Funding pays off in city election

By KURT HERZOG

Phil Watkins wasn't one of the better known candidates when he entered the Federal Way City Council race, but his fund-raising skills apparently helped change that.

Phil Watkins, the top vote-getter in Position 7 in the May 16 primary election, also was the leader in the amount of money raised and spent among all primary election candidates.

Watkins had raised $3,768 in cash and in-kind contributions through May 4. More recent reports of fund-raising activity were not yet available through the state Public Disclosure Commission (PDC).

Watkins also leads all 37 candidates in the amount of money spent with $3,703 spent on brochures, mailings and other costs.

Watkins is trailed in the amount of money raised by Bob Stead, who took first place in Position 6. Stead raised $3,494 and spent $2,407.

Jim Webster, the top vote-getter in Position 4, raised $2,886, according to campaign disclosure documents all candidates must file with the PDC. Webster spent $1,104.

Watkins, a senior research analyst with the Republican Party in the state Senate, also leads in the number of contributors who donated to his campaign.

Through May 4, 89 contributors had donated to Watkins. Only 10 of those 89 contributors live within the Federal Way city limits. Many others are from the Puget Sound area, but some contributions came from people living in Arkansas, Connecticut, Colorado, Maryland, New Jersey, Virginia, Illinois, California and Louisiana.

New boundaries shuffle students

By MELODIE STEIGER

They explained. They offered condolences. They asked for support.

But in the end, all five members of the Federal Way School Board agreed that, except for half a dozen modifications, a computer-drawn boundary map for local elementary schools will go into effect next year.

All five acknowledged that the boundary changes which make room for the new Silver Lake Elementary School and remake boundaries of several existing Federal Way schools, would not please everybody.

They were right.

"I think all the decisions were made before we came here tonight. I wonder why they invited us here," said Rick Riegle, a parent who attended Monday's school board meeting to protest that his neighborhood is now split between Brigadoon and Olympic View elementary schools. "I think it was a rubber stamp of a computer printout."

"It was only a couple of months ago that my daughter stopped saying, 'Let's go back to where I was happy,'" said Jonni Morris, who recently moved to a Twin Lakes neighborhood that will next year switch to Olympic View. "I don't know what the next option is."

Although the school board may later decide to allow the grandfathering of next year's sixth-graders into their old schools, options for further exceptions to the new boundary map will be slim next year. Dolores Gibbons, assistant superintendent for elementary education, has announced a get-tough policy on student transfers from one school to another.

"In the past, we've been lenient and we've had enough space for (transfers)," she said. "Next year, we plan to enforce the policy as it stands."

The boundary changes, which are designed to distribute the school district's 9,000-plus elementary students more evenly throughout the district's 17

Keeping up the pace

A DRIVER SPRINTS to his truck to be next in line to haul a load of dirt out of the Goodwill Games pool under construction in West Campus. Workers are just completing excavation of the pool and soon will begin forming the pool walls and putting on the roof decking, said Phil Birk, project manager for the Sabey Corp. Birk said the pool remains on schedule to open in April 1990. Meanwhile, a group trying to raise funds for increased seating at the pool is seeking donors who would like various parts of the pool to bear their name. In fact, for $4 million, a donor can have the entire facility named after him or her. Smaller donations to the World Class Splash campaign will allow donors to attach their name to the Olympic-size pool ($1 million), the locker rooms ($100,000), small seating sections ($15,000) and other parts of the facility. The names of smaller donors ($400 to $1,000) will be listed on an "honor wall."

Gang plans

Officials learn lesson in LA

By MELODIE STEIGER

The schools are spotless, the only buildings in the city unscathed by graffiti.

High iron fences surround them. Some of those fences, the ones in the toughest neighborhoods, are topped by barbed wire. The fences keep the uninvited out. They also keep the students in.

The kids are friendly, visitors report. They are also prey to the gangs that are now an everyday fact of life in Los Angeles.

"It felt like I was in another world, and it wasn't a good feeling," said Pam Morris Stendal. "But I have to hand it to the (Los Angeles) school district — those people weren't giving up."

Stendal, health and drug/alcohol curriculum coordinator for the Federal Way School District, was one of six local school administrators who flew to Los Angeles in late April to view the gang-related problems and solutions of the Los Angeles Unified School District. The two-day trip cost the school district $1,800.

The visiting team also included Joe Pope, principal of Illahee Junior High; Ed Novak, principal of Lakeland Elementary School; Ann Gentle, principal of Thomas Jefferson High School; Tom Murphy, assistant superintendent for secondary

Frostbite doesn't chill her devotion

By LYNN KEEBAUGH

Shirley Grinnell once suffered frostbite on her fingers while passing out frozen turkey hind-quarters at the Federal Way Food Bank.

The feeling gradually returned to her fingers, but the volunteer spirit that has made Grinnell a mainstay at the food bank has never left her.

Grinnell, who has eight years behind her at the food bank, has been named South King County Multi-Service Center (MSC) Volunteer of the Year. It came as a surprise to her, but not to the people who work with Grinnell.

"We haven't got one volunteer who isn't great, but Shirley is being honored for her length of time and loyalty and because she is totally reliable and a hard worker," said Shirley Karli, food bank manager.

Karli and other food bank employees and volunteers say Grinnell is at her best with the food bank clients.

"SHE LISTENS well to people and never looks down on them. It's hard enough for many of our clients to come in here, but she

Strike brings boom, bust to neighboring businesses

By WENDY CULVERWELL

Striking grocery store employees probably didn't mean to rearrange the economic landscapes of their communities when they began picketing the likes of Albertson's.

But that's what they did.

Businesses that depend on the volume of traffic generated by neighboring grocery stores for their survival are caught in the crossfire between striking clerks and meatcutters and Allied Employers Inc., negotiating agent for grocery chains such as Safeway and Albertson's.

How such businesses in Federal Way are weathering the strike depends, of course, on their location and the nature of their products.

Joe Bingham, owner of Hollywood Video next to the Twin Lakes Albertson's, says his business is down 60 percent.

"I'm disgusted," he said. "It's absolutely ridiculous."

Bingham's store is in a prime location to pick up customers coming in and out of Albertson's, but with picketers walking the parking-lot perimeter, customers have stayed away from the shopping center in droves. Only a handful of cars were in the lot Friday morning.

BINGHAM wonders glumly if anyone will be interested in buying his store if the strike holds out.

His neighbor, Hair's The Place, also depends on walk-by traffic coming in and out of the grocery store. Frank Romano, Hair's The Place's owner, said his business is down as much as Bingham's.

What's more, Romano said, he has 12 employees, eight of them stylists who work on a commission basis. Without their commissions, he said, they can't afford to buy groceries.

Romano is careful not to

Governor gave us vote of confidence

When Gov. Booth Gardner signed HB 1671 last week, it was something like seeing the match was lit in a spy thriller, just before the fuse was lit.

The governor's signature forces the city of Tacoma to perform an EIS on the $48 million incinerator project in the Tacoma tideflats. In signing, Gardner had to resist the fierce campaign by Tacoma Public Utilities and city officials, many of them friends from his days as Pierce County Executive.

In other words, the governor showed both insight and courage in signing the bill, drafted by Sen. Peter von Reichbauer. Those are welcome traits in a leader. More welcome and more vital was the message sent to other elected leaders — and to potential polluters — that the public will have some say in protecting air and water quality.

The EIS will be expensive, if performed. So would a lawsuit. A loophole in the legislation would allow the utility to burn wood and coal, and to omit burning garbage, which was its original purpose. By sidestepping the intent of the law that way, city leaders would confirm the suspicion that they have something to hide. From the days when a "declaration of non-significance was issued on the project until the EIS was made a requirement, the city has ducked this issue.

Whether they have a legitimate case or not, their conduct has been incomprehensible. Despite repeated and anxious queries from citizens' groups about possible contaminants, noise or other hazards, city leaders stalled, confounded and turned a deaf ear. At any point in the process, the city council could have decided to demand an EIS.

One clear conclusion emerges. The council needs a good shakeup, and we hope voters throughout the city will look hard at which members of this council were either ignorant or passive about the possible hazards.

Protect your kids, smile at strangers

Hearing about the rash of recent attempts to abduct local children from the streets, we thought of the boogie-man of folklore.

Or was it folklore? Did ancient communities invent an anonymous stranger who preyed on children, a handy symbol of parental anxiety, to keep kids close to the village? Or have there always been deviant humans among us, and have parents always had to cope with the possibility that a misfit might randomly molest one of their offspring?

Are we neurotic to tighten up when we hear these tales? Could an innocent stranger be wronged by accused of malice when all he wanted was directions to the mall? For the sake of those strangers, we hope the community reacts both with vigilance and mercy in such cases.

As law enforcement discovers that, one consequence of rapid growth is the discovery that it brings a greater likelihood of crime and grime. It also stirs a natural resentment of strangers who show up on our streets. The vigilance is healthy, but so is a warm welcome to anyone who happens to be house-hunting, looking for the home of some other newcomer to the neighborhood, and not used to our cul de sacs.

That welcome can make a difference of someone who will someday keep an eye on our own kids. And if not, anyone whose motives are less pure will know we look out for each other here, something even a sizable police department cannot provide.

Let's keep our new city both safe and sane, offering strangers a tolerant smile instead of slamming the door as we hex them with an evil eye.

Oldtimers got here just ahead of pizza

One grump said to the other, commenting on the recent city council primary, "Geez, I didn't know life-long residency was a requirement for getting elected around here!"

Well, it wasn't, and even if it was, life-long residency in Federal Way isn't asking much. Vance Lelli qualified, and he's barely 25. On the other hand, Lelli missed the cut, in spite of his bloodlines.

Others survived, notably a woman from North Dakota, a woman from Indiana, and a man from Beaver Creek, Ohio. They were hotly pursued by refugees from Southern California, Illinois and Connecticut. Not a true native among them, since the only true native of Federal Way is either a chinchilla or a former staffer at C. Ralph Fleming, the granddaddy of local real estate firms.

But there is a way to tell a Federal Way pioneer from those carpetbaggers who moved here only in the last 20 years. The clues:

While driving the main drag (Pacific Highway South), a pioneer may mumble, "We used to call it 99." Passing the former Peoplesbank at South 312th, now a U.S. Bank, he will remark, "Huh. Lundstrom's used to sit about here."

Mike Robinson

He (or she) may mention that kids once caught frogs in what is now Frederick's of Hollywood. (Maybe they still do.) Ask him about the Adamek's and he'll reminisce for half the afternoon about the eccentric couple who used to run a outhouse here.

Only a thimbleful of hardy individuals could claim more than 40 years' residence. That bunch is too bright to consider spending the next two years contemplating land use law when they could be exploring quaint shops in Santa Fe.

Poke around far enough in the history of this place and you hit a dry hole. Nobody remembers. Beyond 1940, area history turns to anthropology, a scrapbook of torn pages. And before that, it must have been deer country. Indian trails. A figment of imagination where Babe the Blue Ox roamed.

Someone may still recall a resort club. They were peppered around area lakes. They're gone now, but they used to have some great dances out here. (You get an image of women with carefully coiffured hair, jitterbugging, flying over the shoulders of men in funny suits.)

In 40-odd years, those memories have gotten scarce. No midnight hoofers stroll the woody paths along Trout Lake, while Glenn Miller tunes follow them faintly through the summer air.

We are stuck with candidates of comparatively dewy youth, whose lifetimes here began when fast food was already on the horizon. Surely someone ordered pizza here before 1979, when a couple of the candidates arrived. There must have been dozens of families who kept the televisions turned on when Bob Wood (Position 5) showed up to sell them some insurance, back in the 60s.

Most of us got here even later, after SeaTac Mall (1970), and we're still coming to town. (The first order of business for the council will probably be adding a left turn lane to get into city hall.)

Meanwhile, this new community and newer city has only begun to flex its muscles. What we need most, in getting started smartly, is a sense of humor, not candidates with kennel papers going back to World War II.

Hooligans took Hayek letter to heart

Editor: Judge Carolyn Hayek has done a grave disservice to the election process and to neutrality and interpretation of the law (April 23, Letters to the Editor, "Candidate signs may violate law").

We have collectively been residents of the Federal Way area over 25 years and have never seen such disrespect for private property rights concerning campaign signs since we have resided here. Not only was there no respect for the individual signs that were confiscated en masse, and were paid for by people's hard-earned money, but in many cases, labor and the dedication of the various candidates in assembling, staking and placing the signs appropriately are all added expense.

Many signs, without considering the private property rights of the people putting signs in their front lawns, were stolen sometimes in broad daylight or late night.

Defacement of property, or stolen property, is much more a violation of the law and much more serious of a crime than merely placing signs on the county right-of-way. We must never get caught up in the minutia of the letter of the law, overlooking completely the spirit and thereby making the law of no effect.

Judge Hayek, by trying to enforce the law as a judge and not remaining neutral and silent, thereby justified hooliganism by those with no respect for private property and opened a floodgate of lawlessness. Yet recently, when cruisers at SeaTac Mall were arraigned before her, they were set free because the police were doing their job too well and trying to stop that activity from occurring. Of course, by her way of thinking, signs on the county-right-of-way are a much more important issue than cruising at SeaTac Mall.

Judge Hayek, you have done the candidates who have spent their time, talents and money as well as the voting public of Federal Way a grave disservice. Neutrality would be your best course and an apology would not be unacceptable.

I won election, but they're the reason

Editor: Before we put the primary election for city council candidates too far behind us, I must thank the people who had the faith to vote for me and to work in my campaign infrastructure. When people congratulate me on this fine victory, I cannot help but point out that I had only one vote — they made the difference and deserve the praise. Thanks to my campaign directors, doorbellers, phone bank managers, yard signpersons, to those who arrange coffee meetings, publicity, brochures, mailings, and fundraising. I'm glad you're all on my side.

40 mph limit on 99 is preposterous

Editor: The proposal to reduce the speed limit to 40 mph south of South 348th Street on Pacific Highway South is preposterous. The only traffic problems in this area are not caused by speed, but by the appallingly poor standard of driving encountered on the average trip through Federal Way.

Tail-gating, failure to use turn signals, dawdling in the left lane, cutting corners, lack of common courtesy, inattention at problems! — these are the problems!

For those uncomfortable with the 50 mph speed limit, there is a perfectly simple solution: stay in the right hand lane. You can drive there in peace at 40 mph, while the rest of us can be on our way without having to steer around you. The Washington State Patrol is dreaming if they think a 40 mph limit will be adhered to in this area.

Not all candidates report campaign spending

ing outside the electorate to contribute to a political campaign.

Watkins, who has lived in Federal Way for four years, said he hasn't started fund-raising in Federal Way yet. So far, he's contacted close friends for contributions, he said.

"I've asked for money from my lifelong friends and family," he said.

Several contributions came from elected officials or political campaign committees in other parts of the state including $200 from Sen. Stan Johnson, of Tacoma, $100 from the Committee to Elect Steve Van Loven to the Bellevue City Council, and $100 from the Sen. Cliff Bailey Campaign Fund. All are Republicans.

Watkins isn't sure how much money he's raised since May 4 and said he doesn't know how much he expects to spend by the end of the campaign.

Watkins' challenger in the Sept. 19 final city council election is Lynn Templeton. Templeton had raised $1,565 through May 1 and had spent $741. Templeton had a total of 15 contributors to his campaign. One of those contributors lives outside Federal Way.

Templeton said he's concerned that so many of Watkins' contributors live outside Federal Way, and even outside the state.

"This disturbs me a great deal," Templeton said. "This is a community-based campaign. That concerns me and it should concern the voters."

"(Watkins) is a political professional. That's his job. He knows how to raise political funds."

Templeton, development director of the Boys' and Girls' Clubs of King County, said he won't even try to keep up with Watkins' fund-raising efforts.

"I have no intention of keeping up with him financially," Templeton said. "My campaign has been one of person-to-person rather than dollar-to-dollar."

ALL CANDIDATES must file a variety of forms with the PDC announcing their candidacy, disclosing any possible conflicts of interest and reporting donations and expenditures.

Candidates have three different reporting options they may choose, depending on how much money they plan to raise.

Option I is used by candidates who plan to spend no more than $500. Option II may be used by candidates who will spend no more than $2,000. No contribution may be more than $200, except the candidate's own personal funds. Option III is considered full reporting and there are no limits on the amount that may be raised or spent.

As of May 4, three candidates had not filed anything. Those candidates are Fred Jaber, who came in last in Position 2, Harold Johnson, who came in fourth in Position 4, and Merva Cheha, who came in fifth in Position 7.

Several candidates did not file the necessary campaign contribution or expenditure disclosure forms. Those candidates are: Ethan (Rick) Allen, Position 1; Al Frank, Position 2;

Mark Freitas, Position 2; Dave Froyalde, Position 3; Michelle Lewis, Position 5; Steve Massey, Position 5; Ray Sherman, Position 7.

Several candidates chose the Option II abbreviated form of reporting and don't have to file a list of campaign contributions and expenditures until June 6.

Those who chose full reporting and did file reports recorded the following figures through May 4:

Position 1: Mary Gates, raised $2,200 and spent $148; Bill Shortt, raised $1,931. The amount spent by Shortt was unavailable from the PDC.

Position 2: Al Frank, raised $110 but no expenditure report was available; Joel Marks, raised $1,588 and spent $359.

Position 3: Debbie Ertel, raised $1,135 and spent $400. Candidates Jo Asbury, Lew Drohman, Ben Gittings, Larry Jones and Vance Lelli all chose the Option II abbreviated form of reporting.

Position 4: Elaine Cook, raised $1,198 and spent $198; Ray Tomlinson, raised $1,565 and spent $741.

Position 5: Jim Handmacher, raised $683 and spent $131; David Wallace planned to spend $500 of his own money but no expenditure reports were available; Bob Wood also planned to use $300 of his own money, but no expenditure reports were available.

Position 6: Richard Feutz, raised $100, but no expenditure reports were available; Ken Pease raised $391 and spent $391, John Ridley took out a $2,550 loan and spent $572.

Position 7: Don Miller, raised $548 and spent nothing through May 4; Ken Poyneer chose Option II.

For those 14 candidates still in the running, it's expected that many will end up raising two or three times as much money as they've raised so far, according to some candidates.

Most of their money spent in the primary campaign went for printing of campaign brochures and yard signs. Newspaper ads also ate up a chunk of the total amount spent.

Those 14 candidates still in the running will face it in the Sept. 19 final election.

Fences, ID part of gang security

education; and Ron Sensenbach, director of school security.

THE VISITING TEAM is in the process of drawing up recommendations for gang prevention at Federal Way schools based on ideas suggested by the trip. Those recommendations will probably include forming a task force of district personnel and local businesspeople to examine further action, said Murphy.

"I'd say we'll move cautiously, plan well and involve a lot of people," Murphy added. "We're in a position now to take a serious look at what we can do so we won't have a problem."

District administrators hope the Los Angeles visit will help Federal Way schools avoid gang-related problems, now that gangs have moved to the Northwest in search of lucrative drug business.

Apparently, Los Angeles administrators wish they had looked ahead to similar problems some years ago.

"The security officers said that had they been proactive six, eight years ago, they would not be where they are now," said Sensenbach. "They feel now that they are not gaining on the situation."

The Los Angeles Unified School District is a small city unto itself. It has 600,000 students (Federal Way has 16,400), 640 schools and a 50 percent dropout rate. Some 2,500 to 3,000 new teachers are hired there every year. Administrators work out of at least three buildings, each two and three stories high.

The schools are surrounded by the graffiti that covers homes, businesses, park benches and construction. Kids rush out from hiding to spray buses stopped at intersections. The graffiti, gang experts say, is gang related, a way to mark territory.

BUT THE SCHOOLS themselves are scrubbed and manicured. Weeding is a common punishment for students. The schools' cleanliness indicates that these are "neutral zones" — safe places to be.

A dress code is strictly enforced. No baggy pants, no baseball hats, no gang-related colors and no earrings for boys. All are costumes adopted by Los Angeles gangs.

Fences wrap around each school. Two armed police officers patrol all secondary schools, along with two to five security guards. Some elementary schools also have security guards.

All students and teachers have identification cards, and show them to security guards as they enter school. Visitors are issued cards, too, and are escorted throughout the building.

Some classroom doors are locked while class is in session, said Morris Stendal.

"It was really a controlled prison," she added.

It's all intended to keep out the drug trafficking by gangs, and the violence between members. It doesn't always work, since students must cross gang-infested communities to get to school, their "neutral zone."

Security guards there expect at least four or five students a day to get shot in gang-related incidents between now and the end of the school year, said Sensenbach. The Federal Way security director visited the scene of a gang-related shooting — two rounds of gunfire had been blasted into a school bus.

"One shot went through the passenger window. The little girl had leaned forward to talk to a friend. If she hadn't, she would have been struck," said Sensenbach. "It was a pretty traumatized bunch of kids."

WITHIN THE SCHOOLS, teachers and administrators are fighting back with parent education, community involvement and tough standards.

Every school uses the DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program, which brings police officers into the classroom to talk about the dangers of drug use. The Federal Way School District and King County police plan to expand the local DARE program to include all 17 elementary schools here next year.

Los Angeles business owners are encouraged to sign up for the Adopt-a-School program, used to link students with the working world. Adopting businesses are urged to meet their adoptees by talking to classes about the business world or providing tutors to students.

"What they want these kids to know is that a working value is important. They want to say that you may not get a yuppy job with lots of money, but you can have a job you're pleased with," said Morris Stendal.

LOS ANGELES schools also emphasize parent involvement. If a student comes in for detention on weekends, a parent comes too, for classes on parenting skills.

"Everybody there said this is crucial," said Morris Stendal. "If something is taught about ethics, self esteem or decision making, that information goes home to parents, too."

The overriding philosophies for gang-related curriculum include prevention, particularly for younger students, parent education and community involvement, said district visitors. Also emphasized was that gangs are the result of juvenile delinquency, not racial strife.

"We have to ask ourselves, 'Do we have a problem in terms of drugs?' and the answer is, probably not, compared to the bigger cities," said Pope. "But we do have a problem, because we do have juvenile delinquency."

The hope is that any juvenile delinquency problem here won't grow into a gang problem.

"I just hope we don't ever have to take the steps they take there to get away from gangs," said Sensenbach.

Grinnell honored for service to food bank

makes them all feel comfortable," Kari said.

One group of food bank users even wrote a letter to Grinnell, thanking her for the kindness with which she treats them as they come into the food bank to check in and receive their groceries.

Grinnell has been with the food bank at three locations including the current site and plans to be around when it moves this fall into the Elks Club building the MSC is in the process of buying.

She said she became a volunteer at the food bank when she heard people say they didn't believe there was a great need for social services in Federal Way.

"I started volunteering to find out for myself. I wanted to be able to answer people when they asked if there were needy in Federal Way," Grinnell said.

AND GRINNELL will testify that there are needy in Federal Way, more now than ever. When she first started handing out groceries in the basement of a trophy shop on Pacific Highway South near Midway, the pace was slow enough volunteers could bag the groceries as the clients came in.

These days it's an assembly line procedure, often with 200 or more clients coming to the food bank for help, Grinnell said.

She works three days a week at the food bank most of the year, but around holiday season, Grinnell said she finds herself putting in five days a week. She's trying to taper off a bit now so she can get some of her yard work done.

Grinnell also is active in her church, All Saints Lutheran, and is a member of the MSC Community Caregiving Network. She got her start in volunteerism about 15 years ago when she helped out in school libraries during a teacher's strike, and ran bingo games for a local nursing home.

In the meantime, she raised six children, who span an age range of 21 to 33. Her two youngest still are at home while they attend Highline Community College.

Grinnell said she'll keep working at the food bank because she knows there always will be work to be done, and she knows it's work that is appreciated.

"YOU MEET a lot of really nice people who appreciate everything you do. And you're certainly not wasting your time."

Grinnell said she can't help but be saddened by the fact that many of the food bank's clients are folks who have "fallen through the cracks," and have no place else to turn. Many more are the elderly who can't make ends meet on their pension checks.

But the food bank, like other MSC service agencies, is trying to put itself out of business, Grinnell said. Food bank staff keep notices of job and training opportunities as well as other aid programs posted on the walls, and workers have added a phone so clients can make calls on the spot.

The food bank is just one of the services offered by the MSC. It not only feeds those who need help in Federal Way, the food bank acts as a clearing house for other food banks in the MSC service area.

The MSC also offers literacy, housing, energy aid, transportation, clothing and health programs for those who qualify. It picks a Volunteer of the Year annually from department head recommendations from throughout the agency, and a select panel makes the final choice from a narrowed field of three.

Also to be honored with Grinnell at a special luncheon tomorrow are Betty Swanson of the literacy program and Cathy Perry, who works in the energy assistance office on Vashon Island.

The MSC serves South King County from Interstate 90 south to the Pierce County line and from the Cascades west to Vashon.

Tea time

TEA, MUSIC, HATS AND polished silver were all on hand for the Centennial Silver Tea, held Sunday at Calvary Lutheran Church in honor of women's contributions to the growth of Federal Way. Nearly 80 women, active here throughout several past decades, listened to Harmony Unlimited, a local musical group, and introduced themselves over tea and cookies. Partaking in the tea are Vicki Nedrow (left) and Mary Gates (center). The tea, sponsored by the Federal Way Centennial Committee, was staffed by volunteers such as Connie Britt (right).

TJ student takes first in national marketing contest

Patricia Donovan said her first-place win at a recent conference of students in the Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) gave her a feeling like no other.

"The whole state stood up and clapped for me," she said. "It was just exciting."

Well, OK, the entire state didn't stand up and cheer. But all students from Washington DECA clubs who attended their national conference in Florida last month certainly offered their congratulations. Donovan, a senior at Thomas Jefferson High School, was the only student from Washington state to take first place in an overall category at national DECA competition.

Donovan took first place in the general marketing, supervisory level category, one of 26 categories of competition at nationals.

Like other DECA students from Thomas Jefferson, Federal Way and Decatur high schools, Donovan competed in area and state DECA meets to earn her trip to nationals.

Patricia Donovan

At nationals, she took her topic and role-played marketing situations for judges. One of her final tests included helping a make-believe restaurateur select the right location for his business.

DECA students show off fashions

Summer fashions and swim-suits will be featured at a fashion show to be held tomorrow night at Thomas Jefferson High School.

Summer wear, denim and leather and evening wear are all on the agenda for the show, which will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the Thomas Jefferson High School cafeteria. The school is at 4248 S. 288th St.

The show is sponsored by the school's Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) chapter, and proceeds from admission fees will benefit the club. DECA students not only arranged the fashion show, but will model the clothes, too.

The show is arranged by Academy III, a Seattle modeling studio. Clothes on display have been contributed by several local shops, including Mervyn's, Foxmoor and Saturdays.

Door prizes from local businesses will be awarded during the evening.

Admission to the show is $3 for students with identification, and $3.50 general.

For more information call Thomas Jefferson High School at 839-7490.

DECA is not the only organization to reward Donovan this year. She is also the recipient of a WAVE (Washington Award for Vocational Excellence) scholarship that will pay two years' full tuition at a public or vocational/technical college.

She also has been hired for the summer by Global Commerce Corp., a local industrial distributor, which sponsored her trip to Florida.

Of the 18 local students who competed at the national conference, 10, including Donovan, received honors for their written and oral entries. They are:

- Larry Hoffman from Decatur was in the top 10 (fourth place) in entrepreneurship, participatory event.
- Willie Lee, Carol Chang, Jill Scrivener and Allison Carl, all of Decatur, were in the top 16 for their co-written public relations manual, which focused on Federal Way's cityhood.

- Rachel Jenkins of Federal Way High School landed in the top eight with her written test results in advertising.

- Jennifer Ong was one of the top 21 in apparel and accessories.

- Karen Maddock won first place for her oral test on physical distribution in apparel and accessories, master employees, and was one of the top 10 finishers in that overall category.

- Five of the seven Federal Way High School participants at nationals received certificates of excellence for their entries, according to adviser Phil Isernio. They are Maddock, Jenkins, Ong, Derrick Jennings and Sara Munson.

- Sakisha Delves of Thomas Jefferson High School was one of the top 21 contestants in general merchandising, master employee level.

Heritage League seeks family histories

All residents of Tacoma and Pierce County may submit a written family history and photograph for publication intended for reading 100 years from now.

The Heritage League of Pierce County is sponsoring the publication of the history of ordinary families in the area. Anyone who desires to leave a record for future generations can submit a 500-word family history and photograph at no cost. Special pages will be available for those wishing to memorialize a relative or tell the history of a company or business.

The Heritage League is a non-profit organization working toward the preservation of the county's history. Proceeds from the sale of the book will be reserved for a publishing revolving fund for local history authors.

For more information about the project, call Caroline Gallacci at 591-7172.

Bellarmino choir does well at festival

The Bellarmine Concert Choir recently returned from a choir festival in Portland, where the group was awarded first place.

Six Federal Way residents who attend the private school in Tacoma were in the choir. They are: Karen Tabrum, Wyn Anderson, Cathy Gaines, Eileen Usón, Emmanuel Usón and Tressa Jimerson.

Strike catches some businesses in cross fire

criticize either party in the dispute. He said he believes in the negotiation process, but that there should be a better way to reconcile.

"I'm between a rock and a hard place and I can't — won't — take sides," he said. His plea to labor and management is, "Please get it over with real fast."

One neighbor in the Albertson's shopping center is not faring so badly, however. Phil Aries, owner of the Dock Side Restaurant, is offering free coffee to picketers and a warm place to sit when the mercury dips.

"My business hasn't been hurt at all," he said, attributing his good fortune to the ease with which customers can drive up to his establishment. Also, strikers are eating their lunch at the Dock Side, he said.

Another Albertson's neighbor, P.J. Conlan, who owns Tropic Tan, said her business is down but not very noticeably.

THERE IS A Safeway store across 21st Avenue Southwest from Albertson's, where three store-hired picketers sit quietly on the curb, barely noticeable to shoppers. Safeway, which isn't being picketed by the union, hired its own picketers to show support for other Allied Employers' members.

Business on the Safeway side of 21st was noticeably higher than on the Albertson's side.

The manager of Hair Creations, next to Safeway, said her business hasn't really been affected at all.

Juanita Benzing, manager of the C & L Hallmark store, also next to Safeway, said there hasn't been any change at all.

"Our customers will come regardless," she said, indicating that greeting card stores aren't as dependent on walk-by traffic for purchases.

Meanwhile, small businesses that compete with behemoth grocery stores are sitting pretty because of the strike.

"It's helping us. The strikers are telling people to come over here," said Cerri Cerbone Reedy, who works at her family's produce market across South 312th Street from the Albertson's on Pacific Highway South.

Cerbone's had two checkers working the counters Friday morning instead of the usual one.

"We're not complaining," Reedy said with a smile.

HER NEIGHBOR, Frank and Guy's Meat Market, is also enjoying a boom in business.

Frank Spane, the Frank in the store's name, estimated that his receipts are up about 25 percent.

"It has helped our business," he said. "The people know Frank and Guy's has the meat if they want it."

His shop, Spane pointed out, is union.

Are shoppers taking to convenience stores for their groceries? Bob Denimo of the 7-

Eleven district office in Federal Way said he hasn't seen any effect, though the company is watching the strike carefully.

At the store level, however, the view is a little different. Jay Long, manager of the 7-Eleven at 31006 Pacific Highway S., estimates his business is up 30 to 50 percent and he's having trouble keeping up his stock levels.

Products that normally take a long time to exhaust are being snapped up, he said. He's also having a hard time keeping the store adequately staffed now that grocery stores are hiring non-union help. Some of his employees, Long said, are working seven days a week.

"We're liking the extra business, but having a hard time keeping up the stock," he said.

Hours are sticking point in strike

By WENDY CULVERWELL

Once upon a time, labor unions were formed to restrict, among other things, excessive work hours.

Today, the United Food and Commercial Workers Union Locals 1105 (grocery store clerks) and 81 (meat cutters) are striking against grocer chains to increase workers' hours.

"This is becoming a part-time industry and we want to stop that," said Roger Yockey, a spokesman for UFCW Local 1105.

The unions involved in the strike against such stores as Albertson's and Johnny's aren't arguing so much with the wages paid to journeyman workers — meat cutters make $13.25/hour and grocery clerks make $11.15/hour. Sunday pay scale is even more generous.

The unions have taken exception to the grocery chains' attempt to make it more difficult to achieve journeyman status. It currently takes 3,120 hours to become a journeyman. Employers have proposed to extend that to 5,201 hours.

Either goal is difficult to achieve when you work part-time with no benefits, Yockey pointed out.

"A large percentage of the grocery workers earn less than $8 an hour," Yockey said in a statement released May 17.

The union asked for a $1.52 across the board raise over the next three years. The employers offered four 20-cent-an-hour bonuses, based on hours worked, combined with three 20-cent-an-hour wage increases.

At the Seattle Center Arena the morning of May 9, grocery clerks rejected the offer 3,413 to 554. Meat cutters followed suit, turning it down by 519 to 13. The rejection set the grocery strike in motion.

The union gradually began picketing all chains involved except for Safeway, apparently to divide the employers. Safeway, however, countered by hiring its own picketers, who are fewer in number and less vocal than their union counterparts.

There are currently no negotiations taking place between employers and workers, and, according to Yockey, none are scheduled. Striking workers who picket receive $90 per week in union benefits. Courtesy clerks receive $40 per week.

As for the effect the strike is having on nearby businesses,

Yockey said he suspects that their business has increased because they don't have to compete with the grocery stores.

Allied Employers filed charges against the union on Monday, alleging that the strike is illegal because Local 1105 failed to give notice of a labor dispute to the Public Employment Relations Commission, the Washington state agency responsible for mediating labor disputes.

Allied may also file a lawsuit for monetary damages.

Stores being struck include: Albertson's, Johnny's, Thriftway, Stock Market and Fred Meyer. Safeway employees are striking but the union is not picketing those stores.

Young girl deters attacker with yelling

A 14-year-old Panther Lake area girl told police she was grabbed by a man as she walked home Friday night through her apartment complex.

The girl said she was cutting through the complex at about 9:15 p.m. when a man jumped out from behind a tree in a stand of bushes and grabbed her by the arm. She said she fell and yelled for help, and the man fled.

Police

She described her attacker as white, 20-30 years old and standing 5 feet 10 inches tall with a skinny build. He had a three-day growth of beard and a dirty face, and wore a dark blue hooded sweat jacket, blue jeans torn at the knee and a gold ring on his left hand.

Picketer gets hit with his own sign

A picketing meatcutter told police he was attacked by a store supervisor as he was trying to convince a customer to shop elsewhere.

The striking employee said he was manning the picket line at 3:45 p.m. at the Twin Lakes Albertson's, when a store supervisor came outside and said,

"Get your facts straight," as he tried to explain his union's position to a customer.

The employee said the supervisor then grabbed his picket sign, struck him in the face with it, then threw the sign under a nearby car and walked away.

The employee told police he did not want to prosecute because he feared for his job.

Teen goes to jail, sisters to a home

King County police arrested a teen-age girl Friday for assaulting a police officer and then had to take her younger sisters to a receiving home.

The girl, who told police she was 16, was discovered shortly after 11 p.m. standing in the road near her Mirror Lake area home, screaming. As an officer tried to restrain the girl and remove her from the roadway, the teen belted the officer in the face and was arrested.

The girl's two younger sisters, ages 11 and 8, told police their sister was watching them while their parents were out of state. One of the younger girls also said their sister had been drinking that evening.

The teen-ager was taken to the county youth center and her younger sisters were placed temporarily in a receiving home.

Newspaper to close for Memorial Day

The Federal Way News/Community News office will be closed Monday, May 29, for Memorial Day.

Classified advertising and editorial deadlines for the Wednesday, May 31, newspaper have been moved up. The deadline for classified advertising is Friday, May 26, at noon for display classifieds and at 5 p.m. for regular classifieds. The editorial deadline is 5 p.m. Thursday, May 25.

Retail display advertising deadlines have been moved up for the Friday, May 26, Sunday, May 28, and Wednesday, May 31, newspapers. Merchants should contact their advertising representative for details.

Some editorial and advertising employees will be in the office on Memorial Day and can be reached by calling 839-0700 or 927-4353.

Boundaries remake south-end schools

elementary schools and accommodate continued growth, will have a profound effect on several schools, including Panther Lake, Twin Lakes and Mirror Lake elementaries.

Panther Lake, Lake Grove and Olympic View elementaries will lose students to the new Silver Lake Elementary, to be built at Southwest 325th Street and about 11th Avenue South, near the Alderbrook housing development. Silver Lake students will be bused to the old Mark Twain Elementary near Star Lake next year. The new school will be complete in fall 1990.

The most sweeping changes are the cutting of the north boundary of Panther Lake, the splitting of waterfront neighborhoods between Twin Lakes and Adelaide, the eastward land-grab by Mirror Lake and the general shift east by Nautilus.

Smaller changes were made at Brigadoon, Olympic View, Lake Grove and Lake Dolloff elementaries.

Some alterations were made to the original boundary proposal, drawn up by a specially designed computer in California. Students at the north end of the former Star Lake territory had been moved to Sunnycrest Elementary, only to be put back in Star Lake by the school board's final decision Monday.

Instead, students south of 272nd will be moved from Star Lake to Valhalla.

The board also agreed with a citizens' housing committee that said a bus run should be offered to former Adelaide students who must now cross Dash Point Road to get to Twin Lakes.

Olympic View, the board agreed, should include 32nd Avenue Southwest into its boundaries, and Twin Lakes will include a small neighborhood on St. Teresa Lane.

Summer fun

Kids' activities abound once school adjourns

Federal Way students and their parents already are well aware that June 16 is the last day of school.

Many of them, however, probably have not given much thought to what happens on June 17, or July 17, or Aug. 17. What starts as yelling and cheering when the final bell tolls all too often turns to groans of "There's nothing to do!" by midsummer.

A little planning now, though, will keep the kids entertained and the television set off. The following programs are open to children from this area.

WONDER WEEKS '89

The summer camp program sponsored by the Federal Way Boys' and Girls' Club will be held at Mirror Lake Elementary School this year. The all-day supervised program for children ages 6 to 12 offers a variety of activities, including arts, crafts, games and swimming.

Tuition is $50 per week, with sessions starting June 20 and lasting until Aug. 13. The Wonder Weeks program has filled quickly in the past, so register soon. Registration can be for any combination of weeks. Call the Boys' and Girls' Club at 941-2722 for information or stop by 30815 Eighth Ave. S. Camp hours are 7 a.m. to 6 p.m., with planned activities between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

TEEN SUMMER

This is the first year the Federal Way Boys' and Girls' Club has offered a planned summer program for youth ages 13 to 15. With the help of trained counselors, teens will plan and organize their own activities.

Teen Summer begins June 19 and lasts until Aug. 18. The fee is $40 per week, after a club membership of $12 is paid. Call 941-2722 for registration information.

PERFORMING ARTS DAY CAMP

Seattle Parks and Recreation will hold the camp at the Langston Hughes Cultural Arts Center. Its participants, ages 5 to 12, will learn to act, sing, dance, play drums and will produce a play. The all-day camp costs $40 per week and scholarships are available.

Session sizes are limited, and the Langston Hughes Center is served by Metro #27. Contact Steve Sneed at 684-4757 for details.

AUBURN KIDSDAY

June 23 is KidsDay in Auburn, and a variety of programs have been organized to make kids feel special.

The mayor and seven councilmembers will be replaced for the day by kids, and there will be free tours of fire stations, the airport and the White River Historical Museum.

The Auburn Library will screen movies and restaurants are offering discounts. For information, call 931-3043.

DAY CAMP IN KENT

Mill Creek Canyon Earthworks Park is the camp site for the Kent Parks summer youth program, open to children ages 6 to 12.

The cost is $50 per week and the hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., weekdays, with extended hours available.

Campers will take weekly field trips, go swimming, and do arts and crafts. A $10 deposit, per week, will secure the camper's place in the camp. Call 859-3599 for information.

DASH POINT DAY CAMP

Girl Scout day camp will be held from July 24 to 28 at Dash Point State Park. The fee ranges from $25 to $30 for Scouts in grades 1 through 7. It is open to non-Scouts as well. The registration period ends June 2, so act quickly.

Address questions to Kerry Bailey, 874-3328, or to Midge Ellefson, 854-9213.

CAMP SEALTH OVERTNIGHT CAMP

The 400-acre campgrounds on Vashon Island is open to campers ages 6 to 18.

Sessions vary from three- to eight-days, depending on campers' ages. The season starts June 25 and ends Aug. 25. The fee ranges from $115 to $125. For a brochure and registration information, call 1-800-451-CAMP.

Children with medical considerations such as asthma, hearing or visual impairments, epilepsy or diabetes are welcome at Camp Sealth.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

If you are over 15, Seattle Parks needs you to help with its Special Programs Camp.

Volunteers will work in Seattle parks with people ages 5 to 21 who have mental, behavioral or physical disabilities. The program runs June 27 through Aug. 18. Call Elva at 684-4950 for information.

CAMP FIRE THEME CAMP

Science, sports and nature will be emphasized at specialty camps offered by Camp Fire at St. James of Thomas School at 8207 S. 280th St. in Kent. Sessions begin June 26 and last until Aug. 25. They are open to first through fifth graders.

Fees range from $42 to $54, on a sliding-scale basis. Additional hours are available to accommodate working parents'

THE FEDERAL WAY Library will repeat its summer reading program this year. Mindy Workman and Mike Siegler (above) participated in last year's program. This year's theme is the state Centennial, and the library will feature exchanges with its sister library in Yakima. See the accompanying story for a list of summer activities for kids.

schedules.

Call Katherine Sanford at 461-8550 for details.

PACIFIC SCIENCE CENTER

The center is sponsoring study-oriented camps ranging from a chemistry day camp at the center to a geology camp that includes an overnight trip to Mount St. Helens.

For a copy of the camp offerings, call 443-2925.

GO TO COLLEGE

Green River Community College is offering summer camps in baseball, volleyball, soccer, softball, theater, voice, leadership, and cheerleading. They range in length from two days to a month.

Camps are offered for everyone from first graders to adults and fees vary. Contact GRCC at 833-9111, ext. 337, for information and a schedule.

STAY IN SCHOOL

Summer school in the Federal Way School District begins in June, and detailed information will be available to parents very soon at all schools.

Elementary classes will be held June 26 to July 21 at Mirror Lake Elementary School. Senior and junior high classes will be held at Decatur High School June 26 to Aug. 4.

Driver education will also be available. Contact your local school for registration information.

FEDERAL WAY LIBRARY READING PROGRAM

Registration for the annual summer reading program starts June 17 at the library. This year's theme follows the state's Centennial celebration. Various activities that promote reading will be held throughout the summer.

Also, every library in the state is paired with another library for exchange programs. The Federal Way Library's sister library is in Yakima.

Students are also invited to pick up entry forms for the "Slug Pageant" at the library on June 16. The essay contest asks participants to describe their favorite slug in 50 words or less. The winner will be announced at a program at 2 p.m., June 26.

The library is at 848 S. 320th St. Call 839-0257 for information.

KING COUNTY PARKS

A new session of King County Parks classes and activities will commence the week of June 19. Contact the Federal Way Community Center, 941-0655, for a catalog.

Lifeguards will be on duty at Steel Lake Park from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., seven days a week and will be on hand throughout the summer.

THEATER WORKSHOP

The Puget Sound Musical Theatre and the Federal Way School District will sponsor a summer musical theater workshop for kids, ages 8 to 13, June 26 to 29, at Totem Junior High School. Students will be taught performance skills including dance, music and drama. Local performing professionals will teach the classes.

The cost is $125 per child, plus expenses for costumes. The program is limited to 50 enrollees. Call Mary Jean McDonald at 246-9180 for information.

TEEN COLLEGE AT HCC

Teens ages 12 to 15 can choose from 19 different teen-oriented classes at Highline Community College. The four-week classes will be held Mondays and Wednesdays, June 26 to July 19. Subjects include beginning acting, cheerleading, TV production, creative writing and photography. The fees average about $50. Call 878-3710, ext. 341, for registration information.

DAY CAMP AT HCC

Highline Community College will offer its Kid Power day camp for 6- to 9-year-olds June 19 to Aug. 4. Camp will meet from 9 a.m. to noon, Mondays through Thursdays and the fee is $20 per week. Call 878-3710, ext. 224 for details.

TOM THUMB DAY CAMP

The King County Parks day camp for 3- and 4-year-olds encourages interaction and development of social skills through arts and crafts and other games. The camp meets from 10 a.m. to noon, Tuesdays and Thursdays, three sessions:

July 11 to 20, July 25 to Aug. 3, and Aug. 8 to 17.

Playdaze Day Camp for 5- and 6 year-olds will be held from 10 a.m. to noon, Mondays and Wednesdays, three sessions: July 10 to 19, July 24 to Aug. 2, and Aug. 7 to 16.

The fee for both programs is 28.60 per session, and they will take place at the Federal Way Community Center, 2645 S. 312th St. Call 941-0655 for more information.

Job-searching?

Job-search assistance is available at low or no cost through Highline Community College. Call Women's Programs, 878-3710, ext. 340.

CANCER OF THE TESTICLE

Cancer of the testicle is one of the most common malignancies in men aged 15 to 34, but can occur at any age. Symptoms often go unnoticed until they have spread to the lymph nodes or lungs, where treatment is much more difficult.

Men who have accidents in the delicate, exposed region of the testicle, such as those involved in sports or other physical activity may be more likely to develop testicular cancer. Others who may be at high risk are men with history of glandular illnesses with a high fever, like mumps; and men with history of undescended testicle, treated or not.

Nearly all testicular tumors are malignant, and early detection is crucial. Self examination is strongly recommended. Normally the testicle is smooth, firm and oval in shape. Any small, hard lumps, scrotal swelling, tenderness or feeling of heaviness needs to be immediately reported to a physician.

Decatur booters advance into semifinals

By JOE DELMORE

Decatur's defense kept Shorecrest's vaunted offense at bay for 90 minutes, and then the Gators won a shootout Saturday night at High School Memorial Stadium.

The 1-0 victory advances Decatur (13-2-2) to the semifinals of the state Class AAA boys' soccer playoffs Friday against Newport at Seattle's Memorial Stadium at 8 p.m.

"This was a great win for us," said Gators' coach Rick Dennison after the dramatic quarterfinal victory on a wind-swept field. "We have played our hearts out all season. Our defense played exceptionally well. We marked up their No. 2 player (Jason Rarrell). We played an irregular style, but it shut their offense down."

Dennison was particularly pleased with the play of defender Derek Baker and midfielder Jeff Hamling. Baker scored what proved to be the decisive goal in shootout, on the 11th shot.

Equally decisive was the missed shot of Shorecrest's Vinnie Dahline. His blast, the 12th of the shootout, sailed over the net and fell harmlessly behind. Dahline put his hands to face in frustration as the game ended.

The shootout provided most of the offensive excitement in the game.

It started with the Gators' Jeff Johnson scoring. Then Shorecrest's Kevin Chapko put one past a diving Ryan Berg. Decatur's Tom Simonson reached the net with his free kick, as did Shorecrest's Matt Greenup.

On successive shots, Decatur's Hamling and Shorecrest's Scott Powell scored. Sisto Pina booted a shot into the left corner of the goal for Decatur, then Rarrell scored.

Then the pattern changed. Sean Young of the Gators had his shot blocked by Schlutz. But Shorecrest's Shawn Meyler failed to tally with his shot. That set up Baker's game-winning score.

Until the shootout, the two teams featured hard-nosed defenses with occasional scoring opportunities. Shorecrest dominated play in the opening 40 minutes. The Scots' Scott Powell had a clear shot on goal at 38:19 but it sailed wide of the net. Rarrell's penalty kick was wide of the net at 14:33.

Decatur's offense, stuck outside the 20-yard-line for much of the period, had a good opportunity to score late in the period. But forward Jamie Carter missed a header from a kick by Young.

Chapko hit the cross bar on a close in shot for the Scots just before halftime.

The defenses continued to dominate the second half. Then, with about 10 minutes left in the game, the action heated up.

A header by Pina skipped off the top of the goal and a close-in shot by Young was stopped by the Scots' Schultz at 2:30.

Neither team could score in the two five-minute overtime periods. That set up the shootout and eventual win for Decatur.

"We lost in a shootout nine years ago, so this was a great win," said Dennison.

Skyhawks nab title

The Totem Skyhawks boys' U-11 soccer team captured first place at the Sagebrush Shootout in Richland over the weekend.

The Skyhawks opened tournament play with a 1-1 tie against the Richland Spartans Saturday morning, thanks to the outstanding goalkeeping efforts of Matt Wallace, who made some outstanding saves.

The Skyhawks followed with a 4-0 victory over the Kennewick Nomads Saturday afternoon, and then added a 6-1 win against the Richland Falcons Sunday morning.

Because the Skyhawks were tied with the Spartans in points, those two teams had to go into a shootout immediately following the Sunday morning game. The Skyhawks prevailed by a 5-4 margin to advance to the championship game.

Skyhawk players scoring goals in the shootout were

Scott McNeil, Nick Castro, Josh McCarty, Wes Rock and Jeff Shaflik.

The Skyhawks went on to play the Pasco Steelers in a 2 p.m. championship game on Sunday and won 6-0.

In the championship game, Jeff Shaflik and Scott McNeil each scored two goals, while Brian Millsbaugh and Mike Koo scored one goal apiece.

For the tournament, Scott McNeil took home most valuable player honors for the boys' U-11 age group.

THE REST of the Skyhawks team members are Charles Brezina, Soren Nielson, Peter Pardo, Josh Parker, Randall Smith, Jason Zachow, Travis Greenstreet and Mike Vickers.

The Skyhawks also have been invited to allboys at the Seattle Storm's home game June 3 at Seattle Memorial Stadium.

Raider season ends in shootout

By CHUCK MINGORI

The Thomas Jefferson boys' soccer team had tradition on its side Saturday, but that was not enough to lift the Raiders past the Mead Panthers in Class AAA state quarterfinal action at Seattle Memorial Stadium.

Jefferson had won five of the past six Class AAA state titles and had lost only one state playoff game in seven years, that being to Kentwood in the opening round of the 1987 state tournament to snap a 94-game unbeaten streak.

The Raiders came back to win the state title last year and they would have advanced to the state semifinals Friday had they been able to get by Mead on Saturday.

But the Panthers survived a late score by Jefferson, which sent the game into overtime with a game-tying goal in the closing seconds, and then won the game in a shootout, 2-1.

"We've won many games in shootouts and it's just unfortunate this one got away from us," said Jefferson coach Jim Judson, whose team finished the year with a 10-3-2 record. "We battled back, got it to a shootout, it's just very disappointing that we couldn't...We just didn't hit. We missed our first three and that was it."

WHILE JEFFERSON missed all three of its shootout attempts, Mead scored on all three of its penalty kicks.

Jason Waymire, who had assisted Panther teammate Jeff Ellis on a goal only 38 seconds into the game, shot first in the shootout and put his attempt into the right corner.

Shawn Bowers kicked first for Jefferson in the shootout, but saw Mead goalkeeper Dan Adams dive to his right to make a save.

Raider goalkeeper Brian Wallace got a hand on Ellis' second attempt for the Panthers, but the ball bounced off the right post and into the net.

John Pouley was next up for Jefferson, but his shot was stopped again by the Mead goalkeeper.

Sean Black hit the left corner for the Panthers in the third round of the shootout, meaning Jefferson had to score on its next try to stay alive. Dan Parnell net couldn't find the for Jefferson, however, as his shot glanced off the outside of the left post and out.

Mead, which boosted its record to 19-0-0 and advanced to the state semifinals on Friday to play last year's runnerup, Cascade, had lost in double overtime to Jefferson in the 1986 state championship game.

THE PANTHERS took the early lead against Jefferson with less than a minute gone. Mead came dangerously close to finding the back of the net again with 34:31 left in the first half, but Wallace came through with a great save to knock the ball away. Mead's Mitch Thomas fired a rebound shot over top of the cross bar.

Jefferson controlled the ball for nearly all of the game, including the first 14 minutes of play, as the Raiders worked the ball around effectively against the Mead defense. The only difference was that Mead snuck behind the Raider defense for a quick goal.

"We made that (defensive) mistake and that was unfortunate because that put us

FEDERAL WAY'S Andrea Anderson will be among a contingent of local athletes taking part in this Friday and Saturday's state AAA meet at the Lincoln Bowl.

Home Teams

Soccer

The Decatur boys' soccer team will take part in the state semifinals, playing Newport at 8 p.m. Friday Cascade plays Mead in the other semifinal at 6 p.m., with both games taking place at Seattle Memorial Stadium.

A win would put the Gators into the 8 p.m. championship game Saturday on the same field against the Cascade-Mead winner.

Should Decatur lose Friday, it will have a consolation game for third place at 4 p.m. Saturday, also at Seattle Memorial. The opponent would be the Cascade-Mead loser.

Track

The state AAA and AA track meets will once again be held jointly at the Lincoln Bowl in Tacoma.

The action, otherwise known as Star Track, will get underway at 10 a.m. Friday and Saturday, with a number of local athletes taking part (see story).

Tennis

Three athletes from Decatur will be participating in the boys' state tennis tournament in Richland this weekend.

West Central District singles champion Forrester Johnson will be joined by the Gator doubles team of Tom Sanger and Kurt Wessenburg.

The tournament will be held Friday and Saturday at Kamiakin High School.

Baseball

Federal Way's Omni Executive Center American Legion squad will open its season Friday, hosting Enumclaw for a 6 p.m. District 11 game at Decatur High School.

The locals will be back on the same field for a 2 p.m. game with Bothell Sunday, before going to Bellevue's Bannerwood Park for an 8:15 p.m. game Tuesday.

The Junior Legion squad hosts Bellevue Honda for a 5 p.m. clash at Decatur Sunday.

Anderson leads the way to state track meet

By CHUCK MINGORI

A total of 17 local competitors have made it to the state track meet Friday and Saturday following West Central District action last Friday and Saturday.

The Federal Way boys' track team, which placed second at the WCD meet with 45 points behind first-place Kent-Meridian (56), is sending seven competitors along with two alternates.

The Thomas Jefferson girls' track team will have five girls competing at Star Track VIII, the AAA-AA state track and field championships, and one alternate. The Raider girls scored 27 points to place seventh after winning the sub-seventh meet the week before.

The Federal Way girls' track team, led by the three first-place performance of Andrea Anderson, is sending three to state after scoring 34 points for fifth place.

The Decatur boys' track team is sending two athletes to state after scoring 10 points at district.

Neither the Decatur girls or Jefferson boys' track teams advanced any athletes to state.

Anderson fought off Kennedy's Fiona Loyd to win both the 3,200 and 1,600 meter races. Anderson was first in the 3,200 at 10:54.7, with Loyd in second at 10:57.2. Anderson also won the 1,600 in 5:02.2 ahead of Loyd's time of 5:06.2.

Anderson then ran her best race ever to win the 800 with a time of 2:17.1. The second-place runner from Lindbergh finished in 2:17.3.

"I couldn't tell who won, it was that close," said Federal Way girls' coach Bill Harris, who was watching the 800 race head-on through a camera lens.

ALSO PLACING for Federal Way was Kelly Czubin with a fifth-place mark of 5-1 in the high jump in her first competition in a month after suffering a stress fracture at the Federal Way Invitational and Krystal Rodriguez, who finished fifth in the javelin at 99-11.

Javelin are not allowed to compete in that event during the regular SPSL season, so javelin throwers must qualify through district to state in invitationals.

Thomas Jefferson's girls' track team landed a district champion with Barb McCarthy's first-place leap of 5-6 in the high jump.

Jesse Casbere placed third in the 100 (12.7) and fourth in the 200 (25.5) to qualify to state and Karrie Mornon also advanced with a sixth-place finish in the javelin (99-0), bettering her mark at the Federal Way Invitational by 17 feet.

Also headed to state from Jefferson is the girls' 1,600 meter relay team, which set a school record with a third-place time of 4:01.7. Competing on that team are Casbere, McCarthy, Darcy Neil and Barb Beesley. Beesley also set a school record in the triple jump with a 34-1/2 mark, but did not place.

"We just happen to have some outstanding triple jumpers in our district," said Jefferson girls' track coach Sam Beesley.

The Federal Way boys' track team landed one district champion in Lake Dawson, who captured first place in the 110 hurdles (14.2) with teammate Steve Cook in second (14.8). Ed Miller scratched during the prelims and did not advance to the finals.

Dawson also was second in the 300 hurdles with a time of 37.7, just getting beat at the wire by Lakes' Myron Wise.

Miller finished second in the high jump at 6-8, the same height that first-place finisher Shaun Smith of Spanaway Lake cleared. Smith placed first because he had one fewer miss than Miller.

ALSO QUALIFYING for the Eagles boys were Tom Moen and Jeff Perry in the 3,200 and the Eagles' 1,600 meter relay team. Moen ran third in the 3,200 at 9:34, while Perry was fourth at 9:38.5.

Perry placed fourth, despite splitting his head open on a bulkhead underneath Highline Stadium near the boys' locker room after getting a drink of water.

"It was kind of an amazing story," said Federal Way boys' coach Bob France, who taped up Perry's head with a butterfly bandage prior to the start of the 3,200 race, which was delayed 10 minutes. "It was a very gutsy performance. That was one of the gutsiest things I've seen in a long time."

The Eagles' 1,600 meter relay team placed sixth in 3:25.8. Chad Klassen, Dawson, DeLane Jackson and Miller are members of that team, while Steve Erickson and Trent Erickson are alternates.

Erickson competed in the 800 at district, while Woy went 6-1 in the high jump. Neither qualified to state in those events, but France is happy with the performance of his team as it prepares to go to Star Track VIII.

"That's the most guys going (to state) since I've been at Federal Way," he commented. "It's going to be exciting. It's a strong group. There's a lot of point scorers in that group."

DECATUR IS SENDING two individuals to state. Jesse Krilich is headed in the discus after placing fourth with a 149-7 effort, while Larry Hoffman placed third in the 400 (49.7) to also score a berth to state.

The Star Track VIII spectacle takes place Friday and Saturday at the Lincoln Bowl in Tacoma. Starting time both days is 11 a.m.

JESSE CASBERE of Thomas Jefferson placed third in the 100 meter dash at the West Central District track meet last Saturday with a time of 12.7 seconds to qualify to the state meet this week at the Lincoln Bowl.

Collectors show slated

The Washington State Sports Collectors' Association is holding the 17th annual Sports Collectors Show June 24-25 at the Seattle Center Flag Pavilion.

Big crowd expected at Kids Trout Derby June 10

Some 3,000 trout will be waiting at Steel Lake in Federal Way for some 1,000 children ages 12 and under on Saturday, June 10, when the annual Kid's Trout Derby takes place starting at 7:30 a.m.

Dick Benbow

According to Jerry La Chapelle, chairman of the South King County Chapter of Northwest Steelheaders, this year's event will offer better ways for children to pass the time waiting for their turn to fish. Last year close to 950 kids waited hours to spend only about 10 minutes catching their two-fish limit.

The kids insisted it was worth it, but to ease the wait the Federal Way Clown Club will be present to provide humor and balloons. A concession stand will serve parched and hungry children and their parents. A new numbering system will allow parents to relax in the shade while keeping an eye out for when their child's number comes up and it's time to fish. More fishable dock space is being arranged to move more anglers through at a time.

One thing will remain the same. There will be one adult guide for every two children, said Jerry.

Tom Pollock of The Reel Thing sporting goods store in Federal Way has arranged for various patches, fishing books and gifts to be given to every child. Tom, whose store is a co-sponsor of the event, assures us that the popular fish-cleaning concession again will be in place this year. Some 19 different manufacturers will provide all the fishing gear and bait.

So derby officials can be better prepared to assist the kids, a pre-registration form is necessary. Forms are available at the Reel Thing, 31503-C Pacific Highway S., in the Federal Way Shopping Center. For more information call Tom at 941-0920.

Credit also needs to go to the Steel Lake Residents Association and King County Parks and Recreation for their efforts on behalf of this event. Area businesses that are helping defray expenses include New Lumber and Hardware, Wilson Trophy and Gran-Mar Trout Farms, which is providing close to 50 fish in the 5-6-pound range. For kids lucky enough to tie into one of those monsters, largest-fish trophies will be awarded in three age groups.

If you would like to assist the effort in any way, call Jerry at 874-4869. Anyone interested in seeing a video on last year's derby can attend the next steelheader's meeting. Check with Jerry for time and place.

Parents of anglers in the Federal Way School District should be watching soon for registration forms to be sent home. For those not familiar with Steel Lake, it is located in the heart of Federal Way, just east of Pacific Highway South on South 312th Street.

Jefferson booters fall short in shootout

behind," said Judson.

Late in the first half, Jeff Clayton sent a pass to the middle to Aaron Van Dusen, who fired a shot right on goal for Jefferson. Unfortunately, Van Dusen limped off the field following that play and was unable to return to the game.

DARYN DITMORE fed Brad Kolbo for another shot on goal for Jefferson with 26 minutes left in the second half.

As time began to tick away, Mead began to substitute whenever possible to try to use up the clock.

Jason Bowers then fired a shot with 16 minutes remaining that hit off the top of the cross bar as the Raiders attacked offensively.

After Ellis drew a yellow card for the Panthers at the 11:14 mark, David Zumwalt came inches away from tying the score with a left-footed line drive shot that hit off the cross bar for the Raiders with 8:36 left.

Shawn Bowers made an outstanding defensive play with six minutes left, as he came over to break up a possible breakaway goal by the Panthers. With 4:35 left, Ditmore lofted a free kick over the Mead defense as Kolbo charged in with another shot on goal.

With the time on the scoreboard clock expired, Jefferson rallied to score with about 30 seconds left as the official time is kept by the referee on the field.

Jason Bowers set up the play with his corner kick, while Ditmore headed the ball into the net to tie the score and lift the Raider spirits.

The game then went into two five-minute sudden death overtimes before being decided in a shootout.

"It's a tough way to lose, especially being a senior," said a downcast Ditmore. "But we had our glory last year, I guess. You can't take that away from us."

Johnson takes district crown

By GERARDO BOLONG

Top-seeded boys' singles player Forrester Johnson of Decatur will be joined by Gator teammates Tom Sanger and Kurt Wessenburg as the Federal Way area's lone representatives to this weekend's state tennis tournament in Kennewick after Friday and Saturday's West Central District AAA tournament. The district matches were held at Clover Park High School, the Lakewood Racquet Club, and Curtis High School.

Curtis was added as a site after three courts at the Lakewood club suffered extensive structural damage.

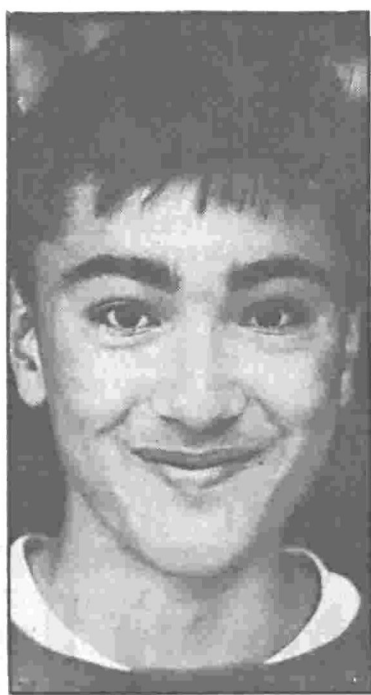

Federal Way High School's girls netters had high hopes of going to state as the district event approached. They saw those hopes go up in smoke in the face of tough draws and a scheduling mishap.

Johnson used his powerful service game to put away Vernon Yarnell of Lakes, 6-3, 6-0, to claim the district title. He had beaten Yarnell the previous weekend to win the South Puget Sound League championship. Earlier in the tournament, Johnson had rocketed by Auburn's Ric Kovacevich, 6-3, 6-0, Oliver Murillo of Hazen, 6-0, 6-0, and Tim Truenbach of Bellarmine in two quick love sets to reach the championship final.

"Forrester will probably be seeded second or third at state," said Decatur boys' coach Rick Thompson. "The draw may be a factor. He has a good chance to win if he stays on top of his game. He was a little tired today, but played well his last two matches."

"Today, the only difference between Johnson and myself was the serve," commented Johnson. "Stamina will be the key at state. It looks tougher than it was last year. I'm looking to get to the semis and take it from there."

Sanger and Wessenburg bat-

led through the consolation bracket before losing a 6-1, 7-6 (7-2), decision to Tony Lo and Joe Holland of Curtis to settle for sixth place and the final boys' doubles berth to state. The Decatur duo broke serve to lead 5-4 in the second set only to be broken right back. Each team then held serve to reach the tie-breaker which Curtis won.

In the tourney's opening round, Sanger and Wessenburg dropped a 6-3, 6-1, match to Highline's Kirk Swanson and Scott Tomita. Then they defeated Curtis' Scott and Brent Bigler, 6-2, 6-2, in the consolation first round before taking the measure of Renton's Steve Johnson and Marc Orth, 7-5, 6-1.

The consolation semifinals produced a stirring three set victory, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5, over Bangs and Mores of Bethel to set up the encounter with Lo and Holland.

"We just wanted to go to state," said Sanger.

"I feel we just had to play too many matches in a row," observed Wessenburg.

Gator sophomore boys' singles player Andy Marshall lost his first round match to Marlin Concepcion of Central Kitsap, 6-2, 6-3, before being eliminated, 6-1, 6-0, by Auburn's Wayne Fritschle.

Decatur's girls' doubles team of Megan O'Dom and Alison Carl won their first round match, 1-6, 6-1, 6-0, over South Kitsap's Sadleher and Simonsen, but fell out of the tournament by losing consecutive matches to Kentwood's Stephanie Rowan and Brooke James (6-1, 6-2) and to Stadium's Backer and Peterson (4-6, 7-5, 6-3).

For the Federal Way Eagle girls, it was a frustrating finish to a very good season.

Due to a misunderstanding regarding time and site locations, Krista Maddock and Federal Way girls' coach Don Jacobus were watching Brooke Edwards play at Lakewood at approximately the same time as Maddock was supposed to be playing her match at Curtis.

Maddock followed her default with a season ending three-set, 6-7 (2-7), 6-2, 6-4, loss to Kent-Meridian's Julie Peterson.

Brooke Edwards dropped a 6-0, 6-0, tiff to No. 1-seeded and eventual girls' singles champion Sonja Olejar of Bellarmine shortly before dropping two sets to Lakes' Thuy Kivlan, 6-4, 6-4, to exit from contention.

"It's been a long season," added Jacobus. "The girls were real competitive and second-place in the South Puget Sound League season was a good achievement."

SPSL soccer team announced

The South Puget Sound League's first-team soccer selections included three players from Thomas Jefferson, two from Decatur and one from Federal Way.

Raider defenders Shannan Seelig and Brad Kolbo were named as defenders, while teammate Daryn Dittmore was chosen as a midfielder.

Making the first team from Decatur were forward Sean Young and midfielder Sisto Pina, while Federal Way's Ricci Greenwood also made the midfield.

The only local second-team choice was Federal Way midfielder Ricky Phillips, but four area players took honorable mention.

The Eagles had two honorable mention choices in forward Tim Senigal and defender Rick Lively.

Decatur's Miguel Pardo was honored in the midfield and Brian Wallace of TJ was selected as goalie.

Golf tournaments affected by wind

Decatur scored 28 points to claim 11th place at the first-ever Washington state girls' golf tournament in Richland Friday.

Gator senior Shelby Cole scored an 85 to finish just 10 strokes out of first place, while freshman Corey Gibson shot a 102.

Federal Way sophomore Sarah Berlin played in the same tournament and shot for a 93 score.

"Several holes she did very well off the tee," said Eagle coach Doug Baldwin of Berlin. "And her second shots went well, but her short game and putting were off. The greens were extremely fast over there."

Conditions left something to be desired at both the girls' tournament and the boys' tournament in nearby Kennewick, where Federal Way junior Chris Vance was playing.

"The day we played the wind was just horrendous," explained Baldwin. "Chris has not had much experience with that kind of situation. His ball kept getting blown off the green."

Vance, who won the South Puget Sound League medalist tournament last fall, shot a 95 his first round to not make the

SPSL baseball standouts named

Decatur's Brady Nelson and Federal Way's Floyd French both hit the jackpot in this year's South Puget Sound League all-star baseball balloting.

Both were named to the first team as pitchers, and both also took honorable mention at designated hitter.

Nelson was named as a pitcher on all 10 possible ballots, while French tied Puyallup's Eric Grieve with five to also make the first team.

Aaron Martin of Thomas Jefferson was a first-team pick in the outfield along with Federal Way's Jeff Wagner.

Martin and Nelson are seniors, while Wagner and French are juniors.

The Raiders' Mark Nielsen was named to the second team as an outfielder in his senior year, while Federal Way's Milt DeAsis made the second-team outfield as only a sophomore.

The second-team catcher is Decatur junior Bill Ludwig.

Aside from French and Nelson at designated hitter, other local honorable mention choices were Federal Way's Treg Vandenberg (third base), Mike Sugg (first) and Marty Mogensen (second); Decatur's Kevin Dahl (third) and TJ's Chris Martin (catcher).

top-40 cut to play the second. "Other than the three holes he did well," said Baldwin. "But that took him out of any extra play." Baldwin felt it was a good experience for all who played, though, and Vance, Berlin and the Gators' Gibson can all return next year. "When they go back next year they will have this experience to draw from," he said.

TOM SONN JOINS HULING BROTHERS

Huling Brothers Buick announced Tom Sonn joined their sales force. Tom comes to Huling with 15 years experience selling and managing.

Tom grew up in the 3-Tree Point community, graduated from O'Dea High School in 1969 and earned a degree in Community Services from Seattle University in 1973. Tom then moved to West Seattle where he currently lives with his wife and three children.

Tom first met the Huling brothers in 1975 when they became Tom's biggest account in his newly opened detail business. Tom eventually moved on and from 1980-1989, he owned and operated the Jules Mae's restaurant in Georgetown.

Tom joined Huling Brothers Buick in March. He especially liked the "low pressure" sales program and friendly atmosphere Huling had to offer.

Huling Brother's Buick, family owned and operated, has been in West Seattle since 1946 and is now the largest volume Buick dealership in Washington state.

Warrior baseball team edged out of regionals

By TONY C. DUARTE
If Bryan Peterson had a nickel for every time his Seattle Christian School Warriors have won a baseball game, he wouldn't have enough to buy a jar of jellybeans.

Peterson, head coach of the Nisqually League Warriors, has endured consecutive losing seasons since the school instituted a baseball program five years ago.

During that time, the Warriors failed to win more than five games in a single year. That changed in 1989, and so did the outlook for Warrior baseball.

Seattle Christian was knocked out of the Class A regional playoffs last week after a 7-6 loss to Blaine. That capped a 15-6 season for the Warriors and left the team's faithful with a severe case of mistaken identity.

"We surprised a lot of people in the school and the league. But I had high expectations with our senior class," Peterson said. "After never having a winning season, they played with great competitive character."

Seniors were the catalysts of the season, according to Peterson. John Brownlee went 4-2 as the dominating pitcher, and Steve Mead, a transfer from Blanchet, utilized a variety of control pitches to finish 6-3.

Third baseman Eric Wright came on as a hitter late in the season and Joe Horgan was a model of consistency at the plate and secondbase, Peterson said.

Matt Wimmer, a catcher-shortstop-outfielder, was the team's leading hitter, and Nate Linman, a 6-foot 5-inch crossover athlete from basketball, broke the school RBI record with 28 in 18 games.

"Both Matt and John played Legion ball together and were team leaders by example. Steve (Mead) was the vocal leader," said Peterson.

Seattle Christian grabbed the No. 2 seed in the playoffs after finishing 13-5 in the regular season, including 11 wins in a row at one point. After defeating Eatonville and Charles Wright Academy in the first two playoff games, the Warriors lost to Blaine, 7-6, after falling behind 7-0.

Now that they have sampled life on the other side of the fence at playoff time, what does the future hold for the Warriors?

"I would not expect that they would have a year like this (next year). But hopefully, some of these kids will have that right winning attitude," Peterson said. "We surprised a lot of people and there is no reason we can't do it again."

A new on-campus field has increased fan support, said Peterson. "We even had people set up a barbeque during one of our doubleheaders. There was a lot of food."

We want to know the score

From Little League baseball to high school football, the Federal Way News/Community News reports all the local sports results.

If you have a score to report or standings to turn in, give us a call.

If you know of someone who has gone on to compete in college or the professional ranks, we'd like to know about that, too.

Do we want to know if your neighbor rolled a 300 game at Secoma Lanes or shot a hole-in-one on the sixth hole at North Shore? You bet!

To report local sports results call 839-0700 or 927-4353.
