKE NO mistake about it: there's a war going on, and it's being fought right on our own highways. One side are some of the cross-country truckers, while on the other are the rest of us, those who drive reasonably sized vehicles and now suffer because money that could have built rapid transit networks was instead used to build interstates and give the trucking industry the equivalent of a happy hunting ground.

I WANT to believe that the yo-yos who pull these stunts are only a small minority of the drivers on the road, which they probably are. But the old-time trucker, a true gentleman of the road, seems to be a vanishing species. I suspect the consequences. The trucker who rides your tail or mine couldn't possibly stop his rig in an emergency, but for him speed is money, and he'd probably rather have the highway to himself anyway.

I drive about 20,000 miles per year, so I am probably exposed to this sort of hazardous nonsense more than the average motorist. But the kind of incident I just described, unheard of a few years ago, is reported with alarming regularity over the police radio frequencies.

AND ACTUALLY he doesn't have too much to worry about. In most collisions between big rigs and little automobiles, the truck driver emerges without a scratch, while the police and the medics often end up using fire hoses just to get the poor late automobile driver's remains off the pavement.

IN EACH of these incidents, my only sin was to drive no more than five miles per hour over the speed limit. In one of them, I passed a state trooper and frantically blew my horn, hoping he would notice what was happening. The truck driver, of course, understood my strategy and backed off. But the trooper ignored us — he was writing a ticket — and

What makes it worse is that the troopers don't seem to be able to do much to solve the problem. They say they can't, arguing that the truckers use citizens' band radios to stay ahead of the law. And even if they didn't, the state patrol is woefully understaffed. But some other states, which have the same sorts of problems, have managed to develop ingenious enforcement methods to keep the truckers honest. One of these states even disguises some of the troopers as truckers.

Maybe the best thing for us to do is start making catalogues of these episodes, and then, when the Legislature goes into session next January, demand better enforcement. If we don't, we're going to have a lot more fatalities on the highways in the next few years.

by Darlene Himmelspach

Karen Marchioro may be an executive on borrowed time.

Marchioro is the King County Democratic Chairwoman who came with a big zero on her scorecard for the recent election. Every candidate and issue the fiery little blonde supported lost. Some, like Metro merger, lost very big.

There are "a lot of rumblyings" according to one local Demo who said the party faithful are concerned "about the future and what will happen next year with the Legislative races, Magnuson and the governor."

He is quick to add, however, that he doesn't "know if you can really blame Karen for what happened" in the Nov. 6 debacle.

Among the losers she is said to have hand-picked as candidates were County Council hopefuls Dick Kelley, Art Skolnick and Pat Thorpe and Seattle City Council contender Mark Stensager who was soundly trounced in a non-partisan race by Jack (Right On) Richards.

In the 2nd Council District, the Democratic pick might have been State Rep. Bill Burns but the session in Olympia lasted too long for him to get involved in a local election, one person surmised. Besides, Marchioro's good friend Kelley "had his heart set on that seat" since his near-miss four years ago.

The party executive committee, with Marchioro at the helm, also endorsed George Cooley for the post of Seattle City Treasurer. That was probably the biggest break Lloyd Hara got in the race except for the endorsements of such key Democrats as County Councilwoman Bernice Stern and State Rep. Helen Sommers and 54 percent of the voters.

Thorpe was defeated, after one year on the County Council, by Bruce Laing. A year ago, Marchioro reportedly "went through hell" with Mercer Islander Beth Bland who wanted the appointment to the Council for which Marchioro backed Thorpe.

Then there was the matter of Skolnick whose best qualification for the job may have been that he is tall and could, therefore, stand out in a crowd. He has no political background in the party, fumed one observer. Yet Marchioro decided he would be the party pick over at least two other people who were interested and do have a solid footing in the grassroots of the party.

One of those, Dave Wood, filed for the spot anyway and lost to Skolnick in the primary election. Wood claims there is "great dissatisfaction" with Marchioro among party loyalists. He said the chairwoman is "totally incapable of acting fair" but said her role calls for someone who "should be scrupulously fair."

Wood said Marchioro's behavior was "inexcusable for a county chairman" because she tried to manipulate the party structure to get the candidates she favored onto the ballot. Keeping her on as the chairwoman is "an invitation to absolute disaster" for the party in next year's elections, Woods feels. "She will be used against us to defeat Democratic legislators," Wood predicted.

Although the mutterings about "dumping" Marchioro continue, even Wood admits it would be hard to find someone to take the job. "Nobody in his right mind would want it." The catch is that although there is a salary for the post, the chairman actually has to raise money for his salary. The Party now owes Marchioro more than $13,000, Wood said, and that is "a real deterrent" to ousting her. "She'd sue the Party for back salary. That undoubtedly would be her first step."

Marchioro's reign is not up until the end of next year and party insiders say she isn't a quitter so she won't just walk away from the shambles the election wrought on the party. But the rumblyings continue and the names that crop up as Marchioro replacements are not unfamiliar, former State Senator Martin Durkan among them.

One thing is sure: the party was severely weakened by the whipping it took at the polls and what lies ahead in the form of a Carter-Kennedy massacre won't help the local group. The strongest possible leadership will be required if the Democrats are to salvage anything out of 1980 and Marchioro may not be the one to provide such leadership.

One aide to the vacationing chairwoman complained "you seem to have a concept of a Daley machine that picks candidates and runs them through. That is not the way things happen in King County Washington."

She was right about that. If Daley had operated the way the local Democratic Party seems to, it wouldn't have taken an act of God to rid Cook County of his iron-fisted control of the party.

'Civilizing' the wilderness

EACH TREE IS analyzed prior to cutting so that the best grade of lumber can be exacted.

THE ROAR OF THE saw is ignored as Dave Downey concentrates on falling a tree.

LOGGER, Larry Gay stops momentarily to tighten a load of logs after it settles.

They're logging in Federal Way

Deep in the heart of 330 acres of densely forested Weyerhaeuser property, the growl of the chain saw echoes through the fog.

Gradually working their way deeper into the woods, a small group of loggers discriminately remove hemlock, fir, cedar and alder to make way for homes, schools, businesses and streets.

The six-member crew, employed by Austin Shepherd, owner of a Federal Way logging company, do their part to civilize the property that lies between 333rd and 330th Street east and west and Sixth and 21st Street north and south.

Gradually, stacks of sorted logs pile up along a winding, mud-clogged road for later removal. The bulk of the logs will be sold to St. Regis or Weyerhaeuser. What's left will be sold as firewood.

Unlike days gone by, Shepherd said they "salvage everything but the sound of the tree when it crashes."

PILED HIGH WITH logs, the heavily laden truck winds slowly out of the woods to deliver its load to a sawmill.

Stamping out traffic hazards

THOSE FREQUENTING the Federal Way Post Office throughout the past two years may feel they are running around in circles, but as of next week that situation will change. "I can't figure out why they put the entrance in that way," manager Bob Greeley said, referring to the post office's entrance and exit that are positioned against traffic, causing undue confusion in the flow of cars. This week the curbs are being removed and the stripes repositioned so that cars can enter to the north of the post office from southbound Pacific Highway South. Greeley said it's relief, but sends out a warning. "We need customers to be aware of the change until motorists become used to the new pattern," he said.

Highline proposes two new boundaries

New school boundaries in the Glacier and Tyee high school service areas have been proposed by the Highline School District.

Glacier High School will close at the conclusion of this school year and its students will be divided between Evergreen and Highline, with an option to attend Tyee. The district is proposing to establish the attendance boundary between Evergreen and Highline at South 124th Street.

The long, narrow

Tyee service area has a sliver that extends south of South 224th Street adjacent to the Mt. Rainier service area. The district is proposing to transfer that sliver to the Mt. Rainier service area because Mt. Rainier High School and Pacific Junior High are closer than Tyee High School and Chinook Junior High.

Secondary students from that sliver currently attending school in the Tyee service area will be allowed to remain there.

The school board is expected to make a decision on the proposals sometime in December.

Dicks leading fight to slash Iranian subsidies

Congressman Norm Dicks, D-6th District, has joined Congressman Robert Bauman of Maryland, in leading a fight on the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives to cut off aid to Iran.

The provision, introduced by the two, specifies that no further funds shall be used for military or economic aid for Iran.

"The first area to be cut will be assistance for a $20 million United Nations program for economic development in Iran," Dicks said.

"This measure is important so that members of the House can demonstrate our conviction that events in Iran are totally unacceptable and that they can no longer count on the United States for future assistance," Dicks added.

Members of the House of Representatives passed the measure by a vote of 379 to 0 with 55 not voting.

First Highline students sent exclusion letters

The Seattle-King County Health Department last week received exclusion lists from nine Highline District Elementary schools and sent 138 exclusion letters to parents of students still not in compliance with the state's new proof of immunization law, according to Joan Boas, program coordinator for the health department.

Boas said Friday she is waiting for lists from Highline's other 15 elementary schools.

The new law requires elementary school students to submit proof of immunization against childhood diseases or a waiver form stating their objections for medical, religious or philosophic reasons.

The health department's exclusion letters warn parents of students not in compliance that their children will be banned from school six days after the postmark of the letter if they remain out of compliance.

Included in the registered exclusion letter packet is an explanation of the immunization program, information regarding free immunization clinics, a proof of immunization form for those without one and a digest of due process procedures.

The first Highline school to submit its exclusion list to the health department was Seahurst and 22 exclusion letters were sent to parents of youngsters at that school. The exclusion date there will be Nov. 26.

Information on the exclusion dates for other schools was not readily available.

Besides sending letters to parents, the health department sends exclusion lists to each school's principal, who is responsible for enforcement.

Boas said most students for whom exclusion letters are sent are already in compliance by the time the letters arrive or become so shortly after.

Countywide, only about one percent of the students on the exclusion lists are actually being banned, she said.

The exclusion date for 73 non-complying students in the South Central School District passed last week with only three students out of compliance, according to a district official.

He added that those three students said they would be in compliance by this week.

In Highline, the original Oct. 19 deadline for compliance passed with approximately 3,000 students out of compliance and an extended Nov. 5 deadline went by with 1,100 out of compliance.

However, since that time, the number has been dwindling dramatically, although the exact count was not available.

Next year, school districts will be required to obtain proof of immunization for secondary students.

Students collect food for needy

Canned goods are being gathered up by Illahee Junior High School students for the King County Food Bank.

Randy Kaczor, a coordinator in the effort, said that the goal was 2,000 cans. The King County Food Bank is a non-profit, charitable organization that distributes most of its food to elderly persons on fixed incomes, Kaczor said.

Those who wish to contribute may call him or Dick Lombard at 838-2939.

Big check brings big land

STATE OFFICIALS and representatives of the Dash Point Cooperative Water Association met at Dash Point State Park last week to observe the exchange of 122 acres of Water Association property to the State Parks and Recreation Commission for $610,000. The new area, which will be used primarily for passive recreation activities, will bring the total acreage at the park to 395. According to state officials, the land addition is intended to help meet the increased demand for park facilities in South King and North Pierce counties. Pictured with the ceremonial check are (left of right) Bob Beale and Jim Gerard, Dash Point Cooperative Water Association representatives, Sen. Lorraine Wojahn, D-27th District, Eustace Vynne, Jr., chairman of Washington State Parks and Recreation Commission, and Sen. Peter von Reichbauer, D-30th District, chairman of the Senate Parks and Recreation Committee.

United Way sets funding deadline

Non-profit social service agencies interested in receiving funding in 1981 through United Way of Pierce County have until Dec. 20 to apply, according to James Walton, chairman of United Way's volunteer planning and allocations committee.

Agency application packets are available through the United Way office to tax exempt age in existence for two years, meet commonly accepted standards for non-profit human care agencies and can provide a financial audit for the previous year, he said.

Walton said new agencies requesting admission to the United Way family will be required to appear before a panel composed of community volunteers to explain the need for their programs and how their services will benefit the community. An announcement on those agencies which will be accepted is expected to be made in May 1980 after panel reviews are made.

The United Way will provide funding for 86 programs, administered by 42 agencies, in 1980.

Salad supper to end fast

A salad supper will be held tomorrow, Monday, Nov. 19 at 6:30 p.m. at Steel Lake Presbyterian Church, 1829 S. 308th as a climax to Hunger Awareness Week which will end Nov. 21.

United Hunger Concern of Federal Way, a group of area churches, is sponsoring the supper which, for many people, will mark the end of a day of fasting.

"Nov. 19 is the day when people nationwide will be observing a day of fast to concentrate their thoughts and prayers on others for whom involuntary fasting has become a way of life - and death," said Nancy Streiffert, chairman.

Anyone may attend the salad supper whether they have fasted or not, and each one should bring a salad to share with others. Bread and beverage will be provided.

There will be a short program describing the Washington Wheat Campaign, a program in which farmers donate wheat and grains, and donations from church people and others take care of milling, sacking and shipping to countries in need where it is used in a food for work program.

The 'Wheat' Campaign is administered by CROP, an arm of Church World Services and is sponsored by the Washington Association of Churches.

It is suggested that money saved by fasting may be donated to the 'Wheat' Campaign.

FW crime report:

Who would steal 17 used tires?

Seventeen tires of assorted sizes were stolen from Pyramid Tire Company on 16th Avenue South sometime Sunday night or early Monday morning, and Edward Pace, the owner, says it's one of the most senseless thefts he's ever encountered.

The tires, all used, were taken from a display rack and from two automobiles that were parked in the store's lot awaiting service.

"If somebody took four tires of the same size," said Pace, "you could understand it."

The only tires of matched sizes, he said, were the pairs taken from the two cars.

Pace estimated his loss at about $600. He said the theft must have taken at least two hours, as the rack was cut open with a hacksaw.

"Probably the thieves took advantage of the fog," he said, adding that he would have some angry words for a locally-based private security patrol he had hired to watch his premises. SEVERAL OTHER thefts and burglaries were reported between Sunday and Wednesday, and King County Police arrested two local youths in connection with one of the incidents.

Detectives said the two were collared after a motorcycle was stolen from the display window of a local dealership. The window was smashed by someone who hurled an automobile jack through the glass and then, police say, loaded the motorcycle into a pickup truck.

Officers later caught a youth in a truck with a motorcycle in the back and arrested his suspected accomplice in an automobile after a brief chase.

Jewelry, a color television set, a .30-06 caliber rifle of unknown make and several other items worth a total of $5,000 were stolen from a 54th Avenue South residence early Monday morning, police said.

Detectives said burglars apparently entered the house by forcing open a rear door.

The other burglary in which the loss was $500 or more occurred sometime Monday during daylight hours, police said, at a 21st Avenue Southwest residence. Stolen was a television set, stereo equipment and other household items worth a total of $900.

Sutherland support strong

According to unofficial results announced by the King County division of records and elections, Loyd Sutherland, incumbent who ran unopposed for the Water District 124 Board of Commissioners, received 6,270 votes in the general election.

Some absentee ballots still are out in this race, records and elections officials said.

The WD 124 was omitted from the results published in the NEWS Wednesday.

Special service planned

A special Thanksgiving Worship service will be held at the Southminster Presbyterian Church at 10 a.m. The community is invited to this informal, family-oriented celebration. Boy saves car from fire

A chemistry experiment that went awry touched off a blaze in the garage of a 38th Avenue South residence Monday afternoon, but neighborhood teenagers pitched in to help fight the fire and saved an automobile that had been parked in one of the stalls.

The garage, immediately adjacent to the home of James and Linda Horton, 32805 38th Ave. S., was gutted.

Mrs. Horton said the fire broke out at about 3 p.m. when a beaker of chemicals was accidentally spilled in the garage. Her son and one of his friends, she said, had been using a workshop area as a laboratory.

As smoke began boiling from the building, Mike Frohlich, 15, a neighbor's son, climbed into Mrs. Horton's car and backed it from the structure.

Meanwhile Brian Horton, 13, and two other neighbor boys, Buddy Kelly, 14, and Rick Frohlich, also 14, grabbed a garden hose and began spraying water on the blaze while Mrs. Horton called the Federal Way Fire Department.

The chemicals used in the experiment were reportedly marked "non-inflammable."

Des Moines crime

Would-be sailors caught in attempted theft of boats

Two 13-year-old boys were arrested Wednesday after they attempted to steal two boats from the Des Moines Marina.

The youths boarded a 24' inboard boat, who apprehended one of the boys. The second subject was later identified when officers arrived. One subject was taken to the Youth Service Center and the second was released to his parents.

A car dealership on Pacific Highway South near South 224th Street was hit twice by burglars within a four-day period, most recently Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning.

In the first burglary, occurring last Sunday, unknown suspect(s) entered either by the front door window, the back bathroom window or the back office window. All three were broken. A pocket calculator was also stolen, bringing the total loss to $150. The suspects also tore up miscellaneous contract papers.

Entry in the second burglary was made through the back bathroom window, broken for a second time. A desk calculator, tool box and tools, coffee maker and coffee were taken for a total loss of $443. The burglar also kicked in the door of an inner office and broke out the wing window of a van.

A 16-year old girl and 18-year-old youth were arrested Sunday for investigation of violation of the uniform controlled substances act (narcotics) after they were apprehended picking mushrooms in the area of South 224th Street and 19th Avenue South, adjacent to Mt. Rainier High School. The mushrooms were submitted to the lab to determine if they contained the substance "psilocybin".

A 20-year-old man was arrested for simple assault and malicious mischief on Monday after he demanded entry into an apartment at 30th Avenue South and South 220th Street. The suspect told the victim he would kick in the door if she did not let him in. When she opened the door, he grabbed her by the hair and dragged her to the ground, striking her about her face and body.

Police arrested a 35-year-old man for malicious mischief last Friday, Nov. 9, after he threw a rock through a bus windshield, causing $80 damage. The man had apparently lost his temper in a dispute over money which was owed to him.

The same day, unknown suspect(s) threw rocks through the front windows of a furniture store on Pacific Highway South and South 230th causing $450 damage.

A 14-year-old boy was assaulted by a woman last Saturday as he stood in a parking lot at 7th Avenue South and South 227th Street. The boy and his brother were approached by the woman who began asking him where he lived and who his parents were. When he didn't respond, she grabbed him and hit him several times in the back.

Last Tuesday, Des Moines Police were assisted by the King County Police bomb disposal unit after a militia fragmentation hand grenade was found in a garbage receptacle at the Des Moines Marina. The grenade was determined to be a training device.

The victim of a burglary at South 220th Street and 6th Avenue South apparently almost met the burglar last Tuesday. The victim returned home to find his sliding glass door shattered, but noticed nothing missing.

When he returned from apartment calling the police at a neighboring apartment, he discovered his tv was gone and observed a car driving away. The tv was valued at $235.

The front window of a business in the 22300 block of Marine View Drive South was broken out in a burglary occurring Monday. The suspects removed 15 bongs for a total loss of $240.

Jewelry, money and liquor, valued at $189, was taken in the burglary of a home at 26th Avenue South and South 220th Street last Saturday. Entry was gained by kicking in a door.

The same day, $500 in camping equipment was removed from a storage shed in an apartment complex at South 216th Street and 7th Avenue South.

Last Thursday, Nov. 8, police received reports of $150 in damage to a backhoe tractor parked in a construction site in the 2300 block of South 216th Street and a residential burglary of a home in the 22800 block of 12th Avenue South in which a gun, ammunition and money totaling $262 was taken.

Correction:

Headline wrong

A headline in the Nov. 14 issue of the Federal Way/Des Moines News falsely stated that a Des Moines City Council member had been cited by the city prosecutor.

The headline should have inferred that a council candidate's name had been referred to the prosecutor for failure to file a financial report with the Washington State Public Disclosure Commission.

We regret the error and apologize to the candidate, Bruce Hall.

Two little girls lose sailboats to vandals

by Loren Bliss

Jill Stone, 9, and her sister Amy, 7, used to have a 14-foot orange sailboat.

It was a present from their father, and the girls were using it, with their parents' supervision, to learn how to sail.

But the little boat is no more. Thanks to the hooligans who vandalized the girls' grandparents' residence on 20th Place Southwest last Friday night, all that's left is the tiller and a sail.

And Christopher Stone, a U. S. Coastguardsman who is the girls' father, is quietly furious.

"I couldn't believe it at first," he said. "These people — apparently they were teenagers — dragged the boat into the water and just cast it adrift."

Stone, who lives with his family on South 296th Street, said the incident defies understanding.

WITNESSES, HE said, report that a rowdy party was underway in the area the night the boat disappeared.

Apparently a number of kids were having a "kegger" on a deserted stretch of Puget Sound beach nearby.

But the vandals didn't just launch the sailboat, Stone said. The heaved it into the water still attached to its trailer, and the trailer is missing, too.

They also broke into an all cabin on the property, smashing two windows, taking a lawn dart set and a pair of life jackets.

Stone said the vandals apparently unscrewed a number of security lights before they hit the place.

And not satisfied with breaking windows and possibly sinking the boat, they destroyed a picnic table and used it to build a fire on the beach — after which they tossed the life jackets onto the coals.

"SOMETHING HAS to be done about about this sort of thing," he said.

"I'd even be willing to teach neighborhood kids how to sail," Stone said, "if it would keep them from this senseless vandalism."

King County Police have thus far failed to turn up any leads in the case.

But Stone isn't giving up hope. He's put an advertisement in the classified section of the NEWS, offering a $100 reward to whomever finds the boat and returns it...if it's not already on the bottom of the sound.

"My daughters are really upset about it," he said.

They'd had the boat for only seven months.

"You know," said Stone, "it's so bad down here that the county can't even keep signs up along the beach.

"The county comes down here and posts signs that say no parking after sunset and the kids just tear them down and use them for bonfires at their drinking parties."

Kyak capsizes:

Ranger saves 2 from chilly sound

by Loren Bliss

A Saltwater State Park ranger borrowed a rowboat Thursday evening and rescued two men whose kayak had capsized, saving them from what Park Manager Donald Malley said was almost certain death.

Malley said the two, Robert Bean, 21, of Orting, and Michael Tillett, 20, of Tacoma, were pulled from the water by Bob Fisher, 26, the park ranger.

The rescued men had been in

the water for more than an hour, Malley said, and appeared to be suffering from hypothermia.

Highline Fire Department medics treated them for exposure and took them to Harborview Hospital in Seattle, he said.

Malley said he understood the two had been attempting to start an outboard motor on the kayak when it capsized several hundred yards off the park's beach.

"THE WEIGHT of the motor started pulling the boat underwater," he said, "but they managed to drop the motor and hang on to the hull."

Malley said that some people in the park heard the two men yelling for help at about 4:30 p.m., and immediately contacted the rangers.

"We called the (U. S.) Coast Guard," he said, "but they said the soonest they could get here would be in half an hour."

But no coast guard boat showed up, he added, so Fisher borrowed a boat from a nearby resident and began rowing toward the men.

By this time the tide had swept them nearly a mile out into Puget Sound, and the daylight was fast turning to night.

"I got another boat and followed Fisher out," said Malley, "and on the way I met Fisher with the two men."

"ONE OF the men couldn't even walk because he'd been in the water too long," he said.

Malley said he had no idea why the coast guard hadn't appeared to aid in the rescue.

"You'll have to ask them," he said.

But if Fisher hadn't reached the men when he did, Malley said, they might have been rammed by a tug-pulled barge.

"They had drifted into the shipping lanes, and the only way Fisher found them — it was pitch dark — was by following their cries for help," he said.

"About half an hour after we got them a barge hit their kayak and sank it," said Malley.

I-5 wreck fatal to FW man

A 35-year-old Federal Way man was killed early Friday morning in a two-car collision on Interstate 5, a spokesperson for the Washington State Patrol reported.

Troopers identified the victim as Michael W. Morris, of 2007 S.W. 318th Pl. They said he was killed instantly.

Morris, troopers said, was southbound on the the interstate near the South 288th Street overpass when the sports car he was driving collided with a vehicle driven by Richard G. Miller, 21, of 32524 35th Ave. S.W.

Miller was not injured in the 1:28 a.m. accident, troopers said.

They said that Morris's auto went off the roadway and overturned twice, throwing the victim clear.

Neither driver, troopers reported, was wearing seat belts.

No HCC anti-Iran movement

Highline Community College students are reacting calmly to the Iranian takeover of the U. S. embassy in Tehran, a campus security spokesman said Thursday.

The spokesman said that thusfar the students had refrained from demonstrating or otherwise expressing their reactions to the crisis, which began Nov. 4 when Iranian militants seized the embassy and took 62 U. S. citizens as hostages.

He also said that there had been no incidents involving the four Iranians who are attending classes at the college.

"Everything is quiet," he said, "and we hope it stays that way."

Election rerun:

FW council pleads for better turnout

Federal Way Community Council officials have issued an urgent plea for residents to vote in Tuesday's rerun of nine council elections.

The balloting will take place in elementary school service areas where last week's voter turnout was too small to validate the results.

A minimum of 25 votes must be cast at each polling place for the elections to be validated.

Polls will be open from 6 p.m. until 8 p.m. at Star Lake, Brigadon, Lake Dolloff, Nautilus, Ol-pic View, Twin Lakes, Panther Lake, Woodmont and Valhalla schools.

Community council members are elected from the service areas, with each entitled to two seats. Last week's elections in five other service areas were validated.

Council officials said Friday they're hoping for a much better turnout than last week's. Eighteen council seats are being sought by 20 candidates in the races.

Federal Way Christian building progresses

Excitement is mounting at the Federal Way Christian Church as members and friends anticipate the first services to be held in the new sanctuary. These services are scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 23. A special Christmas cantata will be presented by the choir. The sanctuary will be decorated for the occasion.

The new facility is adjacent to the present sanctuary and education unit at 941 S. Dash Point Road, next to the Sacajawea Junior High School. The new sanctuary has an area of more than 10,000 square feet and will seat more than 600. New offices and nursery facilities are provided. The building has been designed so that a balcony can be added in the future to provide an additional 350 seats.

The color tones in the new building will be warm and friendly. The pews will be burnt orange, the carpet burnt orange, gold and tan. The seating arrangement has been designed so that the back rows will not be farther than 50 feet from the pulpit.

Financing of the new building has been done through a church bond program of $365,000. This program started on Feb. 11 with a "kick off" meeting for the sale of the bonds. There are now only $32,000 to be sold. Many of them are paying close to 10 percent and they come in three denominations starting at $250.

The present building housing the sanctuary will be used as an educational unit.

The congregation is fairly young. The first services were started in 1972 at the Mirror Lake Elementary school with a total of only six families. In 1974 the church purchased the present sanctuary and in March of 1976 started an enlargement to provide an educational unit under the leadership of building chairman Elmer Lipp. This program resulted in doubling the square footage of the original building.

Christian Scientists to make Thanksgiving

A verse from First Thesalonians - "In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you" - is the opening text of special Thanksgiving services at First Church of Christ Scientist, 610 Eighth Ave. N.E., Auburn, and Christian Science Society of Des Moines, 22038 Ninth S.

The hour-long annual services will be held Nov. 22 beginning at 10 a.m. in Auburn and 11 a.m. in Des Moines.

Scriptural passages chosen for the occasion point to God's abundant goodness and healing power. Related passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will also be read, including: "The rich in spirit help the poor in one grand brotherhood, all having the same Principle, or Father; and blessed is that man who seeth his brother's need and supplieth it, seeking his own in another's good." Hymns of thanksgiving, reading of the President's Thanksgiving Proclamation, time for

Esther Eastwood to sing here

Esther Eastwood will share her new Christian experience in music and testimony at Federal Way Church of the Nazarene, 1525 S.W. Dash Point Road on Sunday, Nov. 25, at 10:50 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Ms. Eastwood is on tour singing and speaking to church groups and ladies clubs on the West Coast and into the Midwest.

She no longer dwells upon the occult or Eastern religions which she once practiced. She has returned to the faith of her early training. She shares the struggles of her single life and how she discovered power in total surrender.

quiet prayer, and expressions of gratitude by members of the congregation will be included in the meetings as well.

Esther Eastwood

"She is spontaneous and honest. Her mannerisms and humor are always fresh and exciting," said Pastor Robert Ulrich.

Five Marcus Whitman youth are honored

Pastor Al Horn of Marcus Whitman Presbyterian Church has announced that five of their young members have been inducted into The Society of Distinguished American High School Students.

Students who were inducted are: Pam Mayer, Robert Parker, Terri Sarff, Joyce Stockman and Lynne Tait.

The society, which is one of the nation's foremost high school honoraries, inducted the students because of their demonstrated excellence in scholastic leadership and civic achievement according to Pastor Horn.

Awards Program is sponsored by 60 colleges from across the country. Thousands of dollars in scholarship funds from these institutions are made available to society members each year. Sponsor Pastor Al Horn received a National Appreciation Award from the society on behalf of the students and stated, "I am extremely proud of these exceptional students and the honor they have received. It is a reward and should also be accepted as a challenge to them to continue their course of excellence."

One of the society's guiding principles is to promote both academic and civic achievement on the high school level by recognizing students in its Membership Registry, "The Society of Distinguished American High School Students," which is published annually and distributed nationwide.

Calvary to worship Thanksgiving Eve

Calvary Lutheran Church, 2415 S. 320th St., celebrates Thanksgiving on Thanksgiving Eve, Nov. 21 at 7:30 p.m. with a Thanksgiving Commitment Worship Service.

This service culminates an extensive visitation to the members of the congregation to present the program for 1980, to present the potential of the congregation, and to have members pledge a commitment. The special offering for Thanksgiving will go toward Hunger: one-half to Local Emergency Feeding Boxes; one-fourth to Wheat (transportation for Washington wheat to the hungry of the world) and one-fourth to LCA (Love Compels Action) World Hunger Appeal. Pastor Norman Nelson's message for the service is "Give Thanks - Live Thanks." Three choirs will present special music. Anthem by the Adult Choir, under the direction of Jolene Hanson, is "For the Beauty of the Earth" by K. Kocher; the Junior Choir, directed by Glenda Sharples, sings "May the Road Rise to Meet You" by Austin Lovelace; the Cherub Choir, Verne Wright, director, sings "Listen, You Nations of the World" by Arthur Carlson; combined Junior and Cherub Choirs sing, "Come and Go With Me," a Christian folksong.

Child Evangelism plans workshop

Putting Christ back into Christmas is the battlecry of Child Evangelism Fellowship, according to Olivia Van-Wagoner, director. "There is much concern over Christ being taken out of Christmas in the public schools," she said. "Let every Christian be aware of his responsibility to get the gospel to the children in his neighborhood, and you can help meet the desperate spiritual need of children by having a Christmas party." Child Evangelism Fellowship will be conducting a workshop on "How to Have a Party." Ideas for invitations, games, story and treats will be presented at the workshop. These ideas will also work in a Sunday school class. The workshop will be Tuesday, Dec. 4, at Highlands Community Church, Renton, 3031 N.E. 10th St., from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Potluck salad luncheon will be served and nursery provided.

Marine View plans Thanksgiving event

This Sunday, Nov. 18, Marine View Presbyterian Church will interrupt its regular series of Sunday School classes to present a special Thanksgiving event for the entire family. It is scheduled for 9:40 a.m., between the two worship services. The sermon this Sunday is titled "Confessing Our Thanks," with the text: Deuteronomy 26: 1-11. The services are at 8:30 and 11 a.m., with nursery care available. Sunday evening at 6 p.m., the Christian Singles group has scheduled a dinner and special speaker, the Rev. Dan Nolte. It will be held at the church, at 8469 East Side Drive N.E., Tacoma. On Dec. 2 at 7 p.m., the Steel Lake Bell Ringers will perform in a Christmas musical program, sponsored by Marine View's United Presbyterian Women. The entire community is welcome to attend. Refreshments will be served in the Fireside Room following the program.

St. Luke's to worship on Thanksgiving Day

St. Luke's Lutheran Church, 515 S. 312th St., will hold a Thanksgiving Day Festival Service at 10 a.m. Special music will be offered in praise and thanksgiving to God. Mrs. Muriel Biermann will direct the adult choir in singing Haydn's "The Heavens are Telling," and Mrs. Sheila Thompson will lead the handbell choir in several anthems. The junior choir, under the direction of Hub Firnhaber, will sing, "I Will Sing Unto the Lord," and "Love Has Gathered Us Together." Pastor John Biermann will present a message reflecting people's response to a bounteous God. A harvest display, visual representation of the many blessings given by God, will be arranged by Mrs. Dorothy Murray, chairman of the Altar Guild. The offering of the day will be given to Lutheran World Relief.

Aglow to meet Tuesday

The Federal Way Aglow will meet Tuesday, Nov. 20, 9:30 a.m. at the Steel Lake Grange. Sharon Naze, president, and Verna Freshly, treasurer, will report on the International Aglow Convention they recently attended in Houston, Tex. Kathryn See will tell how the local fellowship began. All ladies are invited to attend. A salad potluck will follow. Babysitting is provided for toddlers walking through age 5. The Grange is located one block east of 298th and Military Road.

New Life Singers to perform

The New Life Singers will present a program at the Lutheran Church of the Resurrection, 134 S. 206th, this evening, Sunday, Nov. 18 at 7 p.m. There will be a freewill offering, and all proceeds will go to Lutheran World Relief to feed hungry and starving people. The special program and traditional Thanksgiving turkey dinner will be held for Plymouth Congregational Church members and friends on Tuesday, Nov. 20 at 6 p.m. to honor the 90 plus members of Plymouth Church who have been members for at least 50 years or have become a member of Plymouth this year. The program will also include Pleasant deSpain, TV personality and columnist in the Seattle Times as the guest storyteller, opening the imagination of the guests to those fabled stories he relates.

Epp to solo at Plymouth

Merlin Epp, teacher at Federal Way High School and bass soloist at Plymouth Church, Seattle, will sing several favorite songs from popular Broadway hits at a dinner sponsored by the Parish Care and Worship Boards of the Church. The special program and traditional Thanksgiving turkey dinner will be held for Plymouth Congregational Church members and friends on Tuesday, Nov. 20 at 6 p.m. to honor the 90 plus members of Plymouth Church who have been members for at least 50 years or have become a member of Plymouth this year. The program will also include Pleasant deSpain, TV personality and columnist in the Seattle Times as the guest storyteller, opening the imagination of the guests to those fabled stories he relates.

Widowed group plans supper

The widowed need not eat alone. They may pack up supper and table service and eat together at the White River United Presbyterian Church at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 20. Coffee and tea will be furnished. Later there will be a general discussion on coping with widowhood. The next "Dine Out" of Widowed - New Life will be at the Poodle Dog in Fife on Wednesday, Dec. 5 at 6:30 p.m. Widowed - New Life is sponsored by Price Helton Funeral Chapel and the Auburn Ministerial Assn. and is for all widowed people. Call 927-6287 or 833-2990 for additional information. A free showing of the missionary film "Peace Child" will be held on Sunday, Nov. 25 at 6:30 p.m. at Federal Way Christian Church, 941 S. Dash Point Road. Filmed in the unspoiled jungles of the southwest Pacific, "Peace Child" documents the startling reactions of stone-age people to the message of the gospel. For further information contact the church office at 941-2711.

Nick Snider has a piece of the action

by Harry Brooks
Nick Snider would trade the entire World Champion Pittsburgh Pirate baseball team for Honus Wagner, who played in the early 1900s and died in 1955.

In the real baseball world, such bartering would be considered insane, but just the opposite is true in the dealings of baseball card collectors. Each of the 1979 Pirate player cards is worth from one to five cents. A 1910 Honus Wagner original, produced by Peadmont Tobacco Company and distributed on the back of snuff pouches, is valued at $2,500.

The background behind the hefty price tag on the Wagner replica is one of the time-honored stories Nick passes on through a glowing grin:

"Wagner was strongly against smoking or any use of tobacco, so he stopped Peadmont from using his name. Only a couple thousand cards of him were produced, and now there are only 25 of them known to be in existence... (sigh) and I don't have one."

Unfortunately, that's the one everyone who isn't a serious collector thinks about, so they believe the old cards they have hanging around are more valuable than they really are."

Nick, who dislikes attaching money figures to his hobby, has more than 550,000 baseball cards, plus those of football, basketball and hockey players. He also possesses an array of other sports memorabilia, which includes autographed baseballs dating back to 1931, old game programs and a ticket stub to the 1943 World Series.

His "superstar" cards, those he predicted being worth $100 each, are a 1910 Ty Cobb, produced by Sweet Caporal Cigarette Company, a 1952 Willie Mays, dispersed by Bowman Chewing Gum, and Topps Bubble Gum's rookie reproduction of Hank Aaron in 1954.

"There are three criteria used to determine how much a card is worth," the 33-year-old sports nostalgia expert stipulated. "How big a name the player was makes a difference; the older the card the better, and how rare a series it was in is a determining factor."

Later, when carefully placing his cards in fixed positions under clear plastic covers in designated photo albums, he added that "just like stamp collecting, cards that are in good shape are worth more."

Nick pointed out that rare cards of good quality are a strong hedge against inflation as their value is increasing 25 to 30 percent every year.

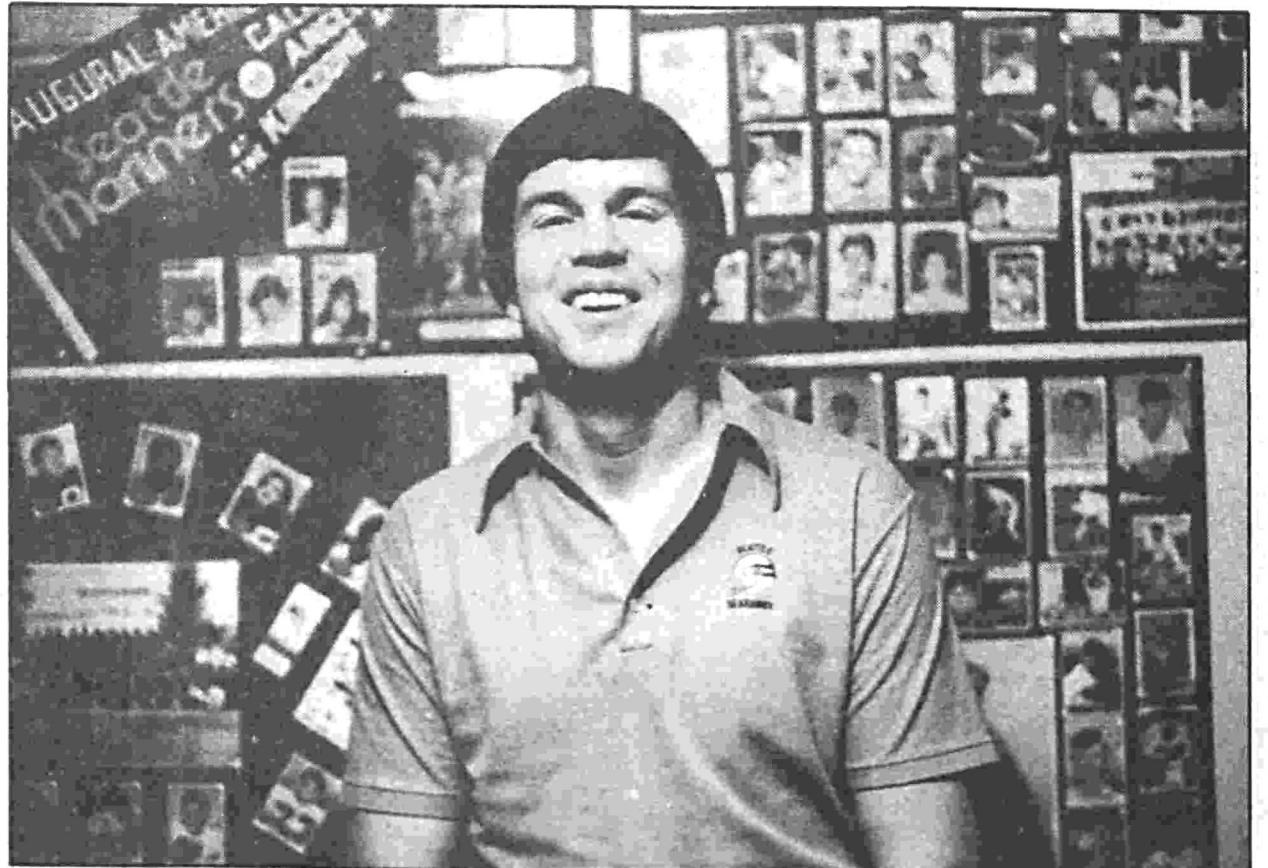

"Collecting sports nostalgia is the fastest growing hobby in America," he stated. "Some guys are making a fulltime job out of buying, trading and selling the stuff."

Nick, who was a basketball star at Mt. Vernon High School and played three seasons at Central Washington State College, even started his own unofficial company 'Cards West,' in hopes of furthering his pastime by advertising in newspapers and collectors' publications. Stacks of books, pamphlets and computer printouts that cater to sports antique gatherers accompany his meticulously alphabetized card collection in an overly-cramped, downstairs room of his Twin Lakes home. Referring to price listings in these publications, Nick conceded that his accumulation is worth "over $20,000."

"But I don't look at it as an investment," he quickly clarified. "It's so hard to collect the stuff that I don't want to ever give it all up. Besides, the way I figure, something isn't an investment until you sell it. What I'll do is probably pass everything on."

The self-confessed "sports nut" began collecting his cards in a typical way:

"When I was 7 or 8, I started buying them at the gum shop and kept it up through high school. I

NICK SNIDER, of Federal Way, compliments his fanatical interest in sports with a huge collection of trading cards, pennants, team pictures and about any other relic of the sports world he can acquire.

stopped when I went to college, but the buying bug hit me again about 1975."

Systematizing his accumulation now requires the labors of his three sons — Todd, 12, Doug, 9, and Scott, 7.

"I pay them the minimum wage for putting new cards in the files," he said through his seemingly continuous smile. "They love it; our whole family revolves around sports. My wife (Nancy) and I play slowpitch softball, and the kids play baseball and soccer.

"We follow everything from Little League whatever to big league whatever."

And it seems Nick has an authentic piece of sports memorabilia of whomever in whatever whenever.

THE 1910 TY COBB card, produced by Peadmont Tobacco Company, is much smaller than the gum cards presently issued. Cobb and other Hall of Famers are included in Nick Snider's vast card collection.

TJ schedules 'Turkey Trot'

The Turkey Trot, sponsored by Pyramid Tire Company of Federal Way, will be held Tuesday at Thomas Jefferson High School. The run will begin at 3 p.m. and will be divided into three categories — Parent-faculty, competitive runners and recreational runners. It will take place on the Jeferson's two-mile course, located behind the school. Race winners will be selected on a closest-to-predicted-time basis. A 20-pound turkey will be awarded to the best predictors in each race category. The overall winner will receive a trophy.

For further information about the Turkey Trot, phone Jim Dillon or Bill Hanson at Jefferson High, 839-7490.

All-star baseball film available

Baseball's official highlight film of the 50th All-Star Game, entitled "Inches and Jinxes" is now available to interested organizations throughout the Northwest at no charge.

The 1979 All-Star Game, Baseball's 50th, was hosted by the Seattle Mariners in the Kingdome on July 17. The National League was victorious 7-6.

The 28-minute production, narrated by the familiar voice of Mel Allen, captures all the highlights of the most exciting All-Star Game of the 1970's. A record Seattle baseball crowd of 58,905, fifth largest in All-Star history, saw the lead change hands five times in the seasaw affair.

Bruce Bochte's run-scoring single produced a standing ovation from his hometown fans in the sixth inning.

The 16 mm color film was completed by Major League Productions and sponsored by the United States Navy. Clubs and organizations may reserve the film by calling the Seattle Public Library media and program services office at 625-4986.

Deer Harvest up says Game Dept.

Western counties experienced a wet weekend, but for many hunters it was well worth getting soaked to bag a deer. Hunting pressure was generally up for counties from south Puget Sound to the Columbia, as well as for southwestern coastal counties. In Thurston, Pacific and Grays Harbor counties, about one deer hunter in 12 was successful, with many large bucks reported taken. In Clallam and Jefferson counties, the hunters were fewer in number than last year but the deer harvest was comparable, with one deer harvested for every 6.8 hunters.

Hunting pressure was up in southwestern counties, with the exception of Clark County, where 50 percent fewer hunters were checked. Outstanding success spot was near Toledo in Lewis County, where of 75 hunters checked, 28 had their deer on Saturday. The Cowlitz County checks gave the best overall average, with one deer for every 6.7 hunters.

For the urbanized counties of King, Pierce and Snohomish and the counties of Whatcom and Skagit to the north, the deer harvest continued low, with pressure also below average. Whidbey Island, where firearm restrictions bar hunting deer with any weapon except a shotgun loaded with slugs or buckshot or bow and arrow, had the best deer success ratio of any area near Seattle. Biologists feel that conditions in the region are improving by the United States Navy. Clubs and organizations may reserve the film

by calling the Seattle Public Library media and program services office at 625-4986.

Lefthanded pitcher Bryan Clark, acquired from the Pittsburgh organization last spring, was named to the TOPPS Class

A All-Star team, the National Association announced. Clark, a 6-2, 185-pounder, posted a fine 14-5 record and a 2.64

T-Birds nip Clark for volley crown

by Brien Lautman
The Highline Community College women's volleyball team found itself on a runaway roller-coaster ride last Thursday night as Clark College of Van-

HCC in last weekends Thunderbird Tournament behind them and promptly began to take their hosts for the ride of their lives.

Clark bolted to a quick 11-0 lead in the opening game of the evening behind the inspired play of Pam Rampke and Laura Halliday. The visitors only allowed Highline two points in the contest while sweeping to a 15-2 conquest.

Thunderbird Coach Eileen Broomell was a bit puzzled over her club's sluggish start, but attributed it to overconfidence. "We were so sure we were going to win this match to start with that we started off slowly," she said. "I couldn't believe that first game. 15-2!"

But suprise and shock changed to comfort and happiness following the second match as Highline reversed Clark, beating them easily by an identical 15-2 score. The T-Birds led in the game 5-2 before running off ten consecutive tallies that iced the win. Becky Sturtz was instrumental in the rally as she served consistently throughout. Myrna Jacobson also contributed as she added three spikes in the 10-point spree.

Game three was nearly a carbon copy of the second with Highline jumping out to a 6-0 lead and it to 11-3. Clark managed only one more tally before HCC added the final four points.

Luane Sinkey was an overpowering force in the win as she slammed seven spikes to the hardwood floor, while also adding a stretch of effective serving. Leading 2-1 in the match, Highline began its quest for the division title with six straight points in the fourth and looked headed for the crown in dominant fashion. However, Clark began to eat away at the HCC advantage, capitalizing on poor Thunderbird serving, while adding superior net play of their own. The scrappy visitors outscored Highline 10-1, grabbing a 10-7 lead before their hosts awoke from their unconscious state to battle back to a 12-11 advantage behind key spikes from Sue Armstrong and steady serving by Sinkey.

The Highline lead dipped into another disappearing act, however, as Clark took advantage of a missed Highline spike and rare net violation to go up 13-12. The visitors added another tally to go up 14-12 before HCC could steal the service back.

Highline promptly knotted the score at 14-all, but the gutsy Clark squad put together a two point rally to go up 16-15, after Highline equalized at fifteen. The challengers then added the winning point on a spike from net-minder Halliday, forcing the title-deciding fifth game.

"We were kind of mesmerized out there," Broomell said referring to her club's quick demise in the fourth game. "We started defense at six and then we were in trouble."

Broomell and her charges were not through dealing with trouble, though, as they allowed another 6-point advantage to slip to nil in the final game.

After opening a 6-0 lead behind the rocket-like serving of Sinkey, Highline began to fade into another gradual defensive formation. Clark again took wild advantage of the situation, battling back from a 9-3 deficit to pull even with HCC at 9-9. The T-Birds added a tally to lead 10-9, but their pesky rivals caught going up 12-10.

It was a power-spike from Sinkey that halted Clark's momentum and brought the service back to Highline, allowing them to knot the score at 12-all.

But Clark's stand-out offensive weapon, Halliday, quickly nabbed service away from Highline as the sophomore netter slammed a clean spike through the thunderbird defense putting the challengers from Vancouver up 13-12.

The HCC women will travel to Walla Walla on Nov. 29, 30 and Dec. 1 for the state community college volleyball championships. The Thunderbirds will take a 12-0 league and 26-2 season mark into the tournament.

championship hopes into a cloud of doubt. But a net violation by Halliday allowed HCC to tie the score before a clean spike and a service ace by Sandi Stone gave Highline the win.

"That's a championship game," said a relieved Broomell following her club's close victory. "I didn't think they would be that tough. We're going to have to work much harder because we'll meet them again at state."

HCC hoopers feature balance

by Brien Lautman
Highline Community College's women's basketball team will not scare a lot of people this season with its heighth, nor will it blind foes with its speed. The Thunderbird women, who open their schedule against Bellevue C-C on Dec. 5, will simply present to their opponents a consistent, balanced team effort.

Dale Bolinger, Highline head coach, welcomes back five sophomores this year, including four starters off last season's 16-9 club. Leading this select group is former Mt. Rainier Ram standout Ellie Broggi, who was Highline's top rebounder and third leading scorer in 1978-79. Broggi averaged 10.2 points a game, while pulling down almost as many rebounds.

Becky Sturtz, currently an indispensable part of the Thunderbird volleyball team, will return to fill the guard-small forward spot for Bolinger.

Sturtz led the team in scoring last year with an 11.4 average, while also contributing on the boards. Sturtz will be joined at the other guard spot by returning letter-winner Mary Bailey, a 1977 o2 Kennedy High School. Bailey will try and improve on her freshman season scoring mark of 10.7, which was second-best for Highline.

HCC will also return sophomore Cindy Kline, their third leading rebounder last year. According to Bolinger, Kline scraps well on the boards, considering she is "about the third smallest player on our team."

Going from smallest (almost) to largest, the Thunderbirds will have former Highline High School star Marcia Hawthorne in the pivot spot. Hawthorne was a key element in the club's rebounding chemistry in 1978-79, as well as a tough defensive aid.

"Marcia will continue to start for us this year," Bolinger said. "She set a school record for rebounds last year with twenty-one in a game, but she came up with injury problems too. She was pretty steady for us, though."

But Bolinger has new blood to inject into the Highline program, the most potent of which is sophomore Glenna Carter, a transfer from the University of Arizona in Tuscon. Carter was a starter at Arizona, but encountered coaching problems and returned to the Northwest. The sophomore will fill a guard spot on the Highline squad according to Bolinger.

"She will play at guard for us, but may play some forward, too," he said. "Both Bailey and Carter will do some work at the strong forward position."

Along with his obvious amount of quality returnees and transfers, Bolinger also has the luxury of quality walk-on players. The Highline coach is particularly happy with former Highline Pirate Debbie Pillo and Fosters' Lynette Reiners, while also saying that Mt. Rainier's Diana Bergstrom, who currently resides on the HCC volleyball squad, "looks like a candidate to make the team."

Bolinger pointed out that this is the first year he has had an excess of players turning out, and plans no cuts despite only twelve positions open. He said, however, that some junior varsity games will try to be scheduled if possible.

Highline's biggest obstacles in the upcoming varsity campaign will be Clark College and Lower Columbia CC Bolinger said, but added that "if everyone holds together this year, I think we can be a contender in the league." Highline's first home action will be Dec. 7 and 8 as they host the Thunderbird Tourney.

M's acquire O'Brien from St. Louis

The Mariners purchased the contract of pitcher Dan O'Brien from the St. Louis Cardinals last week. The 25-year-old righthander is no relation to Mariner President Daniel F. O'Brien.

O'Brien the pitcher, split the 1979 season between Triple A Springfield, Ill. (American Association) and the Cards. At Springfield he posted a 10-5 won-lost mark and a 4.44 ERA, starting 21 times in 22 appearances. He was recalled by the Cards on Aug.

!! 10, and was 1-1 in six relief appearances.

Dan is the brother-in-law of Bill Freehan, former Tiger catcher who did the color commentary on Mariner telecasts in 1979. He pitched through 1976 at Florida State University.

From Mary Gilmore's "EVERYBODY BUSINESS" column in the Highline Times:
Quik Tune, which opened in mid-August at First Avenue South and South 112th Street is strictly in the auto tune-up business. Tune-ups are available while you wait, or if you prefer, leave your car in the morning and retrieve it after work. Either way, a properly tuned car is a gas-saver, and precision tuning is Quik Tune's specialty.
"We stick to fixed prices." "Customers can see their estimate right on the wall and learn exactly what the job will cost. We don't want anyone surprised. Our prices include all parts and labor, and we guarantee work and parts for six months or 6,000 miles, whichever comes first."
Staffing the Top Hat Quik Tune shop are manager Bob Nordstrom, assistant manager Paul Butler, and technician Tim Dolin. Nordstrom and Butler have 27 years of experience between them in mechanics, operating their electronic scopes and infrared machines like artists at the palette.
Manager Nordstrom, previously with Hertz Rental Cars readying sale cars for purchase, explained the dynamometer provides your car "a road test all its own." It's a and a half at 70 m.p.h. with a complete checkout enroute.
The electronic scope gives the lowdown on your wires and spark plugs, and the staff sets your timing and carburetor, checks your points and plugs--whatever needs doing to cruise in tune.
One mbre plus: For $15, the crew will analyze your car. If, within 30 days you decide on a full tuneup, they credit that diagnostic fee to the bill.
Quik Tune operates Monday through Saturday from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Evergreen site of national cross country

by Bart Potter
 Evergreen High School, the site of the recent state cross country meet, will take a step up in class when it hosts the 1980 All-American Cross Country Championships this summer.
 The June 24 event, held in conjunction with the National High School Athletic Coaches Association convention at the Sea-Tac

Red Lion Inn, will feature the top three high school runners for both boys and girls from each of the 50 states.
 Meet director Barry Savage said the second annual national meet will for the first time offer girl runners a chance to compete. The inaugural event last summer in Orlando, Fla., was for boys only.

Savage, for 22 years cross country coach at Renton High School, said selection of the Washington State contingent will be made soon. Such names as Mike Pyeatt of Issaquah, AAA boys champ in the state race on the Wolverine layout, and Lisa Mitchell of Sammamish, AAA girls' titlist, will be high on the list.
 Washington's representatives should do well in the elite race, Savage said, if last year's results are an indication. Dave Barnett, the 1978 AAA champion from Aberdeen, finished second in the Orlando competition.

 THE Evergreen course will be ideal for a national meet, Savage said. The demanding trail winds around two small, scenic lakes and ascends several hills.

"It's esthetic, and at the same time a real test," Savage said. "Very few cross country courses meet that criteria."
 "I don't think there's a better course."
 Evergreen's proximity to the airport and adjacent hotels makes the spot ideal for the event, Savage said.
 Preparations for the meet began last year, Savage said, but it was not until last week, after consultation with Highline School District athletic director Larry O'Neal, that the final choice of Evergreen as the meet site was made.

 "I'm really excited," Savage said. "It's a once-in-a-lifetime shot. We'll do our best to put on a class meet."

Austin will play in Avon tourney

Campbell Sports, Inc. learned Monday that U.S. Open Tennis Champion Tracy Austin will head the list of entries for the 1980 $150,000 AVON Tennis Championships of Seattle.

Presented by the Old National Bank, the AVON Tennis Championships of Seattle will be held between Jan. 28 and Feb. 3 at the Seattle Center.

Austin, who will be making her first professional tennis appearance in Seattle, will be joined by Wendy Turnbull, Sue Barker and Virginia Ruzici in the Seattle tournament, the fourth stop on the 1980 AVON circuit.

Michael Campbell, president of Campbell Sports, Inc., said he was extremely pleased to learn the U.S. Open Champion will participate in the Seattle AVON Championships.

"I really couldn't be happier about the announcement. Tracy is considered by many people to be the best women's tennis player in the world and her participation in our tournament should make it more exciting than ever," said Campbell.

Campbell said he hopes the remainder of the top player selections will be made soon.

"I hope to be in a position within one or two weeks to announce that additional top players have officially signed to participate in the Seattle tournament. This first announcement guarantees us that we will have four world class professionals in the competition," said Campbell.

On Sept. 9, 1979, the 16-year-old Austin became the youngest winner in the history of U.S. Open competition. She defeated Chris Evert Lloyd in the finals 6-4, 6-3.

Tracy Austin is currently ranked by the Women's Tennis Assn. (WTA) computer as the third best player in the world. Many tennis critics consider her to be the top player in the world.

In 1977, Tracy became the youngest player to participate in The Wimbledon. She reached the third round of competition in that international tennis classic.

National high school coaches to convene in Seattle area

by Bart Potter

Some 1200 coaches from across the nation will converge on the Highline area in June for the National High School Athletic Coaches Association convention.

Gary Brines of Federal Way High School, who was named last November to serve as national convention coordinator, said men's and women's coaches in 17 sports from the college, high school and junior high level will gather June 20-27 at the Sea-Tac Red Lion Inn. A full week of activity awaits them, Brines said.

OF MOST significance to the local area will be the 1980 All-American Cross Country Championships, to be held at the Evergreen High School course

Gary Brines

June 24. The national competition will feature the top boy and girl runners from each of the 50 states.

National competition will also be conducted in tennis and golf, Brines said. The tennis event will be held at Tennis World. A site for golf competition has not been named.

A National Athletic Seminar June 21-24 will explore in a series of classroom sessions a number of issues in education and sports. Such topics as the legal role of a coach, sports medicine and the relationship of men's and women's coaches will be discussed.

Dr. Frank Brouillet, state superintendent of public instruction, will be the featured seminar speaker.

On the 25th, 26th and 27th National Athletic Clinics will be held. Separate clinics will be for each of the 17 sports, Brines said.

THE CAPPER to the week's activity will be the National Awards Banquet Friday, June 27. District and national coaches of the year will be announced for each sport, along with a national athletic director award.

Brines said last year's convention in Orlando, Fla. saw three Washington State coaches honored with District 7 awards. District 7 covers Washington, Oregon, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho and Alaska.

Gov. Dixy Lee Ray is expected to present the welcoming address for the assembled coaches.

Mariners, Houston join scouting forces

The Seattle Mariners have joined the Houston Astros and Texas Rangers in a scouting combine, the club announced recently. In addition, all three clubs remain members of the Major League Scouting Bureau, which provides a staff of 60 scouts.

The Astros and Rangers have worked together in their scouting efforts since 1976. Mariners' Director of Player Development Hal Keller was involved with that partnership as Farm Director of the Rangers before moving to Seattle in January.

Keller said, "Combining our scouting system with Texas and Houston gives us access to 15 full-time and six part-time scouts for better coverage of the country. It is particularly appealing to me because I have worked closely with all the scouts involved over an extended period of time. We also added access to reports from three full-time scouts who exclusively cover the major leagues and Triple A ball. The combination of scouting systems will take effect before the January draft."

Seattle has made Steve Vrablik a full-time scout in the Midwest. Vrablik joined the staff in 1979 on a part-time basis. Keller also said that Bellingham manager Jeff Scott will scout in the spring prior to the opening of the Northwest League season, the important free agent draft period.

Because of the overlap in coverage of the Seattle-Houston Texas combination, the Mariners have not renewed the contracts of scout Ed Stevens and part-time scout Luis Rosa for the 1980 season. Stevens had covered the southern Midwest and Texas for the club since 1977. Rosa had covered the Caribbean. Keller said the Mariners are looking for someone to serve both as a minor league instructor during the season and as a scout in the Caribbean during the fall and winter.

The area scouting supervisors are now Bob Harrison (California, Arizona), Bill Kearns (New England, East), Jeff Malinoff (Northwest), Rip Tutor (South) and Vrablik (Midwest).

No hunters, lots of deer in East

Eastern counties in the Spokane region reported rainy conditions most of the week and extremely muddy, rutted conditions of many of the mountain roads. The soggy prospects were credited with keeping the hunting pressure light to moderate in the usually popular deer areas. A real problem developed for hunters traveling the Blue Mountains. Snow was reported above 3,000 feet. Another moose permit holder reported success. James Foutrelle of Sedro Woolley bagged his allotted animal in the Deer Horn Meadows along Kalispell Creek on Saturday.

In the Okanogan, hunters were averaging one buck for every nine or 10 hunters and the deer migration has started with eight to 10 inches of snow reported at 4,800 feet. What puzzled the field checkers was that hunting pressure was down nearly 30 percent from last year. Many suspect the price of gasoline has a lot to do with it, because it certainly isn't a lack of game.

SELLING YOUR HOUSE

By Doug Fields

FIRST IMPRESSIONS COUNT
What will a prospect notice about your house? The exterior. Stand in the street and objectively look at it. Now you see the first impression he will get. Peeling paint or a weed ridden lawn will be strikes against you - no matter how attractive the interior. So, get off to a positive start:

- Painting will improve the appearance. A small house will look best in white or just one color. Unightly features blend into the background if painted the same color. Special detailing can be highlighted with a contrasting color.
- The entrance should be inviting. Bright paint on the door, potted flowers on the steps, a few shrubs by the walkway can inexpensively transform a drab entry.
- Landscaping is important. Ground cover, fertilizer or shrubs from a supermarket or nursery can work miracles.

WESTWARD DOUGH!

OR how DO you COVER A Wagon?

The wild, wild West. Land of hope and opportunity to thousands of courageous settlers. But, if it weren't for the dollars of thousands more Americans taking stock in their country, there might never have been a West to go west to.

You see, money raised from the sale of government securities helped us purchase the Louisiana Territory from the French. Other securities helped buy the states of California, Nevada, Utah, western Colorado and most of New Mexico and Arizona from Mexico. Even settlement of the Oregon Territory was made possible through the issuance of United States securities.

Today, you can still take stock in your country's growth by buying U. S. Savings Bonds.

Just sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. There's no easier, safer way to save or help your country. After all, U. S. Savings Bonds are still a great way for you to go West. Or East, North and South.

New U.S. Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (1 1/2% the first year). Loss, interest or defaulted Bonds can be replaced if interest is guaranteed. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deducted with redemption.

Take stock in America.

Special Turkey Dinner Made Easy

From the days of the Pilgrims, holiday time is a special season dear to everyone. Traditions have developed and are treasured for the celebration of these special days. One of the best-loved traditions of this holiday season is a bountiful meal featuring a tender, juicy roast Butterball turkey.

Preparing the turkey to perfection is easy with a dependable Butterball turkey and the instructions that come with each bird. As the turkey roasts, either in the conventional or microwave oven, the anticipation of the enjoyment of the tender, delicately flavored juicy, white meat and the full-flavored dark meat grows.

Another tradition is old-fashioned mincemeat pie for dessert. The filling can be made from scratch in advance and stored in the refrigerator or freezer. The pie can be made on the big day or in advance and frozen. Even the pastry can be put together in a quick and fail-free way using the electric mixer, food processor or conventional method.

The convenient foods of today teamed with modern kitchen appliances make the holiday meal a total pleasure.

Let us give thanks

Traditional Holiday Menu

- Roast Butterball Turkey with Sausage Stuffing
- Giblet Gravy Cranberry Sauce
- Corn Pudding Whipped Buttered Squash
- Lemon Broccoli
- 24 hour Fruit Salad Cucumber Gelatin Salad
- Bran Muffins Butter
- Mincemeat Pie

Roasting Directions for Butterball Swift's Premium Turkey

TO THAW

Place turkey in original bag on tray in refrigerator. Allow 2 days for 8 to 12 pound bird; 2 to 3 days for 12 to 16 pound bird; 3 to 4 days for 16 to 24 pound bird. Refreezing is not recommended.

TO PREPARE

1. Free legs and tail from tucked position; remove neck from body cavity and giblets from neck cavity. Do not cut band of skin.
2. Simmer giblets in salted water, about 1/2 hour for liver and 2 to 2-1/2 hours for neck, heart and gizzard. Chop and use in gravy or stuffing.
3. Rinse and drain turkey.
4. Stuff neck and body cavities lightly (3/4 cup stuffing per pound purchased weight of turkey).
5. Return tail and legs to tucked position. Skewer neck skin to back.
6. Insert meat thermometer into center of thigh next to body not touching bone.
7. Place turkey, breast side up, on cord lifter and bring ends up over legs and breast. Lift onto rack in shallow, open pan. Do not add water or cover. Use following time chart.

APPROXIMATE ROASTING TIME — UNCOVERED PAN

Weight as Purchased	325°F. Oven
8 to 12 pounds	3-1/2 to 4 hours
12 to 16 pounds	4 to 4-1/2 hours
16 to 20 pounds	4-1/2 to 5 hours
20 to 24 pounds	5 to 6 hours

8. Brush skin with melted fat to prevent drying. No need to baste during cooking.
9. When light golden brown, shield breast and neck with lightweight aluminum foil to prevent overbrowning. During last hour of cooking, check for doneness.

TO TEST FOR DONENESS

1. Before removing from oven, check to be sure meat thermometer is in original position. Thigh temperature should be 180 to 185°F.
2. Protect fingers with paper. Press thigh and drumstick. Meat should feel soft.
3. Prick skin at thigh. Juices should no longer be pink.

To Roast In Microwave Oven:

Follow conventional roasting directions 1 through 5 and then proceed as follows:

- A. Use round wooden picks to skewer neck skin to back instead of metal skewers. Tie string around turkey to hold wings close to body.
- B. Prepare browning sauce to brush over turkey by beating together 1 egg or egg yolk, 1 teaspoon Kitchen Bouquet, 2 tablespoons oil and 1 tablespoon water.
- C. To estimate total cooking time multiply purchased weight of turkey by 9 minutes per pound. (If turkey is not stuffed reduce weight by 1 to 1-1/2 pounds).
- D. Place turkey, breast side down, in large microwave-safe roasting dish, platter or tray. Use small glass casserole lids or custard cups to stabilize bird as necessary.
- E. Multiply the weight of the turkey used in step C by 3 minutes per pound. Microwave the turkey, uncovered, for half this time on HIGH or COOK (full or 100% power). Multiply the weight of turkey by 6 minutes per pound. Microwave for half this time on setting #6, MEDIUM or ROAST (two thirds power). See example.
- F. Apply small pieces of foil as necessary to shield wing tips, drumsticks, and portions of the breast to prevent overbrowning. Rotate dish containing turkey as often as oven manufacturer suggests. Remove juices when they accumulate and reserve for gravy.

- G. Turn turkey breast side up; brush with browning sauce.
- H. Use the settings and remaining estimated time as described in step E, basting once or twice with browning sauce. If microwave oven is equipped with temperature probe or automatic thermometer, insert probe into center of thigh, next to body not touching bone and set temperature for 190°F. Remove string holding wings 15 minutes before end of cooking time for even cooking.
- I. When cooking time has been completed, insert thermometer into thickest portion of thigh, breast and stuffing to check internal temperatures: 175° to 180°F. in breast, 185° to 190°F. in thigh, 160° to 165°F. in stuffing. If temperatures have not been reached, remove thermometer and microwave on the same setting for a few more minutes.
- J. When temperatures have been reached, cover with foil and let turkey stand for 20 to 30 minutes to finish cooking interior and let juices "set" to make carving easier.

EXAMPLE for a 12 pound stuffed turkey; 12 x 9 minutes per pound = 108 minutes.

First half:
HIGH or COOK — breast side down — 12 x 3 = 36 + 2 = 18 minutes.
Setting #6, MEDIUM or ROAST — breast side down — 12 x 6 = 72 + 2 = 36 minutes.

Second half:
HIGH or COOK — breast side up — 12 x 3 = 36 + 2 = 18 minutes.
Setting #6, MEDIUM or ROAST — breast side up — 12 x 6 = 72 + 2 = 36 minutes.

Homemade Mincemeat for Pies

Yield: About 7 cups (enough for two 9-inch pies)

- 1 pound ground beef, browned
- 2 pounds apples (6 to 8 medium apples), pared, cored and finely chopped
- 1 cup currants
- 1-1/2 cups raisins
- 1-1/2 cups packed brown sugar
- 2 cups apple cider
- 1/2 cup bouillon
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1-1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice

Combine beef, apples, currants, raisins and sugar in a heavy kettle. Stir in cider, bouillon, salt and spices. Simmer uncovered 1 hour, stirring frequently. Add lemon juice. Cool. Refrigerate for a few days storage; can or freeze for longer keeping.

TO PREPARE PIE: Divide dough in half. Roll dough for bottom crust on floured pastry cloth or board into a circle 1/8 to 1/4 inch thick and place into pie pan. Trim pastry even with the rim of the pan. Add approximately 3-1/2 cups of mincemeat filling. Roll out remainder of dough to extend 1/2 inch beyond edge of rim. Place top crust over filling. Fold top crust under bottom crust at edge and seal by pressing the two crusts together. Flute. Cut a few slits in crust to allow steam to escape. Bake in 425°F. oven 35 to 45 minutes or until brown as desired.

TIME SAVING HINTS: (1) Prepare uncooked pie in advance. Wrap in foil and freeze. Day of serving, place frozen mincemeat pie in oven for 45 minutes or until golden brown and bubbly. Or, (2) Prebake mincemeat pie in advance. Wrap in aluminum foil and freeze. Day of serving, remove foil and microwave on HIGH (full or 100% power) 9 minutes. Rotate 3 times during heating period.

Basic Pie Pastry Recipe

Yield: One double crust pie

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 2/3 cup shortening
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup ice water

STANDARD MIXING METHOD: Sift flour and salt into mixing bowl. Add shortening. With a pastry blender or two table knives, cut the shortening into the flour mixture until texture is that of coarse cornmeal. Add water, and blend with a fork to form the dough into a ball shape. Cover with waxed paper. Let stand at room temperature for 15 minutes. Divide dough in half and use to make a double crust pie or two 9-inch pastry shells.

FOOD PROCESSOR METHOD: Place chopping blade in bowl of food processor. Add flour, salt and shortening. Cover. Process for about 5 seconds or until mixture is consistency of coarse cornmeal. Add water through feed tube and continue processing until dough forms a ball. Remove dough, wrap in waxed paper and let stand 15 minutes at room temperature. Divide dough in half and use to make a double crust pie or two 9-inch pastry shells.

ELECTRIC MIXER METHOD: Place flour, salt and shortening in small mixer bowl. Using lowest speed on electric mixer, mix 10 seconds, scrape beaters and mix 10 seconds more or until mixture is consistency of coarse cornmeal. Add water all at once. Mix at lowest speed until dough clings together, about 7 seconds. Turn out dough onto waxed paper. Let stand for 15 minutes at room temperature. Divide dough in half and use to make one double crust pie or two 9-inch pastry shells.

What's Cookin' in Ruth's Kitchen

by Ruth Jurich

by Ruth Jurich
Lucky are we who have learned the joy of cooking. Cooking is work for many people. For others it's play. To me it's a mixture of both, but seldom does the work overshadow the pleasure.

Putting warm or hot stuffing in a bird and putting it back in the refrigerator for several hours or overnight is an absolute "nono" and can't be emphasized too often. The resulting food poisoning from this practice has probably ruined more holidays than anything else.

Thanksgiving is a day for lots of cooking, but I always look forward to it. No matter how many times you've roasted a turkey, and I must have roasted hundreds of them, it always presents a challenge. Will it be tender, juicy, golden brown and done at exactly the right time?

I always put hot or warm stuffing in my turkey, but it goes in the oven immediately, and it comes out steaming hot and with onions and celery done just right when the turkey comes out of the oven four or five hours later.

They're usually all of that, but stuffing and roasting a turkey is a creative adventure no matter how many times you've done it.

TIMING FOOD is of the utmost importance in turning out a successful holiday meal, and even old hands find it helpful to jot down a schedule in advance.

I'll be up early as usual on Thanksgiving, and when I go to the kitchen to start a pot of coffee, I'll take the turkey out of the refrigerator, and put the neck, giblets and wing tips in a saucepan, cover them with water, and let them simmer three to four hours to make a rich broth to moisten the stuffing.

You don't need to be a slave to a schedule, but on a day that may be filled with distractions, with people in and out and a big meal to get on the table at the right time, a written schedule is just good insurance.

LATER I'll dice stale bread which I've been accumulating in the freezer or refrigerator and put it in a shallow pan in a 300 degree oven. That's a good temperature, because the cubes of bread can be toasted to a golden brown without danger of burning.

You do it by counting back from the time you want to serve dinner. The turkey should be out of the oven approximately 45 minutes before serving time so that it will be cool enough to handle, and you can make gravy.

Bread can be diced and toasted and celery and onions sliced the day before if you don't want to work on Thanksgiving morning. You can even stuff your turkey the day before if you let the stuffing cool thoroughly before packing it in the bird.

If dinner is at 4 p.m. and you figure on five hours of roasting, the bird should go in the oven at approximately 10:15 a.m. If you're slipping halves of potato under the turkey to roast in the juices, put them in at 2, and at the same time you can put whole yams in the oven to bake.

Potluck's peril can be avoided

If you're boiling potatoes to mash or cooking a vegetable, whatever is going in any-temperature dish, such as a fresh vegetable salad, or bread or dessert. Save the hot and cold dishes for neighbors and friends who live close by. Not only will it be easier for your friends, but it will also be safer.

Potluck dinners have become an American tradition. They can be an inexpensive way to try delicious new foods, but don't let your next potluck turn into a disaster, says Jan Grant, King County Extension Agent for Washington State University.

If, on the other hand, you are invited to bring a potluck dinner, allow yourself enough time to prepare the dish and get to the party on time. If everybody has to wait for you to come, that glazed chicken and tuna salad supreme may be approaching the danger zone for food safety. A 30 to 40 minute wait is a dream come true - for germs, says Grant.

When you take your favorite dish to a potluck dinner, put extra care into fixing it. It's fun to be creative, but it's also important to handle the ingredients properly. Cleanliness is essential. Use the same high standards you have for meals you fix at home.

When your friends bring their favorite dishes to your home for dinner, immediately store them at the proper temperature until dinner is served. And when your guests ask what they can bring to the party, consider how far they live from your home. If they're more than a 20 minute drive away, have them bring a safe-at-home. Clean the table immediately after everybody finishes eating. Don't leave food on the buffet table. Quickly rinse any empty dishes - set them aside - store the leftover foods in the refrigerator.

Food poisoning is no way for anyone to remember what was an enjoyable evening.

ING biscuits, they'll need to be popped into a hot oven at the last minute. If you're baking yeast rolls, they'll need to be put in the oven when they're sufficiently raised. That is, when a light tap of your finger will leave an indentation.

the oven or will be cooked on top of the stove, write it down, and you won't be saying, "Whoops! I forgot the potatoes, and they should have been started an hour ago." IF YOU'RE BAK-

What do you do if you have only one oven, and you have a turkey in it? It won't hurt that turkey a bit to lift it out, and turn the thermostat up to 375 and put the rolls in for 20 to 25 minutes. When they're done, turn the heat back down to 300, a good turkey roasting temperature, and put the bird back in.

If it's an hour before serving time, don't try to keep the rolls warm. Slip them back in the oven a few minutes before serving.

Jellied salads made the day before, salad greens washed, sorted and put in a plastic bag and frozen vegetables, all help when it comes to turning out a holiday dinner, but what about dessert?

One of the girls in the office asked me if I were going to bake my own pies, and I thought, "Pies? Who wants pie after a big dinner?"

SOME PEOPLE DO but I much prefer a light dessert. A sherbet glass full of a Bavarian cream made with frozen berries or a scoop of ice cream or sherbet topped with an appropriate liqueur is more to my liking. Pie goes better following a light lunch or supper.

There's one kind of pastry, however, that goes well after a holiday meal. It's easy to put together a pan of mincemeat turnovers to be baked just before serving. Cut circles or squares of your favorite pastry, put a spoonful of mincemeat in the center, fold over, and seal the edges with a fork.

Put the pan of turnovers in a 400 degree oven for approximately 20 minutes just before serving, and a good time to serve them is in the evening when family and friends have recovered from the stuffiness of a big dinner and are gathered around the fireplace. Pass a tray of hot turnovers, and they'll be most welcome with a cup of coffee.

Turkey leftovers are never a problem at our house no matter how big a bird I roast, but appetites vary. If you find you've roasted too large or too small a bird, make a note of it and put it in your recipe file. The information may come in handy next time. Meanwhile, do have a happy Thanksgiving. It's a wonderful holiday, and I'm grateful for it.

Happy Thanksgiving

Beans make hearty salad

Main dish salads are popular year round. In winter a large bowl of hot soup will balance the menu, and in summer you can top it off with a cool dessert. Whoever first came up with the idea of combining various kinds of beans to make the three bean or four bean salad, came up with a masterpiece. It's a nourishing combination with nothing added, but if you want to top it with strips of leftover beef, chicken, turkey ham or salami, you have a really hearty main dish. Here's a good combination to start with:

THREE-BEAN SALAD
(Yields: 10-12 servings)

2 cups cut green beans
2 cups yellow wax beans
2 cups soy beans

2 cups red kidney beans
2 cups green lima beans

2 cups great northern or navy beans
2 cups chick-peas or garbanzos
1 medium onion, finely chopped

1 medium green pepper, chopped
½ cup salad oil
½ cup vinegar
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

beans with onion and green pepper. Combine and pour over salad oil, vinegar, sugar, salt and pepper. Chill before serving. Taste improves with marinating overnight or longer.

Turkey salad makes luncheon main dish

With some families there's no such thing as turkey leftover no matter how large a turkey is prepared, but with others the bird may linger on unless the spice of ingenuity is added.

There are many good turkey salad combinations suitable for family meals or for company luncheons or suppers, but here's one that might well become a favorite.

REST OF THE BIRD SALAD

¼ cup mayonnaise
1½ tablespoons lemon juice
1½ tablespoons honey
¼ teaspoon celery seeds

½ teaspoon salt
2½ cups cut-up cooked turkey
1 can (3-½ ounces) water chestnuts, drained, thinly sliced
½ cup dairy sour cream
½ cup coarsely chopped pecans

Lettuce
1 large grapefruit, pared, sectioned
Pimiento strips
Mix mayonnaise, lemon juice, honey, celery seeds and salt in large mixing bowl.

Add turkey and water chestnuts; toss until coated with dressing. Refrigerate at least one hour. Stir in sour cream and pecans just before serving. Mount in lettuce-lined bowl.

Garnishes add color to a meal's serving dish

Garnishes are inexpensive and colorful ways to add eye-interest to dishes, whether they be salads or desserts. They may take some time in preparing but are well worth the effort, especially when you're rewarded by the admiring glances around the table. Garnishes should be appropriate for the food they are garnishing. For instance, radish roses look and taste great in salads but not on desserts! To make a radish rose, cut off root tip, then make around five thin cuts in each radish, from the top to stem, taking care not to cut through at bottom. Keep radishes in ice water for about an hour after cutting; this will open up petals of your radish rose.

Another salad garnish that's as tasty as it is decorative is the carrot curl. Carrot curls also make nice hors d'oeuvres. To make carrot curls, pare, then shave a thin, lengthwise strip from carrot. Curl it around your finger, inserting a wooden pick to hold in place. Place in ice water until crisp, removing pick before serving. To make celery curls, cut stalks of celery into short lengths. Now beginning about one-fourth from the center, slit each end into narrow strips, leaving about one-half solid celery in the center. Put in ice water to make ends curl, then dry before using.

Lemon roses are a pretty way of garnishing desserts. Cut a thin slice across the bottom of your lemon, taking care not to cut all the way through. Continue cutting, but now in a continuous spiral, through the outer skin only. Let peeling recur back onto bottom of lemon, creating a charming rose effect. Cover with foil or plastic wrap until ready to use. You can experiment with other vegetables and fruits to create decorative and delicious garnishes for all your meals.

Serve baked Alaska for elegant finale

Sophisticated in an elegant manner, but traditional in its pumpkin conclusion to a great Thanksgiving dinner, is this Baked Alaska, lightly flavored with pumpkin pie spice.

In spite of all its elegance, it can be assembled quite easily the day before and stored in the freezer to be quickly browned

the next day - a spectacular finale to Thanksgiving dinner. Recipes include directions for the ice-cream center and meringue, as well as do-it-from-scratch directions for the nine-inch sponge cake layer that forms the base.

1 quart vanilla ice cream
2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
5 egg whites
½ teaspoon cream of tartar
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon light rum or 1½ teaspoon rum flavoring
Halved Pistachio nuts or slivered almonds
Bake cake and cool. Soften ice cream slightly in chilled one and one-half quart bowl or mold two to three inches smaller than cake diameter; stir in pumpkin pie spice. Pack mixture and freeze. Place cake right side up on serving board or freezer-to-oven platter. Loosen ice cream slightly - dip bowl quickly into hot water. Invert onto cake. Return to freezer. Beat egg whites and cream of tartar until foamy. Beat in sugar, one tablespoon at a time. Beat until stiff and glossy. Fold in rum or flavoring. Cover cake and ice cream completely with meringue, sealing it to board or platter. Sprinkle with nuts and return to freezer. Store no longer than 24 hours.

1 to 8 teaspoon salt
Line one 9-inch round layer pan with aluminum foil or waxed paper; grease. Beat eggs in small mixer bowl until very thick and lemon colored (about five minutes.)

Pour eggs into large mixer bowl and gradually beat in sugar. Blend in water and vanilla on low speed. Add flour, baking powder and salt gradually, beating just until batter is smooth. Pour into pan, spreading to edges. Bake in 375-degree oven until wooden toothpick inserted in center comes out clean (12 to 15 minutes). Loosen cake from edges of pan; invert onto towel-covered rack sprinkled with confectioners' sugar. Carefully remove foil; trim off stiff edges if necessary. Cool.

After the game, after the dance; for impromptu parties, or drop-in guests.

Layered jellied salad made easily in advance

Forethought is a prime factor in preparing a successful holiday meal. Whether you're an old hand or a beginner at serving the multitude on Thanksgiving you'll find it easier if you have as many things as possible prepared the day before and ready to serve. A layered jellied salad will fill the bill perfectly. It is prepared and poured into a pan the day before and placed in the refrigerator. Just before serving it is carefully cut, lifted out and placed on individual lettuce cups on salad plates.

This handsome and delicious layered apricot jellied salad is from Mrs. Virginia Thacker's recipe collection, and she is undoubtedly one of the finest cooks in the Federal Way-Des Moines area.

VIRGINIA'S APRICOT JELLIED SALAD

1 package orange gelatine

1 cup boiling water
½ cup mixed apricot and pineapple juice
1 large can apricots
1 small can crushed pineapple
Dissolve gelatine in boiling water, and let cool. Add juice, mashed drained apricots and drained pineapple. Spread evenly in a pyrex dish, and when firm cover with the following topping:
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
½ cup mixed apricot and pineapple juice
1 egg
¼ cup sugar

¼ cup whipping cream
Melt butter, add flour; stir in juice while cooking until thick, stirring constantly. Beat egg and beat in sugar and blend carefully with hot mixture adding hot mixture to the egg. Return to pan, and cook, stirring constantly until thick. It burns easily. Cool and fold in cream which has been whipped. Spread over jellied fruit, and top with a garnish of grated cheddar cheese.

These jellied salads make menus sparkle

Light, colorful salads add sparkle to a Thanksgiving menu, and jellied ones are especially appropriate, because they can be prepared in advance. Some people prefer their cranberries in a gelatine salad, and here is a recipe for one either to go with the Thanksgiving feast or may be made in a ring mold, the center is piled full of turkey salad for a post-Thanksgiving buffet:

J E L L I E D CRANBERRY SALAD

1 pound cranberries
1½ cups water
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon plain

gelatine
2 tablespoons cold water
Dash of salt
2 large apples, diced
½ cup chopped walnut meats
Add water to cranberries, and cook until soft, mashing while cooking. Soak gelatine in two tablespoons water. When cranberries are soft, force them through a sieve, and immediately stir in soaked gelatine. Stir till dissolved, and add sugar and salt. Let cool until starting to thicken, and add apples and nuts. Pour into a mold, individual molds or into a large shallow pan to be cut into squares.

LIME GELATINE SALAD

(A touch of Autumn)
1 large plump prune for each salad
1 package orange gelatine
1 cup cider
¼ cup prune juice
Walnut half for each prune
½ teaspoon rum or brandy flavoring (optional)
Cover prunes with water, and simmer until barely tender. Dissolve gelatine in three-fourths cup hot liquid. Add cider and rum or brandy flavoring. Let chill. Pit prunes, put walnut half in each, and put in center of individual molds coated with chilled gelatine. Let chill until very firm.

Caesar Salad a classic

Mixed and tossed salads can usually be classed as "happenings" and are the result of what's on hand in the refrigerator put together with the spice of inspiration.

But there are some combinations that are so good that they become classics and take on the name of the chef or good cook who first concocted them. The Caesar Salad is just such a classic, and here is the recipe:

CAESAR SALAD

- 1 clove garlic
- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1 cup diced french bread
- 2 small or one large head of romaine
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
- Fresh ground black pepper, a generous grating
- 5 anchovies
- 3 tablespoons wine vinegar
- 1 egg juice of one lemon
- 2 to 3 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Slice or dice garlic, and add to olive oil. Be sure to use olive oil and none other. Let stand 24 hours. Saute the bread cubes in two tablespoons of olive oil.

Wash romaine thoroughly, and pat dry between paper towels. Tear into bite-size chunks, and put into a large salad bowl a few minutes before serving. Add salt, mustard, pepper and anchovies which have been either mashed or cut into small bits. Add wine vinegar and the remaining six tablespoons of olive oil and lemon juice. Drop in the egg right out of the shell. The egg may be raw, or it may have been put in boiling water for a minute. Toss the whole mixture together thoroughly, lightly toss in the bread cubes, and sprinkle with parmesan just before serving.

Processor helps prepare potatoes

Here is a recipe for scalloped potatoes that is as delicious as it is quick to prepare with a food processor.

CHEESY SCALLOPED POTATOES (Yield: 6-8 servings)

- One-half pound cheddar cheese
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 5 medium potatoes
- 2 small yellow onions

Shred cheese in food processor; set aside. Melt butter over low heat in 2-quart saucepan. Blend in flour. Add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Add shredded cheese, salt and pepper. Continue cooking and stirring until cheese melts. Remove from heat. Spread one-half cheese sauce in bottom of shallow two and one-half quart baking dish.

Slice potatoes and onions in food processor. Arrange potato and onion slices over cheese sauce layer. Top with remaining cheese sauce, spreading evenly. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven for one hour or until potatoes are done.

Note: Peel potatoes only if desired. They look fine with the skins left on.

1980 Budget requests stress human needs

Residents of Park Lake Homes, business representatives from Skyway and administrators of the Multi-Service Center in Federal Way all asked the King County Council for money to fund projects in their areas during county budget hearings this week.

Neighborhood House, which provides transportation and social services for the elderly and infirmed, many of whom live in the Park Lake Homes, is scheduled to receive about $23,000 in the 1980 budget.

Earl Hickman, a resident of the public housing project told the council Neighborhood House personnel came to his aid after he returned from a lengthy hospital confinement and "had all my money stolen." He said he had no food, money to buy it with or transportation.

Hickman told the council Neighborhood House staff "have helped me a great deal. They brought me food - it was like food from heaven. If anyone deserves the money they need to continue operating, they do."

Inez Rhodes, another Park Lake resident, said "I don't know what we would do without Neighborhood House." The 91-year-old told the council the agency "gets us out and involved in the community. They deserve our help."

Business leaders from Skyway, who want to improve the image of the business district there, asked the council to fund a $25,000 area study to be conducted by the county. The study would aid the community in upgrading the district to make it more attractive to consumers.

Don Sorensen of the Skyway Community Club said "we're competing with communities all around us for the dollar. We are looking for ways to upgrade the area." He said the business people in the area "feel overhead wiring is a real deterrent in making the business area nice."

County Councilman Paul Barden said the study would be "trying to find out how many people go somewhere else to shop because they don't like phone poles. That doesn't make any sense." He asked if most of the businesses are owned by absentee landlords and wastold they are.

According to Councilman Bob

Greive, a study of the area was done in 1973 "but it not recognized by the county. The people there have been told they can't get block grant money (for community improvements) until a study is done by the county." Greive said he didn't "necessarily think it is the best way" but admitted the community seemed to have no alternative.

Elton Moss and Charles Steel from the South King County Multi-Service Center in Federal Way asked for county money for the programs, including $20,000 to expand the transportation system of the center. Moss said the center gets "a very small grant from the county and our only other source of income is from Bingo proceeds." He asked for $35,000 for the center during 1980.

Steel said the $20,000 would permit the center to expand its transportation services into Maple Valley and south to Enumclaw as well as stepping up service in the Federal Way-Des Moines area.

The council is expected to take final action on the 1980 budget Nov. 21

Citizen of the Month

FEDERAL WAY Chamber of Commerce has selected Dolores Stead as its Citizen of the Month for November. Mrs. Stead, a trained counselor and a graduate of the University of Washington, serves as a volunteer counselor to troubled young people who come to the Federal Way Youth Service Bureau for assistance, devoting a minimum of four to six hours a week to this service. She has been volunteering her help to the community for years, donating many hours to Brownies, school libraries and PTA and helping when needed during election time. She resides in Federal Way with husband, Bob, an attorney, and their two daughters, Susan, 16, and Betty, 13.

Christ Lutheran host Austins

Christ Lutheran Church invites the Federal Way community to "Come Meet the Austins," on Wednesday, Nov. 21, at 7:30 p.m. Ray and Lois Austin and their children Christian, Anna Lynn, Andrew and Karin are one of several missionary families, sponsored by the Lutheran Church in America, who have return to the United States for a year. Ray and Lois Austin and family have served in Africa as missionaries of the LCA since 1962. They have lived in Tanzania and, since 1971 in Liberia. They have worked in schools and most recently as hostel parents. By profession Ray is a teacher, Lois a nurse, and the children are in school. Christ Lutheran Church is located at 2501 S.W. 320th St.

Committee tackles parenting problems

The Parent Support Committee of Federal Way Organizations Serving Youth met recently at All Saints' Lutheran Church at 27225 Military Road S., to establish goals and policies of a Parent Group Support System and to survey possible delivery models for such a group. The basic goals are to develop a crises response system for parents who wish to share both typical and non typical problems and concerns regarding parenting, particularly during the teen years, although there is no age limit. It will be a Parents with Kids kind of support group.

In addition to these support mechanisms, the committee indicated an interest in skill and awareness components of effective relationships and parenting. Michael Grubiak of Highline presented some educational alternatives that would be available should the committee wish to utilize Highline's counseling and educational services.

Parent study groups, classes, college or community sponsored counseling, and family-oriented events were seen as further possibilities as the committee develops concrete alternatives and directions at the next meeting, to be held at the Calvary Lutheran Church at 2415 S. 320th St. Volunteer consultants for the group are Pam Williamson, youth and family counselor and Lyn Simkins, Ph.D private therapist in Federal Way. For further information about the committee call Mrs. Shirley M. Hauglam at 941-6065 or Betty McConihay at 952-3176.

V.A. plans skill center in Seattle

The Veterans Administration is expanding an experiment in operating job development centers from Vietnam veterans by opening, additional centers in Seattle and 34 other major cities.

"The centers deal with three veteran populations," Cleland said, "the disabled, the disadvantaged and the undecided."

"They will provide motivational encouragement to all three groups. The disabled are shown avenues to realistic marketable skills; the disadvantaged have to be convinced they are employable; and the undecided are exposed to a world of information to help them choose a career.

"We hope to have about half the additional centers in operation by the end of 1979 and the remaining units as early as possible in 1980," Cleland said.

Camp Fire council plans meeting, art competition

The 61st annual meeting of the King County Camp Fire Council will be held Wednesday, Nov. 28 at 7 p.m. at the Auburn Elks, 1314 Auburn Way North. A no-host cocktail hour will precede the annual event.

An election of officers and board of directors will take place at that time. Cheryl Linville, second vice chairman of the Southlake Regional Board, said that all registered members of the council are invited to participate. Tickets, which cost $8, may be obtained from Mrs. Linville.

She also announced that a national art competition is open for all club members. Youths are to compete with projects that are creative expressions of the artist's idea. They may not use patterns or commercial kits.

This project will emphasize fibers and include on-loom or off-loom weaving or binding of fibers. On-loom examples will include floor, back strap, table, frame and similar techniques. Off-loom projects can include knitting, macrame, crochet, netting, knitting, basketry, stitching, sewing or tatting.

Members competing in the fibers contest must complete the project by April 15.

some of the Highline area groups are also working on a "Stuff-a-Stocking" service project for the Salvation Army.
