Police ticket tactics questioned by judge

By LYNN KEEBAUGH

A district court judge's concerns about the legality of traffic citations issued to cruisers worries police.

Federal Way District Court Judge Carolyn Hayek last week dismissed a ticket to a young cruiser at SeaTac Mall for not having a working light over his license plate. She also said in court that she is tired of seeing so many similar citations issued to cruisers.

Hayek's comments were relayed to police officers via a message board in the Precinct 5 roll call room as the "Quote of the Week."

Precinct commander Maj. Ollie Moore downplayed the incident, saying the "quote" was the "emotional reaction of a young officer who was upset at the proceedings," and not a departmental response.

Hayek acknowledged commenting on the tickets and said she is concerned that a number of the citations issued to deter young cruisers who swarm the mall and SeaTac Village on Friday nights are on wobbly ground and never would have been issued if the infractions had not occurred near the mall.

She said that in their "endeavor to solve what everyone agrees is a problem (police) are being somewhat overzealous..."

Man shoots woman, turns gun on himself

One man died and a woman was hospitalized with gunshot wounds following a violent argument Wednesday night in the Fountain Isle Lake Apartments.

Willard Dwight Burks, 36, of Federal Way, was a former boyfriend of the woman he shot before turning his automatic handgun on himself, police reports state.

Police said Burks had gone to the apartment of Cindy Wright, 33, to talk to her after calling first to say he was coming over. Wright's 11-year-old son let him into the house at about 8:20 p.m.

Other visitors in the Wright home at the time, a 37-year-old woman and the woman's 11-year-old son, told police Wright and Burks went upstairs in the townhouse apartment at 4908 S. 302nd Lane to talk. After a few minutes they heard screaming, and upon investigating, the woman friend discovered the two wrestling on the floor. The woman told police Wright warned her to run because Burks had a gun.

The woman gathered both boys and ran to a neighbor's home where police were called.

In the meantime, reports state, Wright managed to free herself from Burks and flee the apartment. Several witnesses

Driver survives head-on crash

KING COUNTY POLICE officers Patrick Mitchell (right) and Scott Garnett (who happened by while off-duty) examine a plastic bag taken from one of the cars involved in a head-on accident Tuesday on Military Road between South 284th and South 286th streets. Police reports state that the driver of the 1988 Hyundai Excel pictured, Clefus Lee Gildon, 32, of Federal Way, apparently crossed the center line and struck a full-size 1980 Chevy pickup driven by Craig L. Brown, 37, of Kent. Gildon's car was traveling southbound on Military and Brown was headed north when the accident occurred at 2:20 p.m. Witnesses said Brown tried to avoid the accident, but was unable to get out of the way of the oncoming car. Gildon was taken to St. Francis Hospital for treatment of hip, hand and wrist injuries and cuts and abrasions to his head, legs and arms. He was not wearing a seatbelt. Police said a blood-alcohol test was made at the hospital and charges are pending the results. Brown, who was wearing a seatbelt, received a minor wrist injury. The Excel was totaled and damage to the truck is estimated at $4,500.

Trigg's residency challenged

By LYNN FRANCISCO

The King County Prosecuting Attorney may have the final say on the eligibility of Thomas Trigg to serve on the Federal Way City Council.

Trigg has filed for Position 4 in the council race, but his eligibility has been challenged by Ray Tomlinson, another Position 4 candidate. Tomlinson charged that Trigg actually lives on Vashon Island, not in Federal Way.

Technically, the challenge only questions Trigg's right to vote in the primary election. However, if the elections canvassing board agrees to invalidate his ballot, then Trigg's right to run for office will be challenged at the same time

ELECTIONS SUPERINTENDENT Bob Bruce said the question of Trigg's right to run for the city council would be turned over to the prosecuting attorney, who sits on the elections canvassing board. Bruce said the prosecutor also would decide who should replace Trigg on the ballot, if the candidate is a winner in the May 16 primary.

Regardless of the outcome, Trigg's name will remain on the ballot for the primary, since the challenge will not be considered until after May 16.

Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Quentin Yerxy would not speculate on how his office would rule at this time.

Trigg, who owns an insurance agency in Federal Way, insisted he is "not fazed" by the flap over his residency.

"I encouraged it (the challenge). It's the only way to get this behind me," he said. "My residence is not based on where I sleep, but where I do business, where I pay taxes, and where I grew up.

"Besides, people ought to be more concerned about what you do when you are awake," he added.

Tomlinson said he filed the challenge to "clear up the question" of Trigg's right to run for the city council.

"I was hearing a lot of concern from people when I doorbelled. They were asking if just anyone can come (into the area) and run for office. I figured this was the best way to find out," he said.

County may look at new garbage rates

King County residents may see their garbage collection rates fall slightly this summer, and then go back up next year.

The rate proposals come from a package of recommendations from the county's Department of Public Works Solid Waste Division.

The small rate drop comes from a rebate to citizens for a garbage incineration plant that was never built. The county collected a surcharge for the plant before officials decided to cancel the project and replace it with a recycling program.

The rate increase proposed for next year is due to long-term needs of the division, according to solid waste manager Rod Hansen. Hansen said the division needs to plan for improvements at Cedar Hills as well as the implementation of the recycling program.

If Hansen's proposed rates are accepted, the disposal rates at Cedar Hills would drop temporarily from $47 to $38.50 a ton. At the county transfer stations, carload rates would drop from $6.50 to $5.50.

That drop translates into a reduction of 50 to 75 cents per month for household collection.

But the rates would go back up the following year to $57.75 a ton at Cedar Hills. Carloads would pay $8 at transfer stations, and household rates would increase by 50 cents to $1 per month.

'Unacceptable delays'

Hill asks for more 9-1-1 operators

By LYNN FRANCISCO

It happens rarely, but once or twice in the last three months, a caller to King County's emergency 9-1-1 number has had to wait as long as five minutes for an operator to answer.

"Even 30 seconds is a long time to wait when you are making an emergency call," said Capt. Donna Nolan, communications sector commander.

"It is totally unacceptable (to wait five minutes), but with the volume of calls and the number of people (operators) we have, it's going to happen once in a while," she said.

Because of delays in responses to emergency calls, King County Executive Tim Hill announced this week that he will seek an additional $200,000 from the county council to hire 10 to 15 new operators this year.

HILL SAID the number of calls into the system has grown to 720,882 in 1988 from 685,190 in 1987. At the same time, the staff at the communications center increased to 71 from 67.

But, said Nolan, those figures don't show the damage to the system from highly stressed and burned-out employees. Absenteeism is a problem in the division, and Nolan believes most of it is caused by stress-related illnesses.

The additional operators would help relieve that stress, according to Nolan.

The emergency system handles calls from all unincorporated areas of the county, as well as North Bend, Beaux Arts, Black Diamond, Carnation, Duvall, and Skykomish.

THE COUNTY has set a standard of answering all calls within 10 seconds, but that standard is not being met at all times, according to Hill. At peak times, such as weekend evenings, callers often wait as long as 30 seconds.

Councilman Paul Barden said he strongly supports the request for additional funding, agreeing with Nolan that the delays in response time are not acceptable.

Other councilmembers, such as Greg Nickels, say they want to look closely at how the system is being managed before committing to the additional funds.

"I would be very concerned if the emergency system is not meeting public expectations. But I also want to look at other emergency systems, such as Seattle's, and see how they are managing to meet their response time standards," he said.

Nickels added that if the executive can prove that the additional operators are needed, he will go along with the request.

BRIAN DAVENPORT, conductor of the Federal Way Philharmonic, is just as intense in rehearsal as in performance.

Davenport looks to future

Conducting for a 'musical city'

By SEAN ROBINSON

What is a guy with a master's degree in music from Harvard doing conducting the Federal Way Philharmonic?

Having the time of his life. Brian Davenport enjoys working in the new city. "I'm quite happy with where I'm at," he said. "It's a very competitive field."

Davenport said that if a symphony similar in size to Federal Way's, such as the Spokane Symphony, were to put out feelers for a new conductor, it would receive 500 applications. "There aren't that many symphonies in the United States," said Davenport.

All right, so conducting jobs are scarce. But what can someone trained in Paris by the grand old dame of French music, Nadia Boulanger, who discovered Aaron Copland, who taught Stravinsky and Leonard Bernstein, and whose father knew Chopin, possibly find to inspire in Federal Way?

"It would be just wonderful if Federal Way became known as a musical city," said Davenport. "One dream I have for Federal Way is to bring to it a musical/dramatic theater. Theater conducting is Davenport's specialty."

"Federal Way could become a performing arts center in five to 10 years," said Davenport. "All it takes is a steady audience. The city can afford a semi-professional setting."

Davenport gained a different perspective on the new city during a recent trip to Finland. Davenport toured the West coast with the Tampere Handel Choir of Tampere, Finland last year. The choir then invited him to Finland to conduct Beethoven's Ninth Symphony at a farewell concert, so Davenport spent seven January days in the Scandinavian country. He was interviewed by National Finnish Radio and local newspapers.

"They wanted to know all about Federal Way," said

'(Music) is the one thing in my life I've loved enduringly,' said Brian Davenport.

Davenport. "They were interested in what kind of cultural life we have."

Davenport says Tampere, the second-largest city in Finland with a population of 150,000, has a major symphony orchestra, an opera house, a musical and operetta theater and some 50 choirs. "They're very culturally oriented," he said.

But how does one go about pleasing an audience that doesn't have time-honored traditions of concert-going? How does one reach the Federal Way audience?

Davenport says he tries to think, "What will entertain 400 anonymous people that aren't my friends and don't know me?"

He also holds a hard line on ticket prices. The Federal Way Philharmonic charges $8 a performance. "If we raise our prices, we'll cut off a lot of people," said Davenport. "We have to stay accessible."

Davenport has a deep affection for music. His conductor hands begin to gesture expansively as he discusses his obsession. "It's the one thing in my life I've loved enduringly," he said.

"The classical repertory contains works that express the deepest thoughts and feelings that human beings express."

Davenport should know. Besides his Ivy League degrees and study in Paris, he spent two years in Cologne and four more in Darmstadt, West Germany, Federal Way, and became the Philharmonic. Since then, "Our fortunes have followed the development of Federal Way," said Davenport.

"Incorporation has sent our stock up. I was very happy when it happened," he said. Davenport said the Philharmonic contributes to Federal Way's identity. "(We are) contributing to the formation of the public's notion of what Federal Way is — a city with a symphony orchestra."

How does he progress? How does he continue to improve the quality of his work, and the quality of the arts in Federal Way?

"Little tiny steps," said Davenport.

The Federal Way Philharmonic's season finale on May 20 will feature Concertmaster Jan Ekstedt performing a selection from Antonio Vivaldi's "The Seasons." Also, a lightly narrated history of the development of the American musical during the 1930s will be vocally illustrated by soprano Rachel Colloff, who performs with the Tacoma Opera. 'Pet Sematary' is all frills, no chills

By SEAN ROBINSON

People who won't read Stephen King's novels or see his films always hide behind flimsy excuses like "He's too trashy," or "Frankly, I don't have time for that sort of thing." The truth is that King scares them, and they're afraid to admit it.

"Pet Sematary" is King's latest foray into the nether worlds of our fears. But it's perfect for those people with the excuses, because it just isn't scary. Too many false alarms, too much streamlining of the book, too much selling out and some simply inexplicable moments make "Pet Sematary" a chore instead of a thriller.

What's surprising about this is the amount of involvement King had in the production. He wrote the screenplay — the first time he's been able to adapt one of his books to celluloid. Presumably, he also had creative control. The book itself is one of his scariest efforts. Everything pointed to a successful project.

King said the movie was "special" to him for those reasons, and added, "What was interesting in writing the script was that there were things not in the book I realized I could add."

It isn't easy to tell what King added, even having read the book. It's clear what he took out, though. He's cut so much fat from the story it's anorexic.

IN KING'S scenario, the Creed family moves to Maine. Louis Creed (Dale Midkiff), a doctor, takes on a position at the local university. His wife Rachel (Denise Crosby, familiar as Yar from the new "Star Trek" series) begins the difficult adjustment of living in a new town, and acclimating two children and the family cat to their new surroundings.

Unfortunately, the Creed family makes the mistake of buying a house next to a busy road frequented by huge trucks. Director Mary Lambert takes every opportunity to remind the audience of this fact by having the giant trucks careen across our field of vision and amplifying the grinding motors to a deafening pitch. It's clear something is going to happen.

When it does, it happens to the cat, who ventures into the road with predictable consequences. It's been established that the cat is the beloved playmate of the older kid, so what does heart-broken Dad do?

HE CONSULTS the Mysterious Next-Door Neighbor, Jud Crandall (Fred Gwynne), who happens to know a secret. Behind the Creeds' house is a graveyard for pets, where road kills have been buried for as long as anyone can remember. The secret is whatever you bury there comes back. It tends to come back a little weird, though. Vicious, in fact.

Saying anything further would give away some crucial twists. Suffice it to say that chaos is the eventual result of all this messing about.

"Pet Sematary" has a premise that could be successful, were it not so heavily handed. Besides the overly ominous rumbling of the trucks, there is Rachel's fear of death, an allegedly ironic point. Also difficult to bear is the inane dialogue between father and daughter that consists of daughter's premonitions of bad things followed by Dad's assurances that "everything will be all right." It's amazing how many times this phrase is repeated. What makes it completely silly is the knowledge that in a Stephen King movie, nothing will be all right.

This isn't to say there aren't a few hair-raising moments in "Pet Sematary." There are. Rachel's dreamy discussions with her dead meningitic sister are particularly gruesome.

BUT MOMENTS like this are interspersed with fake scares involving the cat leaping out of the shadows when the monster was expected. And the chore of handling the horrific climax is given to a 29-month-old actor who isn't capable of being convincing. It's one of those things that works on paper, where imagination fills in the blanks, but not on film.

Finally, there is a question of credibility. Although Gwynne is one of the great American actors, he can't overcome a script that demands his character make no sense. Jud Crandall knows about the effects of the cemetery; he has seen the results.

He has had a horrible experience, yet he inflicts his knowledge on an innocent family. Making it worse is his oft-repeated comment, "Sometimes dead is better." Then why does he encourage Louis to bury the cat?

Situations like that are almost laughable. These oddities, combined with the breakneck pace of Lambert's directing, which never stops for a suspenseful pause but lingers over syrupy emotionalism, make "Pet Sematary" a dissatisfying experience at the cinema.

"Pet Sematary" is currently playing at SeaTac South and Lewis and Clark cinemas. The film is rated "R" for violence and gore.

At the Movies

"BEACHES"
Bette Midler shines in this touching story about two girls from vastly different backgrounds who become life-long pen pals and friends. Barbara Hershey's performance can't be faulted, either, and Lainie Kazan steals every scene she's in as Midler's stealer. Playing at SeaTac North.

"RAIN MAN"
"Rain Man" is a classic contrast between character playing and character stereotyping. Tom Cruise plays his usual sick self, this time a high-strung Los Angeles businessman. Dustin Hoffman is his autistic math genius brother. Hoffman's performance, as usual, is impeccable. The two brothers meet, essentially for the first time, when their father dies and leaves his fortune to the autistic's institution. Cruise's character kidnaps him as leverage and as a way out of his latest business failure. The two set out on a cross-country road trip in dad's classic convertible - it's a rocky road into the sunset. Hoffman fans will love "Rain Man," which is rated R and is playing at SeaTac North.

The play is set in the marketing department of a pharmaceutical firm and focuses on a group of marketing executives who try desperately to get a new anti-stress drug on the market before the competition. When they discover the drug has a serious side effect, or downside, corporate skullduggery and boardroom backstabbing take over their sense of ethics.

Ticket prices range from $10 to $18 and are available by calling the box office at 285-5110 or Ticketmaster at 628-0888.

By THE REV. DAN LLOYD
SeaTac Bible Church

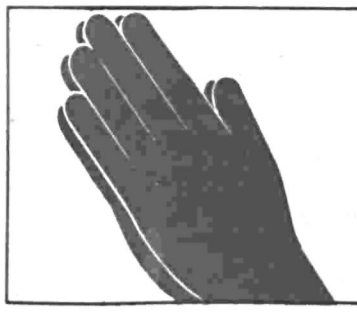

It is a matter we seldom mention, yet it is as natural and necessary to life as birth. Death.

Why is that subject so hard for us to think about? Like other "delicate" issues such as sex education, racial prejudice, politics and religion, we sometimes feel that uncomfortable matters are better left ignored and dealt with only when absolutely necessary — and then only as briefly as possible.

In a booklet written for children on the subject of death, Fred Rogers (of Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood) wrote, "Anything human is mentionable, and anything mentionable is manageable." Thank you Mr. Rogers, for your encouragement.

Death, simply stated, is separation. Death is life separated from the body. Although we usually associate dying with the cessation of the biological organs (the heart, lungs, brain, etc.) death is more than a lifeless corpse.

Death is a person separated from his/her body. We are more than biological beings. As human beings, we are psychological in our nature as well. We have the capacity to think, reason, feel emotionally and to make our own decisions.

The psychological element of our humanness elevates us above the status of mere animals.

Physical death is the separation of life from the body, as well as the separation of the one who once lived in that body. But there is more to the word "death" than biological and psychological separation.

The Bible mentions another kind of separation, a death that is spiritual. Spiritual death is separation from God. When Adam was formed out of the dust of the earth, God breathed into him the breath of life (Genesis 2:7). Literally, God breathed into Adam the breath of "lives".

I take this not only to mean that from Adam all human life would generate, but also that to Adam was given both physical and spiritual life. Adam was rightly related to his body being physically alive and he was rightly related to his creator being spiritually alive.

When instructed not to eat from the tree of knowledge of good and evil (Genesis 2:17), Adam was warned of the consequence for disobedience — death. We know that Adam ate from that tree, but he did not die a physical death for another 930 years! (Genesis 5:4).

Instead, the death Adam experienced in his disobedience to God was spiritual. He was for the first time separated from God by sin. The prophet Isaiah wrote, "Your iniquities have made a separation between you and your God, and your sins have hidden his face from you..." (Isaiah 59:2).

We do not have to be held in bondage to spiritual death, though. Something can be, and already has been done about our separation from God. Jesus Christ provides spiritual life through his own death and resurrection. When we acknowledge our sin, which isolates us from God, and receive his forgiveness through Jesus, the wall of separation is removed and we have spiritual life.

Spiritual life comes through faith in Jesus Christ. "The wages of sin is (spiritual) death, but the free gift of God is eternal (spiritual) life in Christ Jesus our Lord." (Romans 6:23).

Separating from our bodies at physical death, then, can become our transition into eternal life in heaven with Jesus.

Are you spiritually alive or spiritually dead?

Are you rightly related to God or are you separated from him?

To you, Jesus Christ offers spiritual life. You can receive that from him today by faith in his death and resurrection as the provision for the forgiveness of your sins, which separate you from God.

Death, whether physical or spiritual, is always painful to face. However, we are better able to think and talk about death when we understand it more clearly.

The Celebration of the Century!

ENJOY EARTHLY BEAUTY WITH GOD'S GIFT OF THE FLOWERS

At no other time of the year does the Lord confer a lovelier gift upon us than in the spring, when He adorns the earth with flowers. Wherever you live, you can either find them, grow them or buy them. In the country, you can see the wildflowers strewn through the meadows and tinting the hillsides with an overlay of color. The branches of trees come alive with blooms. Even in the desert, tiny blossoms emerge from the sand. In the cities, people cultivate gardens and window boxes. Flowers can send messages: "I love you," "I'm sorry," "Get Well," "Congratulations," etc. They help to celebrate happy times and give comfort to sad ones. At your House of Worship, learn the many forms of God's love for us, including His gift of the flowers that enhance the earth in spring.

For thee the wonderworking earth puts forth sweet flowers.

THOMAS JEFFERSON HIGH SCHOOL'S symphonic band took first place in its division and second place in sight reading at the annual international band fest in Abbotsford, Canada this year. Last year's band took second and third places, respectively, in those contests.

Bands go north, return victorious

Federal Way schools scored a pair of firsts last weekend at the Abbotsford International Band Festival in Canada. Thomas Jefferson High School's 52-member symphonic band picked up a first place award in its performance division at the festival. And Totem Junior High's concert band likewise wound up at the top of its own junior high division.

Lakota Junior High's concert band took second place in a separate junior high division. The junior high win is the second in a row for Totem's band, which last year topped its division then walked off with first place in the junior high sweepstakes. Totem didn't take the sweepstakes this year. "But we're real proud of our kids," said Tom Jacobus. "With my students, I have high expectations, and they knew they were capable of winning." Thomas Jefferson's first-place prize and a second-place award for sight reading is a solid step up — last year, the band took second place in its division and third in sight reading. "I guess we just live right," quipped Brian Duffer, TJ band director. Junior high and high school contests were each split in two divisions, high schools into two groups of more than 30 bands apiece and junior highs into two groups of about 15 bands. Totem's band topped its division with a required piece, "The Little Suite for Band," and an optional selection, "The Manatee Lyric Overture." TJ's band beat about 30 other high school groups with its rendition of the required "Lincolnshire Posy" by Percy Aldridge Grainger and the optional "English Folk Song Suite" by Ralph Vaughan Williams. Lakota's band, conducted by Stan Purvis, performed the required "Little Suite for Band" and the optional "Rhythm of the Winds." The wins by TJ and Totem may be more than just coincidence, said Duffer. Totem students graduate to TJ, and about half the high school's symphonic band members are fresh out of junior high. "This is the best band I've taught in four years here, and several are (former) Totem students," Duffer said. "Jacobus does such a fine job there that I don't have to do much." Bands from several Federal Way schools including Thomas Jefferson High School compete at the South Puget Sound League contest on Saturday, May 13 throughout the day. The public is invited to the contest, which will be held at Federal Way High School.

FOR THE SECOND TIME in two years, Totem Junior High's band took first place in its division at the Abbotsford fest. The 56-member band played "The Little Suite for Band" and "The Manatee Lyric Overture" to take the win.

Sugg's homer lifts Eagles past Raiders

By CHUCK MINGORI

Timely hitting enabled Federal Way to post a 9-8 come-from-behind baseball victory over cross-town rival Thomas Jefferson in a seesaw battle Tuesday and remain in the playoff hunt.

Sophomore Mike Sugg provided the game-winning blow with a solo home run in the bottom of the seventh inning. Federal Way boosted its South Puget Sound League record to 9-5 and remained within one-half game of Rogers (9-4) in the battle for the North Division's second and final playoff spot.

Rogers was scheduled to wrap up regular SPSL play against South Division foe Clover Park (9-4) Wednesday and North Division champion Puyallup (13-1) yesterday. Federal Way ended regular season play last night against Decatur (6-8).

Sugg broke an 8-8 tie in the last of the seventh with his blast over the left center field fence at Federal Way off reliever Aaron Martin of Jefferson.

"That's the best hit I've had all year," said Sugg, while holding onto the baseball that Federal Way manager Stacy Hart had retrieved for the "Sugger" following his game-winning homer. "It just felt good."

Sugg said that he wasn't thinking about hitting a home run when he stepped up to the plate.

"I was thinking to get a base hit and get things started and it just happened," he said.

JEFFERSON HAD scored two runs in the top of the seventh to tie the score at 8-8 on Mark Neilsen's two-out, two-RBI single to left off Federal Way pitcher Floyd French, driving in Joey Sonnenfeld and Pete Persons.

Neilsen went 3-for-4 at the plate, including a solo homer to left in the fourth that extended Jefferson's early lead to 6-2.

An RBI single to right field by Milt DeAsis in the bottom of the fourth that drove in Steve Crevlin cut TJ's lead to 6-3.

The Eagles then erupted with four runs in the fourth to go on top, 7-6.

Jeff Hutchens lined a double down the right-field line to score French, who had hit a bloop single, and Marty Mogensen, who had doubled. Catcher Doug Conzatti then connected for a two-run home run to left center that landed halfway up the bank beyond the outfield fence.

The Eagles added another run in the bottom of the sixth when Allen Hensley doubled to right center and came home as French hit into an error.

THE RAIDERS came out smoking to start the game, though, scoring two runs in the first inning and three more in the second inning.

Federal Way answered with two of its own in the bottom of the first.

Jeff Wagner and French singled and Marty Mogensen reached base on a catcher's interference call. Treg Vandenberg ripped an RBI single to score Wagner. Sugg also singled to bring home French, but Mogensen was thrown out at home during a collision at the plate.

THE RAIDERS rallied to take a 5-2 lead in the second.

Persons opened with a walk and Bill McNally reached base on a throwing error. Blake Ellison advanced the runners with a sacrifice bunt and Neilsen was walked intentionally.

With two out, Chris Martin, who also pitched the first four innings for Jefferson, laced an RBI single to right to score Persons. Aaron Martin then doubled over the center fielder's head to relieved by French in the seventh after Joey Sonnenfeld had reached base on an error and Persons had walked for the third time.

After a sacrifice bunt by Ellison, Neilsen stroked the first pitch thrown to him by French to knot the score at 8-8. Jamie Sonnenfeld tried to keep the rally going with a single before French forced a long fly out by Chris Martin. French improved his record to 6-1 by collecting a win in relief.

Both squads hit the ball exceptionally well, as Jefferson finished with 12 hits to the 13 of Federal Way.

Persons turned in two exceptional plays at third base to rob Eagles of base hits.

FEDERAL WAY coach Gary Mogensen credited his team for its overall effort.

Federal Way battled back to beat Spanaway Lake, 7-3, on Monday behind French's grand-slam homer in the seventh. Wagner also hit a two-run shot in the first inning. Luke Almaden pitched five plus innings that day before being relieved by French.

JEFFERSON BEAT Curtis on Monday, 5-1, with sophomore Robert Bradford collecting the win on the mound in relief to boost his personal record to 2-0. Chris Martin and Jon Steele had two hits each to lead the Raiders, who are 5-9 in the SPSL.

The Raiders wrapped up their season yesterday against Sumner.

TJ hopes still alive after beating Lakes

A 2-1 come-from-behind victory over Lakes Tuesday night has breathed new life into the Thomas Jefferson boys' soccer team.

In the won-loss column, the Raiders now find themselves in a three-way tie for first place in the South Puget Sound League standings at 7-2 with Lakes and Decatur.

Pointwise, the Raiders trail both Lakes and Decatur. Lakes and Decatur each have 15 points, while Jefferson has 14 points.

If TJ defeats Decatur tonight in their 7 o'clock showdown at Federal Way Memorial, the Raiders will clinch at least second place in the SPSL and be assured of a berth to the state playoffs for the seventh consecutive year.

If TJ gets by Decatur in overtime or by a shootout, the Raiders will clinch at least a tie for second. Under the SPSL's complicated point system, teams are awarded two points for a win and one point for a loss in overtime or in a shootout.

If the Raiders lose to Decatur tonight in either overtime or in a shootout, they could only tie for second if Lakes loses to Clover Park in regulation.

If TJ loses outright tonight, the season is over.

TUESDAY'S 2-1 win over Lakes allows the Raiders to control their own destiny. Brad Kolbo and Josh Pouley each scored goals for the Raiders, who battled back from a 1-0 deficit for the second straight game.

"We definitely had to win if we had any desires to keep our playoff hopes alive," said TJ coach Jim Judson, whose teams have won five of the past six state titles. "We did that. Consequently, we are in a position where we still have some life."

If Lakes loses tonight and Jefferson wins, it's possible the Raiders could win the SPSL title.

"That is out of our control," explained Judson. "What we do have some control over is an opportunity to get into the (state) tournament, but it's going to be very difficult. Decatur is playing well and has been playing well all season."

Judson said that the SPSL has had much more parity this year than in past seasons.

"It's been a year where we've seen the league become more balanced and competitive from top to bottom," said the Raider coach. "Consequently, it's made for an exciting finish to the end of the year."

No matter what happens tonight, spectators of the Decatur-Jefferson game will be in for a treat.

"It's going to be one whale of a ballgame," said Judson. "It should be close."

Decatur booters eye playoff berth

By GERARDO BOLONG

Playoff fever is almost here.

Decatur's Gators used pressure defense and two second half goals to gobble up the visiting Rogers Rams, 2-0, in South Puget Sound League soccer action Tuesday, taking a giant step toward post-season play.

But it all comes down to what happens as the season ends today, when Decatur visits crosstown rival Thomas Jefferson at 7 p.m. and Lakes visits Clover Park in another all-important game.

The Gators enter tonight's action with a 7-2 record in SPSL play, and they also have 15 points in a system that awards two points for a win whether it is in regulation time, overtime or in a shootout. A team also gets one point for a loss in overtime or a shootout, with no points awarded for a loss in regulation time.

Lakes is tied with Decatur for first place at 7-2 and 15 points, and TJ is right behind at 7-2 but 14 points.

There are 15 possibilities for final point standings involving the two playoff berths, depending on who beats who and whether or not it is in regulation time.

Simply put, however, if Decatur wins in regulation, overtime or a shootout, it will at least tie Lakes for the title. If the Gators lose to TJ in overtime or a shootout, they are assured of at least a tie for second and a playoff to break it. But if TJ wins in regulation time, Decatur's only hope for second is if Clover Park (5-4) can also knock off Lakes in regulation time.

"There's no doubt it will be close," said Gator head coach Rick Dennison of tonight's game. "It's going to be who survives as far as which team makes the most of its opportunities."

DECATUR was able to deal

Rogers a severe blow to its hopes Tuesday, winning, 2-0.

"It was a typical team effort with all elements working together," said Dennison. "They tried to play long ball, but we pressured them constantly. In the second half, we marked our players differently so that we could bring our halfbacks into play."

Peppering the goalkeeper with shots, the Gators finally broke through with 26:52 remaining in the game.

Jeff Johnson dribbled a pass to Young, who popped a header over the onrushing Rogers goalkeeper for a 1-0 Decatur lead.

"I saw the goalie coming up," explained Young. "With a defender coming up behind me, I tried to hit the ball straight up."

AFTER THAT goal, the Gators carried the battle to Rogers.

An indication of Decatur's desire to win occurred with 21:11 to go in the game.

Young went hard for the ball and collided with the Rogers goalkeeper. Although he was yellow-carded, Young's effort and hustle was obvious.

Young collaborated with Dan Heidal on a picture-perfect pass to the right of the goal, but Rogers' Lewis read it well for the save at the 9:04 mark.

Rogers' frantic forays proved fruitless, and Sisto Pina delivered the game-clinching goal for Decatur with 1:25 remaining in the game.

"I was wide open," explained Pina. "Two defenders went up in the air, so I just took the shot."

Pina was set up by some nice Gator ball movement. Decatur forward Heidal was in the foremost of the offensive opportunities, and Young also played well along with midfielder Pina.

Shots on goal favored Decatur, 11-4.

Gators' baseball dynasty comes to an end

By TIM CLINTON

They say all good things must end, and that now includes Decatur's baseball dynasty.

The Gators, who have made it to the state playoffs five straight years since only missing by one game in 1983, were eliminated from this year's post-season picture with an 8-3 loss to Puyallup Tuesday.

Before Tuesday, Decatur still had an outside chance if it won its final two games while Rogers lost its last three and Federal Way its last two.

But Rogers (now 9-4) and Federal Way (now 9-5) both won Tuesday to become the only contenders for the South Puget Sound League North Division's second and final playoff berth, while the Gators dropped to 6-8 behind Sumner (7-7). Puyallup took first place and was 13-1 after Tuesday's win.

Decatur wrapped up its season last night (after press time) against Federal Way under the lights at Sacajawea Park.

"We have so much trouble hitting in key situations," explained Gator head coach Gary Holmboe, who returned only star pitcher Brady Nelson from last year's team that finished fourth in the state. "It's just so frustrating for me and for the guys, too."

EVEN THOUGH Decatur did come back in the end to make things interesting with two runs in the sixth and one in the seventh, it fell behind, 8-0, by that time and missed other opportunities to score.

Puyallup added two in the fourth and one in the sixth, before Decatur got on the scoreboard with two in the bottom of the sixth.

Nelson singled with two out and Josh Austin and Ludwig followed with walks to load the bases for Larson.

Larson responded with a pop fly that just did get down in right center for a two-run single, scoring Nelson and Austin and putting runners on first and third. A fly out ended the rally, however.

Nelson took the mound in the seventh and mowed down the Vikings in order, then Decatur rallied again in the bottom of the inning.

Kevin Dahl singled and Leamer walked, with a Tony Lockhart grounder pushing Dahl to third and a Kevin Caldwell fly scoring him. A grounder to Puyallup pitcher Eric Grieve ended the game.

Grieve had the shutout going over the first five innings, striking out 10 before being relieved for the sixth. Grieve returned to the mound for the seventh.

Federal Way slowpitch team loses title shot

Federal Way's hopes for a South Puget Sound League softball title were crushed Tuesday, as the Eagles dropped a doubleheader to first-place Rogers.

The Rams won the completion of a game that was suspended in the fourth inning by rain earlier this year, 6-4, then took the second game, 11-4.

That put Federal Way's second-place record at 12-4 to Rogers' 15-0 with four to go for the Eagles and five for the Rams.

Federal Way — a 3-2 winner over Puyallup Monday — is assured of at least a tie for fourth place in a league where the top four teams reach the West Central District Tournament, however.

Bethel and Spanaway Lake were four wins back in fourth place at 8-6 as of Tuesday, with Decatur a half game back at 8-7 and Puyallup next at 8-8. Sumner is third at 10-6.

Decatur's Gators defeated Clover Park by a 5-1 score Monday, but turned around to lose to the same team in 14 innings Tuesday, 4-3.

Thomas Jefferson, on the other hand, dropped to 5-10 with 7-3 loss to Sumner Monday in nine innings and is in eighth place.

FEDERAL WAY had trailed

Rogers, 4-1, in the bottom of the fourth when its game was suspended earlier with one runner on and Eileen Aki coming up to the plate.

Aki stepped up when action resumed Tuesday and launched a home run to make it a 4-3 ballgame.

The Rams came back with a run in the top of the fifth and the Eagles scored once in the bottom of the inning to keep it close, with Rogers scoring the game's final run in the top of the seventh to win, 6-4.

Aside from Aki's home run, Federal Way also got a strong offensive output from Megan Despain, who contributed three hits.

The Eagles actually led in the second contest, 2-1, until the bottom of the fourth, when the Rams scored four runs.

Federal Way cut the lead back to 5-4 with two in the fifth, but Rogers broke the game open with a six-run rally in the bottom of the fifth.

Heidi Saheli had three hits for the Eagles in that game, and also had three to lead the way in Monday's win over Puyallup. Nancy Jetton roped a game-winning single in the third inning of that game.

DECATUR got a big two-run triple by Tanya Fischer in Monday's 5-1 win over Clover Park, and Fischer added another triple in the game.

Kim Houston also contributed a triple to the Gators' cause.

Houston and Jana Medges had three hits apiece Tuesday as Decatur absorbed a heartbreaking 4-3 loss to Clover Park in 14 innings.

TJ was tied with Sumner at 3-3 through seven innings Monday, as the Spartans scored three runs in the sixth to send it into extra innings.

But the Raiders lost it in the top of the ninth as Sumner scored four runs.

Patty Cuevas had three hits for TJ.

Police, judge meeting to air cruising concerns mall parking lot to impede traffic and even close 20th Avenue South at South 320th Street to keep cruisers from passing from the mall to Burger King. They have been issuing citations for every traffic infraction possible, from negligent driving to having no litter bag, to make the area less popular to the young drivers who gather there.

But Hayek, in dismissing a case last week, said she believed the driver was on private property when the citation was issued and therefore the statute regarding no license plate light was not applicable. The driver was on his way out of the mall at the light at South 320th Street and 20th Avenue South, she said. "There are people being cited for things which under other circumstances it's highly unlikely they would be cited. But they happened to be at SeaTac Mall," she said.

Until cruising became a problem, Hayek said she could count on one hand the number of times in her seven years on the bench that she encountered a citation for having no license plate light.

OTHER infractions, such as negligent driving, can be cited on private property, she said.

By tossing out the case and publicly speaking against such citations, Hayek is damaging the police department's credibility, police say. She also may hinder their ability to do what merchants and the public are asking of them in trying to clear the mall area of the congestion cruisers bring, said Sgt. Gene Kahn.

Moore said he believes his officers are following "the letter of the law and we are following case law."

But he is meeting today with Hayek to find out specifically what her concerns are, and promised, "In the event we are doing something in error, we will correct it."

Merchants who have asked that the cruisers be removed from the mall parking lot are supportive of the police, said Sally Mantz, mall manager.

"WE'RE PAYING off-duty police to be here at great expense," Mantz said.

In February, the mall hired eight off-duty police officers to assist mall security in re-routing cruisers and patrol the parking lot for underage drinking, vandalism and reckless driving that sometimes accompanies cruising.

That and intensive emphasis patrols this past winter reduced cruising significantly from the 250-plus cars per night to nearly insignificant numbers for a time. But those patrols were relaxed as the problem abated and some cruisers began drifting back. As the weather has turned nice, the cruisers have begun to return in numbers, Mantz said.

She said the mall will be posting signs warning cruisers that they may be considered trespassers, which will make the job of moving drivers along easier for police.

"We're going to be doing everything we can to help. We have to make sure this is a nice, pleasant atmosphere for our merchants and their customers," Mantz said.

A MORE PERMANENT and final solution to the problem could be a no-cruising ordinance Moore has asked the sheriff's department legal unit to write and present to Sheriff Jim Montgomery.

If the sheriff approves of the ordinance, it will go to County Executive Tim Hill, and from there to the King County Council for approval. The ordinance would ban cruising countywide, but Councilman Paul Barden has said in the past that he does not see that as a stumbling block because cruising has been a problem in several council members' districts.

Moore agrees with Barden, but noted that if the county council for some reason says no to the ordinance, a new Federal Way City Council could create one of its own when it begins making law sometime between Sept. 19 and March 10, 1990.

This is the second time Moore has submitted his proposal for an anti-cruising ordinance. He did so in February, but said when he checked the progress of the ordinance earlier this week, he discovered it had been lost in a mix-up of paperwork.

"This time we're going to babysit it through," he promised.

told police Burks followed close behind, carrying a handgun. As they rounded a corner of the building, Burks fired two or three shots at Wright.

Witnesses said Wright ran into a neighbor's apartment to escape Burks, at which point he gave up the chase and returned to Wright's apartment. As he ran past one witness, he said, "I just shot that girl," reports state.

Burks left the apartment again and ran toward the apartment in which the wounded Wright had taken refuge, but spotted police arriving and returned to Wright's apartment.

The first officer on the scene, Patrick Mitchell, reported that within the next minute or two after Burks ran into the apartment, he heard a single gunshot from inside. Officers searching the apartment found Burks lying in the doorway of an upstairs bedroom with a single bullet wound to the right temple.

Paramedics at the scene pronounced Burks dead and did not try to revive him. Medics treated Wright for gunshot wounds to the thigh and chest and transported her to the Metro park-and-ride lot at South 272nd Street and Military Road South, where she was airlifted to Harborview Medical Center.

Wright was in serious condition Thursday afternoon after surgery Wednesday night for her wounds.

County Major Crime detectives are investigating the shooting. Sgt. Harlan Bollinger said his officers will look into whether Burks has a criminal history, but that it is too soon to release any information on the dead man.

Boys frightened by man displaying gun

A group of young boys walking home from Olympic View Elementary School Monday were frightened by a young man in a passing car who pointed a gun at them.

One of the boys, a 9-year-old, told King County police the car pulled up beside them as they walked through the Westway area, and one of its four occupants pulled out what looked like an automatic handgun and pointed it at the boys. The boy said the driver told the young man to put the gun away and he did.

The four boys weren't certain what type of gun was used and thought it might have been a BB gun.

The boys ran away and the 9-year-old whose mother called police said he saw the car again and heard the young man who had displayed the gun earlier beckon him to the car. The boy said he ran, and as he looked back at the car he saw the man display the gun again, and thinks he may have heard a "pop," as if it had been fired, reports state.

The car is described as a yellow Monte Carlo with rust on the quarterpanels and doors. Its driver was a blonde, teen-age girl, about 17.

The young man who displayed the gun is described as 18-19, with short blond hair, possibly shaved very close, and wearing a black coat and blue sweat-shirt.

Other passengers in the car are described as another blonde teen-age girl, about 18, and a 19-year-old male with red hair shaved close to his head.

Teen says youths made lethal threats

A Federal Way teen-ager told police he was threatened by three other youths Tuesday as he was on his way home from school.

The 17-year-old said he had argued with the three at an unnamed high school earlier in the day and while he and another friend were on their way home at 2:30 p.m., the three youths stopped their car.

He said there was some name-calling before one of the youths pulled out a knife and taunted the teen, trying to pick a fight. The same youth then pulled what looked like a .38 caliber handgun and threatened to kill him, the teen said. But at no time did the youth display either weapon in a menacing manner, he said.

The teen's friend, a 16-year-old boy, told police the same story, but did not recall seeing a handgun and said another of the three youths also displayed a knife.

Police contacted one of the youths, a 17-year-old, who said no weapons were displayed. Police were unable to contact the other youth alleged to have pulled the gun and the third youth.

Dad turns over stolen hood ornaments

The father of two Federal Way youths brought his sons into King County police Precinct 5 last week to turn over a cache of stolen hood ornaments from some 30 cars.

Reports state the two brothers, 13 and 14, and a third took the ornaments off cars in the Marine Hills neighborhood on various Friday and Saturday nights. They came off all types of cars, from BMWs, to Fords, Cadillacs and Chryslers. All told, the boys told police, about 50 ornaments were taken, although not all of them were recovered.

Steve Massey

Stephen Massey

Stephen Massey says he would like to bring a "positive, energetic attitude to a new city."

That's why Massey is running for Federal Way City Council in Position 5, he said.

Massey, 24, said he was recently laid off as a mortgage banker with Rainier Golddome Mortgage. He said he was recently hired by a Cascade Mortgage company. However, the Federal Way News was unable to confirm that Massey worked for any financial institution called Cascade.

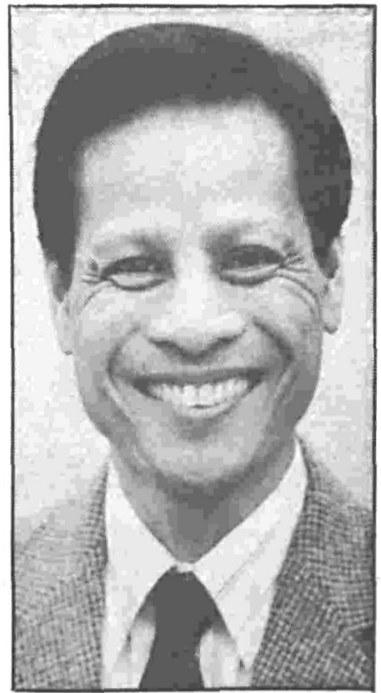

Massey also said he is on the state Prison Task Force; however, officials with the state Department of Corrections said they have never heard of any such organization.

Massey said he is a member of the Legislature's AIDS Task Force. However, the state Legislature does not have an AIDS Task Force. There is a Governor's Task Force on AIDS, but state officials say they have no record of Massey ever having been a member of the organization.

Massey was a member of the Federal Way Community Council for about two months, but was removed as an elected member from the council because he did not live in the district in which he ran for office. He was later appointed as a member, but resigned soon after.

Massey could not be reached

Dave Froyalde

Dave Froyalde

Dave Froyalde, originally from the Philippines, says he is running for Federal Way City Council for three reasons:

- 1) To serve as a role model.
- 2) To diversify the composition of the city council.
- 3) To give innovative and visionary leadership.

Froyalde is a five-year resident of Federal Way who lives in Twin Lakes. He is a salesman for Glidden Paints and is president of the Filipino-Americans of Greater Federal Way.

The 45-year-old Froyalde has a business degree from the University of the East in Manila. He is running for Position 3.

"I feel I have the energy," he said. "I am a quick learner. I enjoy adjusting to any environment. I feel I am a smart guy."

"My running for city council will inspire people from all nationalities and all walks of life, that regardless of your cultural background, you can be a leader in your community."

Froyalde is married and has three children.

Merva Cheha

Merva Cheha

Merva Cheha likes a challenge.

"I want to make Federal Way a better place to live," said Cheha. "I love a challenge and making Federal Way a city is a great start to a great challenge."

Cheha, 66, is running for Federal Way City Council in Position 7.

Cheha said the most important issue facing the new city council will be to work for the residents of Federal Way, particularly senior citizens and low-income people.

"There's a lot of seniors here," she said. "Somebody has to work for them."

Cheha is a retired waitress and a meatpacker. She is widowed and has two sons and five grandchildren and lives near South 288th Street and Military

Working with the public for many years as a waitress has given her the experience working with people a city council member needs, she said.

Bob Wood

Bob Wood

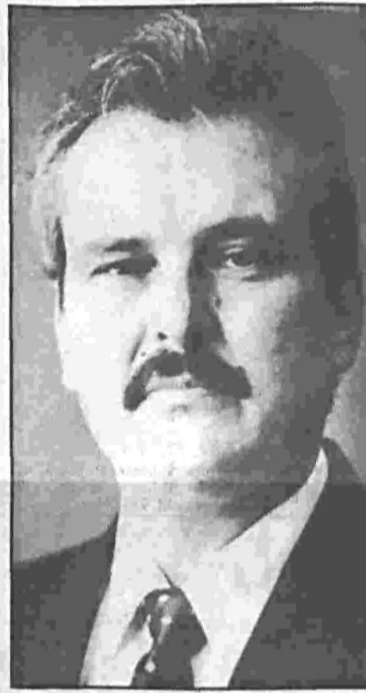

R.T. "Bob" Wood says he has the business experience and the time to manage the new city of Federal Way as a city council member.

Wood is running for city council in Position 5.

"I have the business ability, knowledge of finances and decision-making experience," Wood said. "I'm retired and have time to share experiences needed to make the transition of a county-governed entity to a city governed by a council."

Wood, 64, was an insurance agency owner and underwriter and a real estate agent.

Richard Feutz

Richard Feutz

Concern for the water quality of Steel Lake got Richard Feutz, 41, involved with King County government.

As president of the Steel Lake Residents Association, Feutz lobbied King County to enforce its own surface water management laws. From there, he became a member of the Citizens Advisory Committee for Surface Water Management. He is in his second year on the committee.

Feutz is one of five candidates vying for Position 6 on the Federal Way City Council in the May 16 primary election.

A science teacher in the Kent School District, he is currently teaching a class that uses computers to bring students up to speed in reading. For his innovative approach, he was recently named Washington State Teacher of the Year.

Feutz has lived on Steel Lake for 12 years and has been active in many Federal Way School District issues — the site selection committee for the new elementary school, the boundary review committee and the Citizen Committee for Passage of Federal Way School Bonds. The quality of life, he says, is at stake as Federal Way enters cityhood.

"Issues such as water quality, ground water purity, solid waste management, open spaces, parks and recreation facilities, and the preservation of wet land habitat must be addressed to preserve the quality of life in our community," he said.

Feutz and his wife, Dee, have three children.

MEETING DATE REVISION

The Tacoma-Pierce County Health Department announces a revision in dates in the solid waste permit process for the Tacoma Public Utilities Steam Plant No. 2 Repowering Project.

The Health Department's solid waste permit process for the proposed Steam Plant No. 2 Repowering Project has moved into the next phase of reviewing comments on the Human Health Risk Assessment obtained during the public comment phase. Due to the volume of important comments received in writing and recorded at several public meetings, the previously scheduled meeting on May 8, 1989 will not be held. Instead, the Health Department will respond to questions in the following four ways:

- 1) The Department will write a summary answering the main questions raised by citizens;
- 2) The Department will provide each citizen answers to their individual questions asked during the April 12, and April 13, 1989 public meetings;
- 3) The Department will hold a special meeting (to be announced) on the Human Health Risk Assessment to answer main issues raised during the public comment process as well as give citizens an opportunity to ask questions during four workshop sessions; and
- 4) The Health Department will announce its decision on the issuance or denial of the solid waste permit in June, 1989. Location to be announced.

COMMANDANT'S LIST

U.S. Air Force Academy cadet Jeffrey S. Whiteman, the son of Patricia and Janes Schuler of Federal Way, has been placed on the Commandant's List for military excellence at the Colorado facility.

To make the Commandant's List, a cadet must have a 3.0 or greater military performance average at the end of the semester. Cadets so distinguished wear a silver wreath on their uniforms.

Whiteman is a Decatur High School graduate.

PRESIDENTIAL SCHOLAR

Anna M. George, a Federal Way High School senior and the daughter of Eileen and Jack George, is one of 500 semifinalists in the 1989 Presidential Scholars Program.

The students were selected for the honor based on their SAT or ACT scores, grade point averages and other community involvement indicators. Finalists will be named later this spring.

HALLMARK MANOR EMPLOYEE OF THE MONTH

Phyllis Raymond has been selected the April Employee of the Month by the staff and administration of Hallmark Manor Convalescent Center.

Raymond has been at the home since it opened. She started in housekeeping and is currently working as a certified nursing assistant.

WOMEN OF DISTINCTION

Soroptomist International of Federal Way recently honored four women for distinctive service to the community.

In the human rights category, Helen Batie, director of pastoral care at St. Francis Community Hospital, was selected for her work to create a training program for regional clergy who want to get involved in the hospital.

In the economic and social development category, activist MaryAnn Mitchell was honored for her work in two campaigns to incorporate Federal Way and to bring the Goodwill Games pool here.

Local Heroes

Mary Ehlis was rewarded in the environment category. She is a member of the Federal Way Community Council and is active on the Centennial Board and was instrumental in the recent incorporation drive.

In the health category, Marilyn Salla, who assisted in creating a Washington chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Drivers, was honored.

KAY NELSON

Kay Nelson, a 1984 graduate of Federal Way High School, earned a 4.0 grade-point average winter quarter at Western Washington University. She is enrolled in the master's degree speech pathology program.

JOURNALISM AWARDS

Federal Way native Kathy Tucker, a student at Western Washington University, recently received a first-place award for spot news reporting from the Society of Professional Journalists.

The WWU student newspaper, The Western Front, took first for best all-around non-daily newspaper.

CWU GRADUATES

Two Federal Way natives have received bachelor's degrees from Central Washington University in Ellensburg.

Ann M. Boehrer received a bachelor of education, with an emphasis on special education.

Gary W. Duvall received a bachelor of science in biology.

Wahl's work will hang at Capitol

Andrew Wahl of Decatur High School recently rendered a drawing that will represent the 8th Congressional District of this state at an annual Congressional Art Exhibit later this year.

Wahl's "Alki Afternoon," done with felt-tip markers, was chosen by Congressman Rod Chandler (R-8th) to appear in the exhibit at Washington D.C.

The drawing also received honorable mention at Green River Community College's sixth annual High School Invitational Art Exhibit, held in mid-April.

The winning works from the high school contest are on display this week in the Helen S. Smith Gallery of Green River Community College's Holman Library. For exhibit information, call the college at 833-9111.
