Utility election elicits bad feelings

By WENDY CULVERWELL

The musical chairs game waged by two Federal Way Water and Sewer District commissioners ended Tuesday when Don Miller literally unseated Bob Piquette for a six-year term on the board.

Miller and Piquette both became commissioners of the Federal Way district in 1985, when Water District 124 and the Lakehaven Sewer District merged. Miller was on the water board and Piquette the sewer board.

Since then, the Federal Way board has been paring itself down to three members as commissioners' terms expired. Tuesday's election had the odd effect of pitting two serving commissioners against each other for the one available seat.

With more than 99 percent of the ballots counted, Miller had 5,889 votes to Piquette's 4,918.

Miller attributed his win to his six years on the board and to the support of his friends.

"I had a lot of people making calls — passing out brochures," he said. "I'm very pleased."

PIQUETTE blamed his loss, in part, to "misinformation" distributed by Miller supporters, including a pro-Miller letter in the Nov. 5 Federal Way News written by former Commissioner Leonard Tripp.

Tripp blamed Piquette's refusal to raise rates for the sewer division's use of nearly $1 million of water money.

Piquette called Tripp's assessment "inaccurate."

The squabbling is more than just campaign rhetoric. It symbolizes deep divisions among board members.

When Commissioner Bev

Tweddle unseated long-time commissioner John Sawyer two years ago, she found herself battling Sawyer's recruits on the board, Piquette and Miller.

Piquette eventually "sided" with Tweddle and against Miller and Commissioner Leonard "Doc" Thompson, whom he calls "rubberstamps" for in her opinion siding too frequently with what management presents to the board.

Thompson denied that he would "gang up" with Miller

Let's party

You've heard about it for a year. Now it's finally time to do it. Celebrate Washington state's 100th birthday tomorrow at two ceremonies, one at Century Square and one at SeaTac Mall. See page A-5.

Kid stuff

Singing, dancing and pantomime will thrill kids who catch the Concert for Kids with Jim Valley tomorrow morning at 10. Valley's original songs about computers, frogs, whales and more have long entertained children and adults. The concert will be in the performing hall of Christ Episcopal Church at Fifth Street Southwest and Pioneer Way downtown Puyallup. Tickets at the door are $5 for adults and $3 for kids. Call 863-6617 for more information.

Now playing

The new comedy movie "Second Sight" is one long TV sitcom that probably should have been cancelled. Starring popular TV actors and directed by TV veteran Joel Zwick, the film is about a psychic detective agency. See page A-5.

Game time

Two local girls' soccer teams, Thomas Jefferson and Federal Way, will enter the Class AAA state quarterfinals tomorrow evening at Renton Stadium with hopes of advancing into the state semifinals the following weekend. Thomas Jefferson will face Kamiakin at 5 p.m., while Federal Way plays Roosevelt at 7 p.m.

Should Federal Way and Thomas Jefferson both win, they would play each other in the semifinals at 7:45 p.m. Nov. 17 in Renton Stadium. See page B-1.

Center extends help to vets

By BRAD BROBERG

Robert Bartram used to fix busted helicopters for the Army in Vietnam.

Now he hopes to fix busted lives.

Bartram is president of the Brooklake Veterans Center, which opened last month at the Federal Way Community Center (formerly the Brooklake Community Club), 726 S. 356th St.

The philosophy behind the drop-in center is simple: Veterans helping other veterans.

"The most important thing we are right now is that we're showing vets we care," said Bartram.

Perched in the loft of a lodge-like building overlooking the Hylebos Wetlands, the modestly appointed center offers visitors a seat on cushioned footstools. The stools line a long bank of west-facing windows, where the afternoon sun and serene view create a sense of peace many vets are missing.

"We're open, that's about all we have to offer — except for referrals, a cup of coffee and a place to talk," said Bartram.

Bartram has grander plans for the private, non-profit center, though.

Eventually, he hopes the center can provide a professional counselor, job-placement services, well-stocked food and

FIRST, HOWEVER, Bartram has to get the word out that the center exists so it can start receiving donations of time, money, goods and services and begin paying rent.

Right now, Bartram has only one volunteer to help him staff the center during its regular hours: Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Ann Riegelhuth, a 44-year-old president of the organization, sits next to a window overlooking the Hylebos Wetlands.

Weird Stuff

Flowers pop up in place of cold Cokes

By SEAN ROBINSON

It's the real thing. Walt Elder, 58, thinks the antique Coke machine in his front yard near Steel Lake is 30 or 40 years old.

"This is not a refrigerated one," he said. "They had to stock these with ice to keep the pop cold."

His wife Clara, 59, told the Federal Way News "Weird Stuff" search that she remembered seeing the old-style machines when she was small. "You don't see many of them anymore," she said.

But instead of ice-cold bottles of pop, the Vintage Vending machine holds bachelor buttons and nasturtiums. Gone are the folding doors that used to close over the top and keep the ice from melting. The flowers need sunlight, after all.

"We really didn't want to get rid of it," said Clara.

Walt didn't mean to use it for flowers. When a friend

Council enlists legal firm, land-use planning experts

By KURT HERZOG

The Federal Way City Council hired a consulting firm Tuesday it hopes will speed the council's progress toward lifting a development ban in the city.

The council hired Wilsey and Ham Pacific, a Bellevue planning firm. The council has not yet agreed on specific costs with the firm, but has budgeted up to $40,000.

The firm will begin work immediately on identifying problem areas within the city and will also work on drafting a new comprehensive land-use plan and new zoning and other land-use ordinances.

The city council is asking residents to help them identify problem areas in the city, such as areas residents think are zoned improperly, and to point out deficiencies in existing King County land-use policies.

The chairman of the council's Land-Use and Transportation Planning Committee, Jim Handmacher, wants residents to send written suggestions to the city as soon as possible. They may be sent to the city of Federal Way, P.O. Box 8057, Federal Way, WA 98003.

IMMEDIATELY after being elected in September, the city council asked the King County Council to impose a moratorium on development that was aimed primarily at limiting construction of apartments. However, the city council was advised by the county that the moratorium would have to include all high-density development, including commercial development, to stand up in court.

Cash is reward in subscription contest

The Federal Way News and the Community News are looking for kids who would like to earn extra money by selling newspaper subscriptions.

Signups for the "Cash for Winter" subscription contest are now underway.

Major prizes include checks for $300, $250, $225, $175 and $150 to the top five sellers.

All kids who do not win one of the big cash prizes will receive cash commissions on all new orders and renewals they collect during the three-week campaign.

Saleskids will sell subscriptions to the Federal Way News at $17 for six months and $32 per year.

Subscriptions to the Community News will be sold at $9 for six months and $14.95 per year.

The Federal Way News circulation area includes Twin Lakes, Marine Hills, Redondo, Midway, Kent West Hill, Woodmont, North Lake and West Campus.

The Community News includes Milton, Browns Point, Dash Point, Jovita, Edgewood, Northeast Tacoma and Fife Heights.

All present subscribers, whether their subscription is up or not, can renew or subscribe for as long as one additional year during the contest.

Kids interested in selling subscriptions can stop by the Federal Way News circulation office.

The contest officially begins Nov. 15. Participants need only sell subscriptions to the paper. Deliveries will be made by regular carriers.

For more information call 839-0700 or 927-4353 and ask for circulation.

Workers resent remark by Piquette against Tweddle. "No way, that's silly," he said. "We're all there to do a job."

A LETTER to the board, signed by 22 water division employees and presented by Don Heritage, a maintenance worker, at a regular meeting Tuesday evening, may be another symptom of poor relations among commissioners.

The letter singled out Piquette for criticism, apparently for questioning the size of a work crew in the course of the Oct. 19 board meeting. The letter was originally meant to be read at the Nov. 2 board meeting, but at the recommendation of general manager Jim Miller, it was delayed a week to keep it from turning into a campaign issue.

Despite the delay, Piquette believes the letter was politically motivated and that it singles him out unfairly.

"It was a tool they saw they could use," Piquette said, referring to his question. He wrote a letter of apology to the employees before their letter was read in public.

Though the employee letter was addressed to the entire board, Don Miller pointed out that it was not aimed at either him or Thompson.

"That letter was not directed at me and it was not directed at Doc. One name is mentioned (Piquette) and another is implied (Tweddle)," he said.

Thompson said he didn't think the letter was politically motivated. He called it an opportunity to clear the air and get on with the business of running the district. Jim Miller said he had no knowledge of the letter until he received a copy of it on Nov. 1.

PIQUETTE predicted that the election's most immediate result would be a rate hike.

"You had better look for rates to go up at least a dollar," he said. "It wouldn't have happened if I had been voted in."

Tweddle is even more fearful about the district's future.

"I'm terribly disappointed," she said of Piquette's defeat. She made no secret of her support for Piquette and went so far as to send out a mailing and to doorbell for him last weekend.

"(Miller and Thompson) are going to be able to do whatever they want — they've made that very clear to me," she said.

"But I will continue to rattle the cage."

Miller, on the other hand, believes he can work with Tweddle.

"If we can stick to the issues and be objective, we'll move on," he said. "I don't have any hate for Bev. She's a very detail-oriented lady — if we could have her be more open about some of the stuff she has, it would be helpful."

Although sitting on the same board as the man who defeated him may be uncomfortable, Piquette said he would serve out the remainder of his term, which expires in January.

City stands firm on moratorium

The Federal Way Chamber of Commerce was shocked by inclusion of commercial development in the ban and last month asked the council to lift the ban on commercial construction because the city is losing potential business development.

Tuesday, the council discussed lifting the ban on commercial development, but decided not to do that until it has new land-use policies in place.

CHAMBER officials had also asked for a timeline on when the ban might be lifted. Council members said they hope to have a timeline after the planning consultant presents them with a scope of work next week.

Mayor Debbie Ertel said she will send the chamber a letter notifying it of the council's decision to keep the moratorium in place. Chamber officials said Wednesday they wouldn't comment on the council's decision until they receive the letter.

Local business leaders feel betrayed by the council's inclusion of commercial development in the ban since a commercial moratorium was never discussed during campaigns, said Councilman Bob Stead.

"I can understand the chamber's reticence," added Councilman Joel Marks.

However, other council members said they still support the ban on all high-density development and think most Federal Way residents support it, too.

"We've gotten so many calls saying, 'Don't back down, don't let the chamber buffalo you,'" Handmacher said.

"We shouldn't act on (the proposals) of people who weren't elected by any constituency," said Councilman Lynn Templeton of the chamber's request.

"The more I thought about it the more concerned I am with lifting the controls," said Handmacher at a land-use committee meeting Monday. "While the county is still the permitting agency... a lot of things could happen that could be detrimental. I think the county building codes are a disaster and should be abandoned."

THE COUNCIL plans to have at least two public meetings where residents may express their concerns about development to the planning consultant. Those meetings haven't been scheduled yet.

Also, representatives of Wilsey and Ham will be at land-use committee meetings, which are held at 7 p.m. on Mondays at city hall.

In other business, the council voted to hire Seattle law firm Ogden, Ogden and Wallace to be the city's interim legal counsel. The firm specializes in municipal law. The council has not discussed how much it will pay the firm yet, but has $40,000 budgeted through the end of the year. The council hopes to keep legal costs down by filtering legal questions through City Manager Al Locke.

The council anticipates the firm will be the city's legal counsel for about six months. Eventually, the council plans to hire a full-time city attorney who will be on staff.

The council also voted to hire Waldron and Co. to find a permanent city manager. Locke is only the city's interim manager. Waldron was also the search firm that coordinated Locke's hiring.

The city paid Waldron $2,000 to help with Locke's hiring and it will pay another $18,000, plus up to $8,000 in expenses, to find the permanent city manager. That search is expected to take about six months.

The council also authorized Locke to hire a receptionist and a secretary to work at city hall. Salaries for those employees haven't been negotiated yet.

Olympic View hosts storyteller

Cathy Spagnoli, a professional storyteller from Seattle, will present free storytelling programs for young and old alike at Olympic View Elementary School on Nov. 15.

Spagnoli will perform and lead workshops during the school day Nov. 15 for Olympic View students only, and will return for a 7 p.m. performance open to all Federal Way residents. No admission will be charged.

Spagnoli's stories come from her travels, her family, books and folk tales. She has performed in several states as well as India and Japan.

Olympic View is at 2626 S.W. 327th St. The show will be held in the school's multi-purpose room. For more information, call the school at 838-7171.

vivor and I happen to love a Vietnam vet."

THE FEDERAL WAY Community Center, overseen as a non-profit association by a local board, has become a magnet for various veterans groups.

At least eight groups meet at the community center, a collection of well-worn buildings at the southeast edge of West Hylebos State Park.

It was his involvement with one of those groups, Point Man Ministries, that led Bartram, a 39-year-old Tacoma resident, to join vets from the other organizations and help found the Brooklake Veterans Center.

Point Man Ministries is a Christian-based help group aimed at vets suffering post-traumatic stress (PTS).

Bartram said that it was not until years after the war and a series of shattered relationships, temporary jobs and drinking binges that he realized he was suffering from many of the symptoms of PTS.

"We've never really been welcomed home like the other wars," he said. "And when we went to war, we thought it would be like we saw on TV in World War II. My friends called me baby killer when I came home."

The help he's received through Point Man Ministries convinced Bartram to help establish the veterans center.

"Someone's gotta help the vets," he said. "In order to give, you've gotta receive."

"Someday I'll be able to look back and see the vet center helping more people than it is now."

Local events remember Veteran's Day

Concerts and events to commemorate Veteran's Day are scheduled tonight and tomorrow in Auburn, Kent and Renton.

The Boeing Employees' Concert Band will perform at 7:30 tonight in the Auburn Performing Arts Center at 700 E. Main St. The band is comprised of more than 90 percent Boeing employees, most from Kent and Renton.

The theme of the concert will be "Celebrating Washington's Next Century." The program will be free. For more information, call 931-3043.

The Rainier Symphony, the Kent Valley's only community orchestra, will perform a Veteran's Day concert tonight in Renton and tomorrow night in Kent. Both concerts begin at 8.

Led by director Joseph Pollard White, the symphony will perform Glinka's "Russlan and Ludmilla Overture," Saint-Saens' "Danse Macabre" and Ralph Vaughan Williams' "Pastoral Symphony."

The first concert will be at the Carco Theatre at 1717 Maple Valley Highway in Renton. The second will be at Kentwood High School at 25800 164th Ave. S.E. in Kent.

Tickets are $6 general admission, $3 for seniors and free for students. Tickets will be sold at the door or in advance by calling orchestra manager Len Bassham at 631-8059.

The city of Auburn has scheduled an entire day of Veteran's Day events tomorrow from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The day will begin with an American Legion breakfast in the American Legion Hall from 7-11 a.m., followed by a 9 a.m. ceremony to place a wreath at the veteran's section of Mountain View Cemetery.

Students from the Auburn district will present the "Washington For Me" musical production at 10 a.m. in the city hall plaza. At 11 a.m., more than 100 units and 15 high school bands will take part in a parade marching east to west along Auburn's Main Street. An F-15 Eagle fighter jet and a C-141 Transport will pass over the parade route.

Staff and equipment from Fort Lewis and McChord Air Force Base will be on hand for demonstrations of military equipment and education at 1 p.m. near Auburn City Hall.

And at 1:30 p.m., a luncheon will honor the AMVETS organization and the state's veterans of the year. Keynote speaker will be Col. Michael McCarthy, commander at McChord. Tickets are $8.

The day will conclude in Troy Field at 800 Fourth St. N.E. when 18 high school bands will compete for the state marching band championship. Admission is $3.

For more information about any of these events, call the Auburn Parks and Recreation Department at 931-3043.

Fire commissioner feels vindicated by his victory

By MELODIE STEIGER

The firefighters' union of Fire District 39 (Federal Way) voted "no confidence" in him. Area newspapers endorsed his opponent. But Jim Osborne will nevertheless reclaim his seat on the fire department's board of commissioners.

The 56-year-old Star Lake resident garnered 5,805 votes to opponent Fred Jaber's 4,117. Dean Gullikson, running unopposed in Tuesday's election, also will return to the board for a six-year term. Gullikson received 9,028 votes.

Osborne said his 17 years of experience on the board triumphed over charges of rubber-stamping by the firefighters' union. Union leaders said the board, which Osborne chairs, agrees with whatever the department's chiefs want, and has not yet replaced an expired five-year plan.

"But the results (of the election) tell me that the public looked at the fire department and its total performance and were very interested in it. There's more interest in experience and skill than in change," Osborne said.

Jaber, who pointed up several of the complaints of the union during his campaign for Osborne's job, said he extends congratulations to the re-elected commissioner.

"But I still think the basic problem remains — that the management of the department is inbred. It cries for new blood and a more open decision-making process," Jaber said.

Although Jaber predicts labor problems will continue unless department leadership changes, Osborne said firefighters have told him they supported his candidacy despite having voted "no confidence" in both him and Chief Bud Thorson.

"That makes me feel a little better," he said.

Thorson said Tuesday's election left him as relieved as it did Osborne.

"It indicates that the public is satisfied with the service the fire district is offering," the chief said.

Osborne was first elected to office in 1965, when he joined the board of commissioners for the Star Lake fire department. He served on fire boards for 17 years, off and on, through several mergers of local districts, until he finally was elected chairman of Fire District 39's three-man board.

The board was recently expanded to five. All five are charged with setting policy for the department. All receive $50 per diem pay for meetings.

Osborne said the first aim for this six-year term of office will be the adoption of a new five-year plan. But that can only be drawn up after the new city of Federal Way decides its relationship with the department, he said. Plans could change and finances would change if the city decides to contract for fire services rather than annex into the fire district, for instance.

Osborne believes the city will first annex into the district, leaving the fire department intact. Later, it may choose to contract for its own fire department, or create its own fire district.

"Our first priority is what structure the fire department will have in 1990, and we should know the answer soon," he said.

Group Health seeks students

Applications are now being accepted for 12 $1,000 health career scholarships offered by the Auxiliaries of Group Health Cooperative.

The awards, given to students for the 1990-91 school year, are based on financial need, motivation and recommendations.

Applicants must be Washington state residents enrolled in a program leading to a degree or certificate in health fields such as nursing, radiology, physical therapy, laboratory technology, clinical dietary and pharmacy. Students in pre-med, health administration, medical and dental programs are not eligible.

Applicants need not be Group Health members.

Requests for applicants must be received by Jan. 26, 1990. For information, call 448-6450.

CLARA ELDER seized an opportunity when her husband Walt asked her if she wanted to keep the antique Coke machine in their front yard. Walt meant to use it as a parts washer for his mechanic business, but it turned out he didn't need it. Now the old machine holds flowers instead of pop.

discovered the machine abandoned in an Auburn house, he asked if Walt could use it as a parts washer. Walt is a diesel mechanic who works out of his garage, and a parts washer would have been helpful.

"I finally bought my own parts cleaner," he said. "I was debating getting rid of (the Coke machine), but I said, 'Heck Clara, let's make a flower pot out of it.'"

It turned out to be perfect. "We just left it like it was, and filled it with potting soil," said Clara. The drain on the bottom that used to be for melted ice lets the flower water flow out, preventing root rot.

"Heck, it's a novelty thing," said Walt. It's novel enough that two people have asked the Elders what the selling price is. One man wanted to turn it into a trailer. Walt has been thinking of sinking some rods in the ground to secure the machine. He's afraid someone might take it.

The machine has turned out to be more of a fixture than Walt intended. It hasn't been moved since he stuck it in the yard three years ago, when he still thought it could be a parts washer. It was supposed to be temporary.

"A lot of times, it seems like the things I put in temporarily don't move," he said.

Pre-election picket

BILL HANSEN, PRESIDENT of the local teachers' union, and Terry Packard, a Brigadoon Elementary school teacher, show their support for the now-defunct Children's Initiative. About 70 local teachers staged a protest Monday afternoon at the Weyerhaeuser headquarters in Federal Way because Weyerhaeuser was one of several large corporations that contributed money to a campaign against the Children's Initiative. Their protest was in vain — the initiative, which would have dedicated additional state money for children's programs, was soundly defeated at the polls Tuesday.

Weis defeats a pleased Brooks

Walter Brooks expected about 200 votes. He got more than 3,000.

It wasn't enough to elect him to the Federal Way School Board — incumbent Mary Weis pulled in 8,972 votes in Tuesday's election.

But 3,267 votes is something of a victory when you didn't plan to win anyway, Brooks said.

"I can't begin to tell you how pleased I am with the outcome," he said. "I'd be more pleased if I'd won, I suppose, but I didn't expect to, and that would have raised a whole new set of problems."

Brooks, a Boeing chemical engineer, made it clear early in his campaign that he was running largely to promote participatory management for the school district. Winning was secondary, he said. And in the end he endorsed Weis, a Marine Hills homemaker and four-year veteran of the school board.

Weis said the results were so lopsided because Brooks ran an unconventional campaign.

"You hate to say it turned out as expected, but I am very pleased with the results," she said.

Weis pledged that in her second four-year term on the school board, she would back a longer school year for teachers and rally for more state money for growing programs, such as special education. Special programs outside the classroom, such as breakfast programs and before- and after-school care, should be begun or expanded, she said.

"None of that will happen overnight. It's all part of a big process," Weis said Tuesday.

School board member Gail Pierson also was a winner Tuesday — sort of. She ran unopposed for Position 4 on the board, and garnered 10,488 votes. Pierson has served on the board for seven years.

Family cooks Indian fare

By SEAN ROBINSON

If you order the Tandoori chicken at Walia's in Fife, be sure to blow on it first.

To say it's piping hot would be an understatement. It arrives at your table sizzling and steaming. Manmohan S. Walia, 54, the owner of the restaurant, says it's even more impressive when it's delivered in flames.

"There is a saying I saw somewhere in London that said the tour of India is not complete until you taste the Tandoori chicken," he said.

Walia's, located in Fife at 3518 Pacific Highway S., where Nendel's used to be, specializes in Indian cuisine. The July opening marked the third restaurant Walia and his brothers have started in the area. Walia's in Seattle and the Delhi Junction in Renton are the others.

"Basically, there is no Indian restaurant on the South Side," he said, referring to the South Puget Sound area. "We never expected such a nice response from the community here."

Though there is an Indian community in Fife, Walia said

Walia's makes its curry 'from the scratch' in Fife his most frequent customers are American. Some come from as far as Olympia.

"That gives us encouragement," he said. "It's not just one or two, you know. It's a good number. They specially came from there."

Walia and his brother Manjit came to America in 1984, following the death of their parents. Three other brothers, Rajiv, Mitch and Harinder, were already here. So was Uncle Rajinder, who Walia credits as the inspiration behind the family business. He told his nephews that if they worked for others, they would never own their own business.

THE CUISINE is often misunderstood, said Walia. "There is a notion that it is a hot food, or hot and spicy. But in my opinion, it's not as hot and spicy as the Mexican or some of the Oriental."

Most of the dishes use curry as a base — an Indian staple. "The kings of India brought curry from Persia," said Walia.

But the curry at Walia's is not store-bought. He despises boxed curry powder. "We make our own curry right from the scratch," he said proudly. "It takes 24 hours." The homemade curry is a mixture of onions, garlic, tomato, yogurt and 14 spices.

Nothing is pre-cooked at Walia's. Brother Manjit and his assistants prepare everything. The main courses range in price from $6.50 for Daal Maharani, a lentil and vegetable dish (the literal translation is "The Queen of Lentils"), to $8.95 for Gosht Do Piazza, a lamb dish. All the main courses come with Kashmiri Pilaf (an Indian rice), Indian flour bread and a salad bar.

Walia is rather proud of the rice. "Most of the American rice, there is no flavor," he said. "This, you can smell that there is something cooking. It makes you hungry."

Two other interesting dishes are Murg Muntaz and Shahi Paneer. Murg means chicken, and Muntaz was queen of India about a million years ago. Her favorite dish was chicken marinated in tomato and curry. The name stuck. You can try the queen's chicken for $7.95.

Shahi Paneer, also $7.95, features Indian cheese. "We make it ourselves, from fresh milk," said Walia. Cottage cheese, nuts and spices go along with it.

The food isn't super spicy, though you can get it that way if you ask. But if Indian food isn't your cup of tea, Walia's has sandwiches, hamburgers, seafood, a kid's menu, nachos and other American stuff.

If something you had on your trip to Kashmir last year isn't on the menu, Walia's can make that, too, with some notice. The menu states that "rare recipes and personal triumphs" can be prepared.

A peek at the weekend

TONIGHT:

The husband and wife duo of Philip and Pam Boulding, Magical Strings, will perform Celtic harp and hammer dulcimer music from Philip's new album, "Harp," at 8 p.m. in Tacoma's Antique Sandwich Company. The album is the couple's fifth.

Tickets for the Magical Strings performance are $6. The Antique Sandwich Company is at 5102 N. Pearl St. near Point Defiance Park. Call 752-4069 for more information. The duo also will perform at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Elliott Bay Book Company's new annex at 109 S. Main St. in Seattle's Pioneer Square. Tickets are $10.

SATURDAY: The Seattle Symphony will present a new type of children's concert in its Discover Music! Series called the Magical Music Show at 10 a.m. in the Seattle Opera House. While the orchestra plays Mozart's "Overture to the Magic Flute," Stravinsky's "Firebird Suite" and excerpts of Ravel's "Bolero," a narrator will discuss the magic elements in music and a magician will illustrate the magic. Pre-concert activities in the lobby will include a performance by the Seattle Girls' Choir and an exhibit by the Woodland Park Zoo. Tickets are $7 for adults and $5 for children, students and seniors. Call 443-4747 for more information.

SUNDAY: The Market Theatre Company of South Africa and the Visisizwe Players will present "You Strike the Woman, You Strike the Rock" at 8 p.m. in the University of Washington's Meany Hall. The play is based on the true-life experiences of three black women — the Visisizwe Players — and their tales of everyday life under South Africa's apartheid system. Songs, dances and vignettes reveal the grim and sometimes humorous reality of their lives. Tickets are $16 general admission and $8 for cash-only "rush" tickets for students and seniors. For tickets and more information, call Ticketmaster at 628-0888.

THIS WEEKEND: The Annex Theatre continues performances of "A Little Heap of Beckett," seven short pieces by playwright Samuel Beckett performed together for the first time. The short plays range in length from 35 seconds to 35 minutes and include "Breath," "Ohio Impromptu" and "Krapp's Last Tape." Shows continue at 8 tonight and tomorrow night, and Wednesday through Saturday next week. The theater is at 1916 Fourth Avenue in Seattle. Tickets are $6. Call 728-0933 for more information.

At the Movies

"THE BEAR"

It's not warm, fuzzy, cute, adorable or sappy. "The Bear" is a tremendous adventure, almost a modern fable. An orphaned bear cub forms an unlikely alliance with a mature male bear, and learns how to survive. See this movie. The cinematography is beautiful, the bears are wild and natural, and there's no more than 10 minutes of dialogue in the whole film. "The Bear" is pure visual storytelling on an epic scale. Rated PG, for some mild violence. Playing at Gateway Center.

CENTER STAGE

Center Stage, the resident professional theater of the Stroum Jewish Community

"AN INNOCENT MAN"

Tom Selleck may be "An Innocent Man," but somebody should take the rap for this debacle. Shamelessly manipulative writing without an ounce of credibility is its best feature. Selleck plays Mr. Perfect. His idyllic life is interrupted by a pair of corrupt cops, who frame him for a crime he didn't commit. Surprisingly, everyone buys it, and poor Tom spends three years in the clink, plotting his revenge and hobnobbing with the genteel prison let set. When he gets out, he gets to punch his captors in the nose a few times. Rated R, for violence and adult themes. Playing at SeaTac North.

"PARENTHOOD"

It isn't easy to make movies about family life without descending into the syrup-laden well of sentimentality. "Parenthood" manages to avoid all the clichés that generate labels like "the feel-good movie of the summer." It features an excellent ensemble cast, nifty plot twists, crisp direction of a good screen play by Ron Howard, and the best performance of Steve Martin's career. It's also very funny. "Parenthood" is playing at SeaTac South. The rating is PG-13 for mild swearing and some double entendres.

"WHEN HARRY MET SALLY"

Director Rob Reiner has given moviegoers a treat. His perception of male/female relationships is realistic, sometimes gritty, and almost always hilarious. Billy Crystal and Meg Ryan are wonderful as a pair who start out hating each other, forget each other, then survive years of platonic friendship, and eventually...well, see the film for yourself. Playing at SeaTac North it's rated R.

Flag and plaque star in ceremony

Federal Way's old Webb Center, now the heart of the community's commercial district, will get its second historic plaque tomorrow.

A 1:30 p.m. ceremony will surround the installation of the plaque, a flag and flagpole at the main entrance of the Century Square shopping center, on the southeast corner of Pacific Highway South and South 320th Street.

The plaque, which was donated by the Puget Power company, will note that Andrew Kristensen once owned a garage and gas station at that corner, which was known to visitors and local residents alike as Webb Center.

The garage was built in the late '20s or early '30s, said Shirley Charnell, president of the Historical Society of Federal Way and granddaughter of Kristensen. The land was sold after Kristensen's death in 1954, and housed a garage for many years until 1972, when Century Square was built.

The Webb family, headed by Taylor and Jane Webb, moved in the late 1900s to the corner where SeaTac Mall now sits. A plaque in the mall is dedicated to the Webbs.

The dedication of this new plaque and flag will be attended by Rep. Jean Marie Brough (R-30th) and Federal Way Mayor Debbie Ertel. The flag will be raised by local Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The half-hour dedication will be followed by a Washington Centennial celebration at SeaTac Mall.

The plaque and flag project was contributed to by Puget Power, Century Square, the King County Centennial Commission, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Jean Marie Brough, Federal Construction, Fire District 39 (Federal Way), the MacPearson Co. and Historical Society of Federal Way.

The SeaTac Mall Centennial party will begin at 2:30 p.m. and include speeches by local dignitaries, musical performances, a cake contest and refreshments.

PSYCHIC HI-JINKS highlight "Second Sight," a piece of commercial fluff about a psychic detective agency. Bronson Pinchot (left) acts silly, John Larroquette (middle right) gets peeved, Stuart Pankin (middle left) does nothing, and Bess Armstrong plays the unnecessary nun, who does even less than Pankin.

Orchestra tunes up for Russian music

The Federal Way Philharmonic is getting ready for its second concert of the season next Saturday, Nov. 18, featuring "Great Music From Russia."

The semi-professional community orchestra will perform six works by Russian composers, including Mussorgsky's "Night on Bald Mountain," Tchaikovsky's "Romeo and Juliet" and Rimsky-Korsakov's "Overture on Russian Themes."

In addition, Minako Fukase, guest pianist from the University of Washington, will perform Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto No. 2 in C Minor.

The concert will be at 8 p.m. in St. Theresa's Church at 3939 S.W. 331st St. in Federal Way. Tickets are $8 general admission, $6 for seniors and free for students and children. Tickets are available at the Place for Gifts and Things and at Washington Mutual Savings Bank.

For more information, call 839-9132 or 941-7198.

Talent sought for men's chorus and Seattle play

The Sea-Tac Harmony Kings will be looking for new singers and the Best of Broadway theater series is looking for child actors in two auditions scheduled for tomorrow and Tuesday.

The Harmony Kings, a men's barbershop ensemble, will host a prospective member night at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 14, at the Trinity Reform Church, located on the corner of Military Road South and South 260th Street.

The public is invited to join the group in barbershop-style singing. For more information, call Jim Orckekowsky at 878-4357.

Tomorrow, seven local children who are Asian or Asian-looking will have the opportunity to audition for a Seattle production of "The King and I," starring Russian dancer Rudolf Nureyev.

Children ages 6-10 are needed to complete the cast. Auditions will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow in the Paramount Theatre at 901 Pine St. Children will not be required to have songs prepared, but they may be asked to sing.

Performances of "The King and I" will be Nov. 18 through Dec. 3 at the Paramount. Call 282-7751 for more information.

Coffee Europa features local artists in new show

Coffee Europa, a local espresso bar and art gallery, salutes Washington State today with a new exhibit by local artists.

The exhibit and sale features paintings, miniatures and ornaments depicting scenes unique to our state, including seascapes and landscapes.

Among the artists featured are Helen Bodine, known for her seascapes, and Marianne Harlor, a member of the Watercolor Society. The show will run through Dec. 31.

Coffee Europa is in Federal Way at 30406 Pacific Highway S. For more information, call 946-1515.

A bad movie in your future

Conniving film pilfers cliches

By SEAN ROBINSON

Commercialism is not a crime.

There's nothing wrong with movies that just try to entertain without straining the brain. Sometimes, great material results. "Young Frankenstein," "Star Wars" and the Marx Brothers live in that realm.

But "Second Sight," an alleged comedy about a psychic detective agency, is pablum without a conscience. It is calculated, manipulative, and it uses every gimmick in the book to take your money.

It features popular TV actors (Bronson Pinchot and John Larroquette), a popular TV director (Joel Zwick), the ever-popular supernatural angle (stolen from "Ghostbusters" and "Beetlejuice"), cheap special effects and sitcom writing.

Larroquette plays Wills, a former police officer who heads the Second Sight Detective Agency. Pinchot plays Bobby Mcgee, the psychic that gives the group its premise. Stuart Pankin is Dr. Preston Pickett, who rides herd on Pinchot and "studies" him. We never learn how these three got together. We also never learn how Bobby became a psychic, except an obscure reference to being struck by lightning.

THE SCREENPLAY by Tom Schulman and Patricia Resnick never bothers to explain why Bobby has the mentality of a child, either. He flies into psychic rages periodically, flitting in and out of another voice named Murray, the otherworldly entity for whom Pinchot is a channel. Pretty blue sparks flash from his fingers. Wow.

The thin plot centers on a case involving a nun (Bess Armstrong), a cardinal (William Prince) and a distraught girl (Christine Estabrook). The girl's car has been sideswiped, and somehow the local church is involved. We never learn why.

For some reason, the bad guys who sideswiped the car decide to kidnap the cardinal and the girl. Clumsy hints suggest a second-in-command bishop behind it, but nothing is followed through. Oh.

Enter the psychic detectives, who spend the bulk of their time watching Pinchot convulse.

Ballet to stage historical show

As a special centennial tribute, the Pacific Northwest Ballet will offer a celebration of dance in Washington State Nov. 15-18 in the Seattle Opera House.

The Sondheim Suite, choreographed by two Washington natives, will be featured, and a special program insert will tell the history of dance in the state.

Also featured in the program will be "Septet," "Chaconne," and the return of "Tarantella Pas De Deux."

Performances will be at 8 p.m.

Nov. 15-17, and at 2 and 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 18. Ticket prices range from $8 to $44 and are available by calling Ticketmaster at 628-0888.

Usually, Larroquette gets hurt in the process, which is supposed to be funny.

EVENTUALLY, the bad guys corner Larroquette, and Pinchot commandeers a jet, driving it to the scene of the crime in the nick of time. Ooooh, look. More pretty lights.

The shotgun ending leaves most of the loose ends untied. It also crams in an unbelievable happily-ever-after pairing between Larroquette and the nun, who originally joined the convent when Murray (Remember him? Pinchot's "channel?") died. Murray and the nun were a couple when he was alive. Occasionally, the jealous spirit takes over Pinchot's body and threatens Larroquette. Not funny. "I told you," says Murray,

"none of that nun."

Larroquette and Pinchot aren't bad, but the screenplay is so awful someone should shoot it. Pankin's character has nothing to do, and no purpose for doing it. The romantic angle is hideously forced, seemingly indicating a belief that a little boy-girl stuff is a prime requisite in any movie, no matter how ridiculous the context.

The sections that are meant to be funny are no more than a series of skits, which can be expected from a team of TV types. "Second Sight" is an hour and forty minutes of sitcom that should have been cancelled.

"Second Sight" is playing at Gateway Center. The rating is PG, for language and mild adult situations.

'Laughing Wild' opens in Seattle

The Empty Space Theatre will open its 20th season Wednesday with Christopher Durang's satire "Laughing Wild."

Shunning traditional dramatic form, the play begins as a kind of wacky stand-up comedy. A woman and a man, in seemingly unrelated monologues, describe their daily skirmishes in the urban combat zone. Gradually their stories interweave, until the two meet at the Harmonic Convergence in New York City's Central Park.

The play opens at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 15, and will run Tuesday through Sunday evenings until Dec. 16. Some matinee prices also are scheduled.

Ticket prices range from $13 to $18, and are available by calling 467-6000 weekdays between noon and 5 p.m.

The play will open in temporary quarters at the FirstStage at 107 Occidental St. in Seattle. Remodeling of the company's Showbox Theatre has been delayed.

Pastor installed at All Saints' Church

The Rev. Dr. Dean Berg has been installed as pastor of All Saints' Lutheran Church.

News of all Faiths

The new minister comes to Federal Way from Aloha, Ore., where he started Light of Life Lutheran Church. He has served as pastor and developer of many Lutheran churches in Canada and the United States.

All Saints' holds services at 8:30 and 11 a.m. every Sunday. Sunday school is available, as is a Bible study for adults. The church is at 27225 Military Road S. The number is 852-4884.

Churches must challenge members

By THE REV. BILLY ARNOLD
The Church at Palisades

Why do people not go to church? Some churches are simply unfriendly. Sometimes people in such a church hide behind a mask of self-righteousness, refusing to identify with problems and pains of others because of fear.

Another reason is irrelevancy. In Bible study and preaching, the word of God must be presented in such a way that its truths come alive for today. We need to see ourselves in the Bible, for it is to us and about us.

Charles Haddon Spurgeon said it is a sin for a sermon to be dull. True! This is true of a Sunday school lesson as well. And it is true of everything. Dullness drives as many people away from church as any other cause.

Pastor's Corner

Another reason for not attending church is directionlessness. This big word is one big reason why people quit church, and it applies to any church that has lost its mission. A church that is not evangelistic and missionary is a caricature of the church Jesus Christ established.

Another reason is regimentation. This means trying to force everyone into the same mold — to believe and act and think exactly alike. Jesus said, "By their fruits you shall know them." In other words, our works, not our form, is the evidence of our Christian commitment.

We must have unity of spirit without unification of thought. We must always have room for diversity. No one should be denied their individuality.

There are many other reasons, but I mention only one more. That is unchallenged. A few people leave because they are not challenged and given enough to do. In "The 100 Greatest Advertisements," author Julian Watkins reprints one of the most effective ads ever written: "Men wanted for hazardous journey. Small wages, bitter cold, long months of complete darkness, constant danger, safe return doubtful." It was composed by Sir Ernest Shackleton, explorer of the South Pole, and ran in London papers at the turn of the century.

And what was the response? Shackleton said, "It seemed as though all the men in Great Britain were determined to accompany us."

The church is not to be a retirement center where people sit around covered by electric blankets, humming "Nearer My God To Thee." Rather, it is to be a spirited Cape Canaveral, a launching pad, propelling men and women into the world with the gospel of Jesus Christ.

The church must continue to be a fellowship that is challenging, open, accepting, relevant and God-directed.

Church hopes to move by Christmas

Lew Life Christian Church will move into its new building in eastern Federal Way at 33929 42nd Ave. S. by Christmas. The 10-acre site is accessible from both Weyerhaeuser Way and Military Road South.

The church is 5,800 square feet, including a sanctuary with a seating capacity of 250. Most of the work was provided by volunteers, though some of the technical work was contracted.

The church has been meeting in Federal Way area schools for the past five years and has 140 members. For more information, contact the Rev. Clair Dammarell, 927-6008.

Organist to perform at Christ Lutheran

Dr. Janet Satre Ahrend, organist from University Congregational Church, will perform a recital on the recently installed instrument in Christ Lutheran Church, 2501 S.W.

320th St. The concert will begin at 4 p.m., Nov. 12, and will feature works by Bach, Buxtehude, Franck, and Manz. All are welcome to attend.

Bible study readies women for holidays

Camelot Evangelical Free Church will sponsor women's Bible study meetings from 9:30 to 11 a.m., Wednesdays. The group's goal is to "Get spiritually ready for the holidays." The church is at 29926 37th Ave. S. Call 839-9383 or 839-0798 for information. Nursery care is available.

Church will hold program on AIDS

St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church will sponsor an informational program on the presence of AIDS in our community, which will be facilitated by Mary Bolanos, RN.

The program will address how the disease has affected the community, how it is transmitted, how it can be prevented, as well as who should be tested and how children should be educated to protect themselves.

The program will take place from 7 to 9 p.m., Nov. 13, at the church, 30525 Eighth Ave. S. Call 839-4333 for more information.

St. Luke's honors state's centennial

St. Luke's Lutheran Church will celebrate the state centennial during its regular worship services on Sunday.

Services are held at 8 and 11 a.m. in the sanctuary. The church is at 515 S. 312th St. Call 839-0172 for information.

Christian women will hold luncheon

The Christian Women's Club of Federal Way will hold a soup and salad luncheon with a theme of "Granny's Attic" from 11:45 a.m. to 2 p.m., Nov. 15, at the Twin Lakes Golf and Country Club.

Tickets are $7 and reservations are required. Call 941-2048 for information.

TO THE VETERANS WHO HAVE FOUGHT TO DEFEND OUR FREEDOM:

You have "fought a good fight," as the Bible conveys,
When you served in some faraway land;
And for that we extend you the highest of praise,
For your valor in being on hand,
You were putting your lives on the line every day,
Till the time when at last you returned;
And we owe you a debt we can never repay
With the honor and help you have earned.
So we welcomed you home with all gratitude due,
For your efforts were never in vain;
Giving thanks to the Lord for such heroes as you,
And the freedom you fought to maintain.

Eags to play Roosevelt in rematch

FEDERAL WAY players mob Diana Heskin (5) after she scored the Eagles' first goal against Issaquah last Saturday. Federal Way hopes to be doing more such celebrating tomorrow night against Roosevelt in Renton Stadium.

By CHUCK MINGORI

The Federal Way girls' soccer team will be facing a familiar foe when it meets Roosevelt at 7 p.m. tomorrow in Renton Stadium.

These same two teams met in the quarterfinals last year with Federal Way winning by a 1-0 margin. They'll meet again in the quarterfinals with the winner advancing to play either Thomas Jefferson or Kamiakin next Friday at Renton Stadium in the semifinals.

Roosevelt enters tomorrow night's game with a 13-1-2 record, having just beaten Stadium, 4-0, on Tuesday in opening-round playoff action.

Meanwhile, Federal Way is 17-1-0 on the year and beat Issaquah, 2-0, last Saturday in the opening round of the state tournament.

Although Federal Way won last year, Roosevelt has been waiting a long time to play the Eagles again, according to coach Joel Watters, who was not at all pleased with a call that allowed Federal Way to score on a restart off a free kick.

"Our players have been looking for a chance to play Federal Way for a long time," said Roosevelt coach Watters.

Federal Way coach Joann Neil is well aware of some of the talented players on the Roosevelt team, because she has seen them play during rec league action, but, "I feel we're going in there with as many guns as they've got," she said.

FEDERAL WAY boasts an extremely talented young team that includes seven seniors, three juniors, eight sophomores and six freshmen. Just this week, four Federal Way players were named to the All-South Puget Sound League Puget Division first team.

They are freshman midfielder Justi Baumgardt, sophomore midfielder Sherilyn

Stackhouse, senior goalie Shannon Sehlin and sophomore forward Diana Heskin. Roosevelt is led by three senior co-captains. They are goalie Kristina Coglion, center midfielder Leigh Brinkley and center fullback Holly Pierson.

The Roughriders' main goal scorers are junior forwards Lisa Proctor, who scored two goals against Stadium, and Meegan McMullin. Both had two hat tricks during the season, Watters said, and each has been starting for three years at the forward position.

Meegan's twin sister, Amie, is a defender and midfielder for Roosevelt. The Roughriders also have a pair of outstanding center midfielders. One is Anna Dukes, the younger sister of former Roosevelt basketball player Peter Dukes, now attending Stanford, and Amy Mon-gomery.

Watters was impressed with Federal Way the last time they played.

"I remember the offsides trap gave us trouble," he recalled, adding he likes Federal Way's ball possession attack. "I really admire the way they play."

The Eagles seem to play well on AstroTurf, he noted, and also complimented the level of soccer in the Federal Way community and credited the youth soccer programs in particular.

"We've got a lot of respect for the way they play," he said. "I think it's going to be a good game Saturday night."

Neil said some of her players watched the Roosevelt-Stadium game and that the Roughriders also were busy taking notes when Federal Way and Issaquah

Decatur's season ends in Vancouver

Decatur's quest to join local rivals Federal Way and Thomas Jefferson in the girls' Class AAA state quarterfinals at Renton Stadium tomorrow went awry in Vancouver last Friday.

"Any time we got near the goal we were called offsides," said Decatur girls' soccer coach Linda Heutmaker. "I heard from Joanne (Neil) the refs are really one way down there, but I had no idea it would be that bad."

Neil's Federal Way girls' soccer team traveled to Vancouver to play Mountain View last year, but managed to pull out a win on a shot from the outside, Heutmaker said.

Heutmaker claimed her team did not get a fair shake.

"It was just a really unfair game," she said. "It will be interesting to see how he (the coach of Mountain View) does up here with impartial referees."

Mountain View has advanced to the state quarterfinals with its 1-0 overtime win against Decatur, while the Gators' season has ended on a sour note.

Heutmaker said she plans to write letters to express her complaints about the officiating, but said this is not the first time that a Federal Way team has been treated unfairly during state tournament games in Vancouver.

She mentioned that the Decatur boys' soccer team went through a similar experience last spring and that the Federal Way girls' soccer team has gone through poor officiating as well.

"You should just be able to go out and play the game," said Heutmaker. "You shouldn't have to fight a ref."

HEUTMAKER SAID she was not only upset about the officiating, but that the Mountain View coach "was absolutely out of line the whole game."

Mountain View is scheduled to play Newport at 1 p.m. tomorrow in Renton Stadium in the first of four Class AAA quarterfinal matches. Also scheduled are Sammamish and Mead at 3 p.m., Thomas Jefferson and Kamiakin at 5 p.m. and Federal Way and Roosevelt at 7 p.m.

Despite the disastrous ending, Heutmaker said her team is "looking forward to next year. We aren't losing anybody."

The Gators do not have any seniors graduating off this year's team.

Decatur finished first in the South Puget Sound League's Sound Division with an 11-3 record and upset Thomas Jefferson on the last day of the regular season, 1-0. Decatur went on to play Federal Way in the SPSL championship game and lost, 2-1, in a shootout to gain the SPSL's No. 2 playoff berth to the state tournament.

"We played well," said Heutmaker. "We did everything we could in the fair realm. You don't know why those kind of things happen. It wasn't because we didn't play well."

On a final note Heutmaker wished both Thomas Jefferson and Federal Way good luck tomorrow.

House auction to fund field for Omni

By TIM CLINTON

Out of all the people who have been involved with the Federal Way American Legion baseball team over the years, most have shared the same three wishes for the team.

One was for a regular major sponsor, like Kirkland and the two Yakima teams have with Pepsi.

Another wish was brought up most often when the locals saw the small school bus that carries the Milton-Freewater, Ore., squad across the Northwest, with the inscription "M-F" emblazoned on the back.

"Wouldn't it be great if we had a team bus like that with our team name on it," has been said by several past coaches.

The third wish has been for a first-class field that would be just used for baseball, and have lights and adequate seating for Federal Way to be able to host post-season tournaments.

The Feds and Junior Feds got the sponsor they were looking for last year in Omni Executive Center of Federal Way, and now through that same relationship steps are being taken to get a better bus and field than anyone had realistically dreamed of.

"We made steps last year," said Mike Moodenbaugh, who is a co-owner of Omni Executive Center and Sterling Homes along with Jeff Stock — the former Seattle Sounder soccer player and son of former Seattle Mariner pitching coach Wes Stock. "This year we hope to take larger strides toward making Federal Way one of the top programs in the state, if not the country."

The search is already underway for the bus, and the Federal Way Baseball, Inc., organization Moodenbaugh and Stock helped set up has started the process toward building a 3,000-5,000-seat stadium in Federal Way, possibly for the 1991 season.

A LOT was purchased last week in Campus Estates (near the Goodwill Games Pool), and a house will be built on it by Sterling Homes (with financing from U.S. Bank of Washington) that will later be sold in hopes of raising a $100,000 downpayment on a site for the facility.

Raiders to face an unfamiliar foe

By CHUCK MINGORI

The Thomas Jefferson girls' soccer team has a blind date tomorrow night.

The Raiders are scheduled to play Kamiakin at 5 p.m. in Renton Stadium in the girls' Class AAA state quarterfinals. That is about all the team knows, so far.

"I understand they're pretty good. Besides that I don't know much about them," said Thomas Jefferson girls' soccer coach Nelson Garcia.

Garcia explained that Kamiakin is located in the Tri-Cities and that this is the first time the school has advanced a girls' soccer team this far in the state tournament.

"There's very little that people know about them," he said.

One thing that Garcia does know is that Kamiakin, which competes in the Columbia Basin League, defeated Central Valley, 2-0, in the opening round of the state tournament to reach the quarterfinals.

Central Valley was the second-place finisher out of the Greater Spokane League, which boasts powerhouse Mead. Mead is the same team that beat Jefferson, 3-2, in the quarterfinals last year and is currently No. 16 in the Gatorade/National Soccer Coaches Association of America high school girls' soccer poll published in USA Today.

"So they might have something there," he said.

JEFFERSON IS well aware of national polls, having defeated Federal Way, 1-0, earlier this year when the Eagles were listed as the top team in that same poll published in USA Today.

The Raiders enter tomorrow night's match with a 15-2 record, having just come from behind to beat Shorewood, 3-2, last Saturday at Shoreline Stadium in the opening round of the state tournament on a late goal by co-captain Jolene Hering.

Kamiakin will bring a 14-2-0 record to Renton Stadium tomorrow night.

Garcia said the Raiders plan to make Kamiakin adapt to their style of play.

"We always have a game plan," he said. "We'll make them adjust to our game plan."

That is not to say the Raiders may not have to make a few adjustments themselves, however.

"If you don't know the team you're playing against, you have to make adjustments as you go," he commented. "We've had to do that with some teams we did know."

THE RAIDERS have had to deal with injuries throughout the course of the season and that is the case again for tomorrow night. Jefferson has four players who are injured "to one degree or another," said Garcia, pointing out that two of them can't play against Kamiakin and that the other two should be able to perform.

Monique James, who is still recovering from a head injury suffered in a playoff game against Puyallup last week, and Julie Klungness, who is having ankle problems, are expected to

But co-captain Jessie Casbere, who has been bothered by muscle complications in the thigh, and Leah McGregor, who has had shin splint problems, both should be ready to play.

All four are starters. Casbere, Cacey Zimmer and Jolene Hering were all named to the All-South Puget Sound League Puget Division first team this week.

Garcia's team has won three consecutive loser-out games since losing 1-0 to Decatur on the last day of the regular season.

playoffs with a 2-0 win over Kent-Meridian Monday, Oct. 30, and then earned the SPSL's No. 3 playoff berth to the state tour-

Premier program builds highly skilled teams

The Federal Way Soccer Association operates a premier team program for youth teams starting at the U-13 age and going up to U-19.

These teams are very competitive teams that play other premier teams from the other associations. The objective is to get the top players from each association together on one team and compete against other premier teams from the other associations.

The premier teams and their coaches in Federal Way are: U-13 girls, Starshooters, coached by Steve Mander-ville; U-13 boys, Bullets, coached by Jerry Capodanno; U-13 boys, Knights, coached by Andy Vallejo; U-14 girls, Flame, coached by Chris Popich; U-14 boys, Flyers, coached by Dan

Ron Whaley

Kaiser; U-15 boys, Goalpost, coached by Jim Dillon; U-16 girls, Wildcats, coached by Ponce Ancheta; U-16 boys, Wings, coached by Don Carmel; U-17 girls, Force, coached by Terry Jenkins; U-17 boys, Network, coached by Tom Fraser; U-19 girls, Spirit, coached by Chuck Zimmer; and the U-19 boys, Nitros, coached by Tim Duffy.

Every year, each team has tryouts to select the players for the team that year. The Federal Way Soccer Association (FWSA) has several coaches and assistants from the area help in the selection of each of the teams. These tryouts may take several days. The maximum number of players on a team is 18.

The coaches are selected in a similar way. Every year the coach must indicate if he plans to continue to coach that particular team for another year. Anyone else can also apply for the coaching position, and if there are two or more applicants applying then they each must present to the FWSA or a committee they set up, their credentials and coaching philosophy. The FWSA or committee will then decide. The player and coach selection takes place prior to the end of the school year in May or June.

At U-13 the premier leagues start and any team or number of teams from the soccer associations throughout the state can play in the U-13 league. But from U-14 and older only eight teams are in each league. The top four finishers in the previous year are automatically included and any other teams that wants to play premier, must enter the premier league qualifying tournament and finish as one of the top four teams.

For the U-19 league all teams must enter and qualify for the premier league. Last year the qualifying tournament was held in Enum claw. It is run by the Washington State Youth Soccer Association. Teams that do not qualify for premier league can play in the Premier II league. Many times these Premier II teams are very good and compete very well with the Premier I teams. The U-19 Nitros played Premier II last year and went on to be state champions.

Most of the premier teams enter the Washington State Championship Tournament. The winner of that tournament represents the state of Washington. At the Western Regional Tournament the quality of play at the premier level can be very good. If the U-19 girls' Spirit team was to play the Thomas Jefferson High School girls' team, the Spirit should win the majority of the time.

Several of the Federal Way teams have won state titles. Last year the U-13 Starshooters, U-13 Bullets, U-14 Flyers and the U-19 Nitros were state champions.

The director of the premier league in Federal Way is Claude Romero. The assistant director is Shirley Westlind. Secretary is Teddy Miller. Treasurer is Pat Dillon and judicial representative is Jerry Capodanno.

Ron Whaley is the publicity chairman of the Federal Way Soccer Association. Whaley's column appears weekly in the Friday edition of the Federal Way News. Information for the column can be submitted to Whaley at 28522-41st Ave. So., Auburn, Wa., 98001.

Omni launches an effort to build field house is scheduled for January, and all of the sub-contractors on the project are either donating their time and materials or taking no profit.

Caldwell-Banker will market the house in June and July of next year then sell it at a public auction at the end of July. The house will have a set minimum bid, and is expected to sell in the $300,000-$325,000 range. The profits would in turn be used to get an option on the 10-20 acres needed for the ballpark.

"We want to get the land as soon as possible," said Moodenbaugh. "With the prices going up like they are and all the development that's going on in Federal Way it's hard to get."

Plans are to build the facility within the Federal Way city limits, although it may have to be built in the unincorporated area east of Interstate-5 to get enough land.

Long-term dreams for the field include a semiprofessional baseball team and even a Class A Northwest League professional franchise to play against teams like the Bellingham Mariners and Everett Giants.

"That's still the long-range goal," said Moodenbaugh. "But we're spending the most time and energy developing the American Legion program right now."

A facility of that size would be one of the best in the state for a Legion team and would put Omni into contention for hosting the Division II and state tournaments and possibly even for the Western Regionals and World Series. Host teams get automatic entries to those tournaments.

"I think we have good enough group and community involvement that it's not something we're just dreaming of and hoping for," said Moodenbaugh of the stadium. "I think it's something we can achieve."

A house will be built and auctioned off each of the next several years to further pay for the facility and its upkeep.

AS FOR the bus, it will be purchased for the 1990 summer Legion and Junior Legion seasons and be in the $20,000 price range.

"It will be a nice bus, not a school bus," said Moodenbaugh. "It will be a Greyhound charter-type bus. The Kent and Kirkland teams would have a long ways to go to get the same image. It beats the heck out of carpooling, and the whole team will leave and show up together."

Not only will the bus be used for transportation to games in the area such as Bellevue and Kirkland, it will also come in handy for a planned trip to San Diego, Calif., by the Senior Legion squad next summer.

"It's a great recruiting tool," points out Federal Way head coach Tom Wagner.

The bus will be painted in the team colors (navy blue and white) with the Omni logo, and will also have an inscription for Jet Chevrolet in return for storing the bus there.

Jet Chevrolet has also agreed to donate a car to the team at no-profit for a raffle to further raise team funds. The tickets will be sold around the area by the players for $1.00.

"It all bounces back to our (team) board of directors," said Moodenbaugh. "We're able to get things done because of the people on the board."

Moodenbaugh sits in on the board along with team commissioner Al Weymiller, coach Wagner, Milt DeAsis, Bart Wright, Elmer Range, Dave Sugg and Ron Murray.

Lancers open football playoffs

By ADAM WORCESTER

Scouting Chehalis was like looking in a mirror for Kennedy defensive coordinator Bob Bourgette. He watched the Bearcats and saw the Lancers.

"They're a carbon copy of our offense," Bourgette says of the Lancers' first-round opponent in the AA state football playoffs. "They live on the run. Their backs are very quick and they have great balance."

Kennedy's defense will need to play aggressively and plug the gaps to advance past tonight's 7:30 p.m. game in Highline Stadium.

Bourgette's troops will focus specifically on tailback Chad Jones and fullback Mike Esposito, a 1,000-yard rusher.

"We're a fullback attack team," Chehalis coach Ivor Hoglund says of his 7-2 Bearcats, the No. 2 seed from the Black Hills League. "I've always felt that in the state playoffs you go with what got you there."

HOGLUND ADMITS, however, that the 9-0 Lancers will cause minor alterations in his game plan.

"They just get after you on

Kingbowl road

What: Class AA state-playoff football game.

Who: Seamount League champion Kennedy (9-0) v. Black Hills League No. 2-seed Chehalis (7-2).

When: Friday, Nov. 10, 7:30 p.m.

Where: Highline Stadium Winner to state quarter-finals; loser out.

defense. It affects our blocking assignments," he says. "Instead of help in some areas, we'll have to block one-on-one. It's hard for us to match up physically."

Listening to Hoglund, it seems the Bearcats cannot match at all with the Seamount League champions and No. 2-ranked team in the state.

"We've scouted them the last three weeks. At halftime of the Renton game we laughed at each other and said, 'Why are we even here?'" he says.

"They're very scary. With their balance, it's hard to tell what they're going to do. We're going to have to play perfect football."

Hoglund compares the Lancers to Black Hills champion Tumwater, the state's No. 1 AA team. Chehalis' only losses this year came to Tumwater, 39-8, and Olympia, 19-12.

KENNEDY expects to have quarterback Jade Smith back at full strength after an ankle injury against Highline last week.

That game, a 22-7 Lancer victory, helped the team's mental attitude for Chehalis.

"That was the best thing that could have happened to us," Bourgette says. "That was a playoff-caliber game. It got some of our younger kids ready to go."

Playing at home represents another advantage for the Lancers. "A lot of our kids have never even seen a rug (artificial turf) before," Hoglund says.

Tonight's winner advances to the state quarterfinals on Nov. 17 or 18. The season ends for the loser.

"They're good," said Neil of Roosevelt, "but I've got to remember that people say that about us, too."

FEDERAL WAY currently is ranked number eight in the Gatorade/National Soccer

Coaches Association of America high school girls' soccer rankings this week. At one time Federal Way was ranked number one prior to a 1-0 loss to Jefferson.

Meanwhile, Roosevelt, which was ranked sixth in the national poll earlier this year, has dropped out of the rankings.

Runners needed tomorrow

The Junior Olympics PNAC Cross Country Championships will be held this Saturday, Nov. 11, at Woodland Park.

Any youngster 10 and under through 18 years of age interested in running in this event and possibly qualifying to regionals and nationals can contact Vern Stoffel, who coaches the Green River Gliders running club and also is a coach with the Auburn Parks and Recreation Department.

The top 25 individuals and top three teams at Saturday's meet qualify to the regional meet in Connell, Wa., on Nov. 18. Nationals are then held Dec. 10 in Indiana.

For more information contact Stoffel at 941-9604.

Then came last Saturday night's win over the Wesco League champions, Shorewood.

Those who have seen the Raiders play in the last three games can expect to see the same style of play against Kamiakin.

Garcia said the Raiders will use "just a very aggressive approach from beginning to end."

HELP THE BOY SCOUTS BAG IT.

More than 20 million Americans, including four million children, go hungry at some time each month. There are more hungry people in America now than at any time in the last 25 years.

On November 11 the Boy Scouts of America will be dropping bags off at homes throughout your community. On November 18 the Boy Scouts will return to those homes and pick up the bags that, hopefully, will be full of non-perishable food. The food items will later be turned over to local agencies for distribution.

Obviously, the more support you give this program the more successful it will be. So when a representative of the Boy Scouts of America calls on you, do all you can to help the Boy Scouts bag it. Participate in Scouting for Food.

City council OKs an interim budget

Barden cruises; Hill, Hilyer wait

By LYNN KEEBAUGH AND BILL SHEETS One incumbent county official had no trouble hanging onto his seat Tuesday, but another is hanging on by his teeth.

Republican Paul Barden easily retained his District 7 seat on the King County Council, defeating Democratic challenger David Miller by a still-unofficial tally of 19,279 to 13,704.

the top. Historically, absentees tend to favor incumbents and Republicans. Local GOP candidates also targeted absentee voters and distributed thousands more ballots than usual.

taxpayer money will be spent countywide to acquire open space. An estimated $5.4 million of that will be targeted for seven parcels of land in Federal Way.

The 9-1-1 emergency phone system tax also was approved by voters, and by the widest margin of any race. A whopping 88.5 percent voted to extend the phone tax and to raise it to 45 cents a month from its current 30-cent lid.

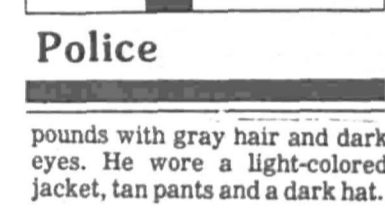

But no one will know until 4 p.m. Monday who King County's executive will be.

So far, Democratic challenger Bruce Hilyer's year-long campaign has paid off. The Seattle-area attorney leads Republican incumbent Tim Hill by a slim 2,119 votes.

BUT HILYER is counting on the reversal of those trends. He and his camp believe the breakdown of absentee votes will follow the path blazed by Tuesday's voters.

"We're feeling good about the numbers. Right now we're 2,000 votes ahead and that's better than being 2,000 votes behind. We believe we can hold onto our lead. We have some cushion," Hilyer said.

Hill spokesman John Chelminiak said early absentee votes give that camp reason to be optimistic. Of the 22,347 absentees already counted, the numbers were roughly 55 percent for Hill, Chelminiak said.

"I didn't do it just to beat him," he said. Miller said he believes he got Barden to acknowledge, at least outwardly, that growth and airport expansion are issues that must be addressed.

"Now I'd like to see him do it," Miller said.

COUNTY VOTERS declared overwhelmingly that they want certain parts of King County preserved as green belt and open space areas.
