Ertel is first Federal Way mayor

Stead is defeated

By KURT HERZOG

The smile left Debbie Ertel's face for maybe three seconds after she was elected Federal Way's first mayor Tuesday.

"For the first time I just got absolutely terrified," Ertel said, when she learned after the votes were counted and she was elected mayor. "My heart was pounding so hard I was sure the people in the back of the room could see it."

But the smile was soon back.

Ertel was elected by her six fellow council members after nearly 40 minutes of balloting at the council's first official meeting Tuesday evening.

"While some may have been concerned this would cause divisiveness, it's given us an opportunity to get to know each other," Ertel said, after being elected.

However, the council's mayoral election process was not an easy one by any means. The process took four ballots and two votes on whether to recess for five minutes in the middle of the balloting so one candidate could lobby for abandoning the original balloting process.

On the first ballot, council members Ertel, Jim Handmacher and Bob Stead were nominated with Stead receiving three votes and Handmacher and Ertel receiving two votes each.

According to the election procedure the council had chosen, Ertel and Handmacher then had a by-election to determine who would run against Stead. Ertel won the by-election.

However, Handmacher abstained from voting in the runoff between Ertel and Stead, causing a 3-3 tie. Handmacher then suggested abandoning the procedure for another one in which council members would list their first, second and third choices for mayor, believing that he could win enough first and second votes to become mayor.

THAT PLAN didn't sit well with his fellow members.

"I oppose that," said Councilman Joel Marks. "If everyone will vote, it will resolve it. It's a simple approach... I've gone to second grade."

Handmacher then requested a recess, which was voted down by the council. Councilman Jim Webster said he would reconsider his vote against the recess and then voted for it.

The council adjourned for about five minutes, with Handmacher doing some fast and furious lobbying.

After the recess, Ertel was elected by a 4-3 vote by the council. Voting for Ertel were Mary Gates, Marks, Handmacher and Ertel. Voting for Stead were Webster, Lynn Templeton and Stead.

IMMEDIATELY after the final ballot, Stead requested the council give its unanimous support to Ertel, which it then voted to do.

Ertel later said she had won because of the public and media attention she's had in the last couple of years as former president of the Federal Way Community Council and former president of DIRE (Development Impact Resistance Exercise), a local land-use monitoring group.

The reason that competition was so fierce to become the first mayor is clear.

"I think the most obvious reason is there is only ever going

Weekend

Kid stuff

Mystical things happen in the Hudson River Highlands. Only Rip Van Winkle and Ichabod Crane know for sure, but the Seattle Children's Theatre production of Rip Van Winkle and The Legend of Sleepy Hollow will let audiences in on the secret. Performances are 7:30 tonight, 2 and 7:30 p.m. tomorrow and 2 and 5 p.m. Sunday at the PONCHO Theatre. Tickets are $12 and $7. Call 633-4567 for more information.

Now playing

Remember hula hoops? Your hips may swing again with the Avenue Act I theater's production of "Chicken Fried Diner," a musical tribute to rock 'n' roll of the '50s. The show features celebrity look-alike performers and music of the era, and plays weekends through Nov. 26. It comes with a six-course dinner for $21.50, but show-only tickets also are available. Come in '50s garb and receive $1 off. Call the theater, 10 Auburn Ave., at 833-0620 for more information.

Game time

Local high school football fans are in for a treat tonight, as long-time district rivals Thomas Jefferson and Federal Way play their annual game at 7:30 at Federal Way Memorial Field. Jefferson currently is in third place in the South Puget Sound League's Puget Division standings with a 2-1 record, while Federal Way sits in a four-way tie for fourth at 1-2. Federal Way holds an 11-9 lead in this series, which began in 1969, but Jefferson won last year's meeting, 23-13. See page B-1.

They said it

From new Federal Way City Councilman Jim Handmacher to his supporters at last weekend's swearing-in ceremony:

"I want to thank you for your time...and particularly your money."

Inside

Residents of unincorporated Federal Way living east of Interstate 5 are hoping to make the Federal Way Water and Sewer District an ally in controlling growth and maintaining their rural atmosphere. Commissioners are split over whether that's the district's place. See page A-8.

Seahawk rooters keep faith on farm

By SEAN ROBINSON

Jodi Whitson is a rabid Seahawks fan.

Her husband Lane thinks the Hawks are OK, but he's more of a Philadelphia rooster. Still, he painted the barn's hayloft door for her.

The hayloft door at the Whitson's home east of the Camelot area has a huge Seahawk helmet painted on it. Only Brian Bosworth's head would be big enough to fill it. The helmet is about four feet high.

Lane Whitson, 27, told the Federal Way News "Weird Stuff" search the painting was last year's birthday present to his wife. When he came home from the graveyard shift at Boeing, he didn't sleep. He spent the wee hours perfecting his masterpiece. The night before her birthday, he put it up.

The next morning, he unveiled it. "I thought it looked really neat," said Jodi. "I was surprised it looked so good."

Jodi, 24, has been a fan since the Seahawk's inception in 1976. "I've just always loved football," she said. "And since

Commercial brokers are upset about moratorium

By KURT HERZOG

Some Federal Way residents are confused and some commercial real estate brokers are upset about interim zoning controls recently imposed by King County at the Federal Way City Council's request.

A group of 20 brokers met privately with Federal Way City Councilwoman Mary Gates on Monday about their concerns.

The press and public were excluded from the meeting, but afterward one broker said the group is concerned that they may lose clients and business because of the interim controls.

Specifically, the controls put a halt to all development other than single-family residential development in Federal Way. The controls will be in place until the new city council can create its own land-use plan and incorporate Federal Way.

Brokers say that has potential commercial customers—those customers looking for sites for office buildings, retail stores and other businesses—skittish and looking elsewhere for land.

"This is not going to have a favorable impact," said Jim Matteson, a broker with Cushman and Wakefield, a Seattle firm.

BROKERS WERE shocked to find out that the interim controls would halt commercial development because city council members had discussed only a halt on apartment development.

"There was nothing in the press, nothing in print on this," Matteson said.

Several people addressed the Federal Way City Council about the halt on commercial development at the council's Tuesday meeting saying they hoped the halt was lifted soon.

"We felt things were out of hand," Councilman Bob Stead explained about the blanket controls. "I agree that we should do things soon."

The council has no intention of

School contracts

District, secretaries still disagree

By MELODIE STEIGER

Although contract talks between school secretaries and the Federal Way School District resumed Wednesday, the two sides are no closer to an agreement, says Deanne Harker, co-president of the secretaries' union.

"We have absolutely no new parameters from the (school) board other than what we've already voted on," Harker said yesterday morning. "My understanding is that there is no new date set for more talks. It's truly frustrating."

Frustrating is a word used by both sides to describe negotiations in the third year of the secretaries' three-year contract. The school district is frustrated that the union won't accept its offer of a 4 percent wage increase, an offer other district unions have accepted. The secretaries are frustrated because they have heard no better offer, Harker said.

The school district also stands by its reworking of the secretaries' classification levels and incremental pay raises, approved two years ago.

But Harker counters that only a few of the more than 140 school secretaries in the union received better wages when that scale was put in place.

"We're discounting the validity of that scale," she said.

SECRETARIES' feelings were made clear at the Sept. 25 meeting of the Federal Way

School Board, when about 60 of them jammed the meeting room of school district headquarters.

Yellow pins on their lapels proclaimed, "We're worth it $$$."

The secretaries referred to their salary comparisons with secretaries from other districts, which showed that their wage range, from $6.46 to $10.08 per hour, placed them 202nd out of 285 school districts in the state. They also noted the higher salaries of the confidential secretaries who work for district superintendents.

"I respect you and your job skills. Why don't you respect ours?" asked Nancy Swan, secretary for Totem Junior High.

The school board has made no official comment on negotiations.

Judy Wall, public information director for the school district, said the district made what it believed to be a fair adjustment of secretaries' revamped pay scale two years ago.

"We entered into a three-year bargaining agreement in Sept. of 1987 with the (secretaries' union) to make salary adjustments and recognize inequities that existed at that time," Wall said. "We believe the plan is successful and have provided incremental and percentage increases."

City-dwellers seek a sweeter-sounding name

By KURT HERZOG

A rose by any other name still probably wouldn't be called Federal Way.

At least that's the opinion of a group of 100 residents who signed a petition calling for a new name for the new city.

Residents presented the petitions to the city council earlier this week calling for the issue to be put on a ballot in November 1991. According to state law, petitioners needed only 50 signatures to bring the issue before voters.

"My primary objection is that it's a confusing name," said Al McVay, a Belmor Mobile Home Park resident who is one of the organizers of the petition drive. "People don't know it's a city."

"Also there's an inference that it's government related," he said. "Our development shouldn't have any implication of federalism."

McVay, and another resident,

Ed Stickel, researched the legal process for changing the city's name. They plan to have residents vote on keeping the name in November 1991. If the name Federal Way is voted down, proposed new names would be on the ballot in November 1993. If no name receives at least 40 percent of the vote, the two names receiving the highest number of votes would be on the ballot in November 1995.

THAT'S A long process and Stickel and McVay are lobbying local legislators to get it changed.

McVay, 82, moved to Federal Way from Walla Walla four years ago. He has a couple of names in mind, but the petitioners aren't recommending one specific name.

McVay favors Mountain View while other petitioners favor Evergreen and even Poverty Bay, he said.

The city council must pass the petitions along to King County to be put on the 1991 ballot. Most city council members could care less about the name of the city.

"I'm so moot on that point that it doesn't matter," said Councilman Joel Marks.

"Ditto," said Councilman Jim Webster. "There are too many other things to concern ourselves with."

Councilwoman Mary Gates said the issue should be left to a citizens advisory committee to decide.

"I don't have any position on it," said Councilman Jim Handmacher. Council members Debbie Ertel and Bob Stead said they're accustomed to the name "Federal Way," but aren't that enamored with it.

Councilman Lynn Templeton appears to be the only one who really likes the name.

"I'm opposed to changing it," he said. "I feel we have 60 years of history with that name."

SEAHAWK FANS Lane Whitson (left), his wife Jodi, and their daughter Ashleigh, are proud to display their allegiance to the home team. Lane says Jodi is the real fan of the family. He painted the hayloft door of their barn as a birthday present to her.

they're in Seattle, I've just stuck with them."

The Whitsons are such Seahawk nuts that they wear Seahawk shirts in their family portrait. Even their children, Ashleigh, 2, and Nathan, 2 months, are clad in Seahawk blue and green.

"She's just totally Seahawks," said Lane.

Jodi's favorite player is Dave Krieg, and she thinks the Boz has gotten too much hype.

"I think they paid too much money," she said of the brash blond linebacker. "He's overrated by a long ways."

She gets mad at Lane, because he bets against the Seahawks. "I don't think they're that much of a well-rounded team," he said with a smile.

"I think they have a good chance," said Jodi. "I have faith in them, I always do."

The Whitsons have gotten quite a response to their hayloft door since it went up.

"We've had people hoot and holler, shout at the barn," said Lane.

One person even offered to buy the barn and move it. But he found Jodi was a true-blue Seahawk fan. "I said, 'no, you can't have it,'" she said.

Free series covers debt, secrets

Six sessions remain in Highline Community College's Brown Bag talks, a free discussion series held Tuesdays on the college campus.

"Making a Conscious Decision about Family and Career" is the topic of discussion Oct. 10. "Everyone's Differently Abled" will be Oct. 17. "Addictive Relationships Versus Healthy Intimacy" will be talked about Oct. 24, and "Healing Family Secrets" will be discussed Oct. 31.

"You Don't Need Money to Have Self-Esteem" is up for discussion Nov. 7 and "Christmas Doesn't Have to Mean Debt" will be the featured talk Nov. 14.

Registration is not required, and all Brown Bag talks will begin at noon. The meetings will be in Building 4 at Highline Community College, Pacific Highway South and South 240th Street.

For more information, call the college's Women's Programs Department at 878-3710, ext. 340.

Classes link up with computers

Two local elementary-school classes are using computers to exchange information and scientific data with other classes from across the United States.

Students at Nautilus and Wildwood elementary schools are taking part in National Geographic Society's Kids Network, a telecommunications-based science program that allows students to investigate issues as research scientists would.

The local classes will participate in the program along with 900 other classes throughout the United States, Canada, Japan, Egypt, Singapore and the Soviet Union.

This is the first year Wildwood students have joined in the program, and the second year for Nautilus students. Nautilus students also will participate in a telecommunications program on acid rain.

Residents have questions on interim zoning controls

rezoning all the land in Federal Way to single-family, Councilman Jim Handmacher assured brokers and residents at the meeting.

"It's our intention to quickly move ahead...and find a way to free up many problem areas," he said.

Later, Gates said in a private conversation that she met with brokers for only a short time and simply reassured them that the interim controls wouldn't last long.

"They wanted to make sure this didn't go two-and-a-half years," Gates said.

Gates and Councilman Jim Webster were asked to attend the meeting by brokers, but Webster had a previous engagement.

Other local business leaders also are concerned about the moratorium that includes commercial development.

In a recent column in the Federal Way News, Chamber of Commerce Director Bob Green said the moratorium on commercial development will raise commercial space rent, will cause new businesses to look elsewhere and will scare developers away from Federal Way even after the moratorium is lifted.

IT'S UNCLEAR at this point just what effect the moratorium will have on one of the biggest granddaddy commercial projects in the new city. Officials for Fred Meyer applied for building permits for a store at their original Mirror Lake site the day of the March 14 incorporation election.

Technically, that means they're vested at the Mirror Lake site and any land-use decisions would have to be made by King County Building and Land Development Division (BALD), not the new city council.

However, Fred Meyer has an option to buy another 19.79-acre site in West Campus on the southeast corner of Southwest 336th Street and 21st Avenue Southwest. Fred Meyer officials recently sat down with county officials to iron out solutions to traffic mitigation at the intersection.

In early August, Fred Meyer officials said they hoped to meet with the new city council in early October. Council members haven't heard anything from Fred Meyer yet, and store officials aren't returning phone calls.

Developers building commercial property next to the existing Costco store on the southeast corner of South 348th Street and 16th Avenue South already have been given site-plan approval by the county and won't be affected by the moratorium.

THE MORATORIUM also is causing confusion among single-family home owners and builders, who ostensibly are unaffected by the moratorium.

BALD has received many calls from homeowners who want to know if the moratorium affects such things as building additions on their homes or remodeling.

"It does not affect remodeling or tenant improvements on existing structures," said Jim Tracy, Parks, Planning and Resources director, who oversees BALD.

For now, all building permit applications for single-family homes should be handled through BALD. However, it takes 10-12 weeks for BALD to process permit applications so when it becomes apparent that the city council is close to incorporating Federal Way, the county will stop accepting applications, Tracy said.

That will mean builders will have to sit on their hands for that 10-12 week gap, and Tracy said the county hopes to work closely with the city council to make sure the gap isn't longer.

Tracy said it will be up to the city council to decide if BALD will continue to process any permit applications already in the BALD "pipeline" when Federal Way incorporates, or to have the city take over those unprocessed applications at that time.

School talks require mediator

district and secretaries began late last spring with the district offering a 4 percent raise, which is flow-through money from the state. The secretaries, on the other hand, initially proposed a much higher salary boost and an incentive package.

Also in the works is an increase in insurance benefits.

The two sides didn't agree, and a mediator was called in by late summer. In September, 88 percent of the secretaries voted down the repeated 4 percent offer.

Harker said secretaries believe they have borne the brunt of district budget problems for eight years.

"When there was a budget shortfall, who took it first in their pocketbooks? It was the secretarial unit. For eight years, our salaries were frozen. Last year we got (an incremental) raise and that was great, but it was the first in eight years," she said.

The secretaries' contract includes a no-strike clause, but they can set up an "informational" picket line. And they can return to the school board, which meets Monday night at 7 p.m.

"So I guess that's where we may be Monday night," Harker said.

Candy man unveils his sweet secret

By JODI YANCER

There's a sweet — but sugarless — secret in Tukwila. They're called orange strings, a delicious orange filling smothered in milk chocolate, and they have the sweet, rich taste of regular candy — without the sugar.

The orange strings, along with a host of other delectable sugarless candy, will soon be introduced to consumers nationwide by Rogers Candy Company.

"We're the first candy company in the United States to make sugarless orange strings," says Dennis Rodia, plant supervisor and head chef at the company's experimental kitchen. "I've spent three years perfecting the sugarless strings and I can tell you that no other candy company can make sugarless candy that tastes as good as ours."

Rogers doesn't sweeten its sugarless candy with nutrasweet. Instead, the company uses a natural sweetener called Hystar, which is derived from corn, to produce its sugarless candy.

But it's not what they use, it's how they use it.

Rodia is the mastermind behind the unique recipe for Rogers sugarless treats, and he's not divulging the rest of his ingredients or his method of production.

"Our sugarless candy is going to terrorize the market," says Rodia.

ROGERS OWNER Ed Pooley of Federal Way says his company test marketed eight-ounce variety bags of its sugarless candy to the Livingwell Ladies Fitness Centers in Seattle and in local candy stores. The results were everything he had hoped for.

"Eighty-nine percent of the Livingwell Ladies who sampled our candies said they would buy it," says Pooley.

Hazel's Candies, a division of Rogers located in Tacoma Mall, started with the eight-ounce bags but was soon asking Pooley for bulk quantity to fill two-and-three-pound boxes.

"The response was very big," says store manager Kari

JANINE NORRIS loads truffles into the automated candy wrapper at Rogers Candy Company. Rogers makes an assortment of truffles including mint and fruit-filled. The company markets its own truffles as well as manufacturing for stores like the Bon Marche.

Verhaaf. "Diabetic people think it's just wonderful but even people who are trying to cut down on sugar have bought a lot of it too."

Ed and Barbara Pooley bought Rogers two-and-a-half years ago and have spent much of their time experimenting with recipes for quality sugarless candies.

"It's taken about 18 months to develop the right temperature and acidic balance in our sugarless products," says Pooley. "You can't just put the ingredients together and expect it to taste good."

Unlike other sugarless candy, including European substitutes, Rogers candy doesn't leave a nasty aftertaste in your mouth, says Pooley. He believes his line of sugarless candy will meet the consumer's demand for a fair price and quality taste.

"PEOPLE TODAY are really health conscious," he says. "They want low calorie and low cholesterol but they don't want to sacrifice good taste."

Health conscious consumers as well as diabetics can soon have their candy and eat it too.

In the next four or five weeks, Pooley will begin sending variety packs of Rogers sugarless candy to 26 hospitals in the nation's biggest cities, encouraging health professionals at all levels to try it, analyze it, but most of all, share it with others.

"I think this is going to be a big break for us," says Pooley. "It's difficult for people to taste the difference between our regular and sugarless candies."

Pooley says his company is almost finished perfecting a tasty, creme-filled variety for distribution. He also bought a used bagging machine from Nalley's Fine Foods for $8,000 that will greatly speed up the packaging process.

"Some people from Nalley's are coming here to help us get the machine ready for operation," says Rodia. "Then we'll be able to bag 1,000 pieces of candy a minute."

RODIA SAYS the chain of command at other candy companies would never allow employees like himself to experiment with ideas.

Big companies like Russell Stover in Chicago have laboratories to conduct their research. But Rodia, who has worked at Rogers for 35 years, can experiment at his own pace.

"I have friends at other companies that are aware of our progress," he says. "And we're making them nervous."

Rodia's friends have offered him jobs at their companies with handsome salaries, but he's not taking the bait.

"I don't have to cut through a lot of red tape here at Rogers," he says. "I can get things done a lot faster here than at other companies because of the freedom I have to experiment."

About 600 pounds of ingredients were destroyed over the three years it took Rodia to polish the sugarless orange string, but the potential payoff is well worth it, he says.

Rogers has produced other candy that has sold well for the company, such as the Ken Griffey Jr. bar.

"We've sold about 880,000 Griffey bars," says Pooley. "It is more than just promotion, it is a quality candy bar."

THE COMPANY is also known for its chocolate pecan clusters called ducklings, a tough competitor with DeMets turtles. Another popular item is Rogers saltwater taffy, which is sold throughout the country.

"We've made logo taffy for some pretty big companies," says plant manager Andy Bishop. "We're about the only company on the West Coast to do that."

Logo taffy is bitesize taffy pieces imprinted with a company's logo or name, like the Seafirst 'I' symbol that Rogers produced for the bank.

Historically, the company has not pushed name recognition with some of its products.

"Some of the bulk candies we sell through our brokers get to companies' stores that put their own name on it, so consumers don't realize who made the candy," says Pooley.

However, their top-of-the-line chocolates, like the Northwest Collection and Emerald City, are packaged with the company's name and sold through the grocery and drug industries like Pay-n-Save and gift shops.

But Pooley plans to capture the retail market with his sugarless products.

"The sugarless candies will definitely have our name on it," he says. "I think the sugarless candies will really boost our image."

Pooley looks forward to a busy holiday season. Who knows, maybe a contract with Weight Watchers or an endorsement from the American Dental Association will also be in his future.

Striking machinists hit the picket lines

No new talks are scheduled between the Boeing Co. and its striking production workers, as of Thursday morning.

More than 57,000 members of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, Lodge 751 voted Tuesday to go on strike.

After the strike vote, union members called the three-year wage proposal from Boeing an insult, citing record profits for the company this year.

Boeing's offer included a 4 percent wage increase the first year, a 3 percent increase the next two years, and lump sum bonuses.

Boeing spokesman Russ Young called it an "extremely good offer." Union spokespeople did not return calls.

Young said company officials were meeting "to look at their options," including possible revisions to the wage offer.

News Digest

During the strike, Young said the company will continue to run its production lines with supervisors "as long as possible."

Boeing has orders for 93 planes that are due to be completed this year.

Nickels named to post

King County Councilman Greg Nickels (D-8th) has been named to the Transportation Steering Committee of the National Association of Counties (NACO).

NACO is the nation's only organization representing county governments. Nickels was appointed to the transportation committee by NACO President Ann Klinger of Merced County, Calif.

Nickels serves as chair of the King County Council's Transportation and Public Utilities Committee. He also has served on the Metro Transit Committee, the Commuter Rail Task Force and the Transportation Growth and Development Committee of the Puget Sound Council of Governments.

Nickels serves unincorporated areas of Federal Way and Highline, and West Seattle, Tukwila, Kent, Algona, Pacific and Sea-Tac.

Child abuse forum slated

Burien's Sen. Eleanor Lee (R-33rd) is sponsoring a four-night community awareness program on child sexual abuse at Highline Community College.

The program, scheduled for Oct. 16, 17, 23 and 24, will include representatives of law enforcement, social services, media, the Legislature, the court system, offender treatment programs and testimony by adults who were victims of child abuse.

The program is free and the public is welcome. College credit is available for Highline and Seattle University students.

to be one first mayor," Ertel said, admitting that ego definitely played a big role in the competition.

"We all have strong, healthy egos," she said. "We wouldn't be where we are and have done what we've done without egos."

Ertel, 41, has lived in Federal Way for 14 years and works as a production analyst for a printing company. "WE'RE ALL capable of being mayor," she said. "The support for Bob was strong. Now it's time to get down to business."

Stead later wished Ertel well saying, "She'll be a good mayor. I think we have a strong council."

The council elected Gates to be deputy mayor over Stead.

According to state law, Federal Way's mayor won't have vested powers until the council officially incorporates the community.

Also, the council must go through the mayoral election process after official incorporation. However, council members decided that the mayor they elected Tuesday evening would serve a two-year term.

That's a tentative agreement, Ertel said, and the council could change its mind after official incorporation.

Under Federal Way's council-manager form of government, the mayor's duties are largely ceremonial. The mayor has the power to run the meetings and nominate residents to council advisory committees. Ertel also will represent the city at official and social functions.

The mayor receives an extra $100 a month more than council members' $400 monthly salaries.

Baseball, parole on Kiwanis meeting list

Agriculture, television news, prisons and baseball will be examined at the October and November meetings of the Federal Way Kiwanis Club.

Featured speakers at the club's meetings will be:

- Alan Pettibone, director of the state Department of Agriculture, Oct. 18;

- Kathy Fletcher of the Puget Sound Water Quality Authority, Oct. 25;

- Stan Nacarrato, president of the Tacoma Tigers minor league

Baptist Church, is carving an Armenian totem pole for the Rev. George Gulian. Below the angel are the Armenian letters for "Jesus Christ," and below that, a Gregorian cross.

ARMENIAN ANGELS don't usually top totem poles, but then, the Armenians didn't invent totem poles. Nonetheless, Robin Young, a Sioux Indian who works for Our Saviour's

Totem pole touts Armenian heritage

By WENDY CULVERWELL
The fact that it is rectangular isn't what separates the Rev. George Gulian's totem pole-to-be from its traditional Indian cousins.

The pole's Armenian motif is what makes this "pole" different from those decorated with the typical Indian thunderbirds, fish, bears, and the like.

Robin Young, a Sioux Indian who works as a custodian at Our Saviour's Baptist Church, is carving the Armenian totem pole for Gulian to commemorate the pastor's recent voyage to his parents' native country in what is now Soviet Armenia.

Instead of the traditional objects found on totem poles, this one has a Gregorian cross, an Armenian angel, and letters from the Armenian alphabet that stand for "Jesus Christ."

The idea of an Armenian totem pole came about when Young visited Gulian's Kloshe-Illahee home, and, noting the neighborhood's Indian-style signs, told him he needed a totem pole.

Gulian countered that he needed an Armenian totem pole and promptly went to work figuring out what an Armenian totem pole should look like. A few weeks later, he turned his draw-

FAITH PLUS CONVENIENCE CAN BEST HELP THE HANDICAPPED

We help the handicapped every way we can: with donations, special parking spaces, wheelchair ramps, adequate rest room facilities, etc., and by spending time with them. Even the children who are afflicted in some way are provided with such programs as summer camps.

All of these concessions are truly commendable. Nonetheless, there is one more source of help and comfort to which we should direct our efforts: faith. Their spiritual outlook is just as important as their access to some public building. It depends on their knowing that God as a special love and purpose for them, and that their so-called handicap is but a challenge to develop a talent with their remaining resources. History proves that it can be done. Thank God for this truth, and for our own discovery of the faith we all need.

God casts some men into the furnace of affliction, and then beats them into what shape He pleases. - Anne Bradstreet

Carving honors heritage

ing over to Young and told him to buy the wood.

YOUNG found four large slabs of cedar at an Auburn mill and glued them together into a 6-foot by 2-foot by 7-inch block. Young describes it as more of an obelisk (without the tapered top) than a pole, but no matter. Calling it an Armenian totem pole has raised more than a few eyebrows.

Despite his Indian heritage — he was born on a Cheyenne reservation in South Dakota — Young didn't get interested in carving until he lost his job as a Boeing tool maker in the 1970 layoffs. On the prowl for a way to support his family, he ended up studying carving with a friend at Highline Community College.

After Highline, he went on to the University of Puget Sound and graduated with a bachelor's degree in education and art. He returned to Highline to teach woodcarving to Native Americans, but after hiring him and buying the necessary equipment, the school didn't have enough money to open the class to students.

Young turned his attention instead to two huge wood poles donated to Highline by the Weyerhaeuser Co. He worked on them for five years before leaving the school. One of the poles was finished by another carver and students, but Young is credited with carving the poles now adorning the Highline campus.

He carved the totem pole in the West Seattle Overlook, and others he's done have gone as far away as the East Coast and Japan. He describes his style as North Coast Indian, but points out that he only copies the style.

North Coast Indians, he explained, get upset when outsiders copy their exact designs, because certain designs actually belong to specific families. He is careful to make changes to avoid problems.

YOUNG WENT to work for Our Saviour's 10 years ago. He squeezes carving time in between his job and his duties as a junior director of Little League District 10. The pole for Gulian had to take a back seat to Little League during the busy summer months, but now that he has more time to spare, it is 70 percent finished.

Gulian, Our Saviour's minister of discipleship and outreach, is the son of Armenian immigrants. His father deserted the Turkish Army before World War I and came to the United States. He arranged for his bride-to-be to come in 1920, and the couple named their son after a lay priest from their hometown who was killed in a political massacre.

Gulian and his wife returned to Soviet Armenia, which is near the Russian-Turkish border, last summer to tour the Seven Churches of Revelation. Their new garden decoration is a commemoration of that visit, Gulian said.

"It's the only one of its kind in the world," he said, laughing.

Network looks at women's history

Women as history's pathfinders will be the topic of an Oct. 30 meeting of the Federal Way Women's Network. Mildred Tanner Andrews, historian and author of "Seattle Women: A Legacy of Community Development" and "Washington Women as Path Breakers," will talk about women who worked behind the scenes through the years to improve life in Washington. Andrews is a free-lance historian who lives in Seattle.

She has served as a faculty member at universities and community colleges and is past president of the Women's Heritage Center in Seattle. The Oct. 30 Women's Network meeting starts at 5:30 p.m. with light refreshments and continues at 6:30 p.m. with Andrews' talk. The organization fosters connections among Federal Way women by networking. Networking is explained at a short pre-meeting get-together, which starts at 4:30 p.m. The Women's Network meeting will be at the Federal Way Executel, 31611 20th Ave. S. Tickets are $7 for members, $10 for non-members. Tickets may be purchased at Olsten's Temporary Service, 32717 First Avenue South, or can be bought at the door for $10.

Streaker claims he's only tanning

A 14-year-old boy who ran naked through a local park told police he didn't think there was anything wrong with trying to improve his tan in that manner. Police responded to a call from the pastor of a church near Sacajawea Junior High, who saw the naked lad running through the athletic field. Police found the youth a short time later sitting — clothed — on a bench near the field. The boy admitted he had been running naked and said he does so on a regular basis when the weather permits to work on his tan. He added that he saw nothing wrong with his actions. The youthful streaker was released to his father and a case report was forwarded to juvenile authorities.

School fight sends teen to the hospital

A Federal Way High School student ended up in the hospital Monday after another student punched him in the face.

King County police report the 18-year-old student said he drove into one of the school's parking lots and in the process, sprayed gravel on a female student. A friend of the girl approached him and demanded an apology. The driver said he offered the apology, and thought the incident was over.

But as other students left for class, the girl's friend, a 17-year-old male student, approached the driver and the two began to fight. The driver said he tried to get into his truck and leave, but the other student pulled him from the cab and punched him in the face, breaking his glasses and cutting his face.

The driver said the other student punched him in the back of the head several more times as he fell to the ground.

The driver was taken by ambulance to Valley Medical Center for treatment of his cuts and a possible broken nose. Police are investigating the assault.

Man leads police on freeway chase

A man wanted for questioning about a domestic violence case led a police officer on a chase through Federal Way and along Interstate 5 before he was arrested.

King County police report the man was spotted at 2:13 p.m. Tuesday, shortly after the officer responded to the initial call. When the officer approached, the man drove off, the officer in chase. The chase wound eastbound on South 272nd Street from Star Lake Road to Interstate 5, where both cars headed south.

The man trying to elude police darted between cars on the freeway and passed several on the shoulder. He got off at the South 320th Street exit, drove erratically, repeatedly crossing several lanes of traffic, and ended up in the K-Mart parking lot, where two more police cars finally stopped his car.

The 32-year-old Federal Way man was arrested and given a sobriety test, which showed he had a .15 blood alcohol level (.10 is legally impaired). He was booked into the King County Jail for investigation of felony flight.

Bogus boat-buyer might be burglar

A man who claimed he was at a Federal Way home to see a boat advertised for sale may have burglarized that home, police report.

The resident said he was gone for about an hour, and when he returned a strange man was in his front yard. The man said he had come to see a boat for sale, and left. When the resident went inside, he discovered his front door had been forced open and parts of the house ransacked. Two televisions were sitting on the living room floor and a VCR was missing.

The man left in a dark blue 1980-83 four-door, mid-size car, possibly a GM. He is described as white, 30-32, 5 feet 10 inches and 175 pounds, with black hair and a dark complexion. He wore a blue T-shirt and jeans.

CONSTRUCTION is on schedule on the new northbound on-ramp to Interstate 5 at South 320th Street. The project will add a new eastbound lane on the 320th Street overpass, which along with one other existing lane, will splinter off to the south and make a complete circle back underneath the overpass before merging with the existing I-5 on-ramp lane. The $1.5 million project is expected to be completed in May. During the next week, some of the northbound lanes will be closed intermittently.

New bike patrol makes the grade, say county police

By LYNN KEEBAUGH

It's report card time, and the county's police bicycle unit has received high marks from its commander and the business community.

"I'd have to give it an A," said Precinct 5 commander Maj. Ollie Moore. "The program has exceeded all my expectations."

The bike patrol, which covers the central business district, began in July with a promise from Moore it would last at least through September, and then be evaluated before a decision regarding its future was made. The patrol recently ended and is in hiatus until November, when the Christmas shopping season picks up, and so does traffic, shoplifting and other related problems in the shopping district, Moore said.

It then will be brought back for special events and patrols when needed, until reinstated full-time again in the summer. When staffing permits, the patrol probably will become a year-around feature, he said.

SeaTac Mall Manager Sally Mantz said she has heard only positive remarks from customers who came into contact with the patrol officers Lisa Pepin and Walt Olson.

"It's been great PR for business, the police and the community," Mantz said.

Moore said he was pleased with the contact Pepin and Olson made with the community. Although their actual arrests and reports were slightly lower than the average turned in by patrol car officers, their informal contacts with the community were much higher. They also responded to more on-view, or officer-witnessed incidents than most officers in cars, he added.

Although the program is considered a success and even provided some unusual arrests, it also provided a few moments of discomfort.

Olson is proud of a driving-while-intoxicated arrest he made in the K-Mart parking lot, but could have done without being chased and bitten by a pack of dogs while riding through a residential neighborhood. Pepin didn't escape the summer duty unscathed, either, and a bump on the bike by a car sent her sprawling hard enough to break her protective helmet.

But bumps and bruises aside, Olson said he's ready to mount up again.

"It definitely is a great program. We're making arrests and making lots of contact with the public," he said.

While the bike patrol takes a break, Olson said he and Pepin plan to give bicycle safety presentations to school children and train other officers who apply for the patrol.

Eastiders seek assurances on future development

By WENDY CULVERWELL

The new city of Federal Way could eventually assume control of the Federal Way Water and Sewer District.

Commissioner Don Miller concedes there are more pressing concerns for the city council to consider and that such an act is years down the road, but he still wants to allay fears that customers who live outside city limits have about their future.

After attending a meeting of the East Side Residents Association last month, Miller drafted a proposal that essentially promises the city of Federal Way and the district will help the east side to retain its rural style.

"People on the eastside are concerned about their place in the district," Miller told fellow board members at a meeting Tuesday.

But another commissioner who attended the same meeting was unconvinced such an agreement is necessary or even appropriate.

"I have a problem recognizing an ad-hoc group — this is a group that came out of nowhere," said Commissioner Bob Piquette.

Commissioner Bev Tweddle agreed that if the proposal's goal is to assure eastside residents they won't be hurt by cityhood, then it is unnecessary.

"The district was here long before the city," she said. "Providing service is inherent in our mission."

MILLER drafted the proposal, which calls for the city and the district to cooperate with the residents' association to manage eastside growth, to make developers mitigate the costs they impose on the community, to preserve open space, to control surface water runoff and to support maintenance of septic tanks.

It calls for the signatures of the district's board president, Federal Way's mayor, and the association's chair.

The East Side Residents Association formed last spring when western Federal Way voted to incorporate. Like the Federal Way Community Council, its goal is to give residents in unincorporated areas a voice in government. Unlike the community council, its members are not elected by the community at large.

Donna Grossruck, chair of the association, supports Miller's proposed agreement.

She calls it a good faith gesture that recognizes the special needs of the eastside. Principal among those needs is maintaining the septic tanks most eastiders depend on for sewage disposal, she said.

Residents east of Interstate 5 have long resisted sewer lines in their communities because of the development they feel would follow. But, Grossruck said, many of the septic tanks are getting old and need some system of maintenance.

Because of that, she doesn't see the proposal as a mere guarantee that things won't change.

"The proposal is for the future, not just to maintain the existing system," she said.

TJ, Federal Way to renew old rivalry

By CHUCK MINGORI

A South Puget Sound League football rivalry dating back to the 1969 season will be renewed tonight when Federal Way and Thomas Jefferson tangle at Federal Way Memorial Field.

Kickoff for tonight's game is scheduled for 7:30.

Thomas Jefferson will bring a 2-1 SPSL record and a 3-1 overall mark into tonight's grid contest, while Federal Way is 1-2 in league and 2-2 on the season. Both squads are coming off disappointing losses.

Jefferson lost to Kentwood Saturday, 29-8, while Federal Way was surprised by Sumner, 42-20.

Thomas Jefferson running back Dan Meade is still recovering from a bruised knee suffered one day prior to the Raiders' game with Kentwood on Saturday. Meade carried the ball only five times for six yards against Kentwood, but for the season he has rushed for 458 yards and seven touchdowns.

"Right now he's still questionable," said Raider coach Sam Beesley on Wednesday. "But it looks like he's going to be able to play."

With so much at stake for Jefferson, it would be hard to keep Meade off the turf.

"It's our homecoming, it's Federal Way, it's everything," said Beesley. "If it's at all possible, I know Dan will be out on the field."

MEANWHILE, the status of Federal Way quarterback Jeff Wagner is uncertain.

Wagner suffered an ankle injury two weeks ago and he did not play last Friday against Sumner.

"Jeff, we're going to have to wait and see on," said Eagle head coach Tom McConaughy. "I don't know. I can't tell you (whether he will play). I'm not sure, because he's still pretty gimpy on it. We're trying to get (Jeff) Murphy ready to play, too."

Murphy took Wagner's place last week against the Spartans.

Another player injured but expected to be able to go tonight is Jefferson lineman Chris Martin, who "caught an elbow in the solar plexis" against Kentwood, Beesley said. Martin suffered "bruised muscles," but is O.K., Beesley added.

The Federal Way-Jefferson game presents two different kinds of offenses. The Eagles employ a run-and-shoot offense, while the Raiders like to use their wishbone, ball-control offense.

Federal Way boasts several weapons on offense. Lake Dawson, who is being recruited by several major universities, had another outstanding game last week at wide receiver. Dawson, who also is a threat on defense as a defensive back, caught four passes for 126 yards last week. Included in that total were touchdown catches of 40 and 61 yards.

Another offensive threat is running back Scott Dixon, who rushed for 110 yards on 10 carries and scored on a 67-yard touchdown run against the Spartans.

Beesley is also concerned about running back-linebacker Devon Jackson, who just became eligible for the Eagles.

"I expect Federal Way just added to their stable," he said.

"They have a lot of threats we have to watch out for."

Beesley also pointed out that Federal Way may be out to seek revenge for last year's 23-13 Raider victory, but that both teams are anxious to get back on the winning track.

JEFFERSON has its own share of offensive threats. Although the Raiders are a ball-control team, they do have some breakaway threats, as evidenced by quarterback Scott Orta's 63-yard touchdown run off the option that was called back against Kentwood. Orta also scored on a 41-yard run against

DECATUR doubles player Andrew Cho reaches for a shot Tuesday in his and Maynard Wagner's 7-5, 6-3 victory at second doubles over Kentridge's Brian Foster and Jesse Lynch. The Gators won the match, 4-1.

Gator netters win fifth match

By CHUCK MINGORI

The Decatur boys' tennis team received a stiff challenge from Kentridge Tuesday, but the Gators passed the test with flying colors.

Decatur continued to roll along with a 4-1 victory, which boosted the Gators' South Puget Sound League Puget Division record to 5-0.

"They (Kentridge) won the North Puget (Sound League) boys last year," explained Decatur tennis coach Rick Thompson. "They're a very strong team. I think they're really well-coached, they play really good tennis. I think we're lucky to get this one."

The Gators easily won the number one and two singles events, but lost the third singles and had a difficult time in doubles competition.

Andy Marshall and Henrik Muller-Hansen of Decatur combined for a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Kentridge's Sam Hawkes and Art Rawlings at number one doubles. And senior co-captains Andrew Cho and Maynard Wagner battled to a 7-5, 6-3 win over the Chargers' Brian Foster and Jesse Lynch at second doubles.

In number one singles action, Greg Johnson curised to a 6-0, 6-0 win over Chris Horu. Kurt Wessenberg beat Jeremy Woolman at second singles, 6-0, 6-0.

The only setback for Decatur on Tuesday came at number three singles, as ninth-grader Kyle Howat absorbed a 6-7, 0-6 loss to Kentridge's Brian Winter. Howat, who played for an injured Greg Wessenberg, was making his first varsity appearance for the Gators.

"It was good for Kyle as a ninth-grader to play a kid like that who is real consistent," said Thompson. "It was real good practice."

The match against Kentridge threw a bit of a scare into Thompson, whose team had lost only three sets in the previous four matches.

"I'm a little bit frustrated that we go up to this competition level," said Thompson. "But it's a good test. I'm glad we played them."

Decatur leads the SPSL's Sound Division standings with its 5-0 record, followed by Curtis (4-1), Kentridge and Lakes

(3-2), Puyallup (2-3), Kent-Meridian (1-5) and Spanaway Lake (0-5).

Decatur played Spanaway Lake yesterday (after press time) and is scheduled to play Clover Park in a practice match today. Tuesday, Decatur travels to Curtis for the second meeting of the season against the Vikings. The Gators won the first meeting against Curtis, 4-1, on the Decatur tennis courts.

THOMAS JEFFERSON met a tough Clover Park team Tuesday and was defeated, 5-0. "Clover Park is one of the better teams we've played," said Thomas Jefferson tennis coach Brian Maxfield. "They're right up there. They, probably Auburn, Rogers and Kentwood are all real tough."

Jimmy Tarr played number one singles for the Raiders that day and lost to CP's Will Walker, 6-2, 6-2. John Dobbs lost number two singles to the Warriors' Shane Velez, 6-0, 6-1, while number three singles player Lawrence Lee came up short against Scott Greenban, 6-1, 6-0.

In number one doubles play, the Raiders' Gary Anderson and Ryan Aoki lost to Dan Pena and Wayne Barker, 6-3, 6-2, while number two doubles players for the Raiders, Jamie Lawson and Hal Lettice, were defeated by Joel McInelly and Ming Tang, 6-1, 6-2.

Jefferson fell to 1-5 in Puget Division play, while Clover Park is now tied for first place with Kentwood and Rogers at 5-1.

Last week, the Raiders lost a hard-fought match to crosstown rival Federal Way, 3-2, and also played well in a 5-0 loss to Auburn and a 4-1 defeat to Kentwood.

Against Federal Way, Lee won the number one singles match over Federal Way's Michael Yu, 6-7, 7-6, 6-1. The Eagles' Fabricio Tobar won the second singles over Dobbs, 6-1, 6-0.

Peter Chang of Federal Way won the third singles match over TJ's Tarr, 7-6, 7-6.

In first doubles, Federal Way's Aaron Ellenberger and Robert Sarmiento defeated TJ's Lettice and Lawson, 6-1,

Eagle volleyball team tops Sparts

The Federal Way girls' volleyball team survived its trip to Sumner Tuesday night, finally putting the Spartans away in four games, 15-9, 10-15, 15-12, 16-14.

"It was a long match," said Eagle head coach Kathy Harris. "We probably would have gotten home at midnight if it had gone five sets."

As it was, Harris arrived home at 11 p.m.

"The referee said at the end that he hasn't seen a good match like that in a long time," said Harris. "It was too nerve-racking for me. My heart was pounding in that fourth set."

Jenny Davis had five assists, 14 kills and five blocks in the match, while Brooke Edwards had three aces, nine assists, 14 kills and seven blocks and Krystal Rodriguez two aces, 23 assists, four kills and two blocks.

Cheryl Moeller picked up three aces and nine assists and Nicole Resser had five assists, one kill and one block as Tracy Bille had seven assists and two kills.

Lisa Ehlike had a 28-for-28 night serving, along with three aces, six assists and four kills.

Harris had further praise for Ehlike and Resser.

"They're so intense, and they're consistent," she said. "Every one of the shots is in play, and that allows us to look somewhat impressive at the net. It's not showing up in the stats, but they deserve a lot of credit for that. Lots of saves, lots of hustle — kind of like little spark plugs."

The win put the Eagles' record at 5-3, tying them with Kent-Meridian. Auburn and Kentridge are tied for first at 7-0 and Bethel 6-1, followed by Decatur and Rogers (5-2) and then the Eagles and Royals. Curtis is right behind Federal Way at 4-3.

The top seven teams at the end of the season will go on to the West Central District Tournament in Auburn.

DECATUR ost at the home of the powerhouse Kentridge squads in three sets Tuesday, 15-9, 15-4, 15-9, but Gator head coach Kay Blocki had no regrets.

"I was not upset with the way my kids played at all," she said. "I would like to have taken a game from them, and we were ahead in the third but couldn't hang on. We played well the first and third games, and the second we couldn't pass well."

Decatur was able to serve better than it had in other recent matches, with only three service errors.

"That's really good," said Blocki. "And we had only two net balls even though we play tight on the net."

But the Chargers — who return all of their players from a team that made it to the state final four last year — were just too much to handle.

"They just have a lot of big talent," said Blocki. "Against a team like them we need at least one more strong power hitter. But I'd like to meet them again (in post-season play). It's fun and real power volleyball. Our kids had some good power blocking and that surprised Kentridge."

Nicole Adkins, the Gator setter, had three service aces, eight assists, and three kills and two blocks, while Shannon Barrett had nine kills and two blocks and Kathy Laky nine kills and three blocks.

Mindy Brown contributed four kills for Decatur, which actually drew more fans than the hometown Kentridge team.

"The girls were disappointed," said Blocki of the loss. "They wanted to win a game against Kentridge, but who doesn't. I think we can take a game from them if everyone is on."

THOMAS JEFFERSON was able to win its first game against Rogers, 16-14, but lost the next two by 15-9 and 15-3 scores before bowing out in a close fourth game, 16-14.

The Rams improved to 5-2 with the win, while the Raiders dipped to 0-8.

All of TJ's remaining games are against teams in the bottom portion of the SPSL standings, however, including a 7 p.m. visit from Spanaway Lake (3-4) Tuesday. The Raiders were at Lakes (1-6) after press time last night with other matches remaining against Kentwood, Clover Park, Curtis and Sumner.

Decatur is home taking on Kent-Meridian at 7 p.m. Tuesday after visiting Federal Way last night, while the Eagles go to Kentridge at the same time Tuesday.

Totem In-House League helps youth learn soccer

I would like to continue with our column by telling you about each of the clubs in the Federal Way Soccer Association (FWSA).

The FWSA boundaries are identical to the Federal Way School District. Each club has several schools within their boundaries and kids from those schools would play for those clubs.

All the soccer clubs are non-profit organizations and each player pays an annual fee to cover costs of operating the clubs. These costs include insurance, field rentals, referees, Washington State Youth Soccer Association fee, equipment and uniforms. In the northern area of the FWSA is the Totem Soccer Club. The kids that attend Sunnycrest, Star Lake, Valhalla, Woodmont and Wildwood elementary schools would play in the Totem Soccer Club.

Ron Whaley

The officers are the Totem Soccer Club are: president Jim Wallace, vice president Dave Parker, secretary Darlene Smith, treasurer Doreen Torseth and registrar Bonnie Wallace.

Totem has 37 teams playing soccer ranging in age from the 15-year-old boys and girls down to kids as young as six. One third of the teams are kids ages seven and under.

Totem Soccer Club is now having its annual fund raiser to help keep costs down. Each player will be selling pepperoni. If they should come knocking on your door, show your support and buy several sticks.

If you want to have fun watching young kids learning to play soccer, go and watch the In-House League. These are kids, ages seven and under.

Totem Soccer Club In-House League games are played on Saturdays, starting in the mornings and going through the afternoons. The games are played at Glen Nelson Park and Sunnycrest School.

You may have the good fortune to watch a game with Jon Weiss as referee. Jon is noted for his stopping of the game to explain to the kids what his call is and showing them how the game is played. It's great fun for kids and parents alike.

I SAW an exciting game between Federal Way and Thomas Jefferson high schools last week. The South Puget Sound League girls' game was decided late in the second half (with TJ winning, 1-0).

Most of these girls developed their soccer skills through youth soccer in Federal Way. I would not be surprised if both of these teams as well as Decatur go far in the state tournament.

Ron Whaley is the publicity chairman for the Federal Way Soccer Association, and has been a board member of the local club for three years. He has been involved in coaching and as a referee for six years.

Whaley's column will appear weekly in the Friday edition of the Federal Way News. Information for the column can be submitted to Whaley at 28522-41st Ave. So., Auburn, WA. 98001.

Raiders give Lakes the boot

By TIM CLINTON

The Thomas Jefferson girls' soccer team scored six goals in just over 15 minutes in the second half Thursday in blowing away the Lakes Lancers, 8-0.

The Raiders had led by only a 2-0 margin at halftime.

"We came on strong the second half," said Thomas Jefferson head coach Nelson Garcia, whose team was coming off a big 1-0 win over Federal Way last Thursday. "We were not in our game plan and were too relaxed at first. We had a few words at halftime that helped."

The Raiders remained undefeated in South Puget Sound League play with the win and now stand at 8-0, one game ahead of Federal Way (7-1) for the Puget Division lead.

Thomas Jefferson stands at 9-1 overall, and has outscored its SPSL opponents, 57-0.

Lakes is now 2-5, although it is the only team to beat Decatur in Sound Division play. Tuesday marked the beginning of crossover action between the two divisions, which for TJ will last through a season-ending clash with Decatur Oct. 28.

Meanwhile, the Raiders hosted Kentridge last night (after press time), before getting a 7:30 p.m. visit from Puyallup (6-1) Tuesday.

"We're not assuming anything or looking at stats," said Garcia of the upcoming matches. "We're not taking anyone lightly and we're not overconfident, but we slipped a little the first half (against Lakes)."

TJ WAS still able to jump out ahead, however, with Casey Zimmer scoring her first of three goals with 28:52 to play in the first half on a free kick that floated just over the Lancer defenders and goalie into the net.

Jennifer McDermott gave her team a 2-0 lead with 5:36 to go before the half, bumping a Jolene Hering assist into the right corner. The Raiders went scoreless for the first 10 minutes of the second half, but that was just the calm before the storm.

Karey Hinkson started the barrage with 29:20 to play in the match, as Jessie Casbere crossed the ball to her on the right far post and she drilled it on in.

Casbere scored herself at 28:05, moving around a defender and punching the ball by the goalie for a 5-0 lead.

Casbere struck again at 25:45, making another nice move past the Lancer defense and booting a hard grounder by the Lakes goalie's feet.

Zimmer scored from the right side into the left corner for a 6-0 advantage at 24:41, then completed her hat trick with another goal at 19:58. On that play, Hinkson slipped the ball around the right post to Zimmer, who was just in front of the net.

McDermott capped off the scoring at 14:13, grounding in a Hinkson throw-in.

GOALIE Corina Wolanski recorded her eighth shutout of the season for the Raiders, and picked up nine saves.

Jefferson dominated in shots on goal, 40-9.

Heskins leads the way in Eagle win

By GERARDO BOLONG

Dial 'H' for Heskin was the prescription Tuesday night when the Federal Way girls' soccer team fireballed forward to a comfortable 5-1 South Puget Sound League victory over the injury-ridden Kent-Meridian Royals at Federal Way Memorial Field.

Midfielder Maria Heskin scored two goals, while Diana Heskin scored one goal and assisted on another to lead the flying Federal Way attack.

Federal Way improved its SPSL Puget Division record to 7-1-0 with the win, while Kent-Meridian fell to 4-3-0 in the Sound Division.

"It was a good game for us after last Thursday's loss," said Eagle head coach Joann Neil.

"The girls played relaxed and enjoyed themselves."

With midfielders and forwards controlling the flanks early, Federal Way displayed speed superiority.

After five minutes had elapsed in the game, Maria Heskin bounced a kick off the Royals' onrushing goalkeeper. The ball bounced off the Kent-Meridian stopper and into the goal for a 1-0 Eagle lead.

"I saw the far post wide open," recalled Heskin. "The goalie made a mistake."

Midfielder Heskin continually roamed the sidelines, setting up three-person rushes.

At the 32:28 mark of the first half, Roslyn Fry popped a pass over the middle over Diana Heskin's quickly moving body. Heskin knocked a header into the goal for a 2-0 Eagle lead.

"It was a 50-50 ball," explained sophomore Heskin. "I thought the ball would be there and just got to it before their goalkeeper could."

AS FEDERAL WAY regularly infiltrated Kent-Meridian territory it was just a matter of time before the Eagles scored again. Just over 17 minutes into the half, senior midfielder Roslyn Fry boomed a 29-yard goal just over the finger tips of the Royals' goalie and Federal Way ran up the lead 3-0.

With 15:37 remaining in the half, Federal Way coach Neil began putting all her players into the game. Justi Baumgardt fired two quick bullets at the goal.

Less than eight minutes before halftime remained when Kent-Meridian's Diane Kammerath tried a nine-yard free kick which Federal Way goalie Shannon Sehlin easily stopped.

Both teams then played bumper car style soccer until the intermission.

Opening the second half, the fired-up Royals showed early offense. Kent-Meridian's captain, Kelly Graham, made good penetration, but missed a goal kick wide to the right two minutes into the half.

One minute later, Megan Colasurdo booted the ball from the right side but was snuffed by Eagle goalie Sehlin. Despite the onslaught, Kent-Meridian still could not score against the continually substituting Federal Way flock.

OVER 28 minutes remained in the game when the Eagle substitution shuttle began. Maria Heskin scored a header off Diana Heskin's corner kick at 22:32 for a 4-0 Federal Way lead.

While Federal Way's starting players enjoyed the second half mostly from the sidelines, Darcy Whaley set up a pass from the right side to midfielder Sheralyn Stackhouse. Stackhouse dribbled clear with some nice moves and left-footed the ball past the goalkeeper for the final Federal Way point.

Eagle goalkeeper Shannon Sehlin was rested with 19:30 in regulation time.

Kent-Meridian finally scored on Kelly Graham's direct free kick at the 16:52 mark. Both teams then followed the bouncing ball until the game's conclusion.

Sheralyn Stackhouse and Justi Baumgardt controlled the middle for Federal Way. Sophomore Tiffany Rutter was tough up front. Stacy Ford also flew high.

Kelly Graham led the way for Kent-Meridian.

Shots on goal favored Federal Way 20-7.

"We tried some different combinations tonight," explained Eagle coach Neil. "We're two deep at every position. When the big games come, we'll be there."

Diana Heskin embodied her Federal Way teammates' attitudes when she stated, "The loss to Jefferson didn't really affect us badly. It will inspire us to better performances for our next games."

Gators win in OT

The Decatur girls' soccer team survived a scare from Kentwood Tuesday, edging the Conquerors in overtime, 2-1, at Kent's French Field.

The win improved the Gators' record to 6-1 in South Puget Sound League play, keeping them in a tie with Puyallup for first place in the Sound Division. The Vikings were 3-0 winners over Sumner.

Amy Stiles scored both goals for Decatur, including the game-winning tally 2:30 into the first of two overtime periods.

Nikki Isbell assisted Stiles on that goal, while Erica Miller earned the assist on Stiles' first goal which came with 15 minutes left to play.

Kentwood had scored first 12 minutes into the game on a Patty Neor penalty kick.

The Gators outshot the Conquerors, 24-12, and Decatur goalie Casey Christiansen had nine saves.

The Gators visited Auburn after press time last night, and get a 5:30 p.m. visit from Sumner Tuesday.

Eagles, Raiders collide on gridiron today

Auburn and carried the ball 63 yards from scrimmage against the Trojans during a 36-7 Raider victory.

Jefferson also scored on a 6-play, 72-yard drive against Kentwood, which ended in a 26-yard touchdown pass from Orta to Joey Sonnenfeld.

"We've got to be able to stop their power game and stop some of the little tricks that they'll throw in and their option attack to be able to get back on the field," said McConnaughey.

As for Jefferson, Beesley said the Raiders must try to prevent Federal Way from making the "big plays" on offense and force the opposition into sustaining drives.

Beesley said that because of the success Jefferson has enjoyed on the ground so far, that Federal Way may try to "crowd us at the line of scrimmage with eight or nine men." But on the other hand, the Eagles must be wary of Orta's ability to throw the ball.

The way the Jefferson coach sees it, Federal Way can play to give up the run or the pass or try to play the Raiders tough on the corners to prevent the option.

"We feel they're going to have to give us something," he said. "It's just a matter of us finding out what it is and attacking it."

Traditionally, Federal Way has used a 4-3 defensive alignment with a 5-2 goal-line defense, but the Eagles may switch to the 5-2 against Jefferson's ground-oriented attack, Beesley said. Jefferson's been a traditional 5-2 defensive team, Beesley said, but the Raider coach added that that may not be the "appropriate defense" to use against Federal Way's passing oriented offense.

One advantage that Federal Way has is that the Eagles already have faced a wishbone team when the Eagles played Kentwood. Federal Way lost to the Conquerors, 30-14. On the other hand, this is Jefferson's first time playing against a run-and-shoot team.

MCCONNAUGHEY has a lot of respect for the Raider program and players.

"They're bigger and stronger than us," he said. "I think they have had a stronger first half of the season than we've had. I think that's a credit to the kids they have in the program over there. They're a tough bunch of kids."

Beesley said the team "who executes the best and who makes the least amount of errors" should come out on top tonight.

Who that team will be is not easy to predict, however. But one thing is for certain.

"Both teams should be up and ready to go," Beesley said.

Royals hit the road

Three F.C. Royals teams left for Washington, D.C., Thursday to take part in the Washington Area Girls' Soccer Tournament (WAGS).

Making the trip are the F.C. Royals U-19 '71T and '71C teams as well as the U-16 '74T team.

The WAGS tournament is the nation's largest all-girls' soccer tournament and is a key event in the college recruitment of top players. Last year over 60 college coaches from across the nation attended this premier soccer event and their numbers are expected to increase this year.

The Royals U-19 '71T team includes Decatur sophomore Carrie Austin, as well as Kennedy junior DeeDee Robertson and Bellarmine's Shannon Fitzpatrick and Sanya Trandum. Players from Puyallup are Tara Bilanski, Rhonda Klein, Laurie Stephen and Sarah Wilkinson.

Eags even record

1-6, 7-6, while Jefferson's Aoki and Anderson outplayed Federal Way's Brian Bova and Clark Johnson, 6-1, 1-6, 7-6, in second doubles.

The Thomas Jefferson tennis team played at Sumner yesterday (after press time) and will travel to Bethel Monday and host Rogers Tuesday.

FEDERAL WAY evened its record at 3-3 in SPSL play Tuesday with a 4-1 victory over Bethel.

At first singles, Fabricio Tobar of Federal Way defeated Eddie Bang of Bethel, 6-4, 6-3.

Michael Yu was a 5-7, 6-4, 7-6

(7-1 tiebreaker) winner over Bethel's Mariano Ginoresus at third singles.

At first doubles, Federal Way's Robert Sarmiento and Aaron Ellenberger beat Barrett Baker and Bryce Smith of Bethel, 6-0, 6-1.

And at second doubles, Brian Bova and Clark Johnson of Federal Way were 6-1, 6-1 winners over Cesar Sancho and Leonce Beonville of the Braves.

The Eagles were scheduled to go to Rogers yesterday (after press time) and will travel to Kentwood Monday before heading to Auburn Tuesday.

Powell coming to Federal Way

Seattle Mariners pitcher Dennis Powell will be at the McDonald's restaurant on 320th signing autographs from 12:30 p.m. to 1 p.m. tomorrow.

Powell will be on hand to take part in "Super Saturday," which is being presented by Federal Way National Little League and McDonald's.

Proceeds from lunch sales (noon to 2 p.m.) at three Federal Way area McDonald's restaurants will go to benefit the Federal Way National Little League's fund to build a four-field baseball complex in West Campus.

Participating McDonald's restaurants are Federal Way I, 2302 So. 320th; Federal Way II, 1416 So. 348th; and SeaTac Mall, Fleetstreet Food Court.

In addition to having a chance to meet Powell, there will also be Mariner souvenirs and memorabilia given out at the 320th McDonald's restaurant.

And at the other two McDonald's restaurants, there will be giveaways made of other Mariner momentos as well as special appearances made by the Seattle Mariner Diamond girls. Mariner organist Sharon Stearns also is expected to be on hand.

Federal Way National Little League is trying to raise $300,000 to complete its baseball complex. In the fall of 1987 Weyerhaeuser's Quadrant Corporation donated to Federal Way National Little League a 20-acre parcel of land located in West Campus.

Plans are to build four fields — two senior-size diamonds and two Little League diamonds — along with a two-story clubhouse and concession stand centrally located.

Federal Way National, which fields teams for 450 youngsters, still needs lots of financial and volunteer support.

EVEN TOM SELLECK'S good looks can't save him from being dragged off to jail in "An Innocent Man." Selleck plays a downright wonderful guy whose perfect life is ruined when police frame him for a crime he didn't commit.

Tom Selleck goes to prison

By SEAN ROBINSON

The best thing about "An Innocent Man" is hearing Tom Selleck swear.

It's funny hearing bad words come out of his mouth. You want to giggle. Magnum never said that stuff. Profanity and Tom Selleck have as much in common as Zsa Zsa Gabor and humility.

Nevertheless, Selleck is trying to market himself as a legitimate matinee idol. "An Innocent Man" is a step in the wrong direction. It's so awful it's laughable.

SELLECK PLAYS Jimmie Rainwood, the Man With the Perfect Life. He's so perfect, he has his own private orchestra. An airplane mechanic and troubleshooter, he points out loose wires to his fellows as the music swells. The entire thing feels like an airline commercial. Rainwood is married to the Perfect Wife (Laila Robins). She's so perfect, she has time to make her hubby wonderful candlelight dinners, hold down a career and study for a degree at night. More sappy strings.

Enter Two Really Rotten Cops (David Rasche and Richard Young). This ersatz Miami Vice duo mouths colorful obscenities while busting helpless cocaine dealers.

The cops are on the take. After each arrest, they spirit away most of the contraband, and sell

Mindless melodrama makes 'Innocent Man' murderous

it to a local gangster. Naturally, no one suspects them. But then they screw up.

They get an address from their tipster, and confuse it with Rainwood's. Bursting into his perfect house, the cops surprise Rainwood, who brandishes a hair drier and gets shot for his pains. Realizing they've got the wrong man, the cops set up an amateurish frame, and Rainwood is sent to prison for six years. Say it ain't so, Tommy.

OF COURSE, prison turns out to be a really fun place, and Rainwood meets many new and interesting people. Still, he is hardened by prison life, and plots his revenge. Predictably, poetic justice is spooned out in ridiculous dollops.

The questions aren't complicated in movies like "An Innocent Man." How good is the good guy? How bad are the bad guys? How severely will the good guy have to beat up the bad guy before justice is done?

IT'S CLEAR Rainwood is good and the cops are bad, so bad that they have the unmitigated nerve to call his wife a nasty name. The beating is pretty severe, too. Lots of blood and gore and stuff. Never mind realism. Never mind that Rainwood's parole is completely blown. Hey, the bad guy's unconscious. Cut to candlelight dinner.

Larry Brothers' screenplay is shockingly empty-headed. The prospect of a man wrongly convicted can be interesting. But Brothers chooses to gloss over anything captivating. He keeps the focus on mindless melodrama, instead of exploring the reality of how prison affects people. For Rainwood, three years of hard time go by in a wink. "Midnight Express" is a far better example of prison realities.

Peter Yates' direction displays the sort of shallow flash generated in music videos. The violence is beautifully choreographed, the prison scenes are fashionably gritty and the pace moves at a commercial clip. The film aims to please to the point of fawning.

Selleck's performance is commendably sincere, and a little embarrassing. He hasn't overcome that nice-guy image yet, and he won't until he does something extremely different. He's great at playing himself, but that's not enough to carry this movie.

THE BEST performance comes from F. Murray Abraham (Salieri in "Amadeus") as Virgil Cane, a wise convict who shows Rainwood the ropes of prison. Abraham is a tremendous actor, and he steals every scene he's in.

Robins has little to do as Rainwood's long-suffering wife, but stereotypical roles can do that. The same goes for the two bad cops, who are nothing more than corrupt cartoons.

Despite the flaws and cheap pandering to the public, audience members could be heard saying, "That was pretty good," as they left the theater. Maybe Selleck knows something.

"An Innocent Man" is playing at Sea-Tac North. The rating is R, for profanity, violence and adult situations.

A peek at the weekend

TONIGHT: Pianist Andre Laplante will be the guest soloist when the Tacoma Symphony Orchestra performs at 8 p.m., and tomorrow at 2 p.m. in Tacoma's Pantages Centre. Laplante will perform Beethoven's Concerto No. 4 for Piano and Orchestra in G Major. In addition, the orchestra will play Aaron Copland's "Tender Land Suite" and Richard Strauss' "Death and Transfiguration, Op. 23." Ticket prices for the concerts range from $3 to $12 and are available at all Ticketmaster outlets, at the Pantages box office and by calling 272-7264.

SATURDAY: To kick off a celebration of the 78th anniversary of the founding of China, the Chinese community in the Seattle area is sponsoring a Chinese Parade at 1 p.m. The parade will begin at the corner of Eighth Avenue and King Street in Seattle. The parade will be the first of a series of events throughout the month such as movies, a basketball contest and an opera, all designed to celebrate China's history. Most of the events are free. For more information, call 632-5443 or 624-5622.

SUNDAY: The Pantages Centre in Tacoma will present a one-night performance of "Me and My Girl," a musical about a Lambeth cockney who inherits an earldom and all its wealth and trappings. While he clashes with the English aristocracy, he remains true to his working class girlfriend. Show time is 8 p.m. Ticket prices range from $26 to $32 and are available at all Ticketmaster outlets, at the Pantages box office and by calling 591-5894.

THIS WEEKEND: St. Demetrios Greek Orthodox Church in Seattle will present its annual St. Demetrios Greek Festival, featuring Greek dinners, pastries and other specialty foods, as well as folk dancing and Greek crafts. Church tours and lectures will make the festival educational as well. Visitors can expect to taste treats such as gyros, shish-kabob, lamb, kalamaria for seafood lovers and loukoumades — the Greek version of a doughnut. Festival hours are noon to 9 p.m. today, 10:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. tomorrow and noon to 7 p.m. Sunday. The church is at 2100 Boyer Ave. E. For more information, call 325-4347.

Film club features Oshima

The Cine Club at Highline Community College continues its film festival Monday, Oct. 9, with "The Man Who Left His Will on Film" by Nagisa Oshima.

Oshima is a prominent figure in Japanese cinema, noted for his camerawork and a style that mixes violence, politics and eroticism. Weekly through mid-November, the Cine Club will continue to feature the work of Oshima.

The movie will be shown at noon and 7 p.m. in the Artists-Lecture Center in Building 7 on the Highline campus. Admission is $1 per person.

The campus is at South 240th Street and Pacific Highway South. For more information, call the college at 878-3710, ext. 256.

STARPAC offers tickets for local music, theater

STARPAC, the Society for the Acquisition and Refinement of a Performing Arts Center, is offering a season ticket to five different local productions.

The organization, which represents performing arts groups in the Federal Way area, has a limited number of tickets available to see the Sea Tac Harmony Kings, a barbershop chorus; the Federal Way Philharmonic, a semi-professional orchestra; Harmony Unlimited, a women's singing group; Puget Sound Musical Theatre's production of "Camelot"; and the Federal Way Community Band. Most performances will be in the spring, on specific dates.

The price of a single ticket is $40, or $75 for two. Orders will be filled on a first come, first served basis. To order, send a check or money order to STARPAC, P.O. Box 5225, Redondo, Wash., 98054. Proceeds will go toward establishing a performing arts center in the Federal Way area.

For more information, call Jerry Boyd at 839-1401.

Auburn to host Diller act

Green River Community College will host a performance next week by comedian Phyllis Diller, the first performer in the college's 1989-90 Artists and Speakers Series.

Diller, known for her outrageous hair style and laugh, has starred on television, in movies and on the stage, but maintains a fondness for live performances.

Diller will perform her one-woman comedy routine at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 12, in the Auburn Performing Arts Center. Tickets are $10 and $14 and are available by calling the college at 833-9111, ext. 337, or by calling Ticketmaster at 628-0888.

Scandinavian fest offers food, crafts

Thirteen Scandinavian organizations from around Puget Sound will participate in the annual Scandinavian Days Festival in Puyallup today through Sunday.

The 24th annual celebration of Scandinavian culture begins today and will feature ethnic food, events and crafts. Dancing and singing also will be part of the three-day event at the Western Washington Fairgrounds.

Each day's events will begin at 10 a.m. and will celebrate the culture of Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland and Iceland.

Admission and parking are free. Proceeds from sales will fund scholarships to students of Scandinavian descent.

Festival hours are until 6 tonight, 7 tomorrow night and 6 p.m. Sunday. For more information, call 565-3366.

ALL EYES WILL BE on the Federal Way Philharmonic as the orchestra opens its new season Oct. 21, under the direction of Brian Davenport. The opening concert, set at 8 p.m. in St. Theresa's Church, will be an evening of American pop music and light classics.

A community's music

The Federal Way Philharmonic tunes up for fall opening pop and classical concert

The Federal Way Philharmonic is tuning up for its new season, opening Oct. 21 with a Centennial Champagne Pops concert.

Guest artists Harmony Unlimited, a women's chorus, and David Powell, violinist, will join the orchestra for an evening of American pop music and light classics.

Harmony Unlimited has been entertaining audiences for the past 20 years. Don Barrows will direct the group.

David Powell, a graduate of the Cleveland Institute of Music and who also studied in Europe, will perform Saint Saens' "Introduction and Ron-do Capriccioso."

The philharmonic, conducted by Brian Davenport, is the oldest community orchestra in the Seattle area. Davenport, who has directed the orchestra since 1982, also has conducted the Monte Carlo Symphony and at the Darmstadt Opera House in Germany.

The orchestra is made up of about 50 semi-professional musicians. Most performances are at St. Theresa's Church in Federal Way.

Season concerts will include performances of music from Russia, classical orchestral music and opera of the late 19th century.

General admission tickets are $8 per concert or $25 for the season's four concerts. Senior citizen tickets are $6 per concert or $20 for the season.

New this year are complimentary tickets for youth and students at all Federal Way Philharmonic concerts. Made possible through a grant from the Bishop Foundation, the free tickets are designed to help more families attend the concerts.

Tickets are now available at Washington Mutual Savings Bank at 32000 Pacific Highway South and at the Place For Gifts and Things at 32901 First Avenue South. For more information, call 839-9132 or 941-7198.

Issaquah salmon festival to spawn this weekend

Entertainment, a parade, a kids' fair and a salmon bake will be part of the annual Issaquah Salmon Days tomorrow and Sunday.

Memorial Field in Issaquah will be the scene of most of the festivities this weekend as the city celebrates the return of spawning salmon to the Issaquah Salmon Hatchery every year. The celebration begins tomorrow at 7 a.m. A grand parade will get events rolling at 9:30 a.m. at the corner of Gilman Boulevard and Front Street. The Seafair Pirates, Miss Washington, Tia's Quacker Tunes and Indian dancers will be some of the entrants in the parade, along with clowns, floats, horses and antique cars.

Entertainment scheduled throughout the two days will include Spike and the Continentals, the Mazeltones, the Foggy Bottom Jazz Band and Penny Ante Polka Band, among others.

A kids' fair will be open both days with events for kids including performances by J.P. Patches and The Storysingers. In addition kids can participate in a variety of exhibits and games.

Foods of the world, as well as salmon, will be available at the festival. This year's variety includes roast beef sandwiches, pizza, calzone, bratwurst, Greek food, tempura and Vietnamese food.

More than 450 artists and vendors will line the streets of Issaquah, selling everything from fine jewelry to rocking chairs, children's clothing and eggshell ornaments. This year, awards will be given to booth vendors in several categories, including the most unique and best salmon-themed items. Judging will be Saturday morning.

Visitors also can take time to see the Issaquah Salmon Hatchery, where workers will be busy removing eggs from Chinook and Coho salmon that have reached the holding ponds. Visitors also can see salmon struggle upstream to the fish ladder and holding ponds. Department of Fisheries staff and volunteers will be on hand to explain the spawning process and answer questions.

The celebration will wind down Sunday with salmon watch walks along Gilman Boulevard and hydroplane races at Lake Sammamish State Park. The festival closes at 6 p.m. both days.

Issaquah is about 25 minutes east of Seattle on Interstate 90. Parking will be available on Gilman Boulevard and at the Eastgate Park and Ride. The festival will provide buses to take guests from the parking areas to the festival. Buses will run every 15 minutes.

For more information about the festival, call 392-0661.

Northwest ballet opens its season

The Pacific Northwest Ballet will open its 1989-90 season next week with "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Choreographed by George Balanchine, it is based on the play by Shakespeare and set to music by Felix Mendelssohn. Audiences will see Oberon, King of the Fairies; Titania, Queen of the Fairies; and the mischievous Puck, who meddles in everyone's love affairs. The first act of the ballet tells the whole story, while the second act devotes itself to pure dance on the theme of courtly love.

The ballet will be performed six times in the Seattle Center Opera House. Show times are 8 p.m. Oct. 11-13, at 2 and 8 p.m. Oct. 14 and at 8 p.m. Oct. 18. Ticket prices range from $9 to $44 and are available at all Ticketmaster outlets or by calling Ticketmaster at 628-0888.

At the Movies

"THE ABYSS"

James Cameron, director of "The Terminator" and "Aliens," has come up with the rarest of combinations: A special-effects movie with a plot. "The Abyss" concerns a group of commercial divers recruited to save a foundering nuclear submarine. They find a good deal more. The writing is good, the acting excellent, and the effects are superlative. Even though the ending is overdone, "The Abyss" is a visual treat, with a good deal of suspense thrown in. Playing at Gateway Center and at Lewis and Clark. "The Abyss" is rated PG-13.

"BATMAN"

Devotees of the Dark Knight will have minor quibbles with Tim Burton's vision of the Caped Crusader, but not many. Though he's too gadget-oriented and not much of an athlete, this Batman is the grim creature of the night envisioned by his creator, Bob Kane. The effects are tremendous, and rescue a mediocre plot, highlighted by a forced and unnecessary love story. Michael Keaton brings an interesting quirkiness to Batman's character. There may be too much of Jack Nicholson's Joker, but so what? He's brilliant. Rated PG-13. Playing at SeaTac South.

"DEAD POET'S SOCIETY"

Imagine, if you can, Robin Williams underplaying a role and you have a thoughtful, poignant portrayal in a thoughtful, poignant film. Williams takes a back seat to his students as a free-thinking nonconformist literature teacher at a stuffy, staid conformist New England prep school. The film is bright, uplifting and tragic as it extols the virtues and dangers of the motto, carpe diem, or seize the day. Rated PG. It is playing at Gateway Center.

"ERIK THE VIKING"

"Erik the Viking" is suffering from an identity crisis. It can't decide whether it wants to be a Monty Python-esque farce, an old-fashioned swashbuckler, or "Hill Street Blues," circa 700 A.D. Erik (Tim Robbins) grows tired of the endless Viking routine of looting, raping and pillaging. He yearns for something more, and drags all the men in the village with him on a quest to wake the gods, who haven't been returning phone calls. There are funny moments, and strange ones that don't work. Fortunately, it's successful more than half the time. Rated PG-13, for violence and adult situations. Playing at SeaTac South.

"FIELD OF DREAMS"

A baseball fairy tale in the general mold of "The Natural," but more contemporary and less about baseball than about one man's struggle to come to terms with bittersweet memories of his father. Based on the novel, "Shoeless Joe," the movie is faithful to the book in spirit if not every detail. Warm, witty, with bursts of visual splendor, such as the eerie initial appearance of the "ghost" of Shoeless Joe Jackson in a baseball diamond carved from a corn field by the film's engaging star, Kevin Costner. It's a movie with a message: Follow your dream and you might get a second chance. Tender hearts should bring Kleenex. Rated PG, it's playing at Gateway Center.

"INDIANA JONES AND THE LAST CRUSADE"

"Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade" won't disappoint devotees of the George Lucas/Steven Spielberg hero. The imitable Indy (Harrison Ford) gets tangled up with Nazis, religious fanatics, and his own father (Sean Connery) while searching for the legendary Holy Grail. The plot is thin, the action predictable and the suspense non-existent, but the stunts are routinely breath-taking, and Connery adds some spice to the formula mix. Rated PG-13. "Indiana Jones" is playing at Gateway Center.

"PARENTHOOD"

It isn't easy to make movies about family life without descending into the syrup-laden well of sentimentality. "Parenthood" manages to avoid all the clichés that generate labels like "the feelgood movie of the summer." It features an excellent ensemble cast, nifty plot twists, crisp direction of a good screenplay by Ron Howard, and the best performance of Steve Martin's career. It's also very funny. "Parenthood" is playing at SeaTac South and at Lewis and Clark. The rating is PG-13 for mild swearing and some double entendres.

JOHN CANDY stars as the fun-loving Uncle Buck in "Uncle Buck," the last person you'd want to leave the kids with.

"STAR TREK: THE FINAL FRONTIER"

"Star Trek" may be one of the best sequels out this year. Better than "Rocky" or "Friday the 13th," the fifth "Star Trek" sequel is as comfortable as an old pair of sneakers. In this latest installment, the Enterprise is commandeered by a renegade Vulcan named Sybok (Laurence Luckinbill), who does things we don't associate with Mr. Spock's race, like smiling. The plot begins on an epic scale, but peters out.

"UNCLE BUCK"

"Uncle Buck" is another John Candy belly flop. The prodigious comedian's talents are wasted in this John Hughes vehicle. Uncle Buck comes over to babysit the kids for a few days during a family crisis. Naturally, though he's really a nice guy, nobody else thinks so, and the greater portion of the film is spent waiting for everyone to figure it out. Yawn. Playing at Gateway Center. Rated PG.

"WHEN HARRY MET SALLY"

Director Rob Reiner has given moviegoers a treat. His perception of male/female relationships is realistic, sometimes gritty, and almost always hilarious. Billy Crystal and Meg Ryan are wonderful as a pair who start out hating each other, forget each other, then survive years of platonic friendship, and eventually...well, see the film for yourself. Playing at SeaTac North and Lewis and Clark, it's rated R.

Joan Baez set to play in Seattle

Singer and songwriter Joan Baez will celebrate the 30th anniversary of her musical career in a Seattle concert Oct. 18.

In her career, Baez has performed thousands of concerts, earned eight gold albums and one gold single, and has received numerous awards for her humanitarian work. In the 1960s, she marched alongside Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. for civil rights and established the Institute for the Study of Non-violence.

Baez will perform at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 18, in the Paramount Theatre. Reserved tickets are $17.50 and are available at all Ticketmaster outlets and by calling Ticketmaster at 628-0888.

County to sell vehicles

King County will auction off surplus county vehicles at a sale to be held 10 a.m., Oct. 7, at the King County Parks Division facility, 3005 N.E. Fourth St., in Renton.

More than 150 items will be for sale, including 90 cars, 40 pickup trucks, 10 vans, four motorcycles and seven dump trucks.

The vehicles will be open for inspection from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. the day of the auction.

For more information, call the county at 296-0629.

Burglary prevention videotape available

The Washington Insurance Council (WIC) has made available a 20-minute videotape providing information on how to reduce the possibility of home burglaries.

The King County Library System has four copies of "You Make the Difference: Preventing Home Burglary." A copy of the tape can be requested through the Federal Way Library. Call 839-0257.

The simple steps outlined in the tape to reduce the likelihood of burglary range from the way a person trims shrubs and trees to the kinds of lights used, and from marking property to joining or forming a neighborhood Crime Watch program.

The videotape was produced by the Oregon Insurance Council with funds from the Insurance Information Institute and Western Insurance Information Service.
